Nixon Lashes 'Rotgut Thinking'

Says Demos Belittling U.S. Military Might

Claims Such Talk Might Lead To War

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Vice President Nixon Wednesday accused Democrats of "rotgut thinking" and spreading false claims about America's defensive strength.

He warned there is grave danger the enemy "might well believe this claptrap and make the mistake of launching war against us."

Nixon said the United States is stronger now than any potential aggressor and he added: "We have the will, the ability and overall the military program to maintain that position of superiority."

Veep Strikes Back

The Vice President, campaigning for his home state's GOP ticket struck out at critics of the Eisenhower Administration in a speech prepared for a Republican rally at the San Diego baseball park.

It was in sharp contrast to his bipartisan appeal for support of Republican candidates in his television talk in Los Angeles Tuesday night, opening a 3-day tour of the big state.

Nixon referred to Democratic assertions of a so-called lag between United States and Soviet strength; and to claims that the Russians may be ahead of us in long-range missile development.

Speaking in the city where the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile is built, he said: "If there is a gap in missiles it is a gap that was opened by the Truman administration and it is a gap that is being closed rapidly and effectively by the Eisenhower Administration."

Raps Truman

Nixon said the Truman administration canceled the Atlas program in 1947 and delayed it in succeeding years. Under former President Truman, he said, this country spent $6,000,000 on long-range ballistic missiles from 1945 through July 1953. By July 1953, he said the Eisenhower Administration will have spent $6,000,000,000 — or a ratio of 1,000 to 1.

He said the Democrats have encouraged the implication that we are so scientifically poverty-stricken and our industrial machinery so ramshackle that "everything we are going to do in the next few years will be wrong and that everything the Communists do will be right."

"That is . . . rotgut thinking. I say Americans reject completely the philosophy that sold America short, the philosophy that plays politics with our national security with loose talk of America's weakness, a philosophy that, in effect, says to our potential enemy, 'Go ahead, bully boy, we're not going to be able to catch up with you.'"

Nixon defended the Administration's foreign policy, saying that it has kept the peace with honor.

Truman: Demos Could Lick Nixon

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said Wednesday his choice for the Republican nominee for president in 1960 is Vice President Richard Nixon.

"We can lick him," the Democratic chieftain added in remarks at a press conference.

Truman, here to address a Democratic banquet Wednesday night, declined to say whom he would support for the Democratic party's 1960 presidential nomination. But he added, "We have about a dozen good candidates. That list doesn't include me."

In his prepared speech, Truman accused the Republican Administration of fostering a stagnant economy, a lagging national defense and exploiting the West's natural resources.

Truman said since 1920 the "issue between the parties has been whether we are going to have full development of our resources for the benefit of all people or see them wasted and exploited by a few companies."

City Police Rescue Local Woman From Iowa River

Quick Action Saves Life Of Anna Kasper

West Branch Resident Sighted Floating Body

By BILL ANZINGER Staff Writer

The Iowa City Fire and Police Departments formed a fast moving rescue team Wednesday to save the life of a 50-year-old Iowa City woman.

Mrs. Anna Kasper, 430 S. Lucas St., was rescued from the Iowa River Wednesday afternoon. University Hospitals, where Mrs. Kasper is confined, would not disclose her condition Wednesday night, but police described her as being in a semi-conscious state Wednesday afternoon.

Police received a report from Doras Vikel, West Branch, at 2:56 p.m. Wednesday that a woman was floating in the river near the Benton Street Bridge.

Sprinkle Among First

Detective Lieutenant Harland F. Sprinkle was among the first to arrive at the bridge. He said some men standing by directed him to the woman, about 100 feet south of the bridge.

When Sprinkle arrived Mrs. Kasper was lying on her side partially imbedded in mud only a few feet from shore. The water did not cover her, he said.

Sprinkle said he noticed she was still breathing and called for assistance. He formed the terminal end of a human chain from the bank to the woman and pulled her from the water.

The woman was in a semi-conscious state on shore. Sprinkle said. Police did not administer artificial respiration, but put blankets around the woman to keep her warm.

Lifesaving Teamwork

At 3:06 p.m., exactly ten minutes after police received the distress call, Mrs. Kasper was on her way to University Hospitals.

The fire department had put a boat in the river in case shore-based rescuers were unable to reach Mrs. Kasper.

Sprinkle said it was difficult to positively identify the woman since she was unable to speak. He called in several people he thought might be related to her.

Finally he called in Ralph Kasper, who identified the woman as his mother.

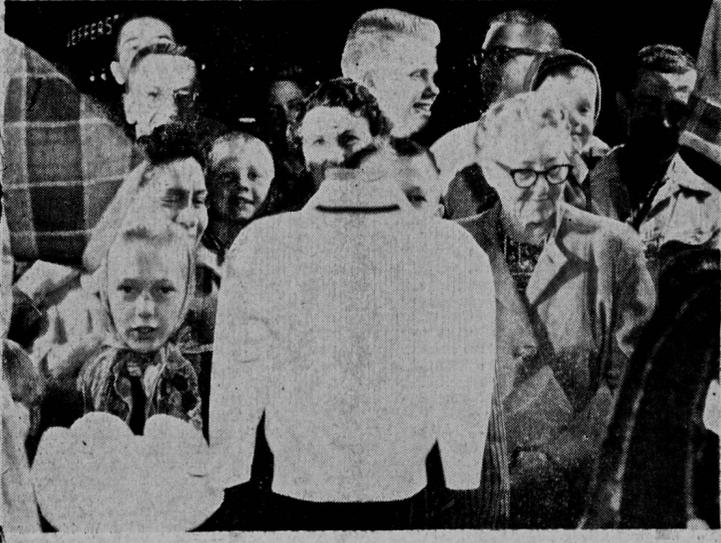

Mrs. Kasper's daughters then were called in. Her husband, who was out of town, arrived later.

Ralph Kasper said Wednesday evening his mother had recognized him but had not spoken.

No Explanation

Authorities did not know late Wednesday how Mrs. Kasper came to be in the river. Detective Sprinkle said he did notice Mrs. Kasper's jacket, shoes and glasses were laying dry on the bank near the recovery spot.

Neither police nor Ralph Kasper could offer any explanation of the incident. Ralph said his mother often was nervous, but said, "My sisters were with her at noon and she seemed all right."

Vacancy On Student Council

By WILLIAM SCHUSTER Staff Writer

The SUI Student Council Wednesday voted to appoint a representative to fill a Council vacancy in that position. Len Flander, L3, Iowa

City, president, said that applicants should apply to the Council between 1-3 p.m. this week. At its meeting in the East Conference Room of the Iowa Memorial Union, the Council amended a resolution of April 10, which stated that the Council shall fill vacancies by appointing the runner-up in the previous election, by adding that in case there is no runner-up, the Council President shall appoint a representative from a list of applicants.

The Council also passed a Constitutional amendment to give Burge Hall representation on the Council. The amendment read as follows:

Burge Gets In

"Article III, Section I, shall be amended to include Burge Hall in the list of electorates entitled to representation on the SUI Student Council. Burge Hall for the purpose of representation on the Student Council shall be considered to be only one electorate. It shall further be amended to delete the Commons Association from the list of electorates."

The amendment must be passed again at the next meeting (Oct. 15) before it goes into effect.

The Legislative Committee reported that it is preparing a questionnaire to send to candidates for state office. This questionnaire will ask the candidates' stand on such subjects as capital appropriations, limited enrollment in state colleges, and state funds for housing students.

The Homecoming Committee reported that a meeting of the Point-Four Program, and reciprocal trade program. He firmly believes that the Soviet challenge must be met in every area—diplomatically, economically, culturally and militarily.

