Five Suspects In Bombing Of Jewish Temple Questioned

ATLANTA (AP) — Five suspects in the bombing of Atlanta's Jewish Temple were questioned Wednesday by FBI agents and officers began searching the property of known anti-Semites for evidence connected with Sunday's blast.

Detective Sgt. J. E. Helms obtained search warrants permitting officers to search three residences for explosives, tools, or other paraphernalia that might have some connection with the dynamiting of the Temple.

The five men already in custody were taken separately to FBI headquarters for new and intensive questioning.

Court Extends Temporary Private School Order

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A federal appeals court Wednesday extended again its temporary order blocking the use of Little Rock's public schools as private, segregated institutions.

The court used strong language in its formal order which was broadened to include not only the school board but all others who might try to block integration through the private school plan.

The court took several hours to prepare the order after the hearing. It used 600 or more words and set out the order had to be extended to protect what racial integration had already been accomplished in the Little Rock schools.

Shift From Manpower To Firepower On Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Gun emplacements for new U.S.-made artillery were being hewed on rocky Quemoy Wednesday, underscoring a shift in emphasis from manpower to firepower on the offshore islands.

The Nationalists heretofore have emphasized manpower on the offshore islands, stationing perhaps 100,000 troops or one third of their effective combat forces, in the Quemoy and Matsu groups.

Dag Recommends Framework For International Military

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Dag Hammarskjold recommended Wednesday that the U.N. set up the framework for an international military force that could be sent into action quickly when conflicts arise.

But the secretary general outlined only what he called general principles to govern standby arrangements for a force. He made no request for an actual standby force—as proposed by the United States and denounced by the Soviet Union.

Hammarskjold's views were contained in a 24,000 word report.

The United States said it is going over the report in detail, but that in general it welcomes the Secretary General's recommendations.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — One crewman was killed, at least six injured and six were missing Wednesday night after an explosion and fire on an oil production platform in the Gulf of Mexico about 60 miles south of New Orleans.

Six hours after the explosion which demolished the platform, at least five of the six oil wells in the cluster were missing Wednesday night after an explosion and fire on an oil production platform in the Gulf of Mexico about 60 miles south of New Orleans.

SUI Students Must Get Absentee Ballots To Vote

Students wanting to vote in the November elections must write home to their county auditor for an absentee ballot, County Auditor William L. Kanak said Wednesday.

Kanak added that they must also specify the precinct they are in at home so that the county auditor can send them the appropriate ballot.

Basilica Echoes With Languages From Over World

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The vastness of St. Peter's basilica echoed Wednesday to a babble of many languages as visitors from far corners of the world viewed the last resting place of Pope Pius XII.

While the visitors were filing through the ancient crypts under the high dome, workmen in the Vatican Palace built walls to form separate apartments for the members of the College of Cardinals who will select a new pope. They enter these apartments Oct. 25 and none can leave thereafter until a new pope is elected.

The world learned that the last public words of Pius XII were devoted to the theme of peace. The Vatican released the text of this last speech, made Oct. 5, the day before he suffered his first stroke and only four days before he died.

It was then, despite his failing health, that the pontiff received 2,000 delegates to the International Congress of Latin Notaries. He addressed them for about 20 minutes in French. He spoke about the desirability of establishing a European common market and added:

"Who does not see the prize of the contribution that you will bring this to the consolidation of this larger community and in the support of the peace desired by all good men of good will? The church, which works for the same goal, cannot but rejoice because of it."

Registration is required for towns of over 4,000 population, Kanak said. Registration deadline is Oct. 24.

All residents of Iowa City must be registered if they wish to cast a vote in November. Residents of other parts of Johnson County, including University Heights and Coralville, need not be registered but must take an oath that they are qualified voters at the polls election day.

Basic requirements for registration are U.S. citizenship, an age of 21 or more, legal residence in Iowa for six months, in Johnson county for 60 days, and in the precinct for 10 days.

Persons, once registered, who have voted at least once in a general primary, municipal or school election here in the past four years have a valid, current registration. Those who have registered once but have not voted during the past four years must register again.

Registration must be made in person at the office of the city clerk in the City Hall. Regular hours of the clerk's office are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, and 8 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Residents who have moved since last voting should file a change of address card. These change of address cards also may be obtained and are to be filed at the city clerk's office.

99,000 in Red Countries

At the organization's international convention in New York last August, a Swiss Witness, Alfred Rutimann, reported there now are 99,000 members of the organization in Iron Curtain countries.

