General Assembly May Discuss Formosa

"Herky's-Roundup"

NEW STUDENTS AND OLD and new organizations at SUI got acquainted Wednesday afternoon at "Herky's-Roundup" at the Union. One of the most popular places in the Main Lounge seemed to be the one sponsored by the Hawkeye Pep Club—the SUI cheerleaders were partly responsible. Time To Begin Making Plans For SUI Homecoming Floats

Almost before they've finished unpacking, many SUI students are already beginning to make plans for floats which will be entered in the Homecoming Parade Oct. 24. Preliminary information on the float competition has been mailed to student organizations on the campus, according to Joseph W. Meyer, chairman of the Homecoming Parade sub-committee on floats.

The deadline for parade float entries is Monday, Oct. 6, at 5 p.m.

In the case of entries with like themes, the earliest entry will be accepted.

"Large and complex parade floats are wonderful," Meyer said, "but don't sell short the effect of clever, inexpensive and smaller entries."

Through the cooperation of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce, student groups may get financial support for their entries from city businesses again this year.

Weather Forecast

Today

Sec'y General Would Have Key Role

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — High-level talks on the Formosa crisis took place informally Wednesday amid predictions that it would be tossed into the U.N. General Assembly within two weeks.

A luncheon given by Austrian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl brought together U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, British Minister of State Allen Noble, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

Prince Wan Waihayakon, Thailand's foreign minister and former Assembly president, said in a radio interview that Hammarskjold would be given a key role in a Formosan settlement.

He predicted Hammarskjold would be asked to go to Peiping, as was done in 1955 when he negotiated the release of 11 imprisoned U.S. airmen.

This time, Prince Wan added, the secretary general would probably set up a summit conference on the Formosa crisis, with the United States, Britain and France present in the one side and the Soviet Union, Red China and India on the other.

Meanwhile Nationalist China reported veteran fighter pilots shot down 10 Communist Chinese MIGs and possible 6 others Wednesday in one of the biggest air battles of the jet age, the Defense Ministry reported.

Adm. Liu Hon-tu, the Nationalist military spokesman, said 32 Nationalist Sabre Jets and more than 100 Russian-made MIG17s tangled in the blazing 10-minute fight that ranged more than 400 miles along the Formosa Strait.

A Red plan to lure the Nationalists over the mainland backfired, he said. All of the Sabres and their American-trained and equipped pilots returned safely.

Liu told a news conference swarms of the red-starred Communist fighters suddenly swept down at 10:40 a. m. on patrolling Nationalist Sabres and tried to cut off their retreat toward Formosa.

Little Rock Students Plan 1,236-Pupil Poll

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Four Little Rock Central High School students announced Wednesday night they have mailed questionnaires to 1,236 pupils enrolled at the school in an effort to determine their views on opening it.

Students responding are not being asked to identify themselves. The cards ask, "Do you wish to have Central High School open, whether segregated or integrated? Answer yes or no but do not sign your name."

The two boys and two girls who prepared the cards said the results would be accurately counted and shown to "any responsible questioning groups, including the press, in order that the true sentiment of the student body may be known."

They said they expected to know the results Friday. Kirk Smith, Preston Rudisill, Gail Manor and Sharri Smith, all juniors and seniors, prepared the survey.

Little Rock voters will decide in a referendum Saturday whether the district's schools are to be integrated.

Meanwhile the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People moved Wiley A. Branton of Pine Bluff, Ark., Negro attorney for the NAACP, filed a petition in U.S. District Court asking that the Little Rock School board be enjoined from leasing school properties to a private corporation.

The petition asked further that such private schools, if they are opened, be required to admit Negro students under the integration plan previously in effect at Central High School.

The school board has asked the court whether it may lease its facilities to a private corporation without being held in contempt.

U.S. Dist. Judge John E. Miller will hear pleas on both the school board and the NAACP petitions today at Fort Smith, Ark.

There were three reported incidents of Negro-white violence Wednesday in the city and its environs.

Newly-Paved 218 Will Be Opened Today

Highway 218 between Iowa City and Cedar Rapids will be opened for traffic sometime today, highway commission officials reported Wednesday.

The area will be posted with "soft shoulder" warnings and there are no shoulders along some areas of the new road. Highway officials urged motorists to use extreme caution on the new stretch of highway because Tuesday and Wednesday's rain made it impossible to do work on the rough shoulders.

The highway patrol said they would ban truck traffic on Highway 218 on Saturday and route trucks around the area of congestion created by football traffic, Saturday.

Rebel Leader Named Premier

19 Killed In Flurry Of Shootings, Bombings

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Lebanon's new President Gen. Fuad Chehab stopped a deadly outburst of civil warfare here Wednesday with heavy tanks and troops. Wednesday night he named a former rebel leader as his premier.

Nineteen were killed in the day's communal fighting between Christians and Moslems.

The new premier who will head the Government under the iron-fisted chief of state is 37-year-old Rashid Karami.

