Red Premier Dims Hopes For Summit

Communist China Influence Suspected

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev refused Tuesday night to meet President Eisenhower face to face in a Security Council discussion of the Middle East crisis and dimmed prospects of a summit conference.

He demanded instead an emergency session of the 81-nation General Assembly, and left in doubt whether he would go.

He said he still hopes a summit meeting won't be delayed indefinitely, but made it clear he wants it held outside the U.N.

Mao's Influence

The Khrushchev stand was announced Tuesday night in the wake of his talks in Peking with Red China's Mao Tse-tung. These talks delayed Khrushchev's response to President Eisenhower and may have had some effect upon the content of the response.

Khrushchev declared the Security Council, with Formosa delegates representing China, is virtually paralyzed and cannot act independently of the United States.

U.S. officials in Washington and Western diplomats in London said Khrushchev's stand apparently killed off prospects for an emergency Middle East summit conference.

Secretary of State Dulles, in Rio de Janeiro, told reporters the United States will not hesitate to debate the Middle East crisis in the General Assembly but prefers to talk first in the Security Council.

The Soviet Union last month proposed an emergency session of the General Assembly to take up Soviet demands that the United States and Britain withdraw troops from Jordan and Lebanon. The council failed to act on the request.

Letter in Triplicate

Khrushchev's latest stand on dealing with the Middle East situation was in a letter to President Eisenhower. Similar messages went to Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier de Gaulle.

At one point the Soviet Premier had agreed to Macmillan's proposals for a top-level meeting in the Security Council and said he could be in New York July 28 for the debate. Later he rejected plans for the Council to make preliminary arrangements. Tuesday night he reversed the whole plan.

His statement emphasized, in the light of his visit to Mao Tse-tung, the Soviet stand that Nationalist China should get out of the U.N.

"The policy of ignoring people's China is foolhardy," Khrushchev declared. "This great country exists. It is becoming stronger and developing regardless of the fact that certain governments do not recognize it."

He accused Mr. Eisenhower of misrepresenting the situation in Lebanon, Iraq and Jordan.

A European's View

SUI Does Not Deserve The Term 'Cow College'

EDITOR'S NOTE: What do foreigners think about the United States, about the Middle West, about SUI? Urs Schwarz, foreign editor of Neue Zürcher Zeitung in Zurich, Switzerland, visited SUI last April.

Upon his return to Switzerland he published an article in his newspaper giving his impressions of SUI. The article appears below as a direct translation done by Erich Fankner, professor and head of the department of German.

The most predominant occupation in this part of the country is agriculture and cattle, and even in America the error exists that there is nothing else there. The numerous smaller factories in many places and the impressive industrial establishments in the larger cities indicate even to the general observer that that is not correct.

Before all, the Middle West has also created a number of institutions of higher learning among which the ten large state universities do not have to be afraid of a comparison with the famous universities of the East. Most of these state universities, it is true, have sprung from agricultural colleges which, in earlier times of settlement, were created and financed by land grants, but in no way do they deserve the term "cow college" which sometimes is used for them in the East.

The State University of Iowa (speak Ai-o-wa) in Iowa City is a city section in itself. Its large and many styled buildings occupy the wooded bluffs of the quiet Iowa River. In the river valley you find the art museum and the university theater — a functionally conceived building with a model stage arrangement. Among the peculiarities of this country which has established numerous altars to psychology belongs a glass engaged compartment in the audience room in which the effect of the stage performance on the audience is measured.

Most universities in the West have a school of journalism. The highly active school in Iowa among its many activities publishes a daily newspaper which is not only intended for the 9,500 students and 750 professors of the university but for the public at large. In the journalism building with its interesting architectural style, we find besides the library, lecture halls and seminar rooms. A fully developed editorial department in the American style can be found which, in the moment of my visit at a late evening hour, was just editing the morning paper. These activities are significant for the fact that fields which in Europe are assigned to a professional or technical college have found a place in American universities.

An outstanding medical faculty connected with the large University Hospital—the pediatrics clinic, under the direction of the Swiss professor Dr. Zellweger—and an important department of agronomy add to the significance of this university.

The physical institute of Iowa has recently attained world wide fame under the direction of Professor Van Allen, who has constructed the apparatus of the artificial earth satellites which today are circling the globe and have given us a surprising insight into the nature and frequency of cosmic rays.

