LIST OF GREEK organizations planning to sponsor foreign students starting next fall is growing. Sponsorship includes a full grant of room and board. To this the University adds a scholarship for tuition.

It looks as if at least six foreign students will attend SUI next year through the efforts of Greeks. Sororities which will have foreign students include Delta Gamma, Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Zeta and Sigma Delta Tau. So far only one fraternity, Alpha Tau Omega, has presented a foreign student with a scholarship — the second in two years.

The six Greek houses participating could be expanded to 33 to make it 100 per cent.

IOWA CITY POLICEMEN could make a real killing if they'd forget the parking meters for a while and hike out after the big trucks on the North Dubuque speedway. An unofficial poll, conducted by me, finds no truck observing the 35-mile an hour law.

IF THE HORRIBLE political turmoil continues in France there easily could be a civil war. The wind up would probably be that Russia would get half and the U.S. would get half. With our Dulles luck the Russians would get the Riviera.

THE FRENCH actually follow the old American policy of fair play. In grade schools here a different kid gets to be blackboard monitor each week — the French like government that way — so no one gets his feelings hurt.

'ROMEO' TRUJILLO spent so much money on Zsa Zsa Gabor, Kim Novak and fun in general with U.S. money this year that his country's foreign aid was cut from $1,300,000 to a paltry $190,000-plus for the next year. What the heck, he can hardly woo Mickey Mouse for that sum. And we must seriously consider the fact that it is important to national defense and the well being of the free world that the fidler son of a Dominican Republic dictator have all the wine, women and sports cars he wants — and Uncle Sam should support his wife and six kids too.

MY DAVENPORT correspondents report that mixed drinks are selling so well in Scott county that it's hard to get a drink of water any more. Fun seekers also find it easy to get into a game of chance. Only thing wrong with all this is no one gets taxes from it to build a better Iowa.

IOWA CITY is fortunate in having a beautiful city park with many and varied facilities for recreation. City Councilmen evidently don't take their kids to the park though, or the wretched mud trails would be made into drivable roads. If there isn't enough money in the city coffers to pave the roads, they could be at least leveled.

THE FAIR City Council should take a trip into the eastern part of the city and take a long, hard look at the successful new supermarket in that direction. Plenty of parking. That, gentlemen, is where all the business will eventually go and the downtown will die unless there is provision for adequate free parking.

Double and triple parking in the streets, quite acceptable to police and all others, is not the solution.

PROGRESS IN THIS great state comes in mysterious ways. Out by North Liberty the world's worst detour is used while Highway 6 is fixed up. The next step was to avoid the detour and use North Dubuque and roller-coaster Highway 218 again. Detours, highways and detour detours will get so confusing the whole works will have to be put in the soil bank and we'll go back to walking.

FAIR MAIDS and the not-so-fair, too, have been subjected to unusual cruelty. No late hours on Thursday before the big holiday. It seems too cruel — unless the idea was to make sure no coeds become statistics before Memorial officially opens death season.

GOOD MORNING.

BOULE IN DEMAND

NEW YORK — French Novelist Pierre Boule is currently the hottest literary figure for screen and stage. Boule, author of "The Bridge on the River Kwai," upon which this year's Oscar-winning film was based, recently sold screen rights to Otto Preminger for a forthcoming book. He has now assigned to Robert L. Joseph, the stage rights to still another work, "Face of a Hero."

Pflimlin Quits As Premier

Navy Launches Satellite; Apparently Fails To Orbit

From Daily Iowan Combined Wires

SAN FRANCISCO — West Coast radio monitoring stations failed to pick up a signal from the new Vanguard satellite more than two hours and 25 minutes after it was launched at Cape Canaveral.

A spokesman at Lockheed's Minitrack station at Sunnyvale, Calif., said that "unless it is in a very high orbit we should have heard from it by now." He said that if the artificial moon was in an orbit "anything like the others, it would have been heard already."

Dr. Henry L. Richter, Jr., director of the Temple City tracking station, said the Vanguard satellite apparently had "passed the limit of probability."

At the Minitrack station at Brown Field in San Diego, spokesmen said they had been unable to receive any signals.

Ground instruments showed that all three stages of the rocket fired as planned.

Tracking stations down the Atlantic Ocean range picked up signals from the space traveler in the early stages of its flight.

Ten minutes later, the Navy reported officially that each of the engines in the rocket fired "in proper sequence."

The latest Vanguard rocket was the first in a series of seven designed to shoot man-made moons into orbit as part of this country's contribution to the International Geophysical Year.

Its 20-inch gold-plated sphere is tiny compared with Russia's 14-ton Sputnik III, but it is capable of relaying vital information about the sun back to scientists on earth.

The satellite houses delicate instruments to measure ultraviolet hydrogen — known as Lyman alpha rays — shooting from the sun in solar flares.

Scientists suspect that sudden bursts of this radiation cause phenomena in the earth's ionosphere which affect weather and radio communications.

The 72-foot Vanguard blasted off with a 21½-pound satellite from a huge pool of white flame and smoke at 9:47 p.m.

The sleek rocket, painted olive drab and black, streaked straight up through a thick cloud bank and shot aloft for some two minutes before it disappeared into the black Florida sky.

The rocket was a fading pinpoint of light as it appeared to arch over toward a level flight course a split second before it roared out of sight.

The launching appeared to be very successful to press corps observers stationed a mile and a half from the Vanguard site.

Because of the low overcast, the rocket slipped out of view much earlier than in previous test shoots.

Barb Bywater New Member Of Hawkeyes

Barbara Bywater, A1, Des Moines, has been chosen from over 200 applicants to sing with the Hawkeyes singing group.

"Her voice blends very well with the group, and her personality does the rest," said Tom Ecker, business manager of the Hawkeyes. "I've never seen anyone who could sell a song like Barb."

Miss Bywater, who succeeds Dixie Davenport, A3, Anamosa, said that she was very surprised and honored when selected.

"Some of us were just messing around when Derk Simonson suggested I try out for the Hawkeyes, and then bang! It happened," she said.

Tonight the revised group will hold its first recording session in Cedar Rapids. The group recently signed a 3-year contract with the Music Corporation of America, and will work the resorts this summer under its auspices.

Miss Bywater also plans to teach swimming this summer in Des Moines, and work on the KRNT-TV "Shadow Stumper" quiz show with Bill Riley.

The Hawkeyes are considering embarking on a college concert tour. Their plans for coming back to school depend partly on their success this summer.

Miss Davenport said that she left the group because of marriage plans this summer. Auditions were held for more than three months to find a replacement.

The Hawkeyes also have six years left on a Capitol contract. Ecker said that the records they cut for Capitol "did very well in some cities, and never got off the ground in others."

President Eisenhower Signs Huge Postal Rate Increase

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower Tuesday signed into law the biggest postal rate increases ever voted by Congress.

The bill also carries the biggest postal pay increase ever voted. Most postal workers will get approximately a 10 per cent raise, retroactive to last Jan. 1.

Effective Aug. 1, first class letters will require a 4-cent stamp, instead of 3. Air mail will go up from the present 6 cents to 7, post cards from 2 to 3.

Raises of various size will apply to newspapers, magazines and advertising circulars.

The administration had favored higher rates than Congress voted, and not so large a pay increase.

The Post Office Department operates chronically at a deficit. Mr. Eisenhower had asked $700 million more in revenue a year; he got $550 million. He had asked a 6 per cent wage increase costing about $160 million; Congress voted 10 per cent generally, at a cost of $265 million a year.

One of Mr. Eisenhower's complaints about the postal bill was that while it provides liberal increases for nonsupervisory employees, it greatly distorts the pay structure by giving proportionately lower benefits to the high-level postmasters, supervisors and technical and professional personnel.

Mr. Eisenhower said in a statement he was pleased to note the bill expresses approval of the department's "badly needed" modernization program.

But he expressed regret that Congress did not provide additional revenues, as the administration requested, to finance that program. He said he hopes Congress will promptly reconsider that matter, so that the modernization program can go forward.