Karami immediately announced a 7-man cabinet would run the Government. It includes three former opposition leaders and four so-called neutrals.

The first job will be to try for peace between the two big religious communities.

Scores Injured
Scores were reported injured in wild flurries of shooting, bombing and car burning.

Lebanese forces had orders to shoot to kill in a decisive hour of armed strength on Chehab's first full day in office.

U.S. troops were rolled out between clashing Christian and Moslem factions in the hopeful role of peacemakers and to protect American residents.

The rebellion-torn nation is about half Christian, half Moslem.

Chehab is officially Christian but there is also some Moslem background in his family. He took office Tuesday as the newly elected president, succeeding Camille Chamoun, a Christian.

The gunfights developed generally between Moslems pouring out of their Basta quarter in celebration of Chehab's inauguration and Christian Falangists who support Chamoun and are resentful over his retirement under rebel drumfire.

American troops took up positions between battling factions in the port area and were spotted around the airport and in the residential section where Americans live.

There were no reports that any American forces took part in any shooting.

Ordered Off Streets

The 1,000 resident U.S. nationals were told to stay inside their homes. Chehab ordered antimissile patrols to shoot down anyone illegally carrying weapons and backed it up with a daylight curfew extending to dusk. The clampdown brought an end to the fighting in four hours.

It was the most drastic action taken by the Government since the outbreak of revolt against the Chamoun regime last May.

Tickets Still Available For TCU Game Saturday

Some tickets for the Iowa-Texas Christian football game Saturday are still available at the SUI Athletic Ticket Office.

All students desiring tickets for the game were able to get reserved seats, the office reports, and several student seats were left over. Deadline for picking up student tickets was 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Loveless, Murray Speak At SUI Meeting Saturday

A good-government symposium, with two Iowa gubernatorial candidates, an economist and a political scientist participating, will be held at SUI Saturday in Shambaugh Auditorium. Sponsored by the SUI School of Journalism and United Press International wire service, the symposium will be open to the public.

Addressing the session at 9 a.m. will be Democratic Governor Herschel C. Loveless, who is seeking re-election. William G. Murray, Republican candidate for the governorship, will speak at 9:30 a.m. Murray is currently on leave of absence from Iowa State College, Ames, where he is a professor of economics and sociology.

Clark C. Bloom, assistant director of the SUI bureau of business and Economic Research, will speak at 10 a.m. on "Some Factors in the Further Industrial Development of the State of Iowa."

At 10:30 a.m., Russell Ross professor in the SUI political science department will speak on "Needed Constitutional and Legislative Changes in the Governmental Structure of Iowa."

Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI School of Journalism, will be the moderator of the panel. Following each of the talks the speakers will participate in a question and answer period.

Hurricane Helene Roars Toward Florida Coast

MIAMI, Fla. — Hurricane Helene roared steadily toward the South Atlantic Coast Wednesday night and tropical storm Lisa gained in size and intensity on the hurricane track 625 miles east of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Helene, the season's fourth Hurricane, was about 425 miles east of Melbourne, Fla. It was moving northwest at about 10 miles an hour.

Interests along the Carolina coast and southward to Florida were advised to keep in touch with future word on the hurricane, but a forecaster pointed out there is no immediate danger to any land areas.

Former SUIowan Designed Iowa Structure

World's 1st Aluminum Bridge Dedicated

The nation's first aluminum bridge — designed by Ned L. Ashton, former professor in the SUI College of Engineering — was dedicated near Des Moines Wednesday.

The bridge, a research project of the Iowa Highway Commission, is a county road overpass across Interstate 30-35 west of Des Moines.

The 2-lane, 4-span continuous girder structure has a reinforced concrete deck.

The bridge, 36 feet wide with a 30-foot roadway, was developed to demonstrate structural and fabrication advantages of aluminum.

Ashton describes the new bridge as a major breakthrough in rapid field fabrication of bridge structures. Aluminum is more expensive per pound than steel, but weighs less per volume, he explained.

Aluminum is more durable, not subject to corrosion and relatively free of maintenance, thus the long range cost of such a structure is less, he noted.

The cost of constructing the bridge was $124,632 or 50 per cent more than a comparable steel bridge.

The aluminum fabrication for the bridge was by Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturers, Chicago. General contractors were Jensen Construction Company and United Contractors, both of Des Moines.

The structural members were shipped in four giant subassemblies from Chicago. Each consisted of an exterior and interior girder with connecting diaphragms, approximately 12 feet wide. The subassemblies ranged from 95 to 126 feet in length.

The big sections of the bridge were elevated to concrete piers by crane and bolted in place. The concrete deck is tied to girders with aluminum shear connectors.

The girder and diaphragm system is primarily of welded plate construction. The plate ranges from one-half inch to one and three-fourths inches in thickness.

