The mother to represent all SUI mothers, Mrs. Anna House of Muscatine, will be honored during Mother's Day festivities here Saturday and Sunday. Her daughter, Dorothy, 43, nominated her for the award.

Mrs. Anna House
Representative Mother

THE SUI REPRESENTATIVE Mother of 1958 will be presented at a noon luncheon Saturday in the River Room of the Iowa Memorial Union. JoNett Melchert, A4, Clinton, and James Wiese, C4, Schaller, SUI Representative Daughter and Son, will also be introduced at the all-family affair.

Mrs. House was chosen by members of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary organization, with faculty assistance. Application letters were written by students who nominated their mothers, and the final selection was made on the basis of these letters.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO CIVIC and community projects constitute many of Mrs. House's achievements along with her attention to three children. According to her daughter's letter, she has been active in YWCA, church work, serving as treasurer of the Presbyterian Women's Organization; a member of DeMolay Mothers, a Girl Scout leader, and Heart Chairman of the Heart Drive in Muscatine.

MRS. HOUSE ATTENDED SUI in 1917 and later finished her education at a business school. Her three children include a son, 16, Dorothy, 20, and another son, 26. A widow since 1953, Mrs. House and her eldest son have operated an automobile-tractor agency in Muscatine.

Mother's Day Weekend is sponsored by Mortar Board and includes activities for the entire weekend in honor of SUI mothers.

City Canvass To Explain School Issue

Tonight and Wednesday Iowa Cityans will have an opportunity to ask questions and learn the details about the junior high bond issue election.

The house-to-house public information campaign, headed by Donald A. Graham, member of the Iowa City School Board, will begin at approximately 6:30 p.m. today.

Graham said the purpose of the campaign is to make certain that everyone knows the facts concerning the $1,448,000 bond issue election, to interest people in the issue, and to encourage them to vote in the election May 13.

Approximately 1,500 workers, organized in teams of two, will work in their own localities, Graham said.

Every worker will have a reference brochure, printed by the school board, which gives information on the present Junior High School plant, the proposed new plant, the site, budget and taxes, and enrollment figures.

Graham said that he and 23 area chairmen would be available both nights of the campaign to clarify any information in the brochure.

"We hope to answer any and all questions concerning the bond issue," Graham said.

Dem Bones Ain't Gonna Walk Around No Mo'

Dem steer bones ain't no mo'. Johnson County Deputy Sheriff Donald Wilson reported that carcasses of the five dead steers had been buried Monday on the Clara and Minnie Stenn farm east of Hills.

The 69- and 59-year-old sisters live on 160 acres which had become virtually a "bone pile" over the years. They were warned Friday by County Attorney William C. Tucker to dispose of the carcasses by Monday or face legal action.

The bone hassle has been going on since March. The sisters ignored previous requests by Lincoln Township officials, and had threatened rendering trucks with a shotgun.

The animals died from natural causes and were left where they fell.

AP DIGEST

GOV. ORVAL E. FAUBUS of Arkansas lost in the Federal Court of Appeals Monday his fight in the Little Rock integration dispute. He planned an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

GEORGE MEANY, organized labor's top leader, said Monday the nation is sliding into a depression. He predicted unemployment will rise to about six million in June, barring some miracle.

SAMUEL CARDINAL STRITCH was reported doing well Monday night after amputation of his right arm above the elbow to save his life from gangrene.

THE SENATE MONDAY night passed a bill to regulate employee pension and welfare funds after voting down repeated efforts to broaden it into a general labor control measure.

EX-PREMIER RENE PLEVEN of France notified President Rene Coty Monday night he will try to form a new Government. France's 25th since World War II. Pleven is already formulating a 10-point declaration on the Algerian issue that caused the last Government to fall.

BRITAIN EXPLODED a nuclear device at high altitude Monday over its test area in the central Pacific. A Supply Ministry statement said the test was successful but gave no details as to the type of device set off.

Meeting Scheduled—

Old Gold Days To Be Evaluated

With this year's Old Gold Days barely completed, plans for next year's program are already under way.

Members of the Old Gold planning committee will hold a meeting Thursday evening to evaluate this year's program and make recommendations for the 1959 program.

Many suggestions will probably be made, including a plan to reorganize the tour schedules.

Official attendance figures have not been tabulated yet, but indications Monday were that about 300 students registered for the first Old Gold Days program.

A total of 261 high school students preregistered, but it is thought not all of them attended. An additional 56 were here, even though they did not preregister. Figures are being tabulated in the office of George Stevens, assistant director, Iowa Memorial Union.

About 250 additional junior high and high school students attended the Art Conference, sponsored by the SUI Extension Service and Art Department. Pupils attending this conference also took part in some of the Old Gold presentations.

"We knew there would be mistakes," said Tom Jolas, L3, Red Oak; chairman of the committee. "This type of thing takes time to develop."

Jolas, Bill Sutton, A2, Red Oak, and Nancy Roberson, A3, Iowa City, all agreed the tour organization will be changed considerably. All are members of the Old Gold Committee, and Miss Roberson is co-chairman of the tours, displays and registration with Sandy Bierbaum, A3, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Tours will probably be arranged according to interest areas. One tour will cover science topics, one liberal arts, etc.

Among features praised most highly this year were the displays. "They showed a great deal of work by SUI students," Miss Roberson said. She cited displays by the College of Nursing, Departments of Psychology and Speech Pathology, as well as those of the Phonetics Laboratory, Romance Languages, German and the Medical Laboratories as outstanding. These were good, in addition to those of the College of Pharmacy, School of Journalism and Department of Physics.

M. L. Huit, dean of students, was strong in his praise for the week-end. "I was quite pleased about the reactions from high school students," he said.

He called the Varsity Varieties show "one of the best student-talent shows on the campus in many years."

Jolas estimated 900 persons, including 300 to 400 high school

Van Allen, Pentagon Disagree— 68 IGY Countries To Get Moon Data

All data gathered from U.S. earth satellites will be made available Thursday to the 68 nations participating in International Geophysical Year, it was announced Monday by James A. Van Allen, professor and head of Physics at SUI.

