Retired Army General Gets Adams' Job

Jerry Persons Served With Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wilton B. (Jerry) Persons took over Tuesday as President Eisenhower's No. 1 assistant. But Sherman Adams, who resigned the top White House staff job under fire, is staying around for a while to help out.

Adams solemnly looked on from the back of the room as Atty. Gen. William Rogers administered the oath of office to the lean, 62-year-old graying retired major general. Adams didn't stick around to join the line of well-wishers congratulating Persons after the ceremony.

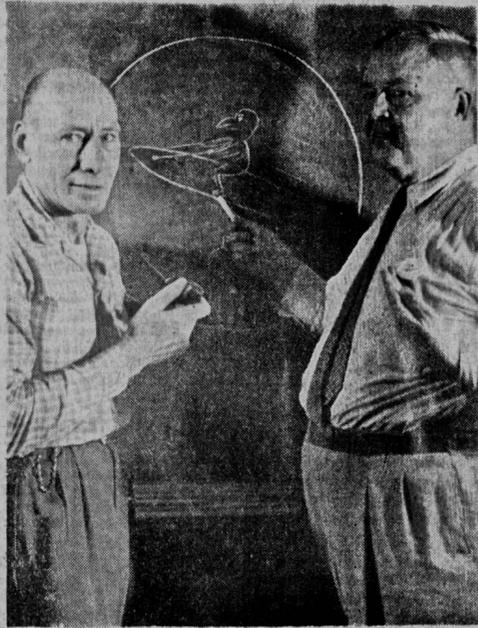

Mr. Eisenhower was at the front of the White House conference room beside Persons. After Rogers had administered the oath, the President handed Persons his commission.

Persons, a long-time close associate and personal friend of Mr. Eisenhower, served with him in the Army. A member of the White House staff since Mr. Eisenhower took office in 1953, he has been deputy assistant to the President.

The White House said Adams will stay on until there has been an orderly transition. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he did not know how long that would be.

Adams resigned the $22,500-a-year role of right hand man to the President on Sept. 22 after there was no letup of the continuing criticism of his relations with Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine, the present-giving millionaire.

Adams insisted he had done no wrong in making inquiries of regulatory agencies about pending Goldfine cases. But he agreed with Republican critics that his actions might hurt the election chances of GOP candidates in next month's elections if he stayed on.

Federal Job Turnover Moves At Fast Pace

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal job turnover hit a somewhat faster pace Tuesday than usual.

In addition to Wilton B. Persons being sworn in to succeed Sherman Adams as the No. 1 White House aide, there were other changes.

President Eisenhower formally accepted the resignation of James K. Vardaman, 64, as a member of the Federal Reserve Board, effective Dec. 1.

Mr. Eisenhower also accepted the resignation of Francis White as ambassador to Sweden.

The President named Mrs. Barbara Bates Gunderson as vice chairman of the Civil Service Commission.

Mr. Eisenhower also accepted the resignation of Edwin M. McMillan as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission's Advisory Committee.

Modern Idea For SUI Tradition

By JANE HUBLY Staff Writer

The modern idea for the traditional Homecoming badge this year sprouted from two of SUI's most faithful and ardent fans. And these two fans are not energetic coeds or ivy-league males — they're long-time employees of the SUI Physics Department.

Ray Gresher, an apparatus custodian, and George S. Carson, an electronics technician, were "mulling over the idea of having their significant department represented on the badge," last spring.

The result of their thinking and talking is the blue-green circular badge, picturing Herky astride an Explorer satellite flying over Old Capitol and symbolically, over the whole world.

"One of us thought of Herky and the other thought of the satellite," Carson said.

"Remember, George, the satellite came first!" Gresher cheerfully added.

The two men handed their idea in to Ellis H. Newsome, associate professor of journalism and chairman of the Homecoming badge committee.

"The committee usually thinks of an idea for the badge, but in this case, we liked their idea so well that we just adopted it," Newsome said.

Carson, 316 Lee St., is married and has two sons, Stephen and David. He has been with the Physics Department since 1942 and attended the University in the 1920's. Gresher speaks of him as "one of the best specialists on electronic equipment."

Connected with the Physics Department for the last 15½ years, Gresher also worked for five years with the Athletic Department and at University Hospitals.

He is married and has a stepson, David Bacon, in California. Gresher's home is at 926 E. Davenport St. Carson terms him a "gofer" in the department; "You know, go for this and go for that," he explained with a friendly laugh.

The idea for the Homecoming badge was sent to Richard Spencer, an SUI graduate in 1943 now working as editor of "Western Horseman" magazine in Colorado Springs. He in turn designed the 1958 badge.

Spencer originated the SUI Herky while he was a student here, and has designed several other Homecoming badges.

The badges will be on sale October 20 through October 25, and can be purchased for 25 cents.

The University YWCA will have charge of the sale, and the commission they earn will help maintain their yearly budget.

The Homecoming badge shows a symbol or picture representative of University activities during the past year. The 1957 badge showed Herky with the trophies of the Big Ten and Rose Bowl championships.

The sale of the badges provides the funds necessary to finance various Homecoming activities, including the Corn Monument, the Friday night parade, the Iowa Memorial Union open house, and several other departmental coffee hours which will take place the day of the game.

The names of team captains, the location of various stations on campus where badges will be sold, and the number of badges to be sold will be released next week.

The badges were originated to support Homecoming in more than a financial way. Wearing them indicates an interest in Homecoming and creates a festive atmosphere for the traditional weekend.

Gresher and Carson mirror this Homecoming interest in their indignant answer to the question of whether or not they were going to purchase a Homecoming badge.

"IMAGINE WHAT A QUESTION!" they both replied.

Reds Continue Nuclear Tests, Blame West

Dulles Says Suspension In Russia's Hands

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union declared Tuesday lack of East-West agreement will compel it to continue nuclear weapons tests until the total reaches that of the United States and Britain combined.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko made the statement at a news conference called prior to his departure Wednesday for Moscow. He has been here since the opening of the U.N. General Assembly in mid-September.

