Flood Death Toll Mounts To 13

Seven Still Missing After Storm Near Audubon

AUDUBON (AP) — Four more bodies were recovered in this southwestern Iowa area late Wednesday, bringing the number of known dead to 13 persons. Seven persons were still missing. The dead and missing were victims of a thunderstorm of historic violence which struck this area early Wednesday, causing vast property damage as well as heavy loss of life.

More than 13 inches of rain fell in Audubon in a few hours. Audubon County officials reported that the bodies of three Bagley residents were picked out of the swirling flood waters.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Carrick and a Bagley girl, Camille Buckner, about 21.

Unidentified

At Red Oak downstream on the East Nishnabotna, the body of an unidentified man about 50 or 60 was taken from the water. Efforts were being made to identify him.

IOWA CITY WEATHER

Although scattered thunderstorms are again predicted for the Iowa City area today and Friday, George L. Roehr, resident engineer at the Coralville Reservoir says there is no chance of the Iowa River or the reservoir flooding. Temperatures today will range from the mid 70's to the mid 80's.

Added to the list of missing persons were Roy Keeran of Guthrie Center and Max Cornish of Bagley, the sheriff's office here said.

Many persons narrowly escaped with their lives when they were caught by a wall of water from flash floods on the East Nishnabotna and its tributaries.

The flash floods washed away homes and business structures. Raging waters ripped out highway bridges and flattened crops. Hundreds of families evacuated their homes.

Hardest hit were Audubon, county seat town of 3,000, and the village of Hamlin and town of Exira, both a few miles south of Audubon. Most of the deaths were at Hamlin and Exira.

Iowa National Guard units were pressed into emergency duty in Audubon and at Atlantic, downstream from Exira on the East Nishnabotna River.

Dramatic Rescues

There were dozens of dramatic rescues. Mrs. Russell Smith of Exira, swept from her home by the river torrent at 2:30 a.m., was rescued four hours later by firemen at Griswold, 30 miles downstream. She was clinging to a log. Her husband is missing. Her son was rescued from a tree near Exira.

Four Audubon young men were driving home when their car stalled in the rising waters on U.S. Highway 71. Jerry Lauritsen made it to a tree and later was rescued by boat but his three companions were swept away by a wall of water. Bodies of two of them later were recovered at Hamlin. The third was still missing.

★ ★ ★ DEAD

Listed as dead Wednesday in the Audubon County storm:

Harry Wiges, Mads Marcussen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilkins and John Parsons, all of Exira.

Donald Byriel, Darwin Kuntzweiler, Mrs. Dallas Hansen and Franklin Wiges, all of and near Audubon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Carrick and Camille Buckner, about 21, all of Bagley.

Unidentified man about 50 or 60 whose body was recovered about 50 miles downstream.

Listed as missing were: Mrs. Mads Marcussen, Mrs. John Parsons and daughter, all of Exira, and Donald Eaton of Audubon.

Roy Keeran of Guthrie Center, Max Cornish of Bagley, Russell Smith of Exira.

★ ★ ★ TRANSPORTATION

The Iowa Highway Commission at Ames said the flood washed out three bridges and about 1,000 feet of pavement on Iowa 65 between Hamlin and Guthrie Center. The commission said the damage to U.S. 71 over most of the 20 miles from Hamlin to U.S. 65 couldn't be assessed because of water over the highway.

The high water also closed these highways, the commission said: Iowa 83 between Atlantic and Avoca; U.S. 6 between Iowa 90 and Redfield; Iowa 25 south of Guthrie Center.

In other areas of the state, Iowa 90 was closed at the west edge of Des Moines and Iowa 60 was blocked two miles south of Knoxville.

Denies Adams' Bills 'Business Expenses'

Tax Testimony Fails To Shake Eisenhower

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Goldfine said Wednesday night it was not he but his accountants who treated his favors for Sherman Adams as business expenses. He said the Government is free to adjust his tax returns.

