By STAN HANSEN
Staff Writer

Elmer, the campus dog who liked people — especially students — died at 11 o'clock Thursday morning. Known to nearly all SUI upperclassmen, Elmer had been absent from the campus scene most of this year.

Prof. and Mrs. Bruce Mahan, who adopted Elmer in 1945, had been keeping him in a pen beside their house. "Elmer's been almost wholly blind since last fall," Mrs. Mahan explained. "He would wander off and couldn't find his way home, so we had to put him in a pen."

"Last summer," she said, "he wandered into Burge Hall, didn't notice the floor wasn't finished, and fell eighteen feet into the basement." Mrs. Mahan said that apparently Elmer wasn't injured by the fall.

"He could never be completely happy in a pen away from a crowd," Mrs. Mahan said. "When I went out to take him for his walk, he was always waiting and eager to go."

Mrs. Mahan recalled that Elmer's favorite building was the SUI Quadrangle. "If he could feel a lot of people around him he was happy and content," she said. "It seemed to make him feel secure."

Many of the Quad residents remember the tan and white English foxhound who slept in the middle of the marble floored lobby, seemingly oblivious to the students stepping over and around him.

Sometimes a student would stop to pet him, and Elmer would slowly raise an eyelid and look at him lazily. Or a student would call his name, and Elmer would raise up a bit, look at him curiously, and then let his head flop back on the floor.

But Elmer was never too concerned about getting attention. He was always friendly to people, and content to just have someone around him. Curiously, even though he slept in the middle of the lobby, everyone managed to avoid stepping on him.

Elmer was also a familiar figure at the entrance to Macbride and Schaeffer Hall. He would sit quietly by the door, and lackadaisically watch students file in and out of the buildings.

Elmer spent last Christmas vacation at the dog hospital. He was found to be suffering from inflammation of the joints and muscles. After penicillin shots and a week at the hospital, he was brought home again by the Mahans.

"He had been in good shape until Tuesday," Mrs. Mahan said. "But Tuesday night he wasn't interested in going for a walk."

"We took him to the veterinarian Wednesday and told him to do whatever he could," Mrs. Mahan said. Elmer, 14 years old, died the next day, apparently from old age.

He was buried Thursday night in the Mahan's garden, beside four other dogs they have kept, including Elmer I. Elmer II was said to have been the "spitting image" of Elmer I, and had been adopted when his predecessor died.

North Wisconsin Twisters Leave 30 Dead, 350 Hurt

MENOMONIE, Wis. (UPI) — Packed hospitals and shattered towns yielded new dead in tornado-devastated northwest Wisconsin Thursday. The death count mounted to at least 30 and a total of 350 persons were injured.

A United Press International count established a death total of 30, while the American Red Cross headquarters at St. Paul made the estimate of 350 injured.

A breakdown of the havoc in a 100-square-mile area of northwest Wisconsin's dairy-rich "blue diamond" region showed:

1) 119 persons hospitalized, 20 of them believed in critical condition, with ages ranging from a few months old to 82 years.

2) 615 families affected, hundreds of families homeless.

3) An estimated $10 million damage, including $1,630,000 in the town of Colfax, where 13 persons died.

4) 105 homes destroyed in the area, including 60 in Colfax.

5) A total of 165 homes which suffered major damage and 340 on which the twisters inflicted minor damage.

There were still six persons unaccounted for and scores of snarled farm homes, twisted cars and isolated areas still to be searched for more victims. It was feared more bodies would be found in the rubble and that more persons were yet to die in the jammed hospitals of Eau Claire, Menomonie, Chippewa Falls and Stanley.

Gov. Vernon Thomson sent a telegram to President Eisenhower after returning from a personal inspection of the tornado-swept area asking that Dunn, Chippewa, and Clark counties be declared Federal disaster areas. The Small Business Administration already declared St. Croix, Chippewa and Dunn counties disaster regions.

Also in Washington, Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson said the department has offered help to the northern Wisconsin twister wasteland. Benson said the department has offered to supply surplus foods to needy areas and that the Farmer's Home Administration was ready to extend emergency credit if necessary.

Thomson ordered 275 National Guardsmen already patrolling the devastated streets of Colfax to stay on duty the rest of the week. They were assigned to guard against looters and spearhead the mammoth job of clearing away shattered homes and trees, prying away the mangled hulks of cars, and feeding and clothing the uncounted homeless.

More Guardsmen and civilian volunteers went about the same task in other areas. Every community in northwestern Wisconsin began organizing relief campaigns to send food and clothing to the stricken towns. In St. Paul, the Red Cross issued an appeal for blood donors and had 200 volunteers within a few hours.

The first appeal for Federal aid came from Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), in Washington. He asked Government agencies to extend emergency disaster loans to dairy farmers and small businessmen and to help repair public works. He also wired Thomson urging him to ask President Eisenhower to declare the area a disaster region.

More U.S. Money To Trujillo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate went along with the House Thursday night and refused to cut foreign aid to the Dominican Republic just because of the hi-jinks fleet.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), led the fight to have the aid to Trujillo's strongman father slashed from the foreign aid bill. His amendment also would have cut aid to Cuba, Saudi Arabia and Yugoslavia.

The amendment was defeated. Another amendment by Sen. John J. Williams (R-Del.), which would have cut off aid to the Dominican Republic alone, also was defeated. Proxmire said young Trujillo was throwing away about as much money annually on wine, women and song as this country provides the Dominican Republic in foreign aid.

No-Contract Disputes Hit Auto Capital

Chrysler Lays Off 200 Employees

DETROIT (UPI) — Labor troubles flared Thursday at Chrysler and General Motors plants, the first unrest since a half-million workers at GM, Ford and Chrysler started working without a contract Monday.

A UAW official said Chrysler has taken advantage of the no-contract period to suspend some 200 union plant committeemen and stewards at Detroit area plants.

The union told employees to keep working and said the company is "trying to provoke a strike."

But Chrysler said "in some plants, union representatives have repeatedly refused to conform" to the new no-contract procedures outlined by the company. Chrysler said these union representatives "in fact, have been flagrantly insubordinate" and have been "given disciplinary time off."

At the General Motors' Fisher body stamping plant at West Mifflin, Pa., near Pittsburgh, 2,400 workers were idled today after UAW local 544 threw up a picket line.

UAW local 544 President John McCarroll said the work stoppage was a "1-day protest" against changed working conditions at the plant's shipping docks. The plant makes body and chassis parts chiefly for Chevrolet. McCarroll said the strike would end at 11 p.m. Thursday.

General Motors here said the union strike was legal since there is no work contract, but it said union picket lines acted illegally in halting the assistant plant manager and other salaried personnel to ask for plant passes.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler all refused to extend union contracts when they expired last weekend. But the companies said they would work the plants without a contract, observing contract conditions except in three matters; they would not collect union dues by payroll checkoff; they would not require employees to join the union shop; they would cut the amount of company-paid time spent by union representatives in settling grievances and would not allow grievance arbitration.

Thursday's troubles at GM and Chrysler broke out in the two areas most vulnerable during a no-contract period: work standards and union handling of work grievances.

At UAW, Local 3, representing the Dodge main plants in Hamtramck here, Chrysler suspended about 50 union committeemen and stewards. This was about 75 per cent of the union representatives on the day shift, and a union spokesman said there might be more committeemen suspended on the night shift.

After Congressional Fire—

AEC's Strauss Retires

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, whose nuclear policies have come under sharp fire in Congress, bowed out Thursday as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The 62-year-old official, whose renomination would have faced stiff Senate opposition, declined President Eisenhower's offer to re-appoint him.