The United States called on Russia Tuesday night to say whether she really wants a suspension of nuclear tests starting Oct. 31.

"It is up to the Soviet Union now as to whether tests will be suspended on Oct. 31 or whether they are to continue," the State Department said.

Gromyko's words puzzled the State Department. But he was generally interpreted to have threatened further Soviet nuclear tests in a number equal to the tests held by the United States and Britain since March 31.

Russia announced March 31, after completing an extensive series of tests, it was suspending nuclear weapons blasts. It called on the United States and Britain to do likewise. But the two Western countries went ahead with their scheduled tests in late summer and fall.

The President said U.S. tests would be halted for at least one year starting Oct. 31. Britain agreed. Russia, after consenting to attend the meeting at Geneva, resumed testing last week, setting off a total of five explosions.

Bakers In Cedar Rapids

TEAMSTERS UNION ORGANIZER BARNEY BAKER and wife, former Carolyn Ann More, daughter of Jake More, former Iowa Democratic party chairman, were photographed in Cedar Rapids, when they stopped to have their car serviced at a filling station. Baker who suffered a heart attack during his appearance before the senate racket hearings in Washington, said he and his wife were enroute south for his health. They had been visiting relatives in Iowa. Baker said he had lost 46 pounds during his hospitalization following the heart attack.

Faubus Says U.S. Penalizing Him Through Extra Taxes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus accused the U.S. Government Tuesday of attempting to penalize him, through extra personal tax demands and "pressure in other ways," for his fight for state's rights.

Federal law enforcement agencies are being used to persecute those who oppose the national administration, he added.

"We now find them (the agencies) acting as political arms of the national administration," he said, "and used to persecute and plant the seeds of fear in the hearts of those who disagree with the policies of the administration."

Curtis R. Mathis, district director of the Internal Revenue Service, said a mistake in the Little Rock office caused the incident.

He said Washington authorities had nothing to do with it. And in denying Faubus' accusation of Federal "pressure," Mathis said: "If this was pressure, it would have had to come from Washington and Washington did not even know of this action until I informed for state's rights."

He said the investigation of the governor's tax return was initiated in 1956, and given to an agent in August of that year—more than a year before the struggle began over integrating Central High School.

Contributions from the proposed private school system have reached $6,000, and other "basketfuls" of money have been received but not yet counted.

Faubus said he expects the Little Rock Private School Corp. — still working to get money, teachers and classroom space — to open segregated private schools by about Oct. 15.

"A Report The Pope Is Dead Is Not True"

Rallied Remarkably After Stroke

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Pius XII was reported in worsened condition but still clinging to life early Wednesday. He was reported in a delirium Tuesday night.

In answer to an erroneous roundabout report that he had died, the switchboard operator at his summer residence said at 2:30 a.m. "The report that the Pope is dead is not true."

It was nearly two full days since he suffered a cerebral stroke and became gravely ill for the second time in four years.

He rallied remarkably through Monday night after the stroke Monday morning.

The condition of the 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church improved Tuesday, but grew worse later.

Solemn Vigil

Medical experts, members of his family and a pontifical noble guard maintained a solemn vigil at the sick room.

The last medical bulletin at 6 p.m. Tuesday said the Pope had recovered from a coma and partial paralysis that attended the stroke.

Several hours later a Vatican official said flatly the condition of the pope was worse but he gave no details.

"I stick by what I said," was his only reply to questions.

A doctor close to the situation said the Pope was in worse condition than the 6 p.m. bulletin indicated.

This source said the pontiff actually was still afflicted with partial paralysis affecting his upper body, face and speech.

There also were signs that the Pope possibly was delirious.

Msgr. Angelo dell'Acqua, substitute secretary of state, visited the bedside and said the Pope had asked "why the audiences had been suspended."

The secretary indicated he had to insist to the Pope that audiences were for the time being impossible. The Pope has received millions of people in audience during his 19-year reign.

Press Office Open

Another indication that the pontiff's condition had become more grave was the announcement that the Vatican Press Office planned to remain open throughout the night.

Vatican sources said members of the papal household disclosed the return of a urinary difficulty. His physicians had reported it cleared up Tuesday morning.

Earlier Improvement

The Pope's condition had improved markedly during the day. There had been reserved optimism over the rally shown by the 82-year-old pontiff. The Tuesday morning medical bulletin said he had come out of coma, thrown off the paralysis and taken some nourishment.

The Tuesday evening medical bulletin said his general condition remained satisfactory but it reported the high pulse and fever.

Doctors said a kidney block had been overcome. This urinary condition set in Monday night, and a urologist was summoned to help relieve it.

Vatican sources said the Pope in the evening was again suffering urinary trouble. They did not explain whether this meant the condition had returned, or whether it had not been fully overcome, as originally believed.

It is a disturbance that could bring sudden, serious consequences for the Pope.

So pronounced was the improvement earlier that the Pope received his substitute secretary of state, Msgr. Angelo dell'Acqua, briefly and discussed with him administrative matters of the Roman Catholic church.

Willsons Program Oct. 15

That "Music Man" former Iowan Meredith Willson and his wife Rini, will be in Iowa City Oct. 15.

They will appear together in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union at 8 p.m., in the second program of the 1958-1959 University Lecture Series.

Tickets will be distributed Friday through Wednesday, Oct. 15. Their performance will not be in words alone, but will be what they describe as a "musicalecture" entitled "Mirth and Music," a commentary ranging from Brahms to the Bunny Hop.

Willson, a native of Mason City, is author and composer of the hit Broadway musical "The Music Man," which takes place in mythical "Rivercity, Ia.

Willson was 14 years old when he left Mason City to study flute in New York City, and 17 when he became a member of the John Phillip Sousa touring band. At 21 he was seated in the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

After five years with the Philharmonic, Willson went to San Francisco and became general director of the Western Division of NBC Radio.

