

Shocked GOP Watch Iowa Democrats Surge To Victory

Leading In Votes At 2 a.m.

Neuzil Beats Barker For County Att'y

Normally Democratic Johnson County continued in the Democratic column Tuesday night, but late election returns revealed a number of close races. Out of a total of 17 state and local races, Democrats were leading in 13 contests, and Republicans were ahead in only 4.

In Iowa City, where a record vote of 8180 for a midterm election was cast, returns showed mixed results, with Democrats and Republicans running fairly even in close contests. In the 22 rural precincts outside the Iowa City area, however, the vote was overwhelmingly Democratic. Only three of these precincts gave the edge to the Republicans.

On the county level, at least one upset occurred, as Ralph Neuzil, Democratic candidate for county attorney built a substantial lead over his Republican opponent, Charles Barker. Returns from rural precincts outside the city were strengthening this trend.

Republican incumbent Fred Schwengel, Congressman from the First Congressional District, trailed his Democratic opponent Thomas Dailey 6374-6478 in the county as a whole, with all precincts fully reported. His lead in the rest of the district, however, appeared to assure his re-election.

In the gubernatorial race, late returns showed Johnson County giving Gov. Herschel Loveless only a slim 300 vote lead over Republican William Murray.

In the race for county representative to the Iowa House, the incumbent Democrat Scott Swisher was elected, with a 7-5 lead over G. M. Ludwig, the Republican candidate.

Johnson County differed from returns around the state on only two major state offices: secretary of state, and state auditor. In these races, county returns showed Melvin D. Synhorst, Republican, slightly ahead of Democrat Mrs. Edith Johnson. In the auditor's race, Republican Chet B. Akers also held a slight margin over the Democratic candidate, J. Rex Weddle.

In one other major county contest, Republican Albert J. (Pat) Murphy, the incumbent county sheriff, held a slight edge over Democrat William A. Kern, and appeared to be re-elected.

Democratic candidates appeared to sweep the county in all four contests for the state Supreme Court. Democrats Frank F. Messer, Iowa City attorney, P. J. Siegers, and Eugene Thornton all received more votes than Republican candidates for the three regular judgeships open. In a race to fill a vacancy, Democrat Harry Garrett held a small lead throughout the county over Republican J. E. Heiserman.

County voters expressed preference for Democratic candidates in most major state offices. Late returns showed Edward J. McManus ahead of Republican W. L. Mooty in the contest for Lt. Governor. Democrat Harvey Montgomery was leading his Republican opponent, M. L. Abramson for State Treasurer by about 150 votes.

In the contest for Secretary of Agriculture Democrat Neel F. Hill held a 200 vote lead over the Republican Clyde Spry; and in the race for Attorney General, Democrat Don Wilson was leading the incumbent Republican Norman Erbe by more than 500 votes.

Democrats Harold E. Hughes and Bernard J. Martin were well in the lead over Republicans John M. Ropes and Lloyd R. Smith in county returns on the election of two state commerce commissioners.

There were eight local elective positions in which the incumbents were unopposed. These included: Harold D. Evans, district judge, eighth district; R. J. Jones, county recorder; Oren Alt, county supervisor; William L. Kanak, county auditor; Lumir W. Jansa, county treasurer; R. Neilson Miller, clerk of district court; George D. Callahan, county coroner; and Emil Novy, county supervisor.

Loveless, Etc., Sweep Into State Offices

Other Winners: Coad, McManus, Smith, Wolf

DES MOINES (AP) — Democratic Gov. Herschel Loveless, who campaigned on a "hold the line on taxes" platform, apparently won re-election in traditionally Republican Iowa today.

With Loveless holding a steady lead of from 55 to 58 per cent with more than half the state's 2,487 precincts reporting, his Republican opponent, Iowa State College Professor William G. Murray, conceded.

The unofficial returns indicated a strong Democratic tide in Iowa, which has been known for years as one of the Republican Party's strongest bastions.

It appeared likely that Democratic State Sen. Edward J. McManus had won the lieutenant governor chair over Republican Speaker of the House W. L. Mooty, and Democrats were leading for most other state offices.

Returns from 572 precincts gave Loveless 87,974 and Murray 67,448. For lieutenant governor, Democratic State Sen. Edward J. McManus led Speaker of the House W. L. Mooty 80,781 to 65,993.

As the vote tally entered the final stretch in Iowa's election, the state had elected two Democratic congressmen and seemed likely to elect at least two more, providing a 4-4 split in the eight-member delegation which is now 7-1 in the Republican's favor.

Rep. Merwin Coad, Boone Democrat who broke the ice in 1956, sailed to an easy victory in the 6th District and Democrat Neal Smith, Des Moines attorney, deposed GOP incumbent Paul Cunningham in the 5th.

Leonard Wolf, Elkader Democrat, appeared to be in line for a victory over longtime incumbent Henry O. Talle of Decorah, in the 6th District, but 67 of the 347 precincts remained to be tallied to make it definite.

GOP Rep. Fred Schwengel of Davenport was safely ahead of Tom Dailey of Burlington, in the 1st District but Republican Representatives Ben Jensen and Charles Hoeven in the 7th and 8th were in neck-and-neck races.

The 4th District, with less than two-thirds of the precincts tallied, was still anybody's race but Steven Carter, Leon Democrat, held a slight margin steadily over John Kyl of Bloomfield.

The 3rd District Congressman, Rep. H. R. Gross of Waterloo Republican appeared to be winning re-election.

Not since the mid 1930s has there been such a swing to the Democratic ranks by Iowa voters. Pre-election forecasts hadn't anticipated such a tide.

Gov. Loveless, who upset former Gov. Leo Hoegh by a 29,000 vote margin two years ago, is only the third Democrat elected chief executive in Iowa since the turn of the century, and the second to win re-election.

The last previous Iowa Democratic governor to serve two terms was the late Clyde Herring, elected in 1932 and 1934. Until Loveless won in 1956, no Democrat had occupied the governor's office since Nels Kraschel who served from 1937-39.

Voting took place Tuesday with mild autumn weather blanketing the state.

In a closing statement Monday night, Murray said he had been in every one of Iowa's 99 counties twice and had traveled 57,000 miles in his effort to out Loveless.

Loveless, in his final statement, said the strenuousness of the campaign was reflected in his 90 political appearances in the last 30 days. Loveless won the office two years ago by beating Republican Leo Hoegh by 29,000 votes in an upset.

Of the eight congressional seats, an improved farm economy was regarded by most election observers as favoring the Republicans. Iowa's Republican senators, Bourke Hickenlooper and Tom Martin, were not involved in election contests this year. They campaigned actively for Murray and their congressional colleagues seeking re-election.

Loveless and Murray differed most sharply over taxation and state aid to schools.

Murray advocated raising the state sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent and using the extra money for state school aid and relief of local property taxes.

Loveless called for keeping the sales tax at 2 per cent. He termed Murray's proposal a "$30 million tax grab" and declared school district reorganization and improved efficiency in the schools will eventually result in property tax relief.

Traffic Safety Campaign Off To Good Start

Police Chief White Lends Support To Drive

Iowa City police chief Oliver White said Tuesday that he "very definitely" supports "Save a Life Week," a safety campaign started this week by The Daily Iowan.

One thousand bumper stickers, made available by the Iowa Department of Public Safety, will be given out to SUV car owners this week in connection with the campaign. The stickers read: "Let's Save 100 Lives — Watch Your Points."

"We've had a pretty black month in Iowa City accident-wise," Chief White said.

Quoting from his monthly report to be given to the Iowa City Council, Chief White said there have been 19 personal injury accidents in the city this month, and 79 such accidents recorded so far for the year.

"That's 13 more personal injury accidents this year than occurred during the same period last year," Chief White said.

A total of 28 persons were injured in the 19 accidents recorded in October, Chief White reported. On the brighter side, accidents causing property damage have dropped from a high of 572 for the first 10 months of last year to 548 for the present period.

Chief White said that he was "all for any program, whether sponsored by university, the state, or the high school, that might help to save lives." Referring to Iowa City's 4-year record of no traffic fatalities, Chief White said the city has been fortunate that no deaths have occurred.

Should Take Pride
"Students at SUV should take as much pride in this record as we who live in Iowa City the year around," Chief White declared.

Although the city has recorded no fatal traffic accidents this year, the Johnson County death toll was raised to 18 Sunday, when three Linn County residents were killed in two separate accidents.

A 2-car collision four miles north of North Liberty claimed the lives of Adolph Volpaka, 18, and Barbara Stramel, 18, both of Cedar Rapids. Kathryn Miller, 7, Lisbon, died in another 2-car accident at the intersection of Highways 1 and 22 in Kalona.

Something New And Fine

So we're going to have an off-Broadway theatre here at SU1. All we can say is Bravo! The University Theatre does a commendable job of providing a showcase for the more standard, or oft-produced works. It even produces originals at times; but seldom has it gone in for the off-beat, Studio Theatre; to be dedicated Thursday night, will offer a stage for the more experimental and avante garde productions and we're all for it.

the different, the newer concepts in this art-form. Although it may not draw the crowds of its big sister, it is a worthwhile venture and to be applauded.

