U.S. Could Ready 600 Planes For Berlin Airlift

Major Russian, East German Drive Forecast

May Shut Off Berlin Traffic Periodically

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States could muster more than 600 aircraft for another Berlin airlift if such action should become necessary in the current disagreement over control of East and West Germany.

Air authorities disclosing the figure Wednesday said it would include a number of 500-mile-an-hour jet planes.

More than 300 long-range 4-engined airliners, all of which could be confronted from commercial to military craft within 48 hours, are included in the civil reserve air fleet. That civil group also includes 18 jet transports immediately available.

330 Transports Included

In addition to the airline equipment, the emergency airlift fleet includes more than 330 transports of the Military Air Transport Service, from the troop carrier units of the Tactical Air Force, and miscellaneous aircraft from other Air Force units.

Diplomatic officials forecast a major drive by East German and Russian authorities to shake the Allied foothold in Western Berlin in the months ahead.

Most thought the Reds would stop short of blockading the Western zone. There was speculation they might perodically shut off traffic in an attempt to force Western nations to give full diplomatic recognition to the East German regime.

East German Responsibility

What worried State Department experts was Khrushchev's announced intention of turning over all Russian responsibility in East Berlin to representitives of the East German regime.

This eventually would put control of road, railway and highway routes to West Berlin in the hands of East Germans who could then turn the traffic on and off at will.

Furthermore, diplomatic officials pointed out, it would force Allied authorities to deal directly with East German officials to settle day-to-day problems. This is something Allied authorities have refused to do, lest it be interpreted as giving de facto recognition to the puppet government.

The United States, Britain and France could be expected to protest vigorously against any Soviet move to turn over traffic controls to the East German authorities.

School-Aid Costs State $716,000

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa participation in new federal aid-to-education programs will cost about $716,000 a year in state funds, the State Department of Public Instruction said Wednesday.

Paul Johnston, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, outlined the federal aid program briefly at a budget hearing before Gov. Herschel C. Loveless and State Comptroller Glenn D. Sarsfield.

The department is asking an appropriation of $716,409 a year to match—dollar for dollar—federal funds that will be available under programs approved by Congress this year.

The new programs, with funds to be shared equally, are:

For strengthing public school instruction in science, mathematics and foreign languages — $159,296; for guidance, counseling and testing, with special emphasis on identifying and encouraging superior students — $482,628; for establishing "area" vocational schools — $690,894; for improving and expanding statistical services—$100,000.

In addition to these amounts of which the state would have to pay half, there will be $1,122,769 in federal funds available for matching by local school districts.

The locally matched funds, if fully used, would provide $2,245,538 for schools to buy and build laboratory equipment and other equipment and teaching materials in the fields of science, mathematics and foreign languages.

The public instruction department also presented its requests for an increase of $30 million a year in state and to schools.

Loveless, who in his successful campaign for re-election, opposed such a large increase in state aid, did not comment on the request at the hearing.

SUI Concert Scheduled For Wednesday

To Feature Symphony By SUI Prof

The University Symphony Orchestra's second concert of the season, scheduled for Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Memorial Union, will feature the first performance of "Symphony No. 2 in F" by Thomas S. Turner, associate professor in the SUI Music Department.

The orchestra, under the direction of James Dixon, music instructor, will also perform "Fantasia on a Theme By Thomas Tallis" by Ralph Vaughan Williams; a tone poem, "Death and Transfiguration, Op. 24" by Richard Strauss; and overture to "La Forza Del Destino" by Giuseppe Verdi.

Tickets Available Saturday

SUI students and faculty may get free tickets for the concert starting Saturday morning by showing their IDs or staff cards at the information Desk in the Union. The desk is open from 8 a.m. until 10:30 p.m.

Turner, who has been a member of the faculty at SUI since 1939, is in charge or research and instruction in music theory.

Other major works by Turner which have been performed at SUI include "Symphonic Suite in F," "Symphony: John Brown," "Quintet for Clarinet and Strings," "String Quartet" and "Fantasy for Violin and Piano."

Compelling Aspects

In describing the symphony Turner says, "The three connected movements follow the traditional sonata-allegro, free arch and rondo schemes; but, especially in the last movement, this fact tends to lose its significance in the face of other, more compelling aspects."

The Williams "Fantasia" is based on one of the nine psalm tunes by the English Tudor composer Tallis. The work is scored for two separate string orchestras, one large and one small, plus a string quartet. Williams, who died Aug. 26, was considered the dean of British composers.

"Death and Transfiguration," Strauss' third tone poem, was written when he was 25 years old. It was inspired by a poem of Alexander Ritter and follows the general outline of the poem in its four sections, "Sleep, Illness and Reverie," "Fever and Struggle With Death," "Dreams, Childhood Memories and Death," and "Transfiguration."

UNESCO OKs BUDGET

PARIS (AP) — The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization Wednesday approved its 2-year $25,970,463 budget. The vote was 48 to 9 with two abstentions.

AND THAT'S JAZZ! Jazz fans heard lots of music—and the kind they like—Wednesday night when the Central Party Committee presented "Jazz For Moderns," featuring Dave Brubeck, the Four Freshmen, Maynard Ferguson and his orchestra and Sonny Rollins and his trio. John Borrows, A4, Washington, D. C., star tackle on the Iowa Big Ten Championship Football Team, and Martie Chapman, A2, Quincy, Ill., were among the many students who had their programs autographed by Brubeck, above, and the other jazz stars.—Daily Iowan Photo.

Jazz Concert Was Great

—To Blaring, High Flying Ferguson Band

Daily Iowan Review
By JIM WILKE

Well, what did you expect? When you roll that kind of talent together and present it all in one package, and have a man like Leonard Feather to hold it together, it's bound to be great. From the subleties of the Paul Desmond alto, intricately interwoven with the Dave Brubeck piano, to the blaring, exciting, high flying Maynard Ferguson Band, a tremendously wide range of jazz was performed last night in the Fieldhouse. Of course, there isn't room here to hand out the bravado to all who deserved it, however, the high points included the following.

A totally unexpected surprise in the bassist with Sonny Rollins — Henry Grimes. Here is truly one of the fastest, most accurate bass men to be heard in the jazz field. Rollins himself was a pleasant surprise. This reviewer did not expect the sensivity of Rollins' tenor that was heard. All records released up until this time somehow do not carry it off, but it is truly something beautiful to hear in person. Now we know why he is so influential in the modern tenor school.

