Near 50,000
Now; Frosh
Total 13,753

Last Year's Rise Was
2.3 Per Cent

A total of 49,648 students—almost 2,500 more than last year—are enrolled in Iowa colleges and universities this fall, the Association of Iowa College Presidents announced Thursday.

The 1958 enrollment is 5.3 per cent higher than the 1957 total enrollment of 47,137, a gain almost twice as high as the 2.3 per cent by which 1957 enrollments increased over those of 1956. Of the total enrollment, 13,753 students are new freshmen, an increase of 6.1 per cent over 1957's new students, according to a report prepared for the AICP by SUI Registrar Ted McCarrel.

Compared to the 1954 total of 37,787 students, Iowa college enrollment has risen by 31 per cent in the past four years.

Junior College Increase

In enrolling 2,913 students this year compared to 2,560 in 1957, Iowa's public junior colleges showed the largest percentage increase in enrollment, 13.8. Private junior colleges enrolled 1,548 students this year compared to the 1,390 last year, for an 11.4 per cent increase. Private 4-year colleges and universities gained 8.9 per cent (from 19,665 students to 21,420), and state institutions gained .9 per cent (from 23,290 students to 23,502). Professional and technical enrollment (Des Moines Still College of Osteopathy and Surgery) gained 6.4 per cent.

Of the total enrollments, 47.3 per cent of all students are in Iowa's three state institutions of higher education; 43.2 per cent are in private 4-year colleges and universities; 5.9 per cent are in public junior colleges; 3.1 per cent are in private junior colleges, and .5 per cent are in the Des Moines Still College of Osteopathy and Surgery.

Predicts Phenomenal Rise

University of Dubuque President Gaylord M. Couchman, 1958-59 president of the Association of College Presidents, in commenting on the report, said Thursday, "One thing seems clear. With the total number of high school graduates at a relatively low figure, the enrollment in Iowa colleges and universities continues its steady rise. Very soon the percentage of enrollment increase will rise phenomenally and the situation confronting the citizens of Iowa will become critical."

President Couchman continued, "Almost immediately SUI, Iowa State College and Iowa State Teachers College will be asked to assume responsibility for greatly increased numbers of students. It is incumbent upon the citizens of Iowa, through the Legislature, to provide these institutions with the financial resources for that quality in higher education of which Iowans may be proud."

Cheers 'Our Side' In Foreign Policy Political Battle

Letter To The Editor—

Wisconsin Welcomes SUI Students

To The Editor:

We at the University of Wisconsin extend a cordial invitation to all students from the University of Iowa who will be in Madison this weekend. The Union is the "living room" of the campus, where you will get to meet many Wisconsin students . . . in such places as our famed Rathskellar and during the many activities that have been planned.

The events for the weekend are as follows:

Friday: Movie Time "Trial" Union Play Circle; 9 p.m. Danskeller-Dance in Wisconsin Union Rathskellar.

Saturday: 10 a.m. Cross Country Track Meet—Wisconsin vs. Iowa at the Intermural Fields; 1:30 p.m. FOOTBALL Wisconsin vs. Iowa-Camp Randall Stadium; 9 p.m. Union Haresfoot Follies presents an after-the-game dance in the Wisconsin Union Great Hall—open to all.

Other things you may enjoy in our Wisconsin Union are: Cafeteria—Overlooking beautiful Lake Mendota, Bowling, Ping Pong, Billiards, and Art Exhibit.

There will also be a special football luncheon served at the Breeze Terrace Cafeteria which is only three minutes walk north of Camp Randall Stadium on University Avenue. The luncheon is $1.25 and will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. featuring excellent food prepared in our Union kitchens.

We hope you enjoy your stay at the University of Wisconsin and we are looking forward to seeing you.

Sincerely,
Shelly Friedstein
Public Relations Committee

Send-Off At Airport Today

A car caravan to carry students to the first football team send-off of the season will leave from the Old Armory at 2:45 p.m. today. Cars will circle the campus to pick up interested students and take them to the Iowa City airport.

The pep band and cheerleaders will be there to lead the cheering.

The Iowa Hawkeyes leave at 3:30 p.m. for Madison, Wis., for their second Big Ten game with the Badgers.

The Scottish Highlanders will travel to Madison, Wis., Saturday for pre-game and half-time performances at the Iowa-Wisconsin football game. The game and the Highlanders will be televised regionally on NBC at 1:30 p.m.

Students attending the Iowa-Wisconsin football game Saturday must have matching numbers on their I.D.'s and on their tickets at the SUI Ticket Office said Wednesday.

This rule does not apply to home football games where admission will be granted on presentation of any student football ticket and proper student identification. In which the governor was to appear.

Under questioning by State Sen. Thomas Dailey (D-Burlington), Schumacher said he had been "discharged" from the equipment firm, although he was listed without his knowledge as a vice president when the firm first was set up.