Iowa Finally Sells Its Korean Bonds

DES MOINES — Iowa managed to sell its $24,700,000 worth of bonds Tuesday, thus assuring payment of a bonus to an estimated 100,000 Korean War veterans.

State officials said actual bonus payments can start within 90 to 120 days — probably in September.

They hailed the sale as not only a boon to Korean War veterans but a boost to the Iowa economy as well.

Sold at Par

The bonds sold at par with an interest rate of 2½ per cent. That's the maximum price and interest rate allowed under the law.

Only one bid was offered on the bonds, and state officials had to wait some 40 minutes after the sale opened at 11 a.m. for that one. It came from a syndicate of more than 100 banks and investment firms, headed by eight New York and Chicago companies.

The State Executive Council lost no time in approving the sale. Right up until the syndicate finally made its offer, investment firm representatives were saying it was highly doubtful that the bonds would sell.

Interest Limit

The law limiting the interest rate to no more than 2½ per cent and a feature permitting the state to call the bonds at 1½ per cent premium after six months, were factors in the reluctance of the bond firms to bid.

After the sale, Gov. Herschel Loveless commented: "I'm very happy that the bonds are sold. Once the sale procedure is completed and the bonus is paid, it will have a substantial effect on the Iowa economy in stimulating consumer goods purchases."

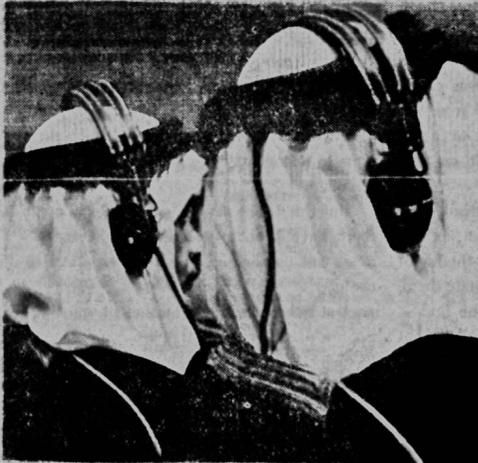

Under the Korean bonus law, eligible veterans will receive $10 for each month of domestic service and $12.50 for each month of overseas service in the armed forces between June 27, 1950 and July 27, 1953.

The law sets a ceiling of $500 on the payment to any individual and state officials estimate the average payment will be about $250.

DUKE WRITES SCORE

NEW YORK — Duke Ellington, prolific composer of blues and mood music, has written 21 new songs for an upcoming Broadway production, "Saturday Laughter."

The tune drama, based by Herbert Martin and Stephen Bates upon Peter Abraham's novel "Mine Boy," concerns happenings in South Africa. The producing team of Christopher B. Manos and Arnold Margolin has set rehearsals for late July, with Gotham arrival in October.

De Gaullist Government Looks Near

Coty, Party Leaders In Consultation

PARIS (UPI) — Premier Pierre Pflimlin early today tendered his resignation to pave the way for the return of Gen. Charles De Gaulle. President Rene Coty appeared to be preparing to call the general to form a new Government in a matter of hours.

Coty asked Pflimlin to carry on as caretaker until a new Government is formed, and Pflimlin, pale and tired after a 2-week battle to preserve the Fourth Republic and keep De Gaulle out, agreed.

Coty Confers

Coty immediately plunged into consultations with party leaders at the Elysees Presidential Palace, despite the pre-dawn hour.

Political observers said Coty wanted to see whether De Gaulle now would be acceptable to a majority of the National Assembly despite the violent opposition of the Communists who threatened, by their actions, to touch off a violent outbreak.

Communist demonstrations were scheduled for later today in Paris, despite a Government ban on such gatherings. The demonstration was called Tuesday when De Gaulle said he would try to form a Government.

Within a space of three hours after midnight, the stage had been set for the next chapter of the drama that began two weeks ago Tuesday with the Gaullist uprising in Algiers.

Pflimlin at 1 a.m. (6 p.m. EDT) won a vote of confidence in the Assembly, 408-165, on a resolution calling for immediate debate on his plan to reform the constitution and give the executive branch stronger powers. But 148 of the votes he won were Communist, which he had disavowed in advance. He fell short of the constitutional majority of one more than half the votes of the 595-seat Assembly.

A Cabinet meeting was called. An hour later, Pflimlin said he would go to the Presidential Palace. At 3 a.m. he conferred with Coty. By 4 a.m. the die was cast.

Three Resignations

Pflimlin had been hurt by the resignations of three conservatives from his cabinet.

"Their resignations seriously weakened my Government at a moment when it was forced to meet a mounting danger," he told newsmen.

"Therefore, I offered my resignation to the president of the Republic. The president refused, however, to accept it until he is able to form a new Government."

"Until a new cabinet is formed, I shall keep my full powers in the Government and its responsibilities."

The fact that Coty immediately called in party leaders indicated he wants a quick solution.

The Premier had warned that the worsening crisis threatened to pull the country into civil war and had made the confidence vote in the noisy, fist-waving assembly a personal test between himself and De Gaulle.

Must Choose

The Assembly, he said, must choose between them and "decide the fate of the Fourth Republic." It picked him, but by too small a margin.

In Algiers, a military Government stood ready to obey De Gaulle's every order. Corsica also was on his side.

Two opposing statements issued by De Gaulle and Pflimlin summed up the crisis.

Pflimlin told the Assembly before the voting: "Tonight, you must choose between me and De Gaulle. Tonight, the Assembly must decide the fate of the Fourth Republic."

De Gaulle in a statement after a pre-dawn conference in Paris with Pflimlin Tuesday morning said: "I started yesterday the regular process necessary for the establishment of a Republican Government capable of assuring the unity and independence of the country."

The last 24 hours had seen the approach of the climax to the French upheaval building now for 13 years, since the establishment of the postwar Fourth Republic and its "revolving door" politics that allowed the Assembly to topple 25 Governments.

The next 24 hours could decide the nation's future course.

Plans Told For 20th Annual Summer Fine Arts Festival

The SUI Summer Session Fine Arts Festival will celebrate its 20th birthday this summer.

Earl E. Harper, director of the School of Fine Arts, said that as a special commemoration of the occasion the Iowa Memorial Union will feature an exhibition of 43 contemporary paintings by 25 artists.

Claire Boothe Luce

A feature in the summer session lecture series, also part of the festival, will be a talk entitled "Fashions in Love" by Claire Boothe Luce, former U.S. ambassador to Italy. She will talk in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union July 15.

Another feature of the Fine Arts Festival will be the opera produced jointly by the music department and the dramatic art department each summer. This year Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" in a special English translation, will be performed July 28 and 29 and August 1 and 2 at 8 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium.

The University Theater will also produce "Ah, Wilderness!" by Eugene O'Neill, July 10, 11 and 12; "The Unfinished Luisa" by Joseph Rosenbergs, a former SUI student, July 17-19; and "The Chalk Garden" by Enid Bagnold, August 7-9.

In addition to its part in the production of "Madame Butterfly," the SUI music department will present four other concerts in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

The paintings, included in the exhibition in the Union are by men who have had paintings in previous SUI festival exhibitions. Some of the paintings were done at the time of the festival's inception in 1939. Others are very recent.

Enduring Fame

Describing the artists represented, Harper said, "All of the painters represented are of enduring fame who were painting when the festival began and who are still at work."

The exhibition was assembled by Mrs. Edith Halpert of the Downtown Gallery in New York

$19,900 Low Bid For Sanitary Engineering Lab

Low bid for the construction of an addition to the sanitary engineering laboratory was $19,900, submitted by the Burger Construction Co., Iowa City.

The one-story addition will be of cement block construction, 30 by 48 feet. It will provide facilities for a laboratory, one office, a shop and space to set up experimental equipment.