We hope the directors will be selective in their choice of material. They must walk the fine line and be receptive to plays which are different yet worthwhile, at the same time recognizing and discarding plays which are off-beat merely for the sake of being off-beat.

A Campaign To Forget

As this editorial is being written, voters in Iowa and across the nation are going to the polls and choosing the men and women who will represent them in our government. The campaigns are through for another year. We're glad they're over.

money found its way into Democratic coffers, was inexcusable. Other attacks on Governor Loveless' personal honesty were similarly lacking in taste. If a party has something to report about the opposition, let them do it openly and with substantiating evidence. A campaign of rumor and insinuation should be beneath the dignity of any responsible political organization.

We realize that what is written here will influence no votes, nor is it meant to. We merely hope that future campaigns will be conducted on a higher level. By the time this is read, the winners will have been decided, but whether the candidates in question were elected or defeated, we feel certain they lost many votes through their acceptance, either active or passive, of this particularly low-type campaign.

And, believing that this country's citizens are not indifferent to the injustices so flagrantly exhibited this year in the name of politics, we confidently predict the defeat of William Murray and William Knowland.

It seems to us that voters have seen some unusually low-type campaigning this year, filled with hate-baiting and unfounded or unproven insinuations. In California, two powerful newspapers withdrew their support from Sen. William Knowland in his fight for the governorship. In New York, one large newspaper withdrew its support from Averell Harriman in his bid for re-election as governor. And in Iowa, we at this newspaper have been disappointed and distressed at the type of campaign waged by the Murray-for-Governor headquarters in Des Moines.

Never in our memory have we seen such a multitude of misleading, insinuating press releases attacking the opposition on so many ill-considered accounts. The distasteful release implying by denial that the Greenlease kidnap

Letters To The Editor —

A Public Affair In The Union

To the editor: I have just returned from the showing of the movie "An Affair to Remember" sponsored by Union Board (Sunday night). The movie so far as I was able to ascertain, is fairly well done and one which was well chosen for this type of showing. Union Board is to be commended for sponsoring this activity. But, somewhere between planning and execution there was a blunder.

I stayed through the first reel and into the second and no improvement was noticeable. My eyes would not stand the punishment. Perhaps the operator was inexperienced or there was some other technical difficulty. At any rate, it was not excusable.

The showing was started either three or four times, (I lost count) and each time it was badly out of focus; and the sound track distorted. After the final start the thing simply remained out of focus although the sound was intelligible.

If Union Board is going to sponsor such events, it should be done in such a manner to assure proper presentation. What was shown was, in my opinion, worse than nothing. My one thought as I left what I had hoped to be a pleasant evening was, "What blithering, blundering incompetent was responsible, and why?"

Them's Fightin' Words, Lad

To the editor: I see that old man Evashevski is taking bows for beating a crummy Michigan team that we softened up for him, along with a little help from the Detroit police. Well, let him have his cake now. We'll take care of him next week.

Pound for pound, we've got the best line in the conference and we'll prove it next Saturday. Gopher Gus

P.S. I hope you get this by Saturday. I understand that they don't have trains or planes going into Iowa City. Probably can't see over the corn stalks.

(Editor's note: We can't vouch for the authenticity of this letter, but it does have a Saint Paul, Minn., postmark. If this fellow really means what he says, we'd like to make a little wager on the strength of the line, and we'd like to watch this fellow's face after the season when "old man" Evy takes his bows as "Coach of the Year," an honor we feel he deserves for helping make Iowa the best team in the country the past three years.)

Reader Says University Band Ranks As Greatest In The Nation

To the editor: I am not a student, but I had the extreme pleasure of assisting the University Band on their recent trip to Ann Arbor, Michigan.

I am of the opinion that we not only left Ann Arbor with the greatest football team in the nation, but also with a band equal in ranking. My hat is off to a wonderful group of young men, the twirlers, and the assistants all under the direction of our fine director Professor Ebbs, who proved that Iowa, despite many somewhat sarcastic Michigan comments, produces many things besides corn.

If this is "corn"—let's have three statewide "hats-off" to those golden grains!

The Losers

An Ex-Iowa Senator Had The Right Idea

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the victors belong the spoils. To the losers belong the excuses.

But possibly none of the 530 candidates who did not get elected senator, representative or governor in Tuesday's election can match former Sen. Guy Gillette (D-Iowa) for candor and simplicity. Consider this exchange after his defeat in 1954:

Q. "What primarily do you think accounted for your defeat, Sen. Gillette?"

A. "Well, primarily it was that I didn't get enough votes."

Hidden In History

Historians bog down when they try to find out when man first voted — or when the first defeated candidate tried to frame a suitable answer to that awful query: "What happened?"

But even in primitive societies the head man would call his flock together occasionally and seek its approval on what would be touchy matters.

Early voting could be done with a shout of approval (still around in "All in favor say Aye"), by clanging a spear on the shield (you rarely hear good spear-clanging in polling booths these days), or by a show method when personalities aren't involved.

The Greeks invented the secret ballot for special occasions, with voters dropping pebbles into urns. Appropriately, pebbling was used in this country. A voter who worked the first voting machines pulled a lever, and a little ball dropped down indicating his choice, a mechanical throwback to the age of Athens.

How To Buy A Vote

Election customs have varied immensely. Now guzzling around polling places is customarily frowned upon. But George Washington, following the political habits of the times, forked up eight pounds for treats when he was running for the Virginia House of Burgesses. It's not clear whether his money went for a hoghead of toddy, or for cakes, coffee and entertainment. Anyway, he won.

But consider James Madison, running for re-election to the Virginia Assembly in 1777. Madison took a narrow view of toddy and cakes, bought none and lost.

A Diplomat Doesn't Drink

(After Working Hours)

By GEORGE DIXON King Features Syndicate

MADRID — I don't want to administer any shocks that my constituents may not be conditioned to absorb, but there is a certain amount of drinking on the part of U.S. Government officials stationed in Spain. In fact, if some of these transplanted public servants do not exercise eternal vigilance, they are apt to get their professional life hopelessly entangled with their social, and never be quite sure whether they are drinking during working hours or working during drinking hours.

DIXON

Many confess brokenly that they contracted the liquor habit from junketing Congressmen to whom they have been assigned for varying periods. They hiccup that, after a few days and nights with a Congressional delegation using counterpart funds, they just can't brave the withdrawal pains of tapering off, particularly as they know another delegation will be coming along shortly and they'll have to taper on again.

I am proud to report, however, that today I ran into one brave American who has shattered the foul shackles.

I went to the American Embassy because you can never tell with our embassies abroad but what they might have news from home. I wanted to know if it was true that Averell Harriman was running against Carmine DeSapio. No one seemed to know anything about this, although a fellow in an elevator said he had heard there was a trend either away from, or toward, the Republican Party, but he wished I wouldn't mention it to Ambassador John Davis Lodge because the Ambassador worries about Republicans, even at this distance.

The U.S. Embassy is a bright new building that looks as if it might have been designed for the administrative offices of a pickle factory. Ambassador Lodge was concerned about it at first. He was afraid the Spaniards might growl politely that it clashed with the lovely old surroundings architecture. His fears were assuaged when the Jesuits erected a completely functional administrative building next door and the Good Fathers took to calling it the "Loyola Hilton."

In the office of Embassy Press Chief Owen R. Hutchinson, I ran into an old sidekick, Rex Smith, who has just pulled the press agent switch of the year. Mr. Smith made so much money as publicity head of an airline that he was able to retire and go back to being a newspaperman.

It was getting late and Press Chief Hutchinson hinted delicately that we blow by remarking that it was long past quitting time. He volunteered to drive us to our hotel. Naturally, when we got there, we invited him in for a drink.

His reply, I submit, is one that should be deathless. It sums up the whole situation created by the terrible drinking demands that are made upon our emissaries abroad.

Mr. Hutchinson declared that, under no circumstances, would he accept our invitation to a drink. We demanded to know why he was scorning our hospitality.

"Because," he replied uncompromisingly, "I don't have to drink now. I'm not on duty."

The big bullfighting season was over, but there were still some corridas at small rings out in the country at the Spanish equivalent of county fairs. We went to one in Guadalajara, a couple of hours from Madrid by bus.

Although it was an out-of-the-way show, the star was Luis Miguel Dominguez, one of the world's best-known matadors, whose name was linked romantically with Ava Gardner until he married another lady. Miss Gardner was present—but so was Senora Dominguez.

The movie star hung on every move of the bullfighter and appeared close to swooning when the bull hurled Dominguez twenty feet. It developed, however, that the bull had struck with the side of a horn, not the point.

But neither then, nor subsequently, did Luis Miguel give Ava a thing, although he had a nice assortment of bulls' ears and tails to distribute.