Reds Charge Britons Push For Revolution

TOKYO (AP) — Radio Peiping said Thursday two Britons and three Chinese were arrested in Shanghai on charges of running an American counterrevolutionary organization.

The Red China broadcast said the group carried out its activities under the guise of a religious organization that it identified as Jehovah's Witnesses.

It said they distributed "reactionary literature aimed at subverting the building of socialism in China."

The Britons were identified as Stanley Ernest Jones and Harold George King. The broadcast said the Chinese were Ku Cheng-shu, Liu Wen-pin and Teng Hsing-jung, described as counterrevolutionaries.

Jones and King were in charge of the group, the radio said.

In London, the British Foreign Office said it had no report of the arrests or any idea how the two Britons came to be in Shanghai.

The broadcast said: "The reactionary organization was led by the U.S. imperialist, N. H. Knorr, and its actual responsible members in Shanghai were Stanley Ernest Jones and Harold George King, both British."

"Under the cloak of religious activities, they distributed reactionary books hostile to the Chinese people published by the U.S. imperialists and carried out counter-revolutionary activities designed to wreck China's socialist construction by preaching from house to house."

Wilson Fellowships Still Available To SUI Students

Outstanding college seniors and graduates who have not yet entered a liberal arts graduate school and are considering a career in college teaching are eligible to be nominated for Woodrow Wilson National Fellowships.

A limited number of outstanding juniors will also be named for fellowships this year on a deferred basis, according to Professor Russell G. Whitesel, one of two national coordinators of the program and regional chairman for the Midwest area. Dr. Whitesel is an associate professor of political science at SUI.

The fellowships awarded to juniors will be held for use after they complete their baccalaureate program.

Ten SUI students were named for Woodrow Wilson Fellowships last spring, and seven graduates of other colleges and universities are studying in the SUI Graduate College as Wilson Fellows this year. Of the 1,000 Wilson Fellows to be appointed across the nation for next year, some 100 will be named in the 4-state region including Iowa.

Candidates must be nominated by a college or university faculty member and then are asked to submit letters of recommendation, a transcript of academic credit and statement of purpose for graduate study. The deadline for nominations is Oct. 31. They should be sent to Dr. Whitesel at SUI for students in Iowa.

An outgrowth of a fellowship program established by Princeton University in 1945, the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation encourages promising students to enter graduate work to prepare for careers as college or university teachers in the areas of the natural and social sciences and the humanities.

Duncan, Jauch Lead Big Ten Offense Figures

Norton Leads Conference In Pass Catches

CHICAGO, Ill. — Dick Thornton, Northwestern's sophomore quarterback, posted a one-game lead in total offense for Big Ten play while Iowa countered with its one-two punch in Ray Jauch and Randy Duncan for rushing and passing leadership.

Thornton recorded 136 yards against Minnesota, 109 by passing and 27 by rushing. Duncan, completing 9 of 13 passes for an average of .692, accounted for 104 yards by passing. Jauch, with a 64-yard run to his credit, posted 108 yards by rushing.

Ohio State's great inside-outside combination, Bob White and Don Clark, also took commanding positions in individual statistics. Clark recorded 106 yards by running while White tied in scoring with Duncan and Wisconsin's Dale Hackbart at two touchdowns each.

Jim Reese of Minnesota promises to figure strongly in total offense and passing records for the season. The Gopher quarterback, hitting on eight of 17 passes, actually outdistanced other throwers with gains of 130 yards.

Iowa's Don Norton leads the conference in pass receptions with four while Hawkeye halfback Bill Gravel is second in punt returns with an average of eight yards a return.

Hawks Rank 5th In Total Offense

The Iowa Haykeys, with an average of 400 yards gained per game, rank fifth in the nation in total offense according to statistics released by the NCAA Service Bureau.

Colorado is averaging 449 yards for first place and is followed by Army, College of Pacific and Air Force. No other Big Ten teams are ranked in the first 15.

The Hawks have averaged 258 yards a game rushing for seventh place and 142 yards passing for 14th place in wins over TCU, 17-0; Indiana, 34-13; and a 13-13 tie with Air Force.

Sharm Has Problems As Iowa Begins Basketball Practice

By DICK STUART
Staff Writer

Sharm Sheurman, Iowa's new and youthful basketball coach, held opening drills Wednesday afternoon as he began preparing for the 1958-59 basketball season.