The sanitary engineering laboratory is located adjacent to the Iowa City sewage disposal plant on two acres of land which was set aside for SUI to use with experimental projects dealing with waste disposal.

Funds for the project, which will double the size of the building, will come from a $12,000 grant from the U.S. Public Health Service and from the University's budget for repairs, replacements and alterations.

The bid must be approved by the Board of Regents before construction can begin.

Little Change In Campus Scene Memorial Day

Memorial Day Friday will be marked by few changes in the campus routine. Although few social activities are planned, many students plan to remain on campus — possibly to study for final examinations next week.

Classes will be suspended for the national holiday. Dining facilities at Currier Hall will follow the schedule for Sunday meals. The Quadrangle public dining room will remain on its daily schedule. The Iowa Memorial Union cafeteria will be closed.

The University Library will be open from 7:30 a.m. Friday until 2 a.m. Saturday. The circulation desk will be closed from noon until 1 p.m.

Weather

The outlook for today is for generally fair skies with highs of 68-77. Low Tuesday night was in the low 50s.

Thursday's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies and warmer temperatures. The weatherman said we can expect highs to be in the 70's throughout the week.

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the University.

An Eye For An Eye...

From a sampling of opinion across the state, and from comments we've heard right here in Iowa City, there seems to be a widely divergent range of opinion on whether the jury was justified in sentencing Charles Starkweather to the electric chair.

Charles Starkweather is insane. No man will go on a homicidal orgy as he did unless there is something wrong with his mind. But legally, Starkweather knew he was doing something wrong and that is why he hid and ran.

A Frenchman Views

EDITOR'S NOTE: Guy Jallot, a graduate student in the French Department, is planning to leave the campus June 6 and wishes to express some of his rather decided views before he says farewell. This is the third and most controversial article Guy has written for The Daily Iowan and he hopes things settle down in France quickly enough for him to return before SUU's coeds descend upon him. Bon voyage!

I want to answer a question which has been asked me many times: "What do you think of American women?" Let me make a preliminary remark. I have discussed this subject: "American Women" with many students and I have discovered that most of them think as I do about this question.

Night Lights Needed!

The University provides one parking lot in which students may store their cars longer than 12 hours. This is in keeping with its policy of encouraging students to do a minimum of driving, and we feel, is based on sound principles.

In question, there are no night lights. The only illumination comes from sparsely spaced street lamps. The results of this inadequacy are readily apparent - slashed tires, broken windows, stolen hubcaps too numerous to count, and in one instance, a small car was pushed down the river bank and into the water.

girls know very well how to dress for formal evenings or during the spring. But, on every occasion, they have always to avoid the common American characteristic: superabundance. Many times they put on too much perfume, or they have a too complicated dress, or too many colors, or too many jewels. They have easily a "Baroque taste."

In this tradition, I discover a picture of "the organization love" in America. When you bump against such a show, en passant, you realize that here, people in love are indeed more numerous than you believe and are not so impassive as they look in the daylight. Then she will thank him. That "thank you" is very significant (In France girls say very few times thank you).

It is a very well organized game. Each phase has its importance and its right time. There is a hierarchy or a progression that you should observe. Usually, you start by "going steady" or being "pinned;" later, you will be "chained" (what a horrible word!), and then, engaged with your picture in the local newspaper. The marriage is always at the end: religious, official and solemn. In France it is rather civil and informal.

One of the nation's leading psychoanalysts said Sunday millions of Americans hate their jobs, their bosses and everyone else. He suggested that courses on love be conducted along the lines of marriage counseling classes.

German-born Dr. Erich Fromm, teacher, lecturer, author and social critic, said there is a great deal of talk about "togetherness," but "most of us are actually lonely."

Fromm said people eagerly try to save time and are very proud when they do so, but then they are so embarrassed with all the free time they accumulate that they try to kill it, thus becoming prisoners of the things they work to acquire.

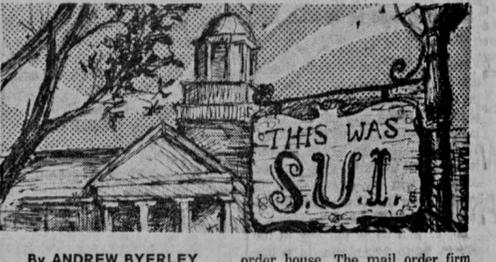

"I think, because they sense that they spend the best of their energy, eight hours a day, for things, and in a way which is not meaningful for them."

ON RELIGION: "I think it is a very sad picture as I see it. I am afraid that people talk about God, and more today than 100 years ago. They go more to the churches than they used to 100 years ago, but actually, they take a word for reality. Instead of having a religious experience, the just go to church, use the word, and if I may be Biblical, I am afraid they use the word 'God' in vain."

ON POLITICS: "Most Americans, 90 per cent, are concerned with health, money, family problems, and they are not concerned with the matters of society, with politics... it is always 'my' and 'me' and 'my family' and 'my money' and 'my car' rather than to express as a reality 'my relatedness to others, my solidarity to others.'"

ON THE MORNING OF July 18, 1879, a large crowd waited in the Iowa City Opera House, at the corner of Clinton and College Streets. A band began to play and a procession of Regents, professors and students marched onto the stage. People jumped up and down and cheered. The band stopped and the crowd hushed.

Seniors began giving graduation speeches. The speeches were smooth and witty. Eleven seniors gave speeches, and the crowd cheered each speaker widely. President Christian Slagle presented diplomas to SUU graduates and the graduation ended.

Retiring Staffer Says—

SUI Isn't The Same

By ANN HARRINGTON
Staff Writer

"The last thing I'm going to do is go up on the engineering tower and look back on 47 years of progress and expansion."

These words were spoken by R. J. McGinnis, SUI electrical shops foreman, who is retiring after 47 years of service.

McGinnis joked about his first days at SUI. "You could almost say I started here 53 years ago because I was carrying water and buying tobacco for workers on the engineering building in 1905."

"I started out at the princely sum of 22 cents an hour in 1911 as an electrician's apprentice. Then I got put on a 1 to 10 p.m. shift and got a 25-cents-a-day raise."

"In those days," he continued, "we carried everything on our backs that trucks carry today. I'll never forget the time old Irishman Jimmy Berry shuffled up to me and said, 'Ah! So now they're makin' a mule a 'ya.'"

Still reminiscing, he told of Jimmy Berry, an old-timer who planted the trees on the east side of Old Capitol and tended furnace in Macbride and Schaeffer halls.

"Jimmy was a character," he said with a faraway look in his eyes. "He always shuffled around, never without a cigar in his mouth."

"When he retired they made him mascot of the Athletic Department. It was his job to fill up the knots in the old football field's wooden walls so kids couldn't peek in."

"He always used to stand by the gate when the football players

R. J. McGinnis
Started Working for 22 Cents an Hour

come in, too," he continued, "and he'd say to them 'If you guys don't win today I'm gonna plow up that field tomorrow and plant onions.'"

One of the biggest differences between 1911-30 and today, according to McGinnis, is that the SUI student now is less aggressive.

"I can remember after a football game when the streets would be streaming with snake-dancing students headed to crash the theaters. Then the police would come and sometimes they'd even have to turn on the firehoses to quiet 'em down."

"Then for a while they had Saturday pushball contests for the students, trying to work a little of their enthusiasm off that way."

"Now it's pretty quiet around here on Saturday."

"The engineers used to have a good time around here on St. Patrick's Day too," he continued. "They used to have a parade blocks and blocks long."

"The feature of the parade was a 20- to 30-foot snake that they made themselves. They had to get rid of that though," he laughed. "Local residents objected."

"The engineers were great sign-makers in those days too," he said, shaking his head and smiling. "They'd always have that building plastered with some kind of big fancy sign."

Appearance of the University itself has also changed since McGinnis came in 1911. At that time the Physics Building was just being completed and the Dentistry Building was just being built. He saw University Hall built in 1921 and Old North Hall, which stood between the Old Dentistry Building and Old Capitol, torn down in 1949.