MEMBERS OF THE CAST of "Danton's Death," to be presented by SUI's new Studio Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights plot to send Danton to the guillotine. Under the guise of the committee of public safety set up during the reign of terror at the time of the French revolution, the committee was heedless of actual innocence or guilt. In the roles of the members of the committee of public safety are from left to right: Donald Rosenberg, G, New York City; Loren Ingram, G, Apple River, Ill.; Erich Faust, A2, Clarksburg, West Virginia; and John Tracy, A3, Ankeny.

'Danton's Death' Will Mark Debut Of SUI Studio Theater

Three performances of "Danton's Death," a philosophical-historical drama by German playwright Georg Buchner, will mark the debut of the Studio Theatre, a new experimental wing of the SUI Speech and Dramatic Arts Department.

SUI students may get free tickets by presenting their ID cards at the East Lobby Ticket Desk in the Iowa Memorial Union this week from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and from 9 a.m. until noon Saturday.

General admission tickets for faculty, staff and Iowa Citizens may be obtained at the ticket desk for 75 cents.

The play will be presented in the Old Armory at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The purpose of the Studio Theatre is to provide a workshop for plays too involved, too elaborate or too experimental to be produced in the University Theatre. It will also be a proving-ground for graduate students who want to get more experience in directing.

Equipped with a split-level, adaptable stage area designed by A. S. Gillette, professor and director of the University Theatre, the Studio Theatre can provide a number of unusual stage sets without involving a major construction job. The new stage unit will also eliminate the need for much costly special equipment.

"Danton's Death," written over 100 years ago, depicts the political upheaval of France in 1794. Buchner is probably better known for "Wozzeck," a dramatic fragment published posthumously and later made into the text of an opera by Alban Berg.

The cast for the play includes: John Tracy, A2, Ankeny; David Thompson, A4, Bedford; Oscar Korte, A3, Cedar Rapids; Richard Marriott, A3, and Stephen West, A1, Davenport; Philip Hurlbut, Ga. Decora; Jane Gilchrist, A2, Denison; Sheridan Simons, A2, Eldora; Thomas Carson, A3, Victor, Burnett, A3, and Jane Smith, A2, all of Iowa City; Caroline Leinhausen, A4, Ottumwa; Richard Dahl, A2, Swea City; and Lela Meves, A3, Yilliams.

Also included in the cast are: Eric Faust, A3, Belmont, Calif.; Suzann Schaefer, A4, Coronado, Calif.; Nancy Kimmel, G, Atlanta, Ga.; Gerald Horn, G, Kenmore, Ky.; Wayne Begtley, G, Valley Station, Ky.; Loren Ingram, G, Apple River, Ill.; Douglas Hubbell, A2, Normal, Ill.; Judith Lanni, A2, Park Ridge, Ill.; Eleanor Petzoldt, A2, Quincy, Ill.; James Severns, G, East Chicago, Ind.; Donald Rosenberg, G, Atlantic City, N.J.; Kirk Avery, G, Bergenfield, N.J.; Sandra Skurow, A2, Cincinnati, O.; Richard Briglia, A4, Erie, Pa.; Mildred Lane, G, Clemson, S.C.; and Kent Cathcart, G, Nashville, Tenn.

Faubus Claims Court Plans "Drastic Ruling" For Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, ARK. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Monday he had "pretty reliable" information that the eighth U.S. circuit court of appeals at St. Louis has prepared a "drastic ruling" in the Little Rock School integration case.

The governor said he had heard the court planned to "attempt to force reopening of the public schools on an integrated basis."

"The rather alarming information I have may not be accurate," he said.

'Miracle' Lebanon Economy Did Not Collapse In Civil Strife

BEIRUT, LEBANON (AP) — The fact that Lebanon's economy did not collapse completely during its five months of civil strife is virtually a financial miracle.

During the period of strikes and terrorism, economic activity was paralyzed in this formerly prosperous little republic.

Premier Rashid Karami announced last week his Government has accepted in principle an offer of U.S. financial aid to offset losses incurred during the trouble.

$64,000 Question Replaced By Comedy Panel Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Another television quiz show, "The $64,000 Question," went into the ashcan Tuesday. It was the first of the big money quiz programs.

The Columbia Broadcasting System announced the program had staged its final round Sunday. It is being replaced by "Keep Talking," a comedy panel show.

"The $64,000 Question," which set off a trend in the industry when it was launched three and a half years ago, was the latest of several quiz shows to be abandoned.

Their ratings plunged after an investigation this fall into complaints that some contestants were coached on answers.

Sinatra's Car Strikes One Of Singer's Photographers

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Journal-American said Tuesday that a car in which Frank Sinatra was riding tried to run over one of its photographers on the singer's orders.

The cameraman, Mel Finkelstein, was struck and sent spinning by the vehicle's fender, and was taken to a hospital for X-rays.

Russia Advances Proposal For Controlling Atom Ban

GENEVA (AP) — Russia was reported to have advanced a proposal Tuesday for controlling a ban on nuclear tests but a communique gave no hint of a break in the deadlock with the Western Powers.

Delegates representing the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union met for two hours—their third meeting behind closed doors.

The communique said only that Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin spoke in support of a resolution described as "an agreement on cessation of tests of atomic and hydrogen weapons." No details were given.

Record Number Lose Iowa Drivers Licenses In October

DES MOINES (AP) — The state safety department reported Tuesday that more Iowans lost their drivers licenses in October than in any other single month on record.

The department suspended or revoked 1,009 licenses during the month. The previous high was 863 in September.

Safety Commissioner Russell Brown said an all-time high of 35,099 points were added to the records of 7,429 drivers during October. The number of drivers receiving points was second only to the 7,833 in April, the first month of the point system.

The state's traffic death toll rose in October for the first time in six months. Department records showed there were 70 fatalities in October compared to 56 in October, 1957. This was an increase of 25 per cent.

The death toll for the first 10 months of the year, however, is still about 16 per cent under the same period in 1957.

The department said 29 of the deaths in October occurred on secondary roads compared to 32 on primary highways and nine in urban areas.

Brown said the secondary road toll "is way out of proportion. Only about 25 per cent of our traffic moves on these roads, yet they are accounting for nearly half of our death toll."

CIGARETTE TAX UP
DES MOINES (AP) — Cigarette Tax collections last month made slight gains while beer revenue varied by about the same proportion, the Iowa Tax Commission reported Tuesday.

The cigarette tax produced $736,918 in October. Beer revenue amounted to $268,568 last month.

Attlee, speaking in Des Moines this week, will come to Iowa City on the Saturday morning train, spend the day and evening with his daughter and family, and then leave Iowa City by plane for Chicago on Sunday morning.

Lady Shipton came to Iowa City in November, 1957, with her husband, Harold W. Shipton, who joined the SUI staff as a research associate and electronic engineer in the SUI College of Medicine.

Although this is Attlee's first visit to his daughter's home, he visited the SUI campus in December, 1956, as a guest lecturer.

Nationalists Deny Use Of Poison Gas

TAIPEI (AP) — Red China charged Tuesday that troops on Quemoy were firing poison gas shells. The charge brought sharp denials from both the Nationalists and Americans.

A Peiping broadcast charged that the United States supplied the Nationalists with poison gas shells — a charge the American command on Formosa labeled untrue.

The Communists claimed that 14 soldiers on the mainland were "affected" by a Nationalist poison gas shelling at 3 p.m. Monday when Nationalist gunners returned a Red 39,162-shell bombardment.

In Washington, the State Department called the Communist charges "noxious lies" and suggested the Reds may be attempting "to divert world attention from the promiscuous killing of civilians on Quemoy."

Nationalist China's chief military spokesman, Rear Adm. Liu Hsi-tu, told newsmen: "We have no such inhuman weapon on hand and neither have the Americans given us such a weapon. We have no intention to use such weapons in any future stage in the struggle of our own people."

Iowa Remains No. 2 In Poll; LSU Still On Top

Big Ten, SEC Dominate Top Grid Powers

1. Louisiana State
2. Iowa
3. Army
4. Northwestern
5. Auburn
6. Oklahoma
7. Wisconsin
8. Purdue
9. Mississippi
10. Air Force

By HUGH FULLERTON JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Match the top five teams in the Southeastern Conference against the top five in the Big Ten and what would happen?

That question has stirred up a lot of lively and never-decided arguments in football circles. And the opinion of 165 experts, as reflected in this week's Associated Press ranking poll, does little to settle them.

Unbeaten, Untied

The balloting of sports writers and broadcasters gave Louisiana State, the unbeaten, untied SEC leader, the edge over once-tied Iowa, the Big Ten pacesetter; gave Northwestern a shade over Auburn and put Wisconsin and Purdue ahead of Mississippi.

The two conferences virtually monopolized the top ten places in the ratings, leaving room only for Army (No. 3), Oklahoma (No. 6) and the Air Force Academy (No. 10).

For the second straight week LSU, Iowa and Army ran 1-2-3 in the balloting, with not many points separating them. Then came the implausible Northwestern team which lost its top ten rating after a defeat by Iowa and regained it by handing Ohio State its first conference defeat in two seasons.