Schumacher was quoted as saying he called Loveless in Des Moines several times in May and was promised the money but he never received it.

improvements or even attempt to get plans started for their erection at a later date.

He went on to explain that only by raising the state sales tax to three per cent, would the state be able to have a large enough tax revenue to support the high standards that Iowa schools should have.

Supports Reapportioning

Murray also stated that he wanted it understood that he was whole heartedly behind state reappointment. He said that while this was unpopular with some Iowa farmers, it was something that must be done, and soon.

He explained that this was a problem of the legislature, but that a Republican governor could lead the legislature and public opinion to make reappointment a reality. He said that a Democratic governor would not be able to get reapportionment laws passed.

In his opening remarks, Murray told the group that he had taken to politics like a duck to water.

He said that by getting into politics, he was able to make the whole state his class room.

Before the primary election he visited all 99 Iowa counties and he said he had re-visited 95 since then.

He plans to spend the next three weeks before the election visiting the most populous cities in the legislature to vote funds for the state aid to education.

There would have been enough money in the surplus fund to build the $16 million worth of capital improvements which the Governor vetoed, Murray said, but his worst mistake was that he did not call a special session of the legislature to vote funds for the state aid to education.

Campaign Cash Used To Pay Loveless' Debt

Iowa Investigators Hear Testimony

DES MOINES (AP)—Some $3,000 was taken from a campaign fund for Gov. Herschel Loveless in 1957 and 1958 to pay some business debts of the governor, the Iowa Legislative Investigating Committee was told Thursday.

Former Democratic State Chairman Jake More said $500 of the money went to Leo J. Schumacher of Washington, Iowa. He said the other $2,500 went to another man whom he did not name.

All the payments were made after Loveless was elected governor in 1956 and had no bearing on the election that year, More said.

Both Schumacher and the other person involved, More explained, contend Loveless owed them commissions on sales they made for the General Equipment Corp., a firm dealing in parking meters and other municipal supplies.

He said Loveless denied owing the amounts the two men specified. But More said he authorized payment out of the campaign fund of part of the amount because he said it was "worth it to avoid law suits."

Asked if the payments had been reported as part of the party's 1956 campaign expense, More said they were not, since they weren't made until the 1956 campaign was over. He said he regarded them as expenses of the 1958 campaign.

Under questioning by State Sen. Thomas Dailey (D-Burlington), Schumacher said he had been "discharged" from the equipment firm, although he was listed without his knowledge as a vice president when the firm first was set up.

Ruth Brenner 'Miss Profile'

Ruth Ann Brenner, A1, Marshalltown came through with flying colors Thursday night and was elected Miss Perfect Profile of 1958.

Miss Brenner modeled a fire red coat with a large raccoon collar over a dark sheath dress. Smooth leather pumps completed her outfit.

Judges were Miss Barbara Bloom, assistant Midwest editor of Mademoiselle Magazine; Max Kocker of Davenport; Miss Betty Broyles, women's editor of the Cedar Rapids Gazette; and Miss Mabel Kruse, from Armstrong's Department Store in Cedar Rapids.

Miss Bloom was the coordinator of the show and also coached the girls on how to model their outfits. Moderator of the show was Marjorie Ladd, A3, Iowa City.

Intermission entertainment included skits by seven sorority groups and a medley of songs by the Old Gold Singers.

Decorations complemented the "Skirts Ahoy" theme with pennants and a large steamboat on the modeling platform.

Anne Stephenson, A1, Oskaloosa, received third place. She was dressed in a orange and brown plaid sheath with long sleeves and a round neck. Her waist was cinched with a very wide belt with a large gold buckle. Brown shoes completed her outfit. She also is a pledge of Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority.

The three girls were chosen from the 12 finalists who modeled along with 81 other semi-finalists in the annual style show.

The other finalists and their clothing categories were: Donna Arp, A1, Walcott, and Joan Sheagren, A1, Rockford, Ill., sports wear; Cynthia Stage, A1, Davenport, campuswear; Mary Caldwell, A1, Iowa City, and Susan Shriner,

Sen. Kennedy To Tour Site, Talk At Dinner

Mamie Will Also Be At Iowa Stop

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower gave a cheer for "our side" Thursday in the political battle over foreign policy.

On the eve of taking off for Cedar Rapids campaigning, Mr. Eisenhower lined up firmly behind Vice President Nixon in Nixon's hammering back at Democrats who criticize the Administration's day-to-day handling of foreign affairs.

The chief executive's stand was set forth in a telegram to Nixon, now on a West Coast speaking trip. It apparently was designed in part at least to smooth over an apparent disagreement between the vice president and Secretary of State Dulles in a mixup involving the President himself.