Word that Goldfine had charged off his gifts and hotel hospitality to Adams as business expenses did not shake President Eisenhower's avowed determination to stick by Adams, his chief aide.

Several members of the House Commerce subcommittee investigating the relations between Goldfine and Adams have contended that Goldfine's tax treatment of the favors to Adams indicated he meant to get something tangible in return.

But Goldfine denied this in a statement, as he had done under oath before the subcommittee earlier in the day. Adams had denied previously he exerted any influence in behalf of the wealthy Boston industrialist.

In a statement handed to reporters Wednesday night, Goldfine said:

"I think most businessmen turn over the paper work of accounting and income tax returns to qualified accountants. That's what I do."

Goldfine said such bills are handled as a matter of routine and that he has nothing to do with them, including those for Adams and Mrs. Adams. The subcommittee has said Goldfine picked up about $2,000 worth of hotel bills for Adams over a course of four years.

"There was no secret about it," Goldfine continued. "Gov. Adams' name was right on top of the bills which are still in our files. The Bureau of Internal Revenue men can see them when they audit our income tax returns."

"If the bureau feels we made a mistake, then they will disallow those bills and we will adjust our returns."

President Eisenhower at his news conference Wednesday aroused new speculation that he might reconsider his decision to keep Adams on as his top assistant.

Later, however, he sent out word through press secretary James C. Hagerty that his statement of two weeks ago "stood then and stands now."

That was the statement in which Mr. Eisenhower said he believes in Adams' honesty and integrity, though Adams might have acted imprudently in his relations with Goldfine, and "I need him."

The income tax issue came out in the open after a special House investigating subcommittee heard the Boston textile and real estate magnate swear his friendship with Adams and the gift-giving and entertainment incident to it were not intended to get him special Government favors — and did not.

Goldfine did not get to complete his prepared testimony and will return for another session with the subcommittee today.

Going Home By Bus?

Schedules Altered By Strike

SUI students going home for the holiday may have trouble making bus connections to some points because of a walk-out against the American Bus Lines over a wage dispute.

THE OVER-ALL local effect is negligible, according to James Bogart, ticket agent, due to re-routing of other buses.

The major inconvenience to most travelers will be in layovers between connections, and in altered departing times from Iowa City, he said.

LATE WEDNESDAY there were no bus connections from Iowa City to Burlington, Fairfield or Mount Pleasant.

STUDENTS GOING to St. Louis will be routed through Hothstead or Davenport, with layovers in Columbia, Mo., from 10 minutes to two hours.

All city, county and federal offices will be closed Friday with all but the county offices returning to their usual schedules on Saturday. The county offices will take an extended holiday and remain closed until Monday.

Friday the swimming pool will open at 10 a.m. in anticipation of a large crowd. Boat races, baseball and fireworks are planned for City Park during the holiday.

Cuban Rebels Free Five

HAVANA (AP) — Five of the 49 North Americans kidnaped by Cuban rebels in the past week were freed and flown by helicopter Wednesday to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo.

With them was Park Wollam, U.S. consul at Santiago who went by jeep into the jungle last Saturday and effected their release.

Indications were that more would be freed today.

One freed American engineer said the rebels treated his group fine but tried to convince them the Cuban Government is using American-made bombs to stamp out the rebellion.

Canadian engineer Edward Cannon, in the freed group, said Raul Castro, brother of rebel leader Fidel Castro, promised no more foreigners would be kidnaped.

Henry Salmonson, 46-year-old American engineer who has a wife and three children living in Portland, Ore., told of the rebel propaganda in these words: "They told us that bombs made in America were being used against them by the Cuban Government."

"They showed us what they said were bomb fragments and also pointed out some huts that had been destroyed by fire."

Otherwise, he said, the rebels took them swimming and on happy tours of the wilderness. He reported food and beds were good.

The five released captives and Consul Wollam came out of the jungle on two helicopter flights, three at a time. The second flight was completed as darkness fell and flights were called off for the night.

At nightfall 44 captives were still to be returned.