As for changes in his own work, he grinned broadly and said, "There is more of it!"

McGinnis is the third generation of his family to work for the University. His grandfather was a stone mason contractor and helped build Old Capitol, and his father was a custodian and engineer in the old Chemistry Building (now Electrical Engineering).

A fourth generation, his son Leroy, has worked for the University several summers but is now an attorney in Marshalltown.

Monkey love will be the subject when a noted psychologist speaks Saturday to the Graduate Psychology Club and any other interested persons.

Harry F. Harlow, professor of psychology at the University of Wisconsin, will speak at 10:30 a.m. in E105 East Hall on the "Development of Affection in Neo-Natal and Infant Monkeys."

Harlow is well known for his humorous and informative talks, according to Robert Mogar, G. Iowa City, president of the club.

Since his interest in monkeys is primarily theoretical, Mogar said, Harlow is expected to generalize on the relation of his studies on monkeys to human beings.

Harlow, who is a past president of Mid Western Psychological Association, has been working with monkeys for 30 years. The higher thought processes are his main interest.

Educator: Do We Retire?

"May you now do all the things you've never had time to do," is a common, but too seldom realized, expression at "retirement dinners," says Des Moines educator Agnes Samuelson.

Whether the extra years bring "new adventures or rocking chair loneliness" depends upon individual preparation for this period of life, she wrote in the new bulletin of the SUI Institute of Gerontology.

Miss Samuelson stressed middle-year emphasis on continuing health, financial security, creative activity, and learning.

"Adult education programs, social and religious groups and libraries may be more effective in helping people to stay young than an overdose of cosmetics or juvenile styles of dress," she suggested.

The writer was state superintendent of public instruction in Iowa from 1927 to 1939, president of the National Education Association in 1935-36 and executive secretary of the Iowa State Teachers Association from 1939 to 1945.

In stressing "planning rather than drifting into retirement years," Miss Samuelson pointed out that average life expectancy has increased 20 years within the past half-century. And with 1,600 more persons of 65 and older added to this segment of U.S. population daily, the count is expected to reach 18 million by 1960, she says.

Preparation for the "golden years" cannot be simplified by devising a standardized pattern to fit everyone, she notes, observing that "retirement readiness is not ready-made."

"But fortunately it can be custom-made according to personal specifications," Miss Samuelson concludes.

India Rejects U.S. Offer To See H-Bomb Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — India has rejected a U.S. invitation to observe a "clean" hydrogen bomb test in the Pacific this summer, the State Department announced Tuesday.

The Asian country was the first non-Communist nation to join Russia and Czechoslovakia in turning down the bid. The three rejections came as no surprise to U.S. officials.

State Department press officer Lincoln White did not give India's reasons for declining the invitation. But it was believed she did so to emphasize her opposition to further nuclear tests. White said only Belgium and Sweden have agreed to attend the test so far.

Charles Kirk
To Air Force Academy

Charles R. B. Kirk, Al. Iowa City, son of Col. Charles G. Kirk, professor and head of air science, and Mrs. Kirk, has been appointed a cadet in the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

A 1957 graduate of University High School and a freshman in the College of Liberal Arts, Kirk will report to Lowery Air Force Base, Denver, June 27 for a 3-month Air Force Academy orientation program.

He will be in the first class of cadets to begin their 4-year study course at the new air academy campus at Colorado Springs Sept. 9.

His brother Malcolm is a 1956 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and is a first lieutenant stationed at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Soldier Admits Being AWOL

An Army private is being held in Johnson County jail after admitting early Tuesday morning he is absent without leave (AWOL) from Camp Roberts, Calif.

Highway patrolman J. L. Smith said he checked on Pvt. Patrick D. Lofland, 19, when he spotted him hitchhiking west of Iowa City about 3:30 a.m. Smith said he was investigating an accident when Lofland admitted then he was AWOL from the California base.

Smith said Lofland explained he was hitchhiking to his home in Sullivan, Ill. He estimated the private had been gone from the base about five days.

Military police from Omaha, Neb., are expected here today to take custody of the soldier.

Policeman Hurt Saving 12 Girls from Injury

CHICAGO (UPI) — A heroic policeman jumped between a careening auto and 12 little girls Tuesday. He pushed eight of the children out of the auto's path and took its full impact from the others with his body.

Policeman Thomas Tobin, 55, suffered serious back and leg injuries. The four girls and the driver of the car, Charles J. Martin, 72, received first aid treatment at hospitals and were released.

Tobin was guiding the children across a busy south side intersection when he spotted Martin's car going out of control.

Arsonists Torch Second Roadhouse In Chicago Area

CHICAGO (UPI) — Masked gunmen burned down the second plush Chicago area roadhouse in two weeks today in an apparent crime syndicate campaign to fight the Senate Rackets Committee with terrorism.

The two hoodlums, both wearing black cloth masks in wild west style and carrying revolvers, forced the two owners of the Villa La Maine restaurant into separate washrooms and then doused the roadhouse with gasoline-soaked paper towels.

Escape From Building

The owners, Chris Savas, 43, and his brother, George, 41, were left to escape from the blazing building in suburban Skokie.

The arsonists' descriptions matched those of two gunmen who held nine employees prisoner May 13 while they methodically doused Allgauer's Fireside Lounge in nearby Lincolnwood with gasoline and set it ablaze.

Senate Rackets Committee investigators, who had already entered the Allgauer case, joined Chicago and suburban police in the search for the Skokie arsonists.

The million-dollar Allgauer fire appeared to have a direct link with the pending rackets committee investigation of alleged tieups between the crime syndicate and Chicago area labor unions. Allgauer had been questioned previously by committee investigators and had talked freely, police said.

The Savas brothers, in contrast, had not been questioned by committee representatives. They protested they had no labor troubles and knew of no motive for the arson.

Chicago police, however, said the second fire appeared to be part of a pattern to scare Chicago restaurant owners out of talking to the rackets committee agents.

Damage to the Villa La Maine was estimated as high as $300,000 and four Skokie firemen were injured fighting the blaze.

The arsonists' methods were practically a carbon copy of those used in destroying Allgauer's. Ironically, two policemen were seated in a squad car outside the Villa La Maine during at least part of the time the arsonists were at work.

Lone Tree Man Injured When Car Leaves Road

Harold Lynn Jondahl, 21, Lone Tree, was injured early Tuesday morning when his car went off the right side of Highway 6 about 17 miles west of Iowa City.

Jondahl, alone in the car, was treated for cuts and bruises at SUI Hospitals and released. According to an accident report, his car struck and sheared off a telephone pole after leaving the road.

Highway patrolman at the scene J. L. Smith said the car was a total loss. He said Jondahl explained he had dozed off just before the crash.

News Service Consolidation Called Monopoly by Kefauver

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said Tuesday consolidation of United Press and International News Service into the new United Press International confronted small newspapers and radio stations with "an absolute monopoly" of national news.

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee, made the statement in a senate speech and in a letter to Victor A. Hansen, assistant attorney general in charge of the justice department's anti-trust division. Kefauver urged Hansen to "seriously consider" seeking a preliminary court injunction against the consolidation.

Lyle C. Wilson, vice president and Washington manager for United Press International, immediately wrote Kefauver that his statements about the competitive situation in the press association field were "inaccurate and misleading."

In support of his statement, he cited a United Press International interview with Frank J. Starzel, general manager of the Associated Press, in which Starzel said the AP actively solicits new newspaper and radio members.

Competition Would Increase

Wilson also said creation of United Press International would intensify rather than reduce competition in the press association field because it now "challenges a strong competitor [Associated Press] with physical facilities and human resources which are more nearly equal than ever before."

"Prior to this merger," Kefauver said, "there were three news services in the United States. The Associated Press is a cooperative news-gathering organization limited exclusively to its own membership and which offers none of its services for sale to anyone other than members."

"Heretofore, UP and INS competitively offered their services to smaller newspapers and radio stations all over the country. In effect, these small newspapers and radio stations have had the benefit of competitive rates to choose from."