Chiang Balks At Giving Up Offshore Isles

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek balked at the U.S. formula for peace in Formosa Strait and his Nationalist Government then flatly rejected it Thursday.

Chiang made clear in an interview he is opposed to reducing the garrisons of the offshore islands as the price of a cease-fire. He implied he would be free to ignore any cease-fire negotiated by the United States and Red China.

An official statement from the Foreign Ministry said troop cuts would clear the way for a Red invasion of Formosa and therefore "we cannot countenance the reduction of this defensive strength."

Cut Garrisons

Chiang and his Foreign Office aimed their shafts at a statement by Secretary of State Dulles in a Washington news conference Tuesday. Dulles proposed a cut in the Nationalist offshore garrisons in exchange for a cease-fire. He was backed up Wednesday by President Eisenhower.

The Foreign Ministry, after an all-night series of meetings, called the Quemoy and Matsu offshore island groups indispensable shields to Formosa.

"For this reason we must defend them to the best of our ability," the statement said. "The Chinese Communists have always wanted to invade these islands as a prelude to what they have repeatedly declared to be an invasion of Taiwan (Formosa) itself."

The statement, delivered by ministry spokesman Kiang Yi-seng, asserted that since 1949, the Communists have been building a powerful military force on the mainland coast opposite Formosa.

"Only Natural" "In the face of this ever present threat of invasion, it is only natural that we should station a strong garrison force to meet any attack," it said.

"In any event, the Chinese Government has made it known time and again that it would defend its legitimate rights and not be bound by any arrangement which would prejudice these rights and interests."

Chiang, in his interviews said he could not believe Dulles could be seriously thinking of asking for a cut in the offshore garrison; or that Dulles believed a dependable cease-fire could be arranged with the Chinese Communists.

Little Rock Segregationists Refuse To Give Up Fight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower appealed to all Americans Wednesday to obey the U.S. Supreme Court's decree on school integration but a group in Little Rock, Ark., took a new tack in its effort to open private, segregated high schools.

In Virginia, Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr., received a formal request to re-open six public schools at Norfolk, but there was no indication that he would act immediately.

The Little Rock Private School Corp., frustrated in its efforts to lease four high schools for private, segregated classes, appealed to the public for contributions of money and facilities to go ahead with its plan.

Dr. T. J. Roney, president of the corporation, asked anyone owning an available building suited for classroom use to call the corporation office. Contributions of money, he said, should also be sent to the office.

Roney said this course of action hinges on a decision expected next Monday from the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis. The Little Rock School Board has been temporarily enjoined from leasing four closed high schools to the private school group. The appeals court is to decide whether this shall be made permanent.

Roney charged in a statement distributed to newsmen that "Federal Government officials, from the President on down, who are working with the NAACP in this program, must somehow be made to understand that the course they have chosen is leading our nation to destruction."

The Norfolk, Va., City Council asked Almond to reopen the six schools there and operate them on a segregated basis as permitted under a state law passed in 1956. This apparently would eliminate only those grades which have been ordered to integrate.

Almond has said he hopes to move soon to reopen the nine schools in the state which were closed because of integration. He declined to give details but the elimination of integrated grades may be considered.

Integration trouble erupted at Wheelwright, Ky., for the first time since mixed classes began at a high school three years ago. About 100 yelling, rock-throwing students broke windows at the school after a white girl and a Negro girl had a fight in a restaurant. Classes were suspended indefinitely.

Free Tickets Available For Humphrey Lecture

The first of three lectures slated for SUI this month will be presented Thursday, Oct. 9, in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union at 8 p.m. with Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey as speaker.

Free tickets for this lecture can be picked up by students and Iowa upon presentation of ID cards at the East Lobby Desk of the Iowa Memorial Union beginning Saturday.

The ticket desk will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday; 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, and from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday. Any undistributed tickets will be available to the general public Wednesday after 9 a.m.

Humphrey, who was first elected in 1948 and a U.S. delegate to the U.N. General Assembly in 1956-57, will speak on the subject "An Expression of Faith in an Era of Fear."

He serves on the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations and is chairman of the Subcommittee on Near Eastern and African Affairs.

Humphrey, a Democrat, has long been an active supporter of international cooperation and mutual security.

He has supported NATO, the Point-Four Program, and reciprocal trade program. He firmly believes that the Soviet challenge must be met in every area—diplomatically, economically, culturally and militarily.

Baby, It's Cold Outside

Cool and cooler — that's the weather report for Iowa City during October.

The month had a frosty start with temperatures in the low 30s early Wednesday morning and predictions for today call for mercury readings in the mid 40s.

The 30-day weather reports indicate that skies should be bright for Dad's Day (Oct. 11) and Homecoming (Oct. 25) events but the temperatures will be considerably lower than normal. The unexpected cold front this week was caused by a mass of cold air from Canada. Weather reports indicate that continued cold fronts might bring snow into the mid-west within the next two weeks.

The New Red China Policy —

An Expert On Grasses Refuses 'Pastur-ization'

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON — She may be one of the world's leading experts on grasses, but Dr. Agnes Chase still isn't the type to be put out to pasture.

And so, when she reached retirement age in 1939, Mrs. Chase kept coming to work each day — and often on Saturdays — in her beloved Smithsonian Institution.

The Smithsonian made Agnes Chase an honorary fellow Wednesday. And this tiny slip of a woman, who will be 90 next April, thereby became only the eighth person in all Smithsonian history to be so honored.

Pretty Little Speech Dr. Leonard Carmichael, the Smithsonian secretary, made a pretty little speech.

He pointed out that though we taxpayers own the Smithsonian, most of us think of it only as one of the world's most fantastic museums — full of everything from Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" to a hive of red bees busily making honey.

But, Carmichael said, under the terms by which it was set up, the Smithsonian has another important function. It is a sort of research university.

And it was here, in the academic background, that Dr. Chase has spent her life.

Not that she was strictly the indoor type. In her day, she went gallivanting to many a foreign country, collecting and classifying

United States is currently engaged in modifying and explaining a policy position which has advanced beyond the wishes of her closest Allies.

Dulles did little more than put into words the already widespread idea that to obtain a cease-fire for Quemoy some concessions would have to be made to the Chinese Reds, provided they are concessions short of yielding to force.

If the Reds will agree first to a cease-fire, Dulles said in effect, the United States will then go to work on Chiang to obtain reduction or withdrawal of Nationalist forces from the offshore islands.

Chiang hit the ceiling in an interview with The Associated Press. He said he could hardly believe that Dulles would say such a thing; that Quemoy could and would be defended to the limit. He said that talk of relying on a cease-fire with the Reds was foolish.

Dulles had said Chiang's heavy reinforcement of Quemoy was foolish.

The climax was not reached, however, until Wednesday morning at President Eisenhower's news conference.

The President said a cease-fire in the Quemoy-Matsu area would open the door for a negotiated settlement of the Formosa issue itself.

Dulles said that he doubted Chiang could invade the mainland and questioned whether the Nationalist leader would even be re-installed if there were a successful revolt on the mainland.

For Chiang, the President's references to negotiations about Formosa itself must have sounded like another clap of the bell of doom.

