

THIS GOOD MORNING

BOASTING AGAIN. SPORTS CAR SPORT. ECONOMICS STUDY. WAR — VS — PEACE.

by Don Mitchell

Daily Iowan Managing Editor

THE USUAL half-column picture of ugly 'ol me is replaced this week by that of my handsome new nephew, Marc Douglas M. a gathan. He's the first nephew I ever had, and that's an important milestone. On occasions like this, one should get out a special Class of '79 edition; buy a round for the house; give the kid a sports car . . . something!

But alas, Marc will have to be satisfied with being the only kid in his Long Beach, Calif., block who's had his mug in The Daily Iowan — he's 30 years too soon for the other accolades.

IT'S ONLY a matter of days till Nixon will be home giving a tear-jerking account of his bravery and courage in the South American wars. And "Pat" and the dog Checkers will be there crying too. To insure success, I've sent some marines who'll shoot any Latin who's not getting a "good will."

To prove he's just one of the amigos, Nixon limited his caravan to 30 sleek, black Cadillacs.

I'm for Nixon for president — of some other country.

OVERHEARD in city park the other night . . . a couple in a small, foreign sports car:

She sez: "If you think you're going to start a full scale campaign with me, think again bust-er."

He sez: "Don't worry, we've only got room for police action."

A DES MOINES columnist says of me: "trenchant lad who writes with a scowl, he'll mellow."

I've heard stories about a trenchant young SUI man of some years ago who set the grape vine afire — he was a real heller who ran off with a starry-eyed sorority girl.

The girl & money & sulking over the coffee for years have made him mellow now.

FOREIGN STUDENT campaign launched here many weeks ago seems to be stuck. Three Greek organizations will sponsor foreign students for sure and Currier Hall Association and another sorority are thinking it over.

To give a room and board scholarship costs an average house about 70 cents per man per month.

The University will throw in a tuition scholarship.

Here's a place SUI's Greeks — and other organizations — could really shine in doing good and setting a national example. But, alas, "do-good" projects are usually limited to getting pledges to rake the leaves from a couple street corners, and expecting a page of publicity in the paper for it.

CITY COUNCILMEN are in a quandary over often-condemned City Park Bridge. They have two choices.

Build a new one in a hurry. Wait a month and this one will fall down.

NEW VOCABULARY for the recession and the multitude of economic terms its stories bring.

FREE ENTERPRISE: a select club for millionaires who stand for monopoly.

LABOR INTERESTS: human beings who fight back when someone steps on their toes.

MANAGEMENT: human beings who fight back after stepping on someone's toes.

LABOR-MANAGEMENT: Mahogany tables around which human beings sit to arbitrate.

ARBITRATION: a vehicle by which one gains access to the press to shout insults.

PUBLIC WORKS: vote getting technique — way of borrowing money from people who have none to loan them some, for a stiff price.

RECESSION: (two choices) A Republican who's drowning and thinks it's damp out.

A Democrat who's damp and thinks it's drowning.

DEPRESSION: a way to build bridges and dams at twice the regular price.

DEBT: synonym for pursuit of happiness.

ROCK BOTTOM: period in which all are broke.

LEVELING OFF: period in which all are broke but take Milton and don't know it.

INTEREST: a fee that is charged for using money that the bank doesn't own.

ECONOMICS: counting money the hard way.

ECONOMIC ADVISORS: people with money who know all about people without money.

AT SUI you can get 16 hours University credit for ROTC learning war.

How many for peace? GOOD MORNING.

Marines Sent To Aid Nixon

$1,448,000 OK'd By 64% of Voters

Spit, Rocks Greet Veep In Caracas

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower, deeply angered by anti-American rioting in Venezuela, ordered 1,000 Marines and paratroops flown to U.S. Caribbean bases Tuesday to be ready to protect Vice-President Richard M. Nixon if necessary.

The President, described as "hopping mad" about the anti-Nixon demonstrations in Caracas, issued his order after Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told the Venezuelan Government to take "every possible measure" to protect Nixon.

The President acted following consultation with Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The Army paratroopers were flown to Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, and the Marines to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. This put the paratroopers within about two hours flying time of Caracas. The Marines were about three hours flying time away.

A mob smashed the windows of Vice-President Richard M. Nixon's car with clubs and rocks and spat upon him and his wife, Pat. Fast action by U.S. Secret Service agents saved them from possible death or injury. The demonstrators were finally dispersed by tear gas.

Later, Army and Municipal Police fired rifle volleys into the air in an attempt to break up a disturbance at the Presidential Palace as smaller anti-American demonstrations continued throughout the city.

The attack upon the Nixons came after they had braved a gauntlet of spitting demonstrators at the airport and had been jeered at by shouts of "Nixon, Go Home!" Two paper airplanes derisively sailed into the air by a detractor struck the Vice-President at the airport. Mrs. Nixon was heckled by a student who ran up to her shouting, "What about Little Rock?"

The mob ripped the American flag from the car in which the Vice-President was riding and from the limousine carrying Mrs. Nixon. Both cars were spat upon.

The attack occurred just as the caravan of 30 Cadillacs en route from the airport swept into the city's narrow streets.

There had been a minor anti-Nixon demonstration at the airport as the Nixon party arrived from Bogota, Colombia, for the last stop on the eight-nation goodwill tour.

U.S. Secret Servicemen assigned to protect the Nixons on their South American tour used strong-arm methods to throw back the attack by a mob of about 150 persons before Venezuelan police swung into action.

Because of the violence, Nixon canceled all public appearances. He was scheduled to remain until Thursday. He remained in the heavily guarded U.S. Embassy residence and said he would receive all Venezuelan governmental and political officials there rather than going to their offices.