Sheurman, 24, played on the outstanding Iowa teams of 1954-56, he was named head coach last May after the death of Frank (Bucky) O'Connor. Prior to his appointment as head coach, he coached the Hawkeye freshmen.

Has Problems

Looking ahead to the 1958-59 season which opens Dec. 1 with Colorado University, Sheurman finds himself with numerous personnel problems to solve.

Toughest of these, is finding a center to build the Hawks offense around. Last season, Frank Mundt held down the center spot, but averaged only 4.4 points per game.

Mundt, a junior from Ida Grove, will again get the opening call this year, but Sheurman's plans also include 6'8 1/2" sophomore Dennis Runge, Should Mundt, also actually outdistanced other throwers with gains of 130 yards.

Sheurman hinted that the failure of both Mundt and Runge to add scoring punch, might force him to switch one of his first-string forwards, Nolden Gentry, 6'7", or Dave Gunther, 6'5" to center.

Gunther, a senior, has been Iowa's leading scorer during the past two seasons, and averaged 20.7 points per game last season.

Back board work and defense have been Gentry's strong points to date, but Sheurman also expects his scoring to improve, and take some of the pressure off Gunther. Gentry averaged 9.9 points per game as a sophomore.

If Sheurman moves either Gunther or Gentry to the troublesome center spot, Clarence Wordlaw, a 6'2" guard, will be switched to forward, and George Seaburg, a 6'3" senior forward will take Wordlaw's guard spot.

Sheurman has a wealth of talent among the reserve guards, junior Mike Heitman, 5'8", junior Bob Washington, 5'10", and senior Joe Williams, 5'10". The only big worry here is a lack of height.

Only 5 Seniors

In a squad that is composed of five seniors, seven juniors, and seven sophomores, Sheurman will draw heavily from sophomores.

Heading the list is Ron Zagar of DePeu, Ill. Only 5'10", he averaged 35 points per game as a senior. Also up from last year's crop are Bobby Waller, Mike Dull, and Bob Carpenter. The trio are all rated top offensive players. Carpenter, from Louisville, Ky., is the tallest, standing 6'2". He is also the only player on the squad who is not from Iowa or Illinois.

With only six weeks remaining before the season opener, Sheurman plans to move his squad along quickly, but during the next two weeks, conditioning drills will be emphasized.

Wilson Rebukes Hayes For 'Dirty Football' Charge

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten commissioner Wednesday rebuked Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State for his recent charges that grid officials have permitted dirty football.

Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson released a statement in which he accused Hayes of doing a "disservice to college football by his broad charges which leave the public with the impression that college football is dirty, for this is not a fact."

Earlier this week, Hayes said at a Columbus, Ohio, press luncheon that collegiate defenses "are getting away with a lot of dirty football" while game officials are "officiating the offense right out of existence."

Hayes added he was putting his complaints in a letter to Wilson. Wilson said, "I have postponed comment on Hayes' statements until I received such a letter. But it was not received. I therefore have to go on what he has said to the press. These statements have been generalizations without reference to a particular game."

"I can assume he has generalized because I saw his Illinois game of last Saturday and I observed nothing in that game which I could say supported his allegations."

Better Channels
"Coach Hayes knows full well there are better channels than public discussion for disposing of any questions he may wish to raise regarding officiating or player conduct. He also knows full well that we do not condone dirty play as having a place in college football."

"And he knows very well that we do not permit our officials to tolerate it. I do not believe his generalizations are well founded. We have not received comment from other coaches or observers that would confirm them."

"He has done a disservice to college football by his broad charges which leave the public with an impression that college football is dirty, for this is not a fact."

Wilson said he could only reprimand Hayes because the Big Ten code does not allow for any more formal punishment, such as a fine or any other more stringent censure in such a case.

Elmer Angry
"Ray Eliot of Illinois was incensed that Hayes complained that too much hitting was permitted in last Saturday's game in Champaign. OSU won 19-13."

Eliot said he was "surprised and shocked to read of the insinuation that Illinois plays anything but a clean and fine game." He added: "Anyone who has the audacity or temerity to infer that Illinois players playing anything but clean football throughout the game (with Ohio State) must be a man who is out of his mind or likes to hear himself talk."

Iowa Works On Defense In Workout

Coach Forest Evashevski put his Iowa Hawkeyes through extended defensive drills Wednesday in preparation for Iowa's first road game at Wisconsin Saturday.

