

U.S., Britain Condemn New Russian A-Tests

Geneva Talks Still Deadlocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Friday the world will condemn Russia for continuing nuclear weapons tests in the face of a United Nations resolution urging a halt.

Dulles made this comment to a news conference a few hours after the United States and Britain disclosed they caught Russia firing what might have been two sneak shots.

The White House said, and London quickly concurred, that the Soviet blasts free them to follow suit — although they won't for the time being at least.

Won't Go To U.N.

Dulles said the United States has no present intention of going to the U.N. to seek a formal resolution of condemnation. That, he said, might be interpreted as an effort to make political capital for the United States.

But he said he is confident that condemnation in the minds and hearts of the people represented at the U.N. would be just as effective as a resolution.

While Dulles accused Russia of disregarding a U.N. plea to forego nuclear tests, it appeared both new Soviet blasts were set off before adoption of the U.N. resolution.

The U.N. General Assembly adopted its resolution Nov. 4. The resolution urged the United States, Britain and Russia not to carry out tests during the Geneva talks.

What effect the new Russian tests will have on significant talks at Geneva remains to be seen. The talks, supposed to seek an East-West agreement for a supervised ban on testing, are not going too well anyway.

No Geneva Comment

The Russian delegation at Geneva had no immediate comment on a statement by President Eisenhower which said:

1. Despite a United Nations resolution urging no nuclear weapons tests during the Geneva meeting started Oct. 31, Russia continued testing nuclear weapons.

2. The two Soviet shots since Oct. 31 were fired at a site other than Russia's regular atomic proving grounds north of the Arctic Circle.

3. The United States and Britain will abide by their pledge not to test beyond Oct. 31, even though Russia continued testing. However, Mr. Eisenhower added the United States will reconsider unless Russia promises soon to halt tests.

Dulles said he did not know how long the United States and Britain would wait before reconsidering. He said a lot of factors must be considered, including progress at the Geneva talks.

The secretary said it is a matter of surmise whether Russia tried to hold sneak tests. The shots detected were fired Nov. 1 and 3 at a site other than the usual Soviet atomic proving grounds north of the Arctic Circle. The Atomic Energy Commission described them as small blasts.

No Legal Responsibility

Dulles said there was no legal responsibility on the part of Russia to refrain from testing. But he said that if Russia continues testing it will be held responsible for any consequences, including any U.S.-British decision to follow suit.

Russia announced a test suspension first among the three atomic powers. That was on March 31.

Since then, however, both the United States and Britain held new series which had been announced previously. Russia followed up by firing off more than a dozen shots starting in early September, arguing they were necessary to catch up with U.S.-British testing.

The British and Americans underscored their determination to keep the Geneva talks going even if Soviet testing continues. Prospects were anything but bright, however. After a week, the three powers remained deadlocked. They have not even agreed yet on the order of business. They will meet again Monday.

Nikita Views U.S. Election

Hopes Demo Victory Will End Cold War

Claims Voters Rejected Foreign Policy

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Friday night he hoped the Democratic election victory in the United States would lead to an end to the cold war.

Speaking at a gala reception in the Kremlin Grand Palace, climaxing the 41st anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, Khrushchev declared.

"Although we appreciate that the Republican and Democratic parties barely differ from each other as far as foreign policies are concerned, we look upon the U. S. election results from the point of view of improving relations between our countries.

Hopes For Change

"We hope that these results, which expressed voters' dissatisfaction with current Government foreign policy, will lead to substantial changes, an end to the cold war and a stoppage of the short-sighted brink-of-the-war policy."

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union was "glad that the U.S. people condemn the policies of the brink of war and from positions of strength carried out by Secretary of State Mr. Dulles and supported by President Mr. Eisenhower."

Khrushchev preceded this statement with the remark that the Soviet Union does not believe in interfering in the internal affairs of others.

Khrushchev spoke after shaking hands energetically with arriving diplomats and their wives.

The Democrats in the United States, he said, "should construct their foreign policy with due regard for the Socialist Camp. The forces of peace are organized and they can curb aggressors."

Capitalists Afraid

Reading carefully from a prepared speech, Khrushchev continued: "The capitalists today are afraid of the Socialist camp. The time is not far off when the Soviet Union will be the first in the world not only in gross but in per capita production, and will have the highest standard of living in the world."

"We do not need war; we want peaceful coexistence. The ruling circles in the United States are waging a policy of strength and resisting every effort of the Soviet Union to lessen international tensions."

"But the people of the world, including the American people, are against this policy. As was shown by the results of the American elections, the American voters have shown they desire peace. They have condemned Dulles' policy of strength, which is supported by Eisenhower."

Military Parade Brief

The military parade was brief, lasting only seven minutes. Military attaches of foreign embassies saw not a single new weapon on display.