Willson is composer of such popular tunes as "You and I," "Two in Love," "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You" and "I See the Moon."

He has also written serious compositions and arranged musical scores for Hollywood films.

He has written an autobiographical best-seller, "And There I Stood With My Piccolo" and a novel, "Who Did What to Fedelia?"

Willson has been the star of such radio programs as "Weekday," "The Big Show," "Every Day" and "Meredith Willson's Music Room."

SUI students and faculty may get free tickets to the lecture by presenting their ID's at the East Lobby Desk in the Iowa Memorial Union.

$69 Million Needed

EDITOR'S NOTE: Can Iowa ever hope to "catch up" on the expensive task of providing classroom and laboratory space at SU1, Iowa State College, and the State Teachers College? How have other states met this problem? These important questions are answered in this article, last in this special series.

How much money would it take to catch up on the accumulated "building deficit" caused by years of depression, war and low appropriations, and to prepare for the nearly 15,000 more students who will be enrolled at Iowa State College, Iowa State Teachers College and SU1 a short 12 years from now? In round numbers, it will take a total of $69 million, say members of the State Board of Regents and administrators of the three schools.

Can Iowa ever hope to provide this kind of financing for college building? How could it possibly be done? How do other states approach this problem? Regents and presidents unanimously answer the first question in the affirmative, and go on to say bluntly that Iowa really has no alternative unless its citizens are willing to see their colleges and university fall off in quality to a point where Iowa young people will stream out of the state by the thousands in search of sound education.

As to how it can be done, the Regents last May proposed a 2-part solution: an appropriation from the general fund by the next General Assembly to provide for the most immediate building needs, and a 20-year bond issue to provide long-range financing for future construction.

The concept of "long-range" is the key to an orderly, intelligent building program at the institutions just as it is for private business, say the Regents. Given some idea as to how much money they will have for buildings, administrators and faculty members can plan modifications and expansions of their campuses in an orderly manner, time construction to meet their pressing needs, and spend a minimum amount of money on temporary construction, they contend.

On the question of how other states are meeting their college building needs, the Regents cite appropriations made for educational buildings in 10 surrounding Midwestern states since 1945. Only two states, North and South Dakota, have spent less money on college and university buildings than has Iowa, and even the Dakotas have spent nearly three times as much as Iowa on a per-capita basis. With a per-capita appropriation of $6.77, Iowa stands at the very bottom of the 11-state list, with Minnesota's per-capita appropriation of $21.20 ranking at the top but barely above the Kansas appropriation of $21.17 per person.

Here are the figures as compiled by the Regents, with the total appropriation for capital improvements (1945-47 through 1957-59) followed by the per-capita appropriation for the same period:

Methods of financing buildings, land and utilities at their state educational institutions vary among the other 10 states, note the Regents, with four other states—Michigan, Illinois, North and South Dakota—following the Iowa system of biennial direct appropriations by the legislature. Missouri recently passed a special bond issue for educational buildings, the bonds to be retired through allocation of a portion of the state income tax, to be supplemented by a direct tax to be levied on all taxable tangible property if the income tax source proves insufficient. Minnesota issues certificates of indebtedness, secured by a property tax levy, and Indiana levies a special tax on beer and alcoholic beverages. Kansas utilizes an annual permanent tax of one mill on all property, Nebraska uses a special property tax levy, and Wisconsin provides its educational buildings through ear-marking portions of student fee income and of the Wisconsin general fund.

"Other states are proving that this problem can be solved, and we in Iowa must face up to this responsibility, also," says Harry Hagemann, president of the State Board of Regents.

Two things must inevitably happen if Iowans fail to provide the classrooms and laboratories needed for the youngsters of today who will be the collegians of tomorrow, President Hagemann says: "First, the quality of teaching, research and public service will deteriorate as the schools try to teach more students in progressively poorer facilities," he said, continuing, "and second, the institutions will have no choice but to turn away many young people who seek admission.

"The immediate loser will be the qualified Iowa youngster who will be denied the opportunity to develop his talents through higher education in his home state, but the loser in the long run—and not so very long at that—will be the State of Iowa."

Are Americans Demanding Too Much Of Schools? Have Schools Bitten Off More Than They Can Chew?

By G. K. HODENFIELD AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ever since Sputnik I threw its harsh spotlight on American public schools, a carping refrain has been heard over the land: "Our schools are too soft. There are too many soft and silly courses. We need fewer frills, and more of the old 'three R's.'"

In the initial heat of battle, extremists on both sides took stand-and-die positions, and belabored the opposition with facts, figures and fancies.

Charges—Countercharges Now a year later, there seem to have been some sobering second thoughts. The extremists are still with us, of course. But more and more the charges and countercharges are being boiled down to two basic questions:

Are the American people demanding too much of their schools? And have the schools, in trying to meet these demands, bitten off more than they can chew?

It isn't just a question of soft programs and frill courses. The debate probes hard at the very structure of U.S. education today—education of the complete child, life adjustment, something for everybody.

Take the question of discipline. Parents wail, "Our kids aren't disciplined in school." And the teachers wail right back, "Parents expect us to educate their children and train them as well."

Who's really to blame? Dr. William G. Kvaraceus of Boston University, a long-time student of juvenile delinquency, says it's all part of the American culture of "worklessness."

Work Out Of Style "Hard work is going out of style," he says. "And hard work is discipline. School is about the only place left where hard work is a way of life, and the schools are among the few places that still teach discipline."

If today's children aren't being disciplined in the home, as many teachers claim, the American parent is abdicating to the school his responsibility for raising his children properly. If he says "Let the school do it"—and gets away with it—the school program becomes jam packed with life adjustment courses.

That in itself may stand as a good example of the changed pattern of U.S. education. It used to be you got life adjustment at home and education in the schools.