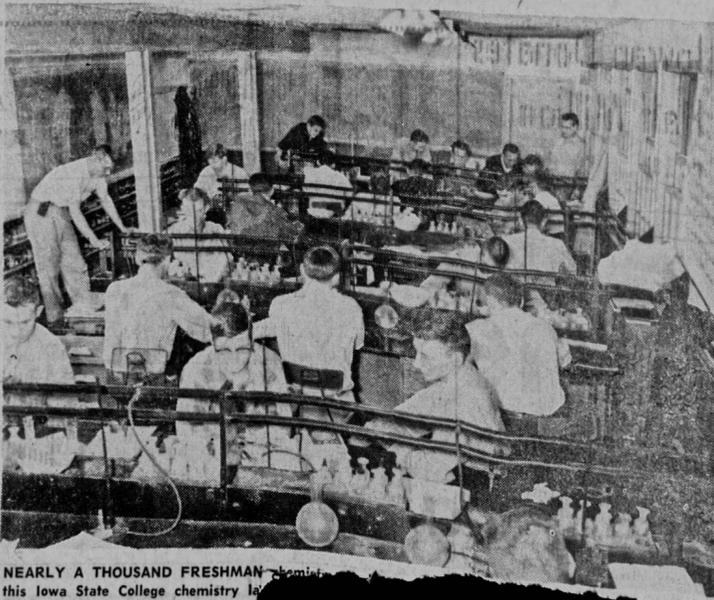

The President may have been thinking about a number of alternatives. Neutralization of Formosa as well as the offshore islands; establishment of a Formosan state without pretense of all-China sovereignty; a United Nations mandate.

For the Reds, negotiations would be meaningless unless they involved possible possession.

For Chiang, any change in the present situation is likely to be the end.

For the United States, the one thing that must be prevented at all costs is establishment of Communist military power on Formosa, where it would be posed like a dagger at the heart of the Philippines.

No pose of negotiable reasonableness can get around that.

Article Two On The Campus

EDITOR'S NOTE: Why do Iowa educators say there is a shortage of learning space at SUI, Iowa State College and Iowa State Teachers College? Four of the reasons are explained in this article, second in a 5-part series now being published by The Daily Iowan.

Prepared by SUI News and Information Service

Twenty-five years in which relatively little money was available for building classrooms and laboratories on their campuses is one of the principal factors blamed by Presidents Virgil M. Hancher of SUI, James H. Hilton of Iowa State College, and J. W. Maucker of Iowa State Teachers College for the present-day crowding on their campuses.

The 25 "lean years" began during the depression of the 1930's, the presidents say, when building funds were not available. During a 10-year period, an average of $211,400 annually was appropriated for all buildings at all three institutions, the presidents note.

Didn't Meet Needs Then came the World War II years, when building materials and construction workers went into defense construction. During this period the General Assembly appropriated an average of $131,250 annually for all buildings at all three schools, which by this time were accumulating a considerable "building deficit."

When the war ended in 1945, the campuses were almost immediately "swamped" with veterans eager to complete their long-delayed education. Building needs by now had accumulated drastically, but appropriations fell far short of meeting them. The State Board of Regents sought $10 million for construction at SUI, ISC and ISTC in 1945, for instance, of which $6.5 million was appropriated.

Since 1945 the Regents' request-legislative appropriation ratio has followed the same general pattern, with final appropriations being considerably less than the amounts requested for buildings, an average of $1,561,450 being appropriated annually for all construction at the University, Iowa State and Iowa State Teachers. To make matters

Space Crisis Imminent

Even geographical location on the campus becomes important in effectively utilizing learning space. Some facilities must be located in specialized study centers which are devoted to a particular discipline or profession, such as law or veterinary medicine. These facilities therefore become less accessible for multi-purpose, or inter-college or inter-departmental use.

No matter what they do school officials anticipate a general space crisis for SUI, ISC and ISTC by 1961, and some special crisis even before that time. The cause? Vastly increased enrollments, a problem throughout the nation.

Two principal factors are responsible for the so-called "tidal wave of students" which is expected to roll over the Iowa campuses within the next few years. First is the inescapable fact that there are more and more Iowa youth of college age; where there were 160,000 in 1955 there will be 240,000 by 1970. These figures are not estimates, or statistical projections—these are flesh-and-blood youngsters who have already been born, who can be counted, and who in fact are now in grade school.

Second is the steady increase in the percentage of Iowa high school graduates who go on to college—23.8 per cent in 1955, compared to the 30 per cent who will be enrolling each year by 1970 if present trends continue. Six and two-tenths percentage points sound like a small increase, perhaps—but they represent 35,000 more young people seeking admission to Iowa colleges and universities.

Translated into terms of enrollment at Iowa's three public institutions of higher learning, these factors indicate that 1957 enrollments will compare with those of 1970 as follows: ISTC, 3,206 students in 1957 and 6,200 in 1970; ISC, 9,826 and 16,000; and SUI, 10,254 and 16,000. Totaled up, this would be an increase of 16,642 students among the three institutions in the 15 year period—a number of young Iowans equivalent to an entire city the size of Fort Madison.

Already pressed for teaching and research space and with no new classrooms being built on the campuses, members of the State Board of Regents and administrators at SUI, ISC and ISTC seek to answer one critical question: "Where will we ever put them?"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two of the reasons for the campus building shortage are the research and services which SUI, ISC, and ISTC provide for Iowans, to be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Tastes Like Sugar Water—

Spiked Drinks For Bees

CINGINNATI — A blonde nurse is using a new medical tool to turn the angry buzz of the testy honey bee into a quiet murmur.

She slips mickeys to short-tempered, quick-to-sting German bees — considered the ornierest critters in beedom. To the bee, it tastes like the same old sugar water.

Miss Alice Hutzelman, in her role as a beekeeper, found the solution to pacifying angry bees in her work as a nurse. After seeing how tranquilizers calm patients at Jewish Hospital, she figured they could do the same for her bees. She tried it, and it worked, she said.

As a beekeeper, she had mostly Italian bees in her hives. They are the cool, peaceful types. The she got the German variety strictly plug-ugly types, with nasty dispositions. She says.

"German bees are considered a menace. They are good workers, but haven't been given a chance in this country because of their surly tempers.

"The tranquilizers don't cut down their ambition, just their anger. I have collected about 300 pounds of honey this year from that one hive."

To show she has tamed her bees, she pounded and kicked the hive. A few curious ones trickled out, looked at her and went back to work.

"Boy, if I had tried that before the tranquilizer, I'd have been stung to death," Miss Hutzelman said.

Posey To Receive Award For Project

Chesley J. Posey, professor and head of the SUI Department of Civil Engineering, will receive the James Laurie award at the annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers in New York City, Oct. 15.

The Laurie award is being presented to Posey for his work as co-author of a paper entitled "Flood-Erosion Protection for Highway Fills." The engraved Laurie certificate will be awarded as recognition of a special contribution to engineering science.

Posey and Ralph W. Powell, professor emeritus of engineering mechanics at Ohio State University, who was a visiting professor at SUI in 1955 and 1956, started the project in 1950 and ran the final tests in June 1954. The final report was first published by the American Society of Civil Engineers in 1955 and reprinted in 1957.

The two found that erosion could be prevented on embankments of highways by covering them first with a fine grain of sand followed with a layer of coarse sand, then a layer of fine gravel topped with coarse gravel.

The erosion study was sponsored by the Highway Research Board of the Iowa State Highway Commission and financed by private contributions.

Posey said that three graduate students also worked on the project and used the erosion problem as the basis for their theses. They were J. O. deAbreu and W. B. Morgan, 1951 graduates, and Henry deS. Manamperi who graduated in 1952.

Most of the work was performed at the hydraulics laboratory here and some at the Rocky Mount Hydraulics Laboratory, Allenspark, Colo.

Posey will give a progress report at the New York meeting on his current study, "Resistance Experiments in a Triangular Channel."

The study deals with the attempt to find out how to accurately determine the proper size of irrigation ditches on the basis of the amount of water to be used.

Posey said that although he has not found the final answer, results so far look promising. He hopes by reading the report to the group to receive donations to aid the project.

