Tiny Quemoy Still Under Attack

Faubus Would Close Schools Rather Than Integrate

Gov't-Forced Race-Mixing Called Illegal

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Tuesday racial integration never can be constitutionally enforced upon a school. He asked a special legislative session to empower him to close Arkansas schools rather than bow to any federal race-mixing mandate.

To a standing ovation, Faubus went before an emergency session — first in Arkansas' modern history — to urge upon the Legislature a policy of no surrender.

Integration by Force
The immediate objective is to prevent further integration at Central High School, scene of last year's white integration riots. But Faubus said the aim of integrationists is to racially mix classes in all the city's schools by force, if need be.

Faubus, in a baritone voice that quavered at times with emotion, said he has not opposed peaceful integration in his state.

"My disagreement is with the methods now being employed, and the unseemly haste that is being demanded. There is a law of life that can never be violated, or hurried, without great harm to all concerned, and that is the law of evolution in relation to social and political change," he said.

The galleries were packed to overflowing — with an all-white audience, although Negroes are not barred.

"Unconstitutional"
"There is no clear-cut federal statute regarding the integration of the schools. If there were, it would be unconstitutional, for the authority to control public education has never been delegated by the states to the Federal Government," Faubus said.

"This battle for states' rights and constitutional government is not of our choosing. The issue has been forced upon us and we must either choose to defend our rights against those who would usurp them or else surrender.

"I hope that no one of you will be influenced by the words of the weak and fearful, and that no one of you will be misled by the mis-taken views of those who would surrender all the rights and privileges we have enjoyed to an all-powerful Federal Government in the unwise course of action which it pursues at the present moment."

Faubus' address came 48 hours before the U.S. Supreme Court is to hear debate on whether to grant Central High a breathing spell in its year-old integration program, or force immediate acceptance of Negroes into its classrooms.

All Eyes on Little Rock
The original entry of Negroes into Central a year ago led to white rioting outside the 2,000-pupil school. President Eisenhower sent in federal troops to enforce the court-ordered integration.

Faubus spoke before the Legislature as governor of the State of Arkansas. But he seemed mindful that his speech might well echo the deep, ingrained resistance to integration in much of the South during this critical period in American history.

"The eyes of the nation are upon us," he told the legislators in urging restraint in remarks and actions.

Weather Forecast

Occasional showers and warm temperatures are forecast for Iowa City today. Highs are expected to range from 75 to 85 degrees. Thursday's outlook is for partly cloudy and cooler.

Are Students Subsidized By Teachers?

In spite of a record enrollment, colleges are sailing troubled financial waters, mainly because service, not profit, is their goal.

Colleges are less concerned with getting money out of a customer's pocket than with putting knowledge into his head, and they're determined to hold that aim even if it bankrupts them. It might, too, since they currently foot most of the bill, says an article in the September issue of Better Homes and Gardens magazine.

Private schools pay an average of 45 per cent of each undergraduate's expenses; state colleges pay about 82 per cent.

A committee appointed by President Eisenhower to investigate the situation found that teachers are stuck with most of the deficit. By working for disgracefully low wages, they "donate" $800 million a year to their students. This is over $3,500 per teacher.

The committee reported that the teachers "are subsidizing the education of their students, and in some cases the luxuries of students' families, by an amount which is more than double the grand total of alumni gifts, corporate gifts, and endowment income of all colleges and universities combined."

Few students can pay for an education while they're getting it. If tuition were raised to meet expenses, only the richest — and not necessarily the best — scholars would survive. Therefore, colleges quietly make up the difference, and hope to be remembered when students emerge from their lean years. Unfortunately, it doesn't work out that way, the magazine says.

Roughly 20 per cent of today's alumni make regular contributions to their Alma Mater; 80 per cent do not. Of this 80 per cent, many are not aware of the facts, some cannot afford to give, while most just don't want to for a variety of reasons.

British Group To Visit SUI In September

Some 20 Educators Expected on Campus

A group of university educators from several countries in the British Commonwealth will visit the SUI campus Sept. 13-15, it was announced Tuesday.

Small Tour Groups
Their visit will follow the Eighth Quinquennial Congress of the Association of Universities of the British Commonwealth, (AUBC), which begins next week in Montreal. Immediately following the Montreal meeting the AUBC delegates will visit in Washington, D.C. and Philadelphia, after which the delegate body will break up in smaller groups to tour selected American universities.

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher will take part in the AUBC Congress, as he did in 1953 when sessions were held in England. He will be one of 41 delegates from the Association of American Universities, now headed by President Cornelius de Kiewiet of the University of Rochester. De Kiewiet is a former member of the SUI history faculty.

Wives Coming Too

Sir Eric Ashby, vice-chancellor of the Queen's University, Belfast, will be chairman of the AUBC tour group which will visit here. Approximately 20 other delegates and wives will accompany him to the Iowa campus, according to Graduate College Dean Walter F. Loehwing, chairman of the committee now making arrangements for the SUI visit.

Countries represented in the Association of Universities of the British Commonwealth include the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Ceylon, Pakistan, Hong Kong, Malaya and Malta.

PHONE CALL FROM IKE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will speak by telephone this noon to a session of the Republican National Committee in Chicago. The White House said it is uncertain yet whether the President will speak from a prepared text.

Sexual Crudeness, But—

'The Violated'

—Is Rewarding Reading

Editor's note: Vance Bourjaily's newest book, "The Violated," has been published recently by Dial Press and is available in local bookstores. Bourjaily currently is a visiting lecturer in the SUI Writer's Workshop. The following review is by an Associated Press Newsfeature writer.

The author calls his novel The Violated — "violated by neurotic commitments to preposterous goals, or, more tragically, to no goals at all." It is a tragedy of the unaccomplished, but it is also a symphony of human beings. There is a crudeness about the sexuality in the novel's early pages — it is just under 600 — that some may take for raw strength, manners and tastes being what they are these days. But the use of the flagrantly obscene word is sparse and the author does not make the early background serve validly what he has done.

The Play Within a Play

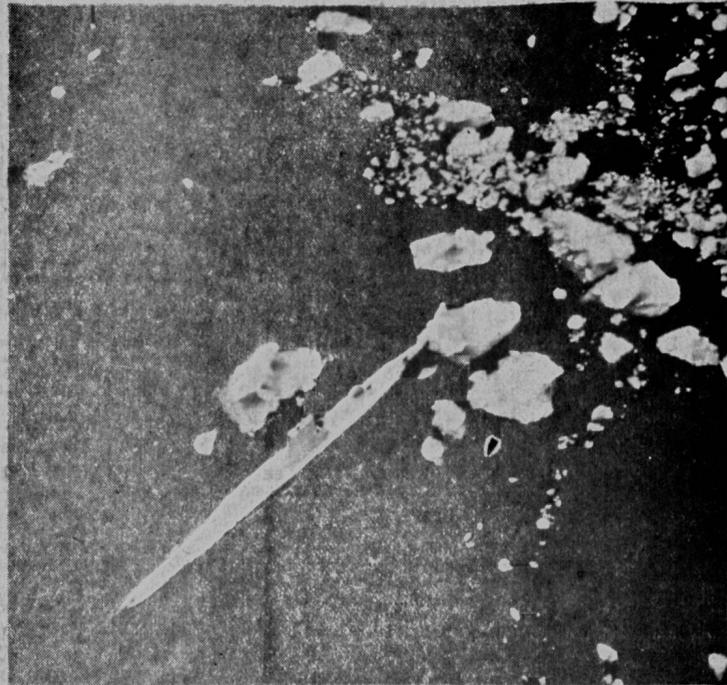

He has used flashback well and that play within a play — Hamlet as done by a band of eager children — to build his symphony. Whether his characters ring true in solo, they play their parts in tune in this human orchestra and within the limits the author sets for them. The novel provides some fairly rewarding reading and will undoubtedly show up on a wide screen some day.