He chose instead to retire June 30 upon expiration of his 5-year term. But he accepted an appointment as special Presidential assistant to promote Mr. Eisenhower's cherished "Atoms for Peace" program.

Asked about Strauss' impending retirement, Anderson said he did not believe any comment from him "would be helpful at this point."

"WHEN A NEW chairman of the AEC is named and confirmed, I am very hopeful that he may enjoy good relations with the Congress," he added.

This source said Strauss felt the "present constant bickering" was not good for the country, particularly in view of the fact that Anderson is slated to become chairman of the Congressional Committee next year if the Democrats keep control of Congress.

Asked about Strauss' impending retirement, Anderson said he did not believe any comment from him "would be helpful at this point."

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Ia.), a member and former chairman of the House-Senate Committee, called Strauss "an outstanding

President, Knowland Hold Conference On Aid Bill; Demos Accuse Ike of Reversal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower told Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland Thursday that he wanted authority to send economic aid to iron curtain countries, but opposed putting such a provision in the Senate's foreign aid bill.

Senate Democratic leaders promptly accused the President of reversing his position. They said the Administration originally supported a proposal by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) to give the President such authority in the pending foreign aid bill.

President Heuss of West Germany Promises Congress Everlasting Support of His Nation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — West German President Theodor Heuss promised Congress Thursday his country will stand fast with the Western world and "will never again depart from the path of democracy and freedom."

A joint session gave the visiting 74-year-old President a standing ovation, and House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) introduced him as the head of "a great, proud and free people... who are determined to remain free."

POINT MUGU, Calif. (UPI) — The U.S. Naval Air Missile Test Center Thursday launched the first of its Regulus II guided missiles, bringing the controlled "bird" back to a successful landing inland after a supersonic flight over the Pacific Ocean.

The Navy said the Regulus II flew out to sea, and then turned back to the mainland. It flew to Antelope Dry Lake, Nev., where it was landed.

De Gaulle's Appeal For Algerian Unity Rejected by Rebels

New Tunisia Policy Hints By De Gaulle

PARIS (UPI) — Informed sources said Thursday Gen. Charles De Gaulle would take urgent steps to improve France's relations with Tunisia and Morocco as soon as he returned from Algeria.

The sources said one of his first moves might be to invite Tunisian and Moroccan leaders to Paris for talks aimed at settling long-standing grievances.

De Gaulle is due back in Paris Saturday for a meeting with his cabinet. A Government spokesman said it was "very possible" that an entirely new policy for North Africa would be drawn up.

The chief sore spot in the relations between France and the two former protectorates has been the continued presence of French troops.

Both Tunisia and Morocco insist that the presence of French forces on their soil is incompatible with their status as independent nations. France has some 20,000 troops in Tunisia and about 30,000 in Morocco.

De Gaulle and King Mohammed V of Morocco are old and close friends. Both are eager to see Morocco linked closely to France politically and economically.

But the troubles between France and Tunisia will be much tougher to solve. French troops have been "blockaded" in their garrisons since the French air raid on the Tunisian border village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef last February. Relations have deteriorated steadily since with numerous clashes between French and Tunisians.

Furthermore, Tunisia openly has supported the Algerian revolutionary movement. And it has filed a complaint against France in the U.N. Security Council.

Rebels Say Fighting Will Continue

BONE, Algeria (UPI) — Premier Charles De Gaulle appealed Thursday to Moslem nationalist fighters to leave their mountain hideouts and join ranks with "10 million Frenchmen of Algeria." But rebel spokesmen abroad rejected the plea for unity and said the fighting will go on.

De Gaulle was cheered wildly by European and Moslem crowds at huge rallies in Constantine and Bone, both hotbeds of rebel resistance in turbulent eastern Algeria. Strong French garrisons control the area at gunpoint.

The premier referred to the rebels as "Those led by despair but who fought with courage a cruel brother - against - brother fight."

No French statesman ever has spoken in such terms to the Algerian rebels, undefeated in more than 3½ years of fighting.

Rebel spokesmen in Cairo and Tunis said the appeal would fall on deaf ears.

A spokesman in Cairo for the Algerian National Movement (FLN), spearhead of the revolt, said it could not accept De Gaulle's program for integrating Algeria's European and Moslem populations with equal rights and equal votes for all.

In neighboring Tunisia rebel spokesmen said the fight against more than 400,000 French troops in Algeria would go on. The rebels have said only outright independence will persuade them to lay down their arms.

De Gaulle arrived Wednesday in Algeria from Paris to talk first hand with the leaders of the French revolutionary junta whose defiance of Paris unseated Premier Pierre Pflimlin and paved the way for De Gaulle's return to power.

De Gaulle told crowds in Bone a popular referendum in three months will be "a great national conference when France will decide on its destiny. I hope all of you will take part in it."

This was a reference to the referendum in which the nine million Arab and Berber Moslem Algerians and the one million Algerians of French descent will join with 45 million residents of France in voting on constitutional reforms. De Gaulle has promised to draft the reforms to strengthen the executive.

"In three months," he said, "all of France will be united. France will not fail you."

Both in Bone and in Constantine the crowds chanted the name of the Gaullist deputy Jacques Soustelle along with De Gaulle's. Soustelle was the political strong-man of the Algerian rebellion, but failed to win a place in the De Gaulle cabinet.

In Constantine, Soustelle, who stood behind De Gaulle when the crowd started to chant his name, made frantic gestures with his hands to calm the uproar. De Gaulle frowned.

At Bone, the premier appeared much more relaxed and at ease. About 75,000 people jammed the streets in Constantine for a look at De Gaulle. Scores of women fainted under the blazing north African sun as De Gaulle spoke from the balcony of the municipal theatre.

De Gaulle arrived in Bone just after noon and immediately drove to the town hall through flag and flower-draped streets.

He left his car at the railroad station, and walked about a quarter of a mile to the city hall, shaking hands with Algerians and Europeans alike. He stopped several times in front of aged turbaned Algerians and put his hand on their shoulders while the crowd cheered. "I am here to make pledges on the part of France in this movement of revival and fraternity," De Gaulle said, again speaking from a balcony.

"Algeria is French!" roared back the crowd of about 7,500.

"I am sure that the whole country will support this movement," he declared.

House Balks At Army Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House balked at President Eisenhower's bid to cut Army manpower by 30,000 and then whipped to unanimous passage Thursday a record peace-time defense fund of $38,409,561,000.

House members insisted, too, on more money than Mr. Eisenhower asked for missile and antisubmarine warfare programs, and for a stronger Marine Corps, National Guard and Reserve.

For these purposes, the huge money bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1 went to the Senate carrying hundreds of millions more than Mr. Eisenhower requested.

The roll call vote on passage was 389-0.

Except on the size of the Army, the House went down the line with its Appropriations Committee on all items in the bill. Retired five-star Gen. Eisenhower had urged that Army manpower be trimmed from 900,000 to 870,000 in the year ahead. The committee accepted that proposal, but not the House.

Nothing New for 54 Years

This is the second of a series of editorials devoted to the need for reapportionment of the Iowa legislature. The third and final article will appear in next Tuesday's Daily Iowan. It will propose a means by which the average citizen can achieve a fairer representation in state government.

Both the Iowa Senate and House are controlled by the rural areas. These rural areas are greatly over-represented in both houses while the state's urban areas are greatly under-represented.

More than 40 per cent of the state's population is concentrated in 16 counties. Only 25 of the 108 members of the House are elected from these 16 counties. Thus, 40 per cent of the population is represented by 25 per cent of the House's membership.