The study, started in 1953, has had three government grants and a number of private contributions. Posey has been on the SUI faculty since 1929.

Iowan Donates Half Million Dollar Bust

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — O. H. de Young Memorial announced Wednesday it has acquired, and authenticated as a genuine Benvenuto Cellini, one of that fabulous Italian artist's rare sculptures in marble.

It is a 30-inch tall bust of Cosimo de' Medici, valued at possibly half a million dollars.

The statue, elaborately detailed, will go on public display today.

The bust is a gift to the museum from 88-year-old Roscoe F. Oakes, Iowa-born donor Oakes, onetime flashlight salesman in the Pacific Northwest, said only "it was a joy to give it." He chuckled when pressed about the price.

"What are 10 'gs' for a thing like this?" he parried, adding hastily he didn't remember exactly how much he paid.

Oakes was born at Webster in Keokuk County, Iowa, but left the state 85 years ago when he was three years old. His parents were Omega and Isabel Oakes. On leaving Iowa, the family crossed the plains to San Francisco and then settled at Roseburg, Ore.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 4-engine Eastern Air Lines plane with 32 passengers and a crew of five made an emergency landing at the nearby Martin Co. airport Wednesday after an engine caught fire.

No one was hurt and the landing was normal in every way except that only three of the big plane's four engines were running.

Martin officials treated the passengers to a snack in the plant cafeteria, then transported them by bus the 16 miles across town to Friendship International Airport where a standby Eastern plane continued the Newark-to-Miami flight No. 549 after a delay of 1 hour, 51 minutes.

"Mike Would Want Liz Happy"—Eddie

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Mike Todd would be the first person to want Liz to be happy," Eddie Fisher told a reporter.

Then he drove off in a foreign sports car to the Bel-Air house the beautiful Miss Taylor recently rented, a mansion that once was the honeymoon home of Linda Christian and Ty Power.

Scampered Bare Footed

There early Wednesday, Liz scampered happily across the lawn in her bare feet, hosting a party for Fisher and his friends after his TV debut.

Fisher recently separated from actress Debbie Reynolds. This happened after he had squired Miss Taylor publicly around New York, amid rumors they were in love. Liz is the widow of the late showman Todd and Fisher was his close friend.

Fisher's TV show, which drew mixed reaction from critics, went on live to the east at 4 p.m. The party, which started with dinner, was held to view the delayed West Coast tape, which went on the air here at 8 p.m.

Saw Guests To Door

At 2 a.m. Liz, Eddie and Dick Hanley saw the departing guests of at the door. Hanley, formerly executive secretary to Todd, is now working in the same capacity for Liz and Michael Todd Jr.

Hanley told a reporter that he and Fisher left shortly afterwards but denied that there was any party.

"Mrs. Todd just had some friends in."

Mrs. Reynolds was shown a newspaper story about the party. She smiled and handed it back without comment.

Bruton's Hit Gives Braves 10-Inning Win

Spahn Wins; Duren Loser In Relief

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Billy Bruton stroked a line single to right against fireballing Ryne Duren to give Milwaukee's Warren Spahn a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees Wednesday in a tense 10-inning opening World Series game.

Benched at the start because left-handed Whitey Ford was pitching for the Yankees, Bruton came in as a pinch hitter in the ninth but fanned. Given another chance after singles by Joe Adcock and Del Crandall in the 10th he came through beautifully with a drive that probably would have been good for two bases if more were needed.

A year ago Bruton was in the hospital undergoing a knee operation while his Milwaukee mates were upsetting the proud Yankees in seven games. He didn't get back into action until midseason and even now still has trouble with his knee.

Spahn got better as he went along, justifying Manager Fred Haney's move in starting him over Lew Burdette, the 3-time winner of last year.

14 Straight
In one stretch from the sixth until the 10th, Spahn retired 14 straight Yankees. Ford, who had the edge in the early going, stumbled in the eighth when he tired and gave way to Ryne Duren.

Duren was the hard-throwing speedster of early season when he first replaced Ford in the eighth. But the Braves kept after him and finally got to him in the 10th.

Hank Aaron, perhaps the Brave most feared by the Yankee staff, struck out, opening the 10th. Joe Adcock ripped a single to center and the fat was on the fire.

Wes Covington sent Elton Howard deep into left with the win helping the ball but the Yankee outfielder caught his long drive. Del Crandall, a Duren strikeout victim on three pitches in the eighth, bounded a high hopper to short center for a single.

Hit 2, and 1 Pitch
That brought up Bruton, who used to be a speed demon before he injured his knee. Duren threw a strike and then two balls before Bruton lined the game-winning hit to the fence in right center. Nobody ever had a chance to get close to it.

It was an appropriate ending for the roaring crowd of 46,367 who watched this opening game on a chill, sunny afternoon. They were slow to warm up to the excitement of the game but loosened a throaty roar when Bruton came through.

Spahn, beaten by Ford in last year's opener at Yankee Stadium, lived up to his season .333 batting average as well as his 22-11 pitching record.

Spahn Singles in Run
When Ford suddenly ran into trouble in the fourth on a first-ball hitting flurry by the Braves, it was Spahn who stroked the single to center that scored Crandall with the tie-breaking run.

Again in the ninth Spahn tried to start his own rally with a single to right. He got as far as second when Duren walked Red Schoendienst but both were left when pinch hitter Franke Torre and Eddie Mathews failed.

In today's second game, Burdette, the Yankee killer of '57 will try to make it two in a row for the Braves. The 20-game winner who has been brilliant since the All-Star break, will be opposed by another right hander, Bob Turley. Turley was the Yanks big winner with a 21-7 season.

The Big Ten was off to a good start Saturday. Only Minnesota, Illinois and Indiana were defeated as all 10 teams saw non-conference action.

Notre Dame had a tough time of it but dropped Indiana, 18-0; Minnesota bowed to Washington, 24-21 and Illinois was edged by UCLA, 20-14.

Conference favorite Ohio State had its hands full before taking a 23-20 win over SMU. Purdue trampled Nebraska, 28-0; Michigan State handled California 32-22; Michigan beat USC, 20-19 and Wisconsin dropped, Miami (Fla.), 20-0.

TCU's Martin Praises Iowa, Duncan's Passing
"FORT WORTH — Texas Christian football coach Abe Martin had high praise this week for the Iowa Hawkeyes.

"The Horned Frogs, who suffered a 17-0 defeat here Saturday were especially impressed with quarterback Randy Duncan, who completed 11 of 19 passes and one touchdown.

"On that day, Iowa had one of the finest clubs we've ever met," said Martin. "Duncan is a great waterback, one who could carry that club a long way." "We need a tough game for our kids and get one."

In Hospital Year Ago, Bruton Says '53 Hit Biggest Thrill

MILWAUKEE (AP) — It has been a long time between thrills for the Milwaukee Braves' Billy Bruton. "Sure," he said in a quiet voice, "that hit today was a big thrill to me, but it wasn't the biggest."

Amid the confusion that was the Braves' dressing room after Bruton's hit in the 10th sank the New York Yankees 4-3, it was difficult to hear him.

Home in '53
"The first homer I ever hit here in County Stadium, the one that won the 1953 opening game in the 10th, was a bigger thrill," he said.

The changing tides of fortune that kept him out of the World Series a year ago with a badly wrenched knee also swept him into action Wednesday.

Yanks Quiet As Stengel Lauds Spahn

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Casey Stengel paid full homage Wednesday to Warren Spahn, the crafty 37-year-old lefthander of the Milwaukee Braves, who turned his Yankees upside down.

"There just wasn't much we could do with him," said Manager Stengel.

"The first part of the game we had our chances to get at him but we couldn't do it. He pitched better the last part of the game. He pitched a real good game."

