

Police Still Baffled By Disappearance

By FRED HAWKER
Staff Writer

Iowa City police are still baffled by the disappearance of 14-year-old Michelle Girard, Detective Lt. Harland Sprinkle said Monday. He spent Monday afternoon checking on rumors.

MICHELLE, daughter of Mrs. Daniel Wittfang, Route 5, walked out of Iowa City Junior High School March 28, after tearfully telling some girls, "I'm leaving home."

Her disappearance, as reconstructed from reports of four of her classmates, her mother, and police is as follows:

At approximately 9 a.m. Friday, March 28, some junior high school students went to four of Michelle's girl friends and said, "Michelle's over there and she's crying."

The girls went to her to comfort her and she said, "I'm leaving home. They don't love me any more. I've been planning this for five years." She was taking her things out of her gym locker at this time.

WHEN they asked her what she would do for money, she showed them 20-90 cents in change and a check for $1.40 which she had received for babysitting.

The girls said they tried to get Michelle to agree not to leave home. She agreed, but said she wanted to cash her check before class. One of the girls offered to go with her, but Michelle said "No." The girl went anyway.

Michelle went to a grocery near the school. At the corner, she turned to her friend and said, "Goodbye, I'll never see you again."

HER FRIEND went back to the school, and after the class bell, told the Junior High principal, Sterling C. Goplerud, who notified the police.

Police traced what are believed to be Michelle's action from the time her friend saw her. She went to the grocery store and cashed the check. Then it is believed she took a cab to N. Dubuque St. That was the last she was seen.

A month previously, Michelle had planned to leave home with a group of girls, Mrs. Wittfang, her mother, said. However, Michelle changed her mind, and the other girls were caught, largely through Michelle's help.

MICHELLE's friends said she once told them, "If you want to run away, I know how." She explained there was a Chicago bound freight train which ran through Iowa City very slowly. It continued to move slowly, she said, for about two miles beyond the city limits, and it would be easy to jump aboard.

According to Michelle, the train went straight to Dubuque, where it stopped for 15 minutes. Then it went on to Chicago. A check with the Rock Island lines indicated that there are no freight trains going through Iowa City after 9 a.m. The earliest is an eastbound at 4:54 p.m.

POLICE reported Michele's description has been sent out all over the state, but that investigation is being hampered by lack of photographs. They said that U.S. immigration authorities are also interested in the case since Michelle is a French immigrant.

She is described as 5-feet 2-inches, 110 pounds, with chestnut brown hair and fair complexion. She has a prominent scar on her lower left lip, and speaks with a French accent. She may appear to be 18-years-old.

Drop Anti-U.S. Flights Move

Red Resolution Fails To Gain U.N. Support

Security Council Lined Up Behind U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union Monday night withdrew its demand — first voiced in Moscow last Friday — that the United States be asked to end arctic flights of the U.S. Strategic Air Command on the grounds they could trigger an atomic war.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev took the action in the U.N. Security Council, where a Soviet resolution condemning the United States for such flights faced certain defeat.

Sobolev said he was withdrawing his resolution because U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the Council president, had steamrollered the Council toward a vote.

Lodge replied that, "The simple fact is that the Soviet Union did not have enough votes to push its proposal through."

The surprise Soviet move came after six hours of debate.

Eight of the Council's 11 members had lined up in support of the United States.

During the debate Lodge vigorously rejected Soviet charges that the flights by U.S. planes carrying hydrogen bombs could accidentally set off atomic war.

He declared they will be continued to enable the free world to meet the threat of Soviet aggression.

Sobolev sought unsuccessfully to delay the vote until Tuesday.

Only Sweden remained silent in the Council. Canada, Nationalist China, France, Britain, Japan, Colombia, Iraq, and Panama all supported the United States.

Most of the delegates questioned the motives of the Soviet Union in bringing up the issue when the big powers are negotiating for a summit conference.

Up, Up And Away!!

LOOK WHILE YOU LEAP, to paraphrase an adage, is what puddle jumpers Jackie Jenkins, A3, Lansing, and Nancy Rhodes, A2, Sioux City, are doing. Most of the pedestrians played it safe by walking around the obstruction, but Jackie and Nancy seem to be enjoying the remnant of the .04 inches of rain which fell Sunday and Monday. ## Airliner, Jet Collide Over Nevada Desert

The big United Air Lines four engine DC7 and a supersonic F100F from nearby Nellis Air Force Base came together in a flashing explosion 21,000 feet in the air. The two men aboard the jet rode it to their deaths.

A number of businessmen and key defense industry figures were aboard the airliner, en route to Washington and New York.

The Air Force said its plane went aloft on an instrument training flight during which a blind-folded student pilot operates the ship in response to radio signals

Two Iowans were aboard the airliner which crashed Monday in Nevada.

Mrs. Clara S. Klehfoth, Cedar Rapids, was returning home after visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Lamb in Hawaii.

Mrs. Lamb is a graduate of the SUI College of Nursing.

Mrs. Mary Mackay, of Des Moines, was also killed in the crash.

beamed from the ground. An instructor in a forward uncovered cockpit was also in the dual control fighter-bomber.

Just before the collision the jet was given instructions to let down from 28,000 feet to 16,000 feet on instruments.

A frantic radio call from the stricken airliner was monitored moments after the collision. United Air Lines said the pilot's last words were:

"United Air Lines 736 (the flight number). Mayday (the aircraft distress call). Midair collision over Las Vegas, 736."

That was at 8:30 a.m. after that, there was no more.

The jet was following normal procedures for such a flight, an Air Force spokesman said, and had not reported any engine trouble or flying difficulty before the collision.

Thousands in this gambling resort town saw the fiery plunge of the huge silver transport.

"A huge puff of white smoke came from the plane and it started spinning slowly," said a Las Vegas newspaper photographer, Dennis Schieck. "Then bright orange flames shot out of the wing. It was a spectacular sight."

Another witness, Jeff McColl Sr., said the plane went into a steep dive after its staggering run.

"It came down with all four engines screaming wide open," he said, "and as it fell the flames crept back from the wing to the fuselage."

The dying plane disappeared behind a low ridge 10 miles southwest of Las Vegas. Moments later another explosion was heard and a black plume of smoke rose in the cloudless sky. The fighter-bomber crashed eight miles from the transport.

Bright bits of wreckage floated down several minutes and the path of the falling airliner over the desert wasteland was marked by tensel-bright bits of debris.

It hit the ground with tremendous force and burned fiercely. The largest single piece of the plane found was a 20-foot section of the fuselage. Three of the four engines were found a mile from the main crash site.

The bodies of nearly all the victims were badly burned and mangled. Airline officials said the task of identifying the bodies would be a slow and painful one. A temporary morgue was set up for that purpose near Las Vegas.

The Air Force plane, a dual-control trainer with a student pilot in the rear seat and an experienced flier in front, had been operating out of Nellis Air Force Base at 27,000 feet, just before the crash.

Col. Bruce Hinton, in charge of the pilot training group at the air base, said it could not be determined which man was flying the plane, but that on a normal instrument training mission the student pilot, flying on instruments in a hooded cockpit, would be in control.

"What this plane was supposed to be doing," he said, "was practicing instrument training in clear weather. The guy in front is out from under the hood, and one in back is under the hood."

"The pilot was given permission to descend on a routine penetration."

AP Calls Suppression Of News Unthinkable

NEW YORK (AP) — The directors of The Associated Press Monday called it unthinkable to suppress any news, good or bad.

Citing the business recession and the failure of the first Vanguard satellite missile, they said in a report:

"It would be a disservice to emphasize bad news out of proportion, but it would be unthinkable to attempt to suppress news of any kind."