Might Face Monopoly

"Unless voted into membership by AP," Kefauver said, "these small radio stations and newspapers now face an absolute monopoly in securing news services." In his letter to Hansen, the senator said that in his opinion the AP may be discounted in considering the competitive situation in the press association field because "its service is only furnished to its members."

Wilson, in his letter to Kefauver, said the senator was proceeding on the "false assumption that the Associated Press withholds its service from small newspapers and radio stations."

"You appear to have forgotten that the Associated Press was forced to abandon its restrictive practices in 1945 by decision of the United States Supreme Court," Wilson said.

Pay Those Traffic Tickets Or You Might Be Walking

If you've got a lot of unpaid traffic tickets and plan to skip out at the end of the semester, forget it. It could prove very embarrassing to you before the end of the semester.

The police are empowered by state law to confiscate a car and hold it for payment of costs against it.

According to Iowa City police Chief O. A. White, there is no set amount over which a car will be taken. The clerk of the police court makes up a list of persons with an "excessive" number of delinquent tickets, and the cars are confiscated. This generally does not run more than three or four cars a month, he said.

When a person whose car has been confiscated notifies the police, he is referred to the police court clerk. After paying for the tickets plus tow charges, his car is returned.

Tow charges vary, depending on the distance the car is towed. They will average about $3.50, according to Mrs. Irene Shalla, police court clerk.

Motor Code Explained

Chief White, referring to the Iowa Motor Vehicle Code, explained the legal basis and procedure of this action as follows:

If the owner of the car fails to report its loss to the police, the police notify the State Department of Motor Vehicle Registration. The department in turn, notifies the owner that his car has been confiscated, the reason for the action, and where it may be found.

If the owner fails to pay the charges against the car within 40 days from the time he is notified, the car is to be advertised for sale once a week for two consecutive weeks.

The car must then be sold at public auction within a week of the last published sale notice. The proceeds of the sale are used to pay the charges against the car.

Excess to Treasurer

If the car sells for more than the charges against it, the extra money is given to the county treasurer. The original car owner can get the extra money by applying to the treasurer and proving ownership of the car within six months from the date of sale.

However, Chief White said, if the sale of the car does not produce enough money to cover the charges, the owner is still liable for the balance. This is true even if the transferred ownership of the car to the city, White explained.

An exception to this would be if the owner had made an agreement with the police judge exchanging ownership of the car for the charges against it, White said.

When asked if the department made a special crackdown on students around this time of year, White said they didn't because "most of the students will be back in the fall. Those that don't can be checked through the Department of Motor Vehicle Registration."

"Changing cars during the summer won't help either," he said in reply to another question, "particularly if the student is from a state like Illinois or Missouri. In these states, the registration plates go with the man, not with the car as in Iowa."

"In this case," he said, the license plates would be the same no matter how many cars the man had during the summer."

Mayor Notes Play Month

Most SUI students will have to wait 11 days to observe Iowa City Mayor Louis Loria's latest proclamation.

The Mayor Tuesday proclaimed June as National Recreation Month. But final tests at SUI will probably defer observance until June 11, when classes are dismissed.

The mayor urges "all members of the community to take June to discover anew the various recreation facilities and thereby gain added vigor and happiness."

"Recreation builds spiritual, mental and physical health and provides refreshment, perspective and a sense of well-being," the mayor said.

Bean Will Give Medical Paper

William B. Bean, professor and head of internal medicine at SUI, will present a scientific paper today before the World Congress of Gastroenterology in Washington, D.C. Gastroenterology is the study of the stomach and intestines.

The title of the paper will be "Gastrointestinal Bleeding in Some Rare Diseases with Pathognomonic Skin Lesions." Pathognomonic lesions are those which are significant in the diagnosis of disease.

Dr. Bean also will present the banquet address Thursday evening at a meeting of the Gastroenterology Research Society.

Discuss Financial Ills of WOI-TV

DES MOINES (AP) — The financial ills of station WOI-TV at Ames were discussed at length by Iowa State College officials with the Iowa Legislative Interim Committee Tuesday.

The college representatives and committee members were behind closed doors for more than two hours. Afterward Dr. James Hilton, college president, said:

"We discussed some of the problems we have with WOI-TV. The station has been losing money and we thought it was time we acquainted the committee with some of the problems we face."

Braves Win 3-2 Over Cardinals; Close Gap After Giants Lose 5-1

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies stopped the National League-leading San Francisco Giants 5-1 Tuesday night with Rip Repulski hitting a three-run homer. Right-hander Jack Sanford scattered 10 hits, all but one singles.

Repulski's homer, his sixth, came in the first inning after Richie Ashburn walked and Solly Hemus singled. Right-hander Stu Miller, the loser, was pulled in the first for Al Worthington. He was followed by two more pitchers.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Pinchhitting Joe Adcock smashed a two-run homer with two out in the ninth Tuesday night as the Milwaukee Braves finally caught up with Sad Sam Jones and defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2.

The towering homer by the big first baseman cleared the center field wall and capped an uphill drive by the Braves who had been stopped on two hits by Jpnes through the first eight innings.

The homer was the seventh of the campaign for Adcock, and it pulled the Braves to within a game of the National League-leading San Francisco Giants, defeated 5-1 by Philadelphia.

In intramural tennis, Dick Lynes and George Litner won the Hillcrest doubles title. The singles competition has not been completed. — Jay Langhurst won the Quad-range singles title. There was no doubles competition, according to the Intramural Office.

Richard Gasser and Bill Lo of Phi Rho Sigma, professional medical fraternity, won the professional house tournament. The singles have not been completed.

Gary Rinden, Sigma Nu, won the social fraternity singles while Simmons and DeDok won the doubles title for Sigma Phi Epsilon.

South Quad doubles were won by Estle Mills and Duane Selsler. South Quad combines with the Town League in singles play which was won by Joe Donald of Town League.

Other intramural action is scheduled to be completed before Tuesday.

Cleveland 7, Orioles 6

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas City halted Bob Turley's perfect pitching record Tuesday night plastering him for six runs, including Bob Cerv's first inning homer as the Athletics pummeled the New York Yankees 7-3.

The big right hander, who had won seven straight for the Yankees, including four shutouts and a 0.86 earned run average, ran afoul of the A's bats early and departed in the fifth inning in favor of Art Ditmar.

When he trudged off the mound his revised earned run average read 1.61 and his Yankee teammates were badly beaten as chunky Jack Urban pitched a six-hitter.

What's the Matter in LA? No Campy

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Don Newcombe tells you in two words what he thinks is mostly wrong with the Dodgers.

"No Campanella."

"What's the use of kidding," said the huge Los Angeles pitcher Tuesday before the team left for Pittsburgh. "You can talk all you want about the Coliseum, about old age that's catching up with the team, about the failure of the guys to hit."

"But the real truth is that without Roy Campanella we're just another ball club. He was the heart and soul of the team. He was the difference. Everybody on the club knows it. You just can't take the best catcher in baseball off a team and be the same."

Newcombe is off to the worst start of his career. He has started five games and he has been knocked out in all of them. His record is 0-4. He hurt his shoulder in his first start of the season, in San Francisco. It was thought at the time the injury was a pulled muscle, but only recently Newcombe learned the muscle had been torn.

"It is all right now," Newcombe says.

"With due respect to our catchers," Don said, "I'm sure my record would be much better if Campy were behind the plate. In fact, the other pitchers' records would be better, too. Take Don Drysdale, for instance. I think he misses Roy the most."

"Campy nursed Don along practically from the first day he joined the club. He knows more about Drysdale than Don knows himself. The kid was his personal protege. He watched him like a baby. He knew how to get the most out of him. I'll bet if Camp were catching him he'd have won three or four more games."

Drysdale's record is 2-7.

"They just don't know," he said. "They have limited ability and experience. They're doing the best they can under the circumstances."