With the reserves running Badger plays, the first and second units spent considerable time on the defense and switched to the offensive portion of their game only after the practice field lights had been turned on.

Bob Jeter was back in action after missing the Indiana game with a knee injury, but on the second team behind Kevin Furlong while Jeff Langston replaced the injured Al Miller at left end with the No. 2 unit and John Brown and Gene Mosley alternated at the second team fullback spot in place of injured Capt. John Nocera.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Coach Mill Bruhn of Wisconsin stressed pass defense as he ran his football squad through a light workout Wednesday.

The squad worked against freshmen using Iowa formations. A number of other items, such as blocking kicks, also occupied the Badgers.

Ends Jim Holmes and Dave Kocourek and tackle Dan Lanphear reported for practice but were not running at full speed. Holmes is the only one likely to miss Saturday's game with the Hawkeyes.

Colavito, Banks Slugging Champs For 1958 Season

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocky Colavito, more renowned for his strong arm than for heavy hitting with the Cleveland Indians, took aim for the fences in 1958 and wound up with the American League slugging crown.

The righthanded swinging outfielder slugged .620, accumulating 303 total bases in 489 at bats. His 148 hits included 26 doubles, 3 triples and 41 homers.

Statistics compiled by the Associated Press also show that Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs produced the highest slugging average in the National League, .616.

The 25-year-old Colavito was runnerup in both the home runs and runs batted in departments. In 1957 he finished in an eighth-place tie in the slugging listings. Banks became the first Cub player to win the slugging title since Hack Wilson in 1930. In his fifth season with Chicago, the 27-year-old shortstop also led the National League in homers and RBIs.

A right handed batter, Banks amassed 380 total bases in 617 trips and collected 193 hits. His extra-base output showed 24 doubles, 11 three-baggers and 47 homers.

He placed fifth among the slugging leaders in 1957. Slugging averages are computed by adding the total bases on all hits (one for a single, two for a double, etc.) and dividing the aggregate by the number of official times at bat.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees trailed Colavito with a .592 mark on 307 total bases in 519 at bats. Mantle, whose 42 homers topped the league, also delivered 21 doubles and one triple among his 158 hits. The switch-hitting outfielder was the slugging leader in 1955 and 1956.

Cerv Third
Kansas City's Bob Cerv ranked third at .590, followed by Ted Williams of Boston with .584. Williams finished first in slugging in 1957 with .731. Washington's Roy Sievers rounded out the top five with .544.

Willie Mays of San Francisco was second to Banks with a .583 average. The Giants' flashy outfielder, a 3-time leader whose .626 average was high in 1957, compiled 350 total bases in 600 official appearances. Of his 208 hits, 33 were doubles, 11 triples and 29 home runs.

Milwaukee's Hank Aaron was third with .546. Then came Stan Musial of St. Louis at .528 and Frank Thomas of Pittsburgh at .527.

Casey Signs For 2 Years With Yanks

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Dillon (Casey) Stengel, who failed to win the pennant in only one of his 10 years as an American League manager, will pilot the World Champion New York Yankees at least for another two years.

The 68-year-old strategist quieted all rumors of retirement Wednesday when he signed his sixth 2-year contract calling for an estimated $80,000 annual salary. He reportedly earned $70,000 in 1957 and 1958.

The re-signing of Stengel was announced at a mammoth press conference by co-owner Dan Topping and General Manager George Weiss in plush surroundings replete with television and newsreel cameras. The grizzled pilot, wearing a natty brown suit and tie to match, appeared none the worse for wear following the grueling World Series victory in which the Yankees had to overcome a 3 to 1 deficit to defeat the Milwaukee Braves in seven games.

"I am very happy with my new contract," he said. "I'm not concerned with the money end of it, however. I'm pleased that the management and Weiss wanted me back. I had no thought of retiring at any time this year."

You have your breakfast, you walk your ocelot, you go to classes, you write home for money, you burn the dean in effigy, you watch Disneyland, and you go to bed. And do you give one little thought to the fact that October 12 is Columbus Day? No, you do not.

Nobody thinks about Columbus these days. Let us, therefore, pause for a moment and retell his ever-glorious, endlessly stirring saga.