The university, which like every other state university has difficult arguments about financial support of the legislature, has found out with satisfaction that the interest in the earth satellites has also aroused the interest of the rural politicians in the basic research in the natural sciences.

Weather

The word is hot man, hot! Temperatures in Iowa City today are again expected to reach the low 90s and no relief is in sight for at least two days. But don't buy your ticket for the Arctic — the weatherman has seen cloudy skies and cooler temperatures brewing and the weekend should be almost livable.

Robert C. Malone, G. Ames, has been named chief photographer of the 1959 Hawkeye, Greta Leinbach, A4, Rockwell City, editor, announced Tuesday.

Malone completed his undergraduate study at the University of Chicago, and is working on his M.A. in pictorial journalism.

Another Hawkeye appointment, not previously announced, is Ann McCabe, A4, Chicago, art editor.

'Human Torch' Kierdorf's Uncle Vanishes Mysteriously

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Threatened with a similar fate, the vengeance-swearing uncle of human-torch Frank Kierdorf is missing. Herman Kierdorf, who vanished overnight, is widely sought by police. Where he went or what happened to him, they say, is a mystery.

Nephew Frank lay near death at a hospital, 85 per cent of his body seared. He said two men he didn't know made a torch of him. He was positive it was connected with union business.

Quit Last Week

Frank is business agent for the 2,000-member Teamsters Local 332

in nearby Flint. Herman quit only last week as business agent for Detroit Joint Teamsters Council 43, and as an aide to Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa.

Both Kierdorfs had been reluctant. Fifth Amendment witnesses before the Senate Rackets Committee in its probe of possible links between Teamsters and mobsters. Both are ex-convicts, each convicted of armed robbery.

The 68-year-old Herman said an anonymous telephoner told him 15 minutes before he learned Frank, 56, had been burned: "You're next."

After viewing Frank's blistered body, Herman swore late Monday: "I don't know who did it, but I'm going to find out."

When a policeman suggested: "Let us take care of this one," Herman shot back grimly: "Not if I get there first. I got to do it."

Didn't Go Home

Did someone nab Herman and make him "next"? Prosecutor Frederick Ziem let him leave the hospital, after he'd helped coax Frank's pain-wracked story from him. But a policeman at Herman's suburban Madison Heights home said he never got there.

Herman could have gotten wind police had found two pistols, one equipped with a silencer, which a neighbor said Herman left with her.

Warrant for Herman

Ziem issued a warrant Tuesday for Herman's arrest for having a gun with an attached silencer. The prosecutor said such was punishable by up to five years imprisonment.

An assistant prosecutor, George F. Taylor, said Herman left the hospital at 8:30 p.m., saying he was going to Willow Run Airport to meet a flight bringing his wife, Lila, and Frank's wife, Jessie, from a vacation they started in June at a Hollywood, Fla., hotel.

Driving Cadillac

Taylor said Herman didn't show and the women were met by Frank Jr., 30, himself a Teamster milk truck driver. But when Herman last was seen, police reported he was driving a black Cadillac, long a trademark of Detroit Teamster business agents.

After renewed questioning, authorities said they are convinced Frank Kierdorf is holding back information. They said he was fully conscious and understood his questions but answered only when he wanted to.

When Kierdorf first told his story Monday, 15 hours after the attack, he said he was positive it was connected with union business. But Tuesday, when asked "is this a union matter — a Teamster matter," Kierdorf answered in a loud voice, "no!"

He refused to answer questions as to how much money he had with him at the time of the attack and who removed his clothes.

Pledges U.S. Cooperation With Shehab

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The United States promised friendly cooperation Tuesday with President-elect Fuad Shehab, who has asked for the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Lebanon.

The promise came from Robert Murphy, President Eisenhower's special envoy, who has been in the Middle East for nearly three weeks as a peacemaker.

Murphy told a news conference just before leaving for Cairo that he felt Shehab's main concern was domestic peace in Lebanon's three-month rebellion.

"I think he looks to us for some support," said the envoy. At the same time he denied the United States had backed Shehab for the presidency.

Elected by Parliament last Thursday as a compromise candidate, Shehab declared the withdrawal of American troops from Lebanon is "foremost among our national aims."

However, more U.S. troops departed from the transport General Geiger. They were the last 1,000 soldiers ticketed for Lebanon. Among them were hospital, signal and photo units and a graves registration team. Slightly more than 15,000 American troops now are here.

Protestor Suggests Student Wife Teachers Be Paid Less

The Iowa City School Board approved a budget of $1,794,540 expenditures for the 1958-59 school year at a public meeting Tuesday night.