On the second flight with Wollam were: Anthony Chamberlain, Coral Gables, Fla.

Howard A. Roach, Watertown, N.Y.

The first three released are two Americans and a Canadian: William Koster, 63, of Akron, Ohio.

Henry Salmonson, 46, of Portland, Ore.

Edward Cannon, 53, of Cornwall, Ont.

Revising Red School System

Sputnik Hysteria Nonsense

The current educational system in Russia did not produce Sputnik. Any argument for adopting some of their educational practices in the United States because of Sputnik is nonsense.

George S. Counts, professor emeritus at Teachers College, Columbia University, expressed these views in two lectures on Soviet Education Wednesday at SUI.

Counts said the present Russian 10-year middle school system which begins teaching physics in sixth grade was initiated in 1936. He rejected the idea that graduates of this system launched Sputnik since they could not be over 30 years of age.

He then branded as nonsense the much-publicized arguments for adopting elements of the Russian educational system spurred by the Sputnik launching.

Counts, who has toured Russia on three occasions, instead credited the launching to a "long history of intellectualism." He then claimed America is anti-intellectual.

With a note of suppressed humor which entered several of his statements, Counts offered the "radical idea that the prestige of intellectual brilliance in the United States should be raised to at least equal to that of a football captain."

Explaining the composition of the Russian middle school, he listed the percentage each field of study holds in the total educational program: Russian language and literature 30 per cent; mathematics (non-scientific) 20 per cent; physics and chemistry 14 per cent; history and geography 14 per cent.

Counts used these figures to clarify the mistaken idea that physics and related subjects were more highly emphasized in the Russian system.

The Russian educational system is now being revised, he said. Counts believes this revision will borrow some ideas from our comprehensive high school setup.

The factor which makes the Russian

Professor George S. Counts
Russia has "long history of intellectualism" education system so challenging was stated in Pravda two years ago, he said: The Communist Party is the sole master of the minds of Soviet people.

This system is the simplest, least demanding on the intelligence and virtue of the people, he emphasized.

Explaining this, Counts said nearly 100 per cent of the Russian people vote—but a dog could be trained to drop the ballot in a box as the Russian people do. On the other hand our educational system must train the people to make informed judgments on great questions, he pointed out.

Counts said it is hard to compare the per cent of national income both countries spend for education, but a rough estimate would be 10 to 12 per cent by the Russians and 3 to 3½ per cent by the United States.

He lightly but effectively added he would like to see twice as much spent for education as advertising in this country and at least as much as for liquor.

"The Communist Central Committee can simply issue a decree for reorganizing education; thank heavens it's not that simple here," Counts said.

He advocated we should study Communism in U.S. schools, just as we should study cancer.

Summarizing the American educational system, Counts said, "It is a glorious achievement, but with many deficiencies."

SUI Research Balloon Lands In Indian Reservation

A gondola, carrying cosmic ray instruments from SUI, came to earth at approximately 7:30 p.m. Wednesday on the Standing Rock Indian Reservation about 15 miles northeast of McLaughlin, S.D. It had been launched from Minneapolis under the direction of Frank B. McDonald, physics research associate at SUI, at 7:20 a.m. Wednesday.

In a telephone interview with The Daily Iowan Wednesday night, an official at Winzen Research Inc., of Minneapolis, said the balloon reached its maximum height of 122,000 feet at 10:35 a.m. — 3 hours and 15 minutes after it had been launched.

Winzen Inc. was contracted for the launching by the sponsor of the balloon's flight, the Office of Naval Research, to provide the balloon, launching apparatus, tracking of the balloon and recovering of the equipment.

The gondola was released at 6:15 p.m. and landed near McLaughlin about an hour and 15 minutes later. McLaughlin is about 15 miles from the North Dakota border and 100 miles north of Pierre.

The apparatus was in flight just short of 12 hours and landed approximately 400 miles northwest of its launching point.