DETROIT (UP) — This is Armed Forces Week, but Detroit Councilman Del A. Smith isn't exactly cooperating.

SUI Prof To Testify In Congress

Clark C. Bloom, SUI professor of Economics and assistant director of the Bureau of Business and Economic Research, will testify Friday before the Joint Economic Committee of the U.S. Congress.

Congressman Wright Patman, (D-Tex.), committee chairman, invited Prof. Bloom, along with other American economists, to contribute to a special hearing on the subject of the relationships of prices to economic stability and growth. Iowa Representative on the Joint Economic Committee is Henry O. Talle, Decorah.

Bloom is secretary of the industry committee of the Governor's Commission on Social and Economic Trends, past chairman of the Iowa Council on Economic Education, a member of the committee on economic education of the American Economics Association, and a trustee of the Joint Council on Economic Education. He directed SUI Summer Workshop on Economic Education in 1951-3.

A native of Muscatine, Bloom has been a member of the SUI College of Commerce faculty since 1946. He is a graduate of Drake University and earned his advanced degrees at SUI.

The disclosure was made by Assistant Attorney General Victor R. Hansen. He said he expected a decision on whether to file a damage suit within a month.

Charges of fixing prices and monopolizing production of the anti-polio vaccine were filed Monday.

Indicted were Eli Lilly & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.; Allied Laboratories, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.; American Home Products Corp., New York; Merck & Co., Rahway, N. J.; and Parke Davis & Co., Detroit.

Pflimlin New French Premier; Algeria Falls in Coup d'Etat

Plan Student Council Traffic Court Election

The SUI Student Council will consider nominations for the Student Traffic Appeals Court at its meeting tonight in the East Lobby Conference Room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

The court makes up the judicial branch of the 3-branch Government. The other branches are executive and legislative.

The court, which will have five members, will have jurisdiction over election and parking appeals. The members will be chosen as follows: one from the men's dormitories, one from the Inter-Fraternity Council, one from the Associated Women Students and two from married students, town men and professional fraternities. The Dean of Students will then approve the nominations before they go into effect.

Len Flander, L2, Iowa City, student body president, said, "We hope to get the court organized and get the chief justice elected this spring so the court will be ready for operation next fall."

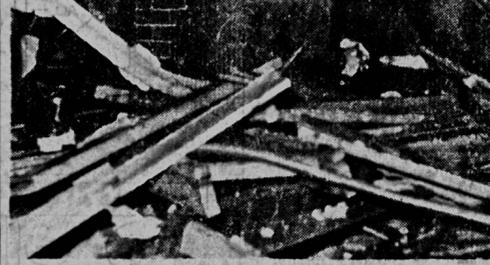

The chief justice will be chosen by the five members of the court from their own body.

In other business the legislative branch will consider the nomination of Marshall Gonsky, C4, Chicago, Ill., for Treasurer.

RUSSIAN CONSIDERED

NEW YORK (AP) — The board of education is considering instituting Russian language classes in selected New York City high schools.

In his annual report Tuesday, Board President Charles H. Silver said a pilot class in Russian is under consideration for Manhattan's Stuyvesant High School.

Murder Described

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The shooting of Robert Jensen, 17, Bennet High School student, was described today to a District Jury hearing the Charles R. Starkweather murder case.

Starkweather, 19, is charged with two counts in Jensen's death last Jan. 27.

The red-haired defendant followed a mimeographed copy intently as County Attorney Elker Scheele read Starkweather's signed statement to the court.

In it, Starkweather told of getting stuck on a rural road and Jensen and a girl companion, Carol King, 16, of Bennet, driving past.

The statement said he killed Jensen with a .22 caliber rifle stolen from the August Meyer farm nearby. Meyer was one of 11 persons in whose deaths Starkweather has admitted involvement.

Firemen extinguished a fire in the old SUI laundry building about 9 p.m. Tuesday night.

The building, located at northeast corner of the intersection of Gilbert street and Iowa avenue, is being dismantled by workmen.

Firemen were unable to determine immediately the extent of damage caused by the fire because of the dismantling process.

No one was in the building at the time of the fire.

Firemen unofficially speculated that the fire was caused by sparks left from the blowtorches workmen were using in the afternoon to remove beams from the building.

The building is owned by the Conway wrecking company of Cedar Rapids. They are razing to make way for the new State Historical Building which is to be erected at that site.

The fire was reported by Elmer Paul, 410 Iowa Ave., who lives near the old laundry building. He said that flames were shooting from the southeast corner of the basement by the time firemen arrived on the scene.

In minutes firemen had the fire under control.

PARIS (AP) — The French National Assembly defied a military ultimatum from Algeria and approved Pierre Pflimlin as premier early this morning.

The official vote count gave Pflimlin a 274-129 victory to make him head of France's 25th postwar Government.

There were 136 abstentions. The Assembly action followed heated demonstrations in Paris itself. Thousands of shouting Parisians broke through police barriers and marched on the Assembly building Tuesday. They protested any softening of French policy toward rebellious Algeria.

There was some fighting and several dozen arrests before the demonstrators were driven off.

Pflimlin, 51-year-old head of the Catholic Popular Republican Movement — MRP, won out largely through the indirect lift given him by the Communists. In last minute decision, they abstained instead of voting against Pflimlin as they originally planned.

The French National Assembly broke up in wild disorder after the Communists had protested the formation in Algiers of "an illegal and insurrectional Government against the republic."

A tough French parachute general Jacques Massu boldly set up a rightist military regime in Algiers in the midst of anti-American and anti-Paris rioting.

The general challenged the lame duck Government in Paris to join him in a revolutionary effort to suppress the Algerian nationalist rebellion by force alone.

It capped a day of violence directed against the transitory French Government of Paris and both French and American establishments in Algeria, the violence-ridden capital of French North Africa.