Nothing could be better calculated to destroy public confidence quickly and completely."

Campus Goes to Seed, Sod

Monday's rain helped to entice more grass to appear on the SUI campus and Ray J. Phillips, supervisor of the SUI physical plant, said all of the maintenance crew's power mowers will be prepared for action and sent into "battle" sometime this week.

Phillips said the only campus improvement undertaken so far this spring has been sodding and seeding. He said it is hoped some trees and shrubs can be planted soon around the Medical Research Center and elsewhere on the campus.

A yellow "Beat Ohio" sign—still plainly visible despite its 1956 "birth"—between Schaeffer and Macbride Halls is on the list of things to do. Phillips said he had expected the sign to be gone by this spring. It will probably be painted over before commencement with a grayish paint, he said.

"The students have obeyed the "Use the Walks" signs which are posted in various parts of campus," Phillips said. "Most of the paths which were worn by meandering students are now overgrown with grass."

First order of business for the 20-man maintenance crew is to rake and trim the campus so the power mowers can be put to work, Phillips said.

For the SUI Student Too—

Old Gold Days Near

By Greta Leinbach
Staff Writer

In just three days, the idea created, tossed about, and molded by University students will become an actuality.

OLD GOLD DAYS, with at least 365 planning days behind it, will go on trial Friday and Saturday, April 25-26, in the minds of many SUI students, faculty members, and townspeople.

What big things do some of these people see or fail to see for Old Gold Days, the weekend when qualified high school seniors will get acquainted with university life?

M. L. Huit, Dean of Student, had this to say. "I have been gratified by this whole project from its beginning. I am sure that the weekend will help the high school student in learning more about the University. Equally important, the SUI student's loyalty and knowledge about his school will be strengthened. It's a two-way benefit."

ONE SUI STUDENT agreed with Huit that the program has good intentions. "But I doubt that the SUI students will support the program with as much enthusiasm as they should," said Del Kloewer, A4, Manilla.

An Iowa City merchant, Bob Ettinger, manager of Younkers, praised the educational emphasis that has been placed on Old Gold Days but stressed the need of the social side, too. "It's important that the high school senior gets an all-around picture of the University," he says.

Another student values the worth of Old Gold Days in retrospect. "I wish I would have had the chance to come to something like this as a high school senior," said Farron O'Hara. "It would have answered a lot of my questions."

FRIDAY WILL bring at least 500 high school students into Iowa City for the whirlwind of events that are to be presented. The visitors and many University and Iowa City people as well, will be able to take a tour of the University on Friday afternoon and Saturday to see the many displays prepared by the various departments and colleges.

Friday night, an Old Gold Days dance for SUI students will be held.

Weather

The weatherwoman (he's on vacation with the sniffles) says partly cloudy today, without much temperature change. High forecast between 55-60.

Further outlook, partly cloudy Wednesday, little temperature change — good studying weather.

Roundup of Economic Moves—

No Tax Cut Decision Before June

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress may delay until June or even July any decision on reducing taxes to fight the recession.

This view was put forward Monday by influential members of the Democrat-controlled House, which originates tax legislation.

However, new support for a tax cut came Sunday night in an economic study report by the Rockefeller brothers fund. It recommended a series of public and private steps, but called a tax reduction the quickest way to get results.

The report listed possible immediate anti-recession measures in six areas.

Other happenings on the economic front:

1. Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House Banking Committee predicted that Congress will pass a bill to lend states and cities up to $2 billion for local public works. The Senate has passed such a bill, limited to one billion.

2. Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) offered a bill to increase individual exemptions on income taxes from $600 to $800 and to repeal Federal taxes on many items, including cars. He acted in the face of indications that Congress will delay a decision on tax cutting until June or July.

3. Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve System predicted that interest rates on home mortgages and small business loans will go down as a result of new federal money policies.

4. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) indicated he will support an attempt to override President Eisenhower's veto of a bill to authorize $1½ billion for rivers and harbors projects. More often than not Kuchel goes along with the administration.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York made two appearances, one before the Democratic women and one before the House Banking Committee.

He told the women that the recession is "man-made, resulting from ill-advised Federal policies... deepened by the inaction and indifference of the Eisenhower-Nixon administration."

"These tragic conditions in our country are unnecessary," he said. "He used much the same argument in his appearance before the Banking Committee, which is looking into unemployment and related matters."

Martin gave his views on interest rates to the Senate Banking Committee in its study of financial aid for small business.

Sen. Proxmire (D-Wis.) said one study two weeks ago indicated home buyers and small business men would not get any benefit this year from the new money policy.

"I think that's not correct," Martin said. "Things have been happening in the last two weeks."

Both Iowa State College and Iowa State Teachers College have land not needed for academic buildings close to utility plants. SUI is not in this position.

The University would welcome the suggestion that the cost of the utility plant be borne by state funds, from which utility services could then be paid by married students. Under such an arrangement the University could build and rent student apartments for a normal cost. The University at this time has no idea whether such financing could be obtained.

AP DIGEST

YUGOSLAVIA'S Communist party leaders were reported determined Monday night to come to grips with a new Soviet rebuff, a Ljubljana, Yugoslav report said.

Well informed circles said the Yugoslavs have decided neither to retreat nor to avoid the issues.

These sources said the party of President Tito, a veteran of struggles with the Kremlin, had been angered by a Soviet boycott of the Yugoslav Party Congress opening today.

Most other European countries followed the Soviet example.

Tito and his top lieutenants huddled Monday, but there was no announced decision whether Tito himself would give the answer in his opening statement today or whether someone else would do it later.

GREAT BRITAIN does not oppose equipping the West German army with nuclear weapons if this is necessary for North Atlantic Treaty Organization operations; a British embassy spokesman said in Cedar Falls Monday.

Vive la Democracy

When one returns from observing the Cuban situation the most serious and frequently asked question posed by the curious is: Who should we root for? Our answers are: Root against Batista; root with caution for Castro; and root hopefully that liberal and non-radical church and middleclass elements - aided by United States encouragement - eventually are freely elected to political power.

But Batista is a tyrant, a crook, a murderer. He illegally seized power in 1952, fearing the results of a free election, and has ruled with illegality and brutality ever since. He cannot be trusted to tolerate a truly free election in November, as promised, for his record reveals he can stomach nothing inimicable to his interests. And how can an election be called free when the political sentiments in favor of Fidel Castro can find no expression in the fraud? He is a tyrant, also, because, with the backing of his army and police, he has in Hitlerite fashion usurped powers and rights reserved for the legislative or the people. We found it curious that in a government which is in theory as far from communism as possible, this reactionary regime has come almost full-circle with its army, secret police, press censorship, news iron curtain, and brutal slaying of dissenters. It was distressing to see such a wonderful people, living so near United States shores, suffering the fear of tyranny.

But Batista is a crook who tolerates, directs and encourages wholesale corruption and immorality. The extent of government-supervised prostitution is appalling. Gambling and other vices for the tourists' dollar are out of control. And, while Batista may brag of his mighty and showy works, Cuban prosperity has come in spite, and not because of, him. A Cuban businessman reported to us that by the time Batista has fed the many hands that support him, $2,000,000 highway projects cost double that much, and so it goes in all spheres of government activity.

But Batista is a murderer, as many Cubans can tell you in the safety of their homes or at the University. A Cuban University student tells the story of the cold-blooded machine gunning of three of his former colleagues at Havana University. People in Santiago can tell of driving to work in the morning and finding dead bodies - again, many of them youth - strewn there during the night by the government after a night of Gestapo-like investigating.