Top Hawks By 64 Votes

Louisiana State was given the No. 1 position on 82 of the 165 ballots and drew 1,443 points on the usual 10-9-8 etc. point system. Iowa drew 54 first-place votes and 1,379 points and Army drew 1,105 points. Northwestern, without a single vote for first, piled up 815 points.

Auburn, in fifth place, trailed Northwestern by only three points. Then came Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Purdue, Mississippi and Air Force to round out the top ten.

Colorado, ranked ninth the previous week, dropped clear out of the ratings after a loss to Oklahoma. Ohio State slid from fifth to 16th.

Northwestern takes on Wisconsin in a Big Ten game that could bring another fast shuffle of the ratings and Iowa plays Minnesota, which hasn't won a game.

Accept With Humility

LSU, cautioned by Coach Paul Dietzel to accept the No. 1 spot with humility, faces a Duke team that almost upset Georgia Tech last week. Army invades Texas to play 13th-ranked Rice.

Auburn vs. Mississippi State, Oklahoma at Iowa State, Mississippi vs. Houston and Air Force at Denver are this week's other games for the leaders.

Tennis Stars Say Chances Good Of Taking Davis Cup

OSAKA, Japan (AP)—Ham Richardson and Alex Olmedo both said Tuesday they thought the United States had a good chance of winning back the Davis Cup from Australia.

"I think our chances are pretty good," said Olmedo, the 22-year-old University of Southern California student from Peru who became the first foreigner named to the U.S. team.

Richardson, a young cup veteran from Arlington, Va., agreed.

"We feel we can win the doubles," Richardson said. "In our doubles matches against the Australians we never have lost. All we need to do is win a couple of singles."

Richardson and Olmedo are here for the All Japan Tennis Tournament.

Unveil Gymnastics, Wrestling Squads

By LOU YOUNKIN, Sports Editor

Iowa wrestling and gymnastic fans will get a preview of the 1958-1959 Hawkeyes in the two sports Thursday night at 7:30 in the North Gym of the Fieldhouse when Dave McCuskey and Dick Holzaepfel, wrestling and gymnastic coaches respectively, put their varsity crews through an exhibition meet with freshmen candidates.

Thursday's wrestling:

| Varsity       | Weight | Freshmen      |
|---------------|--------|---------------|
| Larry Moser   | 123    | Don Gates     |
| Vince Garcia  | 130    | Gary Miller   |
| John Kelly    | 137    | Vernon Weiss  |
| Gene Luttrell | 147    | Mike Natvig   |
| Tom Halford   | 157    | Jim Jones     |
| Joe Mullins   | 167    | Bill Hawkins  |
| Bob Riehm     | 177    | D. Schwitters |
| Jim Craig     | 191    | Joe Chezum    |
| Gordon Trapp  | 197    | Larry Straw   |
| Roger Trotter | 157    | Dennis Lucy   |

McCuskey will hold 10 matches and he promises that there will be plenty of action in store for wrestling fans. The coach expects to have a team which will be in strong contention to retain its Big Ten title this year with some strong veterans returning from last year's club.

In the 123-pound class, McCuskey looks to Larry Moser who was second in the Big Ten last year and letter winner Vince Garcia. Conference champion in the 137-pound class, Gene Luttrell, returns as does 191-pound Jim Craig who was third in Big Ten competition and in the NCAA meet.

Many other promising letter winners are on hand with some promising newcomers.

Touchdown Twins

Willie Fleming and Bob Jeter, Iowa's touchdown twins, alternated with Kevin Furlong and Ray Jauch in the No. 1 backfield with Don Horn and John Nocera holding down the fullback positions.

Curt Merz and Don Norton were at the ends, John Sawin and John Burroughs at the tackles, and Drake and Gary Grouwinkal at the guards with the first team.

Bob Prescott, Jeff Langston and Al Miller alternated at the end spots for the alternate unit with Charlie Lee at one tackle and Bob Hain, and Lewis sharing the other position. Shipanik and Gerry Novack were the guards with Humphreys over the ball.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP)—Vincent A. Grady, 29, Springfield, Ill., a member of the Western Illinois University B football team, suffered a dislocated neck in a game with the Kirksville State Teachers B squad Monday.

He was listed in critical condition at a Kirksville hospital. Hospital authorities said Grady is paralyzed from the neck down. The youth underwent surgery Monday night.

Robinson-Basilio Bout May Be Held Early Next Year

CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson may defend his middleweight title against Carmen Basilio in the Chicago Stadium next February or March.

That possibility was expressed Tuesday by Harold (Killer) Johnson, a co-manager of Robinson, who dethroned Basilio in Chicago Stadium last March and has been inactive since.

Johnson, a Chicago restaurant owner, said: "It is my understanding that Ray wants to meet Basilio again and we decided Chicago should be the site and next February or March the date."

Back in action again this year for Holzaepfel will be Big Ten and NCAA side horse champion Bill Buck along with conference free exercise champ Steve Carlson and Big Ten trampoline champion John McCurdy.

Added team strength is expected on the parallel bars and all around from Marshall Claus and Tom Novak to aid Buck and Carlsson in the overall scoring.

The frosh gymnasts to face the varsity Thursday are expected to be led by Roger Gedney on the trampoline, Ed Wilson in the free exercise, Elvin Walker on the side horse and still rings, Phil Levi on the high bar and Orville Thompson on the parallel bar and tumbling.

Uncover More Grid Betting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two Ohio State University students were arrested Tuesday in connection with a football gambling pool, similar to one recently disclosed at the University of Michigan.

Arrest of the two on charge of selling football pool tickets came on the heels of an investigation into a lottery operation on and near the Ohio State campus.

The Columbus Dispatch said it learned that the football pool here is a $10,000-a-week business.

Two students charged by the State Highway Patrol are Jay Franklin Noyes, 21, of Anderson, S.C., and Roney Adair Morris, 27, of Summerfield, Ohio. Both are seniors in the college of education.

Officers said the students got the cards they sold from a mother and son, who were arrested by police vice squadmen over the weekend.

Mrs. Margaret Soterides, 50, and her son, Christopher, 21, of Columbus, were charged with possession of football pool cards. They are slated for a court hearing Nov. 13.

ILLINOIS-MICHIGAN ON TV

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten football game between Illinois and Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday will be televised regionally via NBC, beginning at 12:30 p.m. (CST) conference headquarters announced Tuesday.

2 Changes In Hawk Lineup Made Tuesday

Hugh Drake and Bill Lapham, a couple of Iowa linemen who have been members of the alternate unit since early in the campaign, were back with the starting team in drills Tuesday.

Drake began the TCU and Air Force games, but has been playing behind Don Shipanik in recent games. Lapham was a starter in the TCU, Air Force and Wisconsin contests and has been the alternate for Lloyd Humphreys.

Regular As Soph

Both men played well in Iowa's 37-14 win at Michigan Saturday with Drake being a standout all day. A 195-pound senior, Drake was a first team member as a sophomore before Bob Comings returned from the service and replaced him.

A 235-pound junior, Lapham won a letter in 1957 as a replacement for Mac Lewis at center.

Coach Forest Evashevski had the Hawks working on their offense in the Tuesday workouts with quarterbacks Randy Duncan and Mitch Ogiego directing the attack against the reserves who were using Minnesota defenses. Iowa travels to Minneapolis Saturday to face the Gophers who are still seeking their first win of the season.

Hawks Ranked First As Louisiana State Is No. 4

Iowa, Oklahoma, Army and Louisiana State continue to hold the top four positions among the nation's college football teams in this week's Smith Touchdown Tendency System of Ratings.

Rating itself No. 1 for the second consecutive week, Iowa displayed a fleet of breakaway backs in overwhelming Michigan, 37-14.

Oklahoma's 23-7 trouncing of Colorado maintains second place for the Sooners and Army holds on to third after annihilating Colgate, 68-6. Sugar Bowl-bound Louisiana State's 14-0 triumph over previously unbeaten Mississippi enables the Bayou Tigers to remain a close-up fourth.

The rest of the top dozen underwent a wholesale upheaval. Northwestern vaults all the way from ninth to fifth on the strength of its classy 21-0 win over highly-regarded Ohio State.

Purdue, easy 31-8 victor over Illinois, jumps from eighth to sixth. Rice, idle last week, is a strong seventh.

Irish Now Eighth

Notre Dame, exhibiting an extremely high touchdown tendency in a 40-20 shellacking of Navy, graduates two rookies to eighth.

Wisconsin, barely edging Michigan State, 9-7, flutters down three notches to ninth. Texas Christian advances from twelfth to 10th, after mauling Baylor, 22-0.

Because of its 6-5 squeaker over Florida, Auburn drops to 11th. Ohio State rounds out the top dozen in 12th.

Army meets Rice this Saturday in the game of the week. Purdue collides with Ohio State and Northwestern encounters Wisconsin in other contests matching members of the top dozen.