The Oregon Education Policies Commission recently took note of what may be the new American way of life:

"In a busy world . . . of mothers working, and fathers serving the god of success, children are being overindulged to assuage the guilt feelings of adults. They are overfed, overdoctored and over-lanquid . . . They are kept from what should properly be expected of them by parents whose need is to overprotect. Schools become primarily havens of peace for these children, secondarily a place to get an education.

"Much of this has come about through 'social drift,' through an unwillingness on the part of some adult members of society to assume mature parenthood. It should also be noted that many adults are demanding that the schools get tougher, while they ask for shorter hours for themselves."

Frill Courses Take the case of frill courses—the real nub of the "too soft" charges.

It's true to the chagrin of many Americans, that some of our public high schools really have courses in such things as basket weaving, fly casting, telephone etiquette, "how to behave on a date," and folk dancing.

These courses may seem hard to defend, and few educators will even try.

"These are the ridiculous exceptions," they tell you. "They crop up here and there across the country, but the vast majority of our schools don't have anything like them—and never will have. Don't condemn the entire public school system on the basis of a few isolated cases."

All right, but how about the not-quite-so-frilly courses? How about consumer education, family relationships, co-ed cooking, ceramics and nutrition? Are these courses preparing American youth to meet the problems of world leadership in the space age?

This touches a sensitive point with most educators. "It certainly wasn't our idea," they say, "but the pressures are terrific. The schools have to be what the parents want them to be. And American parents showed long ago that they want the schools to be more than just a place to learn Latin, Greek and calculus."

Whole System Not Bad And yet, these same educators find it hard wholly to condemn the system.

We've mentioned the frill courses and the not-so-frilly courses. Now let's consider a non-academic course that has a firm standing in American education and is spreading year by year: driver education.

First off, there are two undoubted advantages to such courses. They reduce the accident rate and lower insurance premiums. It's hard to argue against anything that saves both lives and money.

But the rapid spread of such courses—more than 11,000 high schools now offer them in some form—raises a question: Why should the schools have to devote their time, money and effort in teaching junior to drive the family car? If the courses are worthwhile, why can't they be taken over by the automobile clubs, the police department, or service and civic groups?

Driver education courses, however, are so firmly entrenched in the American schools they will probably become permanent fixtures. And educators, whether they like the idea or not, have accepted it.

JAW May Cancel Contract

With American Motors
DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers served 10-day contract cancellation notice Tuesday on American Motors Corporation as the two resumed wage talks recessed almost four months ago.

General Motors, which reached its UAW national settlement last Thursday, had gotten back only about 11,000 of its 275,000 UAW employees.

Last April American Motors proposed a 2-year freeze on wages and other economic benefits, with the union foregoing cost-of-living increases and annual productivity wage boosts over that period.

Air Force Fails In 3rd Attempt

To Launch Man In Balloon

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — The Air Force failed Tuesday in an attempt to launch a third balloon carrying a man, but immediately scheduled another try.

A spare balloon was to be used at 6:30 a.m. today to replace the one wrecked when the weather jinxed the third probe of the stratosphere.

The 3-million-cubic-foot balloon destroyed was to have carried its observer about 20 miles high for a ride of about 24 hours, but gradually increasing winds flattened it.

Lt. Clifton McClure, 25-year-old jet pilot turned balloonist, spent almost nine hours sealed in the 9x3-foot aluminum gondola, waiting in vain for his journey to start.

Political Upheaval Hits

Pakistan Government Seized

KARACHI (AP) — In a major political upheaval, Pakistan's President Iskander Mirza dissolved Tuesday night the central and provincial governments, outlawed political parties and declared martial law.

The drastic seizure of power came after six ministers of the national government resigned and Premier Feroz Khan Noon turned their jobs over to other cabinet members.

Those who quit are all members of the Awami League party. They said they feared the government would not hold Pakistan's first general elections as promised next Feb. 15, and they did not want to be connected with such a failure.

Neon pledged the elections would take place as scheduled.

AP Correspondent Gene Kramer reported from Quemoey the Red planes had made two passes through a high overcast but did not open fire.

Maj. Gen. I Fu-en, Nationalist Air Force intelligence chief, said both jets and propeller planes may have been involved. This raised speculation the slower propeller craft may have taken photographs while MIG fighters provided cover.

The Red flights did not necessarily violate the truce pledge. Peiping's original announcement said only that artillery shelling of Quemoey would be suspended for seven days. One condition, however, was that the United States cease conveying Nationalist supply ships to Quemoey.

In Washington, State Department Press Officer Lincoln White described the flights as provocative. Therefore, he said, the Nationalist anti-aircraft fire did not break the cease-fire.

White encountered a Communist complaint that the United States had failed to stop conveying Nationalist supply vessels. He said the first convoy after the cease-fire already was at sea when shooting halted. He implied that all U.S. conveying had been halted or was about to be.

Air Drops
Air drops were carried out at Quemoey Monday night and twice Tuesday. Six Nationalist cargo planes landed in quick succession Tuesday evening. And part of the U.S.-escorted sea convoy that appeared three miles off Quemoey Monday unloaded the rest of its equipment. Kramer reported from Quemoey that no supplies came in from the sea Tuesday.

The Communists also were reported busy. About 1,500 laborers were sighted on Amoy, at several mainland points, and on the Tan Islands repairing gun positions and pill boxes, the Nationalist reported. Many Communist trucks also were reported seen shuttling back and forth from the sites.

Leaders Confer
In Taipei, U.S. Ambassador Everett Drumright conferred with Adm. Roland Smoot, the U.S. Formosa commander. Presumably they discussed the Communist stipulation that American conveying must halt or firing would be resumed.

There was widespread speculation in Taipei that the escorts would be withdrawn at a moment that might induce the Reds to continue the cease-fire beyond the 7-day period. The United States is negotiating with Red China in Warsaw for a permanent cease-fire.

