Red Shells Still Pound Quemoy

Eisenhower Plea Fails To Heal Knowland-Knight Rift

California GOP Disagree On Right-To-Work

Ike Refuses To Take Sides In Dispute

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Eisenhower assailed the Democrats in the bare-knuckled GOP campaign talks Tuesday, but his flying trip to California apparently failed to patch up the split between Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Sen. William F. Knowland, Republicans running for each others office.

Flying from Los Angeles in the President's plane, Columbine III, Gov. Knight told newsmen aboard that "nothing has changed" between himself and Knowland.

Not For Pat

The governor reiterated he would never support the Democratic nominee for governor, State Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, but shrugged and walked away when reporters asked if he would vote for Knowland for governor.

Mr. Eisenhower had gotten Knight and Knowland together Monday night in Los Angeles, where he made a speech calling for an end to intraparty bickering.

Knowland was aboard the Columbine III Tuesday, too, but was in another compartment when Knight talked to reporters.

Knight was an avowed candidate for re-election until Knowland announced for governor. Then Knight was forced to run for the Senate seat which Knowland is vacating. Both won the Republican nominations handily but trailed their Democratic opponents in total primary votes.

They also have split over the controversial "right-to-work" initiative, which Knowland espouses but Knight opposes.

A State Issue

The President Tuesday hit the labor topic hard, accusing the Democrats of scuttling his labor cleanup program in the last Congress, but sticking to his position that "right-to-work" is a state issue, not national. He said only the election of such Republicans as Knowland and Knight could protect the rights of union members and stave off what he called the trend toward "centralized bureaucracy."

Flying into the San Francisco Airport, Mr. Eisenhower took a 12-mile helicopter ride to the city, circling over the Cow Palace where he was renominated in 1956.

Although Knight made it evident Tuesday that the Republican schism was far from ended, the President chose a labor theme on which Knowland and Knight could agree.

Shedding the low-pressure approach which marked the earlier stages of his coast-to-coast swing, the President declared that "corrupt labor bosses who have betrayed their trust" were a "grave danger to all Americans."

'Picnic' Opening Thursday Night

THE UNIVERSITY THEATER'S 38th dramatic season gets underway Thursday evening with its presentation of William Inge's prize-winning play "Picnic." The play, under the directon of Ronald Gee, dramatic arts instructor, will run Thursday through Saturday and Oct. 28 through 31 at the University Theatre at 8 p.m. each night. The SUI production has just one stage set, the backyard of several homes. That fact that the play is being done early in the semester has cut the rehearsal time to three weeks and necessitated an intensive rehearsal schedules.

Fail To Stop Dulles-Chiang Formosa Talks

Peiping Trying To Split U.S. And Nationalists

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles and President Chiang Kai-shek headed into new talks today while fresh artillery duels blazed in Formosa Strait.

Today's conference followed three meetings between Dulles and Chiang Tuesday, the day Dulles arrived on his Formosa mission.

Nationalist defense spokesmen said the Chinese Communists fired 6,626 shells at the Quemoys in the 12 hours ending at 6 a.m. today. The Nationalists fired back, using 8-inch howitzers and other guns moved to the island outposts during the cease-fire the Reds broke Monday.

Following Tuesday's talks between Dulles and Chiang, a spokesman said the whole political and military situation in the Formosa area was reviewed. In reply to a question, he said it was possible the two discussed possible resumption of U.S. warship convoys for supply ships to Quemoy.

A joint communique after the end of the conferences is expected to express continued U.S.-Nationalist solidarity in the face of Pei-Ping's campaign to split the two allies and force U.S. armed might out of the western Pacific.

Search For Peace

What Dulles called his search for a dependable cease-fire requires a common U.S.-Nationalist policy. This might include the U.S. desire that Chiang thin his forces on the off-shore islands in the hope Red China would accept a permanent cease-fire.

Joseph Greene, spokesman for Dulles, said emphatically: "Mr. Dulles is not here to twist anybody's arm or apply any heat or pressure."

He called the first conference a "stock-taking. . . with an assessment of political and military matters as well as Communist propaganda."

There was a growing feeling on Formosa that the end of the cease-fire had made it impractical to go into topics Dulles had planned halfway around the world to take up with Chiang.

Greene said, however, the resumption of Red shelling "does not mean the mission or objective" of Dulles's visit has been changed.

Without a better idea of Red China's latest intentions, some topics appeared too difficult to discuss. This includes the question of reducing garrisons on Quemoy in an attempt to coax Red China to make its cease-fire permanent.

There is a belief the Reds will not keep up the pounding on the same scale as before their cease-fire that went into effect Oct. 6. But it is considered possible they may give the islands one more big walloping while Dulles is on Formosa.

Chiang Stubborn

Another possibility is that they may proclaim a new cease-fire, accompanying it with a fresh invitation for direct talks with the Nationalists. The Nationalists have steadfastly refused to talk with the Peiping regime.

Vice President Chen Cheng, Chiang's right-hand man, took a standpat attitude in a speech at a rally celebrating Overseas Chinese Day here.

Chen said that cutting the size of the off-shore island garrisons "would definitely lead to a large-scale war." Chen attended the night conference with Dulles.

Dulles first talked for 2½ hours with Chiang on what he called his search for a dependable cease-fire in the Formosa Strait area.

They met with their aides in a heavily carpeted, dimly lit room of Chiang's suburban retreat known as Scholar's Forest.

At night they and their aides met again at an informal dinner that lasted more than an hour. Dulles was accompanied by Walter Robertson, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, and U.S. Ambassador Everett F. Drumright.

McNeal Refutes Governor's Denial Of Debt-Fund Charge

CHARITON (AP) — Chairman Clark McNeal of the Legislative Investigating Committee Tuesday night refuted Gov. Herschel Loveless' denial the Iowa Democratic Party ever paid off his business debts.