Now, Castro raised some doubts in our minds as to his ultimate ambitions. But we are convinced that he is not now sympathetic to communism or socialism, and that he does not covet a dictatorship. If such were his intentions he could not command the widespread, though silent for the moment, support which he does. In short, he is a liberal, willing to give his very life to wrest his country from the fear and tyranny of a dictator. He is worth taking a chance on, and we believe the chances are good that his victory will not bring bad results - even if Castro wishes it.

But Castro cannot now win a military victory. In fact the military strength which the government has shown of late has also cramped plans for non-military efforts to bring the fall of Batista. And Batista will not step down and forfeit his power, a move which would both make most Cubans happy and save much bloodletting. This is indeed a dim picture for there seems no hope, but to look for continued days and months of suffering.

We would propose one move on the part of the United States, which was suggested to us by an enlightened Cuban in Santiago and which has surprising support among the Cuban people. This is that the United States, in the name of our long-time concern for the Cuban people and in the name of American republicanism, intervene at first diplomatically and if necessary politically and militarily to bring an end to the costly and fruitless civil war and provide for really free and contested elections.

To date our government has tolerated and aided militarily the Batista dictatorship. In the last two years we have sold him 4,500 carbines, 1,300 rockets, twenty armored cars, seven tanks, and more than $300,000 worth of bombs, while arresting a rebel group on a questionable charge of violating our territorial waters.

Our first move could be to take advantage of a provision in the Rio Pact of the American states which provides for discussion of issues between members, though it must be admitted that this is largely an issue of "domestic jurisdiction" in the strict sense. There is an inevitability that liberal ideas will someday - and recent events in Venezuela and elsewhere give indication that this movement is hastening - triumph throughout America, and it would be of credit to the United States to be in the vanguard of this tide of democratic ways.

U.S. Students in Cuba

Michigan and Wisconsin Students Fly To Cuban Mess

(EDITOR'S NOTE: During Easter vacation students from two Big Ten Universities decided to fly to Cuba. One group, from the University of Wisconsin, consisted of Dick Neuheisel, Pete Buehner, Tim Stone, Charlie Hobart, Jim Hopkins, and Jim Martin. Their story is reported first below. From the University of Michigan James Elmsan, Jr. and Barton Huthwaite went specifically to procure an interview with Castro. This failed, but their report yielded the editorial on this page and the excerpt printed below.)

From The Daily Cardinal

The fun didn't start until Wednesday morning. We were drinking rum in a distillery when we heard a siren and saw a Chrysler Imperial with one of Cuban President Fulgencio Batista's friends, a bodyguard, an escort of two secret police cars and two police motorcycles, speeding down Old Havana St. We heard an explosion and ran out into the plaza. We heard five or six shots a block away.

Pasquel, our taxi driver, told us that the badly wounded bodyguard shot four rebels and then slumped to the pavement dead. Pasquel took us across the street. We saw a man run out of a tourist shop yelling "Viva el Castro!" The police came around the corner and fired at the rebel with automatic rifles but he escaped.

Pasquel drove us away and as we were passing the La Gabana fortress a guard yelled at us in Spanish; Pasquel backed the car up into the fort. There were eight of us in the car; no more than two persons are allowed in a car.

We all got out with our hands up as a cop pointed an automatic at us. He seemed quite frightened because he was outnumbered by us. Ten other cops joined him. The police searched us for machine guns. We were also covered by a 50-caliber machine gun in the turret above the fort. Then they let us go and ordered us back to our hotel.

We left to go to the beach. While we passed the Cuban army barracks a guard waved his tommygun at us but we didn't stop.

Later on, two cars drove up behind us with Florida license plates. Several heavily armed men got out and surrounded us. They were members of the "SIM," an arm of the Cuban espionage service. They asked Pasquel for identification and then let us go. Three of the seven in our group decided to get the hell out of the country as fast as possible. They tried to call the airport but the phones were all dead. There was no electricity or water.

We drove to the American Embassy where we saw Ambassador Earl T. Smith. He said, "You'll be safe if you get back to your hotel."

He suggested that we get letters of identification from the embassy. A vice-consul in the embassy told us, "I wouldn't fool around. An American tourist got beat up in a bar this afternoon and is in one of the rooms in the embassy now; he isn't expected to live." When asked if afraid to be in Cuba at the time the vice-consul said, "You're damned right. Any sane person wouldn't be here."

Jim Hopkins, Charlie Hobart and Tim Stone left Cuba that day. We met a guy named Pete who took us to the nightclub and the city. We went to a nightclub and were the only people there. We started back about 2 a.m. and saw four bodies of uniformed police hanging from trees in the Prado. They had been shot. The bodies were covered with blood.

In front of our hotel, a police car pulled up with four heavily armed men. We just thought they were going to check the driver and didn't realize how serious it was until they poked machine guns at us.

They checked our identification, searched us and the car and let us go.

Just before daylight, we saw a secret police car chasing a car about one half block from our hotel trying to force it off the road. The police opened fire and the car crashed.

We heard of a bar where police caught 14 rebels. They had a fight in the street. The police killed all the rebels. Three Cuban students were pulled out of the same bar an hour later, lined up against the wall and were shot without questioning.

We left Cuba Thursday afternoon.

From The Michigan Daily

The plane from Miami to Havana carried only six passengers with a capacity load of 60. When we arrived in the city, we took a room in a hotel located on the Prado, the city's main street. Four days later, a bomb was thrown into the lobby of this same hotel and also a fierce gun battle raged a short distance down the street.

It was in this outwardly calm city of Havana that we obtained the names of several Castro sympathizers. Our cab driver insisted on taking us to the numerous lower class bars that abound in Havana and we seized the opportunity to obtain the names of contacts that would take us to Castro when we arrived in Santiago de Cuba.

One contact was a captain in Castro's army hiding out in Santiago de Cuba. The other was a family known to be Castro sympathizers. Cubana Airlines, the only company still flying into the city, had at least one of their planes shot at during recent trips. We booked passage into the strife-torn province of Oriente and the city of Santiago de Cuba.

The airport at Santiago bustling with government troops, several planes stood by in case of rebel attacks.

We were stopped, our papers checked, and our names recorded at the airport. One soldier quickly grabbed a Cuban newspaper we had brought from Havana. No attempt was made to stop us except for "security purposes."

Later, while relaxing in our hotel room in the city, the Cuban soldiers had a change of heart. Apparently an informer had reported we looked like suspicious Americans to the police.

Three armed men took us to the much-feared Moncado barracks in the heart of Santiago de Cuba for an "investigation." The "investigation" was to last 20 hours - incommunicado in a prison cell. Our baggage was taken, our papers and also our personal belongings. Only our money was allowed to remain with us.

After a fitful night on concrete benches, we were served a breakfast of a crusty bread and something that bore a faint resemblance to coffee.

The armed guards still refused to tell us why they were keeping us. Lunch consisted of a sandy rice and a coagulated gravy sauce. They also refused to allow us to call the consul.

Finally after 12 hours in the 90 degree heat of the cell, we started to sing the "Star Spangled Banner." A machinegun-bearing guard ordered us to be quiet or he would "separate us."

That afternoon, the American consul arranged for our release.

Slattery's Slants

The "Silent Generation!" That's the appellation affixed to the group that includes present University students, recent graduates - and in my opinion, is applicable to the whole damned country.

The concept of the University Student as the apathetic animal Homo Erectus Inferior - banded about the U.S. with conviction and authority - was trotted out in the nature of a challenge to the participants in the Billy Finkbine dinner for Campus Leaders, held last Wednesday night at the Memorial Union.