Reds Strain Cease-Fire With Flights Over Quemoey

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Communist planes swooped over Quemoey and touched off a hail of Nationalist anti-aircraft fire Tuesday, straining the Red-proclaimed cease-fire in Formosa Strait.

The Nationalist firing was the first since Red China had proclaimed a week-long halt in its artillery pounding of the off-shore island effective early Monday. No further clashes were reported, and the Nationalists took advantage of the truce to push in more supplies by air and sea.

Eight planes in three formations approached Quemoey in the afternoon, the Nationalist Defense Ministry said. They streaked over the island, then raced for the mainland with anti-aircraft shells bursting around them and machinegun tracers probing the sky.

FTC Raps Chesterfield Advertising

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission Tuesday ordered a halt to what it called false and misleading advertising that Chesterfield cigarettes have no adverse effect on the nose, throat or other organs.

The makers of Chesterfield also were ordered to stop claiming that Chesterfields soothe or relax the nerves and are less irritating than other brands.

The commission ruling upheld a year-old finding by an FTC examiner that the claim of no adverse effects was false. But it did not go along with the examiner's dismissal of charges Chesterfields were falsely advertised as milder and as relaxing.

The examiner, W. L. Pack, held that the latter terms were merely advertising extravaganzas and had no substantial misleading effect.

The tobacco company had defended its claim of no adverse effect by contending this merely reported the results of an investigation by a reputable consulting organization.

The FTC opinion, written by Commissioner Robert T. Secrest, held it was questionable whether the experiment amounted to scientific proof.

Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter Tuesday had welcomed the Red Chinese offer to quit firing at Nationalist-held offshore islands in the Formosa Strait for one week. As for the Red's proviso that the United States must halt its conveying of supplies to the embattled outposts, Herter made clear that U.S. conveying would stop whenever the Communist shooting stopped. He also said U.S. conveying has been confined to international waters and nobody has a right to order the United States about on the high seas.

It was reported, however, that an order halting the convoys may already have gone out to the U.S. 7th Fleet patrolling the Formosa Strait.

Nasser Tightens Hold; Forms New UAR Cabinet

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser formed Tuesday night the United Arab Republic's first central cabinet.

The move is aimed at bringing the Syrian and Egyptian regions of the U.A.R. under a tight unified grip and to do away with the system of dual ministries for the two provinces.

The 21-man Cabinet named by Nasser is made up of 14 Egyptian and seven Syrian members. Nasser kept around him as cabinet aides the hard core of the one-time revolutionary officers who backed his rise to power after the overthrow of King Farouk in 1952.

Egyptians have complained that the dual setup, introduced when Syria and Egypt merged last February, had not been working out. They said it made national planning difficult and that there has been what they call a drift in the Syrian administration.

The East News Agency said earlier 15 central ministries would be established to replace the separate ministries. It said an executive council also would be formed for each region to carry out policy laid down by the central Government.

Spahn Chosen To Face Yanks In 6th Game Today

Stengel Not Definite On Yankee Hurler

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn, 37-year-old Milwaukee ace, will try to clinch the World Series today with only two days of rest when he faces the New York Yankees in the sixth game. Casey Stengel did not announce a definite starter but hinted strongly it might be Whitey Ford instead of Art Ditmar or Don Larsen.

Although Spahn normally works every fourth day and never started all season with only two days off, Haney decided to shoot the works with his best. If it goes to a seventh game he always has Lew Burdette, his 1957 Yankee killer.

Trailing 3-2 in this best-of-seven series in the enemy territory of County Stadium, Stengel said he wouldn't name his starter until after he watched his men warm up Wednesday.

"You've got to get a pitcher to compare with Spahn," said Stengel. "Ford told me he is ready. I'm going to talk to Larsen. I don't like to use him with two or three days rest. He has had a sore arm ever since I got him."

"I think Ford expects to pitch. He always thinks I've got a weak head if I don't pitch him. They kicked away a game for him, otherwise we'd be ahead of them. "But then Ditmar is the best rested." If Ford works, he also will be pitching with only two days off. He was beaten Sunday by Spahn when Norm Siebern mopped up three or four fly balls.

Larsen, the big righthander who pitched the perfect game in 1956, whipped the Braves Saturday 4-0. However he has been troubled by an inflamed elbow all season. He tired and had to be taken out after seven innings Saturday.

Ditmar, a righthander who came to the Yanks from Kansas City early last year, has a 9-8 season record. A year ago he was highly effective in two bullpen jobs against the Braves, holding them scoreless for a total of six innings in two games.

The decision to pitch Spahn was announced after a clubhouse meeting that lasted only three minutes. All Haney needed was a chance to ask Spahn if he was ready.

"I had Spahn in mind all along," said Haney. "But I didn't know for sure until I talked to him."

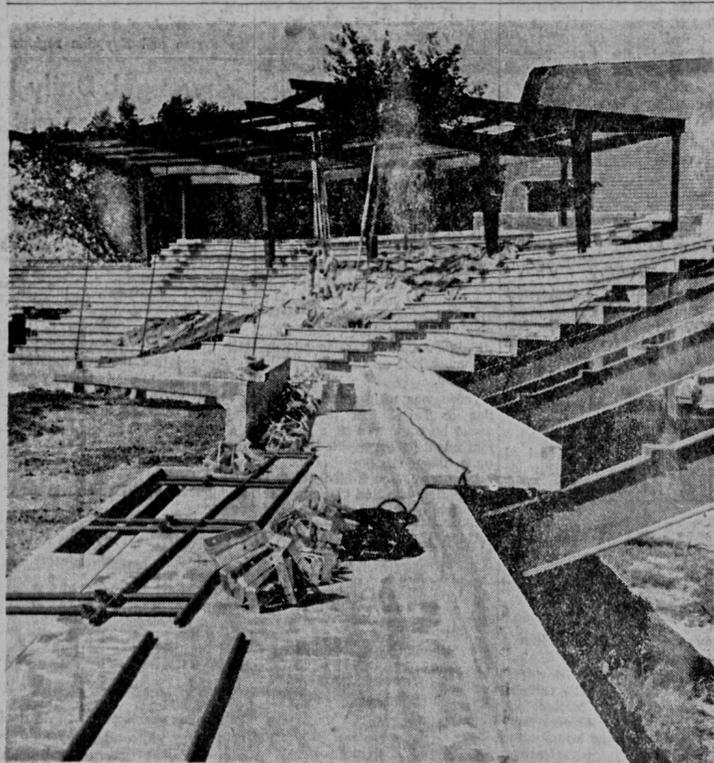

Spahn won the 10-inning opener last Wednesday 4-3 and then shut out the Yanks with two hits 3-0 Sunday. Only seven pitchers have won three or more games in a best-of-seven series. The last left-hander was St. Louis' Harry Brecheen against the Boston Red Sox in 1946 and his third was in relief.