VAN ALLEN, HEAD of instrumentation, told the House Space Committee that four papers, will tell "the whole story" of the data gathered by U. S. satellites. Van Allen authored one of the papers.

Earlier, the Associated Press reported that Van Allen disagreed sharply with a Pentagon official on where President Eisenhower's proposed new space agency should engage mainly in civilian or military work.

HERBERT L. LOPER, a retired general and assistant to the secretary of defense on atomic energy, told the committee that cold war pressures will keep the United States putting the bulk of its space effort into military application.

Van Allen told the committee, "I have a fairly sharp difference of opinion with General Loper about the uses of outer space."

"ONE MAY SAY the civilian application of space vehicles is the dominant one, certainly in the near future," he said.

Van Allen said that while there is a clear field of military possibilities in space work, the first concern for the next few years is to find out more scientifically about space. Then the military applications can be better determined, he said.

He said putting a satellite in orbit around the moon is "much more clearly a scientific endeavor at this stage" than a military one.

ERNEST RAY, ASSISTANT professor of Physics, told The Daily Iowan Monday night that even though there are legitimate military interests in the U.S. space program, "there are more goals of a non-military nature."

"Legitimate civilian goals must be served as well as military ones," Ray said.

RAY, WHOSE RESEARCH primarily concerns upper atmosphere activity, agreed with Van Allen that satellites will be of great value to weather and communication programs.

Van Allen referred to weather prediction, which would become more accurate through the use of satellite data, as having high value to farmers and in predicting the course of bad storms.

COMMUNISTS LOSE POWER

PARIS — Communists took a beating, and center parties gained more strength in elections for France's regional councils, final results showed Monday. The balloting Sunday and April 20 again gave the center parties more than four-fifths of the seats at stake.

ike Sends New Request To Soviets

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower called on Soviet Premier Khrushchev Monday to join in creating a military inspection zone in the Arctic as a significant first step in reducing world tensions.

He also appealed to Khrushchev to reconsider Russia's opposition to what would consider concrete moves to police a broader disarmament agreement, including a halt to atomic-hydrogen tests.

Mr. Eisenhower set forth this double appeal in a new message released at his vacation headquarters in Georgia a few hours before he flew back to the White House.

The 500-word Eisenhower letter went to the Kremlin only six days after Khrushchev had fired off a letter ten times as long to the White House demanding agreement on Soviet disarmament proposals.

The swift Eisenhower reply, the latest move in their continuing public letter writing campaign, reflected the White House decision to answer more quickly to blunt Russian propaganda. Moscow advisers said there was no immediate reaction from the Kremlin.

Reporter Finds Owner of Statue

By BILL ANZINGER
Staff Writer

A stone bust of a woman was returned to its pedestal in the Iowa Memorial Union main lounge Monday after a Daily Iowan reporter informed a union hostess the bust was at the police station.

Police said the bust had been found early Monday morning at the residence of J. E. Wilkinson, 17 E. College Street. A check with the residence revealed the Wilkinson's son, Mike, found the bust in the front seat of his car where he left his home to go to City High School.

Mike said he thought some high school boys had put it there. He called police and the bust was taken to headquarters where it remained the rest of the day. Police said they checked with proper University authorities who reported

Classicist Views Plato Differently

SUI Classicist Roger Hornsby put forth the untraditional view Monday night that Plato's writing should be studied as literature, as well as philosophy.

In a Humanities Society lecture in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol, Hornsby said that by studying Plato's dialogues simply as philosophical treatises, much of their meaning and significance was lost.

Plato's early works contain little historical fact, says Hornsby, which is an indication that he manipulated and organized his material for his own purposes.

The Phaedo, said Hornsby, achieves its effect not only because it is the great death scene of Socrates, but also because Plato has carefully organized and controlled his narration.

Plato's form in the dialogues, says Hornsby, closely approaches drama in that it presents a conflict which is finally resolved. By using this form, he said, he appears to put forth the view that intellectual awareness of virtue is not enough. Our souls must be aroused by an art form.

These two components of virtue are illustrated in the characters of Alcibiades and Crito. The former understands Socrates' conception of virtue, but lacks emotional fervor, while the latter has the enthusiasm, but does not understand.

.250 Average Navy's Vanguard Fails!

WASHINGTON — The Navy's attempt to place a second Vanguard satellite into orbit Monday night failed when the final stage of the three-stage rocket did not fire.

The Navy in Washington announced 20 minutes after the rocket was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., that "the vehicle did not attain the necessary speed of at least 18,000 miles an hour to place its basketball-sized satellite into orbit."

The Navy said the second and third stages of the Vanguard apparently plunged into the Atlantic about 1,500 miles down the test range from Cape Canaveral.

Measuring 20 inches in diameter, it contained an instrument which could measure x-rays from the sun and broadcast its findings back to earth.

These discoveries would be of vast practical value in solving the mystery of why short-wave radio fades out.

They might tell, also if the sun's x-rays play a part in hurricanes and tornadoes.

Described as the last of the test vehicles in the Vanguard testing program, the next vehicle to be launched will be the first formal satellite launching vehicle. The date for another launching attempt was not released.

A few seconds after the crucial countdown reached zero the rocket quivered. Then two tiny dots of white light appeared at the base. The Vanguard climbed straight up, slowly at first.

It gathered momentum as its first stage engine poured out 27,000 pounds of thrust.

At an altitude of 38 miles, the first-stage vehicle — more than

'Orpheus' Staging Plan Unique Here

Corner staging will be used for the first time in Iowa City with the Community Theatre presentation of Tennessee Williams' play "Orpheus Descending." The play will run April 30, May 1, 2 and 3.

Corner staging uses an L-shaped stage with the audience seated in a semi-circle around the triangular acting area. This arrangement combines the conventional method of staging with the now often-used circular method which brings the audience closer to the stage.

Robert Spanabel, G. Youngstown, O., will direct the play as a part of his M.A. requirements.