He proclaimed himself head of a committee of "public salvation" and declared he will not leave until a similar regime is set up in Paris.

In effect, Massu's bid for iron rule puts his military group against the Algerian rebels and against any French politicians showing any sign of moderation toward them.

Tuesday's rioting erupted in protest to Pierre Pflimlin's bid in Paris to win approval as French premier.

Lebanon charged Tuesday night a force of 500 had invaded from Syria and blown up a customs house in a campaign of terrorism by President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

The sorely pressed Government fought off mob violence, much of it expressed as anti-Americanism, for the fifth straight day.

Six persons were killed in the border-crossing incident, Foreign Minister Charles Malik announced.

By ANN HARRINGTON Staff Writer

Iowa City voters decisively approved a $1,448,000 bond issue Tuesday for construction of a new junior high school and rehabilitation of the present buildings.

Official tally of the vote showed 2,821 voting yes, 1,558 no, and 33 spoiled ballots. Minimum for acceptance was 60 per cent, and the official percentage was 64.9 per cent.

This was the fourth vote on the junior high issue in the past 21 months.

Iowa City school board members and School Study Council officials were elated at the results of the election and cited the work of the board's public information committee as being instrumental in the election outcome.

George Gay, president of the School Board said, "I would like to thank those voting for passing our school program. We will do our best to make it a good school system."

"I had predicted it would be between 61 and 64 per cent. This is a victory for Iowa City and especially for the school children. When our citizens really understood the problem, they were willing to help," said Dr. Eugene Van Epps, SUI head of Radiation in the College of Medicine.

"The school is a fine addition for the children and the community," Mrs. Dorothy Darling said happily.

Elwin T. Jolliffe, SUI vice-president said, "I am very pleased with the results. I had not lost confidence in the people of Iowa City and was certain that the bond issue would be approved when the citizens understood the issues. The School Study Council has played an important part in better community understanding."

Gay told The Daily Iowan Tuesday night that the School Board would confer with architects about the new school at tonight's regular monthly meeting.

The bond issue will provide $1,448,000 for a new junior high school and $180,000 to finance the construction of a corridor to connect the present two Junior High buildings.

Included in the new school which will accommodate 600 students will be 16 regular classrooms, two physical arts classrooms, five practical education classrooms and one stage for music and dramatics.

The $180,000 appropriated for old junior high rehabilitation will be used to finance a new electrical and lighting system, a remodeled heating system, installation of smoke screens and the corridor.

The site for the new school is a 27 acre tract of land north of the Rock Island Railroad tracks and east of First avenue. It was purchased by the school board in 1955 after a study indicated the need for a school in that area.

Bond issues have been previously rejected, twice in 1956 with a plan similar to the one just accepted, and once in April when a remodel proposal to the present junior high alone was rejected.

Few Tickets Left For SUI Concert

Only 200 tickets remain for the University Symphony Orchestra and Chorus concert to be presented at 8 p.m. tonight, according to the lobby information desk in Iowa Memorial Union.

SUI students may pick up tickets until concert time by showing their identification cards at the desk.

James A. Dixon, SUI music instructor, will conduct the final orchestra and chorus concert of the 1957-58 season.

The groups will perform "Symphony No. 2 in C Minor" by Gustav Mahler.

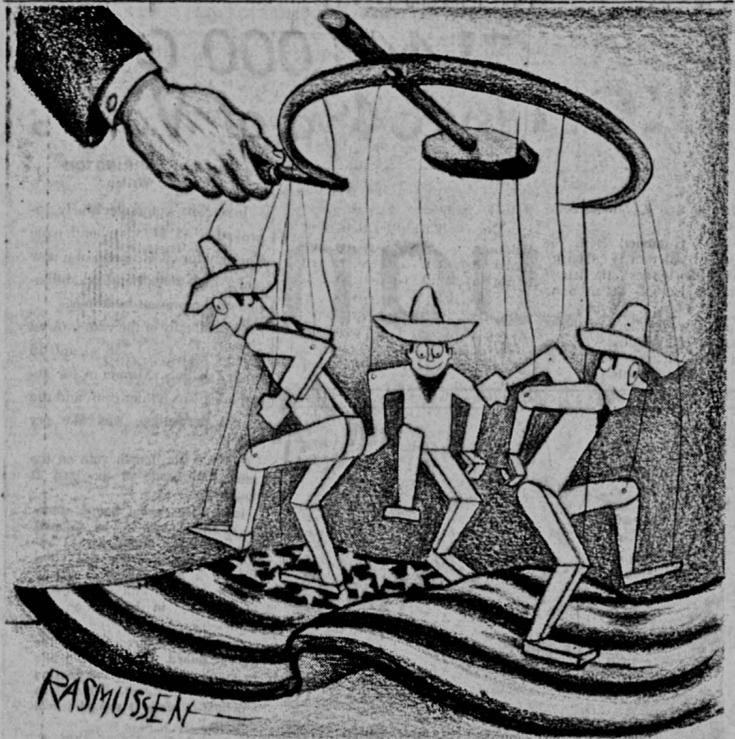

Soloists will be Lillian Chookasian, faculty member at Northwestern University, and Leslie Eitzen, SUI instructor in voice.

$375 Million Passed For Cities by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Tuesday night passed 46-39 and sent to the House a bill making available $375 million of Federal funds to cities and rural areas with chronic unemployment.

The depressed areas bill had strong bipartisan Senate support although the Eisenhower Administration opposed it with the argument that the amounts of Federal aid authorized were excessive.

The bill authorizes $300 million in revolving loans — $100 million each for industrial redevelopment, for rural redevelopment and for community facilities to enable an area to attract new industry. In addition, $75 million in annual grants are authorized for the latter purpose.