The child's Hamlet is an index to the childlike quality of Tom Beniger, the novel's hero even though he is a classical scholar; his sister Ellen, whose childishness stems partly from the alcoholism of her later years; Guy Cinturon, the Mexican-American millionaire and football star whose childish simplicity consists of keeping a gold star notebook of the women he's had; and Eddie Bissle, friend of Tom and Guy and Ellen's lover, who never really grew up.

War Scenes Among the Best

Bourjaily traces them from childhood through the accidents of school encounters that twine their lives, through and after World War II, in and near New York. The brief war episodes are among the best in the novel, strong, pointing up the later tragedy. But when Eddie kills Tom by mistake it is the tragedy of non-consummation. When the youngsters' Hamlet is broken up, by a vicious mistake, it is a tragedy of unfulfillment. Even Guy fails in a way — he never reaches the $50 gold stars in his conquest roll.

There are tired references to psychiatry and wisecracks that appear to be the fashion now about TV and Fire Island, New York, being havens for homosexuals. But the author does make even the cheapness explain why his human chorus sang the way it did.

Auto Plants Threatened By Strikes

DETROIT (AP) — Production workers in the auto industry continued to walk off their jobs in rapidly growing numbers Tuesday.

They walked the picket lines with months of short work weeks behind them and the prospect of a general strike ahead of them.

More than 10,000 members of the United Auto Workers (UAW) Union were idle as the wave of wildcat walkouts hit two more plants — General Motors' Pontiac plant at Pontiac, Mich., and Chrysler Corp.'s Dodge truck plant in Detroit.

'59 Models Threatened

The rash of strikes, biggest since the UAW's contracts with the big auto makers expired almost three months ago, posed a mounting threat to production of 1959 models by GM, Chrysler and Ford.

Most of the strikes stemmed from disagreement on the companies' policies for calling back laid-off workers for new car production. The union has demanded the companies call in jobless workers rather than schedule overtime for workers already on the job.

At the Pontiac plant, where 5,000 were idled when tool room workers and machinists' repairmen walked out over unsettled grievances, an officer of the local said:

"These guys are damned tired of working without a contract." On the picket line many are sure that a showdown in contract talks will result in a strike against one of the big auto makers next month — which means more weeks without a payday.

"I'll Hold Out"
"Man, they got me in a knot," said a tall, thin man carrying a strike placard. "There's eight of us at my house, six kids. I'm buying a house. I don't know what I'm going to do. But I'll hold out as long as anybody else."

A blond-haired worker with 11 years seniority in the Pontiac plant said flatly:
"I'd rather work. I'd be glad to accept a contract extension. But there's going to be a strike and it'll be a long one. I've got a son to support but I'll strike. I'm a union man."

He referred to the companies' offer to extend the present contracts for two years. The union turned down the offer and the companies withdrew it.

Heavy Early Voting Reported in Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The first returns from Alaska's statehood election, from the precinct of Scow Bay, Tuesday night gave 57 votes for admission into the Union and 6 votes against.

Voters were turning out in record number as the vast Northern territory settled the question of whether it would be the 49th state.

The heavy vote was expected to slow the counting of ballots, where all the election tabulations are made by hand. No voting machines are used in Alaska.

Just as officials were getting set to collect returns, radio operators at Fairbanks reported that a big magnetic storm had knocked out radio communication throughout much of Alaska. This threatened further delay in the collection of results from the widely separated precincts.

More than 35,000 ballots were expected to be cast on the three-proposition referendum on which admission into the Union depends. Most observers forecast Alaskans would approve admission by margins of better than 2-1.

Brisk, fall-like weather was reported in much of the territory, but fog and overcast skies were reported at Nome on the Bering Sea. Snow was mixed with rain at Kotzebue, north of the Bering Strait.

Alaskans were answering yes or no on three separate ballots. The first was expected to be the key to the long-debated question. It asked, "Shall Alaska immediately be admitted into the Union as a state?"

The second proposition would accept as the boundaries of the new state the present boundaries of the big territory.

The third calls for acceptance of more than 103 million acres and would reserve to the President the right to make military of public land for the new state, land withdrawal in times of national emergency.

In a simultaneous primary election, Alaskans nominated candidates for two U.S. Senate seats and one seat in Congress, as well as candidates for governor and secretary of state.

IT TAKES A LOT OF TIME to cross Alaska — four zones to be exact. Map shows Alaska's four time zones: Pacific standard in the east, Yukon standard, Alaska standard, and Bering standard which is just a few miles from the International Date Line and Soviet Siberia. Alaska went to the polls on Tuesday to vote on statehood and related matters. AP Wirephoto.

U.S. Officials Watching For Invasion Signs

Tan Islands Possible Strategic Targets

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Communist shore batteries singled out Quemoy's one-strip airfield as their target Tuesday night for a heavy shelling. That would up the fourth straight day of bombardment of the Nationalist island bastion.

The shooting resumed early this morning. Defense authorities said Red jets rained 2,440 shells at little Quemoy and the nearby Tan islets in a 25-minute action, and 276 shells at Quemoy.

But Red jets and warships stayed clear of the area where the Nationalists claimed air and sea victories Monday.

Gather for Talks
The defense ministry in Taipei, where top Nationalist and U.S. service officers gathered for talks on the Formosa Strait flare-up, said the Red Chinese gunners fired 8,053 shells at Quemoy.

There was no disclosure here how effective it might have been in damaging U.S.-supplied war planes or pitting the field.

Perhaps Communist radar had picked up a flight of Nationalist planes heading to the island from Formosa.

By defense ministry count, the Chinese Reds have now loosed more than 91,500 shells at the Nationalist-held offshore islands since stepping up the pace of the vest-pocket war Saturday.

Diplomatic officials speculated Tuesday on whether the Chinese Communists might invade the tiny Tan Islands as a follow-up to intensive artillery and air bombardment of the Quemoy area.

The Defense Ministry said similar bombardments may be ahead for the Matsu Islands off the 100 miles north of Quemoy of the Red mainland.

Reds Building Strength
The Matsus underwent another series of air raid alarms but no Communist planes came over. The ministry said, however, the Reds are reinforcing their artillery strength on the mainland areas opposite the Matsus.

The flareup of action in the long quiet Formosa Strait is being watched closely by U.S. authorities both here and in Washington.

Most official attention focused on two island specks, Titan and Ertan, as possible targets of a swift Red thrust.