Christopher Columbus was born in Genoa on August 25, 1451. His father, Ralph T. Columbus, was in the three-minute auto wash game. His mother, Eleanor (Swiftly) Columbus, was a sprinter. Christopher was an only child, except for his four brothers and eight sisters. With his father busy all day at the auto wash and his mother constantly away at track meets, young Columbus was left pretty much to his own devices. However, the lad did not sulk or brood. He was an avid reader and spent all his waking hours immersed in a book. Unfortunately, there was only one book in Genoa at the time—Care of the Horse by Aristotle—and after several years of reading Care of the Horse, Columbus grew restless. So when rumor reached him that there was another book in Barcelona, off he ran as fast as his fat little legs would carry him.

The rumor, alas, proved false. The only book in Barcelona was Cuidar un Caballo by Aristotle, which proved to be nothing more than a Spanish translation of Care of the Horse.

Bitterly disappointed, Columbus began to dream of going to India where, according to legend, there were thousands of books. But the only way to go to India was on horseback, and after so many years of reading Care of the Horse, Columbus never wanted to clap eyes on a horse again. Then a new thought struck him: perhaps it was possible to get to India by sea!

Fired with his revolutionary new idea, Columbus raced to the court of Ferdinand and Isabella on his little fat legs (Columbus was plagued with little fat legs all his life) and pleaded his case with such fervor that the rulers were persuaded.

On October 12, 1492, Columbus set foot on the New World. The following year he returned to Spain with a cargo of wonders never before seen in Europe—spices and metals and plants and flowers and—most wondrous of all—tobacco! Oh, what a sensation tobacco caused in Europe! The filter had long since been invented (by Aristotle, curiously enough) but nobody knew what to do with it. Now Columbus, the Great Discoverer, made still another great discovery: he took a filter, put tobacco in front of it, and invented the world's first filter cigarette!

Through the centuries filters have been steadily improved and so has tobacco, until today we have achieved the ultimate in the filter cigarette—Marlboro, of course! Oh, what a piece of work is Marlboro! Great tobacco, great filter, great smoke! And so, good friends, when next you enjoy a fine Marlboro Cigarette, give a thought to the plucky Genoese, Christopher Columbus, whose vision and perseverance made the whole lovely thing possible.

And thank Columbus too for Philip Morris Cigarettes, for those who want the best in non-filter smoking, Philip Morris joins Marlboro in bringing you these columns throughout the school year.

Bach Writes Of Trip—

'If There Is A God, We Young Russians Will Find It'

By STAN HANSEN
Staff Writer

"If there is a God, we young Russians will find it." A young geophysicist who had just received a Government award for research in his field made this comment to Marcus Bach, adjunct professor in the School of Religion, during his tour of Russia in the summer of 1957. In discussing "God and the Soviets" his recently published book based upon his trip, Bach said that although 90 per cent of the students he talked to had never been inside a church, this didn't indicate they were devoid of spiritual consciousness. "God and the Soviets" is Bach's ninth book, and is now on sale in Iowa City. Bach is on leave from the School of Religion this semester, but will begin teaching again second semester.

"I think they are looking for God," he said, "or trying to come to terms with the unknown through education and science outside of the church. I think their approach is humanistic, not atheistic." "Although the youth have been suckled on an atheistic ideology," Bach said, "they have a moral code which they take seriously. Many seem out to prove that it is possible to be good without God." "Russian youth is suspicious of our profession of religion because of the reports of immorality, racism, materialism, and crime statistics. They want to know where our religion fits into this pattern." Bach said that he heard this comment many times: "We don't envy your material possessions or your high-powered cars because we have an ideal." When asked what their ideal was, they replied: "We want to build a better Russia." Bach made the trip to Russia to do research on his belief that the spiritual quest of man is universal. "The Russians are no exception," he said, "old people are moving back to the church and young people are asking earnest questions." "The only avowed atheists in Russia are members of the Communist party, which totals 6 million. There are 360 million people in Russia." Soviet leaders are taking a passive stand toward religion, Bach said. "They realize that all organized efforts against religions have failed in the past. They are trying to substitute education in its place. I think their schools are their temples." Bach said that religion will probably have a weakening effect on communism. "People have more freedom now than they did under Stalin, and as liberation of the mind becomes more apparent they are going to become more spiritually minded." "This is the problem communism has to face: in order to compete with the free world it will have to become freer, and as it becomes freer, it will become more religious and will have to grant more concessions." Bach said that he thought the conviction and hope of youth is that the leaders will reflect the wishes of the people. "I don't think there will be a revolution," he said, "because people are better off now than ever before."