In the 16 Senatorial districts that have cities of over 15,000 population, more than 44 per cent of Iowa's population lives. Yet, these 16 senators are less than one-third of the members of the upper house.

This over-representation of the rural areas and under-representation of the urban areas stems from one thing:

The failure to reapportion the legislature for 54 years.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Membership in the House has stayed the same for 54 years, since 1904. Changes in apportionment of members have been insignificant. The only changes have been the taking away of an extra representative from one county and the awarding of it to another county which had gained a larger population.

During this period, Iowa's population pattern has changed greatly.

Iowa's first House, which met in 1846, had 39 members, each elected from a single-member district. A new set of rules on apportionment of the General Assembly was included in Iowa's second constitution, which went into effect in 1857. The separation of counties in one representative district by a county or counties in a different district was forbidden. No representative district was allowed to include more than four counties. Districts could be reapportioned at every regular session of the General Assembly.

By 1904, when the constitution was amended and the present apportionment set up went into effect, the House had 100 members.

The present apportionment law sets the number of representatives at 108 — one from each county regardless of population and one extra from each of the nine counties with the largest population.

This is the only concession given to population in the apportionment of members of the House.

Under the present law, a county with a population of less than 10,000 elects one representative while a large county like Polk, with a population of over 200,000 elects only two members to the House. Thus, a vote in the small county carries over 10 times the weight of a vote in Polk county.

Twenty-one Iowa counties with a population of 273,000 (1950 census) have 21 votes in the House. Polk and Woodbury counties, with over 327,000 citizens, have only four members in the House.

SENATE

The constitution of 1857 directed that the Senate should be reapportioned after every state and Federal census. The maximum number of Senators was set at one-half the number of representatives. By 1872, there were 50 senators elected from 50 districts.

The constitutional amendment of 1904 limited the size of the Senate to 50 members. More regard is given to population here than in the House, but the urban areas are still greatly under-represented.

Senators, according to the constitution, are to be apportioned among the counties according to distribution of population shown by the last census. However, no senatorial district can be smaller than one county and no district can have more than one senator.

Herein lies the joker. Because of these limitations, very little reapportionment of Senators is possible after every census as is directed. And there is no force to see that the directive is followed.

Senators from the less populous districts represent as few as 25,000 people. At the other extreme, the Senator from Polk county represents more than 200,000 constituents.

The under-representation of the cities in the Iowa legislature can not be rightfully defended on any grounds. It is simply a matter of a vested interest in power which wants to retain that power.

This is the cause of many of Iowa's problems. New faces, and new ideas, are needed in the Iowa legislature. These will not appear as long as the same group controls it.

Until the Iowa legislature is reapportioned, Iowa will continue in its complacent, behind-the-times ways.

Why Should I 'Auto Buy'

TO THE EDITOR:

While walking down Washington street, noticing the two blocks which have been blocked off for the "You Auto Buy Now" campaign, this thought came to mind.

Back in 1948, I went into an automobile dealers showroom and inquired as to the availability of a new car. The salesman took 15 or 20 minutes to wait on me and then only with a highly indifferent attitude.

My first question, "When would I be able to get a new car?" In an almost belligerent tone of voice, I was told that I would have to wait six or eight months, depending upon supply, of course.

The salesman said I would have to make a $200 deposit, and they would call me in the event my car ever came in. I asked what the automobile would cost, and he quoted me a list price, which did not include spare tire, hub caps, etc. These were all listed as "optional at extra cost."

In addition to these "extras," I would have to take fender guards, spotlights, rear speakers, sun visors, plus numerous other items. These too would be "optional at extra cost." I felt like I must have an inside key to Fort Knox before I could afford this coveted item of transportation.

Here is the irony of my thought today. I stopped and talked to one of the salesmen so numerous sprinkled up and down those two blocks on Washington Street and asked him the reason for the present campaign. He replied that the American economy is now in danger of collapsing, and it was the duty of the automobile dealers to do their part in overcoming the slump. He said the public "auto buy" their new car in order to help.

Judging from some recently released figures on how many cars the automobile manufacturers have in backlog, isn't this drive more of an effort on the part of the industry to get rid of their overproduction?

I don't mind anyone trying to sell their product, for it is a continual sales effort that keeps this country's economy going; but I do object to the automobile dealers playing upon our "good old American patriotism" to save their necks.

Also, let some of these dealers remember their attitudes of the 1946-48 era and show a little humility. I, for one, and I'm sure I am not alone, got stepped on too many times to forget their hostility.

The Student's View — Drawbacks Of A Soviet Education

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Three American student editors, back from a view of the Soviet education system, agree there are drawbacks to a system which attempts mass production of specialists.

Their impressions are applicable to discussions now going on here.

Jay B. Sorenson, 27, who speaks Russian and is a former editor of the news organ of the Student League for Industrial Democracy, made one of the key points.

He said heavily overspecialized Soviet students run the risk of not being competent to meet problems outside their specialty and not becoming well-rounded individuals.

Peter Eccles, 22, a senior at Dartmouth, said much the same. He called it lowering over-all quality.

The Communist system is not directed toward individual development and it is not wanted there. A well-rounded individual is too prone to think about the system within which he lives and to seek improvements which may not fit at all with the concept of a monolithic state, built on a common denominator.

Numerous observers have commented on the seriousness of Soviet students. Ralph Della Cave, 23, editor of international publications of the U.S. National Student Association, attributed at least some of it to the necessity of maintaining academic standings to qualify for scholarships and cash allotments.

As they describe it, the Soviet system is much like going out and assigning trainees for a job which some of them will eventually be chosen to fill. Sorenson said the students were limited in their fields of specialization, told what fields they must enter.

"I disliked more of what I saw of the Soviet educational system than I liked," he said.

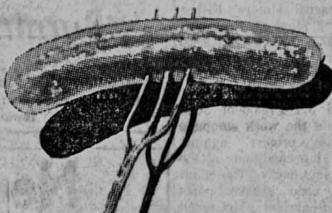

Since all of the young men complained that their tour was rigidly conducted and contact with rank-and-file students limited, it seems quite probable they would have more greatly disliked the part they didn't see.

Nevertheless, the advances of Soviet education in recent years cannot be kissed off. From a vast — and purposeful — illiteracy under the czars, and an almost complete ignorance of machinery, they have advanced to second place in industry and great scientific achievement.

Others, however, consider education as a garden plot for the nurturing of dreams; an atmosphere in which man can study where he has been and thereby establish some standards for where he wants to go.

Too highly specialized education may carry man to the moon. But does he want to bypass Walden Pond?

Hot Dog!

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON — The lowly hot dog moved into governmental big leagues Wednesday.

With a pomp and circumstance, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson was given a gold hot dog for his desk, and a 40-inch real hot dog, for his mouth.

All this was an attempt by the American meat packers to remind us that just around the calendar corner is July, National Hot Dog Month. Hot dog!

Well, Benson accepted the gold hot dog and said: "The hot dog has become more or less a symbol of good eating."

Then, while photographers went to work furiously, he dutifully bit off one end of the enormous, cold hot dog, and chomped away with a moderately rapturous expression.

To no one's surprise, a packer press agent was fluttering around the fringes of Benson's newssnack conference, eager to pass along these facts:

The Half-Mile Hot Dog
No one knows who invented the hot dog, but in 1801 the German Butchers Guild came up with a beauty that would have sated not just Benson but the whole Eisenhower Administration. That sausage was more than a half mile long and weighed 885 pounds.

Also, the best U.S. effort falls far short of that. An Indiana meat packer once made a 7-footer to celebrate the opening of a Peru, Ind., doggerly.

