AF Transport Downed In Idaho Hills

Not Known If All Victims Were Military

PAYETTE, Idaho (AP) — An Air Force transport carrying 19 crewmen and passengers crashed and burned in southwest Idaho Thursday night. State police said there were no survivors.

The plane was en route from its home base at Pope AFB, N.C., to McChord Field near Tacoma, Wash. It had stopped to refuel at Hill AFB in northern Utah. State police said the twin-engine C130 crashed in hilly brush-covered country.

The bodies were reported either in the wreckage, which was not widely scattered, or close by.

The Fire Department from nearby New Plymouth reached the scene to keep the flames from spreading to surrounding range land.

State police said Air Force officials told them the plane carried 19. It was not known whether all the passengers were military personnel.

The Mountain Home AFB about 100 miles southeast of the crash site dispatched a rescue team.

Charlie Hastings, a Payette newspaperman, said he got to the scene shortly after the crash and saw the fuselage caved in, wings sheared off and no sign of the motors.

"I saw four bodies," Hastings said.

He said an unidentified farmer told him he looked up when he heard the plane's motors sputtering and saw the craft heading for a crash. The farmer said it appeared to hit a flock of geese in its final dive.

Payette is on the extreme western edge of Idaho about 50 miles west of Boise, the capital.

Chiang Claims 4 Red Migs Shot Down

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — President Chiang Kai-shek early today announced Nationalist Sabre Jets shot down four Red China Mig17s in an air battle near Matsu early on their double-10 holiday.

It is China's 47th independence anniversary, commemorating Oct. 10 — the 10th day of the 10th month — 1911 when the Chinese Republic was set up by Sun-Yat-sen.

Chiang's announcement came shortly after the Defense Ministry reported that more than 20 Mig17s battled six Nationalist jets.

The first report said the Sabre Jets were on patrol southeast of Matsu when they sighted the Communist planes approaching from the mainland. The Sabres were ordered to fly back to Formosa but the Migs pursued them and opened fire, the ministry said.

The self-imposed Red cease-fire in Formosa Strait continued into its fifth day.

There was still a question whether the Reds will reopen their bombardment of Quemoy and Matsu when the cease-fire limit expires Monday.

A Red China Foreign Ministry spokesman's statement distributed in Tokyo by the New China News Agency was interpreted as carrying a vague hint that the Reds may be willing to extend the cease-fire.

Chiang, in an Independence Day message to troops and civilians, said Communist resumption of the attack on Quemoy would hasten the end of Communist rule in Peiping.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles evidently instructed the U.S. ambassador at Warsaw Thursday to press Red China for an extension of its cease-fire in the Formosa Strait beyond next Sunday.

Korean Bonus 2,000 More Checks Will Be Mailed Oct. 17

DES MOINES (AP) — Another 2,000 Korean bonus checks will be mailed Oct. 17, the Korean War Bonus Board said Thursday.

This will bring to 10,000 the number of bonuses paid since the first checks were mailed Oct. 17, 1953. About 60,000 Korean veterans of the Korean War or their beneficiaries have applied for the bonus thus far.

Truman Tells Iowa Farmers To Sell Crops

Warns Price Will Drop After Fall Election

CHEROKEE (AP) — Former President Harry Truman said Thursday night Iowa farmers had better sell their crops before the Nov. 4 election because farm prices are going to tumble immediately after.

In remarks prepared for delivery at a Democratic party rally here, Truman declared Iowa's bumper crops this year mean a big addition to the nation's surpluses and this means farm prices will go down after the harvest "because of the way the Republicans have handled our agricultural program."

If Maine Can... The 74-year-old former President, spoke in the high school auditorium following a dinner with Gov. Herschel Loveless and other Iowa Democratic candidates.

"We can have a great Democratic victory in Iowa this year," Truman declared. "If Maine can do it, Iowa can too."

Truman praised Gov. Loveless as "one of the best governors Iowa ever had" and said he "strongly deserves to be re-elected."

He also urged re-election of Iowa's lone Democrat in Congress, Rep. Merwin Coad.

"The people of Iowa should send more good Democrats to Congress to help Merwin Coad in the fine work he is doing," Truman said. He especially urged election of Don O'Brien, Democratic candidate in the 8th District, over Republican incumbent Charles Hoeven, adding:

"Your election of a Democratic congressman in this district will be especially significant. It will serve notice on the Republicans in Washington, and on Ezra Taft Benson in particular, that they cannot get away with what they have been doing to the American farmer."

The former President said Iowa's bumper crops, "instead of being a source of satisfaction to farmers, are a source of concern. They mean a tremendous addition to the surplus. Under the low support policies of Mr. Benson this means that farm prices are going to go down again."

"Of course," he added, "this might not happen between now and Nov. 4th. The Republicans may be too smart for that."

He accused Republicans of trying to "buy" the election with "their high price for noncompliance corn" but he declared:

Benson can turn it off just like he can turn it on. Farm prices are made in Washington. Don't forget it."

Income Down Truman said there has been a $20 billion drop in farm income since 1952, but that food prices, instead of falling, have gone up.

"Consumers, as well as farmers, have borne the burden of the Republican farm policies," he asserted. "Yet while this was going on, the Secretary of Agriculture came out among the farm people and told them they owed their troubles to the workers in the cities. This is the most wicked kind of demagoguery."

West Offers Temporary A-Test Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and its Western allies are proposing suspension of all nuclear weapons tests while attempts are made to negotiate a permanent ban.

Informed sources said Thursday night this is a key part of a U.S. resolution to be introduced Friday in the U.N. General Assembly's 81-nation Political Committee.

The move obviously is aimed to bring pressure on the Soviet Union, which has resumed tests in advance of U.S.-British-Soviet talks due to start in Geneva Oct. 31.

There has been speculation that the Russians may be getting ready to scuttle the talks on ending tests under an international inspection system.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said on Monday that the Russians feel free to continue tests until they reach the total of the United States and Britain combined since March 31. That is the date the Russians announced a unilateral decision to end tests.

The United States and Britain have agreed to suspend tests for a year beginning Oct. 31, provided the Soviet Union refrains from testing and takes part in the Geneva negotiations.

Dean Teeters Is 92-Years-Old Today — Came To SUI For A Year — In 1895

By ANN HARRINGTON Staff Writer

"I didn't want to come here, you know — I was sent here." Today, on his 92 birthday, after 42 years as an active SUI educator and 21 years of part-time instruction, white haired Dean Emeritus Wilbur J. Teeters has many memories of his 63 years in Iowa City. Chuckling in a soft friendly way as he talked, and using his long-fingered wrinkled hands to chase away the flies in his office, Teeters, former dean of the SUI Pharmacy College, told Thursday of his many years on the SUI campus.

Jupiter IRBM Veers In Sky Then Explodes

Blows Up 32 Seconds After Launching

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A powerful Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile veered crazily in the sky and exploded 32 seconds after launching Thursday night.

One huge section of the broken rocket crashed back on the Cape, but no one was injured. Shattered debris also rained on the Atlantic just off the Cape.

The Army announced some 40 minutes after the spectacular explosion that the missile "apparently went out of control shortly after launching and was destroyed by the range safety officer who dispersed the remaining fuel before it impacted on a vacant area of the Cape."

No injuries or significant property damage have been reported, the Army said.

The huge war rocket burst apart with a violent roar several thousand feet up after a spectacular lift-off at 10:50 p.m.

One large piece of the missile impacted back on the Cape with a thunderous roar about half a mile from a service tower that reportedly houses the next U.S. moon rocket.