Field Goals

Only in field goals have this year's figures been on the upgrade. Some 71 field goals have been kicked thus far—seven more than were kicked all last season and within 11 of the modern record (82) set in 1952. Kansas State leads with five.

This is the third time in five weeks that Army has led in total offense. The Cadets, a leader each alternate week, took over again while running up 68 points against Colgate, the top one-game scoring show of the year. That pushed Army from seventh to second in scoring with a 33.7 average.

Iowa, with 384.7 yards a game, and Air Force, with 374.8, are right behind Army in total offense.

Colorado Tops Rushing

While Colorado skidded from first to fourth in total offense, the Buffs retained a pretty fair edge in rushing offense. Brigham Young is second (274.4) and Penn State (260.0) third.

San Jose State jumped from 15th to first in passing yardage in two weeks, collecting 491 against Denver and Idaho.

Touchdown Twins

Willie Fleming and Bob Jeter, Iowa's touchdown twins, alternated with Kevin Furlong and Ray Jauch in the No. 1 backfield with Don Horn and John Nocera holding down the fullback positions.

Curt Merz and Don Norton were at the ends, John Sawin and John Burroughs at the tackles, and Drake and Gary Grouwinkal at the guards with the first team.

Minnesota Works On Defense For Iowa

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Minnesota Gophers looked like they had all but forgotten their six straight losses this season as they participated Tuesday in a spirited workout against Iowa plays.

Fresh ran Iowa plays against the Gophers, with the freshmen quarterbacks seeking to emulate Iowa's Randy Duncan, who is among the nation's leaders in pass completions.

A sellout crowd in excess of 63,000 is anticipated for the Minnesota-Iowa game here Saturday.

"Anyone who likes people—and selling—would like my job"

When Robert C. Schropp was a senior at the University of Omaha, he had definite ideas about his future.

"I wanted a job dealing with people—in sales or the personnel field," says Bob. "When the Bell interviewer explained how much emphasis the telephone companies put on sales and customer contacts, I knew immediately that was for me."

Bob graduated with an A.B. degree in Business in 1954, and went immediately with Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, in Omaha. Today, he is a sales supervisor with seven men reporting to him. His group is responsible for recommending and selling communications facilities like PBX switchboards, "hands free" speakerphones and "push button" telephone systems for all kinds of businesses.

"This is selling at its best," says Bob. "Customers respect the telephone company and the advice and service we can offer them. So they welcome our visits. And I'm getting valuable experience in business operations and in supervision that should help me move ahead."

"Anyone who likes people—and selling—would like my job."

Pre-Medical Meet Friday

The SUI College of Medicine will conduct its 10th annual pre-medical conference Friday at University Heights.

Dr. W. W. Morris, assistant dean for medical student affairs at SUI, says nearly 200 students and advisers from colleges throughout Iowa are expected to attend the event. The conferences are held each fall to provide pre-medical students and their advisers with information about the requirements of medicine, about entrance requirements and about the medical profession.

Speakers from various areas of the medical field address participants on subjects relating to preparation for medical school, medical training itself and the careers which lie ahead for the medical doctor.

Dr. Morris says the conferences have served as patterns for numerous other American medical schools which have sought means of communicating effectively with pre-medical students and with the educators who advise the students during their pre-medical studies. The meetings have been "extremely effective" in Iowa, Dr. Morris says. They have helped students learn well in advance the kind of preparation they need for the study of medicine, he explains, and they have helped Iowa colleges in their planning of pre-medical curricula.

More than 24,000 persons were admitted to the SUI Hospitals during the last fiscal year, according to an annual service record recently compiled.

The Hospitals also recorded more than 139,000 visits by patients whose ailments were treated on an out-patient basis. Out-patients are those whose conditions permit treatment without the patient being put to bed.

Meals served during the fiscal year totaled 1,539,789; pounds of laundry passed the 3 1/2-million mark.

More than 23,000 patients were transported by SUI ambulances. Blood transfusions totaled 9,223. The Hospitals' brace shop filled had declared in advance that the election of Rivero Aguero would mean only a continuation of the policies of President Fulgencio Batista.

Castro tried to thwart Monday's election by boycott and threats, and apparently succeeded in scaring thousands away from the polls. Rivero Aguero, a soft-spoken lawyer and long-time protege of Batista, is classified by Americans here as a good friend of the United States. He will take over Batista's job Feb. 24.

Latest unofficial returns gave him a 5-1 lead over his nearest opponent.

Army headquarters reported votes from 5,032 out of 8,521 precincts showed Rivero Aguero 651,859; Carlos Marquez Sterling 136,674; former President Ramon Grau San Martin 103,208; Alberto Salas Amaro 38,024.

It looked as if about half the 2,870,000 voters shunned the polls. The rebels, in boycotting the election, had warned that anyone who voted ran the risk of being shot.

Police To Enforce Ordinance Limiting Parking To 6 Hours

By BILL ANZINGER
Staff Writer

Police may begin enforcing an ordinance which limits parking in the same place on a city street to six hours, Police Chief O. A. White said Tuesday.

The city is unable to clean streets surrounding the business district, White said, because cars are locked up and stored there.

"Most of the cars are student cars," he said.

Last Thursday night 15 tickets were issued on Clinton Street because car owners had most of their students failed to heed "No Parking in This Block After 5 p.m." signs posted there.

White said the signs were posted so the street could be cleaned early Friday morning.

"We have the same problem in the winter, White said. The city can't do a good job getting snow off the streets because cars are stored there overnight.

Plows form a snow wall between the cars and the street, and this makes a general mess, he said.

"We don't have this trouble down town because an ordinance which prohibits parking from 2 a.m. to 6 a.m. is enforced."

Overnight Parking Nuisance
Student cars parked overnight or stored on city streets have become a nuisance to Iowa Citizens and students alike, White said.

Cars have been stored on North Capitol Street for a week or more at a time, he said. These spaces are needed for people going to the dental clinic and students going to class or on some other short business.

"Anyone who takes such needed spaces and stores his car there is cheating against other drivers," said White.

Police have had cars towed away from this spot. Many more have received tickets.

Student cars have been a nuisance in residential areas, too, White said. Many times a man has to walk a block or more to his home.

Student Problem
White agrees one big reason so many student cars are stored on the streets is that students have no where else to put them. Several fraternity and sorority houses do not have lots. People running private rooming houses often do not provide parking space, also. Currier and Burge Halls do not have parking lots.

But, White said, the city can't afford to build parking lots for students. The just-finished lot between the Campus Hotel and Varsity Cleaners cost over $61,000. And the

The Trends Merely Coincidences Or Actual Indications

By J. M. ROBERTS
AP News Analyst
For the next two years the political savants will be trying to fit Tuesday's election returns into trends affecting the future, especially 1960.

This does nobody any harm, except sometimes to the prognosticating reputations of the savants. The voters go along their frequently unpredictable way, without much attention to the patterns into which they are supposed to fall.

One reason for this is that the soothsayers are often confused because what they take for trends only represent a series of coincidences.

Personal Proxies
This is especially true of non-presidential elections, when people are voting for someone to represent them, not someone to represent the nation as a whole.

Take the so-called foreign policy debate during the campaign just ended. It has been approached from two angles. For one part, the orators have been trying to impugn or enhance the reputation of their particular parties for handling international affairs.

For the other part, they have been playing to particularly regional thought and prejudices.

The result represents no decision on an action level. The representatives to Congress chosen after such debates have been elected primarily on the basis of local issues. In general they will follow the decisions of the more experienced leaders in their parties and in the administration.

There has been, however, one extremely interesting development in the past campaign which could affect both policy and politics during the next two years.

Veep Takes Power
Secretary Dulles and President Eisenhower were doing all they could to tone down the foreign policy debate when Vice President Nixon decided he had to get into it whole hog to meet Democratic arguments.

The President didn't like it at first, but then reversed himself to let Nixon have his way.

To that degree, Nixon assumed a portion of the political leadership usually appertaining to the presidency. The next question is whether Nixon, leading candidate at present for the Republican nomination in 1960, will assume further political leadership in the next two years to shape the party for his own needs.

The President might even like that — to have his last two years uncluttered by the personal politics which he has so often sought to evade.

Jet Crashes With Atomic Device Aboard; 1 Dead

NEWTON, N.J. — One airman died and three parachuted to safety Tuesday when a jet carrying an atomic device crashed.

The crash occurred 150 yards from a house and within half a mile of a rural school.

The plane was taking off from Dyess Air Force Base when it crashed fire from the explosion of jet-assisted takeoff bottles.

The Air Force said there was no atomic explosion nor danger of one, and no radioactive contamination occurred.

"In the interest of safety all personnel were requested to stay out of the area," a spokesman said.

"A potential danger in an incident of this type would be possible contamination of a small area if the high explosive charge completely destroyed the weapon. In this instance no harmful contamination or explosion resulted from the crash."