Robert F. Ray, toastmaster, told of the high esteem our host, Billy Finkbine, had always held for leadership - and if reports can be believed, possessed to a high degree. The mute members of our generation might find comparison with him embarrassing - but then so would most of his own group. But the question of our silence - a forfeiture of the right to express our opinions, however stupid they may be, portends unhappy days for the Republic IF TRUE!

And David Riesman, University of Chicago sociology professor, sees this description as accurate enough to worry about: "My concern with young people is that by playing it cool and fearing to be a square they may create a style of life which is less whole, less committed, less complex, and less meaningful than this century of opportunity allows."

Riesman tells of a Chicago University graduate student who made a survey to see if there was any correlation between success and faculty approval. He (the student) concluded that those students frequently fared best who were not too obedient, who did not get an undiluted, uncomplicated straight "A" record. Those students who were often most successful were a bit rebellious.

There's our clue: the "fat cat" get-byer may have an easier time of it, but he pays for his peace with relinquished opportunity and forfeits the satisfaction of self-reliance and/or accomplishment.

True, the world is now so technically complicated that a person hesitates to advance an opinion outside of his area of specialization, if he is fortunate enough to have one. He reasons that a plumber best fixes plumbing - and "other people" social, political and economic problems. Perhaps the obvious answer - becoming informed and taking action - is too much work, or promises only fruitless labor.

We hear people say "you can't be objective if you're personally involved." And you don't give a damn if you're not! Perhaps this is the reason why the farm problem, the tariff situation, monopoly in business, corruption in labor unions, inadequate mental health facilities, slum conditions, racial hatred and suppression, too costly education, delinquency, unconstitutional suppression of civil rights, ad infinitum (or nauseum), all problems which have been with us for years, are so far from adequate solutions. NO ONE CARES!

We carry the tag - but the whole country shares our inadequacy - and our culpability.

I talked with Iowa's Attorney General Norman A. Erbe after the Finkbine dinner. Although his concern with apathy has a politics bias, he made a perceptive comment in the course of the conversation: most people seem to concern themselves with government only in a negative way - they vote AGAINST things, rarely bother themselves with supporting things they are FOR. Can Americans thus be classified - barring their actions as members of special interest groups - as polling place reactionaries?

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher made the observation that if our Government falls, it will fall because of anarchy, not communism. If we, the sovereign, evade our responsibilities, we, in effect, abdicate. And we get the government we deserve.

Loren Hickerson, head of the SUI Alumni Association, spoke in Des Moines Friday to a group of Iowa businessmen. His point, the usual: Iowans must provide for Iowa's future - or be left behind. I need not point out the implication of his words. Reapportionment, slow educational facilities development, and grammar school consolidation, discrimination for the farmer, etc., are a few of the obstacles to progress in Iowa that must be met and mastered.

These are problems for us, "The Silent Generation."

SUI's latest and most challenging individual sport - parachuting - is hampered by lack of planes and equipment, but not enthusiasm - our training program gets underway tonight at the Fieldhouse, North Gym, 7:30 p.m.

LESSON FOR THE WEEK: Most people who say "I love you" in more than one language don't mean it in any of them!

Letter To The Editor

We Want Seeger!

TO THE EDITOR:

The art of folk music and folk singing, too long neglected in the United States, has recently seen a great revival. For many years, it seems, folk music was viewed in the light of two extremes - either it was considered esoteric, a pseudo-intellectual pursuit, or even worse, hillbilly and completely unworthy of further study. Those who enjoy folk music, however, see in it a beauty of expression that mirrors the culture and history of the world. Indeed, the folk song is one of the oldest forms of musical expression and the instruments of folk music - the lute, lyre, harp, banjo, guitar, and flute - were among the first of musical instruments. Traditionally the folk song is based on an historical event, the lives of famous or infamous individuals, and the hopes and frustrations of a people. Furthermore, these songs are not restricted to "the lower classes" as some cities maintain, but often were written and sung for royalty in both biblical and medieval times. Recently, Americans especially on the East and West coasts, have begun to regard the folk song in its proper artistic dimension.

It is for this reason that we are very interested in bringing to the campus America's and probably the world's foremost balladeer, Pete Seeger. For those who have heard a Seeger concert, or who have seen or listened to "The Weavers" on recordings, the group in which he played an integral part, the experience can only be described as exhilarating. Seeger is a master with folk songs; he has a tremendous knowledge of their origins, instrumentation and language, and he is generally acknowledged to be the finest banjo player alive today. Besides the five string banjo, he uses the twelve-string guitar and chull (Israel flute) for accompaniment. In his youth he traveled with and learned from the best folk artists of his day - Huddie Ledbetter and Woodie Guthrie. He is also a master with an audience; at Carnegie Hall he never fails to draw a capacity crowd and the audience response in singing with him is a large part of the evening's enjoyment.

We have contacted Seeger's manager who has presented four dates on which he can appear - May 4th, 7th, 11th or 12th. His price is quite reasonable. Unfortunately, the student organizations approached thus far have been completely uncooperative. This letter is written to ascertain just how much response there would be among students, faculty, and townspeople if he were procured. We are ready to undertake the venture privately if the response is great. Or perhaps there is a group we have overlooked that would be interested in sponsoring him.

Pete Seeger is largely responsible for the great upswing in interest in the art of folk singing. It would be to the great benefit and pleasure of the University community to have him appear here. Even the veteran students of Iowa University cannot recall an instance when a folk singer was invited to this campus. Our closest Big Ten neighbor, Wisconsin, has had Seeger three times in the last five years. Surely there must be some interest in folk music here. Please respond with a card or telephone call to:

Iowa Students See Political Chiefs

Iowa college students got a first-hand look at state political leaders and heard their views at the Iowa Citizenship Clearing House Work Saturday.

At the all-day meeting the students heard the political leaders charge them with their political responsibility, discuss political requirements and rewards and discuss the purpose of partisan politics.

Heading the sessions were Jake More, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, L. L. Jurgemeyer, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, Donald J. Mitchell, Democratic national committeeman, Charles E. Wittenmeyer, Republican national committeeman and Sherwin J. Markman, president of the Young Democrat Clubs of Iowa.

"The political responsibility of a college graduate is — not ought to be — to participate in community politics as you participate in church and club activities," Mitchell said. "Politics," he continued, "is a community service."

Edward Fitzgerald, Polk County deputy treasurer, spoke on political responsibility. He said, "The political responsibility of the college graduate is no greater than the ordinary citizen — but his shame is much greater if he does not take a stand and declare himself."

Of the independent voter, Fitzgerald said, "This only says 'I'm a shirker.'" "This voter," he said, "is actually a dependent voter — dependent because he will not take part in the election of candidates and must then rely on someone else's choice."

Fred Schwengel, first district representative, agreed with Fitzgerald on the independent vote.

"What this country needs most of all is more good Republicans and more good Democrats who take active part in formulating policy and nominating candidates," he said. "Then if they are not satisfied they can vote independent."

Fitzgerald, closed the political responsibility panel with the thoughts, "Education is opening the mind, not filling it. The Constitution says 'We the people,' and unless you take part in the government this will not be your voice," he said.

Several state legislators also discussed the time, finances, and personal requirements for their Des Moines service. They agreed that time consumption great and financial reimbursement small, but that prestige and interest outweighed the two.

In other sessions held throughout the day, partisan politics were discussed by the two parties.

The Citizenship Clearing House was started at New York University by Arthur Vanderbilt, head of the law school there, and brought to Iowa by Robert Ray, Director of the Institute of Public Affairs.