Crash trucks raced to the scene when a large fire broke out. An hour after the breakup, smoke still swirled around the Air Force Thor IRBM towers.

As the missile climbed it appeared to stray somewhat to the left. Then the safety officer pressed a big red button and the mighty missile shattered with a flash. The broken pieces flashed white flame on and off as they fell earthward.

This was the first attempt to launch a fully tactical version of the Army's powerful intermediate range ballistic missile. The Jupiter will provide the first stage for the Army's moon rocket.

There was no immediate initial announcement as to what caused the blowup.

This was the first time the dependable Jupiter had exploded in 11 launchings up to now.

Wilbur J. Teeters "I didn't want to come."

"Dancing wasn't too popular then," he continued, "in fact," and he chuckled, "the University frowned on it."

"And did you know that at one time Iowa City had 27 saloons, 2 breweries, and a wholesale liquor house?"

"We've made a little progress on that, haven't we?" he laughed.

Dean Teeter stopped a moment, looked at his cluttered desk, and then shook a finger and emphasized:

No Associates! "There's one thing sure, though — there's a heck of a lot of human nature right here on the University faculty."

"When I came here there were five men upon whom the reputation of the entire University rested — and these five men refused to have associate professorships."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey "The public seems to know more about statesmanship."

Criticizes Lack Of Leadership

By TED RASMUSSEN Assistant City Editor

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, (Dem. Minn.), pointedly denounced the present Administration's foreign policy and farm program at a press conference at the Iowa Memorial Union Thursday.

"The present leadership refuses to make foreign policy decisions until the roof falls in," he said.

Humphrey expressed the belief that the recent shift in U.S. policy toward Formosa is due to American public opinion. "The public seems to know more about statesmanship than many of the nation's leaders," he said.

Humphrey said that he supported the Administration's resolutions dealing with Formosa and the Near-East only because of his belief in a bi-partisan foreign policy. He said that he was never in favor of the defense of Quemoy and Matsu.

Commenting on the recent crisis in Lebanon, Humphrey pointed out that the U.S. sent troops to Lebanon in support of President Camille Chamoun in his fight against a rebel faction. "Despite dispatching of troops," he said, "the rebel leader is now prime minister and Chamoun is leading the rebel forces."

Humphrey argued that troops are shuffled back and forth ineffectually and that decisions are made and never carried out. "Many Administration decisions never get past the headline stage," he said.

The Senator called for new leadership and new ideas in the field of foreign relations. "The present administration talks about Soviet competition but does not act," he said.

"A new policy of encirclement of Communist nations with emphasis not on military bases, many of which are useless, but upon programs of social, scientific, political and economic development is needed," he suggested.

"Our present policy toward Russia is one of reaction," Humphrey criticized. He pointed out that he had predicted Russian suspension of nuclear testing would last only as long as was required to set up a new series of test explosions. He argued that it might be possible to upset Soviet propaganda time tables through predictions dealing with events such as the brief cessation of Soviet nuclear testing.

Humphrey's sharp criticism of the Eisenhower Administration was not confined exclusively to foreign policy. He cited the present farm policy as an outstanding failure.

Referring to Government agricultural spending, he said, "It's not easy to increase expenditures in a department by 600 per cent in six years... you must work at it."

"Six years ago," he said, "the Administration pledged 100 per cent parity support for the farmer."

"Today," he noted, "abandonment and repeal of the entire parity program is being urged by the Republicans."

He said that Formosa and Lebanon are only two examples of the result of a weak and negative foreign policy by the United States.

Tells Local Audience U.S. Foreign Policy Faulty

BY TOM BURROWS Staff Writer

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey told an Iowa City audience Thursday night that if we "feed the hungry, heal the sick, and educate the illiterate," our international problems will be solved.

Humphrey, a Democrat from Minnesota, criticized our present foreign policy and then gave his suggestions to correct the situation in his lecture entitled, "An Expression of Faith in an Era of Fear" at the Iowa Memorial Union.

He explained that the era of fear was caused by the Cold War we are fighting with Russia.

"We are losing the Cold War to Russia," he explained, "the political war, the educational war, the economic war, and the propaganda war. We don't understand this new kind of war; we need statesmanship and world understanding."

"We are in position to fight this kind of a war, we have abundance of food, medicine, and educators, but we don't use them. We have everything but leadership and direction. We should have the faith to serve the world that needs our help."

He said that our farmers have a capacity to supply a surplus which we curse while it should be used for good. Food is what the world needs and we could use our surplus of it to help our foreign relations instead of using threats of bombs, he said.

Humphrey made it clear that he did not advocate substituting foreign aid programs for a strong military. His suggestion was to add to the other areas which he termed neglected.

Another criticism by Humphrey was that our foreign policy was not directed toward the masses of the world. "Our policy is directed toward kings and oil instead of people and water," he said. "We are democratic people and we must respect and appeal to the masses like the Russians do."

Humphrey also criticized the lack of long time planning by our foreign department. He explained that we have not set clear plans and goals. He illustrated this point with a description of the Formosa problem. "The only thing consistent about our policy in the Far East, he said, "is that it has been confused."

He suggested that the first thing that should be done in the Far East would be to obtain a permanent cease-fire and then have the entire question settled by the World Court.

He said that Formosa and Lebanon are only two examples of the result of a weak and negative foreign policy by the United States.

Who Are The BMOCs? Starting Today, SUI Dads

The favored men on campus this weekend will be the Dad's of all SUI students.

The 36th annual Dad's Day festivities will begin today with the annual Dad's Day pep rally at 7 p.m. on the west approach of the Old Capitol and continuing with the Dad's Day Concert at 8 p.m. in the Union.

Bill Reichardt, voted the most valuable player of the SUI football squad in 1952 and now a Des Moines business man, will be the main speaker at the pep rally. Members of the 1958 Varsity Squad will be introduced.

Jim Farrell, A3, Perry, president of Central Party Committee, will be the master of ceremonies. The SUI Pep Band, the clowns, the cheerleaders, and Herky will also be on hand to add to the festive activities.

"Football is Bursting Out All Over" will be the theme of the skit to be given by the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

A car caravan will leave the Old Armory at 6:45 p.m. to pick up girls living at Currier and Burge Halls. A smaller caravan will pick up the girls living at Commons Dormitory.

After the pep rally, Dad's Day activities will move to the Union for a concert by Harry James and his Music Makers. Tickets are still available for $1.75 each at the Union Information Desk.

The concert, sponsored by Central Party Committee and Omicron Delta Kappa, will begin at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Union. One of the highlights of the evening will be the announcement of the SUI Dad for 1958, who will be presented during the concert and again at halftime ceremonies during the Iowa-Indiana football game.

James will present a "mixed up" concert of the "sweet and soft" music combined with some modern jazz.

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the University.

'Terraced Island' Or 'Beautiful Bay'

Time Spins On In Formosa

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Portuguese were the first Westerners to see it, and they were impressed. "Ilha Formosa," they named it in 1517, meaning "beautiful island."

ther way, it adds up to a mountainous land, 240 miles long and 60 to 80 miles wide, that is very much in the news these days since it's the home-away-from-home base of Chiang Kai-shek and the Chinese Nationalist Government.

Although Formosa is but 100 miles off the Chinese coast, the Chinese haven't, as you might suspect, been there very long as such things go.

The first Chinese official didn't check in until the historically tardy date of 607 A.D. If he peeked around much, he soon would have learned that aborigines already were there, aborigines whose ancestors probably had moved in from Indonesia and who had interesting habits like headhunting.