Seven SUI students are included in the cast: Dennis Hayes, G, Forest City; James E. Larson, A2, Boone; Martha Kelly, A1, Des Moines; Obra Quave, G, Gulfport, Miss.; Stephanie Wood, A1, St. Louis; John Tracy, A2, Ankeny, and James Burkhead, G, Madison, Wis.

Also appearing in the play are 10 Iowa City residents: Mrs. Donald Stribling, Mrs. James Moore, LeRoy Hester, Mrs. Hood Gardner, Mrs. Donald Mittag, Mrs. Donald DeBord, Mrs. Lyle Fisher, Mrs. Joe Zender, Joseph Mauch, and Raymond Booth.

Reserved seat tickets for the play, which will be given at the Old Eagles Lodge on East Washington Street, are available at Towner's Beauty Salon, Jackson Electric, from members of the organization, or by telephoning 4350.

Weather

If the winter woolies have been packed away, better dig them out. Temperatures Monday night were in the high 20's. Strong northerly winds blew all day Monday and are expected to continue today. Skies will be partly cloudy today with a high temperature reading in the low 40's.

Federal Agency In Girard Search

Michelle Girard, 14-year-old daughter of Mrs. Daniel Wiltfang, R.R. 5, was still missing Monday night after 31 days had passed since her disappearance from Iowa City Junior High School.

Detective Lieutenant Harland Sprinkle, said the U.S. Immigration Service is working on the case as well as local police. He said it is doubtful the F.B.I. will be called in to help with the investigation.

Sprinkle said he feels certain someone within Iowa City knows of the girl's whereabouts but has not come forth with the information. He said also he believes Michelle is still somewhere in Iowa City.

Michelle, a French immigrant, is described as 5-feet 2-inches, 110 pounds, with chestnut brown hair, and fair complexion. She has a prominent scar on her lower lip and may appear to be 18.

Regents Visit SUI; Purpose Not Confirmed

Utilities Cost Fourth Of Construction

By JOHN JONES
Staff Writer

Two Board of Regents members were in Iowa City Monday reportedly to investigate the possibility of a new site for the proposed $2.6 million construction of permanent married housing units. E. T. Joliffe, SUI business manager, said he was not at liberty to confirm or deny the reason for their visits.

JOLIFFE SAID Clifford M. Strawman, Anamosa, and Arthur A. Barlow, Cedar Rapids, Regent members, were here at the direction of Harry H. Hagemann, Waverly, Board president.

The location for the proposed Hawkeye Apartments has been suggested by SUI officials as the principal reason for the high unit cost of the buildings. One fourth of the $13,540 unit cost has been estimated as needed for bringing utilities to the proposed location about one mile west of Iowa City.

THE MARRIED students, themselves, are still carrying on their protest against the rent increase on barracks housing. Richard C. Clark, G, 204 Finkbine Park, said the Married Student Housing Group will go en masse this afternoon to the Dormitory Assignment Office to sign new leases. Clark is chairman of the group's executive committee.

He said they are to meet at 1:15 p.m. on the band practice grounds to organize their march on University Hall. The group recently passed a resolution invalidating earlier refusal to sign new leases with the new rent of $62.50.

THE REGENTS HAD earlier passed a resolution offering the married students an option of signing leases at $62.50 including utilities or $42.50 plus oil, gas, and electricity. Clark said the protest group felt the students could not save money with either option.

Monday night a number of married students and their families demonstrated their protests by means of motorcade. Their cars were painted with slogans such as: "Married students can't afford $91 housing," "$52.50 or Fight," and "We've convinced everyone but SUI and the Regents."

Saturday morning several married students picketed SUI President Virgil M. Hancher's speech to high school seniors at Old Gold Days. The incident took place at the Iowa Memorial Union.

Continue Probing In Tot-Killing Case

GALENA, Ill. — The investigation into the kidnap-slaying of Maria Ridulph, 7, pushed on Monday while officers of two Illinois counties snapped at each other over handling of the case.

Gov. William Stratton said in Chicago he has ordered state police to give full co-operation to local authorities investigating the murder of the Sycamore, Ill., girl.

Maria vanished from the neighborhood of her home Dec. 3 after she and a playmate were confronted by a young man who offered them a piggy-back ride. The playmate went home for some mittens and when she returned Maria and the stranger were gone.

Let Paving Contracts, Reject 2 Bridge Bids

Contracts totaling $274,601.36 for four Iowa City projects were let by the Iowa City Council Monday afternoon while all bids for two other projects were rejected.

City manager Peter Roan said the bids were rejected because they were too far over estimates made by the engineer.

The council let contracts for the 1958 city street paving program, the sanitary sewer on Rochester Avenue, bridge reconstruction over Ralston Creek and demolition of Eagle and Horton Buildings on East Washington Street.

Bids for repairing the Iowa Avenue Bridge and constructing a north approach to the South Dodge Street viaduct over the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad tracks were rejected. Mayor Louis Loria said plans for the work will not be forgotten.

The contract for paving portions of 24 city streets and alleys went to Horrabin Contracting Co. of Iowa City with a low bid of $225,701.36. Only other bidder was Jackson Construction of Nevada with a bid of $235,492.95.

Knowing Brothers of Coralville received the contract for laying the sanitary sewer. Knowing Brothers' bid of $11,160.50 was low. Dean Christenson of Cedar Rapids was the only other bidder with a bid of $13,172.

A bid of $1,498 by Kenneth Hunt of Des Moines was low for the demolition of the Eagle and Horton property. The property, owned by the city, will be used for a city parking lot.

Space NOT Military

SUI's Dr. James Van Allen has been recorded as taking fairly sharp exception to the opinions of Herbert L. Loper, a retired general and secretary of defense's assistant on atomic energy. Loper said that cold war pressures will make it necessary for the bulk of U.S. space efforts to be for military application. Dr. Van Allen has a good point — and this is not because he happens to be "our boy." Military applications can better be determined when we have found out more, scientifically, about space. We already have a very clear example of what can happen when scientific inquiry in space and rockets is subordinate to other defense considerations and under military supervision. Our satellite followed the Russian one into space by a period of months — when it could easily have been there first. The rocket that put our first satellite — the Jupiter-C, had been successfully test fired about a year before the dramatic appearance of Sputnik I. Military control at an early stage of scientific inquiry is unlikely to produce anything but delays, confusion, and secrecy barriers. The military have a tremendously responsible job, and are no doubt as anxious as anyone that proper scientific investigation be made. But their bias is likely to be detrimental to this very end. Much of what is learned about space will have military application, and certainly the defense department should be working closely in conjunction with the Civilian Space Agency charged with conducting America's space experiments. But not running them.