Louis Shulman, Iowa City attorney, appeared before the board to protest the budget on behalf of a group of citizens. Shulman asked the board if teacher's salaries could be kept down since this was the item with the highest increase, $194,000 over 1957-58.

Shulman suggested it was not necessary to pay wives of SUI students the same salaries as more permanent teachers receive.

In answer to this statement, James Curtis, professor in the SUI Speech Department and member of the School Board, said that a discrimination cannot be made against teachers who are SUI students' wives because of the moral problem for the teacher.

The School Board unanimously passed the budget as it was presented. The total expenditures for 1957-58 were $1,489,953.

Regina Catholic High School presented a letter to the Board asking for use of the Iowa City High School football field for four games this fall since their own field has not been finished.

The board approved the Regina High School request and left arrangements to be worked out later.

A request for use of space by the Johnson County Association for Mentally Retarded Children was granted by the board. The association will use a classroom in Henry Sabin School on Saturday mornings for their program.

Willy Ley Says—

United States Has Only Itself To Blame

By ROGER DAHMS
University Writer

A leading authority on rockets, missiles and space travel said the Russians have accomplished their satellite and rocket feats because of their own brain power and great skill gained through practice.

Willy Ley, considered one of the world's leading writers on the conquest of space, told an SUI audience at Macbride Hall Tuesday night that the Russians used German scientists after World War II as "living encyclopedias and a cross-check" against what the Russians had already done themselves.

Not V-2 Designers

Ley, a native German and tutor of fellow U.S. citizen Werner von Braun, claimed in his "misunderstandings department" of his speech that most of the German scientists "contracted by the Russians" after the war were not V-2 rocket designers, but production men instead.

After two contracts lasting four years and one year on strike, the Germans were sent home, Ley said.

"The Germans contributed very little to the Russian rocket program. After firing two V-2 rockets, only one successfully, no German was on a Russian proving ground again," he reported.

Our Own Fault

With an authoritative German accent, Ley (as in ney) said "The U.S. could have had a head start of 1½ years in rocket and satellite research. We simply have to accept the fact we fell behind. It was our own fault."

"There are no valid reasons to think the Russians have fuels to boost great payloads which our chemists have not thought of," Ley said. They claim to have used kerosene and liquid oxygen for their first two stages. The third stage fuel they labeled as secret. "And it probably is," he remarked.

In 1955, U.S. rockets could be fired at five miles a second—a great enough velocity to shoot a satellite into orbit, he said. But while the U.S. began developing entirely new rocket systems, the Russians used "off-the-shelf hardware," he said, and thereby gained their lead in placing a satellite into orbit.

Ley said his impression of the U.S. moon shot program is that the Army will try for two impact shots after the Air Force has three tries to orbit around the moon with an electronic transmitting device to see what the other side looks like.

One Out of Two

"One or two out of these five should do what they are intended to do," Ley said.

Before man can venture out beyond the earth's gravitational pull, we must have a better solution to the re-entry problem and build much larger rockets, Ley said.

"Now rockets have to grow bigger. And when man gets into orbit, then comes the conquest of space."

Will Discuss Middle East In Assembly

Wants U.N. to Consider U.S. Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower snapped up Tuesday night Nikita Khrushchev's proposal for a discussion of the Middle East crisis in the United Nations General Assembly rather than at a summit session of the U.N. Security Council.

But he and Russian Premier Khrushchev, who proposed that procedure some six hours earlier, remained wide apart on how the 81-nation General Assembly should approach the problem.

Khrushchev proposed action on a Soviet resolution calling for U.N. moves to force withdrawal of U.S. troops from Lebanon and of British troops from Jordan.

Asks U.N. Action
Mr. Eisenhower, while calling Khrushchev's bid for an Assembly session completely acceptable, said the Assembly should take up instead a U.S. resolution. It calls on the Assembly to arrange for a U.N. force to replace U.S. troops to insure Lebanon's stability and independence.

Mr. Eisenhower ordered Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the chief U.S. delegate to the U.N., to press immediately for Security Council action on an American resolution presented July 18.

This resolution speaks of intervention by the United Arab Republic in Lebanon's internal affairs as endangering international peace. It calls on the Assembly to make appropriate recommendations concerning the Lebanon complaint.

The development appeared to have wiped out prospects for any early summit talks, such as President Eisenhower had been advocating within the framework of the 11-nation Security Council.