The goal of the group is to interest college students to work actively and have more interest in political parties. Its "Week in Washington" program sends 20 college students each year to Washington, D.C. to study government.

Twenty-two of Iowa's 24 junior college and colleges were represented at the Saturday meeting. Six SUI students attended.

2 SUI Instructors, Student Get Grants

Three SUI men have received grants for study in different fields. E. John Kottman, advertising instructor in the School of Journalism, will study the advertising operations and problems of a gas and electric company during August and September under a fellowship granted through the Foundation for Economic Education, Inc.

UNDER ITS College-Business Exchange Program, the Foundation accepts applications for fellowships from interested college faculty members and places them with business firms participating in the program. Kottman will be with the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Company, Davenport, from Aug. 4 to Sept. 12.

The program is designed to improve understanding between educators and practical businessmen by giving the educators an insight into the problems and workings of business firms.

Roland E. Chardon geography instructor, received a $3,600 grant Division of Earth Sciences of the National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council.

He returned from Washington, D.C., after making arrangements for a one-year field trip to Yucatan, Mexico.

CHARDON WILL study "plantations in the agricultural economy of Northern Yucatan." More specifically, he will study the relationships between plantations and other forms of agriculture in the area. Of the 32 applying, the 7 receiving grants will travel to foreign areas including India, Norway, Guadeloupe, Angola and the Philippines, as well as Yucatan.

James P. Young, E4, Blainston, received a $700 engineering scholarship from the American Society of Tool Engineers (ASTE) in mechanical engineering.

ONE OF TEN International Education Awards offered annually by the ASTE, the scholarship applies to the school year 1958-59. Young expects to graduate next February. He is vice-president of Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary fraternity.

This is the fourth time in the six years of the award's existence.

Satellite Destroyer Is Needed, Says Hagen
WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. John Hagen, director of the Vanguard project, told Congress Monday scientists now must consider ways to destroy satellites as well as to get them into space.

Hagen told the House Space Committee that satellites can be expected to multiply more and more in orbits around the earth and that they "might be a menace in more ways than one."

He said a host of satellites would create difficulty in detecting hostile intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The devices being developed to warn of ICBM attacks, Hagen said would be greatly handicapped if there were many satellites within their range, so they could not tell whether the objects they register were meteors, satellites, or missiles.

Ottumwa Gas Hike Okayed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At a special meeting late Friday afternoon the city council of Ottumwa gave final approval to a new gas rate ordinance which provides for an increase of approximately $210,000 annually.

This increase was requested by Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Company early in January of this year. To the typical residential customer, who does not heat with gas, it means an additional charge of about 35 cents per month.

For the typical residential heating customer, it will amount to $2.03 per month on a 12-month basis. The last previous gas rate increase in Ottumwa went into effect in July of 1954.

In commenting on the action of the Ottumwa council, D. G. Findlay, District Manager of the utility, said the rates approved by the council make it possible to continue to provide good gas service in Ottumwa.

Corn Alcohol Costs Plenty

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department study shows it would cost about $65 million to convert 100 million bushels of wet Midwestern corn into industrial alcohol.

The corn doesn't meet requirements for Government support loans because of its moisture content.

The Agricultural Research Service computed the figures at the request of Rep. Harrison (R-Iowa) after he suggested the Government contract with commercial distilleries to process the corn.

B. T. Shaw, administrator of the Research Service, said the cost estimates were based on an assumption that the corn would be purchased at one dollar a bushel, the alcohol sold at 47 cents a gallon and a byproduct feed sold at present market prices of about $50 a ton.

Harrison, after receiving the report, said he doubted that the Agriculture Department would approve spending that amount of money.

Alligator Breaks Crate, Frees Bees on Train

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — A 16-foot alligator broke its crate in a railway baggage car Monday and its whipping tail freed a shipment of bees, forcing the car crew to bail out when the train pulled into Jersey City.

The car was put on a siding and a call made to Palisades Amusement Park to come get its 'gator. But the bees were the problem of crewmen until the car reached Jersey City.

A Baltimore and Ohio Railroad spokesman said the alligator broke its crate as the Metropolitan Special from St. Louis neared Jersey City early Monday.

Major League Scouts

Several major league scouts were in town Friday and Saturday to view the Iowa-Bradley 3-game series.

Among those watching were Cy Slapnicka, of the Cleveland Indians; Sid Thrift, Pittsburgh Pirates; Mike Ryba, St. Louis Cardinals; and Hal Newhouser, Baltimore Orioles.

The scouts were not looking at any particular players, but were searching for some new talent. By coincidence, they all turned up at the Iowa-Bradley games.

THREE of the scouts are well known to close baseball followers. The most famous of the three, of course, is Newhouser.

Playing for the Detroit Tigers in the 1940's, Hal was the best left-handed pitcher in the majors. In 1945, Newhouser was the leading pitcher as the Tigers won the world championship over the Chicago Cubs.

Newhouser and Iowan Bob Feller, who pitched for the Cleveland Indians, were great rivals in the 40's, and drew great crowds when they opposed each other. Slapnicka, still scouting for the Indians and in town Friday, was the man who signed Feller.

Ryba caught several years for the St. Louis Cardinals in the 1930's, and since then, has managed several minor league teams and coached in the majors.

RYBA PLAYED with the old "gas-house gang" when he was with the Cardinals. The "gas-house gang" was a group led by Dizzy Dean, Rip Collins and Pepper Martin, who gained fame not only by having a great baseball team, but also for their crazy antics off the playing field.

Ryba told several stories about the antics of the Cardinals. On one trip to Philadelphia, Dean, Collins and Martin donned carpenter's uniforms and marched into a Philly hotel.

Unrecognized, they spent most of the morning moving chairs and other furniture out into the halls, then left, saying they had to go to lunch. They didn't return, but went into the hotel dining room, where they posed as interior decorators and moved everyone out.

From the dining room, they headed for a private dining room where a speaker was talking to a club. There they dropped hammers, moved things and did anything else to cause a commotion until they were finally kicked out.

That didn't stop them. They went into the kitchen of the hotel and claimed to be Government food inspectors, and had the cook almost in tears as he tried to get dinners prepared.

Dean, Collins, and Martin weren't the only fun-lovers. On another occasion, Rabbit Maranville, Jim Bottomley and a couple of others persuaded Charlie Moran to go along with them to swipe some oranges from some of the orange groves in Florida where they were having spring training.

Unknown to Moran, Bottomley brought a shotgun along and when Maranville climbed up in a tree, Bottomley fired into the air. According to plan, Maranville fell out, and yelled to Moran, "Run Charlie, they got me!"

Moran never stopped until he got back to the hotel.

Ryba said although the "gas-house gang" had a million laughs, it was a dead serious team when it got on the baseball field.

I'm not so sure baseball couldn't use some more colorful players like Dean, Collins, and Martin. I think it would give the game a lift.

RYBA carried a poem about the Cardinals' great hitter, Stan Musial, which I thought made a lot of sense.

"There is a man most unusual. His name is Stan 'The Man Musial. Many are the records he has set And at 37 he is not finished yet. By many he is considered the best

But even better this year with a little rest. He's at home on first or in the field, And we all know what kind of a bat that man can wield. His career has taken on many facets, Executive career of a bank and a restaurant are his assets. Oh! I know I wish I had his job, Half tycoon and half Ty Cobb. And remember if your sons are in a dugout, You won't have to look for them in a hangout.

Rained Out Monday— Heavy Hitting Western Michigan Here Today

Rained out Monday, Iowa will attempt to get back on the winning trail today in a single game against Western Michigan. The game will start at 3:30 p.m., weather permitting, on the Iowa Diamond.