The Iowa Economy

Economic Review And Outlook

(Excerpts from a speech delivered before the Conference of the Governor's Commission on Economic and Social Trends in Iowa, March 22, 1958)

The Iowa economy is like the economies of all other states in the nation in two important respects. First, it is a free-enterprise, price-market organized economy. Second, it is an "open" economy.

The Iowa economy is "open" in that money, goods, and people move freely both into and out of the state in response to market alternatives. If potential returns on new investments are high in Iowa, money will flow into the state to finance its capital expansion while if potential returns are low Iowa's savings will flow elsewhere.

GOODS AND SERVICES will be exported from Iowa (earning income to finance a return import of goods and services into the state) insofar as Iowa is an adequately profitable place to produce these goods and insofar as there is an adequate demand for these goods. Finally, people will move across state boundaries at will in seeking better income possibilities.

There are some types of economic activities which take place in each and every state approximately in proportion to its population. Every area has its retail, wholesale, and service establishments to meet local needs, its governmental employees, its necessary utilities, and its manufacturing for local use.

The number of such activities — and the number of their employees — depend upon the number of activities and employees serving other areas — activities producing a good or service for export — are termed basic. They are the basic industries which give each state its distinctive characteristics. Specifically, such basic industries in Iowa are (1) agriculture, (2) manufacturing, and (3) insurance carriers.

FARMING is Iowa's dominant basic industry, employing perhaps two-thirds of Iowa's workers producing a product for export. There are two important facts about this agriculture: (1) Employment therein is declining at the rate of 4,000-5,000 persons per year; and (2) During 1955 and since, farm income has fallen and then remained at relatively low levels.

It is toward growth in manufacturing employment that Iowans are looking to offset declines in agricultural employment. Since 1939, manufacturing employment has been growing at a more rapid rate in Iowa than in the nation. From 1939 to 1947, it increased by 50 per cent in the nation, 59 per cent in Iowa. From 1947 to 1956, it increased by 10.5 per cent in the nation, almost 13 per cent in Iowa. Between 1947 and 1954, manufacturing employment in Iowa grew by approximately 10,500 workers more than that number which would have resulted at national rates of growth in each of Iowa's industries.

These 10,500 workers were 7 per cent of Iowa's manufacturing work force in 1954. Thus, it is reasonable to say that 7 per cent of Iowa's industrial workers in 1954 were here as the result of shifts favorable to Iowa in the location of industry between 1947 and 1954.

The Iowa College-Community Research Center, an organization of leading Iowa businessmen working in cooperation with research specialists from Iowa State College and the State University of Iowa, has recently made projections of both labor force and job opportunities in Iowa to 1965.

THESE projections indicate that jobs in agriculture in 1965 will — if past trends continue — total 214,000 as compared to 404,000 persons seeking jobs on the farm if all potential workers who were on the farm in 1950 elected to stay there. Presuming the excess workers to leave the farm, they are projected to add approximately 190,000 persons to the available off-farm labor force of the state between 1950 and 1965.

From 1950 to 1965, on the other hand, there is a projected increase in non-agricultural employment from 697,900 to 879,000 persons.

This is an increase of approximately 182,000 persons. Most of this projected increase in non-agricultural employment can be met from the labor force to become available in Iowa's urban areas.

Workers in Iowa's urban areas in 1950 (less deaths and retirement but plus additions to the work force via the natural increase in the population and via the increased participation of women in the work force) will provide approximately 152,000 workers for the anticipated increase in job opportunities.

This leaves a labor deficit in Iowa's urban communities amounting to approximately 30,000 persons.

THUS, OF IOWA'S 190,000 persons projected to leave the farm between 1950 and 1965, about 30,000 can prospectively find employment in Iowa's urban, non-agricultural pursuits. This leaves a job deficit of 160,000. These 160,000 workers plus their dependents are likely to leave the state of Iowa if past trends continue.

Again referring to the projections of the Iowa College-Community Research Center, there is prospectively an in-migration of more than 20,000 workers into southeast Iowa's counties between 1950 and 1965 to fill the job opportunities projected to develop there. Job opportunities in central Iowa will be approximately equal to the growing labor force in that area.

In all other areas of the state, there will be surplus of workers over job opportunities which will necessitate an out-migration of people.

This out-migration will run as high as 1 out of 3 persons coming into the labor force between 1950 and 1965 in that group of counties containing Adair, Adams, Guthrie, Madison, Marion, Taylor, Union, and Warren counties.

The figures will be 1 out of 4 in northwest Iowa, 1 out of 4 in the remainder of west Iowa, 1 out of 10 in northcentral Iowa, 3 out of 10 in southern Iowa, and 1 out of 5 in northeast Iowa and east central Iowa.

Slattery's Slants

Old Gold Days have come and gone — with differing opinions as to relative success or failure being expressed by observers. People working with the leadership program, more popular exhibits (the physics display, the romance language display complete with bi-lingual tapes, the chem and pharmacy, etc.), and people working in the well-attended water show and Varsity Varieties are inclined to think of the program as a success. Those whose exhibits were scheduled for the tail-end of tours — and thus most likely to be cut — or those who had expected a larger attendance, think the program was less than successful. But the real impact of Old Gold Days on the high school students here — the primary aim of the program — is hard to gauge.

If superior students attend SUI who might not have otherwise, then the purpose of Old Gold Days will have been achieved. And we'll have to wait and see about that.