New South American Folk Dance - Our Fault, or Theirs?

Labor Immobility

By GEORGE KAUFMAN

Much like it has witnessed the disappearance of the wandering herds of Bisons from its Western Plains, the American scene may soon lose the sight of streams of workers migrating from one part of the country to another.

The worker of the 1800's and early 1900's was quite independent. It did not take much to make him pick up his belongings and travel with his family to a new area if he believed that better conditions were to be found there.

In economic terms, the relative mobility of labor helped dampen and shorten the fluctuations in economic activity, as labor moved from over-developed, high unemployment areas to labor scarce locations.

all this. No longer is the worker a wanderer, but like the farmer he has become rooted to the land, and has little desire to move. To a large extent he has become a homeowner. He has thereby become a more integrated part of the community and associates himself with it.

Statistics clearly reveal the trend towards labor immobility. Since before 1954 Muskegon, Michigan and Terre Haute, Indiana have both been consistently classified by the Department of Labor as areas of substantial labor surplus.

immobility, become of the utmost importance for economic stabilization policy. Are the common remedies for combating unemployment still valid? Should the same cures be used to fight unemployment due to a change in consumer tastes causing some industries to slow down production and consequently decrease employment, as for unemployment due to pervasive cyclical factors?

Clearly that is not only labor's problem but that of the entire economy. Are steps to be taken to make labor more mobile again and respond to the changing stimulus in the economy? If so, what measures can be undertaken?

Communists Giving Nehru Trouble

By J. M. ROBERTS

Prime Minister Nehru of India has been doing some pondering without waiting for his vacation in the Himalayas.

You will recall that "Mr. India" tried to resign his official duties the other day so he could do more thinking.

His Congress party, prime mover in the movement for independence from Britain, went into a flap. It didn't have anyone to replace him at a time when serious political opposition was beginning to make itself felt.

Nehru was primarily disturbed by signs of decadence in the party. He wanted to study its problems, and its relationship to the problems of India. It was a program entirely natural for the disciple of Gandhi.

office, but will take a vacation, carrying his problems to the mountain solitudes for a limited rather than an indefinite time.

In the meantime, the Indian Communists have been taking advantage of Congress party troubles to push their own interests, and to assert themselves more vocally in world communism.

Nehru has tried to consider Indian affairs within the limits of India, becoming the world's chief exponent of neutralism in the cold war while being rough with the Communists at home.

Then the Indian Communists joined the other Kremlin followers in their recent attacks on Titoism in Yugoslavia.

outsiders, interfering in the internal affairs of another country.

Shoving into the background all the sweet words from Moscow to which he has listened, he went on: "In the last year or two much has happened in the Communist world. Sometimes it is called liberalization, sometimes democratization, sometimes 'let a hundred flowers bloom and a hundred opinions flourish.' All that has happened. Then the reverse process also has taken place and all the flowers became weeds to be pulled out.

Nehru also took pains to explain that the socialism he advocates for India is not one which leads to international communism.

Do you suppose he is beginning to see that communism outside India is as dangerous as that within it? Is he being rushed away from neutralism?

Impressions from America

American Car As A Symbol of American Society

By GUY JALLOT

The European who arrives by boat for the first time in the harbor of New York, with a wilted eye, the gift of five or seven days on the sea, wakes up suddenly at the precious apparition of mobile lights moving quietly along the rectilinear coast of Long Island.

Those lights, in the New York dawn, are not alone. (Indeed, a swarm of lights dance in the mist). But they are the only ones which actually strike the foreigner, for they glide in a continuous line. Their mobility and their number give them their importance. They are the automobile lights.

These lights of the American car are the first ones to welcome the foreigner. This phenomenon, on the day of his arrival, is wonderfully impressive. It is not until later that he will realize their full significance. The car in America is of capital importance. She is also like a mirror which reflects the genuine features of the society where she is born.

Through the distinctive characteristics of the American car I will attempt to define again the fundamental aspects of America, (power, quantity, democracy, mobility, distance, puritanism, nomadism and laissez-faire) and to point out a new orientation of this new world in evolution.

The power of the six or eight cylinders engine of the American car gives me the image of the economic power of America; the number more than necessary of horse-power and headlights (sometimes eight) give me the proof of the unconscious wastefulness of Americans; the presence in the bars of all "Bric-a-Brac" of all sorts of things (hangers, tennis balls, clothes, etc.) presents a picture of the American laissez-faire; the typically American habit to eat, to sleep, or to see a movie sitting in his car is a representation of the American pragmatism and avoidance of physical effort.

The multiple and bright colors are multiple. Perhaps the most original is to shelter from the public eyes lovers' expansibility. Here I discover another American feature: puritanism or hypocrisy. In France, people kiss each other where they want to and when they want to. In America you are conditioned and if you are not wealthy enough to buy a car you are condemned to never know what is love.

veal to me another American characteristic. America is the country of color. European cars are uniformly more or less grey. Here, American cars look like tropical butterflies. They are red, blue, green and many times bi-colored. Those colors evoke also this certain American romanticism.

The car is as numerous in America as the penguin in the ice-floe. Here, unlike in European countries, every family has its own car and sometimes two or more. (For some of you, who may think that we have no cars in France, I add this fact: France's output for 1958-1959 will be about 1,200,000 cars and trucks). America is, in fact, the country with a predilection for numbers, for quantity and for democracy, characteristics of which people usually speak.

In the comfort that the American car offers, it's very easy to recognize the national taste for comfort. The European cars with their dimensions let it be supposed that we like sardine cans.

Now, the car stands for the wagon coach. It emphasizes the American nomadism. In Europe, unlike America, people who are born and die in the same place are not rare. The American who was formerly an immigrant is now a migrant. His mobility is extreme. The car is to Americans what the camel is to the Tuaregs of the desert.