The first American-style hot dog appeared at the St. Louis Fair in 1904. The concessionaire hit on the splendid idea of passing out white gloves with each dog, so patrons wouldn't soil their hands. The trouble was, too many customers walked off with the gloves.

So the concessionaire's brother, a baker, thought up the hot dog bun to protect our fingers. Now we can have our gloves and eat them, too.

Alias White Hots, Etc.

Hot dogs have more aliases than raketeters. In the South they may be redhots. In New York they may be franks — except around Rochester and Syracuse where they go in for pale dogs and call them white hots, or around New York City where they are often called coney. Wieners and frankfurters still retain their formal, or fancy dress, names.

Now, a final question. Was Benson's desk dog really gold?

"Not really," said the publicist. "This one is gold plated, and will cost us around $25. I priced a solid gold one. Came to $14,000."

Engel's Bridge Angles

Michael Engel

NOTE: Because finals are tying me down, today's column was written by my friend Jon Weinberg, one of the best players in Iowa City.

Much is made of the importance of trying to make bidding as scientific as possible. The relatively recent popularization of the point-count system has made it possible for even beginning bridge players to decide how to bid most hands. When the partnership is seen to have a combined holding of 25 points, as when opener's partner responds to a suit bid with 2NT, a game contract is easily arrived at. Similarly, evidence that the combined holdings of the partnership total 33 points will typically lead to a slam try.

NOW FAR BE IT from me to suggest abandoning this simple and relatively accurate system. Not only is it an invaluable guide to those learning the rudiments of the game, but it is even used by most experts for bidding run-of-the-mill hands. The purpose of this column is rather to emphasize to intermediate players the importance of considering more than the mere numerical point totals, at least with many unusual hands.

In general, the main features to evaluate are: bizarre distribution, whether the hands are a fit or misfit, the "texture" or look of a hand, and possession of first-round controls (ace or void) in short suits. While of course one can't give rules in how to bid unscientifically, a few illustrative hands may give the reader a reasonable idea. Most of the hands given were actually played by the writer in tournament competition.

Let us first contrast two hands on each of which 6D was bid.

(1) West S-AQ10xxx East S- H- H-AQJxxx D-Kxx D-Kxx C-AJx C-KQx

(2) West S-x East S-AKxxxx H-Axx H-xxx D-KQJ10x D-A9xx C-10xxx C-

Hand 1 is the case of the 36-point misfit. Each hand is worth 18 points to open. Without going into the horrible details, each player bid his suit vigorously over the other until West, in desperation, mentioned his little old diamond suit. East, clutching at a straw, raised him finally to the 6-level, with disastrous results.

The bidding on hand 2:

West 1S 2D 2S 4D! East 1S 2C 2S 6D!!

The 4D bid was made because the hand's distribution virtually precluded playing in NT, and the fine trump fit and void contraindicated a mere 3D preference.

West, with first-round heart control and a virtual guarantee of finding a singleton or club void and

Guild Cites 'Rumors' in Wire Merger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Newspaper Guild Thursday asked the Justice Department to investigate whether the recent consolidation of the United Press and International News Service involved an agreement to suspend publication of certain newspapers.

William J. Farson, executive vice-president of the Guild, an AFL-CIO union, requested the inquiry in a letter to assistant attorney general Victor Hansen, head of the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division.

Hansen said he had a written assurance that the consolidation agreement "did not involve suspension of any newspaper publication."

Hansen said he specifically went into that question when he investigated the consolidation "on the basis of reports that newspapers particularly in San Francisco and Pittsburgh" were to be suspended.

"We received a definite reply," Hansen told a reporter, "that there was no discussion and no agreement of discontinuance of any publication" by Scripps-Howard and Hearst Corp.

Farson said there was a "persistent rumor" that the UP-INS consolidation "included an agreement between the Hearst organization and Scripps-Howard to carve out certain markets where competition between the two chains would be eliminated."

"Such an agreement would be in restraint of trade and a violation of the anti-trust laws," Farson said.

He told Hansen this "should be investigated if it was not included in your original examination" of the UP-INS consolidation.

Grad Takes June Bride

Mrs. Ray J. Scheetz
Double-Ring Ceremony

Miss Shirley Ann Wuchter, daughter of Mrs. Marcella M. and the late Edward A. Wuchter of Manchester, Wednesday became the bride of Mr. John L. Scheetz, a recent graduate of SUI.

Mr. Scheetz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray J. Scheetz of Iowa City. The double ring ceremony took place at St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

The couple will take a brief wedding trip, then make its home at 422 7th Avenue S.W., Cedar Rapids.

The bride is a graduate of St. Patrick's High School and currently employed at Collins Radio Company in Cedar Rapids. The bridegroom is employed at the Laurance Printing Press in Cedar Rapids.

Didn't Order Tapping: Hoffa

NEW YORK (UPI) — Teamsters Union Chief James R. Hoffa claimed in testimony read Thursday that he had hired an expert to remove, instead of install, wiretaps from union headquarters at Detroit.

Hoffa gave the testimony last year before a grand jury which indicted him and two other persons on charges of wiretap conspiracy.

The testimony was read today at the second trial. The first trial ended in a hung jury last December.

In the testimony, Hoffa said that he had become suspicious that his office and home telephones were tapped. He said he hired a professional wiretapper in 1953 to check the telephones and remove any wiretapping devices.

The wiretapper also was instructed, Hoffa said, to install equipment for detecting wiretapping, and to set up an inter-office communications system, which was to be used to overhear conversations in other rooms.

Cards Hit .500 Mark, Move to Third Spot

7 of 8 for St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis achieved the .500 mark for the first time this season, nudging Pittsburgh 4-3 Thursday for a sweep of the three-game series.

The Cards got to starter Bob Friend for seven hits but made them count in handing the star righthander his fourth loss against eighth victors.

The Cards have now copped seven of their last eight games. Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtagh started an all-right-handed lineup against Mizell, 3-5 and it produced nine hits but no victory.

The Cards pierced a scoreless game in the third inning with two unearned runs. With one out Gene Freese booted Hal Smith's ground ball. Mizell, struck out but Don Blasingame tripled Smith home and Ed Kaska brought in Blasingame with a single.

Giants Gain on Braves

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's rookie first baseman Orlando Cepeda singled home the winning run with one out in the last of the 12th inning Thursday, beat Milwaukee 5-4 and moved the Giants just 10 percentage points behind the league leading Braves.

Right-handed batting Cepeda tagged Gene Conley's first offering to left field and Finigan, who had doubled, scored easily.

Left-handers Warren Spahn for Milwaukee and Johnny Antonelli for San Francisco started, but the Braves' hurler left in the seventh, charged with four runs and Antonelli departed an inning later after putting the tying run on base.

The victory eventually went to left-handed Jim Constance, his first of the year. Conley was charged with his fourth defeat.

Cubs Blow 6-1 Lead

CHICAGO (AP) — Right-hander Dick Farrell's relief work and Stan Lopata's two-run homer Thursday carried the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-6 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

Farrell's blazing fast ball struck out five Cubs in the last three innings.

The victory went to Ray Semproch, second Philadelphia pitcher who was lifted for a pinch hitter when the Phillies unloaded a five-run seventh inning to offset a previous Chicago six-run outburst.

Lopata's 380-foot homer was hit off Don Elston, third Cub pitcher. It followed Harry Anderson's base-clearing double.

In the Phil's seventh, pinch-hitter Dave Philley walked and Richie Ashburn followed with a single, chasing Cub starter Glenn Hobbie. Reliever Dick Mayer walked Solly Hemus. Then Anderson's double cleared the bases.