Iowa Speed Limit Not Needed

When the Iowa Safety Commissioner was assessed 5 traffic points for exceeding the speed limit, a few people laughed, others sympathized with his predicament, but everyone recognized his contribution to traffic safety by bringing to Iowa the point system.

speed limit existed, had a lower fatality rate than Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio, where fixed limits existed. The average death rate in the states where speed limits existed was 5.0 as compared to the state with no limit which was 4.9.

Passenger Trains Becoming Extinct

By ARTHUR EDSON WASHINGTON (AP) — To anyone brought up in a railroad town, the blackest news from the nation's capital hasn't been the misfortunes of Sherman Adams or even the perils of Quemoy.

No, it was a prosaic little item which predicted that, except for commuter trains, the last passenger coach would go out of business by 1970.

No passenger trains? What kind of a transportation world is this? Everyone knew the old patient was ailing, of course. Each fiscal report had said that passenger travel was going down, down, down.

But railroad men have been such professional weepers that it was easy to keep on believing that the malady, though undoubtedly serious, would hardly be fatal.

The Chilling Truth Then came the final, chilling diagnosis, by Howard Hosmer, an examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He said that not since 1890 have railroads carried as few passengers as they did last year. And Hosmer predicted that, barring a railroad miracle, the last sleeper and parlor car would disappear by 1965 and the last intercity passenger coach would go by 1970. To an ex-boy from Monett, Mo. — and there are hundreds of once bustling railroad towns like it in this country — this was bleak news indeed.

For a railroad town of 30 or 40 years ago had a personality all its own. Boyhood Memories Trains were so interwoven with Monett life that it would be hard to dredge up the first memory of one — any more than an Iowa boy could recall his first corn stalk.

But there was one winter's trip when the snow seemed mountainous, when drifts were high and so were the doubts. Could anything operate in such weather?

An then, here she came! The struggling engine had icicles clinging to her nostrils and she was so covered with snow she looked like a steaming igloo. The noise she made remains with me yet. I'll swear it was a contented chortle.

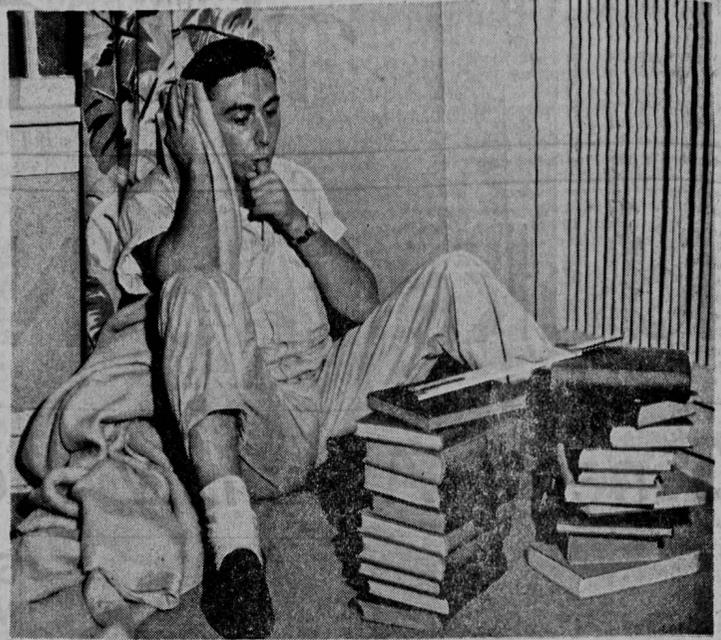

Let's move up in time a little. Oil had replaced coal as fuel in the big passenger engines, and huge beasts they were.

Before old No. 10, the pride of the Frisco line, pulled out each night for St. Louis, the engineer would build up steam. Flames shot from her oil burners, flashing a red light and creating awesome shadows. The stations windows rattled. The conductor checked his watch, gave the highball, and "choosh!" the engine strained forward.

Daring and Crazy At this moment each night a switchman indolently stepped in front of the slow moving engine and ambled lazily to the other side. The monster never quite got him. But it seemed to me then to be one of the most daring, courageous and damfool acts of all time. And it still does.

Well, the automobile, which is more convenient, and the airplane, which is faster, have done their dirty work, bringing this tribute — and this confession.

It has been years since I have been on a train. And it's a sorry business for an old passenger train lover to have to admit that he, too, helped kill it.

A Security Blanket May Work For Linus But College Students Will They Benefit More From Studying

Study Techniques Important

By L. S. HADLEY Kent (Ohio) State University Condensed from an article in "School and Society" magazine.

Few students entering college experience academic success which is commensurate with their measurable potentialities. I estimate conservatively that about 95 per cent of those entering college lack adequate study skills, and this includes many high-school valedictorians.

The typical high-school student studies very little outside of his school's organized study halls and seldom spends more than two hours outside of school on all of his subjects put together. His skills are geared to meet this demand.

Suddenly he is confronted with college assignments, each of which may consume two hours, and there is no supervised study hall. Even though his school record may have been sufficiently high to rate him top honors, he finds himself greatly disillusioned when he must meet both the increased competition which college brings and the immediate demands for the more effective use of his time.