"My arm feels loose," said Spahn as he took the field for the workout under overcast skies. It was much warmer, however, than it was Monday in New York. The temperature at mid-day was 71 degrees, with showers predicted. The forecast for today is partly cloudy and mild with a high in the 70s.

If Stengel can skin through today's game with Larsen, Ditmar and perhaps Ryne Duren and Johnny Kucks too, he will have a rested Whitey Ford and Turley for a seventh game.

Big money rides on each pitch as they head into the sixth game. The winners will split about $313,000 and the losers about $208,000, to say nothing of the endorsement cash and extra money for winter appearances by the world champions.

Bill Bruton of the Braves, more respected as a defensive man than a dangerous hitter, leads both clubs with a .500 average. Although he has started only three times, he has appeared in all five games.

Evy's Record 32-21-4 Since '52 —

Not Big 10 Doormats Now

By MICK HOLMES
Staff Writer

One of the greatest success stories in collegiate football has been written here at Iowa by Forest Evashevski. He has taken a team that was once the doormat of the Big Ten and developed it into one of the top teams in the nation.

Since Evy turned up on the Iowa scene at the onset of the 1952 grid season, the football mastermind has compiled an overall 32-21-4

Forest Evashevski
Brings Hawkeyes Up

record that includes a 16-2-1 mark during the 1956 and 1957 campaigns and a 1-0-1 mark this year. This fine record has earned the Iowans an average ranking of fourth place in the nation over the past three seasons.

Coach Evy climaxed his rebuilding program at Iowa, a program that was destined to give the Hawkeyes a "respectable" team, with his Big Ten titlist team in 1956 and the Rose Bowl championship the following New Year's day in Pasadena. That great team was followed by another in 1957 that missed repeating as champions by 3 minutes and 54 seconds — Ohio State eked out a 17-13 win at Columbus.

Coach Of The Year
After his fine achievement with his 1956 club, the Hawk mentor

was recognized as the Washington Touchdown Club's coach of the year, the "Los Angeles Times" coach of the year and the Kansas City Rockne Club's coach of the year, among other honors heaped upon him.

Evy inaugurated his fabulous football and football-coaching career at the University of Michigan in 1938 under the tutelage of Fritz Crisler and teamed with Tommy Harmon to lead Michigan to national prominence.

The big fellow — Evy grinned, "I played at about 200 at Michigan, now I weigh about 212," when asked about his playing weight — will always be remembered in Ann Arbor as the busting blocker who cleared the path for the All-America Harmon during those three years.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Tackle Joe Moore moved up to the first unit Tuesday as the Indiana football squad staged an offensive scrimmage.

Coach Phil Dickens said tailback Teddy Smith might draw the starting berth against Iowa Saturday.

The scrimmage stressed protection for the passer, which, along with pass defense and timing, was considered a prime weakness last week. Dickens said he was worried about fumbling after nine miscues against West Virginia.

with that great Evashevski, Harmon combination never won a Big Ten title as they never could overcome their Minnesota jinx.

There is a story floating around about Evy's over-zealousness to carry the ball during a game in which Michigan was running all over its opponent.

Finally his teammates gave in and consented to let the "blocking machine" carry the ball. But before the play started there was mutiny on the gridiron as all his "friends" plotted to let opposition charge through to see what Evy could do. The ball was snapped to Evy and wham. That cured Evy's desire to run the ball and ended his short career as a pigskin totter.

After his college career he entered the Navy Pre-flight School at Iowa and quarterbacked the Seahawks for his fourth year and final campaign as an active player.

5-2 At Hamilton
His first coaching job was at Hamilton College of New York where he compiled a 5-2 record. He then went to Pittsburgh as a back coach before his young coaching career was interrupted by three years in the Navy.

Following his service stint, he joined "Biggie" Munn at Syracuse for one year, then moved with him to Michigan State for three years, before taking over the reins at Washington State in 1949.

Evy, a native of Detroit, Mich., and his wife, Ruth, have six children ranging in age from under two years to sixteen, with his oldest son Forest Jr. (Frosty) now playing defensive safety and quarterback with the Iowa City High School team.

Touchdown Tendency

By ALLEN N. SMITH

Hawks Tumble To 10th As Wisconsin Moves Up

Iowa's Hawkeyes, tied by the Air Force Academy, skidded from third to 10th in the Smith Touchdown Tendency System of Ratings. Oklahoma's juggernaut, still riding high as the nation's No. 1 football power in the Smith Touchdown Tendency System of Ratings, is challenged from a new quarter this week.

Michigan State, top team a year ago and runner-up last week, gives way to Wisconsin as the Badgers, off their 50-0 romp over Marquette, advance from fourth to second. The Spartans are a strong fourth, behind Auburn's awesome defensive machine which ranks No. 3. Ignored before the season got under way, and relegated by many to a spot among the also-rans, Michigan tied Michigan State to vault from eighth to fifth.

Notre Dame, 14-6 conqueror of Southern Methodist, advances to No. 6. Army's touchdown-happy Cadets mauled Penn. State, 26-0, to become the System's No. 7 club.