Drummer Kenny Davis was solid, smooth, and polished.

Next on the stand was the Dave Brubeck Quartet, with Desmond smooth as silk as per usual. Included in the set were a couple of selections from the new Brubeck album, "Impressions Of Eurasia," the most interesting of which was "Pakistan." Joe Morello, at the drums, performed with all the grace he is widely noted for, and Paul Desmond's alto became almost flute-like at times, fitting the "Swinging Shepherd" role nicely.

Maynard Ferguson's Band made a nice contrast against the gentle strains of the Brubeck Quartet. The power, pace, and stamina of this little (13 men) band was most amazing, especially the pace.

There were a couple of disturbing factors, Ferguson danced for one thing. The band could have done just as well without his hip wiggling. (Double meaning of "Hip" not accepted). Jimmy Ford, (Alto sax with Ferguson) was too much—literally. It's really too nervous. He did a fine job of selling programs before the concert, though.

The Four Freshmen drew the most applause, not because they are the greatest musicians, but unfortunately more for their clowning and good audience contact. And so, it got kind of sticky towards the last with the Freshmen singing some of the Big Hits, punctuated by the Ferguson band with much frivolity and name-calling.

Still, a big pat on the back to Leonard Feather who brought these talents together and holds them together on this road show. Leonard is one of these men who really knows the inner significance of the music of jazz. His understanding of the music shows in the calm way he talks, his poise, and the wonderful gift of saying just enough at just the right time. The polish and truly professional character of this show is evident when you consider that these men are currently on a 36-night string of 1-nighters. Tuesday in St. Louis, Wednesday in Iowa City, Thursday in Minneapolis, and on and on. . . not knowing where you're going to sleep tomorrow night, or where your next clean white shirt is coming from. This, in itself, is a tremendous thing to apply oneself to, and then to compose, spontaneously, on the horn, each and every night, this is something to which only such dedicated men as Dave Brubeck, Paul Desmond, Sonny Rollins, Maynard Ferguson, and all the others can and do apply themselves to, and do it successfully. Maybe it's a true love for the music. . . Yes, I'm sure that's what it is.

Police Stop Sale Of Jazz Programs

University Police stopped members of the Maynard Ferguson band from selling souvenir programs 10 minutes before concert time Wednesday night.

A ticket-taker said police objected because at university functions programs are given out not sold.

John Srabian, business manager of the show, said he felt many more programs could have been sold. "I think the students wanted to buy them," he said.

The programs, printed in Oakland Calif., contained scetches on Leonard Feather, the show's emcee, and the four performing groups.

Council OKs Restricting Admission

The SUI Student Council voted Wednesday night to send a letter to the Iowa State Board of Regents approving the Regents recommendation to limit admission in Iowa state educational institutions.

The Council had previously appointed a 4-member committee to study the recent ruling and on Oct. 15 voted to send a letter to the Board of Regents opposing the restriction.

At their annual meeting in Iowa City, Homecoming weekend, the Board of Regents adopted a new set of regulations that would limit automatic admission of high school graduates to those who were in the upper half of their graduating class.

Under the proposed admissions regulations, which must be approved by the attorney general's office before they become official a graduate of an approved Iowa high school will be generally admitted to the state institutions if he is in the upper one-half of his high school class.

Candidates for admission not in the upper half of the class may be required to take special examinations.

The Student Council reversed their decision after hearing a report from Robert J. Nelson, E3, a member of the committee appointed to study the ruling.

Nelson said that the committee members had talked to Ted H. McCarrel, registrar, and had made further studies of the Board of Regents decision.

McCarrel told the committee that the new enrollment regulations would apply to only 3 or 4 per cent of the students who applied for admission at SUI.

Fred Werner, student government vice president for the United States National Student Association, spoke briefly to the Council members and urged them to contribute to the educational experience of the students at SUI.

Werner visited the SUI campus Wednesday and will be in the Student Council offices until noon today to meet with student government personnel.

Pacific Quake Shakes Japan

TOKYO (AP) — A comparatively strong earthquake spawned in the northern Pacific shook northern Japan early Thursday.

The Toyko Central Meterological Agency said the quake—an aftershock of the Nov. 7 major earthquake—was felt in the northernmost Hokkaido Island and part of northern Honshu, Japan's main island.

Blossom's Contract Terminated

Members In 'Hopeless, Frustrating Position'

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.(AP)—Five members of the embattled Little Rock School Board, asserting that the integration situation placed them in a "hopeless, helpless, frustrating position," resigned Wednesday night.

Board President Wayne Upton said the action would enable Little Rock voters to determine in the Dec. 6 school elections whether "we have public schools in Little Rock or not."

The resignations of Upton and members Harold Engstrom, R. A. Lile, Frank Lambright and Dr. W. G. Cooper Jr. left Dr. Dale Alford, an avowed segregationist, as the only remaining board member.

Shortly before the resignation announcement, the board terminated the contact of School Supt. Virgil T. Blossom and agreed to pay him $19,741 for the remaining 19 months of the pact.

Alford Opposed Resolutions

Alford opposed both resolutions on grounds that no action should be taken until a new board is chosen in the school election next month.

The resignations, widely rumored during the past three days, brought no display from a crowd of about 200 which packed the board room. The resignations are effective Friday.

All six board positions will be open in the Dec. 6 election. Alford's term is expiring and as a congressman-elect he will not seek another term.

Candidates have only until the end of this week to file for the offices. Only announced candidate is James T. Waram, Little Rock clothier and close friend of Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

New Board Under Orders

The resigning quintet pointed out that any new board still will be bound by federal court orders to proceed with the court-approved voluntary plan of gradual integration.

The plan, which called for integration of only one high school — Central — last fall ran into immediate trouble when Faubus ordered National Guard troops to the school to keep Negroes out.

Nine Negroes attended last year under protection of federal troops and this fall, after the board's bid for an integration delay was overruled by the Supreme Court, Faubus closed the city's four high schools as a last-ditch resistance measure.

Earlier Wednesday, segregationist attorney Amis Guthride promised court action against any move to buy up Blossom's contract.

Vincent Price Lecture 'Dear Theo' Sold Out

Tickets for the lecture tonight by Vincent Price were gone at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Price, who will speak at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union, will not appear in the "villain" role to which he is accustomed.