Kullboms Give Award Honoring Son

Lanny Kullbom couldn't return to SUI this fall. But a student from Lanny's hometown, Atlantic, enrolled at SUI with aid from a fund set up by Lanny's parents as a memorial to their son, who died in a June 26 automobile accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Kullbom of Atlantic gave the $230 Lanny Kullbom Memorial Award this semester to Maynard Paul, who attended high school with Lanny in Atlantic. Lanny was killed near Aspen Lodge in Estes Park, Colo., where he was employed during the summer.

A 1956 graduate of Atlantic High School, Lanny was a member of the Trojans, the Atlantic High School basketball team, and sang in the high school choir. Lanny entered SUI in February, 1958, transferring from Iowa State College at Ames. He is survived by his parents and two sisters, Marcia and Connie, both living at home.

Old Gold Singers Will Make First Off-Campus Appearance

A colorful SUI singing troupe will make its first off-campus appearance of 1958-59 in Des Moines Sunday at 8 p.m. The Old Gold Singers, 22 SUI students chosen on the basis of voice, personality and appearances, will present a 45-minute program at the Iowa Bankers Association State Convention in Hotel Fort Des Moines. The Old Gold Singers are sponsored by the SUI Alumni Association and the SUI Music Department. Their director is Gerald Lawson, choral music instructor at University High School and a candidate for Ph. D. in music education at SUI.

The troupe gained popularity rapidly after its first appearance last February. The 10 coeds and 12 men present a program of light entertainment, including show tunes, a medley of Iowa school songs and novelty numbers. The colorful singers, with men in tuxedos and coeds in contrasting gold-colored dresses, represent SUI in off-campus activities. The group last spring made 17 appearances, and will be available this year for performances throughout Iowa.

Accompanist for the Old Gold Singers is Marcia Fennema, Mount Airy sophomore. The singers will perform at the Iowa City Masonic Banquet Oct. 30.

County Officers Get New Uniforms
 BURLINGTON — Des Moines County sheriff's officers were all decked out Wednesday in snappy new uniforms.
 The uniforms are forest brown in color with Eisenhower jackets, Sam Brown belts, Stetson-type hat and 7-pointed star.
 The uniforms were ordered as a result of a court case that was dismissed because a deputy was not in uniform, and after another uniformed deputy was mistaken for a bandit at a roadblock set up after a holdup.

Ambrose Defers Dorm Bid Letting

DAVENPORT — The St. Ambrose College board of directors deferred action Wednesday on two low bids for general construction work on a new dormitory.
 Because of the closeness of the bids, the board decided to hold up a decision pending contact with the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.
 College officials opened the bids Tuesday night and found there was only $675 difference in the bids. The Schaeffer firm bid $589,450, and the Carlson company $590,125.

Many Turned Away—The Willsons Sparkled

By TOM BORROWS Staff Writer
 Meredith and Rini Willson sparkled through one and a half hours of "Speak and Sing" before a delighted SUI audience, Wednesday night.
 Many were turned away from the sell-out performance, the second of the University Lecture Series, which was held at the Iowa Memorial Union.
 Willson began his "Speak and Sing" as he called it because as he put it, "I couldn't think of anything else to call it" by giving a humorous account of his early years in Mason City, Iowa, and later in New York with the John Phillip Sousa Band and the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra.
 He seemed to have no trouble at all winning his audience with his easy going "Iowa Boy" dialogue of his life, telling such stories as his explanation of how he first began playing the flute.
 "The music instructor, who was also a billiard hall operator, needed a flute player to fill out the town band. He decided I was to be the flute player."
 He went on to tell then, that he had two disappointments when he began to play the flute. The first was that it didn't hang down like he thought it would (like a clarinet or saxophone) and secondly, there was no place holder to put the music when he marched in a parade.
 At this point in the program Willson produced his old flute and played a short selection for the audience to, as he said, "Prove I can still do it."
 After finishing with his account of his early career, which he said he began by singing in Sunday School, Willson's wife, Rini, came on to the stage to help him begin the "Sing" part of the program.
 First of the tunes to float from the piano, that Willson played while his wife sang, was "The Iowa Fight Song," which Willson wrote for SUI in 1952. The crowd couldn't resist joining into the singing and for a while the auditorium was turned into the likes of a cheering pep rally. A tremendous ovation by the audience seemed to thank the noted song writer for giving one of his famous songs to SUI.
 Then came the songs and story of "Music Man," Willson's hit Broadway musical show. Willson first explained that the story of the musical was from the mythical Iowa city called River City back in 1912. He left no doubt that the background and setting came from his own youth back in Mason City.
 With only his wife's help he proceeded to go through the show singing many of the show's hit tunes such as "Trouble," "Seventy Six Trombones," "Goodnight Ladies," "Marian the Librarian," and bits of others.
 Mrs. Willson drew the spot light in the program when she sang such songs as "Goodnight My Someone," "My White Knight," and "Will I Ever Tell You."
 The crowd would not let the Willsons leave the platform until two encores were given. The final one being a beautiful rendition of Willson's own "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You."
 Willson told the audience that this was his first visit to Iowa City.