Khrushchev left considerable doubt as to whether he would attend any emergency Assembly session. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said in response to a query that such sessions are not normally attended by heads of government. Hagerty added, however, that "I would not rule it out" — meaning the chance Mr. Eisenhower might go.

The President did express regret that Khrushchev "did not accept the Security Council with the heads of government present as the appropriate forum in view of his alleged concern over the threat to peace."

Council Meets Thursday
Lodge and the Soviet delegation at the U.N. already had moved to convene the Security Council, which would call an Assembly session. The council will meet Thursday.

Mr. Eisenhower issued his statement after conferring with Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter, the top ranking department official in the absence of Secretary Dulles.

Herter immediately telephoned in Rio de Janeiro, by telephone before conferring with Mr. Eisenhower on Khrushchev's newest maneuver, which seemed to have ruled out an early summit session.

Herter immediately telephoned Lodge after the White House meeting to advise him of the statement Mr. Eisenhower would issue.

Mr. Eisenhower's statement was the first formal reaction here, but other officials had indicated they were neither surprised nor unhappy about Khrushchev's letter.

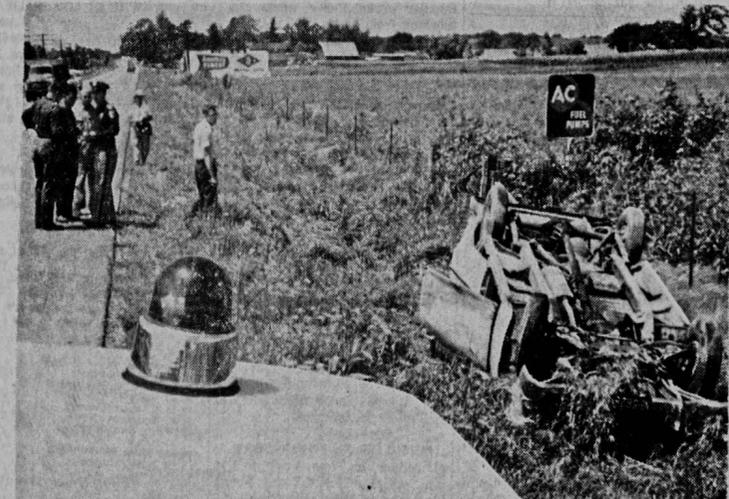

Neither Mr. Eisenhower nor Dulles had shown great enthusiasm for the idea of an emergency summit conference, which many observers felt would result only in a war of words.

Dulles is making a brief good will tour in Brazil.

THREE TEXANS ESCAPED serious injury when their car went off Highway 6 and overturned about two miles west of Tiffin shortly before noon Tuesday. The car had apparently gone off the shoulder of the highway and traveled along the shoulder for about 150 feet before slipping into the ditch, striking a culvert marker pole and overturning. # Boy Named As Slayer

HARRISON, Mich. (AP) — Named by a dying woman as her slayer, the teen-age son of a Michigan lumberman told of going out to rob someone, then stabbing his victim. The woman's home had been set afire to hide the crime.

The youth, Gene Heath, 17, was picked up less than two hours after Mrs. Beverly Thompson, 54, a divorcee, staggered from her burning home, bleeding from icepick wounds.

The woman crawled across the street to the home of her brother, Ted Cooper, and gasped Heath's name moments before she died.

The Heath family owns a summer cottage near Mrs. Thompson's home in the village of Coopersport nine miles north of this central Michigan community.

The youth, who has a juvenile record of burglary, assault and rape, was arrested at a roadblock.

Fumes Sweep Trailer Park

SANTA PAULA, Calif. (AP) — A cloud of poisonous ammonia fumes swept into a trailer park Tuesday, sending 67 persons to a hospital.

One child was in critical condition. Four others were in fair condition. The 62 other persons were released after treatment and checkup.

A break in a hose between a commercial fertilizer truck and a storage tank sent fumes over a 10-acre area.

A workman, Carl Walters, ran to the Pepper Tree Trailer Park to warn residents to leave.

Before many left, the fumes settled over the park, forcing the evacuation of 110 persons.

Some occupants collapsed on the sidewalks and ground as they fled. Every pet dog, cat and bird in the trailer park died of the ground-clinging ammonia. Leaves of trees and shrubs turned black.

Park residents were permitted to return after firemen washed down the area with hoses.