Although familiar to movie and theater-goers as the villain, Price admits that he prefers comedy roles. "Still," he says, "I'd never turn down a villain."

The Union Board is again sponsoring a free Tot-tending Service beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Union RACR Room for the children of all University students and faculty attending the lecture.

On Broadway, Price has appeared in T. S. Eliot's "The Cocktail Party," Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not for Burning," and a New York City production of "Richard III."

Movie-goers may remember him in "Song of Bernadette," "Keys of the Kingdom," "The House of Wax," and "The Ten Commandments."

Van Gogh Letters

The title of Price's lecture tonight, "Dear Theo," refers to letters the French artist Vincent van Gogh wrote to Theo, the saintly art-dealer brother who sustained him with francs and moral support throughout his career.

These letters have been the basis for every biography, historical analysis, investigation, and film done on van Gogh. They also contained charcoal drawings which today are rare and expensive.

Although Price doesn't sketch or paint, he is a patron of several contemporary American artists, among them Howard Harshaw, regarded as one of America's most promising young painters.

Auditioned On Dare

Before becoming an actor, Price's goal in life was to be a professor and collector of art. While studying art at London University in 1933, Price accepted a dare from a friend and auditioned for a play.

He was given the role, and from that time on, the 21-year-old would-be art student concentrated his efforts on studying acting.

When not doing stage, screen, or TV work, Price enjoys gardening and swimming at his Beverly Hills home. He also admits to being an "inspirational cook" who likes to "dream up new dishes on the spot."

Vice-President Gomez Leader —

Coup Smashed In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentine President Arturo Frondizi Wednesday night smashed an attempted Government House coup led by Vice-President Alejandro Gomez.

Demanded Resignation

Gomez was reported to have demanded Frondizi's resignation with a pretension of having armed backing.

Frondizi in turn demanded that Gomez resign and now he may have to do so.

Frondizi was reported to have threatened impeachment proceedings against Gomez in the Senate unless Gomez resigns.

The vice president refused to tell other Government officers who his military backers were. He was forced to back down in the face of Frondizi's confident display of armed force at Government House.

As rumors raced over the capital of an upheaval high in the Administration, the armed guards were reinforced.

The crisis, coming after six months of Frondizi's tenure as president, was set off by a threatened strike of oil workers. The strike has right-and-left wing implications.

Arturo Frondizi
Argentine President

Frondizi said the strikers were Communist-inspired. The powerful Petroleum Workers Federation has had a long record of support for exiled ex-dictator Juan Peron.

Frondizi's apparent success in quashing Gomez did not entirely insure that he could cope with the test of power posed by labor with Communist and Peronist backing.

Frondizi left his suburban home after 12 days of reported illness to come into the capital Wednesday night for a meeting with the chiefs of the armed services.

The crisis came to a head after petroleum workers called for a general nationwide 48-hour strike. They said it was to protest contracts signed by the Government with foreign firms to develop the oil industry.

State Of Siege

The Government declared a state of siege Tuesday, abolishing constitutional guarantees. Hundreds were arrested, among them labor leader here and in the provinces.

The oil workers after conferring with Vitolo late in the afternoon, reaffirmed their decision to walk out at the Wednesday midnight deadline.

Frondizi, a 49-year-old asceitc-looking lawyer, was elected president of Argentine last Feb. 23 and took office May 1.

Traffic Court Clarifies SUI Auto Regulations

In an effort to help students avoid getting tickets for violation of SUI Student Automobile and Parking Regulations, the Student Court of Appeals has issued a supplementary statement clarifying the regulations.

The Student Court of Appeals is the judicial branch of the SUI Student Council and hears appeals of students given tickets for violating the regulations.

Must Display Stickers Properly

According to Keith Burgett, chief justice of the Student Court of Appeals, effective at 7:30 a.m. Nov. 20, students who fail to display, or fail to display properly, University and/or parking decals on their cars will no longer have 48 hours within which to correct the condition leading to issuance of a violation notice before being fined. Burgett is a Guthrie Center senior in the college of law.

All automobiles subject to SUI registration are to have the necessary decals displayed and affixed properly. The statement in the present regulations reading "if condition leading to issuance of Violation Notice is not corrected within 48 hours from the time of issuance" will no longer constitute a basis for appeal.

The Student Court of Appeals statement also stipulates that "All university decals not affecting current registration are to be completely removed from display in the automobile. A violation of this shall constitute 'improper display of identification.' "

The statement explains also that "Any evidence of deformity in a displayed decal shall constitute 'improper display of identification.' "

Members of the Student Court of Appeals pointed out that students should apply at the SUI Business Office for a duplicate decal in case the one on their car starts to peel or split or show any other deformity. No adhesive (including scotch tape) of any type other than that on the decal may be used to secure the sticker to the car, they explained.

Duplicate Decal

To get a duplicate decal to replace a deformed one, the student must either bring an identifiable portion of the deformed sticker to the Business Office or ask a University policeman to remove the remains of the old sticker and give him a statement certifying that the original sticker has been destroyed. The office of the University police is in the Old Dental Building, where students can find a policeman to issue such statements.

Alright, Already–You're Going To The Rose Bowl!

Stalking The Corn Song

It's beginning again — the hue and cry for and against the "Iowa Corn Song." The current discussions center around the question: Will the University Marching Band play the corn song when it makes its appearance January 1 in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena.

The corn song certainly wouldn't be a fitting song to represent SUIowans. "On Iowa," the "Iowa Fight Song," even the "Mexican Hat Dance" or the "Beer Barrel Polka" would be more representative of SUI than the corn song. (We refuse to capitalize it more than once.)

There is the thought that the band —and the football team — will be representing the whole state during their California activities, and that the band should play a song typical of the state rather than of SUI. This seems a valid argument, and yet we just can't recognize the corn song as a legitimate bit of Iowana. (Illegitimate, yes.) Who in Iowa ever pronounced the name of his state as I - O - WAY?

A much more melodic tune might be the one by our own Meredith Willson which goes — "Iowa (pronounced correctly), it's a beautiful name . . . When you say it like we say it back home. . . ." This seems much more deserving of our loyalty than the corn song.

And regardless of what corn song devotees in the great state would have us believe, the band and the football team are products of the State University of Iowa, and will be thought of as such by those on the West Coast who see or hear them perform. Although they do represent the state as a whole, to old grads and out-of-staters alike, they are SUIowans first and last. We shouldn't embarrass them or ourselves by advertising the corn song as an example of our taste in music (?).