Reds Beat Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gangling Bob Purkey stumbled both at the start and the finish but pitched magnificently in between and picked up his seventh victory Thursday as Cincinnati dropped Los Angeles 8-4 before a meager Coliseum crowd of 8,440.

The 6-foot-2 righthander was nailed for two runs in the first inning and another in the second. After that, he didn't allow a Dodger past second base until Gil Hodges hit his eighth homer of the year with the bases empty in the ninth.

Yanks, Sox Split

NEW YORK (AP) — Sherm Lollar knocked in all of Chicago's runs with a homer and a single as the White Sox salvaged a 3-2 nightcap victory Thursday after the American League leader New York Yankees had taken the first game of a doubleheader 12-5.

Lollar rapped a two-run homer off starter-loser Bobby Shantz in the first inning of the second game, then made it 3-0 with an RBI single off Sal Maglie in the ninth before Ray Moore lost his four-hit shutout.

The Yankees got their runs on singles by Andy Carey and Bill Skowron, an error and a force out before Moore got Harry Simpson to hit into a force out that ended it.

Indians Lose, 5-3

BOSTON (AP) — Gene Stephens, pitting his speed against the strong right arm of Rocky Colavito, dashed home with the deciding run on Jackie Jensen's long foul fly Thursday as Boston defeated Cleveland 5-3.

Sammy White followed with a single that brought in an insurance tally.

Southpaw Leo Kiely, third Red Sox hurler, preserved the triumph for Mike Fornieles in the ninth.

Favor Akins In Battle for Welter Title

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Virgil Akins banks on punching power to nullify Vince Martinez' boxing skill tonight in a 15-round match for the world welterweight title. Slugger Akins is the 9-5 favorite in his home town.

The championship of the 147-pound division has been unmaned for almost nine months since Carmen Basilio went hunting for bigger game.

Although the bout will be carried on network television and radio, starting at 8 p.m. CST, St. Louis and a 150-mile surrounding area will be blacked out of the telecast.

Emory Jones, the local promoter, and the International Boxing Club expect about 9,000 people and a gross gate of $60,000 or more.

Akins' career record for 65 fights is 47-17-1, as compared to Martinez' 60-5 for the same number of scraps. Akins has been stopped twice.

Martinez, 29, never failed to last the distance.

Akins has been able to rise to the occasion when necessary. In his last fight, March 21, he was trailing on all official cards until he was suddenly caught up with Isaac Logart, a fancy boxer.

Athletics Win in 13

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-run home run by Woody Held provided the Kansas City Athletics and pitcher Ralph Terry with a 2-0 victory over Carmelo Pascual and the Washington Senators in a tense 13-inning duel Thursday night.

For Held, a fifth-inning substitute for Mike Baxes, who left the game with a sprained right ankle, this was homer No. 3 for the season.

The blow into the left field bullpen, following a single by Vic Power, rewarded Terry with his third victory of the season.

Detroit Adds First Negro to Roster

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers added their first Negro player Thursday — the 15th major league team to do so since Jackie Robinson joined the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947.

He is Ossie Virgil, 25, a native of the Dominican Republic. Virgil is a third baseman and has spent this season with Charleston, W.Va., in the American Assn.

Last year Virgil was with the New York Giants. He was peddled to the Tigers in January along with Gail Harris for Jim Finigan and cash.

At that time the Tigers said he was obtained for Charleston, not for the parent club.

Thursday, with the Tigers in last place in the American League, Virgil was promoted. The move leaves only the Boston Red Sox with a history of no Negro players.

Coming with Virgil to the Tigers Friday will be Herb Moford, 29, a righthanded pitcher who has a spectacular .088 earned run average and a 6-0 mark which includes three starts and two shutouts.

To make room, the Tigers farmed out utility man Lou Skizas and pitcher Bob Shaw.

Virgil has driven in 4 runs in 50 games and was hitting .292 in the association.

The Tigers said Virgil's color had nothing to do with being sent to Charleston in the first place, or being brought up now.

The club has been under some pressure from Negro groups in Detroit to add a Negro player. And one such group recently announced and then called off a boycott of Briggs Stadium.

Animals Survive 37-Mile Space Ride, Says AF Vet

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI)—An Air Force veterinarian Thursday described experiments in which two mice and two monkeys successfully were fired 37 miles into space in the nose cone of a rocket to test survival conditions.

Lt. Col. A. A. Taylor, of the office of the director of Life and Science of the Air Force Research and Development Command, said that the safe return of the animals proved there was nothing for man to fear going 37 miles up in space. TAYLOR, ADDRESSING a regional conference on newly developed antimicrobials "nitrofurans" and their use in veterinary medicine, explained that the purpose of the test was to see if man could survive a flight that high in space.

He said the animals were in a seven foot nose cone of an Aerobee rocket with instruments to record pulse and other body reactions, through radio signals sent back to earth.

A movie camera also was included and when the rocket was successfully recovered, scientists were able to observe the reactions of the animals.

Taylor said that when the rocket first took off, the mice were subjected to four times the normal force of gravity and were pushed down into a drum in the nose cone. When the cone was detached from the rocket, the mice became almost weightless and floated in the drum.

HE SAID THAT after the cone was up 37 miles, it was lowered by a parachute. The animals then were taken out and studied.

He emphasized that they suffered no harmful effects and had lived normal lives since.

2 Youths Win Heart Council Scholarships

John Kammermeyer, a senior at Iowa City High School, and Dave Fracassini, an eighth grade pupil at Iowa City Junior High School, are winners of the Cedar Valley Heart Council's first scholarship awards.

Kammermeyer, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kammermeyer, 116 Ferson Avenue, will receive $500 for use in obtaining a college education.

Fourteen-year-old Fracassini, 911 Iowa Avenue, will receive a $200 scholarship. The youth also will be given an opportunity to study for eight weeks this summer in the SUI botany laboratory.

The awards were set up this spring by the Johnson County Heart Committee of the Cedar Valley Heart Council, which is composed of Johnson, Cedar, Linn, Washington, Benton, Iowa and Jones Counties.

Candidates were nominated by scholarship nominating committees of the schools in Johnson County. Winners were selected on the basis of scholastic achievements, recommendations by instructors, personal interviews, and essays which they wrote to describe their interests in the biological sciences.

Record Number Seen for Prep Journalism Workshop

A record number of high school journalism students has been enrolled in the SUI School of Journalism's sixth annual High School Publications Workshop, according to Workshop Director Jeff Clark, instructor in journalism at SUI.

This year's enrollment is 194 compared to last year's previous high of 183, and it may reach 200, Clark said.

Registration for the Workshop will begin at 8:30 a.m. Monday, June 9. The Workshop will run until noon Saturday, June 14.

PURPOSE OF the Workshop is to give students background and instruction on techniques and problems of publishing a high school newspaper or yearbook, Clark said.

Classes and sessions will be conducted by SUI journalism faculty members, representatives of commercial yearbook and photography companies, and high school journalism advisers and instructors.

Instruction will be offered in four divisions: letterpress and offset printed newspapers, mimeographed newspapers, school pages in local newspapers, and yearbooks. The students will discuss such topics as news, feature and editorial writing, copyreading and editing, photography, staff organization, business management and advertising, page makeup, and yearbook planning and production.

A special workshop for high school publications advisers will be conducted concurrently with the students' workshop. Advisers attending this workshop may earn credit in the SUI School of Journalism. Twelve advisers attended this course in 1957 and more are expected this year, Clark said.