Behind the military procession came lines of sportsmen dressed in blue, red and green. Then came workers and other groups. Many carried pictures of Lenin, Khrushchev, President Klement Voroshilov and members of the party Presidium.

Thousands of Soviet citizens jammed the streets around the Square. They carried banners, flags and flowers.

Billfold Containing $3700 Missing

If you find a billfold containing $3700 in $100 bills, it probably belongs to Li M. Noel, Macedonia, Iowa.

Noel reported to police he lost the billfold in Iowa City, Des Moines or Oskaloosa on a trip this week.

CALLING ATTENTION to Iowa's goal of 100 lives saved in traffic this year are Virginia Weise, A2, Waseca, Minn., left; Rick Maynard, Public Safety Department man; and Jerry Kirkpatrick, A4, Pleasantville, Daily Iowan managing editor. HELPING THE PROJECT to get bumper safety stickers on SUI cars Friday morning were Jo Moore, A3, Ottumwa, and Katie Harris, A4, Wilton Junction. 1000 Stickers Put On SUI Bumpers

In a little more than two hours Friday, the SUI campus was literally stuck up — with one thousand bumper stickers reading, "Let's Save 100 Lives — Watch Your Points."

By 7:30 a.m. members of The Daily Iowan staff, Student Council representatives and many volunteer workers were stationed at the major SUI parking lots.

The frantic efforts during the wind-up of the election early this week had nothing on the SUI traffic campaign.

Motorists who pulled into the parking lots were greeted with a cheery "Good morning, may we put one of these stickers on your car?" And almost before they had time to answer, a luminous black and red sticker was glaring from their back bumper.

"Loveless for Governor" and "See Rock City" signs were buried beneath the safety stickers as most of the motorists agreed that the "Save A Life" campaign was a step in the right direction to reducing the number of traffic fatalities. Although total fatalities are down this year from last — 486 for 1958 as compared with 582 for 1957 — the safety department's own "Save 100 Lives" campaign suffered because of the October record of 30 deaths on Iowa highways.

SUI President V. Hancher, representatives of the Iowa Department of Public Safety and the Iowa City Police Department each complimented SUI students Friday for their efforts in the campaign.

Rick Maynard, a representative from the Iowa Department of Public Safety, said his department appreciated SUI's "Save A Life" campaign.

The success of any safety campaign depends upon the people that use our streets and highways.

The SUI sticker campaign may have more effect than similar campaigns in other localities because the stickers will be displayed over the whole state, as students drive to and from their homes, Maynard said.

U.S. To Raise $3 Billion By Auctioning New Securities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Government announced Friday it will auction about $3 billion worth of 214-day tax anticipation bills next week to raise new cash.

Investors will have until 12:30 p.m. Nov. 14, to bid on the securities. Bids will be at a discount from the face value of the bills and the Government will accept the highest offers.

The difference between the accepted bids and the face value will determine the effective interest yields of the bills.

The bills will be dated Nov. 20 and will mature June 22. The Government will accept them at face value in payment of taxes due next June 15.

Just last month the treasury had to borrow $3,900,000,000 in new cash to help finance the record peacetime deficit expected in the fiscal year.

Officials said the sale of the 214-day bills will provide enough fresh cash to operate the Government during the rest of 1958.

In the first three months of next year, they said, the treasury probably will need to borrow an additional $4 to $4½ billion.

$375,165 Parking Facilities Proposed

A cost of $375,165 was estimated Friday for the expansion of Iowa City parking facilities.

The proposed parking facilities would be located on Iowa Avenue between Clinton Street and Dubuque Street. The development of an underground area beneath Iowa Avenue was also included.

The proposal calls for closing Iowa Avenue between Clinton Street and Dubuque Street to be used as a surface level parking lot. The area under the street would be developed as a parking garage.

The proposed plan would provide approximately 210 parking spaces at a cost of approximately $1,800 per parking stall. The cost per space on the new East Washington Street parking lot was about $2,100.

Since Iowa Avenue in the block now has approximately 50 parking spaces, the cost per additional stall would be about $2,300.

The estimate of the parking plan was made in a report to the Iowa City Council by the consulting engineering firm of Robert L. Brice and Associates of Waterloo. Council members are studying the report this week.

City Manager Peter F. Roan, commenting on the engineer's report, said it might be possible to develop the entire area between Gilbert Street and Clinton Street for parking on two levels at a lesser cost per space. This development would provide for an estimated 900 to 1,000 cars.

Cars Parked 24 Hours In Block Will Get Ticket

Beginning Monday afternoon cars parked more than 24 hours in the same block will be ticketed, Police Chief O. A. White said Friday night.

"People have been complaining about dirty streets," White said, "and we can't clean streets with cars stored on them."