The final decision on whether or not to play the corn song at the Rose Bowl probably will rest with the University. We hope it will do its bit to keep the performance of the University Band on a par with the performance we know our football team will deliver. Allow us to walk the streets of California with our heads held high. Leave the corn in Iowa.

A Welcome Beginning

We heard some good news this week: at least one department of this University is cracking down on potential cheaters. At a test given the other night by the economics department, stringent rules designed to minimize cheating were strictly enforced. And the monitors actually monitored.

From the reaction of the majority of the students we talked with later — students who actually took the test — we are confident that any department which follows suit will have the backing and thanks of the majority of SUI students.

If strict monitoring becomes the rule, potential cheaters will realize they are going to be forced to rely on their brains rather than their crib sheets. And most SUI students are not cheaters. We are certain the typical SUIowan would much prefer to earn an honest grade through his own efforts rather than being forced to cheat or else accept a lower grade because his fellow student was allowed to cheat.

Perhaps other departments already have made plans to provide stricter control over the conditions under which their tests are administered. If so, we salute them; if not, we hope they do so soon.

New Trend

Politicians Who're Rich Before They Take Office

By GEORGE DIXON

Nelson Rockefeller has instituted a reverse political philosophy. The old theory was that a man went into office poor and came out rich. There were people who deplored this, but the new trend could be deplorable to. For one thing, it would defy scrutiny and exposure. How could you tell if a Rockefeller got richer?

If a poor officeholder began looting, it soon became apparent because he moved to a better neighborhood. But the new Republican Governor of New York couldn't move to a better neighborhood because there isn't such a thing in his bailiwick. It's very disturbing.

Unfair To Thief

If billionaires keep grabbing off juicy political posts and use their own money because there's no incentive to steal, it's going to be unfair to the poor politician with ambitions to become a thief. Our very Constitutional philosophy that all men are created equal, and given the same shot at the public till, is going to be endangered.

At the very least, it's going to be stultifying to the fellow unfortunate enough to have been born with a silver itch in the fingers instead of spoon in the mouth. If he sees rich men taking office, and not waxing a bit richer, he's going to feel that this is no longer a land of opportunity, and our whole national spirit may suffer.

Inspiration

The old theory that a man should go into office poor and come out rich had definite inspirational qualities. It kept creating a vibrant new aristocracy. An officeholder so untutored he could barely sign away a paving contract had sons who refused to take tained money unless it was doused with perfume, and daughters who married peers in the Kingdom of Jimmy Hoffa.

There was another comforting thing about putting a poor pillager in office. If he stayed in long enough it didn't pay to take him out. He already had his. If a new poor man was put in, and had the old political spirit of give and take — especially "take" — he'd have to start looting from scratch.

Scholarship Becoming More Important—
Fraternity System Gets A Face-Lifting

From Newsweek Magazine, October. 10, 1958

"It must be disappointing to the fraternity man to go to college for four years and have nothing to show for it but an education."

To many an old grad, nurtured on such intellectual fare as that gag from a 1928 issue of College Humor, a notice tacked on bulletin boards in the 129 chapter houses of Kappa Sigma fraternity this week would be astonishing. Under a red-ink headline, the notice offers a $1,000 award to the Kappa Sig chapter making the greatest scholastic improvement in the new school year, with a second prize of $500. Other awards totaling $20,650 will go to individual brothers turning in top grades.

Typical Of Concern For Scholarship

Curious as this grades-boosting program might appear to those participants of the hell-raising fraternity life of the Jazz Age, the Kappa Sigma offer is not unique. It is, rather, a typical symptom of the concern for scholarship currently occupying leaders of all 71 national fraternities in the U.S.

Behind the fraternities' urgent pressure for better grades is a realization that American college educators, in an age demanding physicists and linguists instead of playboys, have had enough of the strictly social Greek-letter group. Many critics are expressing themselves in words as blunt as those of Philip Jacob, author of the revealing book "Changing Values in College."

"The fraternities," Jacob said this week, "are going to have to justify their existence. The situation has become so bad here (at the University of Pennsylvania, where Jacob teaches political science) and in some other places, that they stand against the pursuit of excellence to which we are all being called." In the face of this kind of clear warning, fraternity leaders are rallying their members with warnings of their own. Typical is one sounded by Frederick M. Binder, scholarship officer of Alpha Chi Rho and academic dean at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa.: "The national social fraternity has been caught in the maelstrom of the Sputnik age and is in danger of being wiped out."

The Perils Are Becoming Plain

Some of the perils of their situation, ignored for years, apparently, are now becoming plain to present-day undergraduates, too. Fred H. Turner, president of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, says: "Fraternity men are taking their spot on the campus more seriously. They know that it is getting more difficult even to get into college. They realize that if a superior type of student is coming along, they are going to have to offer a superior kind of fraternity."

A recent survey at the University of Illinois, where Turner is dean of students, noted a sharp increase in "de-pledging" by fraternity freshmen last year. One freshman's frank comment: "I could not devote the necessary time to both studies and fraternity activities."

The fraternities' response to the obvious threat to their existence has brought from many critics the observation that they are only doing what they should have done long ago. Candid fraternity leaders acknowledge that they are right; some go even farther. Houston Karnes, chairman of the National Interfraternity Conference, said this week: "Our insistence that scholarship is worth working for has a selfish motive. We want more of our members graduated from college. The more successful graduates, the greater their contribution to society. The greater their contribution to society, the better public relations for the entire fraternity system."

Probably even the staunchest supporter of fraternities today, however, would admit that they have made little more than a good start on scholarship. How little is indicated in a forthcoming report by the American Council on Education, based on the findings last year of a team of University of New Hampshire graduate students working under vice-president Edward D. Eddy Jr.

"Few, if any, of the colleges have realized the full potentiality of the fraternity system," one passage asserts. "In some cases we felt that these units had become a drag on the educational process. We were forced to conclude that fraternities at their worst had become islands of anti-intellectualism."