Some 150,000 descendants of these aborigines still live in Formosa. A recent guidebook, published in Taipei, the island's leading city, says in what appears to be aboriginal English: "In recent years the aborigines have been domesticated and discarded much of their tribal traits. They have gradually sloughed off their outlandish customs and picked up tidbits of modernities as the time spins on."

Most of the 10 million people on Formosa today are Chinese, although its recent history, like its beginnings, is a curious mixture. The Dutch, Spanish and French all had a go at it. In 1661, supporters of the defeated Ming dynasty fled there, as Chiang Kai-shek was to do almost 300 years later.

In 1895, the Japanese took over Formosa and held it for 50 years, until Japan lost the war in 1945. Looking over the old books in the National Geographic Society's library, you are struck once again how a sobersided opinion by a historian may look quaint or foolish a generation or two later.

A Japanese historian, convinced his country was there for keeps, speaks of the "several centuries of misrule, injustice and inhumanity that have gone before."

He then mentions sadly how the Chinese like their opium, cries out happily how his countrymen rarely touch the stuff, and then points complacently to the 300 workers in the opium monopoly, helping keep up the habits he claims to deplore.

You see, he says, it's good business. "The opium revenue," he says, "well deserves to be called one of the island's richest resources."

As the Taipei guidebook says, "the time spins on."

Danger In The New French Political System

By J. M. ROBERTS Associated Press News Analyst

France's new parliamentary election system, putting the emphasis on the individual candidate and eliminating proportional representation for party lists, is being widely hailed because it will cut a lot of ground from under the Communists.

Political philosophers, however, already alert to the inherent danger of strongman rule under the new constitution, cannot help but wonder about the future when a cabinet alone controls the election machinery.

France became a muddled and indecisive political entity under the proportional system during the past 22 years. The proportional system tended to take direct control of Parliament members from the voters and give it to party leaders.

Since indecisiveness has produced so many ills, the new system has been generally welcomed as contributing to the stability for which the new constitution is designed.

But it combines with the new constitutional weighting of political power in favor of the executive as against parliament.

With a precedent established for changing the electoral system to meet circumstances instead of having it embodied in the political institutions, only the conscience of future executives will guard against exploitation of the electorate.

The immediate profit of cutting Communist power in Parliament is expected to result in this fashion:

Heretofore, if the Reds got 25 per cent of the votes they got 24 per cent of the seats. Now they will have "actually" to win in a district to get a seat. Where there are several candidates, also-rans in the first voting are expected to coalesce against the Communists in the run-offs.

The whole setup is expected to give the Gaullists a great edge. Since the vote for the De Gaulle constitution was so heavy, this is presumed to be what France wants. The whole business is designed to give De Gaulle the power to go ahead with his stabilization program.

In some ways this shift to executive control to meet unstable conditions represents political flexibility.

The wonder is whether precedents now being established will lead on some future day to flexing by politicians of a different conscience.

Men before now have lost their liberty through adoption of temporary expedients in the hope of saving it.

Caution, Coeds—The Males Are Mad

TO THE EDITOR:

Certain articles in The Daily Iowan have hinted that the SUI men are not very gallant toward the coeds. If you publish this letter, the situation can be remedied.

Girls, this is what you can do to have men, dressed in shining armor, throwing themselves at your feet in a gallant fashion. The trick is to become a perfect lady, not just a girl. A true lady has the following three qualities. She is: 1. Attractive; 2. Intelligent; 3. Gracious.

A woman (and coeds are old enough to be women not girls) need not be a raving beauty to be attractive. Neatly and properly combed hair, combined with attractively worn clothes and a keen wit can do more to make a woman attractive than all the cold cream and make-up in the world.

The average coed must be intelligent to successfully attend classes at SUI. A few of these brains demonstrated during conversation on a date will win the admiration of all within listening distance. Intelligent conversation will be a source of mutual enjoyment and companionship and will eliminate drunkenness as a pre-requisite of companionship and a good time.

Girls are taught by their parents and sorority mothers that it is improper to do such things as to scratch the back of their necks with a salad fork. Table manners alone does not make a girl a lady but she must also be gracious. Graciousness is the most essential but most overlooked constituent of a lady. Graciousness combines many things such as: being kind, courteous and merciful; being warm, hearty and truthful; having a genuine liking for the companionship and love of others.

A gracious lady should hold her head up high with pride but should yet be kind and courteous to others. A gracious person should have at least all these qualities. Pride and self esteem alone do not make a person gracious but serve to make just the opposite — a snob. I personally don't believe that anyone in the world would fail to love a truly gracious person. Here is a key to popularity.

And here is where I deflate a few egos. Many coeds around here have neglected a very significant fact. Being dated is an honor and when an honor is bestowed on someone it calls for gratitude on that someone's part. When a boy asks a girl for a date, he is going out of his way to please her, at no small expense to himself. He is honoring her, not fulfilling an obligation. Therefore, a coed does not condescend to go out with a fellow, she accepts his invitation with an attitude of gratefulness at his having honored her.

If the advice in this letter is taken, there is little doubt in my mind that you coeds will merit and will receive more gallant treatment.

Robert Koehler, A3 802 Bowers

TO THE EDITOR:

Having talked with and observed the women of three continents and at least a dozen different countries, I feel qualified to make the following statement:

SUI coeds appear to equal any women in the world in both beauty and intellect excepting of course my fiancée in Denver. Therefore, you may rest assured that I write the following from no bitterness toward, or frustrations because of, said coeds.

Though I doubt that one letter to the editor and the uncomplimentary article in The Daily Iowan represents the opinion of all SUI coeds, it is obvious that, in the estimation of the Society Editor, the male Homo Sapiens here at SUI are, by and large, still in the diaper stage of their social development.

Granted, those "mannerly cadets" were a phenomenon of male grace and charm. They were not, however, born with these praiseworthy qualities. The United States Government has taken these men to educate as the future officers of the mightiest air force in the world. One of the prime requisites of the inflexible code by which these men are trained is, they must become gentlemen. They must be able to send an enemy to meet his maker and charm some foreign dignitary with equal finesse.

The men at SUI are unable to obtain the benefits of such a system, but must learn by other means such as a helpful rather than a laughing coed.

If the coeds represented by the article do not approve of the men at SUI, why do they date them? If they do persist in dating them with such an attitude, obviously they do so because of some motive other than the enjoyment of male companionship. Therefore it would seem they must admit to either "gold-digging" or dating merely to be socially acceptable to their sister coeds.

Of course, should you girls be foolish or desperate enough to put up with a man who, while you spend the evening with a cadet, waits patiently for his turn, I blame you not one iota for your attitude. It follows that the type of man (?) who would stand for this, would hardly have the backbone to learn gracious manners.

Yes, there are gentlemen here too. So keep your ears open for it's entirely possible that just around the corner you may hear an "allow me, ma'am" spoken by one of our own.

Who? The Next 'Miss World' Could Be A Mrs.

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP) — The next Miss World may be an American Mrs. with two children or an Italian girl named Velinsky. Or a girl named Gun Harriett Margaretha Wagstrom, from Sweden. Crazy, no?

The press agent for the 1958 Miss World contest is one Cyril St. John Murphy. That is his square handle. All of these people were encountered on a Monday night at a place called the Cafe De Paris. It was selected as the site to introduce the press to the Miss World contestants.