Mr. Eisenhower wired Nixon in Los Angeles before taking off Friday on a coast-to-coast speaking tour of his own on behalf of Republican candidates in the Nov. 4 congressional election.

Fundamental Agreement

Asserting that with rare exceptions this country's major foreign policies find both parties in fundamental agreement, Mr. Eisenhower told Nixon that time and again there is disagreement on whether agreed-upon policies are being carried out.

Mr. Eisenhower asserted that Democratic challenges of Republican policy "need to be answered whenever they occur."

He said criticisms from the Democratic side have involved the Middle East and the Far East, and he went on to say that U.S. actions in these regions "should be supported by our side."

"No one can do this more effectively than you," Mr. Eisenhower told Nixon.

President Proper

Nixon followed through with a statement that it was proper for the President to avoid such controversy, since it is his job to mobilize the nation. He said he himself would continue to reply to Democratic attacks. He added the GOP faces sure defeat if it fails to hit back at the Democrats' criticisms.

Dulles at one point appeared to be trying to put a damper on the hard-campaigning Nixon by saying both parties should calm down and avoid public debate of foreign policy.

But the secretary of state later issued a statement saying there was no objection to Nixon's replying to Democratic blasts at the Eisenhower-Dulles foreign policy.

'You Belong Way Over To My Left!'

It's Save The Horse Week —

Paleolithic Man Ate Them

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON — This is national Save the Horse Week, and just in time, too. Old Equus Caballus, as the scientists have nicknamed him, is having rocky going. Statistics tell the dreary story.

In 1955, there were 26 million horses on U.S. farms, chomping away in a fool's paradise and never suspecting that they had reached their numerical peak.

Anyone who might have said, "Watch out for Detroit," to even the smartest beast of that day undoubtedly would have gotten the horse laugh. Whoever heard of a world in which horses weren't essential to man.

Yet within 30 years the horse population had been cut to 12 million and the worst was ahead. Every year since 1945 has seen another decline, with last year's estimate put at 3,558,000.

Here, alas, the statistics give no breakdown. There's no way to tell how many of these are mules and how many are horses reduced to the monotony of chasing up and down canyons for television westerns.

Save the Horse Week is sponsored by The Denver Post in an effort "to honor horses and mules for what they have meant to this country and the world."

So with this high purpose in mind let's run through a few notes:

The Spaniards fetched horses to the New World and instantly realized what a tremendous advantage this gave them over the Indians. They aimed to keep it, too. One of their early ordinances read: no Indian shall ride a horse.

The Spaniards were right in their concern over what might happen once the Indians were horses. Historically speaking, the Indians weren't riders for long, but they became superb horsemen. Plains Indians had herds running into the thousands.

Abraham Lincoln had several pictures taken on horseback, and he always looked ridiculous, possibly because he had on that stovepipe hat. But it's hard to imagine old Abe in a jockey cap, even during Save the Horse Week.

Mr. Eisenhower hasn't much time to worry about Montgomery.

Montgomery's Memoirs Renew Old Controversy

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

"No one who studies war can fail to be impressed by the admirable and the adaptiveness of commanders and their troops to the swiftly speed and flexibility of the American Armies and groups of Armies, changing conditions of modern battles on the greatest scale."

That's what Winston Churchill wrote to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower on March 9, 1945, after the Allied sweep across the Rhine.

"I am glad the British and Canadian armies in the north should have played a part in your far-reaching and triumphant combinations," he added.

Churchill also has said, however, that prior to this time the efforts of Gen. (now Field Marshall Viscount) Montgomery to promote a single unified northern thrust into Germany, under his command, fully represented British policy.

Montgomery now says that Mr. Eisenhower's refusal to listen to him prolonged the war for several months.

The old controversy has been renewed by publication of Montgomery's memoirs. Always known as a curmudgeon, the hero of Alamein maintains the reputation with his favor. He's still willing to argue with a winner.

As Montgomery tells it, he was once so anxious to take over Bradley's armies—he had already taken over Simpson's—that he suggested that Mr. Eisenhower come to see him about it. He said he was too busy on the Low Countries front to go to headquarters.

That is typical of the intensity with which Montgomery carried on his campaign, repeatedly apparent in the memoranda he sent the supreme commander.

He lost the argument. Mr. Eisenhower stuck to his original plan for advancing into Germany on a broad front, not bypassing any important German forces, regardless of the vast supply difficulties.

Montgomery makes a plausible case. It is obvious he had Churchill behind him, though the Prime Minister shelved all recriminations after ultimate success.

There is another factor, however. Throwing everything into a north German thrust would have weakened seriously the middle of the line. A calculated risk was taken on the Ardennes front to bolster other areas. The Germans capitalized on it with a frightening bid for Antwerp, key to Allied supply.