These two Tan islets, only 23 acres in area, are lightly defended. Situated 2½ miles south of the island of Amoy, their main value to Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists is as sentinels watching Chinese Red shipping along the coast.

Red forces could easily capture both with a minimum of casualties officials said, and without interference by American fleet and Air Force units.

The Peiping regime could then ballyhoo this as a substantial achievement, portraying it as another of its step-by-step moves to "liberate" Formosa and the Pescadores from Chinese Nationalist forces.

7th Fleet Alerted
The U.S. 7th Fleet, pledged to defend Formosa from invasion, has been placed on the alert. So have the U.S. 5th Air Force, guarding Japan and Korea, and naval forces in Japan. U.S. officials in Japan called their alerts simply routine.

A landing force of 1,600 U.S. Marines set sail from Singapore Monday their destination undisclosed. Presumably the convoy of four attack transports and four naval ships is moving closer to Formosa.

Taipei newspapers praised Secretary of State Dulles' warning to Red China against attacking the offshore islands, but called for a U.S. declaration to defend Quemoy and the Matsus. The United States now is pledged to defend only Formosa and the adjacent Pescadores.

Neither the Tan islets nor the island of Tungting, 17 miles south of Quemoy, is viewed by American authorities as worth fighting for. A decision was made nearly two years ago, it was said, not to oppose any Chinese Communist effort to grab them.

N.Y. Demos Bog, GOP Picks Keating; Mississippi Votes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
New York Republicans nominated a reluctant Rep. Kenneth B. Keating for the U.S. Senate Tuesday after an indirect prod from President Eisenhower helped persuade him to run.

But the New York Democratic convention was bogged down and split in disagreement after Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City eliminated himself as Keating's November opponent.

And voters also went to the polls in Mississippi elections.

Only two incumbents were opposed in Mississippi, where Democrats nominated a U.S. Senator and six congressional representatives. Nomination in these races amounts to election in the predominantly Democratic state.

In the New York situation, Keating had been reluctant to accept the GOP nomination to succeed Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.), who is quitting because of poor health. Keating hesitated at risking his seniority in the House, where he is the ranking Republican on the judiciary committee.

Republican leaders in the Rochester convention, including former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, worked to persuade Keating. It was during a 4-hour conference with Nelson A. Rockefeller that he made up his mind. Rockefeller was chosen Monday night as the GOP gubernatorial candidate to oppose Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman in the November election.

Wagner's reluctance to accept the Democratic senatorial nomination was attributed to his public promise, made when he sought reelection last year, that he would serve the full four years of his term.

Six Democrats declared themselves as senatorial nomination candidates. They are former Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter, Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan of Manhattan, former Atomic Energy Commissioner Thomas E. Murray, former Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley, State Commerce Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson, and Rep. James J. Delaney of New York City. The only declared Republican candidate was former U.S. Atty. Paul A. Williams.

In Mississippi, Sen. John J. Stennis was unopposed. Also unopposed for renomination were Reps. Tom Abernethy, James Whitten, Frank Smith and John Bell Williams.

Rep. Arthur Winstead was opposed by Charles Mobbs Jr. and Anee Blakeney. Rep. William Colmer faced Dist. Atty. Boyce Holleman, Wayne T. McClure and William P. Davis.

Scott County Farmer Shows Champ Pig at Fair

DES MOINES (AP) — A Scott County farmer, Vernon H. Klindt, 25, brought only one pig to the Iowa State Fair and Tuesday that pig was named grand champion sow in the purebred Berkshire show.

Klindt and his wife Arlene, a bride of only four months Tuesday, operate a 172-acre farm north of Davenport, a farm they rent from Klindt's father, who is retired.

Bonnie Acres Farm, Holstein, showed grand champion Berkshire boar and Robert Stork, Lisbon, reserve grand champion boar. The reserve grand champion sow was shown by Ralph Bartlett, Muscatine.

Poland China swine also were judged Tuesday, Carl Hirsch & Son, Indianola, showing grand chamchampion boar and Abrams Brothers, Toledo, the reserve grand champion boar.

The top honors in boar classes went to the first and second prize junior yearlings which also were named senior champion and reserve. Helgens Bros., Monticello, had junior champion, Carl Hirsch & Son the runnerup.

In Poland China female classes Oscar Anderson & Son, Leland, Ill., showed grand champion and Eugene Dugan & Sons, Storm Lake, reserve grand champion. Floyd Fridow & Sons, Kanawha, had reserve junior champion.

Two breeds of dairy cattle — Jersey and Ayrshire — also were judged.

Iowa exhibitors swept top honors in the Jersey classes, Russell Lyon Traer, showing grand champion bull and Richard and Wayne Freeman, Indianola, grand champion female.

E. J. Skala Brothers, Tama, had reserve grand champion bull, and another Russell Lyon entry in female classes, an aged cow, was selected reserve grand champion female.

In the Ayrshire show, W. S. Watson, Hutchinson, Kan., showed champions in both the bull and female classes. Gaddis Brothers, Graettinger, had reserve grand champion bull and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. McHone, Stockton, reserve grand champion female.

Diplomats Believe Soviets Will Halt Nuclear Tests

MOSCOW (AP) — Diplomatic sources predicted Tuesday the Soviet Union would accept President Eisenhower's proposals for a halt in nuclear weapons tests, but with conditions.

The President announced last Friday the United States and Britain would join the Soviet Union in a 1-year ban starting Oct. 31 provided the Russians agreed to enter negotiations then on an international control network.

The diplomatic sources said, however, the Russians probably would ask for immediate negotiations for the suspension of all tests.

Soviets Name Patolichev New Foreign Trade Minister

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Government announced Tuesday night the appointment of a new foreign trade minister who worked directly under Nikita Khrushchev when the Soviet Premier was the Communist party chief in the Ukraine.

Nikolai S. Patolichev, 50, succeeds Ivan G. Kabanov, a Soviet business executive who was given other executive duties which were not specified.

$10,000 Error on Two Unemployment Checks

DETROIT (AP) — A wacky check writing machine made rich men out of two jobless workers for awhile.

Obie Carter picked up a check at the Michigan Employment Security Commission for $9,989.99. Joseph Stefaniak got one for $9,969.99.

Both men turned the checks back for new ones. Carter received $98 for two weeks benefits and Stefaniak one for $60.

A broken spring on a check writing machine was blamed for the errors.

Hurricane Daisy Swings Away from Eastern Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Daisy took its expected northward track away from the Eastern Seaboard late Tuesday, but forecasters said it was too early to say if the trend would continue.

Daisy's direction change from northwest was noted more than 200 miles due east of Florida's Cape Canaveral, site of the U.S. space missile test range.

The season's second hurricane, carrying peak winds of 85 m.p.h., had been barreling slowly northward since it formed two days ago off the Bahamas.

The 5 p.m. advisory located Daisy near latitude 28.5 north, longitude 77.0 west, or about 215 miles east of Cape Canaveral, Fla.

CBS Investigates Quiz Shows for Irregularities

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System disclosed Tuesday night it has been investigating all its current quiz shows for the past week, looking for "any irregularities."

The network said the intensive inquiry had shown no improper procedures.

Worgan announced Monday that Hogan's office was investigating the abrupt cancellation 10 days ago of the television quiz show "Dotto," which had appeared every weekday on CBS and over the NBC network on Friday nights.

There have been reports, not officially confirmed or denied, that a contestant on "Dotto" filed a complaint with the Federal Communications Commission, charging that a "champion" on the show had been fed answers to questions.

Hoffa Aide Named In Gang Beating

WASHINGTON (AP) — A comely woman testified Tuesday that on instructions from St. Louis Teamsters boss Harold Gibbons she decoyed a taxicab to a dark street so it could be wrecked and the driver roughed up.

The tall brunette, Mary Lou Bledsoe, wore a white duster coat and almond-shaped dark glasses to hide her features. She explained she had once been threatened if she testified in court about the cab-wrecking incident.

Her testimony featured a day of Senate Rackets Committee hearings into alleged arson, beatings, shootings and other violence marking St. Louis Teamsters affairs under Gibbons, now right-hand man in Washington to the union's boss, James R. Hoffa.

A St. Louis city detective pictured Gibbons as a cop-hating crony of hoodlums. This prompted the union to distribute brochures at the hearings lauding Gibbons as "a student of economics, history and the labor movement."

Outside the hearings a controversy grew between two separate Teamsters clean-up squads, one named months ago by a federal court, the other named by Hoffa last weekend.

A federal judge, F. Dickinson Letts, denied giving advance blessing to the new Hoffa-named group, headed by former Sen. George H. Bender of Ohio. Bender had so claimed. A board of monitors named by Letts demanded that Hoffa furnish a full explanation why he established the Bender group.

Much of the racketeering committee testimony concerned alleged violence involved in a St. Louis teamsters taxicab labor controversy in 1953.

A former teamster, Oldren A. Mitchell, testified Gibbons gave orders to run cabs off the roads "in any manner we could get them off." He said E. E. Gene Walla paid him $35 to take part in the severe beating of a Gibbons critic, James M. Ford. He said Walla said others paid $25 to help out.

An admitted one-time Gibbons strongman, Harold Sparks, a husky 200-pounder, covered on the witness stand in fear and tried to back down from a sworn statement involving others in union beatings. He wound up acknowledging the affidavit.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said Sparks was a pitiful thing to see. But the witness said he was frightened "because I read the newspapers, Mr. chairman, and I don't want nothing to happen to me."

From Bad — Next Time He Should Take the Bus

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Down on your luck? Listen to the woes of L. E. Stancel.

He lost his car keys while visiting friends in Scottsdale Sunday night.

He hired the car so it would run but lost his way back to nearby Phoenix. Then the car stalled. The 38-year-old welder spotted a couple of men standing on the corner and asked one to step on the accelerator while he rewired the auto.

As soon as the motor started the man drove off with the car. Stancel ran to a nearby phone booth to call police. When asked where he was, Stancel stuck his head out of the booth and asked some bystanders.

One of the bystanders walked over, slugged him on the head with a wrench and took $100.

Officers finally found Stancel. He was treated for lacerations of the face, head and chin. His car was recovered about five hours later.

Military Can Try Civilians Overseas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Military Appeals held Tuesday that military courts have the right to try civilian dependents of American service men overseas in cases involving non-capital offenses.

The ruling was by two of the court's three judges. The third will act later, but will not change the result.

The decision was in the case of Mrs. Joanna S. Dial, 23, a native of Shelton, S.C., wife of Army Specialist 2C James W. Dial, 29, of Knoxville, Tenn.

Both the Dials were tried and convicted by an Army court martial in Germany July 29, 1957, of involuntary manslaughter in the death of their one-year-old son, James W. Dial Jr.

They were accused of beating the child to make him eat and to keep him from crying. They were sentenced to three years in prison, but only the case involving the wife came up to the court of military appeals.

The appeals court affirmed a board of review decision approving the court-martial verdict.

In a divided U.S. Supreme Court decision last year, four justices held Congress cannot subject civilian dependents accompanying the armed forces abroad in peacetime to court-martial jurisdiction regardless of the nature of the offense.

Two other Supreme Court justices agreed with the four with respect to cases involving capital offenses. Two others dissented, holding the military has jurisdiction in all cases involving civilian dependents abroad.

Butler Blames Republicans for Union 'Gangsters'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul Butler, Democratic national chairman, said Tuesday that if "gangsterism can still flourish in a few American labor unions it is due to the ganging up of Republican forces" to defeat labor reform legislation.

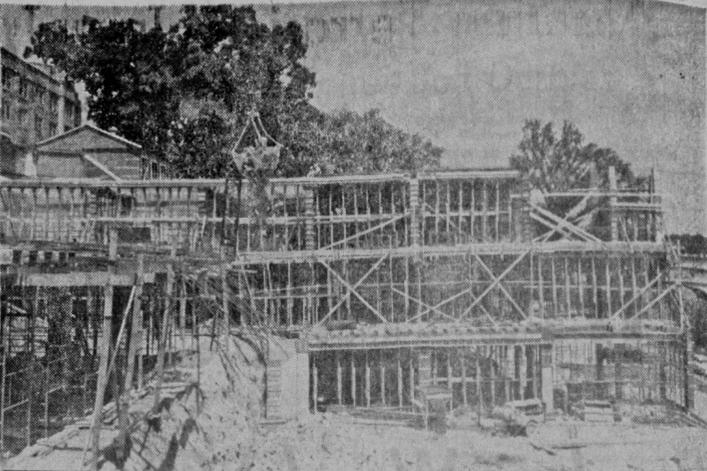

"This vote alone," Butler said in a statement, "should convince rank-and-file union membership of the need for a greater Democratic majority in the Congress to counteract such well-organized opposition."

He said the Senate-passed bill by Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) "went down to defeat under the combined blows of a Republican secretary of labor, a majority of House Republicans dominated by the National Assn. of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, with a healthy assist from a Republican president in the White House."

Butler said other clear-cut examples of the need for a stronger Democratic majority in Congress included:

"Three more Democratic votes in the House of Representatives would have passed last year's school construction bill.

"Four more Democratic votes in the House would have meant passage of a housing bill."

Third Floor Takes Shape

THE THIRD FLOOR of the Hillcrest Men's Dormitory addition started taking shape the past few weeks as workmen set forms and poured concrete on it. The third floor will house the main dining rooms and kitchen in the 5-floor, $1,750,000 addition. The first floor, which is about level with South Riverside Drive, will have loading docks, service and storage rooms and locker facilities. The second floor will be a recreation and storage area. The dormitory offices, a snack bar and a lounge will be on the fourth story and the fifth floor will be used for staff apartments. The exterior will be finished with brick and limestone. —Daily Iowan Photo.

Dag Arrives in Lebanon After Clash Near Airport

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Dag Hammarskjold landed Tuesday night on his Mideast peace mission soon after a gunfight had blazed across the airport road. The shooting was near newly established U.S. troop positions.

Hospital sources said two Lebanese were killed and six injured. The clash was reported to have developed between Lebanese security units and Palestine refugee agitators within rebel lines as the U.N. secretary general was en route by plane from Rome.

U.S. Air Force officers said they understood one American was hit. Confirmation was lacking. A strict curfew prevented newsmen from making an on-the-spot check. The Lebanese Government Tuesday night reimposed censorship on outgoing dispatches after it was suspended 24 hours earlier.

The shooting was one of the most serious such outbreaks since Lebanon's Parliament chose Gen. Fuad Chehab July 31 as successor to President Camille Chamoun, who retires Sept. 23.

Lebanese security forces set up a heavy guard around Hammarskjold as he emerged from his plane. Reporters and photographers were crowded away. A Lebanese drew a gun to force back one cameraman.

No Lebanese or American officials were on hand to greet Hammarskjold. He is stopping here only for a night's rest before going on to Jordan to tackle the big job under his mandate from the Emergency U.N. General Assembly.

There he will begin his efforts to find some practical arrangement whereby British troops can be withdrawn from Jordan and American forces from Lebanon and a start made on plans for area-wide economic development.

Rail Employees Ask Investigation Of Iowa Cutbacks

DES MOINES (AP) — A railroad employees' representative Tuesday renewed his request for a state investigation of Iowa Commerce Commission decisions affecting railroad service.

Claude E. Davis, representing the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees, appeared before the Legislative Interim Committee.

Davis contended the Commerce Commission has acted illegally in approving cutbacks in train service and elimination of small railroad station agencies.

A similar complaint was raised by Davis last February. The Commerce Commission answered Davis' charges and he renewed them Tuesday.

Rep. George Paul (R-Brooklyn), Interim Committee chairman, said he thought the railroad employees should take their complaints to the courts rather than the committee.

The committee agreed to receive a written statement from Davis answering the Commerce Commission's answers to his earlier charges.

Paul said the committee may ask the attorney general's office later whether an investigation of the railroad dispute comes within the duties of the Interim Committee.

SUI Prof. Resigns From State Board

DES MOINES (AP) — Mrs. Myrtle Kitchell Aydelotte, professor in the SUI College of Nursing, has resigned from the Iowa board of nursing examinations, Gov. Herschel Loveless said Tuesday.

The governor said Mrs. Aydelotte in her letter of resignation said she is engaged in teaching research and doesn't have time for nursing examiner duties. The governor said he expects to name a successor in the near future.

'Paper Coal'

A SAMPLE of "paper coal" is displayed at the American Institute of Biological Scientists meeting by Indiana University geologist G. K. Guennel. Found in Indiana recently, it looks like other coal but breaks into tissue-thin layers when exposed to weather. Guennel said the "paper" actually is the waxy coating of leaves of plants which lived 250 million years ago. —AP Wirephoto.

Algerian Terrorists Continue Activities

PARIS (AP) — Algerian gunmen Tuesday night shot up a police car and wounded three policemen patrolling a quarter known as the Casbah in Paris.

In another apparent Algerian raid, a French army officer was shot down as he left a movie theater on the Grands Boulevards.

The continuing Algerian terrorist-saboteur campaign to dramatize nationalist demands for independence from France coincided with a political move by the Algerian rebels at the United Nations. And it came as Premier de Gaulle on his African tour was shouted down at Dakar by West African clamor for independence.

Mohammed Yazid, New York representative of the Algerian National Liberation Front (FLN), asked U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld to talk the French into calling off the Sept. 28 constitutional referendum in Algeria.

The Algerian nationalists charged that the voting would be stacked because of the huge French military concentration in Algeria. Yazid said the troops had in effect turned Algeria into a vast concentration camp.

Refuse to Listen
Stumping for his proposals in French West Africa, De Gaulle was greeted by a mob yelling, "Independence! Independence!" It was the first time on De Gaulle's 15,000-mile tour through Africa that a crowd refused to listen to him.

The Premier told the howling, jumping West Africans that they were free to choose independence from French rule if they wished. This was an offer he has not extended to Algeria.

No Discourtesy
Despite the hostile crowd in Dakar, leaders of the African Regroupment Party (PRA) said they had not intended any discourtesy to De Gaulle. They said they had organized quiet demonstrations, but that subversive groups had moved in.

The nationalists began their big terrorist push in France Monday, obviously as a prelude to preparations for the referendum in France and its territories next month.

The government's first move Tuesday was to cancel all leaves for Paris policemen and members of the National Security Forces and order those on vacation to return to their posts.

In its latest survey, the department attributed the climb to an increase in unemployment and Social Security payments, rise in farm income, maintenance of corporate dividends despite a drop in profits and a continued advance in wage rates, including the hike in Government pay.

Purchasing power was somewhat off because living costs increased.

The Government reported previously that income reached a high in July, hitting an annual rate of $354 billion. Counting retroactive pay increases given Government employees, the seasonally adjusted rate would have been nearly $359 billion.

Truman-Type GOP Upset Predicted

CHICAGO (AP) — Meade Alcorn, GOP National Committee Chairman, predicted Tuesday Republicans in the November elections will provide "the greatest upset since Harry Truman stumped the experts in 1948."

Alcorn, speaking to a meeting of Republican National Committee members, said that despite some political predictions, "there is no reason for us to lose a single Senate or House seat or a single governorship."

The Eisenhower Administration's handling of the recession is one of the largest reasons, Alcorn said, why Republicans will make a strong showing in 1958 elections.

"The everlasting credit of President Eisenhower, his Administration refused to panic when Democrats were shouting, with a curious mixture of alarm and elation, that the country was on the skids," Alcorn said.

He continued: "Our economy is now moving forward and upward at a healthy pace. The recession has bottomed out during the spring months and there has been a steady, continuing upturn ever since. As we move toward the 1958 elections, it now seems clear that the economy will surge to even higher ground."

Lone Tree Pastor Gets Scholarship, Eastern Tour
The Rev. Jerry D. Brown, pastor of the Lone Tree Methodist Church and a student at Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., is one of 20 award-winning Methodist seminary students who will visit national boards and agencies of the denomination in five cities Sept. 1-12.

The students will each be awarded a $500 scholarship in recognition of what church officials term their "outstanding qualities of leadership and promise of unusual competence in the pastoral ministry."

Cities to be visited on the tour include Nashville, Chicago, Washington, Philadelphia and New York.

Special Funds For Chapel
DES MOINES (AP) — Some $156,000 in emergency funds was released by the Iowa Legislative Interim Committee Tuesday to rebuild the fire-damaged chapel at the Clarinda State Mental Health Institute.

Committee members also said they might call in State Fire Marshal Ed Herron and representatives of the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation to conduct a thorough investigation of the possibility of arson in the Aug. 12 fire.

Dr. Karl Catlin, superintendent of the institution, said the chapel is badly needed to further a number of treatment procedures. He termed it "as important as a surgical unit."

State Board of Control Architect Ralph Arnold estimated the cost of the new structure and equipment at $175,447. He said it could be completed by next spring if work can get under way at once.

Rep. George Paul (R-Brooklyn), committee chairman, said only $806,849 remained at the start of Tuesday's meeting of the $2-million contingency fund provided by the 1957 Legislature.

Asked how the fire started, Dr. Catlin said it hasn't been determined. He said there was "no possibility of spontaneous combustion" and there was some evidence indicating the blaze might have been set.

Rep. Vern Lisle (R-Clarinda), a committee member, suggested that the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation be requested to investigate the blaze. He said the bureau could "look into the matter much more thoroughly than the fire marshal's office is equipped to do."

State Plow Match To Be Sept. 12 Near Washington
Southeast Iowa will be host to the 1958 District Conservation Field Day and State Plowing Matches. This year's event will take place on 740 acres eight miles north of Washington on September 12th.

Herb Campbell, well known Washington county farmer is general chairman of the event.

The state level land and contour plowing contests will be held during the day. In addition, many conservation activities may be observed on the farms that are hosts to the Field Day. These include the farms of Harold and Ernest Strum, the Hazel Spera farm and the Preston Edmondson farm.

Income Up; Purchasing Power Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income in the first seven months of 1958 was up over last year but purchasing power was off, the Commerce Department reported Wednesday.

After making allowances for the usual summer slack, the department said the nature of business activity in July was firm. Consumer income, employment and industrial production were above monthly averages of the second quarter.

In its monthly survey of current business, the department's Office of Business Economics said personal income averaged an annual rate of $350 billion for the first seven months of the year. For the same period of 1957 it averaged $346 billion.

Purchasing power was somewhat off because living costs increased.

The Government reported previously that income reached a high in July, hitting an annual rate of $354 billion. Counting retroactive pay increases given Government employees, the seasonally adjusted rate would have been nearly $359 billion.

Congress Ends in Flurry—Curious Old Character

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — What a wonderful, but curious, old character Congress is!

Here it lolls about, comparatively speaking, all winter and spring. And then it winds up with a tremendous burst, like a laggard scholar trying to cram a year's learning into one frightful night.

You'll get an idea of the madness from this: Normally the Congressional Record tries to stay up to the minute with Congress. But, although the Senate gasped it was end at 4:11 a.m. Sunday, the Record keepers wisely decided not to spring to the finish.

Limped in Wednesday
The Record containing the final hours of Senate debate finally limped in Wednesday, footsore and ear-wary.

The account of the last night shows a few things no one had time then to report. How bills were bouncing around every which way. How one senator, Morton (R-Ky.), calmly announced he had had it, was going home to bed, and left his phone number, in case anyone cared. How one senator even forgot which state he was from.

Sen. Frank Lausche (D-Ohio) had a point with his complaint that, under the conditions, no bill gets a proper hearing. Therefore, Lausche told his colleagues, all bills passed during the last 10 days of Congress should be declared unconstitutional.

Obviously Unobvious
Certainly a comment, by Sen. Gordon Allott (R-Colo.), shows the Senate was having its troubles.

"Mr. President, I respectfully request, and ask unanimous consent, that the chair restate the question, because it is very obvious that with the confusion in the Senate, when the chair asked for the eyes, one senator answered in the negative. It was obvious that the confusion was such that the question was not understood," he said.

Perhaps appropriately, much of the final night was devoted to a discussion of Chicago's sewage, its quality and quantity, and whether that city should be allowed to take more water from Lake Michigan.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) led the fight on the bill and was successful, partly because he had the material and the determination to talk all night if he had to.

"Too Simple"
Mr. Proxmire had his difficulties. Senators like to refer to themselves in the third person. It's "the senator from Oklahoma," this, or "the senator from Maine" that. I don't know why. Maybe "I" is too simple for senatorial tastes.

Anyway, Proxmire in answering a question said: "The senator from Illinois is aware of that." Everyone laughed and he quickly corrected himself. "The senator from Wisconsin is aware of that, too," he said. "Because I was born in Lake Forest, Ill., I cannot get out of the habit."

Self-Praise
And so the night wore on, with many a time out for congressmen to praise their leaders and themselves for what a good job they have done, and implying that we're lucky, lucky taxpayers to have such splendid employees, remember election time is just around the corner, and many hope to be rehired for another term.

Possibly the most poetic farewell was made by Sen. Alan Bible (D-Nev.).

"Mr. President, very soon we will have finished up our work," Bible said. "We will melt away in every direction. I am reminded of what happens when a glob of mercury is dropped — little bits of that quicksilver scatter to the four winds, and only God can get it back together. Once the members of this Congress separate, we are like that mercurial globe, as we will never be again together as we are today."

Which is a good way to say goodbye to Congress.

Go, you little globules, go.

Fair Attendance Perks Up; Welk Group Arrives

DES MOINES (AP) — Attendance at the Iowa State Fair perked up again Tuesday with more favorable weather and the crowds were well ahead of the same day last year.

Chief grandstand attraction was a group of performers from the Lawrence Welk orchestra in Los Angeles, headed by singer Alton Lon who praised the Iowa exposition and smilingly obliged autograph seekers.

The National Shetland Pony Congress, meantime, was holding its annual meeting in connection with the fair. The Iowa event is the official grand championship competition of the American Shetland Pony Club.

More than 50 Shetland pony breeders are exhibiting including A. C. Bueler of Verwood Farms in Illinois, E. C. Adams of St. Louis, Dawn Acres of Chanute, Kan., T. P. Parker of Valley View, Tex., and Happy Valley of Bloomfield, owners of the $85,000 pony Supreme's Bit of Gold.

Judging of 4-H and FFA purebred dairy and beef heifers was in progress and those who showed FFA heifer breed champions included Karl Roberts, Dysart, Hereford; Wayne Wetzel Jr., Muscatine, Angus; Stanley Chapman, Clarion, Holstein.

In the 4-H competition, Gary Minish, Dysart, had the champion Hereford heifer.

Winners of gold awards for FFA showmanship were Danny Greiman, Garner; Gary Askew, Stockport; Keith Lazear, Chariton; Jack Van Nice, Muscatine, and Bob Bancks, Muscatine.

Nuclear Detection Plan May Be Too Widely Hailed

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The Geneva scientific plan for detecting nuclear tests, and the Anglo-American suggestion that it be set up by international agreement, is being widely hailed — perhaps too readily — as a major step toward disarmament and peace.

This is especially true in Europe. The hope is that if an agreement can be reached to police a ban on testing, then it should be only another step to set up control systems to cover the production and use of atomic and eventually other arms.

Record Against Cooperation
In the first place, the cooperation of Soviet scientists in determining what sort of checking system would be effective has little or no bearing on whether the Soviet Union will ever agree to foreign observers on her soil. The record is against it. The Allies will hardly trust an agreement without it.

In addition, the whole Soviet military posture indicates a belief that if atomic arming can be halted and a ban on atomic warfare adopted, she will gain freedom to expand her central position through the blackmail of conventional arms. Smaller Western military establishments would be robbed of much of their deterrent qualities.

Red China Involved
Since the scientists propose a world network of some 100 detection stations on both land and sea, locations in Red China would be required. This would involve the American nonrecognition policy.

The Chinese Reds have been demonstrating recently that they intend to pursue a tougher line even than the Kremlin.

The Allies cannot afford to be put in the position of making political payments to Peiping in order to obtain detection sites.

The United States and Britain have already limited the proposed ban to weapons, not being willing to tie their hands on the development of atomic power for peaceful uses. The Soviets already have expressed suspicion.

Soviet Fear
One of the motives for Soviet reaction to all atom-control proposals has been her fear that the West, which for many years has sought to more or less isolate her economically, would attempt to hinder her application of atomic power to her economic problems.