The Belmond Representative, a Republican, read to a GOP meeting here a letter purportedly written by Leo J. Schumacher of Washington, Iowa, to Loveless. McNeal said the letter was dated May 25, 1957, He read:

"Thank you for the $500 you and Mary Jane Freeman gave (sic) to me to apply to your account on May 14th, 1957. Will appreciate it very much if you will send me the balance this week."

"If the payment was not for Loveless' debt, why should Schumacher thank Loveless?" McNeal asked.

Loveless heatedly denied at his news conference Tuesday the testimony former Democratic State Chairman Jake More gave the Investigating Committee last week.

"Those debts did not exist," the governor said. "The Democratic Party paid no debts of mine."

More had told the committee he paid a total of $3,000 out of the Loveless-for-Governor campaign fund to two persons who claimed Loveless owed them commissions on sales they made for the General Equipment Corp., which Loveless operated at Ottumwa before becoming governor.

More said he paid $500 to Schumacher in May, 1957, and a total of $2,500 in several installments to another man he did not name. The man later was identified by other sources as Roland Reko, an officer of the Loveless for Governor Committee.

Loveless, when asked previously about More's testimony had replied "that stuff doesn't deserve comment."

Dynamite Found Near Scene Of Atlanta Bombing

ATLANTA (AP) — Discovery of 20 sticks of dynamite in a patch of weeds, along with the ingredients to explode it, triggered a new police investigation in this bomb-jittery city Tuesday.

Police confiscated the dynamite, fuses, caps and wires and launched an inquiry to determine whether they had any connection with the Oct. 12 bombing of The Temple, a Jewish house of worship.

Officers said the material, found in Chamblee a few miles northeast of Atlanta, could have been rigged and exploded in a matter of seconds.

Private Little Rock School Gets Off To Rocky Start

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — At best, Little Rock's venture into a private school program, to replace integrated public schools, got off to a faltering start Tuesday.

About 300 white seniors reported for the Little Rock Private School Corp.'s first day of segregated classes. After about two hours, they were told to go home and come back today.

Corporation officials explained that "there had been a mixup in registration" Monday.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus told a news conference that he did not think the private school could exist indefinitely on contributions alone.

"I don't anticipate that we will have to depend on the contributions indefinitely," he added. The governor said the next regular session of the State Legislature, in January, "would come up with something." Faubus did not say what that "something" might be.

Faubus reiterated that he did not believe he has authority under present state law to reopen Little Rock's four public high schools, which he closed to avoid court-decreed integration.

In answer to a question, the governor agreed that a private school program should be started for Negro high school students.

He gave no indication that he personally would launch such a move and, instead, suggested that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) should take the lead.

The organization, thereby, would be "living up to its name," Faubus remarked.

The NAACP, however, has indicated that its next move will be to challenge the private white schools in court.

The corporation restricted its first classes to seniors "to get them ready for college" and because its classroom space and number of teachers were limited.

But W. C. Brashears, superintendent, announced that "pre-registration" of white 10th and 11th grade students would be held today and Thursday.

City Council Sets Nov. 3 For Hearing On Land Lease

The date for public hearing on a proposal to lease five acres of airport land to the Federal Government for a reserve Army and Navy training center has been set for Monday, Nov. 3, at 7:30 p.m.

Iowa City council members took the action at a special meeting Monday night.

Current plans on the proposed center call for a $300,000 building to be constructed on a southeast section of the airport property adjacent to Highway 218.

The building would house local reserve units, including headquarters and headquarters company of the 410th Infantry Regiment and the medical company of that regiment.

Flowers To Sub For Norberg At Young Demo Meet

Richard Flowers, a former Iowa State Teachers College professor and primary congressional candidate, will speak to the SUI Young Democrats today at 7:30 p.m. at Johnson County Democratic Headquarters, 11 E. Washington St.

Flowers is substituting for state central Democratic committee chairman Donald Norberg, who was unable to attend because of another engagement.

Flowers, currently State Personnel Director, will discuss the Iowa political picture as it appears now with two weeks of the campaign remaining before Nov. 4 elections.

At 5:30 p.m., the Young Democrats will entertain Flowers at dinner in the Iowa Memorial Union Cafeteria.

Following the 7:30 p.m. meeting, club members will work on their homecoming float. Co-chairman of the float committee are Bob Nelson, A4, Exira, for the Young Democrats and Emoil Novy, North Liberty, for the Johnson County Democrats.

150 State, National Officials To Attend SUI Homecoming

More than 150 national and state officials and their wives will be in Iowa City Saturday to join with students, alumni and other friends of SUI in celebrating the 47th annual SUI Homecoming.

Gov. Herschel C. Loveless will attend the festivities, as will W. H. Nicholas, lieutenant governor; Melvin D. Synhorst, secretary of state; Chet B. Akers, state auditor; M. L. Abrahamson, state treasurer; Clyde Spry, secretary of agriculture, and Norman A. Erbe, attorney general.

U.S. Congressmen attending will include Sen. Thomas E. Martin, Iowa City, and Representatives Fred Schwengel, Davenport; Henry O. Talle, Decorah; Karl M. LeCompte, Corydon; Charles B. Hoeven, Alton, and H. R. Gross, Waterloo.

Some of the visitors will arrive on the campus Friday evening in time for the Homecoming Parade, the pep rally and the Iowa Memorial Union Open House.

Judging the parade floats will be four Iowa newspapermen, Henry B. Hook, publisher of the Davenport Morning Democrat; Robert McCoy, publisher and editor of the Waterloo Daily Courier; Alvin Piper, editor of the Council Bluffs Nonpareil, and Dwight R. Clark, publisher and editor of the Cherokee Daily Times.

No Tickets Left For SUI Symphony Concert Tonight

No tickets are left for the University Symphony Orchestra Concert to be given today at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Memorial Union. James A. Dixon, instructor in the Music Department, is conductor of the orchestra.

Major Works

Major works on the program include the "Symphonie Fantastique, Op. 14," by Berlioz, and "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in A Minor, Op. 82," by Glazounoff.