It was plain that 1958 is a vintage year in the girl department. The press representatives gasped when Miss Denmark — Winnie Ingemann — tripped down the stairs in a white dress with one of the shortest skirts ever seen this side of ballet. She is a platinum blonde. Then came Miss Morocco, Jocelyne Lambin, whose skirts were shorter still. She is brunette.

Miss Ireland, 17-year-old Susan Riddell, was so lovely that several people very nearly fainted.

Miss United States, who is not a miss at all but a Mrs. with two small children, tossed the audience a kiss as she entered the arena. Her name is Nancy Anne Corcoran.

"What is a Mrs. doing in the Miss World contest?" she was asked.

"There didn't seem to be any rule against it," she replied, "and besides I was 'Miss Most Beautiful Legs' at Palisades Park in 1957."

The vivacious 23-year-old redhead from New York City added "I have two lovely children—Mary, aged 4, and John, aged 3."

A member of the working press went over to a smashing brunette and said, "Miss Czechoslovakia, I presume?"

"But no," she replied, speaking French with a strong Viennese accent, "I am a journalist."

"Married?" "Yes," she replied. "Children?" "Seven," she said. "Madame," the reporter declared, "a great injustice has been done."

Our Miss Blaufuss Is Discussed

TO THE EDITOR:

Your Society Editor, Donna Blaufuss, made some uncomplimentary remarks about SUI men in her feature about the Air Force cadets.

She implied that SUI men are some low type of beast unfit to enjoy the company of the local queens. She said that campus men take things for granted. Maybe this is because campus women take campus men for granted.

If she — and all other coeds — think back, it will be remembered that most campus men are polite on the first date. (Most campus women are polite then, too.) But after a few dates, coeds tend to think a gentleman is a bore. They have only themselves to blame.

While on the subject of properness, what about Miss Blaufuss' mentioning of coeds standing up their dates while these coeds entertained the cadets? Also, do proper women get picked up on street corners?

The remark made by the cadet concerning "what it means to be walking out of a big sorority house" makes sense. Many independent men would feel the same way. When will they get the chance?

It would serve SUI coeds right if campus men would ignore them and date girls from home, from other colleges, and from nearby cities.

Then SUI coeds would have to do their husband hunting somewhere else.

An Angry Reply Re The Race Problem

TO THE EDITOR:

I read Mr. Hedges' letter with a great deal of disgust, yet stand in awe of his indoctrination in specious reasoning and ignorance.

I don't intend to waste much time refuting the nonsense in his plethoric prose, but I'm plain damned fed up with him and his like constantly belaboring the "Northern viewpoint" in tones of righteous indignation and the gnashing of teeth.

I wonder if our local chauvinist has ever been North? Probably not; why risk contamination in hell, where Satan allows subspecies to roam the street outside the confines of the Bronx zoo? This "Northern viewpoint" idocy makes me sick unto death, yet glad too. Since decent human beings have the upsetting habit of living everywhere, I am quite flattered that Mr. Hedges attributes all this decency to the North. Is he afraid to attribute it to the Midwest also? Are the allies growing too few?

Mr. Hedges' biological-genetic knowledge is rather simple; he has turned science into a sacred Southern cow, as — and he mentioned it — the Nazis turned their horrors into a plea for the preservation of Aryan blood. And if a superior race is that which can "successfully rear and train his young," Mr. Hedges would do well to inquire into the literary race of the land of God's chosen people — before integration was a federal issue.

And now, by continually locking the doors of schools against all students regardless of color because a group of sub-humans want to exercise its American birthright, the Southern racists are turning ignorance into a virtue. It seems obvious that any body of students that is persuaded to picket a school is hardly successfully trained or reared.

It is only fair that both Nazism and white chauvinism have lost their weapons, one through local annihilation, the other through process of law. Now only mob action is left, and how long can that work without the support of the South's decent citizens?

Shades of Huey Long and Tammany; the long lament of the willingness to help inferior race; if only they weren't so damned inconsiderate as to pervert us in the process.

Come now, Mr. Hedges, you don't really want to help them, do you — even if your lily-white hands remained eternally pure? You'd rather just let the old competitive spirit roll on — as long as you run the supermarket.

Go home, Mr. Hedges, civilization is awfully bored and tired.

Casey's Yanks World Champs Again; Turley, Skowron & Co. Rap Braves 6-2

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Strong armed Bob Turley led the revived New York Yankees to the greatest baseball comeback in 33 years Thursday as they stormed back from a 3-1 deficit to dethrone Milwaukee in the seventh game of the World Series.

Turley, working his third straight game, dazzled the Braves with a two-hit relief job over 6 2-3 innings while the Yanks clubbed Lew Burdette for a 6-2 victory.

It was sweet revenge for the Yanks, three-time losers to Burdette a year ago, as they ripped into their tormentor for four big runs in the eighth inning, breaking a 2-2 tie.

Burdette had yielded two unearned runs in the second but the Braves scored first off shaky Don Larsen and tied the score on Del Crandall's homer off Turley in the sixth.

Two men were out when the Yankee uprising started with a long double to right by Yogi Berra that just missed being a home run by about two feet. The drive bounced off a padding high on the right field barrier.

Elston Howard fouled off one pitch and looked at a ball before he bounced a single over second base. Berra hustled home with the big winning run.

Skowron Homers

Andy Carey, hitless in 11 trips, smashed a single off Eddie Mathews' glove into short left before Bill Skowron hammered a 2-2 pitch far and away over the fence in the left center field for a 415-foot three-run homer.

Skowron

Burdette bowed his head, pined at the dirt resignedly, and finally closed out the inning by striking out Tony Kugek.

Crandall's homer with two out in the sixth was the only hit off the Yanks' 21-game winner until Joe Adcock sliced a pinch single to left with two gone in the ninth. When Mickey Mantle gathered in Red Schoendienst's fly to center for the final out, the short reign of the Braves had ended.

The Yankees, who usually take victory in stride, gathered around Turley as he walked off the mound, pounding his back, pumping his hand and yelling congratulations. The man who was yelling the most was Casey Stengel whose seventh World Series victory ties him with Joe McCarthy among the managers of all time.

Great Comeback

It was the greatest comeback in baseball since the 1925 Pittsburgh Pirates, after losing three out of four to Washington, closed with a rush to take three straight by beating Walter Johnson on a rain-soaked afternoon.

These Yankees were given up for dead, counted out beyond recall after they lost the first two games in Milwaukee.

Fans were saying this might have been the worst Yankee club ever to win an American League pennant.

Larsen's shutout in the third game eliminated any chance of a Milwaukee sweep but Warren Spahn's shutout put the Yankees down 3-1, and left them needing three straight.

Turley, knocked out in the first inning of the second game when

Casey Hints He'll Be Back —

Yankees Make Lou Eat Words

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — "Now we look like we could play in the National League."

A proud, beaming Casey Stengel shouted this jibe across the hilarious New York dressing room after the Yankees beat the Milwaukee Braves, 6-2, to win the World Series Thursday.

The mob of writers, photographers and radio-TV men looked like a bunch of dogs in a butcher shop trying to settle on a hero.

Zora Folley To England; Has Air Of Confidence

LONDON (AP) — Zora Folley, No. 1 American contender for Floyd Patterson's heavyweight title, arrived Thursday for his Oct. 14 fight with British heavyweight Henry Cooper.

"I'm not nervous about being number three to come over," the Chandler, Ariz., fighter grinned to newsmen at London airport. "I know all about Eddie Machen and Willie Pastrano getting beaten in Europe."

"But it was those guys who lost, not me."