The workshop staff will include Otto W. Quale, publications director for the American Yearbook Company of Owatonna, Minnesota; Howard Taft, art director for the American Yearbook Company; Raymond Porter of the Dille Manufacturing Company, makers of yearbook covers; and Robert S. Beeler of the Eastman-Kodak Company, all of whom will conduct sessions on yearbook production.

SUI JOURNALISM faculty members participating in the workshop and the topics they will discuss are: Walter A. Steigleman, feature writing; Wilbur Peterson, yearbook staff organization; Murvin H. Perry, career opportunities in journalism; and Arthur M. Sanderson, Iowa high school journalism activities.

In addition to the workshop sessions, student activities will include: a tour of the Davenport Democrat shop and offices; a trip down the Mississippi; tours of the SUI television studios and astronomy observatory; swimming parties in the SUI Fieldhouse Pool; a reception and get-acquainted party; and a graduation banquet.

See Record Wheat Crop In Kansas

WELLINGTON, Kan. (AP)—Combines will start through 10 million acres of wheat in Kansas next week, and right now it looks so good the farmers can hardly believe it.

For the first time since 1952 they are talking about 30 bushels to the acre, even 35 and 40.

THE HAZARDS they dread from now until the Fourth of July are heavy rain, high winds, temperatures above 105, and grasshoppers.

Barring these, more than 218 million bushels of the golden grain will soon gorge the elevators and bins of Kansas, the nation's No. 1 wheat producer.

Raymond Frye, Sumner County agricultural agent, predicted yields will run 25 to 30 bushels an acre and the average will equal or top the 25 bushels with which Sumner County led the state last year.

FOR A WEEK NOW the combines swarmed the highways southbound to Texas and Oklahoma where the harvest already has started. Sometimes they move in caravans of half a dozen. A truck trails each combine.

Garden City is the center of the worry about grasshoppers. Don Trayer, Finney County agricultural agent, rallied an all-out attack. The county set up a distribution center for spray and made it available at less than cost.

Dentists Plan Refresher in Drug Therapy

Recent advances in drug therapy as applied to the clinical practice of dentistry will be presented at a one-day refresher course at SUI June 14.

Dentists from all parts of Iowa and surrounding states will attend the course, which will focus on barbiturates, sedatives, antibiotics and tranquilizing agents.

Sponsored by the SUI College of Dentistry during the University's annual Alumni Reunion weekend, the course will point up the practical application of the newer drugs, with lectures and demonstrations by faculty members of the College of Dentistry.

Staff members of the SUI College of Medicine's department of pharmacology will discuss the pharmacology of the new drugs and college of pharmacy faculty members will demonstrate preparation of the drugs.

Registration for the course, to be held in the SUI College of Dentistry auditorium, will begin at 8:30 a.m. June 14. Dr. William J. Simon, dean of the SUI College of Dentistry, will give the welcoming address at 9 a.m.

Other SUI speakers at the conference will include Hugh H. Keasling, associate professor of pharmacology; Dr. V. S. Hinds, assistant professor of oral surgery; Dr. James H. Wick, head of operative dentistry; Seymour M. Blaug, associate professor of pharmacy; Dr. A. M. Bjorndal, assistant professor of operative dentistry and moderator of the course, and Dr. Richard E. Bradley, instructor of periodontology.

Nurses Will Hold Five-Day Legal Seminar

Iowa nurses will have an opportunity to add to their knowledge of the legal aspects of nursing practice in a five-day seminar June 16-20 on the SUI campus.

Conducting the workshop will be Bernice E. Anderson, professor of nursing education at Teachers College, Columbia University. Dr. Anderson is currently a member of the American Nurses' Association Committee on Legislation, and is chairman of the Subcommittee on Education Standards of the ANA Committee on State Boards of Nursing.

Sponsor of the Workshop on Legal Aspects of Nursing Practice is the Coordinating Council of the Iowa League for Nursing and the Iowa Nurses Association.

Main speaker for the workshop will be Peter Janss, Des Moines attorney. Janss will address the nurses June 19 on various aspects of the legal profession, including court procedure.

3 'Golden Rule' Crewmen Face 60 Day Jail Terms

HONOLULU (UPI)—Three Pacific fishermen of the Yacht Golden Rule were sentenced to 60 days in jail Thursday by Federal Judge Jon Wiig for defying a Federal court injunction.

Only James Peck, 43, New York City, got a probationary sentence because it was his first offense in trying to sail the yacht to the Eniwetok nuclear test grounds in a protest move.

Others sentenced were William R. Huntington, 51, St. James, N. Y., Orion Sherwood, 23, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and George Willoughby, 43, Blackwood Terrace, N. J.

Earlier, Judge Wiig told Huntington that he and his colleagues had "tainted" the Golden Rule by adding the words "if it suits us."

Huntington was sentenced for leading the second abortive attempt to Eniwetok to protest continuation of U.S. nuclear tests in the Marshall Islands.

Albert S. Bigelow, 52, Cos Cob, Conn., skipper of the pacifist expedition, was jailed earlier Wednesday for commanding the first attempt of the day which never got away from the dock.

Huntington refused legal counsel Thursday and said his "plea of guilty is to the fact that I did not move the boat. In my conscience I feel that I did not do wrong," he said.

Before he was sentenced, Huntington told the court how the pacifists came to name their now famous craft after rejecting many names and then choosing one that "seemed to satisfy the thing we were seeking."

Judge Wiig smiled grimly and said "up until May 1, 1958 (when the first violation of the injunction against the trip occurred) I had the same understanding of the Golden Rule. Unfortunately you have tainted the Golden Rule by adding the words on to it, 'if it suits us.'"

Police Check Break-In at IC Oil Station

A break-in at the Jones-Herriott bulk plant Wednesday night appears to have been done by the same person who has taken approximately $120 in three other attempts, Gene Arneson, operator of the plant, said.

The recent break-in was discovered Wednesday morning. There was no money in the store this time, and nothing else was taken.

Entrance to the building, a barracks type structure, was gained by prying open a panel in the South door, with a small screwdriver, pushing in the screen, and unlocking the door through the opening.

A file cabinet where the money had previously been hidden had been moved out of position. However, it contained only file cards and was not locked.

No money was in the building because the firm does its banking before noon. This was started after the previous break-ins.

Previously the burglar took the cashboxes with him. In the three other break-ins, he netted approximately $120 and 5 or 6 cash boxes. This was because the firm had purchased several extra cash boxes.

There was no damage inside the building. "The thief even shut the door when he left," Arneson said.

NLRB Chides Ex-Dodger For Union Race Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) chided Jackie Robinson Thursday for making an appeal to race prejudice in a union election contest.

But the board said the conduct star was not flagrant enough to set aside the election results. The union lost.

The case involved the Harrison, N. J., plant of the Chock Full O'Nuts Co. and Local 262 of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union.

The union accused Robinson, who broke the Major Leagues' color barrier, of telling Negroes at the plant they would be fired if the union was victorious. Robinson is a vice-president of the firm.

THE NLRB UPHOLD its regional director, who found the evidence did not support this charge. But the director said Robinson did tell Negro employees "white employees were jealous of my (Robinson's) position with the company."

The NLRB official said the one-time Brooklyn Dodgers infielder also told Negro workers that "some of the employees didn't want to be represented by me" in his role in the firm's personnel operations.

The union also alleged that company vice-president William Berdick threatened white employees at the racially mixed plant that they would be fired if the union won the balloting.

The NLRB said it did not "condone" the actions of either Robinson or Berdick. But it concluded that their activities did not interfere with employees' free choice of the bargaining election.

THE UNION LOST by a 44-22 count. It was not apparent from the decision how many employees were Negroes and how many were white.