Stuart Canin, associate professor of music, will be featured violin soloist.

Glazounoff, a Russian composer, combined traditional 19th century ideas with the newer trends of his day in the concerto, which was first performed in 1905 in London.

The "Symphonie Fantastique" was composed by Berlioz in 1830 and first performed that year at the Paris Conservatoire.

The first scheduled performance of the symphony was cancelled. Berlioz hired so many musicians—about 130—there was a shortage of seats, resulting in such an on-stage scramble that the project was dropped.

Highly Controversial

Originally entitled "Episode in the Life of an Artist," the symphony was highly controversial for its new concepts of instrumental writing.

The symphony consists of five movements: "Dreams," "Passions," "A Ball," "Scene in the Meadows," "March to the Scaffold," and "Dreams of a Witches' Sabbath."

Weather Forecast

TODAY

Partly cloudy, cooler. Highs today 55 to 65. Lows tonight 32 to 42.

THURSDAY

The Sputnik scare is diminishing, the United States seems to be progressing satisfactorily in the race for space, and the grand clamor to revitalize our educational system is on the wane. But much remains to be done, and the situation is becoming more serious with each wasted moment.

In Iowa, reorganization and consolidation of school districts is reducing inefficiency and expense, and most of the public recognizes the importance of a sound educational system.

But many of Iowa's educational problems will be met only after a concentrated and professionally-directed study. Some two years ago in May of 1956, the State Board of Regents, the Association of Iowa College Presidents, and the Board of Public Instruction, realized that a plan was needed if Iowa was to meet the needs of future students.

At that time, a committee was formed, the Study Committee on Higher Education in Iowa. Its goals included organizing a comprehensive, long-run study involving all types of institutions of higher education, and a coordinated attack on all the major phases of the educational problem.

The committee, composed of representatives from SUI, ISC, ISTC, private 4-year institutions, and the public junior colleges, was financed originally by an assessment of 10 cents per pupil enrolled at each of the institutions represented in the Association of Iowa College Presidents.

The money raised came to only about $4,000, an inadequate sum, but a beginning. In 1957, the Iowa Legislature was requested to appropriate $12,500 for the Board of Regents and $12,500 for the Board of Public Instruction to finance the work of the committee and to pay a full-time professional director. The money was not forthcoming.

Since then, working with limited funds, the committee has published a study on the migration of students in and out of Iowa colleges. The study is an essential beginning in any attempt to formulate a long range program of improvement in the state's educational facilities.

To continue its work, the committee needs money. Anticipated future studies will involve college plant facilities, enrollment trends, quality of education offered, means of keeping good faculty personnel, and the recently proposed state scholarships.

These studies, and others like them, are important to all Iowans and should be supported. And each of us has an opportunity to let our legislators know we approve of this systematic and reasoned approach to our educational problems.

When the 1959 Legislature meets, the committee will ask for a $35,000 appropriation to carry on its work. It is not too early to inform our representatives in the Legislature that this money should be granted.

Look Who's Talking!

Harry Truman must be enjoying a gentle chuckle or two today. After a number of years of being condemned by the Republicans for his earthy but fiery political speeches, the former President must have been amused when he heard the reports of President Eisenhower's speech in California Monday night.

Mr. Eisenhower shed all pretense of mildness and threw caution to the winds, condemning the "Democrat Party" (they prefer "Democratic"), criticizing the "radical wing," terming the Democrats proponents of left-wing government, spendthrift government, frustrated and stymied government, and "political merchants of fear and defeat."

This doesn't sound like the Eisenhower we know – the calm, impassive President who keeps aloof from partisan politics. This sounds more like the hell-for-leather Harry S. Truman, who never hesitated to call a spade a spade rather than an implement of husbandry.

We assume the new manner of the President is the result of the efforts of his new speech writer, Malcolm Moos. If so, we wonder if Mr. Moos ever spent any time in Kansas City.

Are Teaching Salaries Adequate— Public Disdain, Poor Pay Don't Attract Good Teachers

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of the first teachers in colonial America were virtual slaves, working off a term in debtors, prison.

There are many teachers today who insist that times haven't changed a bit.

Perhaps the almost uniquely American attitude of disdain for teachers is the primary reason for this country's teacher shortage. It shows in salary schedules that al most all educators say are too low to lure good teachers into the field and keep them there.

Not Qualified

By the latest estimates, U.S. public schools are short some 135,000 qualified teachers. The results are overcrowded classrooms, double sessions, and emergency teachers who aren't really qualified for the job.

The recent report of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, Inc., said the root problem of the teacher shortage is financial.

"Salaries must be raised, immediately and substantially," the report noted. "Those teachers with more than modest financial needs and responsibilities can only solve their problems by becoming administrators, or leaving education altogether."

$4,520 Average

In 1957-58, the average salary for all classroom teachers was $4,520 a year. But that figure is deceptive. California and New York hire the most teachers, and they pay the highest salaries. That brings the average up.

One out of every four classroom teachers last year received less than $3,500. In eight states the average annual salary of the entire teaching staff was less than $3,500.

In three states—North Dakota, Mississippi and Kentucky, one teacher in three was paid less than $2,5000 for the school year. The average for all of Mississippi was just over that: $2,525.

If we use the national average of $4,520, it works out to about $120 a week for the school year, or about $86 a week if the salary is supposed to cover a full 12-month period.

On the basis of a 40-hour week, that $120 works out to an even $3 an hour. That's a nice round figure that sounds fairly impressive — but here again the figure is deceptive. The teacher who works a 40-hour week is a rare bird, indeed.

Most surveys show that teachers work anywhere from 50 to 60 hours a week on school chores—teaching, preparing lessons, grading papers, taking tickets at basketball games, chaperoning dances, and organizing and supervising outside activities.

Low Pay Scale

At 50 to 60 hours a week, the pay scale drops to $2 to $2.40 an hour. This is considerably below the pay of the average plumber, carpenter, bricklayer or other skilled workman in the building trades, and even further below the pay scale in most other professions.