Machen was knocked out by European Heavyweight Champion Ingemar Johansson. Pastrano lost to British Heavyweight Champion Brian London. Both fights were last month.

home in the eighth killed the Braves for keeps, was the center of most attention. But Elston Howard, who singled home Yogi Berra to start the Yanks' four-run eighth after two were out, also was mobbed. So were Bob Turley, who allowed only two hits in a splendid relief role, and the great-fielding Gil McDougald.

The 68-year-old Stengel's eyes were sparkling and for an instant, he appeared speechless. Then he burst out words:

"Didn't that fellow Turley pitch a whale of a game?"

"This was a great series victory because we started so poorly. Then we came together. Now we look like the real New York Yankees."

Slam Burdette
"Now we look like we could play in the National League."

"This was a slam at Milwaukee pitcher Lew Burdette, who said after winning the second series game 'I'd like to see the Yankees in the National League. I think our league has two or three teams as tough as the Yankees.'"

This also was the thought of a lot of observers, who believed the Yankees had a breeze in the American League and would have had quite a struggle in the National loop.

Casey Stengel Ties Record

Fred Haney Lauds Yanks Pitching Staff

By CHUCK CAPALDO
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Manager Fred Haney refused to alibi the Braves' World Series collapse Thursday saying, "Instead of moaning, let's talk about how good their pitchers were."

Contrary to what might be expected, under the circumstances, the Braves, from Haney on down, did not appear to be downhearted over losing their world championship to the Yankees.

Some Wisecracks
The clubhouse was relaxed. There even was some horseplay in the showers and wisecracks by individual players.

Haney, corralled by a posse of writers near his cubicle, made it plain there would be no post-mortems on the Braves' 6-2 loss to Casey Stengel's Yanks.

"Let's not talk about our battling slump," he said. "Let's talk about their pitching. Bob Turley pitched great ball. So did Whitey Ford, only he was unlucky."

"I give them all the credit in the world. I have no alibis and neither do my players. We had our chances. They beat us. They deserved to win. To the victor belongs the spoils."

Picks Turning Point
When someone asked Haney to pick a turning point in the series that saw Milwaukee take a 3 to 1 lead in games and then lose three in a row and the title, he replied:

"The turning point was in our bats. We scored 17 runs in our first two games and only seven in the last five."

"We had our chances. If we had some runs, it might have been different but let's not talk about that. The Yankees were great."

Only one other team ever lost a seven-game series after taking a 3-1 edge in games. That was the Senators in 1925 when the Pirates came storming back to take the championship.

ROSE BOWL SPLIT
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ivy league teams have a 2-2 record in Rose Bowl competition. Brown lost the first game to Washington State, 14-0, and in 1917 Penn lost by the same score to Oregon. Harvard scored 7-6 over Oregon in 1920 and Columbia turned in a major upset with a 7-0 victory over Stanford in 1934.

A college senior once remarked to a Bell System interviewer: "A telephone career must be a mirage. I hear talk about fabulous training, fascinating work, grade-A job security, and rapid advancement in management. Sounds a bit too rosy. What's the real story?"

The interviewer knew mere talk wouldn't sell a skeptic. So he showed him some "profiles" of recent college graduates who had enjoyed that fabulous training, had worked at intriguing jobs, and had won early management promotions.

Our once-skeptical friend has been with the Bell System 3 years now—and is currently supervising the work of 55 people.

Hawks Primed For Big 10 Opener With Rising Indiana Hoosiers

By MICK HOLMES
Staff Writer

The Iowa Hawkeyes began tapering off drills Thursday in preparation for their Big Ten opener against Indiana Saturday. Coach Forest Evashevski put his club through a brisk and spirited workout inside the Iowa stadium in sweat clothes.

Again, as has been the case all week, Coach Evy had his first three units working on defense against the Indiana single wing with the unbalanced line.

But before the afternoon was over, Evy sent the Iowans on offense with Randy Duncan and Mitch Ogeigo guiding the offensive maneuvers for the top two units as Evy continued to change teams by units.

Bob Prescott, Olen Treadway, and Al Dunn capped the session by working on extra point kicking. Prescott was the most consistent of the three as he connected on seven Dunn, a third team guard, also Dun, a third team guard, also looked good as he sent five straight spinning through the uprights.

Ogeigo Ready

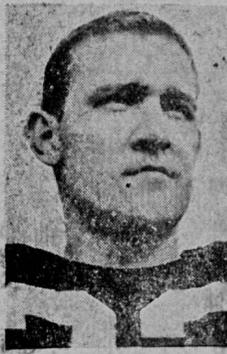

The Big Ten opener will mark the first start in college football for Lloyd Humphreys, 206 pound center, and Don Shipanik, 173 pound guard, both of whom won starting jobs after their performances in the Air Force game.

Ogeigo, who as yet hasn't seen any game action because of an ankle injury that was slow responding to treatment, will probably see plenty of action also Saturday as Coach Evy has given all indications this week that he will substitute by teams.

Indiana University's sports publicity man, Tom Miller, said in Des Moines Wednesday that Iowa's 13-13 tie with the Air Force Academy last week was the worst thing that could have happened to Indiana. Miller said he expected the Hawkeyes to pull all stops against Indiana this week "to show what happened last week was a mistake."

Everything To Gain

As a result of the Hoosiers' 13-12 victory over West Virginia last week and what he termed a "respectable" showing against Notre Dame 2 weeks ago, Miller warned, "We've already equaled last year's win record and everything from now on is just gravy." He also commented he expected Indiana to practice pass defense this week more than any other phase of play, adding that the Hoosiers are "very vulnerable" to a passing attack.

Mitch Ogeigo
Healthy Again

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Coach Phil Dickens put the Indiana Hoosiers through a 110-minute workout Thursday that included punt and kickoff returns, pass defense, recognition of Iowa plays, timing and offensive blocking.

The 38-man Hoosier travelling squad will fly from Indianapolis Friday to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where it will stay until Saturday's game with Iowa at Iowa City. The team will go to Iowa City for a short workout Friday and return to Cedar Rapids for the night.

Beecham, Boyd Scrap In Windy City Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Jimmy Beecham, a self-styled psychology student, and gangling Bobby Boyd, a bop record enthusiast, get down to their money-making business of fighting Friday night.

The middleweights tangle in a 10 rounder in Chicago Stadium. It will be televised and broadcast by NBC starting at 9 p.m. EST and will be scored under the five-point system.

Boyd, a Chicagoan, wants to climb back into the ring ratings but has had a mediocre season so far. The 24-year-old Beecham, who now lives in Miami, defeated him down there on Aug. 27 as a 4-1 underdog.

Olympic Group Junks 'Amateur Intentions' Rule

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—The International Olympic Committee Thursday dropped the controversial oath of amateur intention from the rules of future Olympic games.

The new Olympic rules, published Thursday, contained a less exacting version of the amateur oath, which every athlete has to sign before being allowed to compete. At the same time, the rules for the first time challenged the amateur status of competitors whose names or pictures appear in commercial advertising—even if the publicity is unpaid.

The previous version required athletes to pledge:

"I declare on my honor that I am and intend to remain an amateur and fulfill the conditions stipulated by the Olympic rules."

The new rules make the oath read: "I declare on my honor that I am an amateur and fulfill the conditions stipulated by the Olympic rules."

Top Big Ten Games Slated For Saturday

In the Wisconsin football camp, where the Badgers are preparing for Purdue, the emphasis Thursday was placed on pass protection and punt protection. End Dave Kocourek and Quarterback Shorty Young missed the session because of injuries, but were expected to be ready by Saturday.