White said he, City Manager Peter F. Roan, and Police Court Judge Ansel Chapman had reached the decision during closed city traffic meetings held this week.

Actually police will begin enforcing an old city ordinance which limits parking in one place to six hours. But, said White, we are extending the limit to 24 hours.

The area covered by the limited parking area is between the Rock Island Railroad on the south and Brown Street on the north; between Dodge Street on the east and Madison Street on the west. White said downtown parking is already controlled by an ordinance which says no parking between

Coe Professor Receives Iowa Chemistry Medal At Banquet

Science is more than rockets and gadgets, Ben H. Peterson, Coe College chemistry professor, pointed out at an award banquet of the American Chemical Society's Iowa section at SUI Friday night. At the banquet the Cedar Rapids professor received an engraved gold medal awarded annually to an outstanding Iowa chemist or chemical engineer.

Child Of Science

"America is the child of science," Peterson noted. The basic pattern of our civilization is largely determined by science and technology, and some understanding of nature's laws and some appreciation of nature's mysteries should be a very important part of the educational system. "But this is not the case," he said.

"The day is past when the man of letters, the essayist, the poet can boast of his ignorance of mathematics and science as a mark of distinction," Peterson said. "Science is not to be exclusively for the scientist and the teacher. It must be a part and a large part of the equipment of all scholars."

"And the man of science must be no longer content to play a walk-on part on the World's Stage. He must speak with authority. His voice will not be welcome. It will not be easy, as witness Oppenheimer, Pauling and Richey," Peterson explained.

Discovery Never End

Scientific discovery will never end, Peterson remarked. "When the electron, the proton were recognized, that would have been a fine place to stop," he said, referring to the discovery of parts of the atom. "It was a dandy atom. But more and more particles are appearing and the end doesn't seem to be in sight. Science isn't going to run out of green fields."

Conclusion: Speed Limits Don't Help — An Editorial

Some time ago, we editorially concluded that Iowa does not need a maximum speed limit, other than the excellent one we now have — "reasonable and proper." Aside from our own observations, we examined both sides of the argument as explained by experts in the field. One source was the article by Mr. Matthew Sielski, which concludes today on this page.

That there is interest in this subject is evidenced by a Letter To The Editor requesting a more complete review of the article than we were able to provide editorially.

We feel it is to everyone's advantage to read Mr. Sielski's article carefully, and think about the subject for a while. Every so often, someone in our legislature decides that Iowa needs a maximum speed limit, and we think it wise to hear both sides of the controversy before reaching any conclusions.

Proponents of speed limits can quote many statistics but, as Mr. Sielski points out, in most instances those statistics merely state the driver was exceeding a "safe" speed. What isn't mentioned is that, because of rain, fog, hills, curves, or congested traffic, 35 m.p.h. may have been excessive speed.

Obviously, a 50 m.p.h. speed limit would not have prevented accidents under these circumstances.

We feel "reasonable and proper" is a wise term for speed limits. It takes into account road and weather conditions, without imposing a limit so low that it encourages the average driver to break the law.

What Causes Accidents?

By MATTHEW C. SIELSKI
Director Safety And
Traffic Engineering Department
Chicago Motor Club

Editor's note: It is a combination of contributing factors that makes it difficult for traffic experts to pinpoint the real cure for accidents. Speed is a contributing factor, but to what degree is still an uncertainty. In order to delve into this a little further, speed studies compared the effect of top speeds where fixed limits exist and where no limits are imposed.

This article concludes a 2-part study reprinted from "Traffic Engineering." Part one was published in Thursday's Daily Iowan.

To obtain an intelligent answer to the question of vehicular speeds on rural roads, data was obtained from the various state highway departments together with radar studies made by the Chicago Motor Club Engineering Department.

Here is the comparison of the speeds in the four midwestern states:

State	Average 85% Speed (m.p.h.)	Speed Limit (m.p.h.)
Michigan	65-55	54.3
Indiana	65-55	54.3
Wisconsin	65-55	55.9
Illinois	Reasonable	54.9

From this study it is apparent that the speed characteristics of these states is approximately the same regardless of the type of regulations in effect.

To get a closer relationship of the speed characteristics of motorists traveling on roads with and without top speed limits, a comparison was made of highways passing from one state to another under almost identical physical conditions, with one exception — no limit compared to a 65 m.p.h. limit.

The first test involved U.S. 41, a divided 4-lane highway very similar in character in both Illinois and Wisconsin.