"I never saw anybody who could set up the hitters the way he could. He knew every batter's weakness. He was a master at handling pitchers. He could sense right away what your best pitch was. He made it easier for the lot of us."

"No, sir, it's no coincidence that the Dodger pitchers, including myself, aren't doing so well with Campy gone. When he was hurt in that auto accident, so were we."

LONDON (AP)—The elevated high jumping shoe — used by Russians to break an American athletic monopoly — was declared illegal Tuesday and banned throughout the world.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation banning came as a complete surprise. No action was expected on the controversial thick soled shoe until August when the IAAF meets in Stockholm.

THE MOVE means that Soviet high jumpers Yuri Stepanov, Vladimir Sitkin and Igor Kashkarov can not use the shoes Russians officials devised for them during the United States-Soviet Union dual track and field meet in Moscow July 27-28.

Use of the shoe sometimes gave Russian jumpers as much as a one-inch advantage.

The shoe not only started them off one inch higher than other jumpers but helped ease the shock when the foot pounded against the ground on the take off.

Stepanov made the world's highest record leap July 13, 1957 in Leningrad wearing a built up shoe. He cleared 7 feet 1 1/2 inches. Sitkin jumped 7 feet 3/4 inches in Odessa and Kashkarov cleared 7 feet 1/4 inch in Moscow.

THE RUSSIAN light athletics section of the Soviet government offered Stepanov's jump as a world record. It was never ratified and action was delayed until the IAAF could consider the shoe.

Dennis Menke Signs Contract With Braves

BANCROFT (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Denny Menke, the hottest baseball prospect to come out of Iowa's cornfields since Bob Feller, signed a contract Tuesday night with the Milwaukee Braves of the National League.

The contract was signed at the farm home of the youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Menke, with the Braves Midwest scout, Eddie Danisak.

It was reported to be a bonus contract, but none of the principals would confirm this or give any details.

However, Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles, one of the many major league clubs seeking the St. John's High School star pitcher-infielder, had said earlier the price might go as high as $100,000.

Danisak said Denny will report Thursday to Cedar Rapids, the Milwaukee farm team in the Midwest League.

Award Kinnick Scholarships To Five High School Athletes

Five high school seniors chosen from a field of 17 candidates were named Tuesday as winners of the Nile Kinnick Memorial Scholarships at the State University of Iowa for the 1958-59 school year.

Announced by President Virgil M. Hancher they are: Gary Lorenz of Clinton; Bill Reif of Kalona; Richard Ashbacher of Lansing; Victor Wilson of Muscatine; and Calvin Roulson of West Union.

The scholarships are given in memory of Nile Kinnick of Adel, famed SUI athlete and other SUI men who died in World War II.

The high school athletes will receive $1,000, of which the Kinnick Scholarship fund contributes $750.

Seventeen candidates were invited to visit the University and the five winners were picked on the basis of their applications and tests given on the campus.

The awards were instituted in 1945 by the Iowa State Junior Chamber of Commerce and provided through gifts from alumni and friends of the University and of Kinnick.

To qualify for a renewal of the scholarships, winners must attain at least a B average scholastically and continue participation in athletics.

Lorenz won seven letters at Clinton High School, two each in football and track and three in basketball. He made his conference's first honor team in football and basketball. He is in the top 8th of his graduating class at high school and has participated in vocal music groups at school. Like his fellow townsman and Kinnick winner, Kenny Ploen, he plans to enroll in engineering.

Reif won four letters in football as a guard and fullback and was chosen for his conference's first team. He also earned three letters in basketball and three in track, was president of his sophomore class and of the K Klub, lettermen's organization. He served also as vice-president of Kalona High School student council, has been an honor student and was active in prep forensics and theatricals.

Ashbacher was captain of Waukon's undefeated football team and made the all-conference eleven. He ranked third scholastically in his high school graduating class and was active in instrumental music and school plays.

At Muscatine High, Wilson won two letters each in football, basketball and track, was quarterback and fullback of his eleven, also its co-captain and made the Little Six conference honor team. He was a member of two conference champion basketball teams and ranked ninth scholastically in a graduating class of 221. He has been president of the student council and of his freshman, sophomore, and senior classes.

Wrestling is the favorite sport of Roulson. He won four letters and the conference championship in the 154 pound weight class in the past two years. He also earned three letters in football and ran the 440 and shotputted. He has been president of the high school male chorus and had the leading role in the junior-senior class play.

Fall Testing Program Signing Ends May 31 for High Schools

Iowa school administrators who plan to participate in the 17th annual Fall Testing Program for Iowa High Schools should register for the program before Saturday, according to E. F. Lindquist, director of the Iowa Testing Programs at SUI.

The annual Iowa Tests of Educational Development (ITED) will be given during September to all students in high schools registered for the testing program.

The ITED contain 700 items in a battery of nine tests measuring basic social concepts; background in the natural sciences; correctness and appropriateness of expression; mathematical thinking; interpretation of readings in natural sciences, social studies and literature; vocabulary, and use of sources of information.

The tests are administered by high school officials, and answer sheets are returned to the University, where they are scored electronically at the rate of about 5,000 per hour.

Test results provide high school teachers and counselors with dependable measures of the educational growth and development of each pupil. In addition, the program gives the school administrator a dependable and objective basis for evaluating the educational offering of his school.

Registration forms for the fall testing program should be mailed to Iowa Testing Programs, N-101 East Hall, Iowa City.

Mezvinsky Heads Unions Association

Edward M. Mezvinsky, A3, Ames, was elected president of the Big Ten Student Union Association during the annual spring meeting at Ann Arbor, Mich.

The meeting is attended by delegates and a staff member of each of the universities. The SUI representatives were William L. Adams, assistant to the director, Iowa Memorial Union; Mezvinsky; David H. Fitzsimmons, A3, Boone; and Faron O'Hara, A2, Ottumwa.

A constitution for the association was drafted and submitted for ratification at the meeting. This was the first constitution drafted for the group. Ratification is expected in November, Mezvinsky said.

Discussions were held on the topics of problems of the unions, responsibility of the union toward specific groups and the academic function of the university, and union operations and functions, Mezvinsky said.

Mezvinsky said there is a plan to begin a Big Ten newsletter, informing the universities of projects and problems before the annual meeting.

Discuss Independent Living on WSUI Series

The restrictive nature of "independent" living will be the topic of "Fettered Are the Free" on "The Minds of Men" program over radio station WSUI at 7:30 a.m. today.

Independence, the principle on which our country was founded and the goal to which our children are urged, is not always desirable, the program will point out. Dependence is not to be left behind or avoided — it is in reality, inescapable.

Shirley Rood Announce Engagement

Vows will be spoken in August by Shirley Rood and Leslie Carson. Miss Rood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oden Rood of Bode. She will graduate from the SUI College of Nursing in August.

SUI Doctor To Read Paper In Sweden Before World Meet

Ian Maclean Smith, assistant professor of internal medicine at SUI, has been invited to present a report on his research in infectious diseases before the International Congress for Microbiology in Stockholm, Sweden, Aug. 4-9.

The title of Smith's paper will be "On the Cause of Death from Staphylococcal Disease in Mice." The paper will describe findings of studies which Smith has conducted at SUI for several years.

The aim of the research is to learn more about why animals die from infectious diseases. The scientists hope that more information about the ailments in animals will provide some clues to a better understanding of the diseases in man.

The study has taken on new significance during the past year as a result of the increasing problem of staphylococcal infection in the nation's hospitals.

Smith is the second member of the medical faculty at SUI to receive an invitation to participate in the international event. Dr. John Roger Porter, professor and head of bacteriology at SUI and editor of the Journal of the Society of American Bacteriologists, has been invited to serve as one of ten American scientists on the honorary board of the Congress.

Dr. Porter also will plan a formal session for editors of scientific journals.