Purdue is a close-up eighth, following its impressive 24-0 romp over Rice. Oregon's strong showing in its one-touchdown loss to Oklahoma sends the Ducks into the select group in the No. 9 position.

Mississippi annexes the 11th slot, while Ohio State occupies the last niche of the top dozen.

The standings are bound to get another good shaking as the result of the show at South Bend where Notre Dame, No. 6, collides with Army, No. 7, and the encounter of second-ranked Wisconsin with eighth-ranked Purdue.

Hawks Drill On Indiana Formations

The wet weather Tuesday didn't dampen the spirits of the Iowa football squad a bit when coach Forest Evashevski put the Hawks through a long workout in preparation for the Indiana game here Saturday.

The first and second units worked on defense against the reserves who were running Indiana plays and then switched to offense against Indiana defenses.

First team end Curt Merz and second team halfback Bob Jeter missed the workouts because of knee injuries but both are expected to be ready for the Big Ten opener this week end.

Merz, although missing Tuesday's drills, is still listed on the first string with end Don Norton, tackles John Sawin and John Burroughs, guards Gary Grouwinkel and Don Shipanik, center Lloyd Humphreys, quarterback Randy Duncan, halfbacks Ray Jauch and Kevin Furlong and fullback Don Horn.

Tickets are still available for the Indiana contest, but the Hoosier game is the only one left on the Iowa home schedule that is not sold out. Northwestern, Oct. 25; Ohio State, Nov. 15 and Notre Dame, Nov. 22 are the sell outs.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Louis Cardinals Tuesday night traded pitcher Billy Muffett, catcher Hobie Landrith and utility infielder Benny Valenzuela to San Francisco for pitchers Ernie Broglio and Marv Grissom.

Iowa 15th In Total Offense

NCAA Service Bureau figures released this week show the Iowa Hawkeyes rank No. 15 in total offense with an average of 348.5 yards in two games.

Army holds a commanding lead in the total offense statistics with 1,030 yards in two games for a 515 average. Second-place College of Pacific is averaging 458 yards on 916 yards in two games.

Washington State leads in forward passing offense with an average of 237.3 yards for three games while College of Pacific is tops in rushing offense with a 373 yard average for its two contests.

SUI Receives $78,000 Grant For Research

A $78,000 grant for nuclear research was recently awarded to SUI, James A. Jacobs, professor and director of nuclear research at SUI said.

The University has received over $400,000 from the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) for nuclear research since August, 1950.

The SUI contract was one of 72 unclassified physical research contracts totaling over $3 million awarded by the AEC this year to universities, colleges and private research institutions to assist in nuclear research projects.

Jacobs, a native of Sioux City and appointed director of SUI nuclear research in 1945, said the $78,000 grant would cover continued research with SUI's two atom smashers. SUI physicists have conducted nuclear research since 1932, and added a second atom smasher to their research facilities in 1949.

80 To Be Offered Danforth Study Aid

Danforth Teacher Study Grants will be offered in 1959 to approximately 80 men and women who show promise of becoming college teachers of outstanding ability.

Candidates must be prepared to undertake a 12-month program of graduate study, including the academic year 1959-60, plus the summer of 1959 or 60. Applications must be in the hands of the Danforth Foundation by Oct. 15, 1958.

Those receiving grants will be chosen on the basis of potential excellence as teachers, outstanding academic ability, personal integrity and a serious interest in the Christian tradition.

School Choice
 Students awarded Danforth Grants are free to enroll at any accredited American university of their choice. They are also expected to attend a Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching (expenses paid), Aug. 24-30, 1959.

The appointments allow the Danforth grantee one-half his current salary for the academic year, plus one-sixth of his salary for each dependent listed on his 1959 income tax return, up to a total of his full salary, or not exceeding $4,800. The minimum grant is $2,400. In addition, the student is given tuition and official fees at the graduate school of his choice.

Faculty Status
 The nominated candidate must be from 25 to 40 years old. He must

Iowa City Tax Rate To Rise

The tax rate for Iowa City property owners will increase 8.769 mills next year, County Auditor William L. Kanak said Wednesday.

A levy of 91.402 mills will be applied in most of the city with the exception of a small section in the southwest part of town, which lies in the West Lucas school district.

This tax rate means that $91.40 will be paid on each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. In the West Lucas school area the rate will be 59.993 mills, or $60 per $1,000.

The county auditor said that the increase was due largely to a rise in taxes levied by the Iowa City school district. The levy for Iowa City schools will rise from 40.854 this year to 49.834 next year.

The total property valuation for Iowa City will be $28,186,103. This includes $312,080 worth of property included in the West Lucas school district area.

Ike Names Potter Stewart New Supreme Court Justice Successor To Burton Only 43 Years Old

WASHINGTON (AP)—Potter Stewart of Cincinnati, a 43-year-old Federal circuit judge who likes to be thought of as a lawyer, was named to the Supreme Court Tuesday by President Eisenhower.

This was Mr. Eisenhower's fifth appointment to the 9-man court. Stewart will take the place of Harold H. Burton, a fellow Ohioan and fellow Republican, immediately upon the 70-year-old Burton's retirement next Monday.

Senate Confirmation

The Stewart appointment will be subject to Senate confirmation when Congress returns in January.

Here's a quick sum-up of the new justice: Michigan-born, Yale educated, a Naval lieutenant in World War II, a judge for four years with a background of law practice in New York and Cincinnati, an Episcopalian, married and the father of three young children.

There was a considerable element of surprise in the appointment.

Burton's impending retirement was announced only Monday. It was learned, however, that Burton sent in his resignation some weeks ago.

Rogers Calls

Stewart, a handsome man whose black hair has only begun to turn gray, met reporters in the office of White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, and gave them this account in reply to questions:

Monday afternoon—before Burton's retirement plans were announced—Atty. Gen. William Rogers telephoned Stewart in Cincinnati and asked if he could come to Washington immediately.