Governor's Daughter Has Hectic Day, Not Nervous

By JANIE HUBLY
Staff Writer

One coed at SUI is dead set against ever marrying a politician. Her name is Sandra Loveless, 18-year-old daughter of Iowa Gov. and Mrs. Herschel C. Loveless.

Sandi, as she prefers to be called, is a 5 foot 3 inch freshman at SUI with short dark brown hair and big brown eyes. And Sandi thinks the life of a politician is too hectic for anybody.

Hectic Day
Tuesday was a rather "hectic" day for Sandi herself, between following her Dad's re-election race and going to Des Moines for the Loveless' election-night party.

"My folks said last Thursday night on the phone that they wanted me home for election night," she said.

Close friends of the Governor's family were to attend the party, but "when he begins to win, more people will probably come over," Sandi said.

"Two radios and three television sets will be going constantly at the party," Sandi continued, "and everything will be real confused. It will last until 2 or 3 a.m., I suppose."

When asked if she thought her father was going to win the election, Sandi replied:

Worked Hard

"I hope so, for his sake . . . He's worked so hard for re-election. Many people have told me that he has a good chance, but you never know."

She said that she wasn't too nervous at noon Tuesday, but that "she'd more than likely be on edge by the time of the party."

She rode to Des Moines Tuesday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Nall, 350 Hutchinson, who also were to attend the election party.

Sandi said she hadn't heard her parents talk of defeat in the election because "they've been too busy to think about it!" She said her mother went everywhere with the Governor during the campaign.

If Sandi could have voted in this election, she said she would have voted with an open mind.

Not For One Party

"I don't think it's good to be completely for one political party," she said, "because a person should vote for the best qualified man."

Sandi said she doesn't like to get into political discussions and when they come up at SUI, she merely explains that she would "rather not say" what her opinion is.

Being the Governor's daughter isn't the easiest thing in the world, as Sandi will readily tell anyone. With attractive modesty, she said some of the SUI-owans treat her a little "differently," and she doesn't want this.

Embarrassing Moments

"During rush especially, there were several embarrassing moments," she said. Sandi pledged Delta Delta Delta social sorority in September.

"At one football game this fall," she continued, "the people sitting behind me were really discussing my Dad and then began talking about the "Governor's daughter" too. This kind of thing bothers me sometimes," she said.

One of her instructors at SUI wouldn't believe Sandi when she said she was related to the Governor.

The family life of a Governor isn't too easy, Sandi said. She finds it difficult to catch both her parents home at the same time, even on vacations.

Certain Advantages

There are advantages to having an important father too, as Sandi can relate.

"At the last football game," she said, "my date couldn't get tickets so Dad gave us two passes for the pressbox."

Sandi hasn't decided on a major at SUI yet, though she thinks elementary education might be her field because of "a wonderful grade school teacher" she had whom she admired so much.

The Governor's daughter had a job last summer at the Iowa-Des Moines National Bank. She worked in various departments and enjoyed it very much.

Her light blue 1958 Mercury convertible, which her Dad bought for her during the "You Auto Buy NOW" campaign last spring, is sitting in the Loveless garage in Des Moines.

"My folks and I felt I wouldn't need it right away," Sandi said. "I may bring it down in the spring." Sandi also pointed out that her folks were continually talking to her about safe driving. She said if she even got one ticket, "it would surely make a front page somewhere."

She said that being the Governor's daughter caused some humorous problems in dating — especially since some of her dates were almost afraid to walk up to the front door of the Governor's house in Des Moines.

When asked if she enjoyed being the Governor's daughter, Sandi answered, "It's all right, but I wouldn't want him to be Governor for 20 years."

Rockefeller Wins By Wide Margin

NEW YORK — Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller was elected governor by an emphatic margin over Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman Tuesday in the state's "battle of the millionaires."

Harriman conceded defeat at 10:45 p.m. Rockefeller led by more than 100,000 votes with the bulk of traditionally Democratic New York City's vote counted. At that point about two-thirds of the election districts in normally Republican upstate had been tallied.

L. Judson Morhouse, state Republican chairman, predicted as the returns mounted that Rockefeller would win by more than 300,000 and possibly a half million votes. Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan, a Democrat, was leading Republican Rep. Kenneth B. Keating of Rochester for a U.S. Senate seat.

For governor, returns from 7,461 of the state's 11,525 election districts gave: Rockefeller 1,863,469; Harriman 1,746,841.

For senator, 6,411 districts gave Hogan 1,702,452; Keating 1,365,582.

Rockefeller was making inroads into normal Democratic strength in New York City.

He carried the city of Buffalo, which Harriman took four years ago.

Brown Picked As Governor Of California

SAN FRANCISCO — Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown was elected California's second Democratic governor of this century Tuesday.

The tide of Democratic votes upset the political career of his Republican opponent, Sen. William F. Knowland, who conceded at 10:32 p.m. (PST), and apparently also swept Democratic Rep. Clair Engle into the U.S. Senate over Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

Brown claimed victory at 12:08. He then held a growing lead of more than 100,000 votes.

"I believe the decisiveness of the election returns indicates I have been elected governor," said the 2-term attorney general.

Brown jumped ahead of Knowland at the start of the counting of more than 5 million votes. The Republican senator at no point challenged the Democratic surge.

Returns from 5,698 of 26,896 precincts gave Brown 345,394, Knowland 233,658.

In the senate contest, the vote from 5,676 precincts showed Engle 276,071, Knight 228,801.

Engle, better known in northern California than in the south, kept well in front of Knight in the populous southern counties, including Los Angeles. It was in the south, with the bulk of the state registration, that Knight hoped to overcome the indicated Democratic sweep.

It would mark the first defeat for both Knowland and Knight in long public careers. But for Knowland it means the blasting of any hopes for the Republican presidential nomination, at least in 1960.

The first Democrat to claim victory was Superior Court Judge Stanley Mosk of Los Angeles, running for attorney general against Republican Rep. Patrick J. Hillings of Arcadia, a close personal friend of Vice President Nixon.

At the time, Mosk was leading the 35-year-old Billings by more than 20,000 votes. A closer margin separated Democratic and Republican candidates for lieutenant governor, controller, treasurer and secretary of state.

The election attracted a huge vote — a record or close to it, for a nonpresidential year. Los Angeles set the pace with 78.4 per cent turnout, highest yet for an off year. It approached 80 per cent of the registration elsewhere.

Democrats Control Congress

had shifted to the Democrats. Rock-ribbed Republican Vermont sent a Democrat to Congress for the first time in 106 years.

Democrats won sure control of the Senate — 50 seats is a majority — when West Virginia Senators Chapman Revercomb and John D. Hohlitzell Jr. went down to defeat at the hands of Democrats Robert C. Byrd and Jennings Randolph.

The Democrats fattened their lead soon after when their Harrison A. Williams of New Jersey won a GOP-held Senate seat, defeating Rep. Robert W. Kean.

Earlier, Indiana's Republican Gov. Harold W. Handley lost by a wide margin to Democrat Vance Hartke in the race for the Senate seat vacated by Sen. William E. Jenner (R).

In Arizona, GOP Sen. Barry Goldwater, probably the Senate's most outspoken critic of many union leaders, won re-election over the onetime Senate Democratic chieftain, Gov. Ernest W. McFarland.

An estimated 48 million voters chose 33 senators and 432 representatives who — with one senator and one representative to be elected Nov. 25 in Alaska — will serve in the 86th Congress.

In that Congress, which convenes in January, there will be 62 hold-over senators, 36 Democrats, and 26 Republicans.

Final results of the balloting won't be known until sometime today but, unless the trend reverses itself, they should show increased Democratic majorities in both the Senate and the House.

Democrats went into the election with a 49-47 edge in Senate seats and a 235-200 margin in the House. In the new Congress, a majority will be 50 senators and 219 representatives. —Should the Democrats retain their control, it would be the first time in political history that a president has had three congresses of opposite political faith. President Eisenhower had a Republican Congress, the 83rd, during the first two years of his first term but lost control of the 84th and the 85th.

Tradition and the odds were against the Republicans. Not only did the political experts give them little or no chance to regain control, but history says the party in control of the White House loses congressional seats in years in which there is no presidential voting.

The experts and tradition have been upset in the past.

An Associated Press survey indicated that Democrats have a chance to pick up from 8 to 12 Senate seats and from 17 to 40 House seats, possibly more.

Paul M. Butler, Democratic national chairman, predicted gains of 47 House and 11 or 12 Senate seats.

His Republican counterpart, Meade Alcorn, foresaw "some very startling upsets" which could give the GOP control of the House. But he was not so optimistic about the Senate, conceding that it would be very difficult for Republicans to win that branch.

Republicans had 20 Senate seats and Democrats 13 at stake. All House seats, except those already filled in Maine or to be filled in Alaska, were at issue.

BINGO!

OMAHA — Initial returns from Tuesday's election showed Nebraskans favoring the legalizing of bingo by a margin of about eight to five.

Rockefeller Silent On Presidency

NEW YORK — At the height of the victory glee in Nelson Rockefeller's hotel headquarters Tuesday night, an admirer belted, "Rocky for president."