The Yankee dressing room, barred for an unusually long period of time to newspapermen, was subdued and quiet. There was some joking but it was highly restrained.

Hank Bauer was the center of considerable attention.

Never Touched It
"That ball that Hank Aaron hit in the eighth for a double, I never touched it. It went under my glove and hit the fence," said Bauer.

This mighty blast advanced Eddie Mathews to third from where he scored to tie the game 3-3 on Wes Covington's sacrifice fly.

Bauer had an ugly skinned patch below his left knee. He got it sliding into second base in the first inning in the play in which he was picked off by a wide margin.

"Signals get mixed?" he was asked.
"Nope, I just got caught running," he grinned.

Yogi Berra explained one of the mysteries of the game that occurred in the fourth inning after Aaron had been walked.

Pitch Got Away
One of Ford's pitches got away from Berra for a passed ball, and the Yankee catcher remained squatting at the plate while Aaron raced to second. When he finally retrieved the ball it was to late.

"Did you lose the ball?" Berra was asked.
"Nope, I thought I had it in my glove," he grinned sheepishly.

Stengel was more quiet than usual, speaking barely above a whisper.

"We're still around," he said with a smile. "We'll be back tomorrow."

Mizell Escapes Injury In Auto Truck Accident
KINSPORT, Tenn. — Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, left handed St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, his wife and their 2½-year-old son, Wilmer Jr., narrowly escaped serious injury in a traffic accident Wednesday.

State troopers said a tractor-trailer driven by Frank Linde of Louisville, Ky., crashed into Mizell's car on rain-slick U.S. 11-W about 12 miles east of here.

Mizell, 28, said he suffered one small scratch, his son was unhurt and his wife, Nancy Ruth, received a small cut on the knee. None required medical attention.

Hawkeyes' Second Opponent—

Air Academy Here Saturday

BY DICK STUART
Staff Writer

A youthful, but often surprising Air Force Academy football team invades the Iowa Stadium Saturday for its first major college football test of importance.

Last Friday the Falcons scored somewhat of an upset, with a convincing 37-6 trouncing of Detroit University. The Titans were supposedly one touchdown better and the odds makers have given the Hawkeyes a 20-point edge for Saturday's meeting.

Without a great assortment of speedy backs, the split-T operating Cadets have developed a good passing game which they do not neglect to use often and successfully. They exhibited this last week, with passes accounting for four TD's against Detroit.

Coach Ben Martin, in his first year since replacing native Iowan Buck Shaw, has three top flight quarterbacks to do his tossing. Most effective against Detroit were John Kuenzel and Richard Mayo. Kuenzel connected for one TD, and set up another, while teammate Richard Mayo threw two scoring passes.

Another capable passer is senior Eddie Rosane. In two previous varsity seasons with the Academy Rosane has completed 59 of 165 passes for 979 yards. He is also the team's top punter.

On paper, it appears the Falcons, who this fall moved into their new home at Colorado Springs, Colo., will be forced to use their passing attack more often than not against the bigger Hawks, who will outweigh them along the line by 20 or more pounds per man.

Rounding out the backfield are seniors Steve Gallos and George Pupich, a pair of 180 lb. halfbacks. Both have only moderate speed. Last fall Gallos carried 94 times for 381 yards, but in his two previous varsity seasons his strong forte has been on defense, where he has intercepted 13 enemy passes.

Martin's line is small and undermanned, with only tackle Dave Phillips, 209, approaching the heavier Iowans in size. Aiding him are veteran end Tom Jozwiak, tackle Brock Strom and Howard Bronson Jr. Jozwiak is captain of the '58 team, and has been a first string end for two seasons.

Last year Jozwiak's fine play earned him positions on several all-opponent teams. Strom is the top performer among the interior linemen. Center spot is manned by senior John Gullege, 190, who also has played two years on the varsity. After this small group, however, Martin's reserves are thin and inexperienced.

In numerous ways this is an important game for the Hawkeyes' coach Forest Evashevski: 1—It will be his last shake-down of personnel under regular playing conditions before the Big Ten season opens next Saturday against Indiana.

2—Unproven reserves must be tested, with all intentions being that the substitutions are in units. This was not possible in the season opener last week against Texas Christian. The first half was scoreless, and the game was in doubt or close all afternoon.

3—Also at stake is the Hawks high press rating in the national grid pools which list them anywhere from third to eighth among the nation's top ten teams. They must look impressive Saturday if they are to improve or maintain this lofty prestige.

In football terms, the Falcons are still several gridiron years from the national prominence now given to their service school counterparts, Army and Navy. However, the Cadets have proven they can play a strong brand of football, and with ample opportunities could surprise the crowd of 45,000 that is expected to witness the proceedings.

Three previous football seasons have earned the Academy eleven numerous defeats, with their best season won-lost wise coming in 1956 when they posted a 6-2-1 record. Last year, playing a beefed up schedule, they finished 3-6-1, with victories over Detroit, Occidental, New Mexico and a tie with Wyoming.

Air Force Halfback

All-Phase Drill By Iowa For Air Academy Contest

Coach Forest Evashevski put his team through light contact drills Wednesday as the Hawks prepare for the Air Force game here Saturday.

The first and second units alternated defensive and offensive workouts against the reserves with several lineup alternates being made during the afternoon. Bob Hain, a junior from Davenport, alternated at right tackle on the first team with John Sawin who Monday replaced Mac Lewis at that position.

Bill Gravel and Jerry Mauren alternated at the second team halfback slots with Kevin Furlong and Willie Fleming while Fred Long and Gene Mosley saw some action at fullback with the second unit.

A passing scrimmage ended the workouts with Randy Duncan hitting his receivers consistently for the first team and Olen Treadway and Mitch Ogiego alternating as second team hurlers. Ogiego is still trying to shake the effects of a sprained ankle received early in the fall practices.

Bauer In Pursuit

HANK BAUER OF NEW YORK bounced off the right field fence after missing attempt for Hank Aaron's drive in eighth inning of World Series game Wednesday. Aaron got a double on the hit that led to Braves' tying run and Milwaukee went on to win in 10 innings, 4-3. —AP Wirephoto.

Air Force Wants Home Games With Army, Navy Teams

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A spokesman said Wednesday the Air Force Academy will play football with the other service academies, Army and Navy, only if they agree to come to Colorado on a home-and-home agreement. Col. George B. Simler, academy athletic director, made the statement in speaking reports such games would be played annually at a neutral site.

"We have a one-year contract with both Army and Navy for away games and if they don't want to play the second game out here then as far as I'm concerned we're not going to play them," Simler said.

London vs. Johansson
LONDON (AP)—Brian London, British heavyweight boxing champion who stopped Willie Pastrano of Miami Beach in five rounds Tuesday, will meet Ingemar Johansson of Sweden, for the European crown on June 2, promoter Jack Solomons said Wednesday. The bout will be held in Wembley Stadium. Johansson knocked out Eddie Machen of Redding, Calif., in one round at Gothenburg, Sweden, on Sept. 14.

First News Conference In 5 Weeks — Citizens Must Obey Court Rulings, President Declares

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower said Wednesday it is the duty of all Americans to comply with the Supreme Court's school integration rulings.

"Any other course, as I have said before," Mr. Eisenhower said in a news conference statement, "would be fraught with grave consequences to our nation."

The President didn't spell out the extent to which his Administration might go in backing up the Supreme Court's decrees.

Nor, in discussing the most pressing foreign policy issue of the day, did he spell out what practical steps might be expected to follow any cease-fire in the Formosa Strait area.

Possible Negotiations
"We shall have, if we have a cease-fire," President Eisenhower said, "an opportunity to negotiate in good faith and that, I think, is about all you can say."