A relatively small percentage of the beginning college students have reading speeds and comprehension skills adequate to handle all college assignments. Many never have experienced with reading for meaning but have continued verbalizing as if they were reading aloud. The shorter assignments never have required more.

College classes are taught predominantly by the lecture method and one seldom meets a new college student who is able to take good and usable notes. A counselor has only to recall the numerous complaints of students about tests ("That wasn't a fair question; it isn't in the text book," to realize that their previous school experiences have required no note-taking on class work.

Since secondary teachers have used more generally the so-called objective-type tests, it is not unusual to find numerous college beginners who experience great difficulty to organize in writing the answer to a test question. Other kinds of tests also disturb some students because "they just seldom show to good advantage on tests," yet most college professors judge course grades on the basis of test performance.

A few students adjust their study techniques without apparent interruption, while others appear utterly frustrated. Some acquire study skills in a hit-or-miss fashion and feel lucky when they get by, not thinking what they might have been able to achieve had they tried appropriate techniques. Others fail to meet the minimum requirements and are dropped. Aside from foundations in written expression and computation skills, probably the most important assets a student has when he enters college are his academic work habits and study skills.

But if he has not acquired the necessary techniques to become an effective college student with ordinary adjustments, then the problem is largely one of initiating his own programs of self-improvement. Many colleges offer organized courses in how to study in which the student may enroll, even for college credit.

These are only as effective as each individual student makes them. Again, many excellent references are available and a student may conscientiously read all of the suggestions made to him, but nothing happens to his own reading or other study skills until he is motivated to try out some of the programs of improvement. Counseling may include a careful diagnosis of the student's individual difficulties, but unless he becomes experimental to the point of developing some new approaches to his problem of being an adequate college student, his problem remains unsolved.

All of these efforts on the part of college—courses, counseling, clinics, laboratories, suggested references—are needed and must be made available to students, but in the final analysis there are no shortcuts to success in improved reading or other study skills and each student must realize that only through practice can he change his own habits. Living up to one's potentialities most of the time is the goal held by the mature student, and he does it without "outside" prodding.

The Opportunity Has Come — Frank China Policy Needed

By J. M. ROBERTS Associated Press News Analyst

The Washington Administration received Nikita Khrushchev's latest diatribe, opened it, read it, sent it back marked rejected, and is now preparing to answer it indirectly.

Together with leaks of bad news from the negotiations with Red China at Warsaw, the whole thing is being widely assessed as increasing tensions and worry about war.

To cooler heads, however, it still looks more like a part of the long-term propaganda battle.

The United States reopened negotiations with Red China not with any real hope of obtaining agreements, but in the desire to find out what the Communists are really after. Whatever the results, they can hardly be grounds for surprise.

Neither is the tone of the rejected Khrushchev letter.

Harsh Language The language exchanged between Moscow and Washington has been increasingly undiplomatic. The President's last reply was exceedingly tough. He impugned Khrushchev's motives and accused him of trying to present an "upside-down" picture — in other words, of lying. The type of Khrushchev's reaction could easily have been anticipated.

Khrushchev's reply was, however, more than a mere "You're another." The points it belabored regarding America's military position far from home are old. But they are also tried and successful propaganda among Western nations.

The real need for answering it despite its diplomatic rejection, however, lies in the points it addresses to America's sturdiest allies.

Those are the points having to do with Washington's support of Chiang Kai-shek's policies and the refusal to recognize the Red Chinese regime.

Called Shortsighted All over the world, and especially in Britain, those policies are being represented as illfounded and shortsighted.

One reason for this is that the United States, so accustomed to present its actions against a background of principle rather than bedrock practicality, frequently fails to search its own mind and describe its motives frankly.

There is an analogy between supporting Chiang and his 600,000 soldiers on Formosa and one of the oldest concepts of diplomacy. That concept is of a "fleet in being," or army in being, to put power behind a political position.

That is an analogy which the British, first of all, would understand, if it were not so obscured by talk of not deserting old friends and of "domino" reaction to any sign of desertion.

Khrushchev has now provided a perfect jumping off place for some frankness about the policy toward Chiang.

Labor, Management Bureau To Expand Special Services

Special educational services to Iowa labor, management and government groups offered by the SUI Bureau of Labor and Management will be almost doubled this year, says Jack Culley, director of the bureau.

Instructors from the bureau's staff will conduct institutes and short courses, designed to give members of the three groups new information in their special areas, in various Iowa communities during the coming year.

The bureau's services are part of the University's Continuing Education Program provided in co-operation with the SUI Extension Division, which each year arranges programs for civic, business, professional and other groups in Iowa.

Members and officials, representing 22 different international unions, participated in the bureau's labor education program.

Courses for Iowa industrial managers delve into the problems of human relations, the techniques of foremanship training, management development and industrial communications. Seminars on management are also held at the University.

During the 1957-58 academic year, more than 350 supervisors and executives from 67 leading Iowa business and industrial firms took part in the management development programs.