The Illinois check was made by the Illinois Division of Highways at approximately 14 miles south of the Wisconsin border. The Wisconsin survey made by the Wisconsin State Highway Commission was conducted approximately seven miles north of the Illinois border. It showed the following:

U.S. 41 Wisconsin	Average 85% Speed (m.p.h.)	Speed Limit (m.p.h.)
Southbound	60.4	67.7
Northbound	50.8	59.0

A similar study was made by the Motor Club engineers on December 7, 1955, and indicated the following:

U.S. 41 Wisconsin	Average 85% Speed (m.p.h.)	Speed Limit (m.p.h.)
Southbound	55.7	62.0
Northbound	49.5	58.0

The second study was made on a 2-lane highway, U.S. 14. The Illinois check was made by the Illinois Division of Highways, and the Wisconsin study by the Wisconsin State Highway Commission. The survey of U.S. 14 in Illinois was taken about 18 miles south, and the Wisconsin check at about five miles north of the border.

U.S. 14 Wisconsin	Average 85% Speed (m.p.h.)	Speed Limit (m.p.h.)
Southbound	54.8	63.0
Northbound	49.9	56.8

A posted limit of 65 m.p.h. was established in Indiana in the summer of 1953. Prior to the posted speed limit, Chicago Motor Club engineers made studies on Indiana U.S. 41. The same location was studied after the speed limit was established, and following are the results:

U.S. 41 Illinois	Average 85% Speed (m.p.h.)	Speed Limit (m.p.h.)
Before	50.0	56.5
After	56.0	66.5

Club engineers compared the speeds of traffic traveling towards the Illinois-Indiana border on U.S.

24. This highway is very similar in character, except for a posted 65 m.p.h. in Indiana and no speed limit in Illinois. Both studies were taken on the same day.

Indiana U.S. 24	Average 85% Speed (m.p.h.)	Speed Limit (m.p.h.)
(3 miles east of border)	53.0	59.2
(4 miles west of border)	49.0	58.5

The Michigan State Highway Department, in its efforts to determine the effect of its 65 m.p.h. limit took comprehensive studies before (April, 1955) and after (April, 1956) the speed limit went into effect. In its published report is the following resume:

Comparison of Average Speeds on Rural State Highways

Category	Before	After
All Vehicles	51.9	53.8
Commercial	52.7	54.3
Passenger Cars	51.9	53.8
Trucks	52.7	54.3

Before 18.4% 23.1% 1.9% 18.2%
After 20.6% 25.3% 1.6% 31.4%

Vehicles Traveling Over 60 m.p.h. Before 8.0% 10.3% 0.3% 6.1%
After 7.7% 9.5% 0.1% 20.0%

The number of vehicles observed in 1955 was 6,388 and in 1956, 5,705. On the basis of studies made, the following conclusions are reached:

1. Very few passenger cars travel at speeds higher than 65 m.p.h. regardless of speed regulations.
2. The average speed is increased where a fixed speed is incorporated.
3. There is no correlation between accident rate and top speed regulations.
4. Only 4 per cent of fatalities on rural highways, where speed is the apparent cause, is caused by vehicles traveling over 65 m.p.h.
5. Most motorists drive at a reasonable and proper speed and are capable of recognizing conditions that warrant lower speeds.

The minority who wish to travel at reckless speed must be dealt with firmly but not at the expense of the majority of good drivers. Police authorities must improve selective enforcement in order to correct the violations that are contributing to accidents.

Letter To The Editor — Says Daily Iowan Is Sick, Sick, Sick

To the editor:
The Daily Iowan exhibited very poor discretion in publishing some remarks made by Sandra Loveless, freshman at SUI. I should imagine Sandi's being the daughter of the Governor would be difficult enough in her adjusting to student social life, without The Daily Iowan's broadcasting to the entire student body that (1) at the last football game her date couldn't get tickets, so Dad came through with two press box passes, and that (2) Dad did his bit to stabilize the national economy by treating Sandi to a light blue '58 Mercury convertible.

Granted, Sandi is entitled to these things. If I was the Governor's son, I should expect them—and more. But, as Sandi says, she doesn't want to be treated "differently." The entire tone of the article, however, connotes that Sandi is different, and any student on campus who hasn't realized it until Wednesday, just can't miss knowing the truth, now.

Sandi, of course, is not to blame. Doubtlessly, she doesn't want to be known as "the Governor's daughter." She wants to be known as "Sandi," like she says. Perhaps some of the fault lies with Staff Writer Jamie Hubly, who is a senior and should know better.

But, the real sin must lie on the stout heart of Editor Jim Davies, who must have—or should have—read the thing, and must have noted the obvious conflict between intent and result.

The editors of The Daily Iowan are real big boys, running a real big newspaper (even if it has to rely on compulsory circulation), and must learn to assume real big responsibilities, like protecting 18-year-old governor's daughters from ostracizing themselves through the student newspaper. If I would have passed Sandi Loveless while walking past the Union on Monday, I probably would have thought, "Now there's a cute girl!" If I see her tomorrow, I'll probably think, "My God, there's the Governor's daughter—the one with the open mind and the '58 Merc convertible!"