The roles of the American car are multiple. Perhaps the most original is to shelter from the public eyes lovers' expansibility. Here I discover another American feature: puritanism or hypocrisy. In France, people kiss each other where they want to and when they want to. In America you are conditioned and if you are not wealthy enough to buy a car you are condemned to never know what is love.

The circumstance that Americans use their car for buying a pack of cigarettes at the corner of the street when an European will walk makes me realize that soon we will see appearing a new social type in America. Americans do not to walk any more and thanks to the French transformist, Lamarck, I think that their feet, now unuseful and anachronistic, are going to fade away amid so cruel an environment. Besides, as far as I am concerned, I like this eventually, for a foot has been always rather un-aesthetic.

For several weeks, on the air, in the newspapers, everywhere, they speak about the sudden slowdown of sales and production of American cars and trucks. Already producers announce the creation of a new model of car for 1960 which will have in comparison with the former model a less powerful engine, (consequently more economical) an unchanged body (in the future smaller), a lower height and more conservative colors. In other words, they announce a radical change: The cars of the future will be a revolution.

According to the theory that a car reflects the features of the society where she is created, this revolution in cars spells a revolution in society, for a new model corresponds to a new era.

As for me, she will reflect the image of a country "all shook up" by the Russian Sputnik and its dog, weakened by too heavy taxes, swallowed up by rockets, worried by foreign competition and by unemployment. The result will be a model closer to the European one since America has more difficulties than ever before.

It's very symptomatic to read that the colors will be more conservative, the height lower and certainly the body smaller in the future. It sounds like a passage of a certain tamed romanticism, of a kind of classicism. The word "conservative" is very significant. This orientation marks a very important new phase. This curve could be considered, on the economical level, as a sign of weakening of a country which, until now, was advancing with giant pace but which has bled herself too generously in a total, cruel and merciless race for military power.

However, this change can be interpreted, with more sympathy, as a sign precursor of the anxiously expected budding of a civilization which is now five hundred years old, or, in other words, of the intellectual and artificial budding of the New World which enters maturity and seems to have reached "l'age de raison" at the moment when others have lost it.

labor union, musicians union, union suits, and now student union. It must be that I just don't understand this union stuff. I do know that you have to be a laborer of some kind to get into a labor union. You have to be a musician of some kind to get into a musicians union. . . . now I ask you . . . how come there are so many members in the student union?

I didn't mean to imply that the union is new on campus. It's just that I have never been there before. Before last week, every time I walked up to the front door of the union I looked at the name and decided it was no place for me. I'm a pretty lively dog, how come they call it the Iowa memorial union?

Last week I finally got up enough nerve to pitter-patter into the student union and do some sniffing around. I went in the north wing (the one with the tent over the entrance) and found myself in the east lobby. Now that's a good trick!

Following my nose I found what is called the main lounge area, what a time a real dog could have in that room. All those davenport and lounge chairs. . . . facing the walls, arf, no one would ever be able to find an old dog.

There is only one thing that I don't like about the main lounge. I don't know who built the place but I'll bite his leg off if I ever find out that what nerve!! a fine place like that without one piller!!

I will have to admit that they did do a fine job of construction though. It has really held up well, then I went into the new lounge and noticed the fine job of construction there. The pillars are great, but the cracks on the floor hurt my paws. The cracks in the walls make me reiterate. . . . yep, they sure did a good job building the old union.

by the time I got to the information desk, I was pretty thirsty and couldn't reach the drinking fountain. Then I noticed that there was a place called the river room. Dog-gone if I wasn't fooled. That room is almost as dry as the rest of the state. They sure come up with some logical stuff around here, don't they?

Next I went in a beautiful room decorated in blue that was called the gold feather room. I was a bit afraid to enter. At first glance, I thought that this was where they held the lab sections for the engineers that were learning about bridges. One engineering student was trying to impress me, I think, he had one of those telescopes set up down there and kept yelling out numbers. I wasn't really too sure what 36-21-36 meant, but then I am not trying to engineer anything.

attempting to court a co-ed in the gold feather room is like a football game. Just when the line is going strong, a little interference ruins everything.

I was really disgusted with the goings on in the dark booths. I just hope the students realize that the glances a co-ed gives a college man over cokes which seem so sweet may be less charming over shredded wheat.

I thought that Benny was big, but we have some t-shirted jokers on this campus that live at the onion and are muscular monsters. There is only one reason that I can come up with for their insistence of wearing the tan uniform. I think it is so that instructors will not forget who's paying the bills. After all it is out of season for most sports and if you can't keep your name in front of the public. . . . keep your t-shirt there.

After my little visit to the onion, I decided it was time to go back to the old haunts of old capitol. It was just about time for the bell to ring between classes and I haven't barked at them for a long time. . . . so arf, arf.

p.s. a very human columnist on the daily Iowan staff feels very strongly that every green house on campus should support a foreign student, without the publicity of this column, I have carried on a campaign of my own. I feel it is now time to announce the results thus far. Here is the box score including this past week:

foreign students . . . ato, dg, alpha z delt canines . . . phi delt, delta chi, aepi go canine greeks!

Counterattack Fails As Bees Won't Budge

In the spring every bee's fancy turns to swarming, much to the dismay of a local filling station operator.

The bees picked a gas pump at the Riverside Shell Station for their swarm early Tuesday afternoon. They were still around at 5:30 p.m., even after attempts were made to drown them, Paul Christian, operator of the station, said.

"The greatest problem is that they occasionally get in the customers' cars," Christian said. "I've been working around them all day and haven't gotten stung yet."

He said he planned to wait until dark, and if they were not gone then he would try throwing kerosene on them. He hadn't decided what to do if the kerosene failed to quell their "gas pumping" activities.