Last year, some 160 representatives of various federal and state agencies participated in the bureau's educational program for government workers.

Urologists To Meet At SUI

Members of the Iowa Urological Society will hold their annual fall meeting in conjunction with a Post-graduate Course in Urology at the SUI College of Medicine Friday and Saturday.

A special session Saturday morning will emphasize the great incidence and seriousness of urological problems in childhood. Speaking will be Dr. R. H. Flocks, professor and head of the SUI Department of Urology and Dr. W. W. McCrory, professor and head of pediatrics.

Other faculty members of the SUI College of Medicine who will participate in the Friday sessions will be Dr. R. G. Bunge, professor of urology; Dr. D. A. Culp, associate professor of urology; Dr. Hans Kronawetter, associate, and Professor James Bradbury of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

To Hold

Last year, bureau instructors held 17 institutes and courses in eight Iowa communities. The number to be held this year will be about 30, according to Jack Flagler, program director of the bureau.

The institutes provide labor, management and government leaders with one or 2-day courses of 8 to 15 hours of intensive classroom instruction, while the non-credit short courses and longer programs providing 20 to 40 hours of instruction.

The labor education programs cover such topics as arbitration procedure, labor legislation and public speaking. Labor leaders who attend the programs come from various unions within the city where the course is being held, from state labor groups and regional union organizations.

Last year, some 150 union mem-

Besides its educational programs, the bureau does research in the field of industrial and labor relations and maintains a reference service, which includes special documentary material on industrial and labor relations.

TCU To Be Toughest Opener
For Hawkeyes Since 1954

By LOU YOUNKIN
Sports Editor

Iowa's 1958 grid opener with TCU here Saturday will without a doubt be the toughest opener for the Hawkeyes since they opened with a 14-10 win over Michigan State in 1954.

The Horned Frogs were extremely impressive in their first game Saturday when they clobbered Kansas on the latter's home ground, 42-0. And the part of the TCU game that looked good Saturday is what makes Iowa fans wince. That is depth.

Texas Christian's first team scored one touchdown, while the second squad put the pigskin across the goal three times and the third and fourth units came up with a TD-apeace.

I have no doubt the Iowa first team can handle the TCU No. 1 unit on at least an even basis, the question lies in whether or not Iowa coach Forest Evashevski's reserves can play equal ball with the Frogs' reserves.

If the Hawkeyes have a weakness, and that won't be known until late Saturday afternoon, it is in reserve strength. The Iowa offense is strong, probably the strongest in years, but the defense is the big question. Inexperienced interior linemen behind the first team and a defensive backfield that lacks height could be disastrous.

TCU coach Abe Martin has never stressed the forward pass in his attack at the Fort Worth school, but against Kansas Saturday the Frogs launched 24 aeriels and hit 12 of them for 177 yards and three touchdowns.

TCU's highly touted quarterback Hunter Enis had a day like all Saturday's for him—he was not the ace he was supposed to be. Now a senior, Enis has been "just around the corner" from greatness for quite awhile. He hit 4 of 10 passes for 56 yards against Kansas, one for a touchdown.

I hope Enis gets around the corner sometime in October. The Frogs' best hurler at the moment seems to be sophomore Larry Dawson who was successful on five of six pitches for 73 yards and two touchdowns against Kansas.

Iowa is not going to be an also-ran though. The Hawkeyes this season should have the most potent offensive machine in a long, long time. All America quarterback candidate Randy Duncan is a cinch to better Kansas' 2-for-4 aerial game against TCU.

Duncan, who set all sorts of records last year, has looked great in fall practice and is a continuing overhead threat. To aid him, Evashevski has come up with the greatest bunch of halfbacks and fullbacks since Rutgers and Princeton squared off in 1869.

First team halfbacks are Ray Jauch and Bob Jeter, but they are closely followed by Kevin Furlong, Willie Fleming, Jerry Mauren, Bill Gravel and John Brown. Any of these seven is capable of going all the way. Mauren however is being groomed as a defensive replacement for Duncan at the moment.

The fullback slot is also deep with captain John Nocera, Don Horn, who Evy has said has the balance of any back he has ever coached, Fred Long and Gene Mosley. Mosley has looked good on defense and may see some action in that capacity.

Duncan is being pushed by senior Olen Treadway and soph Mitch Ogiego at quarterback. Ogiego looked very good in early drills, but an ankle sprain has slowed him considerably and he has lost a lot of valuable practice time.

Iowa's ends give Duncan a great target this year. Any team that lost ends like Frank Gilliam and Jim Gibbons in consecutive years would seem to be in trouble. But not the Hawks. Behind first-string ends Don Norton and Curt Merz are Bob Prescott, Jeff Langston and Al Miller. All five are not only excellent pass receivers, but fine defensive men too. Miller, a sophomore who bears a striking resemblance to Iowa basketball coach Sharm Scheuerman, fills in at either end and is a real comer.