In Western Michigan, the Hawkeyes will be meeting one of the best hitting teams they have faced. Western Michigan boasts a team batting average of .301.

In contrast, Iowa is hitting at only a .211 pace. The Hawkeyes have won six and lost seven this season.

Iowa coach Otto Vogel was undecided Monday, on who would pitch for the Hawkeyes. It is expected that he will start either sophomore Roger Rudeen, who's been Iowa's best pitcher thus far, or one of several sophomore hurlers.

Vogel probably will go with one of the sophomores, since the Hawkeyes begin Big Ten play Friday at Ohio State. Vogel is seeking more pitching help and probably will use a sophomore in an effort to find an additional starter.

Western Michigan will start either southpaw Norm Hradek or righthander Jack Rumohr. Hradek boasts a 3-0 record and has an outstanding earned run average of .9 runs per game. Rumohr has a 2-1 mark with a 1.26 E.R.A.

Leading Western Michigan's heavy hitting attack are five men with batting averages over .300. Rightfielder Len Grabowski leads with a .452 mark, followed by lefthander Larry Buchanan (.400), center fielder Terry Mack (.360), second baseman Craig Morris (.333) and third baseman Jim Hock (.310).

Iowa has only one regular hitting over the .300 mark — catcher Dick Weatherly, who's hitting at a .422 clip. Most of the Hawkeye regulars are well below the .300 mark.

Iowa dropped their second and third games in a row Saturday as Bradley took a doubleheader from the Hawkeyes, 10-7, in 11 innings, and 3-0, in the 7-inning nightcap.

Bradley capitalized on five Iowa errors in the opener. Only two Braves' runs were earned.

Iowa tied the first game in the ninth with a 4-run outburst. Second baseman Larry Harsch's double was the big blow.

Bradley won in the 11th on three singles, a walk, sacrifice and wild throw.

In the second game, freshman Bernie Dwyer hurled a neat 4-hitter to keep the Hawkeyes in check all the way. The Braves scored their first run in the second inning on a walk to Chico Raybourne and an error.

The other two runs came in the third when Raybourne singled with the bases loaded.

Iowa Tennis Team Remains Unbeaten

Iowa's tennis team easily swept to its third straight triumph of the year and remain unbeaten as it trounced Western Michigan, 8-1.

In Saturday's meet at Kalamazoo, Mich., the Hawkeyes swept the doubles matches and took all but one of the singles matches.

In the number one singles match, Art Andrews rolled over John Cook, 6-0, 6-4. Other Iowa winners were Bob Potthast, Joe Martin, Don Middlebrook, and Bill Voxman.

Iowa's next action is this Friday against Southern Illinois. The meet will start at 2 p.m. on the Iowa courts. The Hawkeyes host Wisconsin at 10 a.m. on Saturday.

Singles — Art Andrews (I) defeated John Cook, 6-0, 6-4; Bob Potthast (I) defeated Larry Yoder, 6-4, 8-6; Joe Martin (I) defeated Jack Radanick, 6-3, 6-1; Don Middlebrook (I) defeated Cliff Strong, 6-3, 6-4; Bill Voxman (I) defeated Ed Kenth, 7-5, 6-1; Doug Poort (WM) defeated Milo Larimer, 6-4, 6-3.

Doubles — Andrews-Marton (I) defeated Cook-Yoder, 6-4, 6-3; Potthast-Middlebrook (I) defeated Poort-Strong, 2-6, 6-3, 10-8; Larimer-Voxman (I) defeated Knuth-Bob Jenkins, 6-1, 6-10.

Ted Homers But Yankees Triumph, 4-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Whitey Ford's excellent relief pitching snuffed out the last of a half dozen Boston threats and the New York Yankees went on to defeat the run-famished Red Sox 4-1 Monday for their first consecutive victory.

Hank Bauer got the Yankees off winging in the first inning, bashing his first home run of the season. Don Larsen, New York's starting pitcher, hit the other homer, a two-run smash that boosted the winners' margin to 3-0 in the second.

Ted Williams was responsible for Boston's lone run with a home run in the seventh inning. The big slugger struck out and grounded into a force play to extend his hitless streak to nine times at bat before he singled sharply to right in the fifth. His homer, hit off Bob Grim, sailed into the lower right field stands, a drive of about 350 feet.

McDermott Trips Sox

DETROIT (AP) — Mickey McDermott lined a pinch single to centerfield in his first appearance with the Detroit Tigers Monday and gave them a 2-1 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

The lean southpaw, who has not seen action as a pitcher, greeted reliever Ray Moore with a line smash that scored pinch runner Johnny Groth from second base. Groth was running for Charley Maxwell, whose double leading off dictated the removal of starter Dick Donovan.

For eight innings it was a tense pitching duel between Donovan and Detroit starter Frank Lary. Lary was lifted for pinch hitter Billy Taylor, who singled to start an eighth inning rally that enabled Detroit to tie the score.

The White Sox, who have lost four of six contests, still do not have a complete game out of the pitching staff reputed to be the finest in either league.

Golfers Lose Opener; Liechty Breaks Mark

Iowa lost its opening golf match of the season Monday despite John Liechty's new competitive course record of 67.

Western Illinois edged the Hawkeyes, 14-13, in a dual marked by outstanding golf played on the New Finkbine course.

In match play, Western Illinois was only 5-over par with six men. Iowa's men were only 8-over par for the long par 72 course, which was slowed down by rain.

Liechty's 5-under par 67 broke the old competitive course record by two strokes. Liechty also holds the course record, 66, set last year in a qualifying round for a position on the Iowa team.

In the morning's play, Iowa and Western Illinois were all even in the best-ball matches. Iowa's Steve Showers and Jim Frazier defeated Al Barke and Dick Meyer, 3-0, while Bud Judish and Clyde Feltes tied Jim King and Danny Currier.

Call Freshman Golf Candidates

Iowa golf coach Zwerner has asked that all Freshman Golf Candidates meet at 1:30 this Thursday in the New Finkbine Clubhouse.

1 1/2-1 1/2. Western John Goetz and Al Ryskiewicz defeated Liechty and Russ Schrage, 3-0.

Liechty's fine round came in the afternoon in match play, but it wasn't enough to offset Western Illinois' balance. Liechty had the unfortunate break of running up against Jim King, who fired a 2-under par 70, and thus, Liechty was able to gain only a 2-1 advantage.

Showers defeated Western Illinois' Ryskiewicz, 2 1/2-1/2, as the Hawkeye golfer fired a 74. Iowa's Bob Brandenburg also won, 2-1, over Dick Meyer, as Brandenburg shot a 73.

Iowa coach Chuck Zwerner said he had no complaints about the meet. "I hate to lose," said Zwerner, "but I have no complaints. We played good golf, and so did they."

"Western Illinois had a very good golf team. If we don't play worse than this, we should do all right."

Match results with scores in parentheses:
John Liechty, Ia. (67) defeated Jim King (70), 2-1.
Dan Currier, WI. (70) defeated Bud Judish, (77), 3-0.
John Goetz, WI. (74) tied Clyde Feltes (74), 1 1/2-1 1/2.

Steve Showers, Ia. (74) defeated Al Ryskiewicz, (75), 2 1/2-1/2.
Al Barke, WI. (74) defeated Dale Hayes (75), 2 1/2-1/2.
Bob Brandenburg, Ia. (73) defeated Dick Meyer (74), 2-1.

Auburn Again Draws Heavy NCAA Penalty

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Auburn drew one of the stiffest penalties in the history of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) rules enforcement program Monday and had Seattle and Southern Methodist for company in the doghouse.