Among the "old line" fraternities —those founded between 1825 and 1875—which have the best students? In the rating of Col. Ralph W. Wilson of Atlanta, Alpha Tau Omega and Beta Theta Pi have recently been running neck and neck. Wilson, former scholarship counselor of the National Interfraternity Conference, bases his annual ranking on the percentage of fraternity chapters exceeding the men's grade averages on their respective campuses. His latest complete listing, for 1956-57:

Alpha Tau Omega: 63,000 members; out of 117 chapters, 115 reporting—67 per cent.

Beta Theta Pi: 50,000 members; out of 96 chapters, 93 reporting —66 per cent.

Kappa Alpha, South: 39,000 members; out of 80 chapters, 76 reporting—55 per cent.

Sigma Chi: 73,000 members; out of 130 chapters, 124 reporting—50 per cent.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon: 85,000 memebrs; out of 139 chapters, 131 reporting—47 per cent.

Phi Delta Theta: 73,000 members, out of 120 chapters, 113 reporting —46 per cent.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A MILWAUKEE journalist relays the sad story of a young mother, exhausted from her daily chores, who lay down on her couch to steal forty winks. Half asleep, she felt one of her youngsters patting her face, and was drowsily pleased by this unexpected display of affection. Then the doorbell rang.

She jumped up with a start to admit a delivery man from her husband's favorite liquor shop. He looked at her so queerly that when he had gone, she rushed over to a mirror to inspect herself.

Her face was completely plastered with green trading stamps!

John Wingate happened to be home when the delegate from church came to make her annual rummage sale collection. Wingate's wife cheerfully gave her three of his 10-year-old suits and four of her 10-week-old dresses!

NSF To Award 1,200 Grants In Science For 1959-60

As one means of promoting scientific research, the National Science Foundation (NSF) will award some 1,000 graduate and 200 post-doctoral fellowships to individuals in the field of science for the 1959-60 academic year.

These grants will be awarded in the mathematical, physical, medical, biological, engineering and social sciences, as well as geography, experimental and quantitive sociology, mathematical economics, demography, information and communication theory and the history and philosophy of science. Also included are interdisciplinary fields composed of overlapping subjects among two or more sciences (example: biochemistry).

Application materials may be obtained at SUI from the office of Dean Walter F. Loehwing of the Graduate College.

Deadline for graduate fellowship applications is January 5. Applications for post-doctoral grants must be received by Dec. 22. Award winners will be announced Mar. 15.

Applicants will be evaluated by the National Research Council on demonstrated ability and special aptitude for advanced training in the sciences.

All applicants will be required to take an examination designed to test scientific and scholastic aptitude and achievement. This examination will be administered at a large number of centers throughout the U.S. and overseas on Jan. 17. Instructions for applying for the examination are contained in the application materials.

U. S. Citizens

National Science Foundation fellowships are available to U.S. citizens and in the following categories:

Graduate Awards. This category includes grants to individuals studying for either masters' or doctoral degrees. First Year Fellowships will be made available to students entering graduate school for the first time or those who will have completed less than one year of graduate study at the beginning of their study under the fellowship.

Intermediate Fellowships are to be made available to students who have completed an amount of graduate study equal to a year, but who will require more than one additional year to complete their degree requirements.

Terminal Year Fellowships will be granted to students who expect to complete the requirements for a doctoral degree within one year from the date on which they begin a fellowship tenure.

Fulltime Study

Postdoctoral Awards competition is open to individuals who have earned a doctoral degree in one of the aforementioned fields of science or have had training and experience equivalent to that represented by such a degree.

Fellowship winners will be required to devote full time to advanced study during the period of the award. The results of research carried out may be made available to the public without restriction except in the interests of national security.

Tenure of a graduate fellowship may include either one regular academic year of two semesters or a full year consisting of the academic year plus a summer session.

Postdoctoral fellowships have the same options as graduate fellowships but may be awarded for longer or shorter periods.

Annual Stipends

A Fellow may study at any accredited non-profit institution of higher education in the U.S.—or any similar institution abroad approved by the National Science Foundation.

Annual stipends very with the category of the award. For Graduate Fellowships: First Year Fellows will receive $1,800; Intermediate Fellows, $2,000; Terminal Year Fellows, $2,200. Annual financial allotment for Postdoctoral Fellows will be $4,500.

Married Fellows will be provided a dependency allowance of an additional $500, plus $500 for each dependent child. A limited allowance to aid in defraying travel costs is also paid. The Foundation also pays any assessed tuition and fees. Fellows may not receive funds from the Foundation and from the Veterans Administration concurrently.

Caril Says She Feared Starkweather

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Caril Ann Fugate pictured herself Wednesday as a tearful, fearful and unwilling companion of killer Charles Starkweather in the sequence of events leading up to the slaying of a Bennet, Neb., schoolboy.

Sitting primly in the witness chair, hands folded in her lap, Caril told a jury she thought she herself was about to become a Starkweather victim.

The 15-year-old brunette took the stand as the first defense witness in her trial for first degree murder.

She is accused of aiding and abetting her condemned boy friend in the death of the Bennet youth, Robert Jensen, one of 11 attributed to Starkweather.

Bodies of Jensen and his girl friend, Carol King, were found Jan. 28 in an abandoned storm cave near Bennet. Both had been shot.

Four already had been killed when Starkweather's car got stuck near Bennet the night of Jan. 27 and he and Caril began walking into town.

Jensen and his date came along and Starkweather decided to flag them down.

"He said for me to shut up," Caril related. "If I said anything it would be too bad."

"Were you afraid of Charles Starkweather?" Caril's lawyer asked.

"Yes Sir," she replied.

"I was thinking he was going to kill me because he killed Mr. Meyers (August Meyer), Bennet farmer, an earlier Starkweather victim."

At the time of the Jensen encounter, Caril said, she was so tired, scared and nervous "I couldn't hardly pick my feet up."

Starkweather, in a court appearance last week, described Caril as a willing helper in these events, holding a gun on Miss King and helping order the Bennet teenagers out of the car.

NSA Exams Set For Dec. 6; Applications Due Nov. 29

SUI senior and graduate students interested in taking the National Security Agency (NSA) Professional Qualification test Dec. 6 on campus should fill out an application before Nov. 29.

The applications may be obtained from the SUI Business and Industrial Placement office, Room 107, University Hall. They should be sent to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J.

The examination, primarily for Liberal Arts students, will only be given once in the 1958-59 school year at SUI. Students anticipating a June degree in mathematics, physics and engineering are eligible for jobs with NSA but will not have to take the examination.