To make the 1958 Hawkeyes click this year though, the burden lies with reserve interior linemen John Savin, Chuck Lee, Don Shipanik, Gerry Novack, Lloyd Humphreys, Steve Turner, Bill Ringer, Al Dunn, Bill Scott and Ernie Mielke. If these men come through and they must if Iowa is going to be a threat this season, the Hawks are going to surprise an awful lot of people.

Williams Within 4 Points Of Runnels In Batting Race

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams edged within four points of teammate Pete Runnels in the American League batting race Wednesday but New York defeated Boston 7-5 behind Mickey Mantle's 42nd home run.

Runnels singled his last time up off winner Duke Maas and lost only one point from his pacesetter AL average. The Sox infielder now has a .324 mark.

But Ted beat out a pushed bunt toward third and doubled to left in three trips to move his average up to .320 from .317. He also drew a walk.

Frank Malzone drove in four Boston runs on a pair of homers. Mantle increased his league-leading homer production with a line drive belt good for two runs in the fourth inning.

Hank Bauer hit his 12th homer, doubled and scored three times. New York . . . 310 200 001—7 9 0 Boston . . . 000 110 020—5 9 3 Maas, Duren (8) and Berra; Brewer, Fornieles (6), Kieley (8) and White. W—Maas, L—Brewer.

Home runs—New York, Bauer (12), Mantle (42), Boston, Malzone 2 (15).

ChiSox 4, Tigers 3

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox clinched second place in the American League for the second straight year Wednesday by defeating the Detroit Tigers 4-3 in 10 innings.

Jim Landis, in the game for defensive purposes and playing with eight stitches in his left elbow, opened the Sox 10th with a triple into the right field corner off Tom Morgan who had replaced Frank Lary in the ninth. Sherm Lollar then bounced a single to center through a drawn-in infield to score Landis.

The winning pitcher was Don Rudolph, rookie lefthander. Starter Billy Pierce was within one out of his 17th victory in the ninth when Red Wilson looped a single to left center to score Billy Martin and send the game into overtime.

Detroit . . . 000 010 101 0—3 12 1 Chicago . . . 010 000 110 1—4 12 0 Lary, Morgan (9) and Wilson; Pierce, Moore (9), Rudolph (10) and Lollar. W—Rudolph, L—Morgan.

A's 7, Indians 4

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Roger Maris smashed two home runs and Ray Herbert turned in a strong relief pitching job Wednesday night for the Kansas City Athletics as they defeated Cleveland 7-4.

Ralph Terry was the winning pitcher. It was his 11th of the year but Herbert gave him a big boost after taking over in the seventh. The A's scored three runs in the sixth to go ahead, 5-2, but the Indians cut the gap to one run when Bobby Avila hit a pinch 2-run homer in the seventh.

When Terry followed by walking Rod Graber he was replaced by Herbert who blanked the Indians the rest of the way. Maris hit his second homer in the eighth with a man aboard to provide Herbert a comfortable working margin. Cleveland . . . 001 100 200—4 10 1 Kansas City . . . 000 113 020—7 15 0 Bell, Moss (6), Bradowski (7), Grant (7) and Nixon; Terry, Herbert (7) and Chiti, W—Terry, L—Bell.

Home runs—Cleveland, Nixon (6), Collavito (38), Avila (5), Kansas City, Maris 2 (28).

Orioles 2, Senators 0

BALTIMORE (AP) — Arnold Portocarrero notched his 15th victory — a modern Oriole record — Wednesday night by shutting out the Washington Senators 2-0 on three hits. Loser Camilo Pascual allowed single runs in the second and third frames.

Portocarrero, a Kansas City castoff whom manager Paul Richards acquired in a mid-April swap for Bud Daley, struck out eight and walked only two. The victory brought his record to 15-11.

He was tied, as he went into Wednesday night's game, with teammate Billy O'Dell who won 14 this season before being sent home with a sore arm. Other 14-game winners for Baltimore were Bob Turley in 1954 and Connie Johnson in 1957.

Washington . . . 000 000 000—0 2 0 Baltimore . . . 011 000 000—2 6 1 Pascual, Clevenger (8) and Courtney; Portocarrero and Triandos. L—Pascual.

Dodgers 4, Cards 3

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers set a new National League double play record Wednesday night and whipped the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3, with the help of home runs by rookies Bob Lillis and Don Demeter.

The Dodgers pulled off three double plays to run their total for the season to 195. This is one more than the record held by three different Cincinnati teams. The major league record is 217, set by the Philadelphia Athletics in 1949. The game drew 12,771 persons and ran the season total attendance at the Coliseum to 1,807,785. This eclipsed the previous high season total for the Dodgers, 1,807,526, set in 1947 in Brooklyn. Los Angeles got two of its runs on the Lillis and Demeter homers and two other rookies, Ron Fairly and Jim Gentile, drove in the others with third inning singles. St. Louis . . . 000 000 201—3 6 1 Los Angeles . . . 102 001 000—4 7 2 Mabe Chittum (6), Jackson (8) and Green; Craig Kipp (8), Birrer (9) and Roseboro, W—Craig, L—Mabe.