Last University Play of Season—

Alchemist Describes Confidence Game

You've heard of the con game? Well, so had Ben Jonson when he wrote his play "The Alchemist" in the Seventeenth century.

Jonson describes in his play the confidence game as it operated in Elizabethan times.

The University Theatre will close its current drama season with a production of "The Alchemist" which will run Thursday through Saturday and May 21-24.

Davis G. Schaal, assistant professor in Speech and Dramatic Arts and director of the play, explained why this play was chosen for production.

He said although Shakespeare is the best-known Elizabethan playwright, Jonson was recognized as one of the great English writers during his own lifetime.

Schaal explained that Jonson's type of comedy differs from Shakespeare's in that Shakespeare wrote romantic comedies with complicated plots and varying locales. Jonson's comedy is more realistic, says Schaal: "The Alchemist" takes place right in London and the characters are taken directly from Elizabethan times.

Schaal says that although the play was first produced almost 350 years ago, he is directing the play almost exactly as Jonson wrote it.

Schaal said the only changes made were the deletion of some passages which wouldn't be understood today, or which might make the plot drag.

The plot of the play hinges on the avarice and greed of men. The "con" man is Subtle, who has as his accomplices Dol Common and Face, a butler who has procured his master's house as headquarters for their operations.

Subtle poses as an alchemist, and the philosopher's stone which is to transmute base metal into gold proves an irresistible attraction to a lawyer's clerk, a tabacconist, the distinguished Sir Epicure Mammon, and the two pious

One of the ironies in the play is that it takes a poke at the Puritans, who were opposed to the theater. In 1642, 32 years after the play was first produced by Shakespeare's Theatre company, the Puritans were responsible for closing the theaters.

Stan Smashes Pinch Double for 3,000 Hit

Musial's Belt Vital As Cards Trip Cubs, 5-3

CHICAGO (AP)—Stan (The Man) Musial, hastily summoned as a pinch-hitter despite a well-advertised day off, joined a handful of baseball immortals Tuesday by smashing a game-turning double for his 3,000th major league hit and a 5-3 victory for his St. Louis Cardinals over the Chicago Cubs.

Seven others collected 3,000 or more big league hits. Musial, who was supposed to have been benched Tuesday so he could hit No. 3,000 in St. Louis Wednesday night. He was yanked from a sunny perch in the Card bull-pen in the sixth inning and belted his epic two-bagger which started a four-run Card rally.

It was the sixth win in a row for St. Louis over the error-plagued Cubs, who lost their seventh straight.

Musial had a 2-2 count, fouling off three pitches, before he tagged Chicago's Moe Drabowsky for a long double into deep left field. After a swarm of photographers besieged Stan on second base, he left for pinch-runner Frank Barnes.

Musial batted for Card starter Sam Jones after Gene Green led off the St. Louis sixth with a double and Hal Smith grounded out. Green scored on Musial's hit and before the inning ended, a walk, Don Blasingame's single, an infield out and Wally Moon's double scored three more runs.

'Glad That's Over With,' Says Musial

CHICAGO (AP)—"Well, I'm glad that's over with," said Stan Musial shortly after cracking out his 3,000th major league hit Tuesday in the unfamiliar role of a pinch-hitter.

The two-base hit sparked a rally which led to a 5-3 victory for his St. Louis Cardinals over the Chicago Cubs.

"For the last three days so many people were giving it so much attention that . . ."

Just then another wave of photographers came up the lane which leads from the dugout to the clubhouse. Musial, ever the gentleman, fulfilled all posing requests and answered all questions.

"It isn't every day a man gets his 3,000th hit," said The Man. "I knew it was in there and I'm sure glad it was a good, clean shot."

When Musial drove his double into left field in the sixth inning of the game, play was suspended. The ball was retrieved and given to Musial and photographers dashed on the field.

St. Louis Manager Fred Hutchinson also walked out and congratulated Musial. Hutchinson then sent in a pinch runner for The Man. What did he say out there?

"Hutch said he also wished I had gotten the hit in St. Louis," said Musial.

Hutchinson had benched the man in hopes Musial would get the hit at St. Louis where the Cardinals play tonight. Musial also had hoped to get the big hit at home.

But with the Cubs leading 3-1 in the sixth, Hutchinson sent him to bat for starting pitcher Sam Jones. On a 2-2 count, Musial slashed his hit down the left field line.

After coming off the field, Musial walked over to the stands and kissed his wife, Lillian.

Musial said the pitch he hit on the momentous occasion was a curve ball.

"I'm glad it came off Moe (Drabowsky)," said Musial. "He's always been tough on me and I know he's a good pitcher who is going to be around for a long time."

A REWARD FOR HIS 3,000th hit was given Stan Musial Tuesday by his wife who kissed the St. Louis Cardinal great after he hit a pinch double in the sixth inning of the Cub-Card game in Chicago. Musial got the reward shortly after the hit when he was removed from the game.—AP Wirephoto.

Mays' Bat Sizzles; L.A. Drops Farther in Cellar

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Willie Mays and Daryl Spencer hit two homers apiece for the second day in a row as San Francisco belted Los Angeles 16-9 Tuesday.

Mays, who now has seven home runs in four games, also struck two mighty triples, hit a single, drove in four runs, scored four himself and stole a base.

Charlie Neal hit two home runs for Los Angeles, driving in four runs, and Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges delivered each a circuit clout.

MAYS Orlando Cepeda hit one over the left field screen for the Giants.

Neal's first homer was the first ever to clear the right field barrier in the coliseum.

The Giants set a modern National League record for a total bases in one game, with 50. St. Louis set the previous high 49, in 1940.