Co-authors with Dr. Smith on his paper are Mrs. Ann Wilson, visiting bacteriologist from Liverpool, England; Dr. Mary E. Godfrey, research fellow in the department of internal medicine; Dr. Elia Hazard, formerly of Bolivia and now of Iowa City; and William Hummer, a pre-medical student from Des Moines.

SUIowan To Lead Health Workshop

Boyd R. McCandless, director of the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station, will lead a mental health workshop for elementary school teachers next week in Moorhead, Minn.

Approximately 50 elementary teachers will attend the conference, which was planned by members of Moorhead State Teachers College.

McCandless said the group will study general mental health and development of children of elementary school age.

The workshop will last from June 2 through June 6.

States Bill, If Passed, Will Top Federal Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee Tuesday approved a sweeping "states' rights" bill designed to prevent present or future Federal laws from nullifying state laws on the same subject.

The measure was approved over the objections of chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N. Y.) and the Justice Department. Celler charged that the main purpose of the legislation was to curb the rights of the Negroes.

"Of course, it is unconstitutional," he said. Celler said the committee vote was fairly close with Northern Democrats unanimously opposing the bill and some Republicans joining Southern Democrats in support of the legislation.

The committee also approved a separate bill to reinstate state anti-subversive laws struck down by the Supreme Court in its controversial decision in the Steve Nelson case.

In the Steve Nelson case, the Supreme Court held that congressional passage in 1940 of the Smith Anti-Subversive Act automatically nullified state Communist control laws. Nelson, a Communist leader in Western Pennsylvania, had been convicted of violating the state's sedition law.

A provision to reinstate state subversion laws recently was included in a bill approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee. The Senate bill was designed to nullify some other controversial rulings of the high court besides the Nelson decision.

The broader "states' rights" bill was introduced by Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), an influential leader among House Southerners.

Under its provisions, no court could construe a Federal law as nullifying a state law on the same subject unless the Federal law contained a specific provision to that effect or unless there was a direct and irreconcilable conflict between the two statutes.

The bill would apply to both laws on the statute books and to future legislation.

Celler said "most civil rights would be endangered" by the bill. He said it also would cause widespread confusion in the enforcement of laws dealing with crime, aviation, shipping, labor, aliens and natural gas.

Attorney General William P. Rogers told a news conference the Justice Department was strongly opposed to the measure.

"We are opposed," Rogers said, "to any legislation which limits the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court in any area." He added that he also was against the "omnibus approach" to amending laws.

Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (N. Y.), ranking Republican on the judiciary committee, said he "seriously questioned the wisdom" of the states' rights bill. But he did not share Celler's view that it would be unconstitutional.

Keating objected to the bill's "wholesale" attempt to determine the effect of Federal legislation on state laws. He said any problems in this field should be handled "one at a time" to prevent possible "confusion and endless litigation."

Young Demos Censure More On Education

SUI Young Democrats Tuesday passed a resolution censuring a recent statement by Jake More, State Democratic Central Committee Chairman.

More said private schools and colleges in Iowa could meet the rising needs of student enrollment and that the need for new buildings at SUI and Iowa State were exaggerated.

The resolution also commended Gov. Herschel Loveless for his remarks concerning More's statement. In a news release Sunday, Loveless said that the More statement was a personal opinion and not the policy of the Democratic party.

A resolution was also passed by the group commending Tom Slattery, G. Iowa City, for his work as editor of The Daily Iowan.

Larry Popofsky, A4, Oskaloosa, told the club, "British youth leaders complain of apathy, but if they could see the American student they would be appalled."

Popofsky, who has just returned from a U.S. debate team tour of Europe, also told of the wide differences in viewpoints among the various British political groups.

"There is a much wider difference there," he said, "than there is between Republicans and Democrats in this country."

Mutilation At Library Continues

The majority of the mutilations reported by patrons at the main University Library during the period May 8-26 were removals of magazine articles, said Julia Bartling, assistant head of reference. But the reference books were not untouched.

Someone removed 12 pages from the 1957 edition of Encyclopedia Britannica, volume 17, on the Pacific Islands. Volume 12, World Book Encyclopedia, had four pages about the New Deal removed.

Two reviews of "The Lonely Crowd" were taken from the magazines "The Nation" and the "New York Herald Tribune Weekly Book Review."

Three articles, a total of 10 pages, about college problems were taken from three magazines. A variety of topics and a few undetermined articles comprised the remainder of the missing 114 pages, Mrs. Bartling said.

Power Groups Sign Contract; Await Okay

DES MOINES (AP) — The signing of an electric power interconnection agreement involving five Iowa companies was announced here Tuesday.

If approved by the Federal Power Commission the agreement will go into effect July 1.

Companies involved are the Iowa Electric Light and Power Co., of Cedar Rapids; Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co. of Davenport; Iowa Power and Light Co. of Des Moines; Iowa Public Service Co. of Sioux City, and Iowa Southern Utilities Co. of Centerville.

The announcement said that "pooling of the five companies will offer many advantages that should speed the industrial growth of the entire state by making ample power supplies available to all areas of the state served by these companies."

The high-voltage transmission lines of the companies are already interconnected through the Iowa grid. By pooling of generating facilities, the most efficient units available to the various companies would be operated to meet the load requirements of their combined customers, the announcement said.

It said emergencies existing on any one of the five companies' systems could be met with less likelihood of impairment of service to customers.

Signing of the agreement came after six years of discussion. Power from utilities in Missouri, Illinois, Minnesota, South Dakota and Nebraska also will be made available to the Iowa grid for the use of member companies through interconnecting agreements maintained by individual companies in the new group.

Bank Files New Petition In Seed Suit

The Iowa State Bank and Trust Company Tuesday filed a cross-petition in Johnson County District Court for judgments amounting to $33,388 in the pending seed suit brought by 50 Johnson County farmers.

The judgments are requested against the Seed Marketing Association Inc., and Douglas Guardian Warehouse Corporation, both of 1301 Sheridan Ave., and their representative, M. M. McCarty, West Branch.

The bank petition says the bank is holding warehouse receipts issued by the Douglas Guardian firm on seed they claimed was owned by the Seed Marketing Association.

The bank claims it is holding the warehouse receipts as collateral for bank notes it issued between December, 1957, and February, 1958, to the Seed Marketing firm.

The bank requests the court to issue an order on the Douglas Guardian firm to turn over the seed covered in the banks receipts that is stored in their warehouse. In the event the court will not approve the action, the bank is also asking $33,388, which is the amount due on the notes.

Action against the firms was begun April 8 by 26 Johnson County farmers.

The farmers' petition said they had given their seed to the Seed Marketing company for cleaning, storage or sale. This spring, the petition says, when they went to get their seed the company refused to give them either seed or money.

The farmers claimed the firm had used their seed to obtain loans from the bank illegally and without their knowledge. By mid-April 34 additional farmers had joined in the suit to regain their seed or money.

The farmers in an additional petition April 22 named the Iowa State Bank and Trust Co. as a co-defendant, because it is holding the Seed Marketing Association Inc. receipts for 295,239 pounds of seed being stored by Douglas Guardian Warehouse Corporation.

PUBLIC WELFARE MEET — The next state government interdepartmental conference on public welfare will discuss problems of the aged, Gov. Herschel Loveless said Tuesday.

The conference is set for Wednesday afternoon. Former Gov. Robert Blue has been invited to speak. He is chairman of the Iowa Study Committee on the Care of the Aging.

Leopold Starts Foundation To Aid Delinquent Children

CHICAGO (UPI) — Thrill Killer Nathan Leopold, recently paroled after a third of a century in prison, has set up a charitable foundation to aid delinquent children, his lawyer revealed Tuesday.

The lawyer, Elmer Gertz, said the Leopold Foundation for the welfare, treatment and education of disturbed, retarded or delinquent children was set up last April 18.

Leopold's signature as an incorporator and director of the foundation was notarized earlier at Castaner, Puerto Rico, where he is employed as a hospital technician, Gertz said.