Home runs—Los Angeles, Lillis (1), Demeter (5), St. Louis, Boyer (23).

Cubs 10, Giants 3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays continued his drive for the National League hitting title Wednesday by shutting out the Chicago 10-3 and missed another chance to clinch third place.

Mays jumped his average to .346 with a triple in the first and a double in the third, both booming drives. He grounded out in the fifth and walked in the seventh to go two for three. He went two percentage points ahead of idle Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia.

Mays, who won his only NL batting crown in 1954, is belting the ball at a red-hot clip in his past 11 games. A crowd of 7,887 watched the Cubs pound six Giant pitchers for 14 hits, including Bobby Johnson's 20th home run and Lou Jackson's 3-run triple in the five-run ninth.

The Giants need only one victory to clinch third place but the Cubs have stopped them twice in this their last series of the season, at Seals Stadium. Chicago . . . 011 010 025—10 14 1 San Francisco . . . 010 002 000—3 6 1 Briggs, Henry (6) Elston (6) and Neenan; Gomez, McCormick (6), Monzant (7), Jones (6), Giel (9), Johnson (9) and Schmidt, Thomas (7). W—Elston, L—Monzant.

Home run — Chicago, Thomson (20).

Trade Gibbons

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns Wednesday traded Jim Gibbons, a rookie offensive end from Iowa, to the Detroit Lions for a future draft choice.

Gibbons caught 26 passes in six games to lead the Big Ten pass receivers in 1957. His departure leaves the Browns with three offensive ends.

Gibbons joins last year's teammate at Iowa, Alex Karras, on the Lion roster.

RAY KO'S BOWDRY

CHICAGO (AP) — Sonny Ray, a 3-1 underdog, pounded seventh-ranking light heavyweight Jesse Bowdry nearly at will for two rounds before scoring a technical knockout Wednesday night in 1:22 of the ninth in their scheduled 10 rounder.

Navy Aid To Preps Outlawed

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Navy has been ordered by the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference to discontinue prep-school aid to athletes, it was learned Wednesday.

The conference, by a majority vote of its members, rejected the practice under which the service academy has paid up to half the tuition of some of its athletes to attend a prep school to better prepare them for entrance examinations to the academy.

The vote was taken by a secret mail ballot of the 110 ECAC members this summer, it was understood.

Navy athletic officials could not be reached for immediate comment on the report. But it was understood that an announcement was imminent from ECAC headquarters in New York.

Bill Gravel Eligible

Iowa's already strong halfback corps received a big lift Wednesday when Bill Gravel, who had been awaiting a grade in a summer session course, was declared eligible for competition.

Gravel, a two year letterman from Hobart, Ind. led the team in rushing attempts last season with 83 and finished with 265 yards. "Growling Bill" started in 8 of the 9 contests and is described as offensively a very hard runner and defensively a sound tackler, but is hampered on pass defense because of his short stature—he stands only 5-8.

Now, with renewed zest, the 180-pound halfback is making a bid to move up the ladder from his third team post. In Wednesday's 2-hour session, Gravel alternated with No. 2 left half, Kevin Furlong in a passing scrimmage that saw the two top quarterbacks, Randy Duncan and Olen Treadway, continue their sharp passing. Like the previous practice sessions this week, the Hawks spent the major portion of their work-out setting up defensive formations against Texas Christian plays. But before coach Forest Evashevski sent his club in, he had Bob Prescott warm up his "golden toe" by booting field goals from the 35 with amazing regularity.

In For Rough Afternoon Says TCU's Martin

An enthused Jim Brock, Texas Christian sports publicity man turned up in Iowa City this week with some Abe Martin quotes and a few factual comments of his own about the Horned Frogs, Iowa's opponents in its curtain raiser Saturday.

"Iowa will make us forget our success real quick," said Martin. "I thought Iowa had a better team than Ohio State in 1957. In fact, the Hawkeyes may have the best team in the country. . . We are working real hard to be ready for this one. I'm afraid we are in for a miserable afternoon," added the pessimistic Martin.

The Associated Press reported that Texas Christian coach Abe Martin came up with a defense Wednesday that he hopes will stop Iowa in their game Saturday at Iowa City.

The Horned Frogs tossed out the defense they were using Tuesday when the reserves easily romped through it. But the new alignment, which will be kept secret until Saturday, had better success.

"I like it much better than yesterday's defense," fullback Jack Spikes said. "We should be able to slow down their wide stuff with it."

Harshman Loop's Best: Richards

BALTIMORE (AP) — Nine months ago, Manager Paul Richards wanted to give pitcher Jack Harshman back to the Chicago White Sox.

Richards went complaining to Commissioner Ford Frick he had found out belatedly that Harshman had a lame back when he was dealt to Baltimore as part of a three-for-three swap.