Auburn, winner of the national collegiate football championship last fall, is in the final stages of an earlier probation, but its probation was extended another three years.

Auburn is finishing up its second year of a 3-year sentence, and under the probation, it would be eligible for bowl participation this season. The new sentence however, will not permit bowl participation until 1961 when the probation period is over.

Seattle drew a 2-year sentence from the NCAA Executive Council for offering illegal aid to two prospective basketball players. Only Seattle's basketball team is affected, and will be banned from NCAA tournaments.

SMU received a one-year probation period for obtaining a job for a prospective football player. The case involved a prospective student for whom the University obtained a summer job with an oil company. The NCAA ruled that the job was "tailor made" and the player involved did not have experience for such a job.

Auburn received the stiff penalty for offering a prospective student athlete funds. Under NCAA policy, no name was given but the Birmingham News said the athlete was quarterback Don Fuell, of Guntersville, Ala.

Two hours after the announcement, Seattle athletic director John Castellani resigned his position. It was rumored Castellani had made the offers to the two basketball players.

Castellani said he had not been asked to quit because of the disciplinary action but felt it would be for the good of the school.

In Seattle, All-American basketball player Elgin Baylor said the action would not change his decision to remain at Seattle for his last year of eligibility. Baylor had been reported to be quitting school to play professional basketball.

Sophomore Bill Orris was responsible for two of the Iowa victories. He finished first in the 220-yard low hurdles and 120-yard highs.

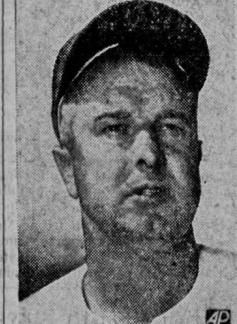

"Deacon" Jones got back on the victory trail after a bout with the flu. He won the 2-mile Saturday. He suffered the first defeats of his college career in the mile and 2-mile races on the team's recent Arizona trip.

Bob Hansen, sophomore pole valuter gave Iowa a first place tie in his specialty.

Coach Francis Cretzmeyer expressed his pleasure in the Hawkeye's showing. "I felt they did real well," he commented. "Especially under the cold windy conditions in the meet was held."

NEW YORK (AP) — Infielder Jerry Lumpe of the New York Yankees severely sprained his left ankle when he stepped on a loose ball Monday, and will be out of action for two and a half to three weeks.

4 Hawkeye Teams Will Be in Action Friday, Saturday

Opening of the Big Ten baseball season with three road games and five other contests in track, golf and tennis comprise SU's week's sports schedule.

Iowa's baseball team plays Ohio State at Columbus Saturday in the Big Ten opener. The Buckeyes enter the game with a fine record of 13 wins, one loss and a tie.

Then the Hawkeyes go to Bloomington for a double-header with Indiana Saturday. Iowans were scheduled to end their non-conference schedule with today's home game with Western Michigan.

In tennis, the Iowans, with a current 3-0 record, meet Southern Illinois at home Friday at 2 p.m. and follow with Wisconsin on the local courts Saturday at 10 a.m. Iowa has beaten Bradley, Kalamazoo and Western Michigan with the loss of only three sets.

The golf team, like the baseball outfit, begins its conference schedule. Minnesota and Wisconsin are the opponents in two dual meets on the Hawkeye course starting at noon Saturday.

The Drake Relays at Des Moines Friday and Saturday will attract a full squad of Iowa athletes in several relays and special events.

"That fence might be good for .250 hitters, but it won't help the power hitters unless they get the ball high in the air. The thing is 42 feet high, that's about like a four-story building."

So far, the Cubs' pitching is lagging way behind the hitting. No starter has finished a game. In five games, different pitchers have been on the mound 19 times.

Will Aim At Close Fence

CHICAGO (AP) — The league leading Chicago Cubs left for Los Angeles Monday eager for their screen test.

They should be a whopping success. The 4-1 Cubs, with a hefty .305 team batting mark, will invade the Dodger homer paradise in the Coliseum for a night game tonight that opens a three game series.

In the series just concluded in the Coliseum, the Dodgers hit five balls against the left field screen, which is 250 feet down the line, and hefted three over it for homers. The Giants slammed eight hits off the mesh and six over.

Now, what will the Cubs do with a guy like Ernie Banks, the spry wristed righthanded hitter who smashed 43 homers last year and has belted two so far this season?

The Cubs should give the screen a real test. Sixteen of the club's 50 hits have been for extra bases, and half of them have been homers. Rookie Johnny Goryl has two and Cal Neeman one. They and Banks are righthanders. Lefthanded hitters Dale Long and Walt Moryn have one and two homers, respectively.

"I'm pretty anxious to see that fence, but I might be pretty anxious to get out of the park, too," said Manager Bob Scheffing before heading west. "Look at Danny O'Connell (Giants). He poked two 300-foot flies over that screen yesterday."

"That fence might be good for .250 hitters, but it won't help the power hitters unless they get the ball high in the air. The thing is 42 feet high, that's about like a four-story building."

National Medical Week—

Honor SUI Center

From a $3,000 appropriation 89 years ago, the SUI College of Medicine has grown to become the heart of a medical center to which Iowa physicians refer more than 50,000 patients a year.

This week, at the suggestion of President Eisenhower, the Iowa College of Medicine and its sister schools across the nation are being honored for the contributions they have made to the country's health.

Iowa Gov. Herschel Loveless has joined other chief executives in proclaiming April 20-26 as Medical Education Week.

In the summer of 1869, SUI received an appropriation of $3,000 for the "remodeling of rooms to meet the needs of the medical department." The department at that time was the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Keokuk.

The appropriation was the result of pressure to move the department to Iowa City where it could become an integral part of the University.

The appropriation permitted remodeling of then-existing facilities to provide an amphitheater, a waiting room, a room for microsurgical anatomy and another room in the basement of the building. All lectures and clinics were held in the one amphitheater.

Today, facilities available for students who choose to enter the medical profession are a Medical Laboratories Building, a General Hospital of 700 beds, a 65-bed Psychopathic Hospital, a Children's Hospital which now serves as an Isolation-Rehabilitation Hospital (the department of pediatrics is now in the General Hospital), a Hospital-School for Severely Handicapped Children, and a new $1.5 million Medical Research Center which was dedicated last fall.

Medical students at SUI now number about 450, with approximately 120 new students entering training each year.

SUI Council Outlines Freedom Week Plans

May 4 through May 9 has been declared Academic Freedom Week by the SUI Student Council committee in charge of the annual event. The committee is headed by Judy Jones, A2, Moline, Ill.

The committee outlined the purpose of the week: to promote an awakening of students to the present and future problems involved in academic freedom and to educate students on the problems of academic freedom.

Activities for the week will include a display in the library, discussions in communication skills classes, possibly in the sections of first semester American Government and a tentative date on the Union Board "Spotlight Series" Friday, May 9.

The committee will publicize a brochure which will be used for the class discussions. The pamphlet will contain questions to arouse thinking by the individuals taking part in the discussion, an explanation of the week and a bibliography of the books in the library concerning freedom in education.

Academic Freedom Week is sponsored by the SUI Student Council, with the cooperation of the YWCA.

Investigate Accident Involving SUI Students

An accident involving SUI students is still being investigated by police. It occurred at Newton Road Saturday, but no injuries resulted.

The second car is owned by John S. Warren, A2, Dubuque. Warren and several other students were in the car at the time of the accident, White said.

No charges have yet been filed.

Leaps With Child from Hotel Room

ROSARIO, Argentina (AP) — A man accused of sending his wife the body of their murdered younger daughter leaped from a hotel window Monday with their elder daughter in his arms.