As a soldier, Mr. Eisenhower said, he believes it wasn't a good thing for the Chinese Nationalists to concentrate such large forces in the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu. But he also said he was not so sure demilitarization of the islands would solve the Far Eastern problem.

The President hadn't held a news conference since Aug. 27 — five weeks ago.

Looking ruddy and robust after a vacation at Newport, R.I., Mr. Eisenhower walked through a drizzle from the White House to the news conference room in a building across the street.

Three Announcements
At the start, he volunteered three brief announcements:

He is going to Walter Reed Army Hospital this weekend — not because of any new illness but for his annual checkup.

This was National Day of Prayer and he hoped newsmen would remind the people of it.

The atomic-powered submarine Seawolf "has now been submerged continually for 54 days and is still going strong." The old underwater record was 31 days.

Opening the session to questions, Mr. Eisenhower got them on all sorts of topics:

ADAMS — There have been conflicting reports that he asked Republican National Chairman Meade ALCORN to ask for the resignation of Sherman Adams, and that Adams resigned voluntarily.

"I did not instruct anyone to ask for a resignation," Mr. Eisenhower said. "He did resign voluntarily."

Adams has contended he did no wrong in accepting gifts from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine or in inquiring at federal agencies about Goldfine's troubles with the government.

Hits GOP Apathy

POLITICS — Told that some Republicans seem resigned to taking a drubbing in the November election, Mr. Eisenhower said he has "heard these reports about apathy and about sitting on hands and complacency" and to his mind it is incomprehensible.

His administration elected six years ago, he said, has been dedicated to moderate government, avoiding extremes, staying in the middle of the road and "out of the gutters."

He appraised the record of those six years as remarkably good and said he didn't see how anyone like persuasion "can possibly be anything but enthusiastic about his hopes of perpetuating that kind of effort through the medium of elections."

RIGHT TO WORK — Mr. Eisenhower took a neutral stance on right-to-work laws or state constitutional amendments which figure in the political campaigns in half a dozen states. Such laws are designed to forbid requiring workers to join a union in order to get or keep jobs.

State's Business

"I believe it's the state's business," Mr. Eisenhower said, "and I'm not going to get into it."

And he cut off sharply and with some heat a reporter who tried to press him on the question.

SPUTNIK — Almost a year after the Soviet Union's launching of the first earth satellite, Mr. Eisenhower praised the scientific achievement. But he said this country also has "constructed a very steep curve of accomplishment" in missiles and has "the biggest, strongest, finest body of scientists amply armed with money to do the job."

The news conference questioning started off with one on whether the President feels public schools closed by the Arkansas and Virginia governors "should be reopened immediately on an integrated basis, without their being forced into it by new moves of the Federal Government."

Mr. Eisenhower didn't answer that specifically. He pulled out his glasses, read a two-paragraph statement then said a number of integration cases still are before the courts and he would have nothing more to say until they were decided.

The statement said the Supreme Court once more had spoken unanimously on the question Monday and: "It is incumbent upon all Americans, public officials and private citizens alike to recognize the duty of complying with the rulings of the highest court in the land."

Soviets Want Atom Talks At Foreign Minister Level

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union should be one step short of the summit.

That would put the talks on the foreign minister level and bring together Secretary of State Dulles, Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko and British Foreign Secretary Lloyd.

It has been expected the talks would be among lesser expert envoys on disarmament. The United States has named Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, American disarmament expert in the U.N., as leader of its Geneva declaration.

In Washington, officials indicated the United States would reject Russia's proposal to raise the talks from an ambassadorial to a foreign ministers level.

The Moscow proposal came one day after Western authorities reported detection of a resumption of Soviet nuclear blasts and apparent abandonment of previously announced Soviet plans to stop them. The West has said there must be international agreement to ban nuclear tests and insists that a unilateral declaration such as the Soviet Union's March 13 statement cannot be effective.

Notes from the Soviet Foreign Ministry to the U.S. and British embassies here said the Soviet Union is agreed on the time and place for the talks.

Some observers felt the new Soviet proposal that the participants be the foreign ministers might snag the schedule.

The Soviet notes pointed out that the Soviet Union wants the conference to agree on permanent cessation of nuclear weapons tests as well as setting up appropriate controls to see that they did.

The Russians said the recent East-West conference of nuclear technical experts in Geneva agreed that any nuclear test can be detected.

Thus, the notes said, all that is really required to end nuclear tests for all time are the signatures of the foreign ministers of the three powers that have nuclear weapons: the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

Demands Mount For U.N. Far East Action
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Demands mounted in the General Assembly Wednesday that the U.N. intervene in an effort to settle the Formosa crisis.

The commission said use tax amounts collected were off $1,323,651, but collections on new motor vehicles in the 1957-58 fiscal year were up $275,084, offsetting part of the loss.

The State Tax Commission reported the Iowa use tax brought in $1,104,835 in the fiscal year that ended June 30. That's $1,048,568 less than the $12,253,403 collected under the old rates in the previous year.

Interpreting The Far East — U.S.-China Policy Split Threatens Efforts For Peace

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON — A policy split between the United States and Nationalist China Wednesday threatens U.S. efforts to find a compromise way out of the Formosa crisis.

The split became dramatically evident in divergent statements made by Secretary of State Dulles here and by President Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa. The Chinese Nationalist chief spoke out in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press after Dulles' news conference Tuesday.

The issue on which they focused attention is the future of the Nationalist-held coastal islands, Quemoy and Matsu.

In essence, Dulles made clear the United States would be willing to negotiate over future use of the islands if the Chinese Communists stop their attacks on Quemoy and establish a cease-fire in the region. The Reds have had Quemoy under bombardment since Aug. 23.

The status of Quemoy and Matsu thus becomes a bargaining point in Dulles' efforts to quell the danger of a more general war in the Far East.

The question sharply posed by Chiang's response is how Dulles can bargain at all without the cooperation and support of Nationalist China—cooperation and support which the generalissimo, on the basis of Wednesday's interview, apparently intends to deny. Chiang challenged the whole concept of trying to get the Chinese Reds to accept a cease-fire. He said he is opposed even to a reduction of the 100,000 of his best troops which he has deployed on the coastal islands.

Chiang's Government followed up with a formal statement saying flatly, "We cannot countenance a reduction of this defensive strength."

This Foreign Ministry statement also called the coastal islands an indispensable shield to Formosa, adding that for this reason "we must defend them to the best of our ability."

By contrast, Dulles told his news conference it was foolish for the Nationalists to have put such large forces on the islands in the first place. He left no doubt that in his view it would be foolish to keep them there if a cease-fire could be obtained.

Dulles made two other points in what was undoubtedly a considered move on his part to try to persuade the Reds to agree to a cease-fire.

He said any such agreement should be binding on the Nationalists as well as the Communists. He voiced doubt that Chiang would be able to get back to mainland China under his own steam.

Nuclear Sub Seawolf Sets 54-Day Underwater Record

WASHINGTON — The nuclear submarine Seawolf has smashed the underwater record and is now aiming at staying down 60 days, almost double the old mark.

President Eisenhower said Wednesday the Seawolf had been submerged for 54 days and is still going strong.

The Navy later said the submarine would sail into her home port of New London, Conn., next Monday afternoon.

If she comes up Monday noon, the Seawolf will have been below the Atlantic Ocean's surface for exactly 60 days. The submarine sailed on Aug. 5, went down two days later to begin what the Navy then described only as a "routine environmental test."

Tuesday, the Navy radioed the Seawolf some questions. Cmdr. Richard B. Laning, the skipper, replied: At 9:45 a.m., Iowa time, the Seawolf had been submerged continuously, "without any contact with the earth's atmosphere, for 54 days."