Their opponent, the Boiler-makers, meanwhile worked out behind locked gates with the stress being on defense.

Over in the Illinois camp, the Illini welcomed back Jack Delveaus, a fullback who has been hobbled with an injury. The main emphasis there was on their passing game as they get ready for Ohio State.

Arnold Boosted Woody Hayes boosted the Big Ten's biggest player, Birno Arnold at 310 pounds, to the first team. For the first time this week he saw Bob White work out in pads as the Buckeyes began to taper off drills.

Thousands File Past Pope's Body

CASEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Thousands of mourners filed past the body of Pope Pius XII Thursday night in humble obeisance to the pontiff who died earlier in the day.

They packed the main square before the papal summer palace and jammed the roads leading to this small town in the Alban Hills, 15 miles southeast of Rome. Police had to stop traffic into the town early in the evening.

The body of the Pope lay in state in the palace. Friday, it will be returned to the Vatican for formal mourning and burial services.

Glass-Sided Hearse
A Vatican spokesman said the pontiff's body will be carried in a glass-sided hearse so that other thousands along the route will be able to view it on the stately procession to Vatican City.

At one time the mourners so filled the palace square it was almost impossible for a person to lift his hands from his side or to move.

The Rev. Francesco Pellegrino, director of the Vatican radio, broadcast an appeal to the throng to move slowly and carefully and avoid injury.

The gates were opened at dusk and the crowd of 15,000 men, women and children began filtering through.

The usual time for closing the palace gates is 10 p. m. and about 500 persons remained in the line then. Police allowed them past the palace gates, then swung them shut.

Inside Swiss Guards in blue, red and orange uniforms sought to channel the great throng into a narrow column going up the broad main marble stairway toward the Swiss Hall on the top floor of the 4-story building.

The embalmed body of the pontiff lay dressed in white and red on a platform covered with red silk. A film of cellophane was stretched over the body.

Body Guards
The body was guarded by noble guards of the pontifical court in 18th century uniforms.

In addition to the residents of Castel Gandolfo and the surrounding area specifically invited to file past the remains of the Pope who died in their midst, there were many persons from other parts of Italy in the throng and also some foreigners.

Many fathers carried small children on their shoulders. There were many priests and nuns. Some of the crowd carried bouquets of white flowers and wreaths of red ones. The public viewing of the body was delayed two hours because the embalming had not been completed.

The Rev. Francesco Pellegrino, director of the Vatican radio station, explained the delay to the crowd by loudspeaker, saying a careful job of embalming was necessary "because we want the body to last 100 years."

Nine Days Mourning
The body will be taken to Rome privately today at the start of nine days of mourning. It will be placed in a crypt below St. Peter's Basilica Sunday or Monday.

At the Vatican, cardinals from in and around Rome chose Benedetto Cardinal Aloisi Masella as papal chamberlain to administer church affairs until a new pope is chosen.

Cardinal Aloisi Masella, 74, is archbishop of the Basilica of St. John Lateran, which was the See of the Pope as bishop of Rome.

Msr. Alberto de Jorio, regent of the sacred college's secretariat, was named secretary of the consistory of cardinals that will elect the new pope. The cardinals must meet within 15 days to begin selection of the new pontiff. From as far away as Sydney, Australia, the cardinals — there are 55 living — began heading toward Rome.

Embalming of the Pope's frail body was directed by his private physician, Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi.

Galeazzi-Lisi had been with the Pope from the time of the first stroke Monday, through the heartening hours of the Pope's rally Tuesday, the second stroke Wednesday and the final moments when Pius was consumed by fever and racked by pneumonia.

The body, clothed in pontifical robes will be taken at 2 p. m. today to St. John Lateran.

Cardinals, high prelates of the church and other officials will gather before the basilica to receive the body.

There, one of the first official functions of the nine days of mourning — absolution — will be observed.

After that service, the Pope's body will be taken in solemn procession to St. Peter's Basilica for six days of mourning. After the Pope is buried in the basilica.

Flags Half Mast
STRASBOURG, France (AP)—The Council of Europe lowered the flags of all 15 member nations to mourn the death of Pope Pius XII.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The world mourned the death of Pope Pius XII Thursday to the somber tolling of church bells.

Men of all faiths paid tribute to the dead leader of the world's half billion Roman Catholics. Thousands in many lands went to cathedrals and churches for masses repeated every half hour.

A 9-day period of mourning was proclaimed in Catholic Spain. Similar mourning periods were decreed in several Latin America countries.

Back of the Iron Curtain, for the most part, there was only brief mention in press and radio of the passing of the outspoken enemy of world communism.

But in Communist Yugoslavia, requiem masses were ordered in all Roman Catholic churches in Belgrade. The Government radio, however, mentioned the Pope's death only briefly.

In Communist Poland, thousands of Polish Catholics prayed in the churches. Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski ordered the papal flag, draped in mourning crepe, flown from his palace in Warsaw.

In predominately Catholic Ireland, radios broadcast solemn music, and all flags flew at half staff.

Flags were lowered to half staff over all the pavilions at the World's Fair in Brussels, even the Soviet. Loudspeakers were silenced, and the tolling of the bells came clear from the pavilion of the Holy See.

The heritage of peace and good will for all mankind left by Pius XII was recounted in many expressions of sorrow at his passing.

Foreign Minister Golda Meir of Israel recalled the Pope was an outspoken foe of oppression of Jews.

A statement from the Foreign Office of Japan said the Pope had "worked earnestly on behalf of Japanese war criminals and for the prohibition of nuclear weapons."

Many in West Germany recalled how the Vatican Radio at the Pope's direction had broadcast the names of war prisoners with brief reports of their condition in the late days of World War II.

At the United Nations, various committees interrupted business to observe a minute of silence. Sec. General Dag Hammarskjold said in a message to the Vatican: "He was a fighter for peace and good will to men, whose radiant faith, overflowing warmth of heart and deep wisdom gave him a unique influence."

Harvard Scientist Says SUI Data Aids Solar Study

Thomas Gold, professor at the Harvard College observatory and specialist on the upper atmosphere said Thursday in Iowa City that the discovery of an intense belt of radiation above the earth has greatly aided scientists in the study of solar and terrestrial magnetic fields.

Gold will confer today with SU physics department. On Thursday afternoon he outlined his theories of the nature of magnetic storms at a 2-hour colloquium at the Physics Building.

The existence of a radiation band 600 miles above the earth has been confirmed from reports gathered by Explorer satellite and analyzed here at the SU physics department.

"The kinds of information gotten here," Gold said, referring to upper atmosphere research conducted by members of the SU physics department, "may provide important clues as to the nature of magnetic storms."

After Near Disaster— Iowa City Safety Record Still Tops

By BILL ANZINGER Staff Writer

Last week a 5-year-old Iowa City girl dashed into the street near her home and was struck by a car. Suffering from a skull fracture she remained in critical condition at SUI Hospital a day and a night.

It was nearly the end of Iowa City's safety record, but so much more important, it was almost the loss of a young life.

Traffic safety is a topic of special interest at the Iowa City Police Station. For over four years there have been no traffic fatalities in the city.

"The record is one of the best in the state and we want to keep it that way," says Police Chief D. A. White.

School Light Problem
One of the biggest traffic problems at the police station now is people running school stop lights. These are lights with red on top, blinking yellow in the middle and a diagonal sign reading "school crossing" below.

White explained how the lights work. When the control button is pushed by a student wishing to cross a street, the blinking yellow light turns to solid yellow and the red light switches on.