Williams And Symington Out Front In Primaries

Light voting marked primaries Tuesday in four states with two 1960 Democratic presidential possibilities showing as strong favorites in homeground political tests.

An unprecedented sixth term nomination seemed assured for Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

And Missouri Democrats were swinging toward a second term nod for Sen. Stuart Symington, a former secretary of the Air Force.

Both men, whose names have been mentioned for the 1960 White House race, could use return to office as booster should they make a run for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Sir, I Protest! These Are NOT Vicuna

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators have found that a wealthy Boston businessman gave, not vicuna, but a pair of sheep to presidential aide Sherman Adams.

The businessman was not textile manufacturer Bernard Goldfine. He was Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks.

And Washington police frowned on Mrs. Adams' putting Weeks' gift lambs out to munch in her garden in a residential area.

The incident was related in a chatty biography of Weeks distributed by the Commerce Department last September before the public learned of Goldfine's lavish gifts.

Washington was rocked by disclosures of Goldfine's favors to Adams, including a coat made from a South American animal, the vicuna. Both Adams and Goldfine swore the gifts were innocent tokens of friendship.

Goldfine now is facing contempt of Congress action for refusing to answer questions of a House Commerce subcommittee about some of his financial dealings.

Parts of the Weeks' biography were mentioned in a report prepared by a House Subcommittee on Government Information, which has accused the Commerce Department of excessive secrecy.

"Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President, and his wife were guests at Cot Cow, a Week's farm in New Hampshire, one summer, and warmly admired the sheep they saw," the biography was quoted as saying.

"Back at their home in Georgetown, a residential section of Washington, they had a call from an express agency. Later that afternoon two lambs were delivered with the compliments of the Weeks' family."

"They were put out in the Adams' garden, and Mrs. Adams built a makeshift barn under a rose bush and lilac trees. The lambs enjoyed the garden, but policemen pointed out a few days later that farming was frowned on in the city limits."

She told police the gun went off in a struggle with Teel at the climax of a violent argument. She is under police guard in a hospital. Miss Mowrer had been working as a personal secretary for Eli Lilly & Co., the huge drug firm for which Teel directed all marketing.

The final vote was postponed until Wednesday when the House is expected to approve the increase. It could hardly do otherwise if the government is to meet obligations authorized by Congress itself.

Increased anti-recession and defense spending, coupled with a drop in tax revenues, have made increased Treasury borrowing necessary.

The UAW said a final tabulation of its 120 GM units showed a 91.7 per cent vote for a strike if necessary, with 115,973 for and 2,410 against.

The UAW Executive Board will meet Friday and is expected to plan for a strike deadline against one of the automobile Big Three for sometime after the start of 1959 model car production.

Johnson, director of the Pentagon's Advanced Research Projects Agency, told a news conference it is unlikely the first of five projected shots will attain an orbit around the moon.

Although no dates have been announced, there are strong indications the first attempt may be made between Aug. 17 and 19.

Johnson said that for best results, the launching can take place only on four consecutive days each month when the moon and sun are in their most favorable relative positions.

First-Degree Charge Asked For Killing

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Prosecutor John G. Tindler asked police Tuesday to file a first-degree murder charge against Mrs. Connie Nicholas, 42, for what he called the cold-blooded killing of her wealthy, married sweetheart.

"It was a deliberate killing, premeditated and conceived in the spirit of malicious revenge," Tindler said. "It looks like the case of an older woman being displaced by a younger woman, with neither having a legitimate claim to the victim."

Mrs. Nicholas told police Saturday she shot Forrest Teel, 54, two days earlier after he left the apartment of Laura L. Mowrer, 29, his girl friend of the last three months.

Frank A. Symmes, a noted criminal lawyer who will join his son, Charles, in defending Mrs. Nicholas, said they claim she shot Teel in self-defense while temporarily insane. He called the shooting "a crime of passion."

Mrs. Nicholas, who swallowed 75 sleeping pills after the shooting, lay in a coma two and a half days. She said her romance with Teel dated back 15 years, that he had a key to her apartment and had paid the rent for three years.

Scent Off

Hound Chase Disrupts Stags or Herd Cattle?

By HAL COOPER

EXFORD, England (AP) — They'll ride to hounds in Exmoor Park. But the question of the hour is what will the hounds do? Chase stags or herd cattle?

The assignment of the hounds at the Devon and Somerset Stag-hounds Club is to chase stags over Exmoor Park's rolling, wooded square miles.