If the weakness had been just a little greater because of even heavier concentrations farther north, the Ardennes might have become a disaster instead of a bad nightmare.

During the period under discussion the Germans and the Allies had 82 divisions each operating in the West.

Mr. Eisenhower's only reply to Montgomery is that Europe was cleared of this German force 11 months after the Normandy landings. He seems to think that was pretty good.

Mr. Eisenhower and De Gaulle are the only big-time war leaders now active in world affairs. To them, war must seem a simple affair as compared with their current problems, and 14 years is a long time ago.

Mr. Eisenhower hasn't much time to worry about Montgomery.

Educators Are Ignoring U.S. Woman Power

Editor's note: To equip women for modern life, educators will have to change some old conception, says the National Manpower Council. SUI's coeds and working wives of students will be vitally interested in this last of three articles based on the Council's report, "Work in the Lives of Married Women."

Concerned With Youth

Almost everyone in guidance and education is still concerned with youth up until 22 and not in the least with women over 30, she adds. But this is not confined to educators—young women themselves are "utterly foggy and very vague" about what their lives will be like after the immediate period when they will marry and have children.

Solution to the education problem lies in more adult education facilities, more graduate work, more follow-up studies, more extension education.

The educational movement extends into other than professional areas. Women in one New York City suburb are studying with the idea of sharpening their skills to take jobs. Miss Lloyd-Jones calls television a "sleeping giant" in terms of its educational possibilities along these lines. She suggests that community resources be used in such projects and that labor unions and industries themselves provide training programs for their own workers.

Need Womenpower

"We can expect a gross national product, in terms of today's dollars of $560 billion in 1965," predicts Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell, "opposed to today's $413 billion, with an increase of only 10 million people in the work force. "But in order to achieve that increase, the productivity of the work force will have to be greater. This will depend not only on mechanization and automation but also on a high level of skill for the population as a whole, and a wiser use of all our manpower resources.

"And this last, of course, means a wiser and better use of our womanpower."

Robert Frost

"That's what I mean. Madness comes first."

At Age Of 84, Frost Is Frisky As A Sophomore

By ARTHUR EDSON

"That's what I mean," I said. "Madness comes first."

On rewarding a fine athlete. While he was teaching at Amherst, some hero, as Frost recalls it, "stood out in the snow and kicked five goals against Williams. Something like that. On that account, I let him into my class in advanced writing. How did he do? He did as well as anybody else."

On what happened to the fine athlete later—"This man came up to me and said, 'I'm Zink.'" Typically, Zink never got any further identification. "He's something way up in the A. and P. He liked a poetic story of mine."

From A To P

"I had to baby sit with my grandchildren. First I had to keep one from drowning in the Atlantic, and then a little later I had to keep one from drowning in the Pacific. I bottled a little of each and took it home. Now I call it and A. and P. farm."

On President Eisenhower's taste in White House painting—"You'll never guess the subject of his favorite, William Howard Taft."

On finding the right spot to write poetry—"I was only in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., once. I had to spend the night there, and I wrote a poem. I think of Wilkes-Barre when I read it. Last place in the world you'd think of — Wilkes-Barre."

On over-stressing reason—"I was arguing with a friend. Reason comes first," he said, "imagination second. 'Oh, no,' I said, 'Imagination comes first.' Well, I'm mad about reasoning," he said.

His eyes darted impishly about the room.

"Might as well be candid," he said.

Hockey Club Plans Clinic

A hockey clinic sponsored by the Women's Recreation Association (WRA) will be held Saturday. Mrs. Werner Du Bois, a United States Field Hockey Association Coach, is going to conduct the clinic, which will be an all-day affair.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in the Women's Gymnasium, and will be followed by stickwork and hockey techniques to be conducted on the field until approximately 11 a.m. Teams from the Hockey Club and nearby Iowa colleges will participate in coached games during the afternoon.

All interested women students are invited to play on one of the

Reds Arrest Two British In China

LONDON (AP)—Britain is making urgent inquiries into the arrest of two British subjects in Communist China on charges of counterrevolutionary activities.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Thursday the Government is awaiting a report from Consul General J. H. Wright in Shanghai.

The Britons were identified in a Peiping Radio broadcast heard Wednesday night as Stanley Ernest Jones and Harold George King.

Shanghai organizers of the Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious group. Both have been in China since 1947.

Nationalists Get Shipment Of U.S. Tanks

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The United States delivered a shipload of light, powerful Walker Bulldog tanks to the Nationalists Friday.

They are the latest addition to Nationalist China's growing arsenal of modern U.S. weapons.

The M-41 tanks, developed during the Korean War to travel on poor roads and light bridges, were unloaded at Keeling and turned over immediately to Nationalist army crews.

Unofficial reports said more U.S. tanks are on the way.