Its tracking planes returned to Minneapolis after the gondola had reached the ground and it was not known whether the instruments had been damaged.

On the balloon's previous launching Friday, the gondola was slightly damaged by its fall to earth when the parachute failed to open properly.

McDonald was assisted on the two launchings by Louis Hinton, A2, Davenport.

9 U.S. Soldiers in Red Germany—

Held As Political Hostages

EDITOR'S NOTE: East German officials called in AP's Berlin correspondent Wednesday and invited him to a news conference arranged for nine U.S. soldiers held since June 7. He was driven to a Dresden villa where the men are under house arrest. Eight Communist reporters attended the conference. The AP man was the only American reporter there.

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

DRESDEN, Germany (AP) — Nine U.S. soldiers imprisoned by the German Communists for 25 days complained Wednesday they are being held as political hostages.

IN A TENSE news conference put on for them by the Communists, they hooped at claims that the German Communist regime is a sovereign government.

They disclosed they were turned over to Soviet Army officials when they surrendered to East German police June 7. Their helicopter had strayed across the border between East and West Germany, and they were forced to land. The Russians turned them back to East German officials June 8, and have insisted the problem of releasing them involves only the United States and East Germany.

"They are holding us as political hostages," Maj. George E. Kemper of Escondido, Calif., cried angrily. As senior officer present, Kemper acted as spokesman for the Americans.

"YOU'RE A SOVEREIGN state but not on the first night that we were in East Germany," Capt. Frank Athanason, Greenville, S.C., jeered at the East German posted as the Communists' spokesman.

"You're kidnapers," some of the men yelled.

The East German spokesman said the prisoners would be released quickly if the United States would sign an agreement to recognize the East German regime as a legal government.

The men are being held in a greystone villa here. They have three bedrooms, a dining room, a clubroom, and a garden court to play volleyball. They see Communist-line films but Kemper said there has been no intensive effort to instill propaganda.

THE AMERICANS' spokesman is a 43-year-old artilleryman.

Kemper, dressed in green fatigues and combat boots, said before a battery of Communist news-reel cameras:

"They are holding us as political hostages. We are being used as tools. We are not being told about what is going on in the political negotiations over us."

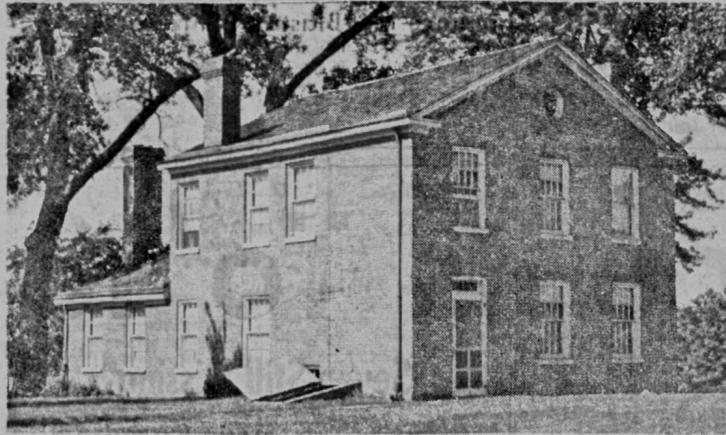

"I can't imagine why we are being held. We got into East Germany accidentally," Kemper volunteered to East German police after their helicopter got lost in a thunderstorm and ran out of gas.

He disclosed that the East Germans promptly turned the Americans over to the Soviet Army. They spent the first night in a Soviet camp but the next morning they were returned to the East Germans.

Kemper's statement was the first evidence of direct Soviet involvement in the helicopter case. THE SOVIET UNION, rejecting U.S. demands for immediate release of the prisoners, has contended the case is one solely under East German jurisdiction. The United States has refused to grant East German diplomatic recognition.