The Navy said Wednesday afternoon that as far as it knew the Seawolf was still submerged.

The atomic submarine Skate held the submerged record — 31 days, 5 1/2 hours — until the Seawolf made her bid.

There was little prospect that Russia would be ready to attempt capturing the record for some time. So far as is known, the Red fleet still includes no nuclear submarines.

Only an atomic submarine can remain submerged for more than a comparatively brief time. Conventional submarines are powered by electric batteries which have a relatively short effective life as compared with a nuclear engine.

Air Force Drops Plans To Launch Man In Balloon
CROSBY, Minn. — The Air Force Wednesday abandoned plans to launch its Man High III balloon from an open pit iron mine near here and said it would move the operation to New Mexico.

Lt. Col. John McCurdy, information officer for the Aero-Medical Field Laboratory at Holloman AFB, N. M., said the pattern of stratosphere winds made the flight from this area impractical.

He said the balloon, gondola and other equipment would be flown to Holloman AFB Thursday.

The flight, designed to carry Lt. Clifton McClure, 25, of Anderson, S. C., to 100,000 feet, probably will be made next week from the Holloman base near Albuquerque.

To Enthroned Meyer Nov. 16
CHICAGO — Archbishop Albert G. Meyer of Milwaukee will be enthroned as head of the Chicago Roman Catholic archdiocese on Sunday, Nov. 16.

The Milwaukee prelate was named by Pope Pius XII a week ago to succeed Samuel Cardinal Stritch who died in Rome in May.

Plans for the enthronement were announced Wednesday by Msgr. John M. Kelly, editor of the New World, archdiocesan weekly newspaper.

Archbishop Meyer will come to Chicago by train Nov. 15 accompanied by a delegation of clergy from Wisconsin, Chicago and Illinois.

Ship Deck Officers Strike
NEW YORK — Union deck officers struck on American flagships from New England to the Gulf Coast Wednesday. The Federal Government moved quickly to try to mediate the crippling dispute.

First big ship affected by the strike of 1,300 unionized masters, mates and pilots was the "United States," 53,339-ton blue ribbon passenger liner.

The vessel failed to clear port and transfer of her passengers to Britain's "Queen Mary," and France's "Liberte" also held up briefly the departure of these two liners.

A survey of harbors from Boston to New Orleans showed some 40 passenger and dry cargo vessels tied up. As many as 10 times that number could be idled if the strike continues after the ships reach port from the high seas.

The strike began Tuesday midnight with expiration of a contract covering the deck officers.

Wages were not an issue. The union was concentrating on vacation, pension and welfare benefits, in line with a pattern established in bargaining individually with about 30 shipping firms.

Latham Accepts Commissioner Of Internal Revenue Post
LOS ANGELES — A Los Angeles tax expert, Dana Latham, said Wednesday he has accepted President Eisenhower's invitation to become commissioner of internal revenue.

The incumbent, Russell C. Harrington, a Rhode Island accounting executive, is retiring to private life.

Latham, 60, was special attorney for the Internal Revenue Bureau in Los Angeles and in San Francisco 22 years ago.

He was graduated from Harvard Law School, is a trustee of Occidental College and Ohio Wesleyan University and a past president of the Los Angeles Bar Assn.

For Start In Business —
Insurance Money Used
By WALTER BUSSEWITZ
NEW YORK — Louis E. Wolfson, the Florida financier, and Boston construction millionaire John A. Volpe have one thing in common.

Both borrowed money on their life insurance to launch their first big enterprise.

James C. Penney, who turns 83 years old Sept. 16, lost a $40-million fortune in the depression, then cashed in a large part of his life insurance to start a new climb to success.

Insurance company executives don't particularly urge policy holders to borrow against their policies or cash them in. But they cite the examples of Wolfson, Volpe and Penney to show that life insurance is an extremely flexible product. It can be used in many other ways than to pay death benefits, although this, of course, is the major purpose.

In the first five months of this year, life companies paid roughly $1,800,000,000 in the various "living" benefits and around $1,200,000,000 in death benefits. This 60-40 ratio of living to death benefits compares with a 50-50 figure a decade ago.

Living benefits cover matured endowments, annuity payments, cash surrender values, disability payments and policy dividends.

The Institute of Life Insurance says, "the fact that people are living longer has placed added emphasis on the benefits that life insurance can provide for policy holders themselves."

Today many people reaching retirement age arrange to take their "cash surrender values" in the form of income. Cash value is the amount of money that will be paid to a policy holder who bought insurance on a regular premium plan, if and when he stops paying premiums. It's guaranteed in his contract as required by law.

Why do policy holders ask for cash values?
In the case of James C. Penney, hard times in 1931, it was a matter of hard times calling for urgent cash. Many other situations can be summed up as "changed insurance needs."

Older people often find it to their advantage to reinvest insurance funds because they can earn 3% to 5 per cent on bonds or mutual funds, while insurance grows at a slow 2 per cent. Also their big need for protecting dependents no longer exists.

Vladimir de Kanel, a statistical expert at New York Life Insurance Co., says, "life insurance is not something you buy and put in a box and forget about."

He explains how a 65-year-old man can reassess his insurance picture after holding a $10,000 whole life policy from the age of 100.

23. The man paid annual premiums of $175.90 for a total of $7,036.

At age 65, the cash value of his insurance is $6,190 plus dividends of $4,042 if he let them accrue for a total of $10,232.

This would leave him with a net gain of $3,196 over his payments.

Insurance tables show that cash value of a typical $10,000 policy starts at around $200 at the close of the second year of the policy, reached $1,800 by the 10th year and continues climbing at a steady rate.

De Kanel says New York Life will have the job next year of looking for 253 policy holders who reach the age of 96, the point at which the mortality tables end. A few of the nonagenarians will get small amounts because they let payments lag.

With people living longer the industry is developing a new mortality table which winds up at 100.

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

Hold Fast to Your Weight Line
Don't let the leprechaun's pranks with tape measure and scale discourage you in your efforts to hold to your ideal weight. If you have inherited a tendency to be fat, it will pay you to keep that nimble mischievous leprechaun of tape measure and scale. For a longer life may be yours, providing you hold fast to your weight line.

This promise for the obesity-prone is told in the first report research dedicated to their problems. Working with genetically obese animals, scientists found this way to make them live as long as they should: They restricted their weight by restricting food intake. Under such control, animals with an inherited tendency to be fat lived much longer than the obese which were allowed to gain as they would. They also outlived the perennially lean animal.

These studies suggest that it pays the man and woman who the bewitched tendency to be obese to outwit the wily leprechaun of tape measure and scale. A longer life may be within their grasp — their grasp of the weight line.

To be eligible for a longer lease on life, the man or woman who is apt to gain must control weight by eating less and exercising more. Eating less calls for added care in selecting foods for the day. Choosing a variety of these foods — enriched and whole grain breads and cereals, fruits and vegetables, milk, and meat or its alternates — may make the longer life a merrier one.

Welfare Award To Former SUI Prof

The Iowa Welfare Association presented an award of recognition posthumously to the late Fred Emroy Haynes at a meeting this week in Des Moines.

Professor Harold W. Sanders, chairman of the SUI Department of Anthropology, accepted the certificate of recognition in behalf of his department, with which Professor Haynes was associated for some 40 years. Professor Haynes died Aug. 4 in Iowa City at the age of 89.

Widely known as a criminologist, Professor Haynes gained much of his information on visits to jails and prisons across the country. "I found that the officials in our correctional institutions can give a kind of information not to be found in books," he once said.