But the League Against Cruel Sports, says Secretary E. A. Hemingway, has a clever little scheme to throw the hounds off the scent.

Hemingway said he is enlisting hitchhikers and holiday makers to criss-cross Exmoor with a chemical scent that dogs can't resist.

Col. L. M. Murphy, master of the Devon and Somerset pack, then announced he has sent the league a telegram.

"If you persist in your reported plan to lay a false trail for my hounds there is a danger that stock grazing in the area will be contaminated and that hounds will chase them," he said.

"Should any damage by hounds to stock from such an eventuality I shall hold your society responsible."

Hemingway was unmoved. He said since Exmoor is public ground, "if the hunt believes it is entitled to chase the deer there we are equally free to do everything we can to prevent it."

"Our plan is to spread the chemical trail across the whole area where the hunt is to meet," he said. "The chemical is more powerful than the scent of deer and will lead the hounds away from areas where stags congregate."

Hemingway said the false trails will be laid with pieces of rag soaked in the dog charming scent and that he has plenty of the stuff.

Wouldn't say what it's made of.

Debate Debt Limit Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House heard Tuesday that continued red ink spending by the Government threatens an inflationary spiral of price increases "such as we have never seen before."

The warning was sounded by Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark), chairman of the Ways and Means Committee—in debate on whether to raise the federal debt limit to raise the federal debt limit to 288 billion dollars, from 280 billions.

The final vote was postponed until Wednesday when the House is expected to approve the increase. It could hardly do otherwise if the government is to meet obligations authorized by Congress itself.

Johnson said that for best results, the launching can take place only on four consecutive days each month when the moon and sun are in their most favorable relative positions.

Johnson, director of the Pentagon's Advanced Research Projects Agency, told a news conference it is unlikely the first of five projected shots will attain an orbit around the moon.

Although no dates have been announced, there are strong indications the first attempt may be made between Aug. 17 and 19.

As Stalin Learned—

Threat of 'Volunteers' Can Prove Disastrous

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Nikita Khrushchev, by saying he doesn't think "volunteer" troops should be sent to the Middle East now, makes an inferential threat of doing so if things don't go to suit him in the future.

If Stalin were alive he could tell his successor that it doesn't pay. Of course Stalin didn't worry about the Chinese "volunteers" in Korea when he made his second judgment of the Allied determination to scotch Communist attempts at expansion by force.

But he did worry when the Communists found themselves unable to finish something they had started, and the Kremlin finally had to initiate peace negotiations.

There are two big differences between now and the time Stalin unleashed the attack from North Korea.

He didn't know the Reds would meet American troops. He could use non-Russian Communists, then and later.

Today the United States and Britain demonstrate firmly that they intend to defend Lebanon, Jordan, Iran, Pakistan and Turkey. Iraq shows no sign of welcoming Soviet intervention, and small case can be made for her need of it. "Volunteers" would have to operate from Syria, Egypt and some of the Arabian sheikdoms, and there doesn't seem to be any source for them except the Soviet Union.

Indeed, the situation in the Middle East at the moment has simmered down to the point where there are no reasonable excuses for Soviet intervention. She makes a big play on the danger of Anglo-American military intervention in Iraq. But actually she knows Allied policy is dead set against it and that Iraq is carefully avoiding provocation.

"Volunteers" to defend Iraq at this time would be fully recognized by the world as a vicious attempt to prevent stabilization, revealing Soviet policy in the Middle East for exactly what it is.

So Khrushchev magnanimously eschews a course which, while United States forces are on the alert all over the world, would be extremely risky for him.

William H. Miller, a former laundry owner, said he kicked in with $450 in the deal and that he understood it was destined for Hoffa.

Interest-Free
Balkwill told the senators the payments were arranged through Joe Holtzman, a Detroit labor relations consultant who has since died. Hoffa has acknowledged getting an interest-free loan of $5,000 from Holtzman in 1951.

Think Congress Could Adjourn By Aug. 15
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top Republican congressional leaders said Tuesday they see no legislative reason why Congress can not adjourn by Aug. 15 or 16.

The optimistic Republicans are Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, the House GOP leader, and Sen. William F. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader.

Up! Up! Up!
Now Stalin was dead, history would start making its judgments, and Churchill was hopeful the new Soviet leaders would be more inclined to listen.

And how better to get his ideas across than at a meeting "on the highest level."