An explosion of applause rattled the glass doors in the big ballroom.

Rockefeller didn't respond. His boyish grin faded. A well-bred frown flittered across his pale face. He shook his head, emphatically. Then he turned away from the microphones into which he had just made a graceful little thank-you-all speech after his election as governor, and made his way toward the door.

He insists he is not thinking of the 1960 Republican convention. Moreover, he said, "I haven't given it a thought," when he was asked if he would personally lead the New York GOP delegation.

He sounded sincere. Be that as it may, the thought has crossed the minds of many others, particularly political analysts, that Rockefeller may collide with Vice President Richard Nixon, who now seems to have the inside track for the nod.

Certainly, the professionals will be watching him, in the next two years, like horse trainers eyeing a promising colt.

This is what they will see — He brims with personality. He has a relaxed, easy-moving manner. He reminds you of a Montana rancher, rather than a product of Bar Harbor, Maine, and Westchester County, New York.

There is just a hint, now and then, of Will Rogers in the way he handles himself. He handles reporters well, too. In the impromptu give-and-take meetings with newsmen Tuesday night, he said all the right things.

Johnson County Voter

C.W. LACINA, 938 Miller Ave., was one of the 8,180 voters to cast a ballot in the general election in Iowa City Tuesday. Lacina registered at the first ward, second precinct, in the Communications Center with his daughter in law, Mrs. Dorothy Lacina, 825 Hudson Ave. Officials reported that the number of votes cast in Iowa City Tuesday was a record number for a non-presidential election.

Murray Concedes; 'Best Wishes'

AMES — Dr. William G. Murray, Republican candidate for governor, Tuesday night conceded the re-election of Democratic Gov. Herschel Loveless.

In a brief statement, issued when unofficial returns from half Iowa's 2,487 precincts showed Loveless leading by more than 36,000 votes, Murray said:

"I have just talked personally to the Governor. I gave him my statement before I gave it to the press, and I said to him: 'Congratulations on your re-election. My best wishes to you for a successful second term as Governor of Iowa.'

"I chatted with him on a cordial basis for a minute or so."

The Republican nominee also said, "I am grateful to the thousands of workers who helped in the election. After all, I got 45 per cent of the vote and it takes a lot of work to get 45 per cent."

"The difference between 45 per cent and 55 per cent is the difference between defeat and victory. But it has been a wonderful experience. I have no feeling of regret about the campaign. I would have liked to have won, of course, but the voters decided. That is the American way."

Asked if he would consider making the race again, Murray said:

"I don't know what might happen between now and the next election."

Loveless Honored; 'Work Together'

DES MOINES — Gov. Herschel Loveless appealed early Wednesday, on being informed that Republican nominee W. G. Murray had conceded the governor's re-election, for unity of all Iowans to provide "forward-looking leadership."

The governor said in a statement: "Naturally, I am honored by the expression of approval that the citizens of Iowa have given to my first administration. It is with a profound sense of humility that I undertake the responsibilities of directing the executive branch of your state government for another two years."

"In my second term, I shall continue to strive for a better Iowa-improved government services, expanded unemployment opportunities for our citizens and an equitable sharing of the costs of government."

"With the campaign behind us, I appeal to all elements of our population and to all elected state and local officials, regardless of party to work for providing Iowa with the forward-looking leadership our people have a right to expect."

Right To Work Vote

WASHINGTON — Ohio buried a right-to-work proposal under a tide of ballots Tuesday. Fragmentary returns from California indicated that state might do the same.

In early returns Colorado also was voting against the measure to outlaw union shop agreements, but in Kansas and Idaho similar referendum measures were out in front by 4 to 3.

Washington was the sixth state voting on right-to-work. Despite lack of a voting trend there by midnight (EST), labor forces were jubilant over rejection of the measure by Ohio.

The unions had mobilized massive get-out-the-vote campaigns in both California and Ohio. Both states are major industrial areas where "yes" votes would have represented major union setbacks.

The trend indicated defeat for Proposition 18, "right-to-work," the key issue of Knowland's campaign in California.

Most of the 18 states which already have the laws are not predominantly industrial. The campaign of the right-to-work forces to invade the strongholds of union power had aroused alarm in the labor movement.

In Ohio, opponents of right-to-work rolled up a 2 to 1 majority by midnight. At that time, Kansas had built up a vote in the opposite direction.

Iowa Business Fall Review: Combination Of Sun And Rain

The fall review of Iowa business statistics shows "a combination of sunshine and rain," according to latest figures released this week by the Iowa Business Digest.

Shining brightest is the $218 million increase in Iowa cash farm receipts during the first seven months of 1958. The receipts increased from $1,196 million during January through July, 1957, to $1,414 million for the same period in 1958.

Newspaper Day Here Nov. 15

Some 100 Iowa newspapermen are expected to attend Fall Newspaper Day on the SUI campus Nov. 15.

The event is sponsored by the SUI School of Journalism and the Extension Division to give editors an opportunity to discuss professional problems.

John M. Harrison, publisher of The Daily Iowan, will speak on "The Responsibility of Editorial Page." Harrison served for six years as an editorial writer on the Toledo Blade before returning to Iowa last year. Prior to that, he had been active in the operation of the Oakland Acorn.

"How Live Is Your Morgue?" will be the subject of John R. Burrows, publisher of the Belle Plaine Union. Burrows says the Union can produce pictures and information almost immediately from its "live" morgue. He will explain how the morgue was created and how it serves the newspaper efficiently.

Al Pinder, of the Grinnell Herald-Register, will discuss "How To Develop a Strong Farm Page." The Herald-Register farm page has won awards in several regional and national contests. Pinder, managing editor and business manager of the Herald-Register, will tell how the farm page is produced and the part it plays in giving the paper a strong readership.

After the morning conference, the newsmen will adjourn for lunch at Iowa Memorial Union before attending the Iowa-Ohio State football game in the afternoon.

POLITICAL BOSS ILL

BOSTON (AP)—James M. Curley, last of the nation's old-time political bosses, underwent serious abdominal surgery at the Boston City Hospital Tuesday, two weeks short of his 84th birthday. One of Curley's last acts before undergoing the surgeon's knife was to cast a special "physical disability" ballot. He predicted a sweeping Democratic victory.

"Most of this increase has been due to improved prices for livestock and products," noted Ethel Vatter, economist with the Bureau of Business and Economic Research, which publishes the monthly Digest on the SUI campus. This rise in cash receipts came during a period in which animal slaughter declined. Four per cent fewer hogs and three per cent fewer cattle were slaughtered during the January-through-July period of 1958 than for the same period in 1957.

Lower Hog Prices
"The $24 average price for barrows and gilts reached in major Midwest markets early in July has resulted in the usual response," the Iowa Trend Column observed. There are expected to be 17 per cent more sows farrowing this fall, and further clouding the farm price scene is an expected 20 per cent farrowing increase between December and February. "Lower hog prices seem to be a definite prospect," the article stated.

The Trends column quoted a U.S. Department of Agriculture prediction that, should farmers carry out their farrowing intentions, "prices next fall will be in grave danger of falling to $10.60 per hundred pounds."

Employment Decline
Manufacturing employment declined during the first eight months of 1958 to 106,300 compared to 167,530 last year. An offset to this decline, however, was a rise in average weekly earnings in manufacturing, which stood at $86.57 in August.

Iowa construction contracts awarded during the first seven months of 1958 amounted to $223 million, a $4 million increase over the same period in 1957. The $70 million expenditures in residential construction dropped 16 per cent. However, business and commercial contracts awarded amounted to $32 million, up 50 per cent over the first seven-month period of 1957.

40 CENT DOLLAR
NEW YORK (AP)—A dollar spent for building before the war would buy only 40 cents worth of construction now, a construction news firm estimated Tuesday. This means that a builder must put up $2.50 to do the work one dollar did 17 years ago.

Mayor Gets Painting From Exhibit

A REPRODUCTION of one of the paintings on display at the Iowa Memorial Union was presented Tuesday to Iowa City Mayor Louis Loria (left) by William Byington, Iowa City pharmacist and lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve. On the right is Suzie Campbell, N4, Indianapolis, Ind., chairman of the Union Board Fine Arts Committee. The work was presented at the formal opening of a 125 painting exhibition at the Iowa Memorial Union, which runs through Sunday. The paintings are a traveling exhibit of original paintings and on-the-scene drawings by official Navy combat artists made during World War II and the Korean War. Title of the picture given the Mayor is "Task Force of Two Navies," drawn by Lt. Dwight C. Shepler.—Daily Iowan Photo by Jo Moore.

Lay Explains Problems In Personal Injury Trials

Omaha attorney Donald P. Lay addressed an overflow crowd Wednesday night in Shambaugh Lecture Hall. He explained various phases and problems in the trial of personal injury cases.

Lay, a 1951 graduate of the SUI college of law, divided his speech into two 45-minute sessions — preparation and trial, and demonstrative evidence in civil cases.