Frick upheld the trade, but directed the White Sox to give the Orioles an additional player.

Thank you, Mr. Frick, Richards said in effect Wednesday. "For my money," Richards said, "I've got to rate Harshman the absolute best in our league in the overall haul, bar none."

What sent Richards into his rhapsody was Harshman's 12th pitching victory in which he drove in all the Oriole runs with two homers and a double.

Harshman has lost 14, but in nine of them the 31-year-old southpaw was furnished two runs or less by his team. He lost three by one-run margins and six by two.

Harshman has struck out 158, fourth best in the American League this season and he has an earned run average of 2.77.

Last year Harshman won eight and lost the same number with Chicago.

He hurt his back a year ago August taking batting practice against the Orioles.

Missile Explodes Over Florida Site

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A lightning-fast Navy Polaris test rocket was blown apart high over the Cape Wednesday, raining flaming debris back on the launching area.

The sleek rocket was deliberately destroyed by a range safety officer when it strayed off course and appeared to be heading down the coast instead of out to sea. No one was hurt.

The missile broke into two sections at about 50,000 feet. They traced twisting trails of white smoke against the sky as they plunged back to earth.

The larger chunk hit like a bomb only a few yards from the Polaris launching pad. Its fiery return caused a violent explosion that blasted white flames and mushrooming brown smoke high in the air.

The second section plunged into the Banana River some five miles south of the launching site, splashing a huge spray of mud and water. Banana River is a tide-water inlet separating the Cape from the Florida mainland.

It was the first time, as far as known, that a missile explosion had threatened a populated area outside the world's largest missile test center. The Cape was opened in 1950.

It was learned the trouble was caused by a defective programmer, a tiny electrical device inside the missile that directs the flight's control.

The Polaris is an intermediate range-1,500-mile ballistic missile being developed for launching from nuclear-powered submarines.

Walkouts Halt Auto Output By Big Three

DETROIT (AP)—A wave of walkouts across the country crippled auto production Wednesday as contract negotiations bogged down anew.

More than 71,000 were idled—about 32,000 in General Motors plants; 18,000 in Ford, and 21,000 in Chrysler.

The United Auto Workers Union blamed the unauthorized strikes on what it said was refusal of the companies to negotiate local grievances. But General Motors repeated a claim that UAW leaders in Detroit are dictating strikes to bring pressure in contract bargaining.

UAW President Walter Reuther, said he plans to move personally into negotiations with General Motors, the largest of the Big Three auto makers, on Friday.

GM, less than a week away from a Tuesday strike deadline, became the UAW's prime target when negotiations at Chrysler collapsed Wednesday.

Reuther walked out of the Chrysler talks at dawn and said the company and the union were too far apart on too many issues to warrant continuing their marathon session.

The negotiating teams that have been on the job the past six months are scheduled to resume their talks at Chrysler without Reuther.

Reuther will meet with the union's National Ford Council. The meeting was called for approval of a Ford agreement. Ford came to terms on a 3-year contract for its 98,000 employees a week ago in the early hours of a strike.

Bodies Of 6 GIs Killed In Crash Returned By Reds

KARS, Turkey (AP)—The bodies of six American airmen killed in a crash in Soviet territory Sept. 2 were turned over to American and Turkish authorities on the Soviet-Turkish border Wednesday.

They were taken to a morgue at a state hospital in this provincial capital 20 miles from the Armenian border and were to be flown on to the Adana, Turkey air base.

Presumably, they would be taken to Germany from Adana.

There were 17 men on board the C130 turboprop transport when it reportedly was forced across the border by Soviet MIG fighters.

The Russians have refused to give any information about the 11 others despite repeated requests made in Moscow.

In handing over the six bodies to Col. John Chalfont, U.S. air attache in Ankara, the Russians refused to divulge any details of the whereabouts of the American survivors or what condition they are in.

There was no immediate identification of the six bodies handed over.

Republicans Claim Adams Resigned By Own Choice

WASHINGTON (AP)—The evidence is all-persuasive that Sherman Adams talked himself out of his job.

Republicans in a position to judge say that if Adams had not telephoned GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn on Aug. 22, he probably still would be firmly entrenched as President Eisenhower's chief assistant.

These same Republicans say they don't think Adams' spectacular, if belated, resignation will make a nickel's worth of difference in the outcome of the November elections. Until Adams called Alcorn and asked him to poll the Republican National Committee on the political impact of his relations with Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine, Adams' Republican critics had made no headway in their efforts to get rid of him.

The word had gone down the line that Mr. Eisenhower was standing solidly behind his aide. Adams had acknowledged receiving expensive gifts and favors from Goldfine but had denied that he got government favors for Goldfine in return.

Alcorn is the authority for the statement that no one—including Mr. Eisenhower—asked Adams to resign. Adams' made his own decision after being told that among the national committeemen there was "reasonably acute concern" that his continuance in office would hurt the chances of GOP candidates in November.