Sandi does not deserve this. Sandi will have more fun on campus as Sandi, rather than as Sandra Loveless, the Governor's daughter. The Daily Iowan should know this. The Daily Iowan is not using its head. Poor Sandi. Bad Daily Iowan.

Jerry Minnich, A2
20 W. Burlington

EDITOR'S NOTE: At the risk of being accused of insisting on the last word, I feel it necessary to comment on this letter. We won't quarrel about what Mr. Minnich read into the article in question, but we don't feel his reaction is that of the average student. I did read the article prior to publication and thought it sympathetic to the problems of being the daughter of a prominent political figure.

Perhaps the reference to the football game tickets was unnecessary, but why hide the fact that certain privileges — rightfully extended to important persons — and their families, rank him in entitlement to things such as a car, or football tickets if her father is able to provide them. One of the main points of the article is that she doesn't EXPECT these things — as Mr. Minnich says he would.

Reader Knocks Campaign Tactics

To the editor:
I am taking time out (for a man that is living on borrowed time) to thank you for the well-worded letter of yours — or rather editorial — in yesterday's issue of The Daily Iowan — "A Campaign To Forget."

I understand that the Republican candidate for governor, Mr. Murray is a Sunday School teacher. If this campaign of dirt just finished (no doubt with Mr. Murray's O. K.) is a sample of Christianity, I don't want any of it.

I would much rather associate with the heathens.

Endorses Traffic Safety

To the editor:
This is just a note to let you know my impressions of your traffic safety drive. I think it's a wonderful thing!

Let me say that it's about time the students on this campus woke up to some of the big problems facing our society. Traffic safety, of course, is one of the biggest. It's high time we students woke up to our responsibilities. A campaign such as the one you're sponsoring will do untold amounts of good, although you may not be able to measure it.

I see too many students worried about abstract things like Existentialism, Boris Pasternak and the Beat Generation. Why don't they look around them and see the need for improvement right here at home?

I seldom write letters, but I'm writing this one because I feel strongly for what you're doing. And keep up the good work at the Iowan, particularly Jerry Kirkpatrick's "Don't Quote Me."

Domestic Subjects On Congress List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four big domestic subjects — labor legislation, housing, aid to depressed areas, and federal airport grants — are expected to get first attention in the Democratic-controlled 86th Congress.

The 1958 session passed depressed areas and airport bills but both were vetoed after Congress went home.

The Senate this year also passed labor control and omnibus housing bills but these were beaten in the dying hours of the session in the House. Democrats charge that administration opposition killed both measures.

New legislation is being prepared in all four fields and sponsors say they will be ready to go as soon as the committees are organized after Congress meets Jan. 7.

Three of the issues—labor, housing and depressed areas — played important roles in many states in Tuesday's election. Democrats say they are fully committed to push legislation quickly in all three fields.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, called for all of these and more in a speech Friday at Big Spring, Tex.

His schedule includes expanded airport building, slum clearance, a new farm program, water development, lower interest rates, a review of foreign policy, attention to Latin America, space developments, and developments of peaceful uses for the atom with emphasis on an atomic-powered merchant marine.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), already has a panel of university experts at work revising the labor control bill to be piloted through the Senate this year.

His new measure is expected to follow the framework of the old bill which passed the Senate 88-1. This bill set up detailed public financial reporting requirements for unions and included a union election democracy code; the provisions were aimed at driving racketeers out of the labor movement.

Republicans, who voted strongly against the 1958 version of the legislation in the House, said it did not go far enough.

Probably the most urgent tag in the 1958 session will be placed on an omnibus housing bill. The 1958 Congress failed to pass such a measure for almost the first time in a decade.

A Senate Banking Committee aide said Friday the government is almost out of funds for FHA home loan insurance, college housing, and urban renewal or slum clearance projects.

6 SUI Students Leave For UN Religious Talks

Six members of the Disciples Student Fellowship left Iowa City this morning for a United Nations seminar in New York and Washington Nov. 10-14.

Those attending are: Leon Alexander, C4, Mt. Sterling; Jane Hofrichter, A4, Iowa City; Gene Stubbs, A3, Des Moines; Mary Diltz, A2, Walker; and Mary Ann Loar, A1, Centerville. The group is traveling by car and is accompanied by Miss Sally Smith, Minister of Education and Student Work at the Disciples Student Center.

Special Section

This is the first year the UN seminar, sponsored by the Christian Churches, has included a special section for college students. The six Iowa City delegates are among 45 college student representatives from throughout the United States attending the seminar.

While attending the seminar in New York, the SUI students will visit the General Assembly of the United Nations, sit in on several UN committee meetings, tour UN headquarters, and attend seminar sessions addressed by delegates to the UN.