That rare and happy circumstance — the second chance to make good, so to speak — was deliciously and satisfyingly mine this past weekend. Three times (3, count 'em, times) last fall I took to the air as a trapeze "Flyer" in the Dolphin water show — and three times I failed miserably, noisily, and humiliatingly in my attempts to do a flying back somersault catch, landing for the most part in my highly imitable flat-on-my-back-in-the-water style. From 35 feet up.

I didn't have the satisfaction of hitting the trick even once in a show, and the failure nagged me. Once, I even dreamed that I had completed the trick successfully. I thought I would never get another chance.

But Saturday, when the weather dictated an indoor water show, rather than the boat and water ski exhibition planned for the Old Gold Days show — I found myself on the trapeze apparatus again. And as with all the other performers, completely unrehearsed since the fall show.

As I awaited my turn, painful — and humiliating — memories attendant upon my awkward "fall from grace" of last fall came back to haunt me. Then I was up. I hesitated slightly, grasped the trapeze bar, then leaped up and out into space. I swung down toward the water, up toward the catcher, Richard Davidson, A3, New London, and as I hit my peak, called out "This time" to him.

The water flashed under me as I swung back to the starting platform, reached my peak, and then started back toward Davidson. As I started up toward him, I let go of the bar and whipped into my tuck, got a quick flash of ceiling, wall, water, and then I opened up and reached out for Davidson. I saw his wide up-sidedown grin as he caught me — and my fears of ignobly flubbing my last chance vanished. I'd made it! It was almost anticlimactic as he lowered me down for my final — and technically just as troublesome a stunt: double back somersault into the water. Confidently, perhaps with a little swagger, if it is possible to swing with a swagger, I swung back and forth a few times, let go of Davidson, whipped into my tuck, caught a flash of ceiling, wall, water, wall, ceiling, wall, and ka-splash! I whipped feet-first, still semi-tucked, into the water — I'd made it all the way — the first time I had tried the double back ending. A wave of peace, of calm and of satisfaction swept over me.

I had vindicated myself to my severest critic — myself. Things are looking up for the parachute club! Letter came yesterday listing parachutes we can afford, and the members have sustained interest despite the trouble we've had getting into the air — training scheduled for 7:30 tonight at the North Gym will be well attended if everyone shows up as promised. Air Science instructor Captain Robert Casey loaned us a parachute for instruction last week — making it possible for us to give instruction. Many thanks.

LESSON FOR THE WEEK: Women are fools to marry — but what else is there?

By ANDREW BYERLEY Staff Writer "We're surrounded," students told one another, and they peered from classroom windows at the deserted campus. Some students laughed and said there were no troops or machine guns. "Yes there are," students replied. "We've seen them." News of the attack reached The Daily Iowan office. A reporter went to find the Germans. THE REPORTER walked about the campus. He noticed several men adjusting devices mounted on tripods. "Are those machine guns?" the reporter asked. "No," one of the men replied. "The next day The Daily Iowan said there had been no machine guns, and no Germans. A class of engineering students had been using transits mounted on tripods. Red-faced SUI students stopped talking about spies. (Based on information found in SUI records.)

Batista Still In Power

By JAMES MAGMER Staff Writer

Cuba's president Fulgencio Batista, after all the talk of bombs, strikes, and civil war, is still in power. During the last few days, civil war talk has all but died out in Cuba. Businessmen, opening their shops are waiting for the high-spending U.S. tourists to return to Havana by shuttle plane from Miami, only 90 minutes away. IN THIS new Cuban calm the question is "Why did Castro's revolt fail to get underway?" Batista is called dictator and is said to be a man of blood and violence. Cubans should have flocked to Castro, cooperated with his strikes, thrown bombs, overthrown Batista. Instead Castro's efforts met only apathy. Why? What kind of man is Batista in the eyes of Cubans that the revolt to overthrow him never really got underway?

The revolutionaries see Batista as the dictator who has brought nothing but blood, shame and disorder to the Republic of Cuba for the last 25 years. He has remained in power, they say, because he has been able to keep the Army and National Police at his side. In 1954 Batista became president in a single candidate election by wrapping the ballots in bullets.

Cuban students, in general, hate Batista. Batista's police have broken up their parades and demonstrations. They point to incidents like the one in Santiago, in November, 1955, when the police charged into their peaceful demonstrations, killed one, wounded five, and arrested 50. STUDENTS POINT to the 1956 Havana incident in which the police arrested 100 students and gave them the rubber hose. Repeatedly, the students say, Batista's police have invaded their universities, looking for conspirators and arms.

Students consider Batista a ruthless dictator who seized power illegally and has since grafted on as gargantuan a scale as the politicians he kicked out of Cuba five years ago. They believe that Batista, forbidden by the constitution to run for a second term, will perpetuate himself in power by getting his candidate Andres Rivero Aguiar elected in June. While he continues to control Cuba with the National Police and the Army.

Cuban businessmen, landowners, intellectuals, and even professional army officers are split in their opinion of Batista. Some of course agree with the students that Batista is a ruthless dictator. Others, agreeing that Batista is a dictator, are not convinced Castro is the answer. They fear that if Castro seized power, his regime would just be a repetition of what Batista has given them.

WHEN BATISTA seized Cuba with an armed revolt in 1933 and overthrew the puppet government of President Manuel de Cespedes, he put his own man in as president. If Castro had overthrown Batista, he planned to put his own man in the presidency.

In addition Castro has said he will set up his own labor front as the only representative of the proletariat and assign his own men the task of preserving law and order in Cuba.

Because of these aims, Castro to many Cubans doesn't appear to be much of an improvement on Batista. Many Cubans feel Castro would have been at best only more of the same.

Then there is a large number of intellectuals, army personnel, landowners and businessmen who believe that Batista is the right man for Cuba and that his strong-arm methods are necessary to govern the island. Not all Batista's achievements have been written in blood, they say. Materially, he has done a lot to improve conditions in Cuba.

REALIZING the natural beauty of Cuba, that his island is "the pearl of the Antilles" and only a few minutes away from the United States, Batista has made a bid for the tourist trade. Tourists have responded. Their steady growing number spurred a hotel building boom that added 1,500 hotel rooms to the Havana area and brought $35 million to Cuba.