Eight-year-old Carmen Beatriz Rodriguez was saved from death when she fell on a hotel awning. Her father, Ernesto Raul Rodriguez, fell to the pavement below and was injured critically. He was not expected to survive.

Rodriguez went through the window with his daughter when police surprised him in his hotel room.

He had been sought since Sunday, when his wife, Marta Rodriguez, opened a traveling bag delivered to her Buenos Aires home by special messenger. Inside she found the body of her 6-year-old daughter, Martita Dora, who had been strangled.

With the body were children's clothes, flowers, and a note bearing Rodriguez' name which said: "Next week I will send you, in the same way, your other daughter."

Top News Photos on Display

A traveling exhibit of the 14th annual "News Pictures of the Year" competition will be displayed on the third floor corridor of the Communications Center from April 25 to May 15. The display is to be held in conjunction with the 11th annual all-Iowa Press Photographers Association short course.

The picture competition, for working press photographers in the nation, is co-sponsored by the National Press Photographers Association and the Encyclopedia Britannica.

A second news picture display — winning prints in the Iowa Press Photographers contest — will be placed on the second floor of the Communications Center after judging May 2. Both displays will then be open to the public until May 15.

The short course, which will be conducted by leading news photographers and picture editors in the Midwest, will be held in the Communications Center May 2, 3, 4. It is open to working Iowa press photographers, TV newsmen and pictorial journalism students.

All of the top prize winners and finalists in this year's contests — the largest of their kind in the world today — will be in the picture exhibits. The exhibits will also include representative prints from the nation's leading newspaper and magazine photographers. Award winning photos include those of Howard Sochurek, LIFE Magazine, named Magazine Photographer of the Year, George Smallsreed, Jr., Columbus Dispatch, Newspaper Photographer of the Year, and A.

Aubrey Bodine, Baltimore Sun, the Newspaper-Magazine Photographer of the Year.

The still division of this year's national contest was judged in ten different categories. This exhibit contains a cross-section of prints, numbering 120, from all categories in the still contest. This year's show will tour over 150 cities, being exhibited at leading colleges and universities, public libraries and museums, and thus, being viewed by more than 2,000,000 persons.

Plane Crash—

tion — following radio signals from the ground. He was told to go ahead. We don't know what happened then.

"The pilot could have been flying on his airplane radio to make the descent. I assume he was under the hood — but we can't tell."

Nellis AFB reported its communication center picked up the cry, "Mayday" — the aviator's distress call, just after the collision. Other words followed, but they were too garbled to be distinguishable.

Radiomen said the pilot might have been reporting a "flame-out" — a cutoff of the jet engine, or reporting that they were bailing out. Investigators said it could not be determined whether either man had tried to use his parachute.

The transport, bound for New York with stops at Denver, Kansas City and Washington, left Los Angeles at 7:50 a.m. The CAA got its last report from the airliner as it passed over the Mojave Desert town of Dagget, about halfway to Las Vegas. It was flying at 21,000 feet and was due over Las Vegas at 8:31 a.m.

The jet had taken off from Nellis, 16 miles north of Las Vegas, at 7:45 a.m. It was returning to base at the time of the accident.

The bodies of all 47 aboard the airliner and the two Air Force pilots were found in the wreckage of the two planes.

It was the fourth major air disaster in the Southwest in less than two years involving collisions.

History's worst civilian crash occurred June 30, 1956, when two transports smashed into each other over the Grand Canyon, killing 128.

On Jan. 31, 1957, a transport on a check flight collided with a Navy jet over the crowded San Fernando Valley. Five men aboard the two planes were killed.

Three students were killed and 70 injured when the crippled transport plowed into a schoolyard.

Less than three months ago a Military Air Transport plane and a Navy patrol bomber collided at night over a Los Angeles suburb, killing 47 in the planes and a housewife on the ground.

United Air Line headquarters Monday listed the passengers on its plane as follows:

1. Morton C. Aeronson, 16517 Hartwood, Encino, Calif.
2. Samuel Rush Bailey, 7331 W. 92nd St., Los Angeles.

Georges Bidault May Become 25th French Premier

PARIS (AP) — Georges Bidault, who wants France to get tougher in Algeria, said Monday night he hopes to go before the National Assembly Thursday to seek confirmation as premier of France's 25th postwar Cabinet.

But he faces the problem of lining up support in his own party. Bidault talked in his hotel room Monday with several individual politicians but no party delegations.

His own party, the Catholic Popular Republican Movement — MRP — has scheduled a meeting for Tuesday to decide its course.

Most of the MRP opposes Bidault because of his tough views on how France should handle the rebellion in Algeria.

But Bidault seems to hold favor — because of these views — with the conservative independents, the DeGaulist Social Republicans, the extreme right-wing Poujadists, and some radical splinter groups.

These groups have about 175 votes in the 595-seat Assembly.

2 SUI Students Attend San Francisco Meeting

Air Force ROTC Cadets Richard Maurer, E3, Iowa City, and David W. Thomson, A3, Mt. Vernon, recently returned from a 4-day annual national conclave of the Arnold Air Society held at San Francisco's Sheraton Palace Hotel.

The two men represented the local Billy Mitchell Squadron of the Arnold Air Society.

Final Touches Added To Emergency Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee put final touches Monday to a bill providing an additional 16 weeks of emergency jobless pay for some 5,200,000 unemployed workers during the next year.

The Democratic majority on the committee had approved the bill last Thursday.

Committee Republicans tried unsuccessfully to cut out of the measure a provision making Federal unemployment relief payments available to workers not now eligible under state insurance programs.

Republicans denounced this provision as a dodge going beyond the "wildest dreams of the New Deal and Fair Deal."

Chairman Mills (D-Ark.) said the Democratic-backed bill would be ready for House action Thursday or Friday if leaders give the word.

Mills said committee estimates put the cost of the emergency jobless relief program at $1,575,000,000. It would expire July 1, 1959, and would be financed wholly by the Federal Treasury.

The additional 16 weeks of jobless pay would be available to an estimated 3,100,000 unemployed workers who now have exhausted their benefits under the Federal-state insured unemployment compensation program.

The committee estimated another 2,100,000 noneligible workers might be eligible under the straight relief provisions of the bill. These workers who do not now come under the program.

Offer 40 International Fellowships

A total of $99,500 in American Association of University Women (AAUW) fellowships will be available for the 1959-60 school year, the Committee on Awards has announced.

Two main types of fellowships available are national and international awards, according to information received by the SUI Graduate College.

Forty national fellowships providing from $2,000 to $4,000 each are open to American women who already hold a doctorate, or who will fulfill all the requirements except the dissertation by the time the fellowship year begins July 1, 1959.

Both national and international fellowships are unrestricted as to field and place of study, except that the international fellowships must be used in a country other than the candidate's own. Candidates must complete the residence requirements for the doctorate before the fellowship year begins on July 1, 1959.

Application forms may be obtained after July 15 from: Associate, AAUW Fellowship Program, 1634 Eye Street, N.W., Washington 6, D.C.

Juvenile Held, Breaks Jail Windows

A 17-year-old boy being held for investigation knocked out the second-story windows of the Johnson County Jail about 3:30 p.m. Monday.

A woman who saw the incident said she called to the youth and asked why he was breaking the windows. He replied, "I want to talk to someone."

The youth was arrested by Iowa City Police Monday afternoon. He is being held for investigation of a theft, according to Mrs. Martha Welcher, Johnson County juvenile and probation officer.

County Sheriff Albert J. "Pat" Murphy, when contacted Monday evening, said he did not know the number of windows broken.