1 Change In Traffic Court Okay

Two of the three amendments dealing with the simplification of the method of appointing members to the newly organized traffic court were defeated at the Student Council meeting Wednesday night.
 The amendment was passed that allows the court to amend court articles unless vetoed by a two-thirds majority of the Student Council.
 The other two amendments, to eliminate the need for the court to have a reason for each decision, to give the Student Council president power to nominate members, regardless of residence, were strongly defeated.
 Len Flander, Student Council president, said after the meeting Wednesday that although he was disappointed that all the amendments had not passed, he was glad that the Council members had done some individual thinking about the amendments and had expressed a great interest.
 A final vote on a constitutional amendment to include representation from Burge Hall on the Council was approved.
 In other business at the Council meeting, a printed suggestion was presented asking that the Student Council include a referendum for abolishment of student government at the next regular campus election.
 The suggestion was tabled for further investigation and discussion.

To End Conflict Lebanon Forms Coalition Cabinet

BEIRUT — A coalition cabinet for Lebanon was agreed on Wednesday. Parliament is expected to give it a clear vote of confidence Friday morning and it may be the end of the 5-month civil conflict.
 The compromise agreement, continuing Moslem Premier Rashid Karami in that post and naming a Christian Phalange leader vice premier, was hailed widely by Lebanese politicians and the press.
 Only the extreme right-wing Social Nationalist party announced opposition. The party has only one deputy in the 66-man Parliament.
 The night curfew remained in force but Karami said he hoped to lift it soon. He put police patrols on the streets to hurry the peace-making process as dissidents began tearing down their barricades and shops reopened.
 All antigovernment strikes were called off.
 The Christian President, Fuad Chehab decreed an extraordinary session of Parliament beginning Wednesday and extending through Oct. 20. Speaker Adel Osseran set the confidence vote for Friday morning.
 New hopes for peace ran high. There was still some question whether the 5,700 U.S. troops remaining in Lebanon can be removed by the Oct. 31 date it has been promised they will leave. Departures have reportedly shrunk to a trickle.

Denies Social Industry Clear Alternative

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower all but disowned Wednesday an official Republican campaign statement that nationalization and socialization of industry "are the clear alternatives to a Republican Congress."
 The President said he didn't recall that language and in any event the statement wasn't his, although it did grow out of a White House strategy meeting.
 Mr. Eisenhower also sidestepped at a news conference an opportunity to join other Republicans in calling Democrats critical of his Far East policy appeasers.
 "Foreign policy," the President said, "ought to be kept out of partisan debate."
 In about the nicest thing he has said about Harry S. Truman in years, Mr. Eisenhower said he notices that "one of our most prominent members of the other party is a man who happened to have borne the responsibility of the presidency and he takes exactly the stand that I am just now expressing."
 In reply to a series of foreign policy questions apart from politics, Mr. Eisenhower put his complete support behind Secretary of State Dulles' position that the United States is not going to try to compel Nationalist China to reduce troop strength on the Quemoy and Matsu islands.
 He noted that Dulles had told a news conference Tuesday that this Government believes the Nationalists put too many troops in the islands an "it wasn't, to our way of thinking, logical."
 "But he said also," Mr. Eisenhower added, "we are not going to coerce or try to coerce an ally about something in which they believe their very existence depends."
 The President was pretty placid in discussing foreign policy. But he spoke out in angry tones once more against the bombing of Jewish temples and community centers in the South and Midwest.

 Picking up a newsman's remark that some of the violence has been attributed to persons who describe themselves as a Confederate underground, Mr. Eisenhower started in. His temper and voice rose at every word:
