New Klu Klux Klan Chapter Organized in Little Rock

By The Associated Press

Federal marshals and army engineers are being brought in to set up a military government in Arkansas's Little Rock school district, which had a small but violent incident yesterday.

The incident occurred when a group of black students tried to enter the school and were met by a mob of white students.

The police were called and a gun battle ensued, with several injuries reported.

The incident is the latest in a series of race-related incidents in the Little Rock area, which has already had a series of school closures and incidents of violence.

The U.S. military has been deployed to help maintain order and ensure the safety of all students.

Alaskans at Ease

Alaska is improving statehood last week probably didn't worry about the condition pre- sented that the Federal Government shall re- ain its rights to public lands, except for a hundred million acres or 25.

Looking back in history, the Alaskans would find messengers on stellographs had been in more than once and without pro- mising. Once a state in its, is impossible to get located now.

While Minnesotans was admitted, it is hard to set Federal lands, Minnesotans had to agree not to depose states of other states of their constituenies. Ohio had to promise to give certain expen- diture to public land buyers. Utah was called upon to abolish polygamy - which it got around to doing ultimately - and to half the religious freedom.

Should losses to keep its capital at Guth- rig for 10 years or as planned, Alaska, so far to popular rule of judges after abandoning it. (President Taft in 1912 had visited the original statehood resolution because of this provision.)

The Supreme Court has ruled (Texas v. White in 1900) that sterilization cannot be invoked for any case.

American Education

Much has been written recently on the pros and cons of the American educational system versus the European.

A noted educator, Dr. Byron Bolling, head of the faculty of educational science at the University of Iowa, has been a leader in the study of education. In his latest book, The Latest Thing in Chopsticks, he gives a comprehensive survey of the educational system of Japan.

In the book, Bolling points out that the Japanese have a great respect for education and that they are constantly striving to improve their educational system. He also points out that the Japanese are not afraid to learn from other countries and cultures.

Bolling's book is a valuable contribution to the study of education and is highly recommended for all who are interested in this field.

Fish Is to Iceland As Oil Is to Britain

By J. J. ROBERTSON

Associated Press News Editor

Iceland has become a major player on the world stage, much as oil has become a major player in the Middle East. In both cases, the natural resource has provided the country with a wealth of wealth and power.

Iceland is a small country located in the North Atlantic Ocean, and it is known for its natural resources, particularly its fishing industry. Over the years, Iceland has become a major fishing country, producing large quantities of cod and other fish.

On the other hand, Britain is a large country located in the North Atlantic Ocean, and it is known for its natural resources, particularly its oil reserves. Over the years, Britain has become a major oil producer, producing large quantities of oil.

Both countries have benefited from their natural resources, and both have become major players on the world stage. Iceland and Britain are examples of the power that can be wielded by countries that are blessed with natural resources.

Columbus Dispatch

Iceland is to Britain as fish is to oil. Both are major natural resources that have played a key role in the economies of their respective countries.

Iceland has been a major fishing country for centuries, and its fishing industry has been a major source of wealth and employment for its citizens. In recent years, Iceland has also become a major oil producer, with its oil reserves accounting for a significant portion of its GDP.

Britain, on the other hand, is a major oil producer, with its oil reserves accounting for a significant portion of its GDP. In recent years, Britain has also become a major fishing country, with its fishing industry accounting for a significant portion of its GDP.

Both countries have benefited greatly from their natural resources, and both have become major players on the world stage. Iceland and Britain are examples of the power that can be wielded by countries that are blessed with natural resources.

The Latest Thing in Chopsticks

Last week, the latest thing in chopsticks was the latest thing in Japanese cuisine. The chopsticks were made of bamboo and were designed to be used with a variety of Asian dishes.

The chopsticks are a great improvement over the traditional wooden chopsticks, which can be difficult to use and can break easily. The bamboo chopsticks are more durable and are easier to use.

It is interesting to note that the bamboo chopsticks are not only a great improvement over the traditional wooden chopsticks, but they are also more environmentally friendly. The bamboo is a renewable resource and is a great alternative to the use of wood.

The bamboo chopsticks are available at most Asian markets and at some supermarkets. They are a great addition to any Asian cuisine and are a great alternative to the traditional wooden chopsticks.

Uncanny! 1,294 Items In Cans

The Iowa City School District recently purchased 1,294 items in cans, including canned vegetables, canned fruits, and canned soups.

The purchase was made as part of the district's effort to provide healthy and nutritious meals to its students. The district chose to purchase items in cans because they are more affordable and easier to store than fresh produce.

The district is committed to providing healthy and nutritious meals to its students, and the purchase of 1,294 items in cans is a step in that direction.

Iowa Drivers

DES MOINES — State Republi- can Senator David G. Kirkpatrick, of Iowa City, and Governor Robert F. Kennedy, of Chicago, signed a formal agreement Monday to end the 70-day-old strike of Iowa motorists.

The agreement was reached after several days of negotiations between the two sides. The strike had caused a great deal of inconvenience to motorists and had created a substantial amount of revenue for the state.

The agreement calls for the state to pay the motorists $1.2 million in back wages and to provide a minimum wage of $1.20 per hour. The agreement also includes provisions for the payment of health and welfare benefits for the motorists.

The agreement is a significant victory for the motorists and is a step in the right direction for the state.

Autos Claim 426— 621 Killed Over Labor Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This was the grimmest Labor Day weekend in recent memory, as the number of deaths on the state's highways soared to a record high.

Crushed to death in a 1962 Chevrolet Bel Air, a union official was the first death of the weekend. He was crushed under the car while working on the assembly line.

In all, 426 people were killed and 621 injured in traffic accidents on Labor Day weekend.

The state's toll this year stands at 6,528, including 6,218 injuries and 590 deaths. The toll for the same period last year was 6,328, including 5,963 injuries and 365 deaths.

The increase in the number of deaths and injuries is a cause for concern and highlights the need for increased safety measures.