Wrote Iowa Prison Book Professor Haynes wrote a number of books and many articles for historical, sociological and economic publications. One of his last works was published in condensed form under the title "The Iowa Prison System" in 1954. Other books were "Third Party Movements Since the Civil War," "Social Politics in the United States," "Criminology" and "The American Prison System."

The SUI criminologist was long interested in state organizations in charitable and philanthropic fields. He became associated with the State Conference of Charities and Correction in 1903, reading a paper on "State Reformatories" which had some influence in getting the legislature to provide for an indeterminate sentence and parole and

Sprinkle Gives Optimists Pessimistic Shoplifting Report

By DENNIS BROWN Staff Writer

Shoplifting is on the increase in the Iowa City area, Police Lt. Harlan F. Sprinkle told members of the Optimist Club Wednesday.

He attributed the rise partly to the reluctance of local merchants to press charges against offenders who are caught in the act. Many merchants, he said, fear that their businesses may be hurt from bad publicity attending shoplifting cases.

private citizens. The danger of law suits arising from such arrests is small, he explained.

Outlined Procedure

The Iowa City police detective outlined the following procedure in making an arrest as a private citizen:

- 1) Approach the suspect after he has gone out of the store, making sure that he has not disposed of the stolen article inside or that it has already been paid for.
- 2) Identify yourself and obtain the stolen article, which should be marked and preserved as evidence.
- 3) Obtain police assistance.

Sprinkle warned that the clever shoplifter may produce a faked sales slip. For that reason, he said, it is always wise to check any sales slip produced for date and possible erasures.

Most shoplifting in the area is done by juveniles of high school age or below, usually on a dare or from youthful bravado, Sprinkle said.

He recommended a policy of leniency for first offenders, combined with a hard crack-down on persistent offenders and professional criminals.

Shoplifters, he said, may be divided roughly into two categories: the professionals and the amateurs. In the amateur group are the juveniles, housewives on low budgets, and more rarely, kleptomaniacs who steal for a psychological thrill.

Professionals usually operate on a more organized basis. Often they will combine in teams of two or more, working for a "fence" or "pusher" who will drive them to various shopping districts during the day, Sprinkle explained.

Sometimes the "fence" will dictate what particular items are to be taken and will pay the members of his crew reduced prices for the stolen goods, he said. In some cases, the shoplifters are narcotics addicts who obtain dope from the "fence" as payment for their work.

Shoplifters resort to a variety of techniques which Sprinkle described in detail. Usually, he said, the professional relies on a deft hand, tends to hide himself behind coat racks or similar cover, and hangs stolen articles to a belt which is concealed under the coat. Often, he makes small purchases to cover his activities.

Stolen articles, he continued, may be hidden in almost any conceivable container. Sometimes specially rigged boxes, disguised as packages with a hinged side, are used. Shoplifters may also wear large size bloomers with elastic around the knees—a garment which serves especially well as a storage place.

Housewives often put stolen articles in baby carriages and bring their children along on the shopping tour to avert possible suspicion, Sprinkle said.

As preventive measures Sprinkle urged that merchants: keep small high-value items locked in a glass-covered case with a clerk near-by; limit the number of items a customer may examine to two at a time; wait on customers as soon as possible; keep clerks alert to the problem; and use a code system to alert store personnel when a known shoplifter comes in.

With greater cooperation between police and merchants, the amount of local shoplifting could be greatly reduced, he said.

Grandanette Won't Take Lie Test

DES MOINES (AP) — County Attorney Ray Hanrahan said an invitation for Bernard Grandanette and his brother Ross to take lie detector tests has been rejected.

Hanrahan extended the invitation in connection with investigation of the fatal shooting of Bernard Grandanette's wife Rose, 33, at their home Sept. 14.

Grandanette has told officers his wife was slain by one of three masked men who accosted him when he drove into the driveway of his home.

Melio Tonini, attorney for the Grandanette brothers, issued a statement Wednesday in which he said:

"We cannot see that any useful purpose would be served by having either Bernard or Ross Grandanette submit to a lie detector test at this time."

Tonini said the Grandanettes had been "most cooperative" and noted that the family had advised authorities of their willingness to offer a reward in the case.

Chrysler, Auto Workers Agree On 3-Year Contract

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers Wednesday on the major portions of a 3-year contract for the company's 70,000 employees.

UAW President Walter Reuther promptly raced across the city to join the union's negotiations with General Motors, which faces a 10 a.m. strike deadline Thursday.

Reuther and Chrysler Vice-President John D. Leary said the Chrysler terms followed lines of the UAW settlement with Ford Motor Co. two weeks ago.

This includes improved company paid layoff pay, a new severance plan, and wage increases to cover cost of living and productivity improvement. The Ford agreement will provide an estimated 20 to 30 cents an hour per worker under the three-year contract.

Leary and Reuther said they believed provisions in the new contract will give Chrysler greater stability in its work force.

Chrysler, smallest of the Big Three automakers, was troubled with 700 local walkouts during the life of the three-year contract that expired four months ago.

The settlement would leave only GM, biggest of the Big Three, still without a contract with the UAW. GM has about 250,000 UAW employees in plants across the country.

An all-night bargaining session was in prospect at General Motors, where negotiators met early yesterday with no indication of progress.

6 IC Students Contend For Merit Awards

Six Iowa City high school students have been named semifinalists in the 1958-59 National Merit Scholarship competition.

Those named were Carolyn Trotz, Margaret Hardin, Phoebe Welt, William Hulbary, and Berthe Wells, all of City High School, and Kathryn Ojemann of University High School.

In addition, two former University High students, Thomas Knott, now attending Grinnell College, and Cynthia May, of Westport, Conn., were also named as winners in the competition.

The students will have to qualify in two more testing periods in order to be eligible for the average $650 a year scholarship. 735 of 479,000 students taking the first test will be awarded scholarships to the college or university of their choice.

Dance Tryouts Begin Today For "Tale Of A Soldier"

Dance tryouts for Stravinsky's "Tale of a Soldier" will be held today and Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Women's Gymnasium. William Reardon, associate professor of dramatic art, said Wednesday.

Sixteen dancers, eight male and eight female, will be needed.

Formal dance training is not necessary for the tryout as the cast will be given special training, Reardon said.

The production, combining drama, dance, narration and orchestra, will be performed at the University Theater Dec. 5, 6, 11, 12 and 13.

James A. Dixon, SUI music instructor, will conduct the orchestra. Mrs. Marcia Thayer, G. Coralville, will direct the dance, supervised by Reardon.

The production is a joint project of the SUI Departments of Music and Speech and Dramatic Art.

YWCA Open House Today At Union

Women students at SUI are invited to hop aboard the YWCA space ship and "Go Sky High With the Y" today at 4:30 p.m. in the River Room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Booths will be set up and YWCA members will be on hand at the open house to explain YWCA activities and to issue membership cards to interested students.

New students and freshmen may be surprised when they learn of the activities of the Y. On campus, Y members are busy selling Homecoming badges, Mother's Day corsages, used books and pumping gas.

In the community, Y members contribute their time and talents to the children at the SUI School for Handicapped Children, to patients in University Hospital and Oakdale, to Girl Scouts and as babysitters.

The YWCA sponsors the Major in Marriage lecture series, the Christian Heritage study group, the Skeptics study group and help plan the SUI Religion in Life Week and Academic Freedom week.

Dance Tryouts Begin Monday

Need to brush up on your dancing? If so, the Women's Recreation Association (WRA) Social Dance Club may be the answer to your problem.

Tickets for the eight lesson class are available today and Friday at the Old Union Lobby Desk in the Iowa Memorial Union from 10 a.m. until noon and from 2 to 4 p.m. The price for the lessons, which will be taught by an Arthur Murray instructor, will be $1 per person.