U.S. officials said the shipment was part of the regular military aid program for Formosa. But the tanks were considered part of the new striking power the United States is giving the Nationalists in the hope they will reduce their 100,000-man force on Quemoy.

Nationalist sources declined to say whether the tanks will be sent to Quemoy to replace obsolete tanks.

The 24-ton M-41 is equipped with 76-millimeter guns. It is named after the late Gen. Walton Walker, commanding general of the Eighth Army in Korea.

Best Ever?

Saturday's battle at Madison will tell the tale of the 1958 Iowa Hawkeyes. If coach Forest Evans' squad can get by the undefeated, untied Badgers this week, it could be the best Iowa team ever.

The Hawkeyes haven't beaten Wisconsin on its home field since 1946, losing five in a row. The last time Iowa appeared at Madison, in 1955, the fired up Badgers rolled to an easy 37-14 upset win. The Hawks have not had much trouble with Wisconsin here, winning in 1956 and 1957, last year 21-7.

A record crowd is expected for the game which has been tabbed in some quarters as the major college game of the week. Randall Stadium has been enlarged since last season. The biggest crowd to see Wisconsin play a home game was 54,645 who sat in on the 1956 game with Northwestern, but Wisconsin officials have estimated a sellout 63,710 for Saturday.

Iowa Fans Go

A large Iowa contingent will be among the 63,710—which means more than a little to a team playing on foreign grounds—if the team knows their fans are in the stands. I hope Iowa fans make themselves better heard away than at home. 800 cadets outcheered about 44,000 Iowa fans when Air Force played here Oct. 4.

Wisconsin poses a real problem to the Hawkeyes. A rugged defense has limited three opponents to only six points—a touchdown last week by Purdue. The Badgers have beaten Miami (Fla.), 20-0; Marquette, 50-0, and Purdue, 31-6, for a 101-6 total. Iowa has outscored its opposition 64-26 in compiling a 2-0-2 record.

Wisconsin has not and probably will not meet again this year a team with a striking, varied of fence such as that employed by the Hawks. A fearsome passing attack spearheaded by the nation's best passer, Randy Duncan, and a potent running game headed by Ray Jauch, Bob Jeter, Kevin Furlong, and Don Horn will keep the defense honest.

The Badgers have held their three foes to 351 yards rushing and 312 passing for a total of 663 yards while gaining 773 on the ground and 192 through the air for a 907-yard total.

Iowa Gain 1,200

Iowa has gained 1,200 yards in the same number of games, and allowed 704. Thus the yardage spread favors Iowa, but Wisconsin is a team which capitalizes on enemy mistakes.

In the Purdue game the Boilermakers won everything but the game. Every time they made a mistake, Wisconsin scored.

Iowa second team end Al Miller is definitely out of action this weekend with a knee injury suffered in the Indiana game, but Capt. John Nocera may be used at times behind Don Horn. Nocera is also recovering from a knee injury sustained against the Hoosiers.

Badgers Favored

The Badgers enter the game about a one-touchdown favorite in most books. Iowa lost a lot of prestige after its 13-13 tie with Air Force, but will come back I'm sure. The Hawks know they will have a rugged afternoon Saturday and will be ready for Milt Brunn's Badgers.

Facing its real first-rate team of the season, I feel Wisconsin will be unable to cope with the Hawkeyes. I'm out on a limb—I said it and I'm glad.

Cross Country Team Opens At Wisconsin Saturday Morning

By TOM BOWERS
Staff Writer

SUI's cross country team, with the prospect of being one of Iowa's greatest, opens its conference schedule Saturday morning at Madison with the University of Wisconsin.

"The boys have been working hard all week and they ought to beat 'em," coach Francis V. Cretzmeyer said.

Iowa had its first meet last week with the Air Force Academy and won 17 to 40. The same day Wisconsin was beaten 41 to 16 by Minnesota.

Last year Iowa took second place in Big Ten competition and "This year's team is better than last year's," Cretzmeyer said.

Cretzmeyer said he planned to take a ten man squad to Madison. However, only seven of the ten men will count in the scoring.

Leading the squad will be Iowa's Olympic star, Charles (Deacon) Jones. This is Jones' last semester of eligibility at Iowa. In his three years of competition Jones has not won the Big Ten championship in cross country although he does hold indoor and outdoor championships in the mile and two mile races. He also won first place in the 1955 National Collegiate cross country meet. "Jones wants this championship," Cretzmeyer said.

Jack Hill is Iowa's No. 2 man on the team. He has been pushing Jones according to Cretzmeyer. Both men have been running the four miles of the cross country course in less than 21 minutes. Others on Iowa's team are: Ray Hermier, Bruce Trimble, Richard Hermier, Eric Clark, Dave Drew, Frank Dotseth, Leighton Betz, and Denny Rehder.