Leopold won parole this year from his life sentence for the kidnap-murder of Bobby Franks in Chicago more than 33 years ago. Leopold and a companion, Richard Loeb, killed the Franks boy in the belief that they were intellectual supermen and above the laws of society.

Leopold's not-for-profit foundation, Gertz said, would depend on royalties from Leopold's autobiography for funds with which to operate.

But the foundation, Gertz added, is a "corporation-in-being but not in operation."

In seeking his release from prison, Leopold made a pre-parole pledge that, if set free, he would vanish into a life of anonymity. But the Illinois Parole Board, which granted him a parole of five years to work as a technician at the Brethren Service Hospital at Castaner, could return him to prison if it decided the parole was violated.

Operation of the foundation, Gertz said, "will depend on parole board approval. We certainly don't intend to do anything to violate the parole agreement."

New Rebel Raids, Break Weeks of Calm in Cuba — HAVANA (UPI) — New bombings, raids and armed skirmishes were reported Tuesday night to have broken a weeks-long calm in Oriente Province, stronghold of Fidel Castro's Cuban Rebels.

Unofficial reports from Santiago, capital of the province in eastern Cuba, said 12 bombs exploded in the capital during the past 48 hours and that at least 11 unidentified persons were found dead in the streets of Santiago and Guantanamo, site of a big U.S. Naval Base.

Santiago was reported under virtual self-imposed curfew as a result of the first major violence since the rebels' all-out attack against Fulgencio Batista's Government fizzled several weeks ago. Ten armed rebels were reported to have forced entry into the Cuban Electric Company warehouse in Santiago and ignited a fire which caused an estimated $100,000 damage. Several trucks were among the destroyed material in the warehouse owned by an affiliate of the American Foreign Power Company.

A second group of unidentified raiders forced entry into the Santiago offices of the Government newspaper "Libertad" and killed one employee and injured another. At Guantanamo, rebels were reported to have ambushed a 4-man army patrol and killed them all. Reports from Sagua De Tanamo said heavy skirmishing occurred between rebel units and Government troops in the area the past few days.

SOVIET TROOPS MANEUVER — WARSAW (AP) — The official Polish Communist paper Trybuna Ludu reports Soviet troops have joined Polish Army and Air Force units on extensive maneuvers. The Soviet troops came from Warsaw Pact forces in former East Prussia.

Asks Aid To Europe Satellites

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday urged an economic aid program for the Soviet Union's European satellites to widen the cracks it said had appeared in the Iron Curtain.

Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) announced he would lead a fight against the proposal on the Senate floor.

"I do not think the granting of mutual aid to the Communist countries can be justified," he declared. Knowland is the Senate's Republican leader.

The issue took shape as the committee reported a $3,712,900,000 foreign aid bill to the Senate. The measure authorizes $235 million less than President Eisenhower asked for the fiscal year starting July 1. It could be cut further on the floor.

Unprecedented authority is proposed for President Eisenhower to give financial help to Yugoslavia, Poland, East Germany or any other country except the Soviet Union and Red China. The President could do this if he believed it would help make the recipients more independent of Moscow or Peiping.

A series of cracks have appeared in the Iron Curtain," the committee reported. "This is conclusive evidence that the subject peoples of Eastern Europe have never fully accepted communism."

While there are risks in pouring American money into Communist areas, the committee added, it "believes that the risks are outweighed by the increasing chance for world peace which may result if the United States can help some countries within the Communist bloc gradually to loosen their bonds."

Knowland, on the other hand, contends that the mutual security program was founded on the theory that help should be provided only for nations that are willing to stand together in maintenance of the free world.

Thief Gets the Bird; Thinks It's a Bugle

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Pity the guy who stole Joe the mynah bird. Joe'll talk him to death.

The wise-cracking fowl was stolen from his cage at City Park Zoo Monday night. Supt. Clyde Hill said the bird, a native of India, whistles bugle calls and the tune, "How Dry I Am," asks his viewers: "What you looking at?" and says, "My name's Joe, what's yours?"

U.S. Proposes Inspections To Check Russian Forces

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States Tuesday issued a new challenge to Russia to accept a disarmament agreement including inspections to prove that Soviet armed might was actually being reduced.

The challenge was made by the State Department in commenting on the Soviet Government announcement that it would withdraw Soviet troops from Romania and Hungary and that the other nations of the Soviet bloc would cut their own military forces.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said the department had not yet received any official word on the Soviet announcement. But he said the first tentative reaction here to Russia's announcement of withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary and Rumania was that it might prove "a favorable development" if it led to more independence for the two nations.

He said the Communist move "would have important significance" in East-West relations "if it were to be accompanied by a general controlled disarmament agreement which involved verifiable reductions in forces and arms inside the Soviet Union itself."

Russia announced the troop withdrawals and planned cuts in forces of Communist Warsaw Pact Nations last night. It said the decision was approved by the Political Consultative Committee of the Warsaw Pact Nations.

The Soviet bloc also called on nations of the North Atlantic Treaty to join in a 25-year non-aggression pact.

The State Department made no official comment on the Communist suggestion. But officials noted that former Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin proposed a similar non-aggression treaty in a letter to President Eisenhower last December 10.

The President brushed the proposal aside by noting that all NATO nations already are pledged by the United Nations Charter not to embark on aggression.

To Move Unknown Soldiers to Capitol

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two American servicemen returned from the wars Tuesday, unknown but not un-sung.

They rested peacefully side-by-side Tuesday night on the deck of a sleek gray destroyer. The Stars and Stripes and the open skies were their coverlets.

Today these honored unknown dead of World War II and the Korean War will be borne to the rotunda of the Capitol. And a nation will begin pouring out its homage and highest honors.

On Memorial Day Friday, a final journey, sad yet triumphant, will take them to the rolling heights of Arlington National Cemetery across the Potomac.

There they will rest eternally in honored glory beside their unknown comrade of World War I.

Coalition Kills Alaska State Bill 144-106

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A coalition of House Republicans and Southern Democrats today tentatively killed the Alaska Statehood Bill. But the action could be reversed in a roll-call vote scheduled today.

The House voted 144 to 106 to strike the bill's enacting clause which would have given it the force of law. The action was taken by teller vote in which members pass down the chamber's middle aisle to be counted.

But under House rules, a roll call vote must be held today on the same amendment. If the action is upheld, the bill is dead. If it is reversed, the House would continue consideration of the measure.

The tentative vote was a bitter defeat for advocates of Alaska statehood who have been trying since 1916 to get the territory admitted to the Union. If allowed to stand, it also was expected to doom any chance of Hawaii becoming a state this year.

Republicans joined Southern Democrats against the bill to make Alaska the 49th state even though President Eisenhower was reported to have thrown his support behind it. However GOP House Leader Joseph Martin (Mass.), was seen voting against it and Democratic leader Sam Rayburn (Tex.), voted for it.

FINE ARTS—

film, by William Hartigan, July 1 in Macbride Auditorium; and "The Conquest of Space" by Willy Ley in Macbride Auditorium August 5.

The idea for an SUI Fine Arts Festival was conceived by Harper when he first came to SUI in 1938. During that summer session, he said, he attended many SUI concerts, lectures and plays, and thought they could be organized more effectively into one festival.

Festival First — Harper pointed out a little-known fact about the first festival held in 1939. This festival featured a one-man show of Grant Wood paintings, which was the largest Grant Wood exhibition ever presented until the show organized after his death by the Chicago Art Institute.

As the festival has developed, Harper said, new features have been added. In 1945 the first exhibition of paintings by famous artists was inaugurated, and the annual opera was first introduced in 1950.

The purpose of the festival, as conceived by Harper, is three-fold: "First, to present as rich as possible a program in all the fine arts for the enrichment of the summer session program and for the enjoyment and cultural development of those who see and hear the festival events.

"Second, to present to the public the results of educational work in the School of Fine Arts here through student performances.

"Third, to bring about a unified effort on the part of the administration and faculty of the School of Fine Arts in a great common effort."