Since 1952, Batista, encouraging foreign investments, has gotten foreign powers to invest $612 million in 211 new enterprises. Unlike the States investments in utilities, sugar, extractives, manufacturing, distribution, industries and banking have reached $750 million and appear slated to rise to $1 billion by 1960.

Under Batista's direction, sugar, the island's primary crop, reached from 7 to 9:30 a.m., on Saturday. Make-good service on missed papers is not possible, but every effort will be made to correct errors with the next issue.

Pictures Show Activities of SUU's First Old Gold Days

REGISTRATION OPENED Old Gold Days weekend for high school seniors who came to the SUU campus to get a preview of college life. Among those working at the registration desk were Alice Hogan, A1, Birmingham, Mich. and Dick Newell, A2, Ottumwa who pointed out some parts of the program to Susan Higley and Linda Rieke, both of Cedar Rapids.

OLD GOLD DAYS derived its title from the gold dome on Old Capitol as pointed out by one of the tour guides. Tours of the campus left the Union every half hour. Visitors were given the chance to follow each of the four tours which covered all departments of SUU.

year," he said. "I think it was so good it can not die." "It is only a question of time before Old Gold Days become even bigger," Dean Huit said. "As the high school students become college students, they will want to help show SUU to other high school students. The thing can snowball."

"It was a student-dominated project. That is what it good," he added.

Winners in the Varsity Varieties judging were:

Large Groups — 1, "The Colonel's Dilemma" by the Alpha Delta Pi sorority and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity; 2, the Delta Upsilon fraternity minstrel show; 3, "Take the 'I' Train," by Delta Gamma sorority and Sigma Chi fraternity; 4, "Mickey Mouse at SUU," by Hillcrest and Currier; 5, "Little Red, the Riding Hood Doll," by Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

THE TESLIA COIL, part of the Physics display was demonstrated by Wayne Miller, A3, Williamsburg, to Susan McCormick, left, and Jana Henderson, both of Olin. The teslia coil generates high voltage and is used in certain low-voltage atom smashers.

DORM RESIDENTS had an opportunity to get acquainted with the high school students as the visitors used the dorms for their living quarters during the weekend. Talking things over were, from left, Gary Fane, A1, New London; Dennis McAvey, New London; Dick Lenz, New London; Bob Anderson, Knoxville; and Tom DeYarman, A4, Olds; while Bob Shirley, D1, Knoxville, listened from the top bunk.

"IF ONLY MY BROWNIE could take pictures like that" might have been the thought of Lenawati Legiman, exchange student from Indonesia, who is attending high school in Fort Madison. She was one of many who viewed the Camera Club exhibit in the Union.

"MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB," a monologue by Carolyn Moran, A3, Cascade, brought laughter from audiences both nights during the "Varsity Varieties" presentations at the Fieldhouse. Ten acts made up the program along with the opening and closing arrangements from the Old Gold Singers.

"UNION SHOWCASE," a carnival of bands for dancing and listening, was the finale of the Old Gold Days weekend. The Jim Wilke Quartet provided background music while Don Nacke, A3, Marcus; Dixie Davenport, A3, Anamosa; and Jared Sturdevant of Minden relaxed in the Gold Feather Room. Other bands played in the main lounge, the River Room, and the cafeteria.

Search Begins For Iowa Basketball Coach

May Be Named Within Next 2 or 3 Weeks

Iowa officially began its search Monday for a new head basketball coach to replace the late Bucky O'Connor.

The Board in Control of Athletics has not yet met to discuss the situation, but Athletic Director Paul Brechler said Monday the Board will probably want to name a coach as soon as possible.

Brechler explained that this is a very important period in recruiting athletes. Tenders of aid under the Big Ten "need" plan for scholarships are scheduled to go out Thursday.

Prospective basketball players will probably be less inclined to accept a tender without knowledge of the Iowa coach. Thus, a new coach probably will be selected within the next two or three weeks.

Brechler said he "didn't know quite where to start looking for a new coach. The basketball coaching job is one I had never given any thought to."

"I had assumed that Bucky would always be here and would always want to stay here," said Brechler.

Brechler said he planned to contact some of the outstanding people in basketball in the country for recommendations.

Although no names were mentioned, Brechler said a few of the official applications for the job had been received, plus inquiries from some other coaches who indicated they might be interested in the job.

Best guesses by unofficial sources include the following names as possible candidates: Sharm Scheuerman, former Iowa player and assistant basketball coach for the past two years; Bob Schultz, former Iowa player now head coach at Coe College; and Jack Spencer, another former Iowa player now head coach at Iowa Wesleyan.

Also, Murray Wier, Iowa All-America, now coach at Waterloo-East; Tommy Thompson, former Iowa guard and now coach at Creighton University in Omaha; Ev Cochran, former Iowa player now coach at Boone High School; John Bennington, coach at Drake; and Bill Strannigan, coach at Iowa State.

It is expected that Iowa officials will try to find a successor who will be familiar with the type of offense and defense and style of play taught by O'Connor.

Iowa has almost its entire squad returning next year and will be one of the favorites in the Big Ten race.

Cardinals Want Ashburn, Phillies Express Interest

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The last-place St. Louis Cardinals are trying to swing a deal for a front-line player, presumably Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia.

Bing Devine, general manager of the Cardinals, would not name the club he is negotiating with or the player sought by the Cardinals.

"If we can make one big move to help ourselves, I'd prefer to do it with a regular, a player who might give us a lift every day," Devine said before the Redbirds departed for Cincinnati.

The Phils were reported to have expressed interest in Wally Moon, Joe Cunningham, Dick Schofield, B. G. Smith and Hobie Landrith.

Armbruster Banquet To Be Friday

Coaches, sports executives and former champion swimmers are listed as speakers at the Remembrance Banquet for David A. Armbruster, retiring Iowa swimming coach, here May 2.

The dinner, to be held at Iowa Union at 6:30 p.m., is in recognition of Coach Armbruster's 42 years of developing Iowa swimmers. The coach retires in June and becomes 68 years of age in August.