National Problems

On Wednesday night, the entire seminar will move to Washington, D. C., to discuss national problems, hear addresses by foreign diplomats, and tour the city.

The closing session of the seminar will take place at the National City Christian Church on Friday, when the group will join church women of the Washington area in a luncheon, followed by a talk by Mrs. Rajkumari Amrit Kaur of India.

The Iowa City group will leave Washington Saturday morning, Nov. 15.

To Dedicate Lutheran Center

The Foundation for Lutheran Students at SUI will dedicate the first unit of their new student center Sunday at 2:30 p.m. the Rev. Donald F. Hetzler, campus pastor said Friday.

The center is located at the corner of Church and Dubuque Sts. The Rev. Otto A. Bremer, executive secretary of the Division of College and University Work of the National Lutheran Council, Chicago; the Rev. John Schultz, campus pastor from Iowa State College; the Rev. Wingate, pastor First English Church in Iowa City and the Rev. Mr. Hetzler will be the officiating clergymen.

Failure To Obey Signals Cause Of Train Accident

WASHINGTON (AP) — Failure to obey signals caused the plunge of a commuter train off the Bay Bridge at Elizabethport, N. J., Sept. 15, the Interstate Commerce Commission reported Friday.

Caril's Attorneys Request For Mistrial Is Denied

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Attorney for 15-year-old murder defendant Caril Ann Fugate Friday asked the court to declare a mistrial. The motion was denied.

Defense lawyer John McArthur asked the mistrial on grounds Charles Starkweather, 19, the state's principal witness, cooperated fully with prosecutors but refused to answer certain questions under cross-examination.

McArthur said a witness already condemned to death obviously could not be forced to do anything and it would have been futile to make the request when the court has no control over the witness.

Judge Spencer said Starkweather, who ended two days of damaging testimony against his ex-wife Thursday, will be brought back to the stand if defense lawyers wish.

Scientists Enjoy North Pole Luxuries After Narrow Escape

WASHINGTON (AP) — A score of men who were plucked from their storm-split ice island up near the North Pole were enjoying the comparative luxuries of northern Greenland Friday night. They had been airlifted from the sundered island by a C123J plane which made a 500-mile flight from Thule, Greenland, to bring the air force and civilian scientists to safety. Flarepots strung along the 2,200 foot landing strip on the ice enabled the crew of the twin engine transport to slide in for a ski landing in the black arctic night. Athletes Plead Guilty To Gambling Charges

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Two University of Michigan athletes pleaded guilty Friday to charges of engaging in an illegal occupation in connection with a campus football gambling ring.

Football fullback Tony Rio, and varsity basketball captain Jack Lewis, both 21 and from Chicago, changed their plea after standing mute at their original arraignment Oct. 29.

Municipal Judge Francis L. O'Brien fined each $100 plus $6.65 in costs.

Students To Celebrate Festival

Exhibitions of Indian handicraft and a special program will be given by the SUI Indian students Sunday night when they will celebrate "Divali" or the Indian Festival of Lights.

The 33 Indian students sent invitations to friends to attend the celebration. The exhibits will be on display from 7 to 9 p.m. and the special program will be given from 7:30 to 8:15 p.m. at the International Center, 3 E. Market St.

The meaning of "Divali" and presentations of vocal and instrumental Indian music will comprise the special program.

Mrs. Wallace Maner, wife of Wallace Maner, Foreign Student Advisor, said that the celebration in India is symbolized by the lighting of candles in every home.

"Divali" is a great deal like our Christmas," she said. "The Indian families and friends call on each other, exchange gifts and deliver greetings."

The festival falls on Nov. 10 in India but on Nov. 9 in this country. It is characterized by many Hindu legendary stories in different parts of India.

The slaying of a dragon of darkness by the Goddess Kali is the meaning of the festival in eastern India, while in the northern part it honors the return of Lord Rama to the throne after 14 years.

Johnson To Address Mississippi Meeting

Wendell Johnson, professor of speech pathology and psychology at SUI will address a meeting of the Mississippi Valley Chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers at Moline, Ill., Monday evening.

on creative thinking in dealing with problems, in group discussion, and in day-to-day personal relationships.

Unbeaten Hawks Meet Winless Gophers Today

"Beat the Hawkeyes and we'll be happy."

This will be the attitude of Minnesota football fans this afternoon, as the often beaten Golden Gophers tangle with Iowa's powerful Hawkeyes in their annual battle for the Floyd of Rosedale trophy at Memorial Stadium in Minneapolis.

Iowa is a 17-point favorite. Game time is 1:30 (CST), and a capacity crowd of 63,500 is expected. Iowans purchased 8,500 tickets for the game when they went on sale in August. Iowa City radio stations WSUI and KXIC will air the game direct from Minneapolis.