He told Commons, knowing well that the world was listening in. "It [the conference] should meet with a measure of informality and a still greater measure of privacy and seclusion. It might well be that no hard-faced agreements would be reached, but there might be a general feeling among those gathered together that they might do something better than tear the human race, including themselves, into bits."

"I do not see why anyone should be frightened at having a try for it."

And then he used the word so familiar today: "If there is not at the summit of the nations the will to win the greatest prize and the greatest honor ever offered to mankind, doom-laden responsibility will fall upon those who now possess the power to decide."

Just Goes To Show
And two years later, on March 29, 1955, he was back again.

"I have never departed in any way from my view that a top-level meeting, without an agenda, ought to be a helpful manner of approaching the solution of these world problems. There might be a better chance of success if the initiative for such a conference came from the summit."

Miss Truman, Cooper Out Of Grass Court Tourney

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—This was the day of upsets in the Eastern Grass Court Tennis Championships with Wimbledon Champion Ashley Cooper of Australia and Christine Truman of England leading the list of seeded stars falling by the wayside.

Cooper, the top-seeded foreign entry in the men's singles and rated the world's No. 1 amateur, was soundly beaten by UCLA's John Cranston of San Marino, Calif., 6-3, 6-3.

Miss Truman, seeded first on the women's foreign list, was sidelined 6-4, 6-3 by 18-year-old Gwyneth Thomas of Shaker Heights, Ohio.

Third-seeded Karol Fageros of Miami, Fla., also dropped out of contention, losing to pert Mary Ann Mitchell of San Leandro, Calif., 6-4, 6-2.

Miss Truman was expected to challenge Althea Gibson, the Wimbledon queen from New York, for the women's title. Miss Gibson moved along easily, defeating Lois Felix of Meriden, Conn., 6-1, 6-1.

Cooper, who just came off the European hard courts, could not handle the big spinning serve which carried Cranston to victory.

The 21-year-old Californian outplayed the Australian ace in all departments. Cranston was especially adept in playing to Cooper's backhand for crucial points. The Aussie's service was erratic and Cranston repeatedly scored on the return.

Fifth-seeded Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., member of the American Davis Cup team, also was surprised in the second round by Yale's Don Dell of Bethesda, Md., 11-9, 6-1.

Barry MacKay of Dayton, seeded No. 2, turned back Jerry Moss of Miami Beach, Fla., 6-3, 6-4, while Ham Richardson of New Orleans won from James Schmidt of Beaumont, Tex., 8-6, 6-3.

U.S. Dominates First Day Of Triangular Track Meet

BUDAPEST (AP)—Hungary's Istvan Rozsavoelgyi ran the metric mile, the 1,500 meters, in 3:40.3 to better his own world record in a three-way, United States-Hungary-Czechoslovakia track meet Tuesday. At the same time he handed international officials a five-way controversy to solve.

His time goes up for consideration and ratification by the International Amateur Athletic Federation at Stockholm later this month. At that time four other 1,500-meter clockings better than Rozsavoelgyi's two-year-old record of 3:40.6 will be considered.

The United States dominated by winning 11 of 15 events on the first day of a 2-day competition. No official point scores were kept, as they were in previous dual meets which pitted the touring U.S. teams against national teams of Soviet Russia and Poland.

A crowd of 40,000 turned out in the 100,000-seat stadium for the third of four meets American men and women are contesting in Europe. The Budapest meet ends Wednesday and the final encounter will be against Greece in Athens this weekend.

Rozsavoelgyi, official holder of three world records, pulled a fine field along behind him at a rapid pace. He helped pull Bill Dellinger of Neah Bay, Wash., who finished third, to be an American record of 3:41.5. Dellinger bettered the listed American mark of 3:42.8, set by Wes Santee in 1954.

The Hungarian star's performance Tuesday may have a good chance of being recognized as the new world record.

Top American victories Tuesday were by Glenn Davis of Columbus, Ohio, in the 400 meters with a time of 45.6 seconds and by Phil Coleman of Champaign, Ill., in the 3,000-meter steeplechase.

The Red Birds had gone 32 innings without a run, and had dropped seven straight games, until they returned home and opened a home stand with a 3-2 verdict over the Dodgers Monday night.

Wally Moon delivered his third home run and three other hits and drove in three runs, as did Del Ennis.

Three Bowlers Big Winners in Annual Endurance Classic

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—A housewife from Omaha, Neb., an Air Force pilot from Portland, Ore., and a professional bowler from St. Louis were the big winners in the fourth annual world endurance bowling classic which ended Tuesday.