These weekly and hourly figures are based on the national annual average of $4,520. If we consider Mississippi's yearly average of $2,520, it comes out to $68 a week for a 37½-week school year, or about $49 a week on a full-year basis. And the hourly rate, even for the school year alone, drops to between $1.13 and $1.36.

To earn this salary, Mississippi requires that a teacher have at least a bachelor's degree from a 4-year college or university with from 18-24 semester hours in professional education courses. Since this pay scale doesn't attract many such teachers, Mississippi and other states have to rely heavily on "emergency" teachers, some of whom have had little more than a high school education.

At the other end of the salary scale sits California, paying its classroom teachers an average annual salary of $5,750. Using the same basis as above, this works out to either $153 or $110 a week.

Lure Of Money

Even so, California is having trouble finding enough teachers. Officials in other states complain of California raiding parties that scour the plains east of the Rockies, find good teachers and lure them West with the promise of bigger paychecks.

In any discussion of teachers' salaries, nothing muddies the waters so much as the length of the school year. Someone is sure to say, "I don't think teachers do too badly, considering they work only nine months a year."

And there's no doubt about it, a 3-month vacation every year is a very attractive fringe benefit — if you can afford it.

There aren't any exact figures available, but most surveys indicate that two of every three men teachers have to work at summer jobs to make both ends meet. The ratio for women teachers seems to be about one in eight.

That takes some of the gloss off the 3-month vacation. So does the requirement in many states that all teachers continue to improve themselves professionally by attending summer school, usually at least once in every four or five years.

Even if they weren't required, summer school courses offer the teacher the only practicaly way he can advance both professionally and financially.

Letter To The Editor — Says Ham Operator Causing Radio Trouble

To the editor:

This letter is to bring to the attention of Amateur Radio Station WQVXO, located somewhere on the Iowa campus, that he was received here in the Quadrangle Dormitory this afternoon (Oct. 20), in the standard broadcast band.

He was causing considerable interference to local broadcast station KXIC. WQVXO was being received on or near 840 kc. with both voice and cw (code).

Since I am an ex-ham operator myself, I know that amateurs appreciate knowing when they are causing interference to other BC stations so that they can locate the difficulty and correct the situation. This is also in accordance with FCC regulations.

Groups Have Different Retirement Problems

Although some retirement needs and problems seem to be universal, other problems are likely to be bigger for one occupational group than for another, more than 100 Iowans attending the seventh annual Conference on Gerontology at SUI were told Tuesday.

Boredom probably will be one of the least of the retirement problems of teachers and ministers, Wayland W. Osborn of the Iowa Department of Public Instruction said.

But a study of the status and interests of retired factory workers found that 70 per cent of the group had all day free and only 47 per cent said they had a hobby.

Presenting retirement needs of farmers, George Mills, of the Des Moines Register and Tribune said that farmers have the same problems as anyone else. Five basic problems of retiring farmers, according to Mills, stem from finances, physical and mental health, need for acceptance by the community and for participation in public affairs, and personal resources to meet the necessary adjustments of age.

Speaking on "Independent Professionals" Dr. Walter L. Bierring, director, Gerontology Division, Iowa State Department of Health, noted that physicians face two problems when retiring — economic security and loneliness. He said physicians often have a hard time adjusting their living standards to lower incomes.

Dr. William B. Bean, head of the SUI Department of Internal Medicine, reviewing personal health, work and retirement adjustment problems, said a large number of people, suddenly confronted with a need for making unanticipated adjustments to retirement, too often are floundering about unhappily and wasting the talents they have.

SUI Homecoming Dance Sold Out

Tickets for the Benny Goodman Homecoming Dance are definitely sold-out. No more tickets for the dance will be issued due to fire law restrictions which prohibit occupancy of the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union by more than 1,000 couples.

TV Men Say Too Much Cheesecake

In a published report by William R. Hazard, head of television news instruction in the SUI School of Journalism, television news directors have complained that they are receiving too many cheesecake and bathing beauty pictures.

One-hundred twenty-five television news directors interviewed said they considered regional coverage poor and stated they wanted more "hard" news in place of the cheesecake.

The news directors also complained about crime and accident pictures, routine political pictures, and poor quality and photo news judgement of some pictures sent over wires.

Meet Tonight To Discuss Coralville Recreation Areas

Coralville reservoir recreation possibilities will be discussed at a public meeting today at 8 p.m. in the Big Ranch dance hall at Cou Falls.

Representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers will be present to discuss plans for future facilities.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Coralville Lake Committee and Roy Gaddis, acting chairman, has urged that all boaters, hunters, fishermen and other sportsmen attend.

Hartman Helps Plan Hospital Conference

Gerhard Hartman, superintendant of University Hospitals and professor of hospital administration, has helped plan the program for a regional conference of the American College of Hospital Administrators.

The conference will be held in Chicago Oct. 27-31 for hospital administrators and their assistants from Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Iowa.

Members will consider common administrative problems such as medical staff, personnel, nursing service and finances.

Lucas Asks New Trial; Hearing Set For Oct. 31

Robert R. Lucas, Ackley, convicted of selling eight "cancer cure and preventative" capsules to an Iowa City woman for $50, moved Monday for an arrest of judgement and a new trial.

Hearing on the motion has been set for 9:30 a.m. Oct. 31. in Johnson county district court.

Lucas also asked that Edward L. Connor, Iowa City attorney withdraw from the case as his attorney.

O'Connor had been serving under court appointment, and on Lucas' request, filed a withdrawal. He is being paid only the statutory $10 fee for court-appointed counsel in the case.

4 Librarians At Mason City Meet

Four librarians from the SUI library will attend the 65th annual convention of the Iowa Library Association in Mason City today through Friday.

Those attending will be Leslie Dunlap, library director, Dale Bentz, associate director; Mrs. Julia Bartling, head of reference; and Miss Thera Cavender, head of cataloging.