SIX OF THE NINE U.S. soldiers held prisoners by Communist East Germany since June 7 were allowed a news conference Wednesday. From left, they are: Major James R. Zeller, Mt. Joy, Pa.; Lt. Mike Ellis, Bremen, Ga., partially hidden; M.Sgt. Carrol T. Ruffin, Howe, Texas; Lt. Thomas J. Westbrook, Macon, Ga.; Chief Warrant Officer Leroy J. Malone, Raymond, Kan.; and Capt. Frank Athanason, Greenville, S.C. —AP Wirephoto by radio from Berlin.

Did Anything Not Tend To Incriminate?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vito Genovese, linked to murder, the Mafia and treason before the Senate Rackets Committee, refused Wednesday to tell the committee more than his name.

The squat and swarthy New York mobster, asked to state his business or occupation, replied with an Italian accent: "I respectfully decline to answer on the grounds it might tend to incriminate me."

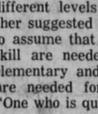

When Genovese refused to answer, pleading a reply might incriminate him, Kennedy said Genovese was in Italy during the war "helping and assisting an enemy of this country."

No Simple Formula For Educating Teachers: Hancher

There is no simple formula for educating teachers, even though some people approach the question as if some such formula "might enable us to roll the American and the Russian systems into one — from which would emerge all the virtues of both and the shortcomings of neither," President Virgil M. Hancher of SUI said Wednesday morning at Cleveland, Ohio.

Addressing several hundred members of the National Education Association's representative assembly, President Hancher observed that teacher education is far more complicated and difficult than is generally understood, and warned that the subject has been "dangerously oversimplified."

Teachers must also be selective with respect to what to teach and how to teach it, since so much is now known that only a small proportion of human knowledge can be learned or taught, he said. The number of hours in the day, and days in the years, have remained constant while knowledge has increased. "It may be necessary, therefore, for us to choose to know three things well rather than six things poorly," he commented.

HANCHER

One indication of public failure to appreciate the professional status of teaching, he said, is found in the relatively low salaries paid teachers in comparison to earnings in other professions. "It is difficult to understand why the public for so many years kept teachers to a low level of salaries, and then looked down upon them because they were poorly paid," he commented.

Discussing the differing needs at different levels of teaching, Hancher suggested that it is a mistake to assume that less education and skill are needed to teach in the elementary and high schools than are needed for college teaching. "One who is quite adequate to con-

House Cuts Foreign Aid Bill $872 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House handed President Eisenhower a stinging setback Wednesday by cutting foreign aid funds $872 million and ignoring his warning that its action "will encourage Communist imperialists."

After beating all attempts to restore funds chopped off by its Appropriations Committee, the House passed and sent to the Senate by a roll-call vote of 253-126 a bill putting up $3,078,092,500 in new cash to finance the aid program during the fiscal year that started Tuesday.

President Eisenhower had asked for $3,950,092,500. The House cut that by $872 million and voted to appropriate $597 1/2 million less than Congress authorized last week in a separate enabling law. The total approved is $3,577,500 less than the program was given last year.

On the key 214-165 roll-call, 140 Democrats and 74 Republicans voted against adding the $75 million Pres. Eisenhower wanted, while 60 Democrats and 105 Republicans voted for the increase.

On final passage, the bill was supported by 146 Democrats and 107 Republicans, and opposed by 57 Democrats and 69 Republicans.

Sen. Vest Reports Campaign Expenses Above Legal Limit

DES MOINES (AP)—State Sen. for Alan Vest (R-Sac City) reported Wednesday he spent $8,196 on his unsuccessful campaign for Republican governor.

In his report filed with the secretary of state's office, Vest listed campaign contributions totaling $2,391, of which he said $970 was the proceeds of a campaign dinner. The rest came from 52 different individuals and groups.

State officials said the expenditures reported by Vest were in excess of the amount which, by law, a candidate is entitled to spend on a campaign.

Iowa law limits a candidate's campaign expenditures to 50 per cent of the annual salary of the office he is seeking.

The last Legislature fixed the compensation of legislative members at $30 per diem for a 100-day session, or $3,000, and the salary of the lieutenant governor and speaker of the House at double that amount.