Seek Clincher
Coach Forest Evashevski's Hawks rated the No. 2 team in the Associated Press poll, will be looking for their fifth straight Big Ten win, and a chance to clinch a New Year's Day trip to the Rose Bowl. An Iowa victory, and victories by Wisconsin and Ohio State over Northwestern and Purdue respectively will give the Hawks their second Big Ten football championship in three falls, and the Bowl invitation.

Minnesota for many years was noted for its winning tradition in football. But since 1950 Minnesota has won only 31 games, lost 40 and tied seven. In that time the Gophers have had only three years above the .500 mark.

Floyd of Rosedale, the bronze pig awarded to the victor of the Iowa-Minnesota game each fall, has rested in Iowa's trophy case since 1955. Last fall the Iowans romped to an easy 40-20 win.

Nothing To Lose

But today is another Saturday, and the Hawkeyes face a Gopher team that has nothing to lose and everything to gain by beating Iowa.

Already this fall the Golden Gophers have lost to Washington, Pittsburgh, Northwestern, Illinois, Michigan and Indiana. Iowa has defeated Northwestern and Michigan.

Golden Gopher head coach Murray Warmath has been under pressure by alumni, students, and the general public due to his teams poor showing.

Many Injuries

But all the blame cannot be Warmath's. This particular Minnesota team has been riddled with injuries from the very start of the season. The present starting team is composed of well mauled and bruised sophomores.

Thus Warmath must face the cunning and overwhelming manpower of Iowa's backs with an all-sophomore backfield—Joe Salem, quarterback; Gary Melchert, left half; Bill Kauth, right half; and Roger Haggberg or Jim Rogers, fullback. Larry Johnson, who has been the Gophers starting quarterback most of the season was injured in last week's 6-0 loss to Indiana, and is out of action.

Despite their 0-6 record, the Gophers have one of the Big Ten's better lines, and have been getting

Of the greatest concerns to the Minnesota coaching staff is the problem of patching up its pass defense to cope with Iowa's Randy Duncan. According to the latest NCAA official football statistics, Duncan ranks second among collegiate backs in forward passing with 60 completions in 102 passing attempts for 766 yards gained, and a .588 percentage. Six of Duncan's completions have been for touchdowns.

Duncan will have his usual set of glue-fingered ends on hand to assist. At left end are Curt Merz and Al Miller, and right ends Don Norton and Bob Prescott. Many observers say Iowa has the finest set of ends in the country.

Speedy Halfbacks

Besides Duncan, Warmath's line face the awesome problem of stopping Iowa's speedy halfbacks, Ray Jauch, Kevin Furlong, Willie Fleming, and Bob Jeter. Jauch is the Big Ten's leading rusher.

Iowa's injuries have been kept to a minimum this fall. Fleming, who played and ran a brilliant game at Michigan last Saturday, was limping at Monday's game, but was running strong Friday. Fullback Don Horn and Merz both suffered minor injuries in the Michigan game, but are ready for action today.

Evashevski has changed the Hawkeyes starting line for the Minnesota clash. Bill Lapham, 235 pounds, has replaced Lloyd Humphreys at center, and Hugh Drake, 195 pounds, has moved ahead of Don Shipank at right guard.

The remainder of the Iowa line is unchanged. John Burroughs, John Sawin, tackles; Gary Grouwinkel, guard; Merz and Norton, ends.

Iowa 17-Point Pick; Purdue To Edge OSU

While rugged Purdue tries to crumble further Ohio State's Big Ten football title defense, undefeated Iowa is expected to move closer to the championship in today's round of five conference games.

Iowa's hard-hitting Hawkeyes, No. 2 in the national AP poll, seek their fifth consecutive league victory at Minneapolis against winless Minnesota. After that, Iowa's only remaining conference foe is Ohio State at Iowa City a week hence.

Another important Big Ten contest takes second-place Northwestern (3-1) to Madison for a Homecoming clash with dangerous Wisconsin (2-1-1).

Illinois vs. Wolverines
Illinois (2-2) plays at Michigan (1-2-1) and Michigan State (0-3-1) is at Indiana (1-2).

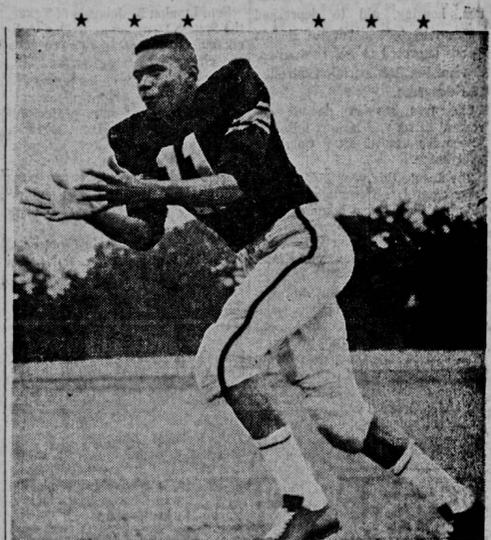

However, Iowa definitely is in the driver's seat. The Hawkeyes are 17-point favorites over the Gophers and, with a home field advantage over Ohio State in their finale, likely will finish with a 6-0 record.