Starter Don Newcombe, a two-time loser who went 2½ innings, took the loss, giving up seven runs.

Allan Werthington, who came in for the Giants in the third and lasted through the eighth, got his third victory of the season.

Attendance was 10,507 paid, one of the smallest crowds of the season here.

The victory, coupled with Milwaukee's loss to Philadelphia, elevated the Giants into first place in the National League.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies, accused of staggering around the field like amateurs earlier Tuesday, defeated the Milwaukee Braves 5-2 Tuesday night behind the pitching of veteran Robin Roberts. The Phillies cracked the Braves' seven-game winning streak.

Roberts held the first-place Braves to six hits and won his second game after losing four straight. His first victory was against the Braves 3-2 in Connie Mack Stadium April 20. The Phils ended a four-game losing string, too.

It was Roy Hamey, Phillies general manager, who had said earlier that the players were staggering around the field like amateurs.

Yanks' Larsen Homers, Hurls 4-Hit Shutout

NEW YORK (AP)—Right-hander Don Larsen stayed unbeaten, ran his shutout string to 23 innings, hit his second home run of the season and blanked Baltimore on four hits for his third victory Tuesday night as the New York Yankees defeated the Orioles 3-0.

Larsen, kept idle for three weeks by shoulder trouble and rain, also singled and walked for a perfect night at the plate while winning his sixth in a row over his old mates. He walked four and struck out one while gaining his second shutout of the year.

Connie Johnson lost his third, second to the Yankees, in four decisions. Larsen's homer, No. 10 in his six-year major league career, cracked a scoreless duel with two out in the fifth. Hank Bauer's two-run double, following Larsen's two-out walk and Norm Siebern's second two-bagger, wrapped up scoring in the seventh.

Here is the rundown:
National League—Milwaukee (3), Philadelphia (3), Chicago (3), Cincinnati (2), San Francisco (2), Pittsburgh (2), St. Louis (2), Los Angeles (1).

American League—Detroit (3), New York (3), Kansas City (2), Chicago (2), Washington (1), Boston (1), Cleveland (1).

The Los Angeles Dodgers got down to 26 men Monday by sending three young pitchers and an outfielder to their farm system.

Left-handed pitcher Jackie Colman was assigned to Montreal, right-hander Ron Negray was sent to St. Paul and another right handed pitcher, Larry Sherry, was sent to Spokane. Outfielder Don Demeter wound up at St. Paul.

The champion Milwaukee Braves must get rid of three players. Possibilities include three pitchers—Carlton Willey, Don Kaiser and Humberto Robinson—as well as outfielder-infielder Harry Hanebrink.

With the San Francisco Giants, who must chop two, indications are that the ax will fall on pitcher Pete Burnside and catcher Nick Testa.

The Philadelphia Phillies, three over, probably will drop first baseman Frank Herrera, a pitcher and a utility infielder. The Cincinnati Redlegs are looking for a trade but catcher Dutch Doffener and pitchers Charlie Rabe and Bill Wight are on the danger list.

The Pirates and Cardinals each must cut two. The Pirates probably will prune their pitching staff.

The New York Yankees, with a bulge of three players, will not make a decision until they get firmer notice on the injured Moose Skowron, who will be out from three to five weeks. Infielders Fritz Brickell and Marv Throneberry, pitcher Al Cicotte and outfielder Enos Slaughter are the most vulnerable.

The Kansas City Athletics must drop two, probably from among pitchers Bud Daley, Ray Herbert, Carl Duser or Walter Craddock. The Tigers are likely to dispense with two pitchers from among Joe Presko, Hank Aguirre and Tom Morgan and an outfielder, either Bill Taylor or Johnny Groth.

The Senators are one above the limit and the best guess is that second baseman Jerry Snyder will receive the knife.

Sox Bounce A's

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Early Wynn pitched a steady nine-hit ball game Tuesday night and Chicago easily bested the Kansas City Athletics 9-2, aided by the A's sloppy pitching and poor defensive play.

Wynn and Lollar, Burnette, Herbert (4), Daley (5), Gorman (6), Dickson (8) and Smith. L—Burnette.
Home runs—Chicago, Smith (2), Kansas City, De Maestri.

Hazle Returns Today

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Bob (Hurricane) Hazle, who was struck on the head by a ball pitched by Larry Jackson of the St. Louis Cardinals May 7, will rejoin the Milwaukee Braves in Philadelphia today, the club said Tuesday.

Majors Face Cut Down Time Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The major leagues must run at least 30 players off their rosters before midnight today to get within the 25-player limit.

Only one team, Baltimore, is down to size. The others must get rid of from one to three players each before the cutback deadline.

Clubs are permitted to carry 30 men for the first month of the season and then must chop to 25 before May 15. This excludes players carried on the service roll—men just returned from service.

The Orioles announced their roster was pat after asking waivers on veteran infielder Eddie Miksis for outright release and recalling Don Moeller, 19-year-old left-handed pitcher from Vancouver.

The latest count, subject to continuing changes, showed the National League with a total of 18 excess players, the American with 13.

Here is the rundown:
National League—Milwaukee (3), Philadelphia (3), Chicago (3), Cincinnati (2), San Francisco (2), Pittsburgh (2), St. Louis (2), Los Angeles (1).

American League—Detroit (3), New York (3), Kansas City (2), Chicago (2), Washington (1), Boston (1), Cleveland (1).

Phils Staggering Like Amateurs, Says Hamey

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—General Manager Roy Hamey Tuesday charged his Philadelphia Phillies with staggering around the field like amateurs.

Hamey, a combination of an angry and disgusted man, pulled no punches as he ripped into the sixth-place Phillies, losers of seven of their last nine games.

He indicated that more than the three players who must be dropped by Thursday to meet the May 15 squad limit of 25 may be on their way out.