One of the youngest and most successful trial lawyers in the middle west, Lay stressed the need for more careful pre-trial preparation of evidence, and more practical use of expert testimony. He explained that in the courtroom, the expert witness becomes in effect, a teacher. It is the duty of the attorney, said Lay, to ask questions of a nature that will allow the expert witness to fully explain the various ramifications of the particular point in question.

SAVED NEIGHBOR

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Ben Cargo of Youngstown, Ohio, heard a cry for help Tuesday at a beach near Sarasota. He saw a woman drifting seaward in an innertube and went to her rescue.

Safely ashore, Cargo discovered he had rescued Mrs. Earl Bancroft, a neighbor at Youngstown. The Cargos and Bancrofts belong to the same church and were staying at the same motel in Sarasota. Neither knew the other family was vacationing in Florida.

30 Labor Union Representatives To Attend Meeting

Current trends in collective bargaining, labor's role in industrial growth, and methods of legal picketing will be among subjects studied by more than 30 labor union representatives attending the eighth annual Labor Law Short Course at SUI Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The course will be conducted by members of the SUI faculty, representatives from the Iowa Federation of labor, members of the Iowa Employment Security Commission and Iowa attorneys who are well acquainted with the legal problems of organized labor.

Owners Of Two-Thirds Of SUI Cars Over 21

Of the 4,656 cars registered by SUI students this fall, more than two-thirds (3,539) belong to students over 21 years of age and almost half (1,923) belong to married students, members of the SUI Parking Committee learned this week.

Half Cars Off Campus

Reporting to the committee on this year's auto ownership survey, Chairman M. L. Huit said also that nearly half (2,264) of all cars are owned by students residing off-campus (including 676 who live at home), one-fourth (1,291 are owned by veterans, and that 539 are owned by students who commute to Iowa City from other towns.) Some students are included in more than one of these categories.

Men students own 92 per cent of all student cars, while a total of 368 cars are registered by women students — 119 by women living off-campus, 100 by residents of SUI's three women's dormitories, 92 by women living at some 49 by women in sorority houses, and five by women residents of SUI married student housing. Of the 4,291 cars registered by men, 2,145 belong to those living off-campus, 587 to dormitory residents, 584 to those living at home, 577 to SUI married student housing residents, and 398 to men living in fraternity houses.

Valid Reasons For Cars

"The total number of student cars has less significance than is usually attributed to it," Dean Huit stated. "Large numbers of students have completely valid reasons for using cars while at the University — to reach the campus from outlying points not served by public transportation, for example, or for use in shopping with their families," he observed.

Dean Huit noted also that there are a few less cars at the University this fall than the 4,673 registered last year, notwithstanding this fall's enrollment increase of 262 students. Although freshmen auto registration increased by 202 this year, he said, there are 121 fewer cars owned by sophomores this year, 116 less owned by juniors, and 66 less owned by graduate students. Senior auto registrations increased by 126 this fall.

"The decreases might well indicate that more students are taking their cars home and leaving them there, after learning at first-hand about the problems of parking and operating cars on a crowded campus, but it is too early to know whether this is really a trend," Dean Huit suggested. "And the increase in freshman cars is not as simple as the raw statistics might seem to indicate — 316 freshman car owners are over 21, for instance, and 174 of these are married, as are 21 of those under 21 years of age. More freshmen (106) commute than those of any other classification except graduate," he told the committee.

250 Iowa Farmers To Meet Here

Some 250 farmers from southeastern Iowa are expected to attend the annual Consumers Co-op District Meeting Thursday evening at the SUI Memorial Union.

The farmers are members of the Consumers Association Co-op of Kansas City, Mo. They will meet at 7 p.m. for a banquet in the Main Lounge of the Union.

Following the banquet the group will go to the River Room to hear the financial report on operations of the Association for the year which ended Aug. 31.

Co-op officials will explain how the organization made a profit of $6½ million during last year's operation. The Consumers Co-op Association, operating in 19 states, conducted $129 million in sales and showed $90 million in assets.

Speakers will include the following Co-op executives: Howard A. Cowden, president and general manager; Homer Young, head of distribution; Glen Fox, head of finance; Les Roneick, head of members relations; Harold Hamme, head of news and publications, and Kenneth Neilsen, area supervisor for Iowa.

200,000 Let Out Mighty Roar As Pope Crowned

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Church triumphantly crowned Pope John XXIII Tuesday as supreme pontiff and spiritual ruler.

Two hundred thousand people under the gray, threatening skies let out a mighty roar as the shaggy-robed pope, 84-year-old cardinal deacon of the Sacred College, placed the jeweled symbol of papal authority on the new Pope's head.

4 1/2-Hour Ceremony
The crowning climaxed a 4 1/2-hour ceremony that combined medieval splendor with equipment of the electronic age. It was held on the outdoor balcony of St. Peter's church, high above the heads of the cheering thousands.

Before that, the 76-year-old pontiff was the center of glittering pageantry inside, much of it celebrated at the same spot where burial services were held 22 days ago for Pius XII.

Then the services were awesome and sad. Tuesday there was glitter and triumph.

Trumpets Announce Arrival
Thousands of electric lights and powerful floodlights blazed on the red and golden damask that draped the basilica as silver trumpets announced the arrival of the new Pope on his portable throne.

Purple-clad chair bearers set the pontiff down near a temporary throne, just to the right of the holy door — the door Pius XII opened and closed during the 1950 Holy Year.

Here, while special missions from free nations of the world looked on, cardinals of the Church paid their homage.

Then, again to the notes of silver trumpets, the pontiff remounted his portable throne, and a slow procession into the church began.

50,000 Pack Church
Some 50,000 packed the church, including nobility of Rome and Europe, decked with jewels and medals, and 300 bishops and archbishops, all robed in white and gold and wearing white miters.

Inside also were several hundred people from Sotto il Monte, the little Italian town where the Pope was born. Others were from Venice, where Angelo Giuseppe Cardinal Roncalli served as patriarch before becoming Pope.

The procession moved to the altar of the Sacrament. There the Pope descended from his portable throne and prayed briefly while the Sistine Chapel choir chanted the "Oremus pro Pontifice" — Let us Pray for the Pope.

The procession resumed amidst continuing cheers to the chapel of St. Gregory, where the pontiff was vested in the glittering white and golden robes for his coronation.

Again Pay Homage
At the chapel of St. Gregory, the pontiff took his place at yet another throne, and the cardinals once again — one by one — came forward and knelt in homage to kiss his ring.

Then the procession resumed toward the great central papal altar which rises above the spot where St. Peter is reported to have been buried.

At the altar the Pope again descended from his portable throne and began the Pontifical Mass. Then, moving briskly with a swinging countryman's stride, he walked over bright new green velvet to a white silk throne set before the altar at the far end of the church.

In a highlight of the long ceremony, the pontiff recited a Latin homily. His voice was firm and powerful.

He said that there were some who expected him to be a diplomat, a scholar or a statesman, but that he intended to try to be a good shepherd to his flock.

He appealed to the faithful of the Roman Catholic Church to pray for him, to aid him in his heavy task.

Conrad Wright To Present 5 Religious Lectures At SUI

Conrad Wright, lecturer on American Church History and Registrar at the Harvard Divinity School, will be a guest lecturer next week in the SUI School of Religion.

On Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. Wright will lecture before the SUI Humanities Society in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol. His topic will be "The Rediscovery of Channing: An Appraisal of Current Scholarship."

On Nov. 20, Wright will deliver a public lecture on "Rational Religion in 18th Century America," at 8 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol.

He will also deliver three lectures before the School of Religion class in "Religion in American Culture," at 10:30 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday in Room 129 Macbride Hall. The lectures are open to the public.

The three class lecture topics are: "Church and State in Massachusetts, 1691-1833," "Religious Movements and Social Structure," and "An Interpretation of the Role of the Unitarian Movement in American Religion from the Early 19th Century to the Present."

Wright was born in 1917 in Cambridge, Mass., and holds AB and Ph. D. degrees from Harvard. From 1946 through 1954, he was instructor, assistant professor and lecturer in Humanities at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He has been in his present position since 1954.

He is the author of "The Beginnings of Unitarianism in America," which received the Carnegie Award of the American Historical Association in 1954.

Festival Of Lights At Center

Indian students at SUI will celebrate "Deepaval" (festival of lights) Nov. 9 at the International Center.

The festival, which falls on Nov. 10 in India, but on Nov. 9 in this country, is steeped in Hindu legendary stories. In eastern parts of India, it marks the slaying of a dragon of darkness by the Goddess Kali, while in the northern part of the country, it heralds the return of Lord Rama to the throne after 14 years.

The festival was originally treated as a religious festival, but is now celebrated more or less as a national and cultural holiday. Relatives exchange visits and sisters receive gifts from brothers.

Relatives exchange visits during the festive period, and children play with fire-works and paper lanterns.

In India during the time of the festival, houses are decorated with many tiny lanterns.