He could if it were important, Stewart told Rogers. Well, it was, Rogers said.

At 8:30 Tuesday morning, Stewart and Rogers conferred at the White House with Mr. Eisenhower. By the time this meeting opened, Stewart surmised he was being offered the post.

A Lawyer

What is his legal philosophy? "I like to be thought of as a lawyer," he replied, after commenting it was hard to put a philosophy in specific words.

Had he, in Ohio, ever been affiliated in the Republican party with the late Sen. Robert A. Taft?

Stewart replied that he had known Taft for years, and was a very great admirer.

He added he was also a great admirer of Mr. Eisenhower since he first met the President. That was in 1954, when Mr. Eisenhower appointed him to the circuit court bench from private life as a lawyer.

One School Case

This court, the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals, has jurisdiction over cases from Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Stewart told questioners the school integration controversy at Clinton, Tenn., has been before this court since he has been on the bench. He added he was not on the panel of judges which handled that matter, however.

NEW JUSTICE Potter Stewart of Cincinnati stood with hands behind his back Tuesday as White House Press Secretary James Hagerty announced President Eisenhower has selected Stewart to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court, succeeding Harold H. Burton. Stewart told newsmen his selection took him by surprise. Burton is retiring from the court Monday.—AP Wirephoto.

Loveless To Greet President If Affair Is 'Nonpolitical'

DES MOINES (AP)—Gov. Herschel Loveless said Tuesday he'll be on hand to greet President Eisenhower at Cedar Rapids Oct. 17—if "protocol" is observed in the receiving line.

The Governor was invited by the Cedar Rapids Chamber of Commerce to meet the President when he arrives for the National Corn Picking Contest. Loveless said he would accept, "with reservations."

"Who's going to stand beside me in the reception line—Murray?" he asked. He referred to Dr. William G. Murray, Republican candidate for governor.

Loveless said he would accept the invitation only if the receiving line is "nonpolitical."

Senators OK

"If there are U.S. senators in the reception line, that will be okay, but if there are candidates for election, no," the Governor stated. "There is protocol involved here."

He made it clear that he particularly objected to having Murray in the line.

Loveless declined recently to pose for a photograph with Murray in a meeting at Cedar Rapids. He indicated then that his refusal resulted from a release from Murray's headquarters dealing with Greenlease kidnap ransom money.

The release, tabbed editorially by some newspapers as an unfair campaign practice, said the Republican State Central Committee had found no evidence that the Greenlease money had come into Iowa for use in the Democratic campaign.

Focused Attention

The National Fair Campaign Practices Committee, which investigated the incident at the request of Iowa Democratic Chairman Donald Norberg, didn't say either side was right or wrong.

It said the incident had served to focus attention upon the importance of fair play in political campaigns.

The committee said it also had demonstrated "the danger to all concerned of comments and questions formulated in the style of 'there is no evidence that my opponent beats his wife.'"

Loveless had no comment on the committee report and Norberg could not be reached.

Use Protocol

But at Cedar Rapids, a member of the corn picking contest committee said regarding the Governor's stand on greeting the President:

"Quite naturally protocol is being observed in all matters pertaining to the presidential visit. The committee reiterates that the Governor is invited to welcome the President."

In Des Moines, Secretary of State Melvin D. Synhorst said:

"The people of Iowa are honored to have the President of the United States visit them at any time. His expert staff on protocol will see that all problems are resolved."

"I hope there will be no petty quibbling about who stands first in the receiving line. I will be proud to be among the cheering thousands who will turn out to greet President Eisenhower."

Hurricane Hits Bahamas; 18 Drown

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Janice, howling far out at sea Tuesday, became this season's deadliest tropical storm with word that a sailing vessel's crew was lost in Bahamas waters.

A report from Nassau said 18 persons drowned when the Haitian sloop Dien Davint sank Monday night at the south end of Long Island. Long Island is more than 200 miles southeast of Nassau, where a boatman drowned and boats, trees and communications were damaged by the storm.

One survivor, E. Joseph Swan, swam ashore from the sloop.

One death was attributed to Alma, the season's first tropical storm, and five to Ella, the fifth.

Janice, with top winds estimated at 85 miles an hour, menaced no land areas although fringe gales whipped the South Atlantic Coast of the United States.

Storm forecaster Gilbert Clark said there were indications the big storm, moving north-northeast, would turn even more toward the east today.

On such a path, the storm center would pass about midway between Cape Hatteras and Bermuda, roughly 400 miles east of the mainland.

Gale warnings flapped from Cape Hatteras south to Vero Beach, Fla., but the Weather Bureau hastened to assure coast residents the brisk winds hitting them were not the advance taste of the hurricane.

French Government Adopts U.S. System For Elections

PARIS (AP)—Premier de Gaulle's Government adopted for France Tuesday an electoral system like that of the United States and set dates for two elections. The old party list system was junked.

A National Assembly for the Fifth Republic will be chosen Nov. 23, with runoff Nov. 30 in districts where no candidate gets an absolute majority on the first ballot.

Under the new constitution proclaimed Sunday the Fourth Republic's Senate, or Council of the Republic, remains on for the time being as the Senate of the Fifth Republic. The election of France's first strong executive president, to be handled by an Electoral College of perhaps 100,000 persons including members of Parliament, was set for Dec. 14. A second ballot, if necessary, will be held Dec. 21.

It is virtually certain De Gaulle will be a candidate. It is almost equally certain he will be elected on the first ballot, when an absolute majority will be required. A plurality suffices on the second round.

In its first major decision since the Fifth Republic was proclaimed, De Gaulle's Cabinet reverted to the single-seat constitution system used under the Third Republic.

One man is to represent each "congressional" district.

Under the old system elections were by a party list system, mixed most of the time with proportional representation. The average voter cast his ballot for a party instead of for the person.

De Gaulle for Dec. 14. A second ballot, if necessary, will be held Dec. 21.