The NSA office will give students further instructions concerning the test upon receipt of the application blanks. The examination is a prerequisite to consideration for employment with the NSA.

Candidates passing the examination will be interviewed during the regular spring recruitment at SUI. Jobs with the NSA would involve working in part of the Intelligence System of the United States.

Electronic Music Advocate To Lecture At SUI Monday

A tape recorder and a blackboard will be the only demonstration equipment used by composer Karlheinz Stockhausen when he comes to SUI Monday to lecture on "New Developments in Instrumental and Electronic Music."

One of contemporary music's most widely controversial figures, the 30-year-old German-born exponent of "electronic" music will speak in the North Hall of the SUI Music Building at 8 p.m. The public is invited free of charge.

Stockhausen, who recently gave this same lecture-demonstration on the problems of mechanical reproduction of musical sound at New York Columbia University, is the product of a new post-war school of European composers — young men who take as their starting point the works of Viennese composer Anton Webern.

Using as a pattern the music of Webern, on whom he has written a number of articles, the young composer has developed a highly individual style of writing that has been recognized — and attacked — all over Europe. For the most part Stockhausen, who has studied composition with such modernists as Messiaen and Milhaud, experiments with "electronic" music produced without instruments by the use of electronic generators.

Mrs. Ehrenhaft To Participate In Nat'l Study

Mrs. Jean L. Ehrenhaft, instructor and chief of the occupational therapy division at the SUI Psychopathic Hospital, has been invited to participate in a curriculum study project which is being undertaken by the American Occupational Therapy Association.

The study, financed by a grant from the National Foundation, New York, is expected to extend over a 4-year period, with three separate but correlated phases. One phase will involve a job analysis in representative institutions, outlining the knowledge and skills required of occupational therapists.

A second and concurrent phase will be an examination of curriculum to determine the exact nature of present academic and clinic preparation of occupational therapists.

The final phase will be concerned with the integration of job requirements with educational preparation.

Rock Shift Bares Body Of Worker

THOMASTON, Conn. — A shifting pile of rocky earth Wednesday night gave up the body of a construction worker to rescuers who braved possible death to free him.

The lifeless body of 38-year-old Matthew Pagarulo was pulled free at about 9 a.m., from the tons of rubble that trapped him at dusk Tuesday.

Confirmation of Pagarulo's fate came nearly 30 hours after he was trapped by a landslide near his power shovel at the $17-million Federal Thomaston Dam project.

Several hours earlier workers uncovered his legs and said he appeared to be dead.

The rescue operation was made difficult by the treacherous rock and dirt, which threatened to come down again.

Hawks Retain Top Spot As Louisiana State Takes 2nd

Last week end's results caused another shuffling of the college football leaders in the Smith Touchdown Tendency System of Ratings.

Iowa's 28-6 mangling of Minnesota enables the relentless Hawkeyes to retain first place for the third consecutive week and clinch a Rose Bowl berth.

Louisiana State's bowl-hungry Bengals pulverized Duke, 50-18, in a terrific offensive show to vault into the runnerup slot.

Army's dynamic 14-7 win over powerful Rice, in a stylish exhibition of intricate football, keeps the heads-up Cadets in third place.

Oklahoma falls to fourth, despite its 20-0 win over Iowa State. Rice's splendid showing against Army advances the Owls to No. 5.

The Badgers of Wisconsin, defeating Northwestern, 17-13, move up to sixth from a ninth place ranking a week ago. Northwestern is a close-up seventh.

Auburn's lopsided 33-14 rout of Mississippi State gives the Tigers the No. 8 spot in the ratings.

Purdue's 14-14 tie with Ohio State cost the Boilermakers some points, dropping them three places to ninth. Ohio State is a strong tenth.

Southern Methodist leaps into 11th place, after exhibiting a phenomenal touchdown tendency with a 33-0 romp over Texas A. & M.

Mississippi returns to the select list in No. 12, after rolling at will to a 56-7 win over supposedly strong Houston.

Iowa collides with Ohio State and Northwestern encounters Purdue this week in contests matching members of the top dozen.

But Thornton, who has completed 33 passes for 503 yards, has added 189 yards running to hold total offense honors with 692 yards.

15 Pass Receptions

Pass receiving records show Curt Merz of Iowa in the lead with 15 catches, but Rich Kreitling of Illinois has established a phenomenal record with 14 catches. They have been good for 476 yards — Merz' yardage is 222 yards.

Iowa's Don Norton is third with 11 receptions for 195 yards.

White, pounding out 426 yards at an average of 3.5 yards per try and still to be thrown for a loss, also is the leading scorer with 42 points although Ron Burton of Northwestern moved another step closer to him with a total of 40.

Tied For Third

Willie Fleming of Iowa and Kreitling are tied for third in scoring with 30 points each.

Fleming has the best yard per carry average with 9.4 yards on 303 yards in 32 attempts. Teammate Ray Jauch is second in rushing with 374 yards and also No. 2 averagewise with 48 carries for a 7.8 yards per attempt mark.

Another Iowan, Don Horn, ranks seventh in rushing with 210 yards in 52 rushes for a 4-yard average.

HAVANA (AP) — "Es buenos" or "es malo."

Good or lousy, the football picks come to you this week with a Latin accent and a bit of cha-cha-cha from a country where they intercept airplanes instead of pigskins.

Last week's score: 35-11 for .761.

Ohio State 24, Iowa 20: The Hawkeyes suffer a letdown after clinching the bowl bid, and Ohio State is geared for an upset.

Louisiana State 21, Mississippi State 7: The rich get richer in the land of the bayous.

Notre Dame, 20, North Carolina 14: The Fighting Irish still have plenty of punch, but the Tarheels slow up George Izo some.

Texas Christian 14, Texas 7: The Longhorns are not as potent without a healthy Bobby Lackey.

California 21, Washington 6: Joe Kapp leads Golden Bears another step toward the Rose Bowl.

Illinois 10, Wisconsin 7: Another upset with the Illini, at home, playing their best game of the season.

Army 40, Villanova 0: Don Bonko, Steve Waldrop and other subs have their day.

Cornell 19, Dartmouth 14: The Big Red was thinking of this one in losing to Brown last week.

Oklahoma 32, Missouri 7: The Sooners roll along. The Tigers can't get "up" a second week in a row.

Air Force 14, Wyoming 0: Everything seems to happen right for the bowl-bound Airmen.