Northwestern's great comeback team has the advantage of playing seven conference games, one more than Iowa, but tackling Wisconsin and Purdue on successive Saturdays may be more than the Wildcats can handle.

Purdue Favored
Formidable Purdue (2-1) is a one-point favorite at Ohio State (2-1-1).

Purdue plays only six conference games, while Ohio State, like Northwestern and Wisconsin, plays seven. However, the 7-7 tie played Oct. 25 between Ohio and Wisconsin has nullified, to some extent the extra game advantage of both.

Michigan State is picked by 14 points to notch its first Big Ten victory of the season at Indiana. Illinois, although rapped 31-8 by Purdue a week ago, is favored by three points over Michigan in a regionally televised game in Ann Arbor.

Campanella Gets Release From Hospital

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Campanella passed a new milestone Friday. The paralyzed Dodger catcher went home to live with his family in Glen Cove.

There he will begin a new phase in his medical and physical treatments.

Hurt In January

Campy, 36, had been undergoing treatments at New York University's Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation since May 5. He suffered a broken neck in an auto accident last January.

He will visit the institute three days a week for necessary therapy.

Dr. Edward Lowman, clinical director who has served as Campanella's personal physician since he entered the institute, said:

"Mr. Campanella has progressed sufficiently in his rehabilitation so that he was released today from the institute to live at home with his family. Further improvement in his condition is still to be expected, particularly with regard to the strengthening of his arms and use of his fingers."

Feels Better

"I feel very good mentally and physically," said Campy as he left the institute. "I'm not going to lose what I've gained and I plan to work as hard as ever on my rehabilitation program."

He thanked everyone at the hospital for "making this progress possible" and also expressed his gratitude to people everywhere "whose well wishes and prayers gave me just the encouragement I needed."

VARSITY WRESTLERS WIN

Iowa's varsity wrestling team edged the freshmen Thursday night 17-14, with heavyweight Gordon Trapp scoring the only pin for the varsity.

Big 10 Games Hold Spotlight

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Big Ten holds the major portion of the national spotlight Saturday as college football once more ventures out into the sports stage it has dominated the past six weeks.

The Big Ten games have a direct bearing on the conference title, which could be decided Saturday, while a fourth has as its prize a brass spittoon—a trophy as odd as the events which are likely to happen before midnight.

The big one is at Wisconsin where the seventh ranked Badgers entertain fourth ranked Northwestern. The Wildcats must win all their remaining Big Ten games and hope that Ohio State beats Iowa in two weeks if they hope to make the trip to the Rose Bowl.

Ohio State (No. 16) entertains eighth-ranked Purdue, which also must keep winning to keep its flickering title hopes alive. OSU's star halfback, Don Clark, returns after missing the Northwestern game last week, the Bucks' first conference defeat in 20 games. Purdue is banking on fullback Bob Jarus, hobbled a bit by a twisted knee.

Iowa, the conference leader and nationally the second-ranked team, plays winless Minnesota. Iowa can clinch the crown if Purdue and Northwestern lose and it knocks off the Gophers. Minnesota has lost nine in a row since last November.

That game for the brass spittoon is between Indiana and Michigan State. MSU has held the trophy since the series began in 1950.

Louisiana State, the nation's No. 1 team, meets Atlantic Coast Conference member Duke. The Tiggers, tops in the Southeastern Conference, are only three games away from an undefeated season.

The day's top interconference contest pits Army (No. 3) against Southwest Conference title contender Auburn (No. 5), the nation's top defensive team, plays Mississippi

State in an SEC game, while Oklahoma (No. 6) meets Iowa State in a Big Eight contest.

Ninth-ranked Mississippi, which lost its first game last week, to LSU, meets non-SEC rival Houston, loser of two straight. The Air Force Academy (No. 10) goes after its sixth victory when it plays Denver. The Falcons were tied by Iowa.

Texas Christian (No. 11) plays an interconference game with Marquette, and Notre Dame (No. 14) does likewise with Pitt in Pittsburgh.

North Carolina (No. 15) goes after its sixth straight victory against Virginia which has lost its last five. Clemson (No. 17) the ACO leader, plays SEC neighbor Georgia Tech; 18th ranked Rutgers (6-0) plays Lafayette, winner of five straight; Florida (No. 19) faces Georgia in another SEC game while Southern Methodist (No. 20) plays Texas A&M in a Southwest Conference tilt.