Mrs. Bartling has been elected to a 2-year term as secretary of the association. Mrs. Cavender will speak at a luncheon meeting on Thursday.

Washington Correspondents Believe Democrats Will 'Win Big'

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsweek magazine says a survey among 50 Washington correspondents and political writers shows that they believe the Democrats will "win big" in the Nov. 4 congressional elections.

It said "not one forecast Republican gains in either the Senate or the House."

Averaged out, they believed the Democrats would increase their Senate margin from 2 to 18 and their House margin from 35 to 96, Newsweek said.

First Double-Header Launching At Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Two blazing Bomarc air defense missiles roared across the Atlantic within 13 seconds Tuesday, triggered by a button pusher and a giant electronic computer 1,500 miles away.

The Bomarc double-header was the first multiple missile launching at the Cape since it opened eight years ago.

Both missiles curved gracefully at about 80,000 feet after a speedy vertical climb and sped toward the southeast. Their course was traced by two puffy, twisting vapor trails.

That was the start of a flight of about 250 miles aimed at "killing" two World War II vintage B17 pilotless drone bombers.

Khrushchev Declares War On Russian Drunkenness

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev has declared war on drunkenness.

KHRUSHCHEV

In a speech delivered in his native village in Kursk Province the Soviet Premier and Communist party chieftain said the Kremlin is going to step up the drive against alcoholism which it has been waging several years.

The major new measure to make it hard for Russians to get drunk on vodka or other hard liquors will be a rule that any establishment serving hard liquor can dole out only one shot to a customer.

Storm Jabs Carolina, Virginia; Four Destroyers Roughed Up

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) — A hard-hitting storm of near hurricane force jabbed at North Carolina and Virginia coastal areas Tuesday, roughing up four destroyers and indirectly causing seven deaths.

The fatalities were reported in the Wilmington, N.C., area, where police said seven persons have been killed in traffic accidents in high winds and driving rain since last Saturday morning.

The storm, which has hung almost stationary off the coast southeast of Cape Hatteras for two days, is expected to move out to sea Wednesday morning.

It has brought strong winds, registered in gusts up to 60 m.p.h. at some points, and high tides to much of the coastal area.

Woman Greets President With Sign 'Ike Go Home'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An "Ike go home" banner appeared Tuesday in a crowd which watched President Eisenhower's arrival by helicopter for two San Francisco campaign appearances.

The home-made sign, printed on cloth, was displayed by a woman who didn't identify herself but said she represented no one else.

She was on the far side of the field from the President and he didn't see the sign.

It read: "Ike go home. You didn't speak in Arkansas against reelection of Faubus."

The reverse sign said: "Quit tooting around like a cheap general. Get to work on nuclear disarmament."

The only description the woman gave of herself was: "I'm a registered Republican."

Halftime Skit Salutes U.N.

A United Nations birthday observance will be held Saturday between the halves of the Iowa-Northwestern game, when the SUI band salutes the 13th birthday of the world-wide organization.

Pamphlets on the UN will also be distributed at the game. The title of the pamphlet is "Help the United Nations Make a Touchdown for Peace."

Arrangements for the local observance are being made by members of the Governor's Committee for U.N. Week. Local members are Mrs. Allyn Lemme of 603 S. Capitol St., and Mrs. Richard Lloyd-Jones of 160 Oak Ridge.

Dalmus To Talk About Oil Basin Structure Thursday

Karl F. Dalmus, noted consulting geologist and, until his recent retirement, chief of research and special studies for the Creole Petroleum Corporation of Standard Oil Company, will speak on "Mechanics of Basin Evolution and its Relation to the Habitat of Oil in the Basin" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Geology Lecture Room.

The talk is under the sponsorship of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists' Distinguished Lecture Committee and the SUI Graduate College.

Dalmus will present his lecture before 58 geological societies and university groups throughout the United States and Canada this fall in the most extensive lecture tour in the history of the Distinguished Lecture Series.

An explanation of how basins are formed will be a feature of Dalmus' talk at SUI. He will explain how masses of debris through geologic time are consolidated into rock units in the basin.

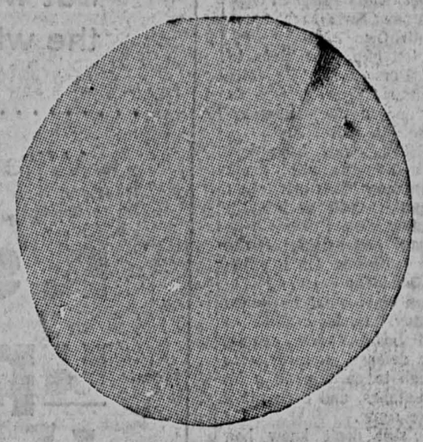
CAN YOU SEE THE DOTS THAT FORM THE CIRCLE?


Pretty difficult, isn't it? The circle looks solid grey because the dots are so close together. They seem INVISIBLE.

It's the same way with the two functions of dry cleaning, appearance and maintenance. One is visual, the other is INVISIBLE.

The appearance function is visual. You can tell if this has been carried out by the appearance of the cleaned garment. Not so concerning the INVISIBLE maintenance function. You can't tell by looking if this has been done properly or not. Here's an example:

Was your dacron shirt cleaned along with a grimy woolen jacket? If so, your shirt contains many razor-sharp dirt particles which cut garment fibers. If this maintenance function, fiber classification, was omitted from the cleaning process, your garment isn't really clean and its life is reduced.

Therefore it's wise to rely on a dependable place of business that really does all it should for you.

Northwestern Eighth, Army Stays On Top

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1. Army
2. Ohio State
3. Louisiana State
4. Texas
5. Auburn
6. Mississippi
7. Iowa
8. Northwestern
9. Oklahoma
10. Clemson

On the strength of its victory over Wisconsin, Iowa jumped from 13th place to seventh this week. Northwestern moved from 17th to eighth as a result of its tremendous showing in trouncing Michigan, and Oklahoma moved up from 11th to ninth, the voters obviously impressed by the Sooners' lop-sided victory over Kansas.