Pittsburgh 28, Nebraska 7: Bill Kaliden and Ivan Toncic give the Panthers a knockout 1-2 punch.

Auburn 18, Georgia 0: Another shutout for the defense-minded Plainsmen.

The others:

MIDWEST — Purdue 20, Northwestern 14; Michigan 7, Indiana 0; Michigan State 20, Minnesota 7; Oklahoma State 24, Kansas 14; Kansas State 19, Iowa State 6.

Iowa Has Top Offense In Country

Big Ten champion Iowa has taken over the total offense lead in the latest National Collegiate Athletic Bureau statistics with 2,770 yards gained on 496 plays for a per game average of 395.7 yards.

Army is second with an average of 393 yards per game and Air Force is third with a mark of 369.7.

No other Big Ten team ranks in the top 10, although Notre Dame, which plays here Nov. 22, is in the No. 5 spot with a 335.7 average.

Most of the Hawkeyes' gains have come on rushing plays — 1,749 yards in 352 plays for a 249.9 yards per game average which is good for sixth place in the rushing offense figures.

Colorado, with 1,907 yard rushing, is first with a 272.4 yards per game mark. Brigham Young is second and Oklahoma third in the ground gaining department.

By scoring 175 in its first seven games, Iowa is in eighth place in the nation in scoring with a 25-point per game average. Rutgers leads with an average of 32.6 points per contest. Northwestern is tied for tenth place with Boston College with an average of 24.7 points.

Perkins Takes Upset Decision Over Ryff

CHICAGO (AP) — Nimble Eddie Perkins, flashing good combinations, Wednesday night hammered out a unanimous 10-round decision over Frankie Ryff in a lightweight scrap in Chicago Stadium.

Perkins, 21-year-old Chicago youngster who gained his 12th victory in 16 starts, floored the veteran New Yorker with a short right in the third round.

All Phase Workout For Hawkeyes

Iowa's Hawkeyes stressed all phases again Wednesday in preparation for the invasion of the Buckeyes of Ohio State in the final conference game of the campaign for Coach Forest Evashevski's league champions Saturday.

While reserves used Ohio State offenses and defenses, Evy had his first two units alternating between the two phases in a spirited workout. Despite having their second championship cinched already, the Hawks do not seem to be suffering any let down.

Lists Possible Presidents—

Harold 'Forgets' Dick

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold E. Stassen hoisted a new "dump Nixon" banner Wednesday — right in the middle of the White House lobby.

Emerging from a conference with President Eisenhower, Stassen gave reporters a list of four men he said he considered GOP presidential possibilities in 1960. Glaringly omitted was the name of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

It was immediately evident that Stassen, a former presidential adviser, was voicing his personal opinion. James C. Hagerty, Mr. Eisenhower's press secretary, told reporters Stassen was not speaking for the President on any of the candidates. Nixon's office said the vice president would have no comment.

Newsmen asked Stassen whether he thinks Nixon is not a good candidate.

"My views on that are well-known," Stassen replied. "And I believe the results of the election prove me right."

With his reference to the results of the Nov. 4 congressional elections, Stassen was taking a hefty swipe at the vote-getting power of the man who was the most active campaigner for the GOP.

But Mr. Eisenhower was also within range of these remarks, since the President, joining Nixon on the hustings, got in his strongest, most partisan punch in years in a campaign which produced a debacle for the Republicans.

Harold Stassen
Omits Nixon's Name

In 1956, when he was trying to dump Nixon from the second spot on the GOP presidential ticket, Stassen contended the vice president had "evident weaknesses" as a vote-getter among labor, minority and independent groups.

The Republicans can win in 1960, Stassen declared Wednesday, with any of these men at the head of the ticket:

elected governor of New York.

Henry Cabot Lodge, former senator and now U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton.

Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell entered an objection to Stassen's list later in the day. He said all the men mentioned "are obviously men of ability and integrity and display the very great talent that exists in the Republican party."

"But in any discussion of 1960 Republican candidates," Mitchell went on in a statement issued from his office, "it seems to me unthinkable to ignore Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the man who has time and again demonstrated the highest qualifications for the presidency.

Stassen has been in the political shadows since his defeat in Pennsylvania's governorship primary early this year. A former governor of Minnesota, Stassen was once the "boy wonder" of the Republican party and had presidential ambitions.

11 Killed In Crash Of Air Tanker

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Eleven Air Force crewmen died Wednesday in the flaming wreckage of a KC97 refueling tanker.

The 4-engine plane was blazing, witnesses reported, before it descended to treetop level with its doomed crew. It blew apart and fell with a series of deafening explosions in a residential area on the Isle of Hope, 10 miles southeast of Savannah.

It crashed a few minutes after a 2 p.m. takeoff from Hunter Air Force Base. Two houses were wrecked. A civilian, working in his garden, was burned severely by burning wreckage.

Flames covered the crash area after the tanker clipped the tops off several trees and plowed a swath 100 feet wide and 300 feet long into the ground.

The plane apparently lost an engine, said Maj. Robert H. Reed, Hunter public information officer. It dumped some fuel, he explained after taking off in an effort to gain altitude.

Frightened residents thought the plane would hit a school or a nearby playground, but it crashed half a mile away.

Pieces of torn and twisted wreckage from the shattered plane covered lawns in the housing development. The aircraft missed the residence of Mrs. Kathleen L. Barbour by only a few feet. Her house was damaged by the flying debris.

Commission To Call Records, Witnesses In Voting Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Rights Commission decided Wednesday to use its subpoena power to bring witnesses and records before a voting rights hearing in Alabama next month.

It could mean a showdown with Alabama officials who have refused to allow commission investigators to examine records which figure in complaints that Negroes in Macon County, Ala., were denied the ballot.

Macon's Voter Registration Board turned down the investigators request last Oct. 20 on the advice of Alabama Atty. Gen. John Patterson. He has since been elected governor of the state.

It was the refusal to open the records that resulted in the commission calling the hearing in Montgomery for Dec. 8.

However, the commission's vice chairman, Robert G. Storey, dean of the Southern Mehtodist University Law School, did not say the specific records denied would be subpoenaed. He told a news conference that witnesses, including voting registrars, will be subpoenaed and asked to bring pertinent records.

Storey said the subpoena power will be used in the case of all witnesses and with respect to any records actually needed.