Bill Boyd, one of the few sophomores on the team, may or may not make the trip depending upon the recovery of an injured leg. Boyd possibly could be Iowa's third man and a big factor in Iowa's conference chances.

Cretzmeyer said that many persons do not understand cross country meets and their scoring. He explained that each team has seven official entries in the race, although others may run for each school. The race is run on a four mile course, usually a golf course or other grass covered tract. Some courses are more hilly than others and therefore are slower.

The team with the lowest score wins the meet. The lowest possible score (perfect) is 15. The highest score (worst) is 50. The score is made as follows: one point for 1st place, two points for 2nd, three points for 3rd and so on up to the 14th place. The scores of the first five men from each team are then added together for the final score. While the scores of the sixth and seventh men are not added to the total, they can push the score of the opponents up by two points.

Iowa's next home meet will be with the Chicago Track Club October 25. The meet will begin at 10 a.m. at the new track.

Cretzmeyer said that while his team is possibly the best since he has been here (11 years), he could still use more men out for the sport—particularly freshmen.

Touchdown Tendency

By ALLEN N. SMITH

Wisconsin By 7 Over Iowa Illinois Over Minnesota

By DR. ALLEN N. SMITH

Notre Dame over Duke by 10—that's the way the Smith Touchdown Tendency System of Ratings selects this week's top intersectional contest.

In the nation's No. 1 game top-ranked Wisconsin is a 7-point choice to stop Iowa. The Hawkeyes have a terrific offense but the Badgers have the superior defense, plus greater reserve strength.

Illinois is calculated to gain a one point conquest of Minnesota. The remaining Big Ten contests should see Michigan outscoring Northwestern by 7, Michigan State dominating Purdue by 7, and Ohio State rolling to a 19-point victory over Indiana. Oklahoma can overpower Kansas by 27.

Moving to the East, Yale figures to clip Cornell by 6, and Princeton is expected to outclass Colgate by 7.

Penn Picked

Leaving the Eastern scene, the System rates Holy Cross over Dartmouth by 7 and Pennsylvania to gain a 1-point advantage over Brown.

Florida, Auburn, Tennessee, and Louisiana State will register over league competition in Southeastern Conference contest. The Gators are 6-point choices over Vanderbilt, the Tigers are rated 8 points superior to Georgia Tech, the Volunteers appear 7 points stronger than Alabama while the Bayou Tigers are given a 14-point edge over Kentucky.

Leading intersectional clashes should result in Navy topping Tulane by 14, and Army stomping over Virginia by 27.

AF over Stanford

A 13-point victory for Air Force over Stanford concludes the intersectional selections.

The Southwest Conference's titans, Texas Christian and Southern Methodist should continue to roll. The Horned Frogs are 7-point selections over Texas A. & M. and the Mustangs 6-point favorites over Rice.

In the West, Washington should

Indians Will Keep Teepee In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' front office Thursday put to rest speculation that the Tribe will fold up its teepee and move this year.

"We're here to stay," William R. Daley, chairman of the board of the baseball club, told a group of civic leaders who are part of a back-the-Indians group.

The group went into action last summer after Daley first hinted that, because of dwindling attendance, the Tribe management was beginning to listen to tempting offers from other parts of the country.

"In spite of some very attractive offers we think the baseball club is a good thing for Cleveland and we think we can restore Cleveland to where it is again a leading baseball city," Daley declared at a news conference following the meeting with the civic group.

Daley said the decision to remain was unanimous in a poll of the directors. Previously, it was reported reliably that a group of directors, including Hank Greenberg, who control about 30 per cent of the stock wanted to move. Daley, who holds 35 per cent of the stock, has never said he wanted to move but said recently he might listen to the faction which was in favor of finding a new location.

Home attendance, which hit a record high of 2,620,627 in 1948 under the leadership of Bill Veeck, had fallen off to less than one-fourth that total last season, when only 663,804 went through the turnstiles at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium.

Army's Fabled Lonesome End Marked Man

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — About the least lonesome man in football is Army's fabled "lonesome end," Bill Carpenter.

"Before this, nobody knew I was around," Carpenter said Thursday while preparing for Saturday's game with Virginia. "Now I'm a marked man. I have to take a lot of ribbing. And I've started getting letters from strange people."

Carpenter, a towering 205-pounder from Springfield, Pa., is the key man in Coach Earl Blaik's new offense which has captured the imagination of the country.

He lines up 18 to 25 yards wide of the rest of his team; and just parks there as a pass-receiving threat and decoy. He never even goes into the huddle.

At the military academy, the cadets have nick-named Carpenter "Lonesome George."

"What's the matter, Lonesome George," they'll say. "Won't your best friends tell you?"

"Why don't you use a man's deodorant?"

"Remember, George, toothpaste doesn't kill all the germs."