The union said Robinson went through the plant immediately before the election last June 13 to issue the alleged warnings to Negro employees.

Pharm Students Will Have Banquet

One of the first of many events on the jam-packed SUI Commencement calendar will be the annual Pharmacy Senior Dinner, which will be held the evening of June 12 in Iowa Memorial Union.

Awards will be presented to six outstanding students at the traditional banquet which honors graduating pharmacists. Dean Louis C. Zopf of the SUI College of Pharmacy will present the awards. Thomas Kenefick, Eagle Grove, president of the senior pharmacy class, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Paul Freeman, divisional manager of E. R. Squibb and Sons Laboratories, will be the featured speaker at the banquet. His topic will be "Opportunities in Pharmacy."

Triple Accidents Back Belief of Circus Folk

folk have a superstition: Every time an accident occurs, look for two more to follow.

So performers crossed their fingers Wednesday night when a bareback rider was thrown to the ground.

Then a 11-year-old girl performer with a local gymnastic group fell six feet during a trapeze act and was taken to the hospital.

And then a trapeze artist missed the landing net and fell to the ground. He suffered no serious injury.

Crowded Airways Cancel Practice Of Jet Trainers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Military officials said Thursday that a large number of jet training flights had been cancelled in the last two weeks as a result of safety restrictions imposed along crowded airways.

An Air Force spokesman said pilots now had to wait three or four hours for clearance from traffic controllers to take off from some fields. He said many flights were called off because the loss of time and expensive jet fuel was "just too high."

Air Force and Air Reserve officials said the curbs were due entirely to congestion resulting from new safety requirements. Under the rules, non-tactical jets cruising under 20,000 feet near airways must fly under instrument flight rules.

The military curbs were announced May 23 by Elwood R. Quesada, chairman of the President's Airways Modernization Board. The move was part of the Government's efforts to prevent collisions between commercial planes and military jets.

Dental Students Take State Board Exams

Fifty-five seniors in the SUI College of Dentistry and 32 students completing the college's course for dental hygienists are taking state board examinations this week.

Twelve seniors in dentistry from colleges in other states and one dental hygiene graduate from New Jersey are also taking the tests.

Members of the Iowa State Board of Dental Examiners on the campus to administer the examinations are Drs. P. T. Williams, Atlantic; Philip Hab, Burlington; Richard F. Rabe, Des Moines; Gerit Hospers, Waterloo, and Arthur E. Meswarb, Cedar Falls.

The students must pass the state board examinations before being admitted to practice in the state.

Lost Watch, Damage Reported to Police

A damaged car and a lost wrist watch were reported to Iowa City Police Thursday.

William Olson, 415 Ronalds St., reported a girl's Timex wrist watch with black luminous dial and alligator stretch band, lost sometime Thursday. He valued the watch at $15.

Jim Shoger, E2, Nora Springs, reported the radio antenna had been broken off his car and the bug screen mashed in and bent out of shape. Damage was estimated at $12.

Barbara Burns Protests Dope Conviction

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Barbara Burns, daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns, was convicted today of misdemeanor narcotics addiction despite her tearful claim that she signed a statement admitting she was an addict because of a police promise.

The jury deliberated less than an hour before returning its verdict in the 2-day trial of the 20-year-old girl. Sentencing was set for next Monday by Judge Harold E. Shepherd.

Miss Burns earlier testified Thursday that she was told she would not be sent to jail if she signed the statement that she was an addict.

A jury of seven men and five women heard the tall, attractive brunette testify that police told her they were interested only in arresting film technician David J. Mack, 26, now Miss Burns' husband.

Mack was convicted last month of furnishing Miss Burns with narcotics and is now awaiting sentence.

According to testimony by the defendant, two narcotics officers entered her Hollywood apartment last Jan. 7 without her permission and without a search warrant.

"They looked at my hands, turned them over and told me the marks were made with a needle."

When taken to Hollywood police station, she said she told Sgt. John E. O'Grady that if she were booked, "it would ruin my chances for a career."

Earlier Thursday, narcotics officer E. L. Allen testified he went to the young woman's apartment when police received a tip that juveniles were using narcotics.

1958 Grads Make Plans For Future

By JOE PENNE Staff Writer

A week from today is graduation day for about 1,250 SUI students. It is a day they have worked, hoped and prayed for. But now that the big day has nearly arrived, what are they looking forward to?

Most students agree they will be glad to do the things they will be wanted without having to think about studying, writing a term paper or examinations.

All of the graduates agree they have something to look forward to.

Rogert G. Langland, Zearing, has his future planned for at least the next three years. In August he plans on leaving for southeast Asia to become a Methodist missionary.

Another person expecting to take a trip — this one at the expense of the U.S. Marine Corps — is Larry Hemmett, journalism major from Camanche.

Hemmett expressed the feelings of a number of spring grads when he said, "I want to go in and get it over with. I had a number of interviews for jobs this spring, but when they learned my draft status they lost interest and told me to come and see them when I got my service obligations fulfilled."

Hemmett plans to take a short vacation before he goes into the Marines for six months in late June or early July.

Linda Hill, Muncie, Ind., will also become acquainted with service life, but it will be through her new job and forthcoming marriage.

Linda, like many grads, is planning to be married this summer. There was little hesitation by Linda when she was asked what she was looking forward to. "Getting married, of course," was her quick reply.

Linda plans to marry Lt. Roy Eberline on July 19 in Muncie. After the wedding she will return to Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., with her husband where she will practice speech therapy at the post school.

Lt. Eberline is a 1957 graduate of the SUI College of Engineering. Wives of graduates also have plenty to look forward to. At SUI the hand that rocks the cradle doesn't rule the world. Instead it keeps the baby quiet so dad can study.

Most wives are looking forward to getting to know their husbands as something other than students. This means being able to talk to their husbands other than between classes or trips to the library.

To some wives it means spending time together and doing things together. To others it means settling down in a permanent home away from barracks or apartments. And for some it means being able to quit work and stay home and take care of the family and keep house.

After six years of living in government and university housing, Norma Kvindlog, wife of Don Kvindlog, Clarion, is one of those looking forward to having a home of her own. But most of all she anticipates "being together" with her husband and her six-week-old son David.

"It will be wonderful to be able to sit down and talk to Don and be able to say something when it comes to me instead of trying to remember it until he is finished studying," Norma said.

"But most evenings I don't have to worry about disturbing him because he is at the library studying," she said.

Don says he is looking forward to being a family man and just "relaxin'" for a while. "Being able to pop into an easy chair and watch TV when I want, or playing with David or just working around in the yard is going to be a luxury for me," Kvindlog, an accounting major, plans to work for Collins Radio in Cedar Rapids.

Also looking forward to spending more time with her husband and son is Betty Sullivan, wife of Tim P. Sullivan, Cedar Rapids. But right now the most important thing to her is that Tim finds a job.

Betty said, "We were planning on a new home, a new car and many of the things we have given up so Tim could finish school. But the recession seems to have hit at a bad time for us. Tim has had interviews this spring but so far he hasn't had any definite offers."

"If he doesn't get a job by fall he plans to enter law school and then we'll have a few more years in labor and management."

Lynn Naibert's wife, Penny, says, "Things will be about the same for us for about two more years. Lynn is going to do graduate work like many others graduating this spring."

Naibert, of Cedar Rapids, expects to receive his B.A. in education and plans to work toward a M.A. in social studies.

Coffee Crops Threatened By Cuba War

HAVANA (UPI) — The Government's campaign to drive rebel leader Fidel Castro and his men out of their mountain strongholds threatens coffee growers with a loss of up to $55 million this year, informed quarters said Thursday.

A drive by an estimated 8,000 to 11,000 army troops along a 125-mile front in the Sierra Maestra Mountains in Oriente Province was in its fifth day.

The coffee growing center of Contramaestre, northeast of the Sierra Maestra has been virtually paralyzed since April because of continuing military action in the area, industry sources said.

No cultivation or other attention has been given plantations in the Sierra Maestra region because much of the area is in the army's air bombing zone and also because of the army's prohibition against the dispatch of food to workers in the hills for fear it might reach rebel hands, they added.

Negro Attempts Entrance To Mississippi College

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — A Negro sought unsuccessfully Thursday to enroll at the University of Mississippi to study for a Ph.D. and when he refused to leave the campus state police hauled him off bodily to have a mental examination.

Had Clennon King succeeded in his bold, unsponsored move, he would have been the first of his race to gain entrance to a white public school in this solid segregationist deep south state.

The highway patrol refused to say where King was taken but Sheriff Boyce Bratton immediately asked Chancery Court to issue a petition for a lunacy examination of the 38-year-old Negro. Chancery Clerk J. D. Howell said this meant King would have to go before two doctors.

"If they say he should be sent to Whitfield (the state mental hospital), we would send him down," Howell said.

Even before he showed up on the campus to bring about an unprecedented situation in Mississippi, King vowed he would not leave until he was admitted or sent to Africa as an "unwanted American."

A controversial figure on both sides of the racial issue, King holds a Masters Degree from Western University and a Bachelor's from Tuskegee Institute. He said only the white university could offer him a course toward a Ph.D. in this state.

Public Safety Commissioner Tom Scarborough, in charge of the special state police detail, hinted that King may already have been taken to a mental hospital.

Officials said there was no violence or demonstration but that during the two hours he spent in the university administration building King once ran through several rooms shouting "Help! Help! Help!"

Beardsley Suit Settled

DES MOINES (AP) — Mrs. William S. Beardsley reportedly has received an out-of-court settlement for personal injuries suffered in a 1954 auto accident in which her husband, the late Iowa governor, was killed.

The settlement reportedly was made in connection with the filing soon of a motion to dismiss her appeal to the Iowa Supreme Court of a $129,518 lawsuit she brought against two defendants.

A Polk County District Court jury denied Mrs. Beardsley, of New Virginia, any damages last year in a trial of her suit. Her motion for a new trial was overruled by the District Court.

Defendants in the suit were the Hawkeye Leasing Service, doing business as the Hertz Drive-UR Self System, and John Gardner of Story County.

Lower Taxes Favored Over Public Works

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several of the nation's top business executives agreed Thursday that the current recession is the worst of the post-World War II economic slumps.

Fourteen of these industrial and financial leaders, responding to a Senate Finance Committee questionnaire, gave more support to a tax cut as an anti-recession measure than to public works.

But most of them urged caution in applying any Government remedies, citing a continued risk of more inflation and contending it is impossible to smooth out all economic ups-and-downs.

Elsewhere on the economic front:

1. The House approved extension of corporate income and general excise or sales taxes at their present rates. The Senate is almost certain to go along.

The Eisenhower administration says it cannot afford to have the taxes reduced as scheduled June 30. The revenue involved is about $2.6 billion a year.

Goes To Senate

The Senate is all but certain to go along with the extension, although renewed moves are expected there to eliminate or at least reduce the excise rates on transportation and new automobiles, two of the industries pinched hardest by the recession.

2. The Government reported a rise in new construction activity last month. It said all types of public and private construction totaled $4.1 billion in May, 10 per cent above April's figures.

Government housing officials said earlier they looked for a sharp spurt in home building later this year that could help end the recession.

'Business Is Bad'

But William J. Levitt, one of the country's leading real estate developers, said in a Washington interview, "Business is bad. I don't think there will be a substantial recovery in either business or housing in 1958. Business may begin to crawl upward next spring, and by the summer of 1959 we'll be in almost healthy condition."

But bad business conditions won't prevent him from launching Levittown No. 3 on Saturday.

He hopes to sell 15,000 homes in the new community in New Jersey near Philadelphia.

Levitt said he decided to go ahead with the $250-million job regardless of the recession which he forecast a year ago.

Experts Warn of Continued Slump

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional experts warned today there may be as many as 5 million U.S. workers still unemployed early next year even if there is a fairly rapid recovery from the business slump.

The staff of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee said, "A less rapid recovery could be accompanied by as many as 7 million unemployed — or over 10 per cent of the civilian labor force, in the first quarter of the new year."

The staff analysis, made public by committee chairman Wright Patman (D-Tex.), added pessimistically that "economic activity has continued to decline and there are as yet few signs of an early upturn."

"Unemployment likely will average about 7 per cent of the total force — or 5 million — for the rest of this year while the return to full employment probably will take at least a year and possibly two."

Nikita Agrees With Eaton on Atom War

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev informed Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton he agrees with the assertion by a group of top international scientists that "an all-out nuclear war between the two world giants would result in the death of 90 per cent of the inhabitants of North America and Europe," it was disclosed Thursday night.

Khrushchev's message was sent by letter and relayed to Eaton through the Soviet Embassy in Washington. It congratulated Eaton for his personal efforts in the "struggle" against "atomic danger."

Eaton said he was "especially impressed by Premier Khrushchev's statement that he realizes fully the responsibility of Russia for its part in the fate of the world."

Eaton disclosed he has drafted a letter "to the heads of 18 nations and the Pope outlining the aims and findings of the conference."

Eaton, a Cleveland industrialist and financier, recently made a television appearance in which he was highly critical of the FBI and

UN Delays Debate on Revolt Charge

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The Security Council postponed Thursday for 24 hours its debate of Lebanon's charge that the United Arab Republic (UAR) was fomenting a revolt in Lebanon in hopes a special meeting of the Arab League would settle it.

The 8-nation league, meeting at Benghazi, Libya, showed little prospect of coming up with the "complete satisfaction" Lebanon had demanded.

The Arab world was split wide open, according to reports reaching here, in a division of support for pro-Western Lebanese President Camille Chamoun and Col. Abdel Nasser of the UAR, that once was Egypt and Syria.

The council debate never got off the ground, despite the presence of Lebanese foreign minister Charles Malik.

A foreign ministry source in Beirut said Malik would press the case in the Security Council unless the Arab League handed down a decision favoring Lebanon.

The council debate was opposed both by Arab delegates, who shied away from airing their area's disputes in the U.N., and the U.S.-led Western bloc, which was reluctant to irritate the Nasser's UAR.

Macmillan To Ask Trade Of Atomic Information

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will ask President Eisenhower to defer suspension of nuclear tests until the U.S. Congress allows an exchange of secret atomic information with the Western allies, informed sources said Thursday.

The sources said Macmillan, who flies to Washington today, would make the request when he meets with Mr. Eisenhower for a 2-day conference beginning next Monday.

They said Britain would be willing to cancel its own series of nuclear tests scheduled for this summer if the United States proposes a test suspension and if Congress amends the MacMahon Act, which prevents sharing of military atom secrets.

The sources said Macmillan would tell the President that to catch up with U.S. and Soviet developments in a wide field of nuclear weapons, including guided missiles, Britain would have to continue testing "for a while."

The Prime Minister was expected to say his Government might dispense with its own testing, however, if the United States were prepared to give Britain some of the results of America's tests.

But they said, Macmillan would refuse to commit his nation to any suspension agreement until after raise his nation's international prestige.

France's future role in the Western partnership will be included in the Eisenhower-Macmillan policy review next week.