Nearly 1,200 bowlers from 38 states and Canada competed in the 38-day tourney.

Mrs. Pauline Bickel of Omaha won the scratch (no handicap) and handicap division for women by averaging 197 for 20 consecutive games. Mrs. Bickel, a 181 average bowler, had a high game of 243 and a low of 167. She won $500 for a new scratch record plus the top prize in the handicap division.

Al Kellogg, a 185-average kegger from Portland, averaged nearly 205 for 40 games in one night to win the men's handicap division—worth $2,000. His score was 9,110.

The handicap was based on an average of 220 for men and 200 for women.

The best performance in the tournament was by touring professional Harry Smith of Florissant, Mo. Smith averaged 220 for 40 games and won the scratch championship by nearly 500 pins.

WARSAW (AP)—On the strength of its fine showing in last week's dual meet against the United States, Poland will send 54 athletes to the European Track Championships at Stockholm, Aug. 19-24.

Performances in the Polish men's 115-97 defeat by the United States and the Polish women's 54-52 victory established Poland as a major track power.

The Poles are going only for events in which they think they can do well—ignoring the marathon, women's 80-meter hurdles and men's 400-meter hurdles.

Need Nationwide Curb on Prep Grid Bidding: Brennan

CHICAGO (AP)—A nationwide curb of shopping by high school stars for college football scholarships Tuesday was proposed by Notre Dame's Terry Brennan.

The Irish head coach said, at a news conference, that an organization like the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. should require "declarations of intent" for enrollment at colleges by prep stars.

Brennan emphasized that Notre Dame had no great problem in losing prospective footballers to other schools, but said he believed it would be very helpful to the sport generally to have such a rule.

Particularly, Brennan said, it would "make high school boys become a little more men of their word."

"Now, a high school star agrees to go to one college," explained Brennan "but three, four or five other schools then approach him and the boy gets so confused he doesn't know where he finally wants to go."

Brennan suggested that a government policy, like the NCAA, could adopt a policy several conferences already have adopted, requiring a "letter of intent" by prospective prep athletes committing them to one school within the conference.

Brennan suggested that a national policy would eliminate the possibility of a prep athlete "jumping" from one conference to another, as well as from one independent school to another, in making his final commitment to attend college.

The Irish coach suggested that the deadline for a choice might be May or June after a high school athlete graduates. As for sanctions, the governing group might require that an athlete who violates the agreement be made ineligible "for a couple of years."

End of PCC Is Predicted For Weekend

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP)—Washington State College announced Tuesday it believes the Pacific Coast Conference is finished and will support any recommendation now to dissolve it.

Dr. C. Clement French, president of WSC, made the announcement in a statement in advance of the PCC meeting in Portland this weekend.

The end of the 43-year-old athletic league has been predicted since Washington, California, UCLA and USC have already set dates for leaving it.

French said he hopes a suitable arrangement can be worked out for continuing athletic relationships between WSC and other PCC member schools but that the school plans to "move forward in intercollegiate athletics" in any event.

WSC has scheduled football games in the next five years with schools like Texas, Indiana, Northwestern and Iowa.

With WSC now favoring dissolution, it appears certain the PCC will fold over the weekend in Portland where it was organized. With the California schools and Washington already committed to pull out, only WSC, Idaho, Oregon, Oregon State and Stanford are left.

Paige Requests Release from Miami Marlins

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Satchel Paige, veteran Negro pitcher, has requested his release from the Miami Marlins of the International League, it was reported Tuesday.

In a story told by Tommy Fitzgerald, who is with the Marlins in Montreal, the Miami News quoted Paige as saying "all I want them to do is just pay me what they think they owe me and let me go free."

The 50-year-old Paige was placed on the inactive list Monday and the spot taken by pitcher John Gray. Paige accused the club of not paying him the salary due him and of not giving him any meal money for the 13-day trip.

Joe Ryan, general manager of the Marlins, said Paige had made advances on his salary and that he didn't get meal money because he wasn't present when it was passed out.

Paige has a 9-7 record for the season.

Ball Playing Boys Show 1958 Increase

CHICAGO (AP)—The number of baseball playing kids in organized team and leagues increased more than 30 per cent this year, a survey by the Athletic Institute showed Tuesday. But they still include only about 15 per cent of those eligible.

The survey, covering nine major organized programs, showed 2,438, 233 boys, eight years old and upward playing this year. A similar survey in 1957 listed 1,754,400 participants.