"Don't be half-safe."

Sabula Man Shoots Divorced Wife, Self

SABULA (Ia.) — Leo Reed, 50, of Sabula fatally shot his divorced wife, Florence, 46, in a Sabula tavern Thursday, and then killed himself with the same weapon in his apartment.

Jackson County Sheriff Lorin Felderman said the shooting occurred after an argument on a Sabula street. The sheriff said Reed used a .410 shotgun.

Reed's former wife died in a Savanna, Ill., hospital. Savanna is across the Mississippi River from Sabula.

The Reeds were divorced several weeks ago.

John Deere Workers May Strike In Waterloo

WATERLOO (Ia.) — Gene Condon, president of UAW local 838 at the John Deere tractor plant here, said Thursday that unless the company changes its bargaining attitude the members of the union will use "their economic threat of strike action."

In a prepared statement, Condon said a company description of its contract offers was inadequate and misleading.

The union and company have been negotiating since the existing contract expired four months ago and employees have continued to work.

Nixon Campaign In East, Mid-West For Republicans

WASHINGTON (Ia.) — Vice President Nixon will campaign in the East and Middle West next week on his fourth swing in behalf of Republican candidates.

The trip will be made by chartered plane. In each of the states to be visited except one, South Dakota, there is a senatorial contest.

The schedule, announced by Nixon's office:

Tuesday, Oct. 21—Noon, Wilmington, Del.; evening, Baltimore, Md.

Wednesday, Oct. 22—Noon, Hartford, Conn.; afternoon, Burlington, Vt.; evening, Providence, R. I.

Thursday, Oct. 23—Evening, Mineola, N. Y. and Garden City, N. Y.

Friday, Oct. 24—Noon, Madison, Wis.; afternoon Oshkosh, Wis.; evening, Eau Claire, Wis.

Saturday, Oct. 25—Noon, Sioux Falls, S.D.; evening, Lincoln, Neb.

Eight More Cardinals Meet To Elect Pope

ROME (Ia.) — Eight more non-Italian cardinals, including the oldest in the College of Cardinals, arrived Thursday for the Oct. 25 conclave to elect a new pope.

They joined 31 cardinals already in Rome and meeting daily while preparing for the election of a successor to Pope Pius XII.

It was an official day of mourning in Rome proclaimed by the Italian Government. Italian President Giovanni Gronchi and other officials attended a special funeral mass.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, and James Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, participated in one of the hundreds of the Masses said Thursday for the dead pontiff. This one was attended by students of the North American College which trains young Americans for the priesthood.

Gronchi and President Sean T. O'Kelly of Ireland will be the only heads of state in attendance at last funeral rites at St. Peter's Sunday. O'Kelly arrived Thursday with John Cardinal D'Alton, archbishop of Armagh.

Mamie Christens Jetliner; Estimate 7 Hours To Brussels

WASHINGTON (Ia.) — With water gathered from the seven seas, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower Thursday formally launched America's entry into transatlantic commercial jet passenger service.

The President's wife, using a firm, two-handed swat, bashed a bottle containing the water on the nose of a Pan American World Airways plane and christened it "Jet Clipper America."

Then she watched the 575-mile-an-hour, 165-passenger plane take off for Baltimore and a night flight to Brussels, Belgium.

Airborne At 6:52

In Baltimore, with a group of 39 United States publishers, editors and air officials, the plane was airborne for the trip to Brussels at 6:52 p.m. Iowa time.

The trip was expected to last less than seven hours and Pan American officials were shooting for six hours, 15 minutes between airports.

Von Braun May Serve Both Army, Civilians

DENVER — An Army research official said Thursday Dr. Werner von Braun and fellow German scientists in this country may be used in dual roles in U.S. missile development.

The Army has protested a plan to turn over 2,100 space scientists and engineers to the new National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

James B. Edson, assistant to the director of research and development for the Army, said in an interview the needs of both the Army and the agency must be met—and "there's just not enough top talent to go around."

FLY OVER AUSTRIA

VIENNA (Ia.) — The Government has authorized U.S. military transport planes to fly over Austria "in order to contribute to an easing of tensions in the Middle East," a communiqué said Thursday.

The communiqué noted that U.S. troops now are being withdrawn from Lebanon. The Austrian Government sharply protested the violation of its air sovereignty by U.S. military planes rushing troops to the Middle East earlier this year.

Tunisia's Bourguiba Distrusts Nasser

PARIS (Ia.) — Dynamic Habib Bourguiba distrusts Gamal Abdel Nasser.

That is an underlying reason behind Tunisia's break with Nasser's United Arab Republic.

The Tunisian president has made it clear he believes he can be a strong influence in keeping the Arab world from coming under Nasser's control.

He is a small man physically but dramatically active when he is talking. He waves his arms sideways, over his head, and fore and aft.