Wednesday was the legal deadline for filing of candidates' campaign expense reports. The secretary of state's office reported 54 candidates had not filed before noon Wednesday.

Other expense accounts filed Wednesday included: Corbin Crawford, Ainsworth, unsuccessful candidate for Democratic nomination as lieutenant governor, no contributions and $1,779 in expenditures.

Ellsworth O. Hayes of Hamlin, Democratic nominee for Congress in the 7th District, $30 in contributions and $1,397 in expenditures. John Kyle of Bloomfield, Republican nominee for Congress in the 4th District, $385 in contributions and expenditures of $1,435.

Neal Smith of Altoona, who led the five-man slate for Democratic nomination for Congress in the 8th District, $785 in contributions and expenditures of $2,277.

Wally Bishop of Ames, Democratic candidate for nomination to Congress from the 5th District, $2,918 in contributions and expenditures of $2,978, including $8 for baby sitters.

Med Students Serving With Iowa M.D.'s

Nearly 100 medical students from SUI are serving preceptorships with general physicians this summer in communities throughout Iowa.

The preceptorship program is aimed at bringing the students, between their junior and senior year, into intimate association with the general practice of medicine in the home and office. The experience supplements that received in University Hospitals.

The program has been in operation since 1953. Through the Iowa State Medical Society and the Iowa Academy of General Practice, physicians of the state volunteer their services as preceptors.

In addition to offering the student an insight into the private practice of medicine, the preceptorship plan is designed to afford "a unique opportunity to impress upon the student the social and community responsibilities of the private practitioner in the smaller communities."

Low Flying Plane Causes Collision

WASHBURN (AP)—A low flying aircraft caused an auto-truck collision about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday on Highway 218 one mile south of here.

William Pearson of La Porte City told Sheriff Elmer Hightower that he was driving to La Porte City from Waterloo when an airplane suddenly flew in front of his car with its landing lights on.

Pearson stopped suddenly to avoid hitting the plane and a truck driven by Jack Kruger of Waterloo hit the rear of Pearson's car causing approximately $400 damage. No one was injured.

Pearson told Sheriff Hightower that the plane approached from the left side of his car and then suddenly banked directly toward him. He said it looked as if the pilot might have been attempting to land on the highway.

Don Smith, a driver for Warren Transport of Waterloo, stopped after the accident and said that he also had been buzzed by an airplane. Smith said the low-flying plane nearly caused him to drive into a ditch.

William Buchanan of the Civil Aeronautics Authority in Waterloo said that the CAA is attempting to identify the aircraft involved. Buchanan said that Harold Hartley, aviation general safety agent with the CAA in Cedar Rapids, will be in Waterloo on Thursday to investigate.

Music Camp To End Today With Concerts

Concerts by three groups of high school musicians and a twirling show will complete the 1958 All-State Music Camp at SUI today.

The high school twirlers will perform at 6:45 p.m. on the women's athletic field, Capitol and Jefferson Streets, with the concerts scheduled for 8 p.m. in Iowa Memorial Union. Al Stodden, band director at Central High School, Ft. Wayne, Ind., will direct the twirling program.

The All-State Orchestra will open the evening program with the first movement of "Symphony in B Minor" by Schubert-Dasch, followed by "Prelude" from Bizet's "L'Arlesienne Suite," "Blue Danube Waltz" by Strauss-Sopkin and "Zampa Overture" by Herold-Sopkin. Leo Kucinski, conductor of the Sioux City Symphony Orchestra and Municipal Band, will direct the orchestral numbers.

Under the baton of New York conductor Don Craig, the All-State Chorus will sing "Cantata Domino" by Pitoni and "Heavenly Light" by Coppylow-Wilhouisky. The girls' chorus will present "Lift Thine Eyes" from Elijah, by Mendelssohn, to be followed by the full chorus in "Crucifixus" from Bach's "Mass in B minor" and Schubert-McKay's "Night Magic."