Irving Weber of Iowa City, member of the banquet arrangements committee and Coach Armbruster's first all-American swimmer, said that everyone is welcome at the dinner. It is not restricted to men or to members of the university community.

Tickets at $2.50 are available at the athletic ticket office in the Fieldhouse or through Robert Allen, assistant swimming coach. It is hoped that all planning to attend will make reservations as soon as possible.

Representing the Iowa Department of Athletics as speakers will be Director Paul Brechler, Dr. George Easton, chairman of the athletic board; and Robert Allen. The Big Ten men who are expected to speak are Coach John Hickman of Wisconsin and Niels Thorpe, retired Minnesota coach.

Former Iowa swimmers are Wally Ris, Olympic 100-meter freestyle champion of 1948; Bowen Stassforth, second in the 1952 Olympic 200-meter breaststroke; and W. W. Lobdell of Rockford, Ill., former champion diver. Frank Havlicek, of St. Paul, Minn., former Iowa athletics business manager, will be another program participant.

Varsity To Face Tough Alumni Sat.

Varsity football players, who have been drilling since April 10, will try to match the experience of some of Iowa's greatest former players Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

First varsity-alumni spring game ever held here, the affair will end spring practice for the varsity squad. The alumni, drawn from many sections, will start drills here Wednesday, under the coaching of Harold Bradley of the Cleveland Browns, line; and Jerry Reichow of the Detroit Lions, backfield.

The grads won't have much time to perfect their tactics or to get in condition, but many of them are in fair shape now. Some 30 to 35 of them are expected—and they date back to Emlen Tunnell, now of the New York Giants, who last played for Iowa in 1947.

In the alumni ranks are such former Hawkeye stars as Ken Ploen, quarterback on the title team of 1956 now playing for the Winnipeg Bombers; Jim Gibbons and Alex Karras, all-Americans who finished in 1957; Frank Gilliam, a great end in 1956; Center Don Suchy, Bob Smith, formerly of the Detroit Lions; Bill Fenton, end; Frank Bloomquist and Bob Commings, guards on the title team; Bill Happel and Mike Hagler, recent fine halfbacks; and Binkey Broeder and Bill Reichardt, fullbacks.

Tennis Team Has Won 42 Of 45 Sets

The opinion of Coach Don Klotz that the 1958 tennis team might be the best in University of Iowa history is well along toward being 100-percent accurate. The Hawkeyes, of course, are not quite at the halfway mark of the dual season but they have a perfect record of five victories, three of them by shutout scores.

Iowa has won 42 of 45 sets in beating Bradley, 9-0; Kalamazoo college, 7-2; Western Michigan, 8-1; Southern Illinois and Wisconsin, each 9-0 on successive days.

Big tests of Big Ten meets are yet to come, starting with Illinois here Saturday. Indiana, Purdue, Michigan State, Minnesota and Ohio State are other league opponents and Notre Dame is a powerful foe.

The first five Iowans now have perfect records of victories and the No. 3 doubles team likewise is unbeaten. Art Andrews, the star No. 1 player who was a semi-finalist in the National Collegiate tournament last year, actually has lost only 15 games, while winning 61, to beat his opponents in straight sets.

Others are Bob Potthast, No. 2, 10 of 11 sets and 66-25 in games; Joe Martin, No. 3, 10 of 12 sets and 67-39 in games; Don Middlebrook, No. 4; and Sophomore Bill Voxman, No. 5. The unbeaten No. 3 doubles team is Milo Larimer and Voxman.

Hawkeyes will rank high among the favorites for the Big Ten championship in the tournament at Evanston, Ill. May 22-24. Iowa never has been higher than third in this meet and the best ranking in the National Collegiate was fourth in 1957.

Los Angeles In Front of Record Attendance Pace

NEW YORK (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers are running ahead of the all-time record attendance pace while spearheading a National League increase of more than 50 per cent over last season.

The Dodgers have hauled in 377,601 customers in nine appearances in the Los Angeles Coliseum. When the Cleveland Indians set the big league record of 2,620,627 in their pennant-winning 1948 season they had 357,844 after nine home games.

The Milwaukee Braves, who established the National League mark of 2,215,404 paid admissions last season, drew 196,746 in their first nine games in County Stadium in 1957.

The Dodgers had a gate total of 109,520 in nine Ebbets Field games a year ago. The capacity in the Brooklyn park is 31,111 and in the Coliseum it is about 94,000.

Although the capacity in Seals Stadium is less than half that of the Polo Grounds (23,448 to 52,000), the San Francisco Giants have played before 168,728 home fans in as many showings in New York in 1957 only 68,695 turned out.

In addition to the Giants and Dodgers only the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals are moving in front of last season's attendance figures. Milwaukee is 6,000 behind. Philadelphia and Cincinnati trail by 25,000 and Pittsburgh by 22,000.

Musial in Great Start For Eighth Bat Championship

NEW YORK (AP)—Stan Musial, speedily closing in on the 3,000 hits mark, is off to a great start in quest of his eighth National League batting championship.

The St. Louis Cardinals' slugger has hit safely in each of the 11 games he's played this year and heads the senior circuit with a .533 average. He has 24 hits in 45 tries and has increased his lifetime total of safe falls to 2,981.

Nineteen more hits will add the 37-year-old Musial to the select group of seven which has 3,000 or more hits. It includes Cap Anson, Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie, Tris Speaker, Honus Wagner and Paul Waner.

Musial won the batting title with a .351 mark last season. That put him only one behind Wagner, who holds the National League record. Cobb owns the major league standard of .342.

In the American League, Rocky Colavito of Cleveland heads the pack with a .423 average. The Bronx youngster, who has shifted from the outfield to first base, has 11 safeties in 26 times at bat.

Richie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies, the 1955 batting champion is followed by Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants with .412 and Don Hoak of Cincinnati and Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh in a fourth place tie at .405.

Harvey Kuenn of Detroit is second in the American League batting race at .415. Brooks Robinson of Baltimore is third with .406.