Texas, Auburn and Mississippi, voted into the fourth, fifth and sixth spots in the Associated Press college football poll this week, had better have a care. Those spots are exceedingly vulnerable.

Drop Out Of Top Ten

As the unbeaten Army powerhouse again was voted the No. 1 spot by the sportswriters and sportscasters, the previous holders of these three positions dropped from the top ten entirely, all victims in games last Saturday.

Wisconsin lost to Iowa, Michigan State to Purdue, and Navy was upset by Tulane.

Army received 90 first place votes, 68 more than Louisiana State, which climbed from ninth position to third and was second in the number of votes for the No. 1 position.

Buckeyes Second

Ohio State, moving from third to second, received only 14 votes for the No. 1 spot, but it had tremendous support for the lesser positions in the top 10.

The tie with Georgia Tech was costly to Auburn, which dropped from second a week ago to fifth, right behind Texas. The Longhorns jumped from seventh to fourth. Like Ohio State, they had big support for the lesser spots, although considered No. 1 by only two voters.

Only No. 1 Army and No. 10 Clemson retained their positions over a weekend which saw a wave of upsets sweep the nation's gridirons.

Big Games This Week

Some of the leaders face real trouble this week. An Army team that may be minus its star back, Pete Dawkins, meets a deep and rugged Pittsburgh eleven, and Ohio State takes on a good Wisconsin team which is smarting from its first loss, to Iowa.

Louisiana State takes on Florida, which has won two, tied one and lost one. Texas and Auburn will be favored over Rice and Maryland, respectively, and Mississippi is a top-heavy choice over Arkansas.

Iowa and Northwestern, the No. 7 and No. 8 teams, tangle in what promises to be a thriller, based on the performances of the two teams last week. Oklahoma figures to outdistance Kansas State, but Clemson may find South Carolina tougher than its record might indicate, particularly when the intense rivalry is considered.

The second ten are Notre Dame, Colorado, Wisconsin, Air Force Academy, Purdue, Texas Christian, Georgia Tech, Navy, Mississippi State and Michigan State.

Rain Forces Iowa Inside

The Iowa Hawkeyes were forced inside Tuesday by the heavy rains, but spirits were not dampened as coach Forest Evashevski prepared his squad for Saturday's homecoming game with Northwestern.

The Hawks worked out in the Fieldhouse as the main stress went to defending Wildcat plays. The final portion of the drill was devoted to moving the ball against Northwestern defenses.

Three players who sat out the Wisconsin game with injuries took part in Tuesday's practice. They were Capt. John Nocera at fullback, Al Miller at end and Bill Gravel at halfback. All three saw action with the No. 2 unit.

Bill Lapham, who was a last minute starter at center against the Badgers, was still on the first team Tuesday.

Intramurals

Tuesday's intramural athletic schedule was rained out but six contests are slated for today.

In touch football Tudor Hall faces Lower C in a Quadrangle League game; Delta Chi meets Phi Delta Theta and Phi Epsilon Pi tangles with Sigma Alpha Epsilon in Social Fraternity League play.

Volleyball contests are all in the Professional Fraternity League. They pit Alpha Kappa Kappa vs. Alpha Kappa Psi, Phi Delta Phi vs. Phi Rho Sigma, and Delta Sigma Delta vs Nu Sigma Nu.

HAWKS' OFFENSE 4TH

Iowa's Hawks are ranked fourth in total offense among the nation's major football teams, the latest NCAA statistics disclosed Tuesday.

In the four games Iowa has played, the Hawks have rolled up 1,517 yards — an average of 379 yards per game.

Touchdown Tendency

By ALLEN N. SMITH

Hawkeyes Fifth In Rating; Ranked First In Big Ten

Iowa's 20-9 win over previously unbeaten Wisconsin shoots the spectacular Hawkeyes from ninth all the way to fifth in the Smith Touchdown Tendency System of Ratings and first in the Big Ten.

Army finally makes the grade as the nation's No. 1 college football power, following its 35-6 rout of Virginia. The Cadets now lead Louisiana State's Bayou Tigers, the third-ranked team last week, by a slight margin. The Tigers maintain their high touchdown tendency, but couldn't cope with the offensive might of Army.

Texas 3rd

Texas, once again the scourge of the Southwest, vaults into the No. 3 position. Oklahoma's streaking Sooners, off their 43-0 romp over Kansas, zoom from seventh to 4th.

Biggest jump in the ratings is registered by Ohio State. The Buckeyes again exhibited a remarkable touchdown tendency, this time with a 49-8 win over Indiana, to occupy No. 6.

Auburn, fifth a week ago, skitters to seventh after its 7-7 tie with Georgia Tech. Wisconsin tumbles to eighth barely edging Purdue.

Purdue Back In

The Boilermakers, pushed out of the select list a week ago after losing to Wisconsin, come rocketing back to ninth after defeating highly-rated Michigan State.

Mississippi continues to rise, gaining the 10th rung this week. Notre Dame, although defeating Duke, 9-7, falls three places to 11th.

Michigan State, fourth last week, rounds out the top dozen in 12th.

Evy Praises Northwestern Quarterback

CHICAGO (AP) — Northwestern's sophomore quarterback Dick Thornton received a lot of praise Tuesday from both his own coach, Ara Parseghian, and Iowa mentor Forest Evashevski.

Evashevski, whose Hawkeyes play their Homecoming game Saturday with Northwestern, told the Chicago Football Writers' Association by amplified long-distance phone:

Thornton In Control

"Thornton has the Northwestern team in the palm of his hand — he has complete control of it. He is the top Big Ten sophomore of the year, without a doubt.