"What's the use of keeping them around," he asked.

Hamey insists the Phillies have enough talent to cope with any team in the National League. "That is," he said, "if we ever start hitting and stop making mistakes. I can't understand it. Those players are making big money and staggering around the ball field like amateurs."

"I agree that something should be done, but I won't listen to that business about the manager being to blame."

"I don't go for that," he said. "It's easy to fire the manager. But he (Mayo Smith) can't hit. Field or think for them. And here

Jones Favors Tim Tam in Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP)—Tim Tam got a warm pat on the back from trainer Jimmy Jones Tuesday—a timely reminder that the Calumet colt still is the one to beat in Saturday's $100,000-added Preakness.

Jones' strong words of praise, coming after a long period of caution even after Tim Tam won the Kentucky Derby May 3, were evoked by one of the constant references to Silky Sullivan.

"Listen, you don't have to be big to win, as long as you've got it here," Jones replied, thumping his chest.

A horse with only a little talent can go a long way with heart and courage."

Wessels Returns from Australia Trip; Explains Impressions to Kiwanians

By TED RASMUSSEN Staff Writer

Dr. Kenneth Wessels, SUI head of Preventive Dentistry, who returned from a ten month stay in Australia last December, told the Iowa City Kiwanis Club Tuesday about some of his many impressions of the "land down under."

Among Australian aborigines who have had virtually no contact with civilization, he said, dental disease is non-existent, and the general state of health is excellent. Wessels advised Australian authorities about setting up programs of preventive dentistry and water fluoridation.

When the natives leave their diet of jackrabbits and grub worm larvae for the more refined delicacies of the white man, said Wessels, the physical condition generally suffers. Wessels commented, however, that from his point of view, he did not believe perfect health was "quite worth a steady diet of rabbits and roasted worms."

Since three-fourths of the continent of Australia receives only ten inches of rainfall a year, farms, or "stations" must be very large in order to be economically feasible. The arid farms, suitable for little more than sheep raising, he said, sometimes are as large as 2,000 square acres.

When a farm family which has no neighbors for perhaps fifty miles needs medical service, a "flying doctor" from the nearest large town lands his ambulance plane on the farm within a few hours after being contacted by short wave radio—a necessary piece of farm equipment.

Almost as troublesome to the farmer as the lack of rainfall, Wessels pointed out, is the tremendous jack rabbit population.

"One jack rabbit," he said, "can hold its own with a sheep when it comes to grain and grass consumption."

Consequently, he explained,

Language Rehabilitation Is Subject of Lecture

Dr. Hildred Scheull, who received her Ph.D. at SUI and is director of the Aphasia Division of Neurology at the Minneapolis Veterans Administration Hospital, will lecture Thursday, at 8:00 p.m. in Shambaugh Auditorium.

Mrs. Scheull will talk on "The Breakdown of Language Processes in Aphasia."

Mrs. Scheull is well known in the field of language rehabilitation.

Photos by SUI Prof Feature of Magazine

Featured as a "One-Man Show" in the current issue of "Leica Photography" is the photographic work of C. G. Christofides, SUI assistant professor of Romance Languages.

Christofides has received several American and European awards. His photographs have been exhibited at the Rackham Galleries, Ann Arbor, Mich.; the Detroit Institute of Arts; and the Rochester Art Gallery. The Toledo Museum of Art purchased four of his photographs for its collection.

July Draft Quota Remains at 10,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army issued a draft call Tuesday for 10,000 men in July, the same quota as was announced for June.

Monthly Selective Service quotas, starting in February, went to 13,000 and the Defense Department said that level would probably be maintained throughout the year.

On April 22, however, the Pentagon dropped the June quota to 10,000, saying greater numbers of young men were enlisting voluntarily.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

Dr. Leland D. Anderson, SUI professor and head of Dental Technicians, was re-elected president of the SUI College of Dentistry's Class of 1924 at the group's annual reunion recently.

giant "rabbit fences," some over two thousand miles long, stretch across the continent.

Drives are held periodically, said Wessels, with the object of driving the rabbits to a corner of the fenced areas where they can be slaughtered in wholesale lots.

Just as Australia is a land of many contrasts, Wessels told the Kiwanians, it is also a land of vast desolate wastelands. In the interior, he explained, it is possible to ride a train which follows tracks which stretch for hundreds of miles without turning one inch to the left or right.

The climate, he said, is mild—about like Los Angeles, minus smog. Wessels said that during the winter the temperature in the houses was kept "lower than we are used to in America, probably due to the lack of central heating."

Wessels pointed out that while the average Australian is a man of conservative tastes, he definitely has his likes and dislikes. The average Australian workingman is partial to his pint of beer at the end of the day, and likes nothing better than to bet on horse races, Wessels said.

"If enough money is left over," he quipped, "the man from down under buys a national lottery ticket on his way to work and generally throws it away on his way home." The lottery, he said, supports many hospitals in addition to providing a sizable sum daily of tax-free winnings.

Wessels believes that there is a strong affinity between Australians and Americans, largely because both countries are young and active.

"There is even a similarity between the conduct of Australians at their football (similar to our game of soccer) games, and the conduct of the old Brooklyn Dodgers fans," he said.

"The enthusiasm of the Australian football fan," said Wessels, "is so great that the referee has to be wheeled on and off the field in a portable cage-like shelter—to avoid flying pop bottles thrown by irate fans."

Ten Cheerleaders Selected

Ten cheerleaders for the 1958-59 squad were elected Tuesday at final tryouts in Macbride Auditorium.

Those selected were: Sandra Pollack, N1, Highland Park, Ill.; Jean Hansen, A3, Cedar Falls; Nancy Delima, A3, Scarsdale, N.
