Homecoming Pits Hawkeyes Against Northwestern Today

By LOU TOWNSEND
Sports Editor

Iowa and Northwestern, a pair of undefeated teams, clash today at 1:30 p.m. at Kinnick Stadium. Both teams are tied with Ohio State at the top of the Big Ten stand- ings with two victories apiece.

Iowa was rated seventh in this week's Associated Press Football Poll, its highest ranking in eight years. Iowa has not appeared above fifth place in these polls since 1954, its best year in the sport since 1939.

The Hawkeyes are in the midst of a three-game winning streak under coach Don Treadwell. They have scored second only to Northwestern in the Big Ten.

Northwestern, on the other hand, has been on fire since the end of last season. The Wildcats have been led by a solid defense and a high-powered offense.

The game will be the first between the two schools with Iowa leading 3 to 1 in the series. It will be a big event for both teams, especially for the fans.

Cane Code
Canenapping, Desertion, Concealed Stalking
By Tom Nursum

Have you seen the man on the can? How could you? He's the one coming out of the idea with the code of the Cane. A man who, if you followed him around enough, might just come to the conclusion that the Cane is a little too much. Or that he is a little too much.

Laws of the Code:
1. If you see the can, do not pursue. You will be pursuing, not the man who sees you, but the man who sees you. It is the man who sees you who is the pursuer. The chase is on.
2. If you are seen, do not run. Run will only make you look guilty. Keep calm and carry on.

In Iowa City today, a man was found guilty of canenapping. He was sentenced to community service, which consists of picking up the cans and returning them to the, um, source.

The code is strict, but fair, and many members of the Cane community are thankful for it. They would not want to live in a world where cans roam free, unattended, and unseen.

Dear Editor,

I am writing to express my concern about the recent actions of a group of individuals who have been engaging in an activity known as Cane Code. These activities involve the unauthorized removal of cans from various locations, creating a sense of chaos and confusion.

I believe that the Cane Code is a clear misuse of the Cane community's resources and values, and I urge you to take decisive action to address this issue.

Yours sincerely,

Tobias Smith

WSU Again Uses Traffic Spotter Plane

The WSU uses a traffic spotter plane to keep an eye on the football games. This plane, which is used to track the movement of the football players, is flown by a licensed pilot and has a range of up to 200 miles. The plane is equipped with cameras that record the movements of the players and are used to analyze their performance.

The plane is flown from a designated point, usually near the football field, and is operated by a control tower located at the airport.

The use of the traffic spotter plane is controversial, with some arguing that it is an invasion of privacy and others stating that it is necessary to improve the safety of the players.

Nixon Looks To President Race In '60

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington — Richard Nixon, seeking his third term as president, declared yesterday that he will run for the White House again in 1968, as he had in 1960 and 1964.

"I have made no secret of my desire to serve the American people as their president," Nixon said in a statement. "I have always believed that the best way to serve the American people is to work for their interests as their elected representative."

Nixon, who is running as the Republican candidate, said that he will seek the nomination of his party at the 1968 convention.

He also said that he will work to ensure that the nomination is based on merit and integrity.

The announcement came as the Republican National Committee held its annual meeting in New York City.

Iowa Favorably Over Wildcats By One Touchdown

Hawks No. 7 Team In Nation, Northwestern Rated Eighth

The Hawkeyes won last year's contest in Iowa City, 20-13, and this year they are favored by two touchdowns. Northwestern can move into a tie for first place in the conference with a victory.

Northwestern has already moved over .500 in conference and is off to a 3-1 start. They have been competitive in all their games, losing to Iowa by one point, Illinois by six points, and Ohio State by 14 points.

West Virginia, which has been on the rise in recent years, faces the nation's fourth-ranked defense. The Mountaineers have allowed just 206 yards per game, and their defense is led by All-American linebacker Jim Andrusetti and defensive tackle and halfback Ron Burton.

With Andrusetti and Burton leading the way, the Mountaineers are a force to be reckoned with. They have allowed just 127 yards per game and have been stingy against the run.

The Mountaineers are led by quarterback Lewis, who has thrown for 1,350 yards and 13 touchdowns. He also leads the nation in passing efficiency with a 180.7 rating. His favorite target is wide receiver Perry, who has caught 50 passes for 701 yards and seven touchdowns.

The Mountaineers have a balanced offense, with 400 yards per game, and their defense has been strong against the run, allowing just 121.7 yards per game.

The Hawkeyes are led by quarterback Duncan, who has thrown for 1,400 yards and 14 touchdowns. His favorite target is wide receiver Grinnell, who has caught 50 passes for 660 yards and six touchdowns.

The Hawkeyes have a balanced offense, with 425 yards per game, and their defense has been strong against the run, allowing just 111.7 yards per game.

Northwestern is favored by 10 points, but the Mountaineers are a tough team to beat. They have won their last three games and are playing well. This should be a close and entertaining contest.