After two numbers by the boys' chorus — "The Eagle" by Cain and the traditional "Down in the Valley," arranged by Mead — the chorus will close with "Open Your Heart to Spring" by Chaplin-Simone and "Let Not Your Song End" by Cain.

On the All-State Band program are "ASMC Welcome Song" by Alford, "Court Festival Suite" by Latham, "Prelude" to "Faust" by Gounod-Steg, "Musica Sympatica" by Richards, "Spring Festival," a suite for concert band by Shahan, and Sousa's "Hands Across the Sea March."

James Neilson, director of band, orchestra and choir at Oklahoma City University, will conduct the band numbers.

Another 218 Detour Route

Through traffic on U.S. Highway 218 is now being detoured east over the Benton Street Bridge from Benton Street and Riverside Drive, north on Capitol Street to Burlington Street, and east on Burlington Street to Dubuque Street on the previous detour route.

The detour is made necessary because of the installation of a water main at the intersection of Riverside Drive with the west end of the Burlington Street Bridge.

A trench for the water main is being cut across the Highway and construction will continue south on Riverside Drive.

Stop signs have been placed at all Capitol Street intersections to stop cross traffic during the detour.

Christmas Seal Money Used for Medical Research

Part of Iowa's Christmas Seal money has been appropriated by the tuberculosis associations in Iowa for medical research for the coming year, according to Franklin H. Top, professor and head of Hygiene and Preventive Medicine at SUI.

Top is also president of the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Grants were made to seven investigators at the SUI College of Medicine and to James F. Speers, M.D., of the Des Moines-Polk County Health Department.

Two grants were made outside of Iowa for research projects being carried on at Cornell Medical College in New York City and Northwestern University Medical School in Chicago.

Decrease in Iowa Deaths On Highways

DES MOINES (AP)—There were 63 fewer deaths and 1,475 fewer accidents on Iowa highways in the first half of 1958 than in the first six months of last year, the State Safety Department said Wednesday.

In addition, 1,627 fewer persons were injured in traffic accidents from Jan. 1 to June 30 this year than in the same period a year ago.

The safety department said total accidents were down 5.24 per cent, traffic deaths were off 19.75 per cent and personal injuries were cut 16.17 per cent so far this year as compared with 1957.

The figures showed January deaths, with 17 more persons killed than in January 1957, even though total accidents were 10 per cent less.

Since then, every month has shown a decrease in traffic deaths as compared with the comparable month of 1957, and there have been fewer accidents each month than a year earlier except in February.

The department said there were 26,665 accidents in Iowa in the first six months of this year against 28,140 in the first half of 1957. There were 10,059 persons injured in the 1957 half-year, but only 8,482 up to June 30 this year.

SEVEN POLIO CASES

Two SUI Doctors Receive Heart Research Fellowships

An "established investigator," providing support for five years of uninterrupted heart research, has been awarded by the American Heart Association to Dr. John W. Eckstein, assistant professor of internal medicine at SUI.

Dr. Eckstein's award is the first of its kind presented to a SUI doctor. A select group of American scientists are named by the national heart group each year to receive the honor.

Dr. William E. Connor, SUI instructor in internal medicine, has been named to receive an advanced research fellowship from the heart organization. Awarded for two years, these fellowships enable young scientists to obtain training in research methods under experienced guidance.

Dr. Connor's fellowship will be under the direction of Dr. Eckstein and Dr. Walter M. Kirkendall, associate professor of internal medicine at SUI.

Both awards are part of the heart association's new program aimed at encouraging and supporting independent research programs by selected scientists across the nation.

The established investigatorship will enable Dr. Eckstein to devote full time to his research in the area of shock and congestive heart failure during the five-year period.

Dr. Connor's research involves studies of a "clearing factor" that appears to remove fats from the blood stream, and of blood coagulation in women, who are less susceptible than men to coronary disease. The studies are aimed at shedding light on the still unknown causes of atherosclerosis (hardening of the arteries).