Gavilan Arrested In Auto Accident

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Former world welterweight champion Kid Gavilan was arrested Monday after his car struck and seriously injured a Chinese, Jose Wu, 50.

Witnesses told police Gavilan was traveling at excessive speed when he hit Wu in Central Havana. The boxer was being held pending further investigation.

Starting Times In National League Are Clarified

CINCINNATI (AP)—The start of daylight savings time, plus some unfamiliarity with Pacific Coast times, is causing confusion among baseball fans as to the times on which major league baseball clubs are operating, says Dave Grote, service director of the National League.

Grote said this is the schedule in the National League: Pittsburgh and Philadelphia play their games on Eastern Daylight Time; Cincinnati is on Eastern Standard Time; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Louis play on Central Daylight Time and Los Angeles and San Francisco on Pacific Daylight Time.

Duke Having Troubles In Home State

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A batting slump, his gippy right knee and the distant right field fence are bothering Duke Snider.

The Dodger outfielder is batting a puny .200, has hit only one home run at San Francisco and the crowds at Memorial Coliseum have been booing him, although he was born in Los Angeles.

"The booing doesn't bother me," says Snider. "I'm used to it. When I am not going good I expect it. I'm supposed to be a long ball hitter. When I don't hit, the fans certainly are entitled to boo. That's part of the game, I'd boo too. I sit in the stands and second guess the Rams and Trojans and the Bruins."

Duke says he more concerned about his knee, which was operated on for removal of a calcium deposit and repair of torn cartilage. The soreness has forced him out of the lineup temporarily.

The thing that worries Snider most is that right field fence "in Outer Mongolia," as the left-handed batters call it.

"You have to learn to hit in your home park," he explains. "At Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, I learned to pull and upcut the ball, so as to ride it over that high but close right field screen. In the Coliseum I am trying to become a line drive hitter and to hit to all fields."

The Duke's power is to dead right. His target is 440 feet away—the deepest point of the park.

Name Happel

BILL HAPPEL, halfback on the 1956 Big Ten and 1957 Rose Bowl champions, has been named freshman football coach at Iowa next season.

A three-letterman, Happel is a graduate of Cedar Rapids McKinley High School.

Happel, who will be 22 in August, will be one of the youngest freshman football coaches in major college football.

Yank Women Win 1st

TIFLIS, Russia (AP)—The American men's basketball team, led by Harvey Schmidt and Buddy Halderman, trounced an Azerbaijan quintet 94-46 Monday night for its third straight victory in the Soviet Union.

The women's team made it a complete success for American invaders, defeating a Georgian female squad 42-37, after losing its first two games in Russia.

Hawks To Meet 2 Big Ten Foes This Weekend

The Iowa baseball team returns home this weekend for a series with Wisconsin and Northwestern with hopes of climbing out of the Big Ten cellar.

The Hawks will face Wisconsin Friday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. and Northwestern will provide the competition in a doubleheader Saturday beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Iowa tumbled to the bottom of the conference standings Saturday when they dropped a doubleheader to Indiana at Bloomington, 6-3, and 6-5. In both games, the Hoosiers overcame early Hawkeye leads to win. In the first game Iowa failed to hold a 3-0 lead and the second game saw them fail to hold a 5-0 advantage.

Les Peden was the outstanding Iowa hitter in the two games as he came up with four hits in six trips to the plate. Peden also collected the only extra base hit of the day for the Hawks when he doubled in the nightcap.

Braves' Covington To Miss Road Trip

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wes Covington, injured outfielder, will not accompany the Milwaukee Braves on a 9-game road trip opening in Chicago today.

Dr. Bruce Brewer examined Covington's knee Monday and said it was coming along fine. He advised a continuance of light workouts and will look at the knee again Thursday.

Covington jammed the knee in a slide during an exhibition game at Dallas, Tex., April 9.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Ismael Valenzuela, leading rider in New York this spring, will ride favored Tim Tam in the Derby Trial Stakes today and it was assumed the little Texan will be aboard the Calumet Farm colt in the $125,000-aided Kentucky Derby Saturday.

Surprise selection of the 24-year-old Valenzuela, one of 22 children, was made by Jimmy Jones, the Calumet trainer. The move was forced because Bill Hartack, Calumet's regular jockey, suffered a broken leg when thrown from a horse two days ago.

Lack of Money—

Classes Donated Boulders to SUI

By ANDREW BYERLEY
Staff Writer

A crowd waited beside Old Capitol one morning in 1870. A wagon rumbled up Clinton Street and lawns. People cheered. The wagon stopped and students unloaded a granite boulder. Iowa City bells began to ring.

Eighty-eight years have passed. The boulder is still on the Old Capitol lawn.

The class of 1870 wanted to give SUI a present. But the class had no money. The students decided to give SUI a boulder, and organized a boulder committee.

The committee found a boulder two miles from Iowa City. One June afternoon SUI students went to get the boulder. The stone was heavy and the students had trouble loading it onto their wagon. By nightfall the students hadn't returned, and some Iowa City residents lighted torches and went to help.

Students and Iowa City people lifted and piled on the stone all night. At 10 the next morning the workers arrived at Old Capitol with the wagon and boulder. Iowa City stores closed and SUI professors dismissed classes. People hurried to see the boulder.

An Iowa City newspaper described the event as "impressive." The University Reporter, which was the SUI newspaper in 1870, said that "all went to see the boulder. Bells were rung, and the American flag waved over all."

Students celebrated late into the night. A group of seniors and one professor held a war dance around the boulder.

The next day students returned to classes. Ten years passed. In 1880 the University Reporter campaigned to get another boulder. The class of 1880 rolled one onto the campus in May, but there was no celebration. People were apparently tired of boulders.

For several years the stones stood alone on the lawn east of Old Capitol. The University Reporter said the boulders were immense. Then SUI began to grow. The stones are now surrounded by large buildings. One stone is marked "Class — 1870." The other stone has the date "1880." The markings are crude.

The University Reporter said the boulders would be "monuments to the size and greatness of SUI in 1880."