A number of people have been complaining that drivers are paying no attention to the school lights. "One man came into police station to report he saw eight cars ignore a light at the intersection of Capitol and Davenport Street, which serves Currier and Bruce Halls and University Elementary School.

At the same time the man was complaining, police were arranging a court appointment for a driver who had just been arrested for neglecting a school light.

Five September Arrests
Police records show five arrests during September for running the school lights. The penalty for this offense can be $100 fine, 30 days in jail or both.

At least one university student has been arrested on this offense. "Chief White stressed, however, that police are not picking on university students. "Students are treated just like everyone else," he said.

Police Court Judge Ansel Chapman, supporting this statement, said no note of whether an arrested person is a student is made on a ticket. Police are interested only in the name of the offender, his address, and the details of his offense.

Judge Chapman views one reason for the frequent violation of school stop lights is drivers are not aware of the lights, since they were not operating during the summer. Traffic Inspector Fred H. Lewis said the greatest number of offenders are people who are taking their children to and from school.

Frequent Violation Points
Chief White pointed out the following school stop signs which receive frequent violation.

The sign at Church and Dodge Street, serving Horace Mann Elementary School; at Second and Muscatine Avenue, serving Hoover Elementary School; at Clinton and Harrison Street, serving Henry Sa- lin Elementary School, and at New- ton and Woolf Avenue, serving Lincoln Elementary School.

High schools do not use the lights because they have safety patrol boys.

Of course police cannot watch all the signs all the time, Chief White said. "We do the best we can."

Sgt. Lewis said citizens can help by reporting offenders to police. "And everybody can help by being careful."

Plagues For Safety
Several plagues in the police station mark the Iowa City traffic record achievement, the most recent being one given by the Iowa

Motor Club Department of Public Safety

Traffic Sgt. Lewis, a friendly man with great enthusiasm in his work, has speculated on some of the reasons for the safety record.

Lewis feels the fact that many Iowa City drivers are students is one reason for the record. He believes quick drivers are more alert—quick to respond in emergency situations.

The Optimist Club and the P.T.A. Safety Committee have helped promote traffic safety, Lewis said. The P.T.A. committee studies traffic situations at school and reports findings to police. The Optimist Club shows bicycle safety films to elementary school students.

"Also," Lewis mentioned, "the high schools have programs to teach students to drive."

Safety Promotions
Lewis feels the City Commission has done a lot to promote safety. "They spend $3000 a year on traffic signs," he said, "and prohibit parking on one side of congested streets to give drivers greater visibility."

Lewis also feels the new Iowa point system has increased safety. There are 100 less traffic deaths in Iowa this year than last year at this time, he said.

Both Sgt. Lewis and Judge Chapman say one of the biggest reasons for Iowa City's record is luck.

Johnson County, by way of contrast has one of the worst traffic records in the state, Lewis said. Fifteen people have been killed this year in traffic accidents on county roads.

Most of the accidents have been on secondary roads, Lewis said. On these roads, he explained, drivers have a tendency to speed and to drive on the wrong side. Visibility is hampered by cornfields, curves and hills. Many drivers are killed because they failed to be careful at intersections, Lewis said.

Leadership Program At SUI Oct. 18

A leadership training program, for the officers of all housing, activity, honorary and church groups at SUI is planned for Saturday, Oct. 18.

Sponsored by the Student Council, the program is designed to stimulate and develop a sense of leadership among SUI students.

Campus groups have been issued invitations and any student who is, or expects to be, in a leadership position, is welcomed to attend. Bill Hensch, chairman of the program said.

Speakers for the event, which begins at 8:30 a. m. in the Iowa Memorial Union, include: Donald Johnson, assistant professor of political science; Phil Connell, assistant to the President; Hugh Kelso, associate professor of political science; Waldo Geiger, auditor for student organizations; George Stevens, assistant director of the Union; and Len Flander, president of the Student Council.

The leadership training program will attempt to show students what is expected of them as they enter positions of leadership either on campus or after graduation, Hensch said.

"We hope that camp leadership training will not end with the final session of this program, but will be supplemented by specialized training units in and among the various campus organizations," he said.

Airman Returns From 1st Space Trip In Balloon

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—The future of the Air Force's project to send manned balloons to the stratosphere may hinge on a short-ened flight just completed.

But the questions answered by Lt. Clifton McClure Wednesday during a 12-hour, 99,600-foot flight are expected to provide clues "on hundreds of questions that must be answered before man ventures further into space," the Air Force said.

In a telephone interview with Wally Mullinax, radio station WESC at Greenville, S.C., Thursday, McClure said the edge of space is like living in a "fluorescent tube."

"The sky is blacker than night sky," he told Mullinax. "It is a deep black that is indescribable, really."

President Hancher Declares— Schools Can't Set Enrollment And Meet Obligations, Too

American colleges and universities cannot limit their enrollments to the academically elite and fulfill their obligations in a democracy. President Virgil M. Hancher of SUI told members of the American Council on Education at the opening session of their 41st annual meeting Thursday in the Palmer House, Chicago.

In our democracy we must believe "not only in the individual's right to an opportunity for food and clothing and shelter and health for himself and his family, but to an opportunity for the development of his powers to their highest potential," President Hancher said.

"To deny him this opportunity is as much an assault upon his individual worth and dignity as are poverty and degradation and slavery," he continued.

GOOD STUDENTS, TOO

The strength of American education lies not only in its education of these who are brilliant by any standards, but also of those students of "good, but not first-rate, ability" who fill important but not commanding, positions in our political, social and economic life, Mr. Hancher pointed out, citing other American educators who also hold this belief.

These in the second echelon of ability "prevent a gap from existing, such as exists in England and France, between the educated elite and the indifferently educated masses," President Hancher explained. "These people, together with our own elite, make possible the complex and astonishing political, social and economic order which we have created in this country."

Some European educators are coming to appreciate this strength of American education, he noted. "We can learn from European systems, but they, too, can learn, and are learning, even more rapidly, from us," he said.

DYNAMIC, CHANGING SOCIETY

A second challenge facing today's educators is the need to prepare youth to live in a restless, dynamic and rapidly changing society, President Hancher said. Education up to 1800 was primarily concerned with preparing youth to live in the society in which their fathers and grandfathers had lived, but somewhere between 1800 and 1850 this age ended, he added.

Another challenge is posed by the very bulk of our knowledge today, he pointed out. "There was a time, perhaps two centuries ago, when a student might graduate from a school or college with the comfortable assurance that he was well educated in terms of the then available knowledge, and that he would remain so with only a modest amount of additional effort throughout this adult life," he said.

"But the 'explosion of knowledge' has brought that comfortable era to an end," he continued. Much of scientific knowledge today, for example, is not part of man's common knowledge, but is the property of specialized groups, he noted. "The result is that mathematicians no longer know the whole of mathematics and the physicists no longer know the whole of physics. . . . The increase of knowledge that we are now witnessing will continue for a long time to come, barring some major international disaster," he said.

TEACH, BASIC KNOWLEDGE

Since we cannot teach all of this knowledge, we must aim to teach enough basic knowledge to provide a foundation for student needs in the most common and generalized experiences of life, and beyond that concentrate upon those skills and experiences which will help them most to continue their education through a lifetime of adult study and education, President Hancher explained.

The student needs to be exposed in depth to at least one field, he pointed out, avoiding "our great American vice of 'water bugging'" or searching the quick and easy solution, without breaking into the depths below.