"With halfbacks Willmer Fowler and Ron Burton, Northwestern has the fastest backfield in the conference. I look for Northwestern to get better. Of course, they were pretty good against Michigan winning 55-24.

"We'll have some secret workouts this week like we did last week in preparing for Wisconsin (Iowa won 20-9). It was in the secret workout last week that we developed the flanker fullback to use against Wisconsin. It was effective at times but not as much so as expected."

Parseghian said Thornton has remarkable poise for a sophomore.

Calls Own Plays

"I don't tell him what plays to call," said Parseghian. "He calls his own shots out there. He reflects leadership and in tight situations doesn't lose his poise.

"As for Iowa, they have fast halfbacks and a fine quarterback in Randy Duncan. Their criss-cross offensive pattern will be hard to defend against.

"We're still just getting off the floor after failing to win a game last year. Michigan certainly is a better team than what happened last Saturday. Injuries really hurt them and breaks went against them. Our defense, however, was good enough to cash in on a lot of their mistakes, and even make them make some.

"But, I still don't know how really good we are."

Bush, Adams To Speak At November Dental Meetings

Two members of the SUI dental faculty are scheduled to give talks at dental meetings in the near future.

Dr. James B. Bush, head of oral diagnosis in the SUI College of Dentistry, will give a paper at the national meeting of the American Dental Association, which will open in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 10. His topic will be "examination, Diagnosis and Treatment Planning."

Dr. Clifton D. Adams, instructor in prosthetic dentistry will speak today at the Mississippi Valley Dental Meeting in Davenport. His subject will be the positioning of the lower jaw and its relationship to complete denture construction.

Dr. Bush will attend a conference on the teaching or oral diagnosis at the University of Kansas City No. 14-15. He spoke Tuesday evening in Des Moines to the Iowa Dental Study Club on "Pre-Payment Plans and the Future of Dentistry."

Register By Friday, Voters

Friday is the deadline for registration of Iowa City voters, City Clerk Walker D. Shellady said Wednesday.

Hours for registration are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily in the Clerk's office.

Coralville and University Heights need not register, Shellady said, since they are not residents of Iowa City. Likewise, residents of the Stadium and Finkbine Park may simply go to the polls and take an oath that they are qualified voters.

Persons who have registered and voted in at least one election in the past four years need not register again.

Those who have not voted in the past four years must register again.

6 Former Students Have Rhodes, Fulbright Awards

SUI students have numerous opportunities to study abroad under the administration and sponsorship of both the U.S. Government and private organizations.

Top award each year is the Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford University in England. Larry Popofsky, Oskaloosa, a former SUI student is now in his first year as a Rhodes scholar at the British school.

In 1954, Rex Jamison, an SUI medical student, was also awarded a Rhodes scholarship.

Fulbright Scholarship

The Fulbright scholarship is also as popular program and former SUI students in Europe now under this program include Donald Sherk, at Canberra University in Australia, Sandra Levinson and Phyllis R. Halden at the University of Manchester in England and Frederick de Luna at the University of Paris.

Past accomplishments in the academic field is considered in both the Fulbright and Rhodes plan. Also important is a plan submitted by the student on his proposed plan of study abroad.

Thirty-two Rhodes scholars are chosen from the United States each year while no limit is put on awards made by the Fulbright program. The Rhodes scholars are chosen from competition first among the applicants in a state and then from among winners from several state districts.

Applications, Awards

Applicants for the Rhodes scholarship should be male, unmarried, between the ages of 18 and 24. The award is made for two years and may be renewed if the student's academic record indicates value of further study.

The applicant must be a citizen of the United States with at least 5 years residence here.

For the Fulbright scholarship a one year program, preference is given to applicants not more than 35 years old and who have never lived or studied abroad. No stipulation is put on the Fulbright scholarship with regard to citizenship.

Expenses Covered

The Oxford scholarship pays 750 pounds in English currency, about $2,100 in U.S. money, while the Fulbright scholarship takes care of the transportation to the school attended, expenses of the language refresher or orientation course, tuition, books and maintenance based on the normal living expenses in the host country for the year.

The John Hay Whitney Foundation for instance, offers $1,000 to $3,000 stipends for graduate study or experience abroad from ages 22 to 35.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization also offers programs in international affairs.

Complete programs for graduate scholarships can be obtained from the Graduate College in Old Capital.

Dentists Meet This Weekend

New developments in high-speed dentistry, materials for making dental impressions, and treatment of problems in the supporting tissues of the teeth will be among subjects presented at the 41st annual meeting of the College of Dentistry Alumni Association at SUI Friday and Saturday.

Speakers will include Dr. Leonard Samuel Fosdick, Dr. Arne Foster Romnes, and Dr. Eugene William Skinner, all of the Northwestern University school of dentistry.

Officers of the dental alumni group are Dr. Elmer C. Prall, Mount Vernon, president; Dr. Merle P. Braley, Manson, vice-president; Dr. Ernest A. Sahs, Iowa City, secretary, and Dr. John Hogeland, Iowa City, treasurer.

2 Held For Robbery, Terrorizing Farm Pair

WEBSTER CITY (AP) — Two men held in the holdup of a Jewell cafe and for terrorizing a farm couple probably will be charged with armed robbery, Sheriff E. R. Lear said Tuesday night.

The sheriff identified the pair as Samuel Parras, 40, and David Lowell Olds, 27, both of Des Moines. Both men were released from Fort Madison penitentiary in August.

An armed holdup of the Royal 400 Station and Cafe on U.S. 69 in Jewell was followed a half hour later by an incident at the Clarence Johnson farm home a mile south and a mile west of Jewell.

Von Braun Pays Tribute To Van Allen's Work

DES MOINES — Noted rocket scientist Dr. Wehrner von Braun took an audience on a 40-minute tour through space in an address before the Iowa Bankers Assn. here Tuesday.

Outlining the achievements of the Pioneer moon rocket recently launched by the Air Force, von Braun said it obtained highly important data on radiation. "something which has concerned all of us since the Explorers first discovered the phenomena."