Stronger Position

Last month he had a conversation with Foreign Minister Abd-el-Jabbar Jomard of Iraq, who himself has shown some disinclination to bow to Nasser's wishes. Clearly Bourguiba gave—and received—encouragement during these talks to take a stronger position against Nasser.

His break with Egypt was perhaps only the expectable outgrowth of what Bourguiba believes is Egypt's determination to unseat him.

In an interview a few weeks ago, Bourguiba was especially angry that Egypt is sheltering Salah Ben Yousef, a one-time leader in the uprising which led France to give Tunisia its independence.

Ben Yousef was—and is—for a complete break with the West and attachment of Tunis to the Egyptian sphere.

Last Contact

The break with Nasser almost amounted to the burning of Bourguiba's last bridge of contact with the controlling forces of the Arab League.

For him and Tunisia this is a daring gesture, for he has not received the amount of Western aid which can assure the continued existence of his state of fewer than four million people.

French aid, promised in a peaceful separation, has been held up. American aid has continued but not on a scale large enough to replace what was expected from France.

Signs of Distress

The signs of public distress are evident everywhere. Unemployment is increasing. French officials and businessmen who long provided the backbone of the government and commercial life have pulled out.

German, British, American and Iron Curtain-companies are coming in to replace the French in many instances but with only a fraction of the capital the French once represented.

Both Gov. Faubus and the newly appointed superintendent of the proposed private schools, W. C. Brashears, said acquiring teachers is the last big obstacle to opening classrooms for the 3,000 idled students.

These students are now in their seventh week without instruction, dating from the time the governor closed Little Rock's three white and one Negro school to avoid integration.

But there are many forces tugging on the teachers in opposite directions. A spokesman said they face a difficult decision "that is like standing before two uncharted roads, neither of which may take them where they want to go."

Their dilemma is this: They lose any protective benefits if they cut loose from the Little Rock School District to join the proposed pri-

Teachers Caught In Bind

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (Ia.) — Little Rock's 130 high school teachers are caught up in the backwash of the integration struggle and may become a pivotal point in the federal-state-tug-of-war.

The teachers are needed desperately by the Little Rock Private School Corp. to operate the private, segregated high schools as Gov. Orval Faubus' answer to court-ordered integration.

Both Gov. Faubus and the newly appointed superintendent of the proposed private schools, W. C. Brashears, said acquiring teachers is the last big obstacle to opening classrooms for the 3,000 idled students.

Their dilemma is this: They lose any protective benefits if they cut loose from the Little Rock School District to join the proposed pri-ivate school system. If they don't make this move they may face an awesome pressure from the public and state administration.

Denver Jail Scene Of Riot, Escape Attempt

DENVER (AP) — Prisoners in the maximum security cellblock of the Denver County jail staged a riot and mass escape attempt late Thursday.

All available police officers were sent to the scene northeast of Denver.

Guards and officers seized 31 of the rioters and had an estimated 20 others cornered and under a barrage of tear gas in an air conditioning penthouse atop the three-story jail.

Warden David Kiebach said the holdouts were believed to be unarmed and without hostages.

Kiebach said the prisoners apparently cut a hole in the ceiling of their maximum security cellblock on the third floor. Then they clambered to the roof in an effort to escape. A guard discovered them before all had reached the roof.

A brisk hand-to-hand battle followed between prisoners and armed guards.

The prisoners held off the guards momentarily, but fell back under their assault of tear gas and clubs.

Journalism Pros. To Attend Meeting

Three faculty members of the SUI School of Journalism are attending meetings this week end. Wilbur Peterson, assistant professor, will confer with the research committee of Newspaper Association Managers, Inc. in Chicago today and Saturday.

Arthur M. Barnes, professor and head of research and graduate study, and William R. Hazard, instructor in television and pictorial journalism, are attending the annual convention of the Radio and Television News Directors.

Recovery Predicted By Economists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government economists predicted Thursday the recovering economy will climb to a peak production rate of roughly $450 billion annually in this final quarter of 1958.

They also forecast another shrinkage of unemployment in October comparable to the drop of nearly 600,000 last month.

Midwest Watches Iowa Election, Senator Says

SIOUX CITY (AP) — U.S. Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb.) said Thursday the entire Midwest would be watching with keen interest the outcome of the Iowa gubernatorial contest.

In the race, the incumbent Democrat, Gov. Herschel Loveless, is opposed by Republican nominee, William Murray.

The people of the Midwest will want to know if Iowa is going to re-elect the Teamster Union candidate," said Senator Curtis who was a member of the McClellan Senate Committee.

Secretary of State Dulles heads the delegation, which also includes Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, former U.S. ambassador to Rome, and John A. McCone, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Also making the trip will be Mrs. Dulles and several State Department aides.