A fourth challenge to today's educators which Mr. Hancher outlined was the need to interpret to the public the values, methods, standards and practices of their profession. "In an age of science and of technical exactness with respect to material things, expositions and proof of social and cultural values and the means by which they are transmitted from generation to generation become increasingly difficult. . . . If educators truly believe that education is an essential function in a democratic society they must do more than believe, they must convince," he said.

West Ready To Propose Test Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Western powers were reported ready Thursday to propose that all nuclear tests be suspended while negotiations for a permanent ban are in progress.

Informed quarters said this was one of the provisions in a resolution which will be laid before the U.N.'s 81-nation political committee within the next 24 hours.

The resolution referred specifically to talks scheduled to begin in Geneva Oct. 31 by representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain.

"It urges the three powers to make every effort to reach agreement and to refrain from further tests while the talks are going on."

Private Corporation to Operate Alabama Schools Announced

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Formation of a private corporation to operate Alabama's schools in the event of a racial integration crisis was announced Thursday.

The plan was announced by MacDonald Gallion, Democratic nominee for attorney general.

Alabama's school placement law was upheld by U.S. District Court. It has been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court by a group of Negro parents seeking to enroll their children in Birmingham white schools.

Submarine Skipper Wants Arctic Ocean Exploited

WASHINGTON (AP)—The skipper of the submarine Skate said Thursday the United States should exploit the Arctic Ocean as one of the world's most strategically important bodies of water.

Cmdr. James F. Calvert who took the Skate across the North Pole, told a meeting of the National Security Industrial Assn., that there are many opportunities for underwater craft to surface through holes in the ice pack. He added: "This is a situation which this country . . . must exploit."

Butler Refuses to Recognize Ouster of Louisiana Party Head

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler held Thursday that Louisiana Democratic leaders, up in arms in an integration quarrel, had no right to fire their national committee man.

Butler refused to recognize the ouster vote as genuine and said he would fight it "with all of the vigor at my command."

The Democratic State Central Committee declared by vote of 60-3 Wednesday that Camille Gravel Jr. was no longer representing Louisiana on the Democratic National Committee.

Gravel is a 43-year-old Alexandria lawyer who had expressed a belief that racial segregation is morally wrong.

Ike Begins Preparations For Political Campaigning

THURMONT, Md. (AP)—President Eisenhower settled down on a mountain top in a helicopter Thursday and began a long weekend in preparation for some political campaigning.

Friends and neighbors, 11 of them, were invited to share the weekend with the President and Mrs. Eisenhower at Camp David, a rustic, luxurious retreat in the Catoctin Mountains near here.

The White House described the weekend as a sort of premature birthday celebration for Mr. Eisenhower, who will be 68 on Tuesday. He has plenty of companions on hand for golf and bridge.

Negro Teenagers Maul Several Brooklyn High School Whites

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of Negro teenagers mauled a number of white high school students on a Brooklyn elevated train Thursday in a climax to two days of racial unrest at the school. There were no injuries.

The racial conflict began Wednesday when three white boys attacked some Negro students outside Franklin K. Lane High School in Brooklyn. School authorities called the attack unprovoked and suspended two of the white boys. The third was not a student.

In all, 16 Negro youths were held by police in the attack aboard the elevated train.

28 Floats In SUI Homecoming Plans

Titles such as "I Taw I Taw a Hy-Vee Food Store; Quadrangle-Wildcat" and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" will be among those spelling out the themes of the 28 float designs which have been entered in the 1956 Homecoming Parade Oct. 24 at SUI.

Additional non-student floats may be in the final lineup for the parade, according to Joseph Meyer, associate director of Alumni Records and chairman of the parade floats sub-committee.

Constructed by student organizations and sponsored jointly by student groups and Iowa City merchants, the floats will form the nucleus of the parade, which is expected to be more than a mile-long procession of bands, antique cars, horses, and other marching units.

Prizes will be awarded in three categories—beauty, humor and originality—and a grand sweepstakes prize will be awarded to the float with the highest average scores in the three categories.

Student organizations entering floats, the titles of floats and the names of sponsors include: South Quadrangle-Grove Hall (Wardlaw House), "Educatus Est Supremus," Alpha-Illinois Gas & Electric Co., Alpha Tau Omega-Delta Zeta, "It'll Be a Hare Raising Game," "Domby and Boot Shop; Delta Gamma-Phi Gamma Delta, "Zowie! We Got The Cat's Pajamas!"; Bremers;

Dolphin Fraternity, "Spade Under Northwestern"; Iowa City Press Citizen; Phi Kappa Sigma, "Our Cats Are Tougher Than Your Cats," Iowa State Bank & Trust Co.; Town Men-Town Women, "Wildcat Lost In Forest Evashevski"; Aldens; Beta Theta Pi-Westlawn, "Don't Touch That Dial"; Towners; Sigma Alpha Epsilon-Pi Beta Phi, "Cut The Cats"; First National Bank; Alpha Kappa Psi-Phi Gamma Nu, "Herky Skins 'Em Alive";

Bunke Says Fit Budget To Own Needs

"Budgeting is a family undertaking, and should be tailored to fit individual needs," Harvey C. Bunke, associate professor of general business at SUI, said in a talk Thursday to delegates attending the third annual Credit Union Management Conference, which will close today at the Center for Continuation Study.

According to Professor Bunke, there are plenty of "sophisticated" budget plans available for anyone who wants to study them. But they aren't applicable to most families who are in need of financial guidance. Many people either cannot grasp the intricacies of the various systems, or else aren't interested in a spending outline that so rigidly controls their purse strings.

The best budgeting procedure is a simple one, according to Professor Bunke. It operates on the basis of "automatic procedure," with set payments divided into monthly allotments for such items as rent, heating, utilities. The money left after these automatic deductions constitutes a monthly "discretionary fund." This, according to Professor Bunke, is where the actual budgeting occurs, as this is money not eaten up by predetermined expenses.

Foreign Training Fellowships Offered By Ford Foundation

The Ford Foundation is offering a limited number of fellowships for the academic year 1956-57 for graduate training in the social sciences, law, and the humanities relating to Asia and the Near East, to the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, or to Africa (south of the Sahara).

These fellowships, part of the Ford Foundation's program to help meet the need in the U.S. for knowledge and understanding of foreign areas, are training fellowships intended to encourage the combination of foreign area training with training in discipline. They are not designed to support research projects of already-trained scholars.

SUI Physics Men Write 2 Articles

SUI physicists figure in articles in two science magazines this month.

Professor James A. Van Allen, head of the SUI Physics Department, and three members of his staff—George Ludwig, Ernest Ray and Carl McIlwain—are the authors of an article in Jet Propulsion, a publication of the American Rocket Society.

Its title is "High Intensity Radiation by Satellites 1958 Alpha and Gamma." The section entitled "Science and the Citizen" in the October issue of Scientific American gives information on space radiation discovered through the satellite Explorer IV, for which SUI physicists supplied space radiation detectors. Entitled "Too Hot to Travel," the discussion attributes its information to McIlwain and his associates.

SUI Geographer Writes Chapter In Conservation Book

The conflict "between unlimited human wants and the limited means of satisfying them" is a special problem of economists, writes SUI geographer Harold H. McCarty in a chapter of the recently revised book "Conservation of Natural Resources."

Professor McCarty, a native of Hiteman, and chairman of the SUI Geography Department, states that satisfying human wants while conserving natural resources involved difficult forecasting of changes in human wants and technology.

The chapter "Economics and Conservation" by Professor McCarty, is part of a book written jointly by 19 geographers, agriculturists and other conservation experts.