Another factor that is mitigating against an easy adoption of a permanent nontesting policy is the troubles which the military may encounter in developing their weapons programs. A trial period such as the nations are now preparing to enter may give the already-doubtful weaponeers concrete arguments against a continuation.

Since the evidence regarding fallout is still far from decisive, the present situation has developed in answer to a propaganda need.

A final agreement on a ban, and especially the extension of the general idea to the whole field of disarmament, is still far down under the horizon.

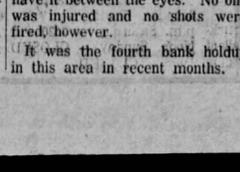

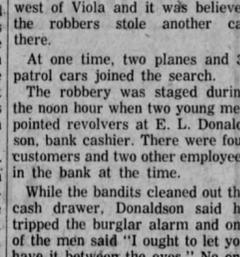

In addition to the plowing matches and conservation activities, an excellent program has been arranged. Short speeches will be made by Governor Herschel C. Loveless and William G. Murray, Republican gubernatorial candidate. Congressman Fred Schwengel and his November opponent Tom Dailey have also confirmed that they will be present.

Two Viola Bank Robbers Hunted
VIOLA, Ill. (AP) — Search efforts for two polite bandits who robbed the Farmers State Bank of Viola of more than $1,500 Tuesday centered late in the afternoon in the area between Viola and Rock Island.

The station wagon in which the bandits fled was found abandoned in the Shale City vicinity northwest of Viola and it was believed the robbers stole another car there.

At one time, two planes and 35 patrol cars joined the search. The robbery was staged during the noon hour when two young men pointed revolvers at E. L. Donaldson, bank cashier. There were four customers and two other employees in the bank at the time.

Braves Down Giants 8th Straight Time

Giants Drop To 3d Place As Bucs Win

SAN FRANCISCO — Milwaukee's Braves kept their Indian sign on San Francisco Tuesday with four home runs plus 6-hit pitching by Lew Burdette, downing the Giants 7-3.

The triumph, sparked by two homers by Eddie Mathews, provided the eighth straight for the defending world champions over San Francisco. The defeat dropped the Braves nine games behind the National League leadership.

After Mathews broke a 3-3 tie with his 26th homer of the season in the seventh inning, Del Crandall hit for the circuit in the eighth. Both Mathews and Wes Covington hit the ball out of the park in the ninth. All homers came with nobody on base.

Burdette, who beat the New York Yankees three times in the World Series, finished his sixth straight game and notched his 15th victory against nine setbacks.

ST. LOUIS — Frank Thomas hit his 34th home run of the year for the Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday night, sending in Dick Stuart who had been hit by a pitched ball in the third inning. It proved the key swat of a 5-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and put the Pirates in second place in the National League.

The Pirates needed three pitchers to take the game. Starter George Witt was replaced in the third by Don Gross the winner. Gross left in favor of Elroy Face in the seventh.

Cardinal manager Fred Hutchinson was ejected from the game in the St. Louis half of the sixth inning for objecting too heatedly to a play at first.

Phils 10, Cubs 3

CHICAGO — Robin Roberts was tagged for three runs in the first inning, two of them unearned, and then pitched eight shutout innings as the Philadelphia Phillies pounded the Chicago Cubs 10-3 Tuesday.

Roberts chalked up his 14th win with a 4-hitter. He hit a 3-run triple in the fifth inning when the Phillies scored six runs. It was Roberts' first triple in two seasons.

Moore Moryn's No. 19 homer, the Cubs 15th of the season, highlighted the losers' productive first before Roberts settled down to blank the Chicagoans on two hits over the final eight innings.

Moe Drabowsky, first of five pitchers, drew the loss — his 11th in 20 decisions.

Redlegs 6, Dodgers 4
LOS ANGELES — Don Newcombe, the big righthander who couldn't win for the Dodgers, whipped them for the first time as a Cincinnati pitcher Tuesday night. The Redlegs dropped Los Angeles 6-4.

BALTIMORE — Don Ferrarese walked in the only run in the 12th inning Tuesday night for a dismal ending to a 1-0 game won by the Baltimore Orioles over the Cleveland Indians.

It was a crucial blow to the left-handed Ferrarese who had been traded off by the Orioles on April Fool's Day of this year.

His base on balls which forced in the game's lone run was issued to Dick Williams, one of the players for whom he had been traded. It was his second walk of the inning which Billy Gardner opened with a single. Jim Busby scratched another single to fill the sacks.

Before that, the Orioles had gotten only four singles off Ferrarese. It was his fourth setback in five decisions. Hal (Skinny) Brown, who stepped aside for a pinch batter in the 12th, watched the Orioles take their sixth game for him against three losses.

Cleveland had a frustrating time getting past first base despite nine hits, four by Minnie Minoso and three by Bill Moran.

Iowa's First Opponent—

TCU Has 2 Regulars, 20 Lettermen Back

By LOU YOUNKIN
Sports Editor

Iowa's first 1958 football opponents, the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian University (TCU), Fort Worth, Tex., will welcome 20 lettermen back into the fold when coach Abe Martin puts his squad through their first drills Monday.

TCU will face the Hawks at Iowa Stadium Sept. 27 after opening their season the Saturday before in Lawrence, Kan., against the University of Kansas.

Only 11 Seniors
Of the 69 men expected to be on hand on the opening day of practice for TCU, 29 are sophomores, 29 juniors and only 11 seniors.

The Frogs, who won five last year and tied one in finishing sixth in 1957 in the hectic Southwest Conference, will be 2-deep in lettermen at 8 of the 11 positions. Only one letterman returns at left end, center and left halfback.

Southwest sportswriters recently voted TCU the team most likely to bring home the bacon in the conference to which Martin said, "That is the kiss of death." The writers have been correct on the winner only four times in the last 24 years.

Shofner Gone
The Horned Frogs will be minus offensive ace Jim Shofner this year via graduation. Shofner, who was the No. 1 draft choice of the Cleveland Browns, carried the ball 131 times in 1957 for 682 yards. Also gone from the TCU backfield this season will be quarterback Dick Finney and fullback Buddy Dike.

Only 2 of the 20 lettermen were considered regulars last year — right halfback Marvin Lasater and tight tackle Joe Robb. End Chico Mendoza, who teamed with Shofner, Dike and Finney to form a formidable defensive secondary, is also gone. TCU allowed only 202.2 yards a game in 1957.

Possible Starters
The 1958 Horned Frogs will probably line up something like this: At ends junior Jimmy Gilmore, 6' 2", 180 and junior Hank (Bubba) Meyer, 6' 1", 180. Gilmore is also the team's punter.

At tackles junior Don Floyd, 6' 3", 215 and senior Joe Robb, 6' 4", 220. Robb is one of the two 1957 regulars. Guards will probably be junior Sherrill Headrick, 6' 2", 200 and junior Ramon Armstrong, 6' 1", 215. At center will be senior Dale Walker, 6' 2", 210.

Martin is a coach who does not stress the forward pass. In the five years he has been at TCU, the Frogs have never thrown over 170 passes a season in 10-game schedules. Last season TCU launched only 100 aerials — completing 31.