"I'm particularly referring in this connection," he said, "to my good friend, Dr. James Van Allen of SUI, the first to discover the existence of the radioactive belt with Explorer I."

Spry Campaigning With State Funds—Hill

WEBSTER CITY — Iowa. Secretary of Agriculture Clyde Spry was criticized Tuesday night for using hundreds of thousands of dollars of taxpayers money and time "to perpetuate himself as secretary of agriculture."

Neal Hill, Democratic candidate for the job, said: "for months employees of the agricultural department have been used to pass out Republican Party literature in every county of the state."

Job Placement Meetings Set For Feb., June Grads

Students interested in teaching or administrative positions in February or June are urged to attend placement meetings next week the Educational Placement Office said.

The meetings will feature discussion of job opportunities, salaries, and procedure for registering for placement.

Miss Ermina E. Busch, director, said, "It is to the advantage of every student who will be looking for a position to register now. We are already receiving calls from prospective employers."

Graduate students will meet Oct. 28, at 4:30 p.m. in 221A Schaeffer Hall.

Seniors will meet Oct. 29, at 4:30 p.m. in 221 Schaeffer Hall.

Photos Of Nude College Girls Start Conflict

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Silhouette photographs of nude college girls touched off a controversy Tuesday between doctors and educators.

The photos, made for a posture program, were termed medically valueless by the Baltimore County Medical Assn. The doctors' resolution also said the photos were "beneath the Christian dignity of womanhood."

Maryland's top education official said he was "astonished" at the doctors reaction.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of education, demanded to appear before the medical group "to find out who our accusers are and on what facts they base their opinions." He said there was "nothing immoral" about the posture program.

Some parents have objected to the photos, made of freshmen girls at Towson State Teachers College.

Dr. Corrine Bize, director of health and physical education at the college, said none of the subject's facial features is transferred to the photograph. She said the girls stand nude only for a moment while sensitized paper in a special camera records the profile of their forms.

Dr. Earl T. Hawkins, college president, said corrective exercises designed to improve posture defects are prescribed following studies of the silhouette prints.

Dr. Hawkins said all freshmen girls must participate in the program but are permitted to decide whether to disrobe completely.

Recital Saturday At Shambaugh

Works of Chopin, Haydn and Sambuel Barber will be featured on a Homecoming recital to be presented by the SUI Music Department Saturday at 10 a.m. in Shambaugh Auditorium.

Opening the program will be Chopin's "Polanaise Brilliante in E flat, Op. 22," to be played by pianist James Taggart, a graduate assistant in music.

Richard Grace, baritone, will sing three Samuel Barber selections—"Rain Has Fallen," Sleep Now," and "I Hear an Army." Texts for the songs are taken from "Chamber Music," by James Joyce. Grace will be accompanied by Michael Kurkjian. Both are graduate assistants in music.

Concluding the recital will be Haydn's "Quartet in D Major, Op. 64, No. 5 (The Lark)," to be played by Stuart Canin, violin, John Ferrell, violin; William Preucil, viola; and Hams Koelbel, violincello. All four members of the string quartet are on the SUI music facuty.

The recital will be open to the public free of charge.

White Surrenders Tuesday At Tiffin

Virgil White from the Eldora Training School for Boys, who fled from his group after attending a meeting at SUI Monday, turned himself in Tuesday afternoon.

White is being held in Johnson County after being taken into custody by a Highway Patrolman about 5 p.m. in a grocery store in Tiffin.

White had been attending an Iowa High School Press Association meeting in Iowa City Monday and ran away from a teacher and four other boys in the Amanas Monday about 6 p.m.

Thayer Elected Sec'y Of Veterinary Group

Dr. C. B. Thayer, animal care veterinarian in the SUI College of Medicine, was elected secretary of the Eastern Iowa Veterinary Association in Cedar Rapids Tuesday.

Thayer was also appointed representative of the association on the advisory committee of the Iowa State Veterinary Medicine Association.

Over 300 veterinarians attended the 45th annual meeting of the association.

Pope May Be Italian

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A conviction grew in Rome Tuesday that the next pope will come from the ranks of the elderly, conservative Italian members of the College of Cardinals.

Almost all the members of the college now are at the Vatican or nearby, and they are in a position to engage in a steady exchange of ideas before they begin voting Saturday on a successor to Pius XII.

Council Says Recreation Not 'Goofing Off'

Many of us still need to get over the idea that recreation is a form of "goofing off" of being lazy, speakers at the annual statewide meeting of the Iowa City Council Improvement at SUI said Tuesday.

True recreation involves a recreation of the mind, body and spirit, Betty van der Smissen pointed out in serving as chairman of a panel on what communities can do to make life more enjoyable for their citizens. Dr. ver der Smissen is an assistant professor of physical education for women.

Most educators in the past have been concerned primarily with teaching people how to earn a living, panel members said. Shorter working hours today have pointed up a need to educate people for leisure, as opposed to idleness. Such education should give deeper satisfactions and make us "bigger" people.

Community centers should reach out to neighboring towns to draw people, since recreation needs to involve meeting new people as well as learning new things, the group agreed. Young people, particularly, find recreation more stimulating if they meet youths other than those with whom they work or go to school.

Community recreation facilities can also develop satisifying feelings of closeness and belonging in those living in a town, one speaker said.

Development of recreation facilities such as bowling alleys has economic value for the community, too, since they create business and employment, the group noted, and encourage industry to locate.

Members of the panel included L. L. Picket, Scott County superintendent of schools, Davenport; Bill Riaski, executive secretary of the Iowa division of the Isaak Walton Leagues of America, Guthrie Center; George Wilkinson, extension specialist in recreation, Iowa State College, Ames, and John W. Hayek, Iowa City, Iowa delegate to the 1958 Boys' Nation.

Robert F. Ray, president of the Iowa Council for Community Improvement and director of the SUI Institute of Public Affairs, presided at the session.
