Plane Crashes With 33 Aboard

Traffic Patrol Stepped Up For Weekend
Johnson County Agrees to Include in Calendar

Motelists in the Iowa City-Cedar Rapids area Friday agreed to allow their property to be used as a stop on a north-south highway patrol route to bolster safety along the route.

The motelists said they would also allow police officers to check vehicles in their lots.

The agreement came after a weekend of increased traffic and an increase in the number of traffic accidents on the highway.

Airline officials said they would also step up safety checks at their airports to reduce the risk of accidents.

Police Open Inquiry Into Plane Crash

WASHINGTON - A former pilot for Pan American World Airways was killed in the crash of a small plane Friday morning.

The pilot, John A. Johnson, 35, was killed when the airplane crashed in a field near the airport. The aircraft was carrying two other passengers.

Johnson, who had been employed by Pan American for five years, was on a business trip.

The plane, a twin-engine propeller plane, was carrying mail from New York to Miami.

The cause of the crash is under investigation.

The plane was on its way to land at the airport when it crashed.

The Federal Aviation Administration is investigating the crash.

A spokesman for the FAA said the plane appears to have experienced mechanical difficulties.

Johnson was a former pilot for Pan American World Airways and had been employed by the company for five years.

Surrender Term-
A Terned 'Nonsense'

BY ELTON C. FAY

Washington Post

The term "surrender" has taken on a new meaning in recent years, with the word coming to be associated with a variety of situations.

It is commonly used in reference to situations where one person or group gives up something to another in order to avoid further conflict.

However, recent events have raised questions about the appropriateness of using the term in such situations.

Weather

Temperatures in Iowa City today will be right for a good day at the beach, but anyone who has to work inside may find the humidity just a little too high.

Today's high is expected to reach 78 degrees, with a low of 62 degrees overnight.

Cloud cover will be moderate throughout the day, with scattered showers possible.

The forecast calls for mostly sunny skies on Saturday, with a high of 80 degrees.