Ellis Good Passer
The appearance of senior quarterback Hunter Ellis on the scene this year may alter that. In spring drills, Ellis hit on 30 of 40 forward passes for eight touchdowns in four spring "games."

With Ellis — 6' 2", 185 — in the backfield will be returning first-stringer Marvin Lasater, 6' 1", 185-pound junior at left halfback. Rounding out the ball carrying crew will be junior right halfback Marshall Harris, 6' 1", 190 and junior fullback Jack Spikes, 6' 2", 200.

These 11 men, all lettermen, may not be in the starting lineup when the season opens, however, since a fine showing by sophomores, or non-lettermen, injuries, scholastic difficulties, etc. could alter the situation.

Sophs Won 4 of 5
This year's sophomore crew compiled a 4-1 record as the freshman team in 1957 and some of these boys will undoubtedly push the regulars for their starting berths.

Other men with a good chance to break into the starting lineup are ends Aubrey Ham, sophomore, 6' 2", 200, and letterman Joe senior, 6' 3", 185 and letterman Paul Peebles, junior, 6' 1", 190, 235, and letterman David McSpadden, junior, 5' 11", 220 and Bill Roach, junior, 6' 5", 230; guards Roy Rambo, sophomore, 6' 2", 200, and letterman Joe Moffett, junior, 6' 2", 215, and Paul Pitts, senior, 6' 2", 200. Sophomore Lanny Verner, 6' 3", 230, is expected to be the No. 2 center.

Backs with a good chance to see a lot of action are quarterbacks Larry Dawson, sophomore, 6' 3", 195, and letterman Jack Sledge, junior, 6' 175; halfbacks Billy Gault, junior, 6' 180, Larry Terrell, sophomore, 6' 1", 195, and letterman Carlos Vacek, senior, 5' 7", 165 and fullback letterman Merlin Priddy, junior, 5' 11", 195.

First Meeting
The Sept. 27 meeting will be the first in history between Iowa and Texas Christian. The Frogs came north last year to upset Ohio State, 18-14, the only blot on the Big Ten champion Buckeye's slate. In six appearances against Big Ten competition, TCU has lost only one.

The last time the Hawkeyes faced a Southwest Conference foe was in 1931 when they dropped a 29-0 decision to Texas A&M. The only other Iowa-Southwest Conference game saw the Hawks down Arkansas, 25-0, in 1925.

BANCROFT LOSES
MCPHERSON, Kan. — Maplewood, Mo., defeated Bancroft, Ia., 4-3 Tuesday night in the first game of the 4-state regional American Legion Junior baseball tournament.

Boyd, Beecham Fight Tonight
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Bobby Boyd, 10th-ranked middleweight from Chicago, Tuesday was a solid 8-5 choice to whip Miami's Jimmy Beecham when they clash in a 10-round fight here tonight.

Boyd, who stopped Jimmy Morris last month in his last outing, hopes to solidify his rating with a win over the Miamian. He drew with Holly Mims and lost to Rory Calhoun recently and unless he handles Beecham easily he is likely to drop in the rankings.

On the other hand Beecham will be anxious to make up for losing a split decision to Spider Webb here last May. The margin was thin but it made Beecham's record 27 wins, 7 defeats and two ties.

Fight time is 8 p.m. CST and the action will be carried coast to coast by ABC, KCRG-TV, Channel 9, Cedar Rapids, will televise the fight in the Iowa City area.

Recruiting Better
The new coach also said recruiting results had been better than he expected.

"Right now," he said, "we have 35 freshmen football players coming here — four from Iowa and the rest from 12 other states."

He said 14 of the 35 were offered scholarships by one or more Big Ten schools. He said he might lose a few of the 35 before school starts.

Discussing the low number of freshmen from Iowa, Stapleton said:

Big Ten Attracts
"We are going after the very best in Iowa but we don't want to concentrate solely on them and risk losing the top boys from out of the state. With the fine record made by Iowa and the glamor of the Big Ten, Iowa attracts most of the top players in the state."

Although the new Cyclone coach has one of the country's top passers in tailback Dwight Nichols, he said he plans to use the pass as a striking weapon rather than a sustained one.

"This will strengthen our pass threat," he said, adding that he regards Nichols as a player "with more desire to play than any I've ever seen."

Milwaukee Ready for Second Straight Series
MILWAUKEE — Milwaukee, with a fingers-crossed kind of confidence, Tuesday set in motion plans for its second consecutive World Series.

Ray Markey, chairman of the Mayor's Civic Progress Commission, scheduled a meeting of his 30-member group for Sept. 10 to blueprint a pennant clinching and series celebration.

Have Good Lead
The city seemed to be on firm ground, what with the Braves leading the National League by 8 games with only 29 to play after Tuesday's win over the Giants in San Francisco.

Markey, who helped stage last year's delirious blowout, thinks something a bit more restrained may be in order this year.

"It isn't as though it never happened to us before," he said. "After all, we've grown up a bit baseballwise. Since we're the world champions, maybe there should be just a slight touch of dignity in the arrangements. We'll see."

Money is no problem. The commission has a bank account of $12,399 for just such happy emergencies.

Getting Ready
Wheels were starting to turn out at County Stadium, too. Braves' ticket director William Eberly said he was making tentative plans for handling ticket sales and hiring extra help.

"We're designing the tickets that we'll use," said Eberly.

"There's actually nothing we can do until the baseball commission calls his traditional meeting early in September," Eberly said, "and authorizes the teams that have a chance to win the pennant to print World Series tickets."

That meeting usually is held on the first Monday after Labor Day.

Oh yes, if the Braves and the New York Yankees, who own a sizeable lead in the American League, meet again this fall and if tradition is followed, the first series game will be here Oct. 1.

Captures 5,000-Meter Crown After Brief Rest

OSLO — Great Britain's Gordon Pirie Tuesday won the 5,000-meter run at the Oslo Games in brilliant performance just 30 minutes after he had competed in the 1,500 race.

Pirie's victory in 14:03 over the Russian gold and silver medal winners at the European championships in Stockholm completely overshadowed a top-rate performance by Australia's 4-minute-miler Merv Lincoln.

Not even the announcer of the race knew that Pirie was running in the 5,000 after he had finished sixth behind Lincoln in the 1,500.

Pirie controlled the longer race from start to finish and added the crushing blow to a Russian squad which did not win a gold medal during the second day of competition.

Czechoslovakia's Miroslav Jurka was second followed by Russia's Yevgeny Zhukov and Nikolay Pudov.

Lincoln ran a quick but unspectacular 1,500, winning easily in 3:54.4, way off the world mark of 3:38.1 held by Czech Stanislav Jungwirth who placed third in 3:46.0. East Germany's Zeigfried Valentin was second. Pirie's time was 3:47.2.

Russia suffered a big upset in the high jump. It was won by Stig Pettersson of Sweden with a leap of 6-6 1/2, the same as Russia's Yuri Stepanov, who has bettered seven feet. Pettersson was declared the winner on the basis of less faults.

Now president of the American Olympic Committee, Lincoln is a former world champion in the 1,500-meter race.

At the 1956 Olympic Games in Melbourne, Australia, he won the 1,500-meter race in 3:54.4, a world record at the time.