The commission at a closed meeting, decided also to hold a national conference on school integration, in Nashville, Tenn., the last week in February.

Officials of local public school systems and others will be invited in an attempt to collect all available information about the problems involved in transition from segregated to integrated public schools.

The commision also identified New York City as the area in which it described last month as a Northern state where the commission is investigating voting complaints based on national origin. The allegations are that some Puerto Rican citizens of New York who are literate in the Spanish language were being denied the right to vote because they can neither read nor speak English, the commission said.

Sun Winds Affect Weather

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Great gusty "winds" from the sun seem to affect our weather profoundly, an astronomer suggested Wednesday.

When these winds die down, it could mean a many-years drouth crippling the American Southwest in the 1970s. Weather could change from normal in other areas of the nation also.

Giant explosions or flares on the sun produce the electrified winds which stream upon the earth.

Dr. Walter Orr Roberts, director of the High Altitude Observatory in Boulder, Colo., is finding indications the winds are tied in with patterns of drouth and rainfall.

When the sun is stormy, rain comes farther south in the United States by this theory.

When the sun is quiet, in a period of minimum sunspot activity and flares, drouths can sear the Southwest.

About 1970, an extremely low sunspot period is forecast with a minimum of solar explosions and winds.

Plane Crash Kills Family Of Three Near Des Moines

DES MOINES (AP) — A commercial air line pilot, his wife and 2½-year-old son were killed early Wednesday night when a private plane in which they were coming from Denver to Des Moines for a visit with relatives crashed in a farm field near here.

The victims were identified as Edwin Hohl, 31, of Aurora, Colo., a suburb of Denver; his wife, Colleen, 29 and their son, Dale.

Hohl, a co-pilot for United Air Lines and the boy were killed instantly. Mrs. Hohl died en route to a hospital.

The pilot was identified from papers he was carrying and Mrs. Hohl and the son were identified by a sister of Mrs. Hohl here.

Before 6 p.m.

Authorities said witnesses reported the 4-seater plane had circled the Iowa State Fairgrounds on the Des Moines eastside shortly before 6 p.m. after dark had fallen and appeared to be headed south along Four Mile Creek in the direction of the Des Moines Municipal Airport.

The plane apparently hit a power line and crashed in a field near the city limits, officials said.

Mrs. Albert Hoffman, a sister of Mrs. Hohl, said the pilot and his family planned to stop here for a visit with his father, Clarence Hohl, and his wife's mother, Mrs. Lyle Thorpe.

Hits Power Line

One witness, Francis Lloyd, Jr., 19, said the plane had its lights on and the engine sounded as if it was sputtering.

"It hit this power line and there was a bright, fluish flash," Lloyd said.

The plane crashed in a pasture about 1½ miles east of Four Mile Creek. It came to rest upside down.

State, county and city officers had trouble removing the bodies from the twisted wreckage. Minor traffic jams blocked roads leading to the area.

No Fire

Ambulances which removed the bodies had to go down a lane with tall reeds growing in it.

There was a strong smell of gasoline near the plane, but apparently there was no fire.

Officials at the Des Moines Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA) station said the pilot radioed shortly before the crash that he was running low on gas.

It was believed he was trying to start an instrument approach on the CAA radio range.

'58 Corn Crop Breaks All Records For Iowa

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa's 1958 corn crop has shattered all records for both yield per acre and total production.

The Government Thursday raised its estimate of this year's Iowa crop to 677,820,000 bushels. The figure is far above the 1948 crop of 677,056,000 bushels which previously was the state record.

The estimated average yield per acre for Iowa is now 66 bushels—far above the old record of 62½ bushels an acre set in 1952.

The 1958 figures compare with the 615,164,000 bushels produced in 1957 and with the 1947-56 ten year average production of 534,465,000 bushels.

Governor Holds Road Views For Legislature

DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. Herschel C. Loveless told the Iowa Good Roads Assn. Wednesday that he is reserving his views on highway progress for his messages to the 1959 legislature.

"All of us are looking forward to better roads," the governor said. "We can solve any differences we may have around the conference table. There are many needs. I have confidence the state will meet as they arise."

Governor Loveless, who supported and signed the 1957 law extending the 6-cent per gallon state tax on gasoline for four years and endorsed other association policies, spoke briefly to the group's annual meeting.

Navy Plane Riddles Car With Machinegun Blasts

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Machinegun fire from a Navy plane riddled an unoccupied car parked near the Pensacola Beach Shopping Center Wednesday, Sheriff's Deputy Pete Norred said. No one was hurt.

A spokesman at the Pensacola Naval Air Station said officials there knew nothing of the incident. Navy officers were sent to investigate.

The shopping center is about three miles from the Navy's gulf firing range where planes shoot at tow targets.

Hawaii Alerted For Tidal Wave Following Earthquake In Japan

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii was alerted Wednesday for a possible tidal wave following a powerful earthquake believed to have centered in southern Japan.

The U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey issued the alert, urging residents along Hawaii's coastlines to evacuate their homes until the danger passes.

The alert was called after reports were received on a 4-inch rise in the water level at Wake Island, 2,100 miles west of here. A 6-inch rise was reported in the Aleutian Islands.

Carpenters Union Threatens To Withdraw From AFL-CIO

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Secession from the AFL-CIO was threatened Wednesday by the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America—the world's largest craft union.

Hours after 2,000 delegates to the national convention had re-elected their indicted President Maurice Hutcheson without opposition, they empowered the brotherhood's 15-member General Executive Board to vote Thursday on whether to pull out of the AFL-CIO. Some 1,200 delegates lined up behind the resolution.

Hoegh Says Nation Could Survive A-Attack 2 Weeks

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization expects all parts of the nation to be self-sufficient for two weeks in case of nuclear attack.

Leo A. Hoegh, director of that office, revealed that Wednesday at the convention of the National Defense Transportation Assn.

But, Hoegh admitted, some areas would be hard pressed to survive beyond the 14 days.

Hoegh said the transportation industry's first problem—in nuclear attack should come—would be to get food from undamaged areas to those in need.

16 Chrysler Plants Close Because Of Union Trouble

DETROIT (AP) — Striking unionized office workers and engineers shut down 16 Chrysler Corp. plants employing 24,000 workers Wednesday.

Included were all eight of Chrysler's auto and truck assembly factories; one in Evansville, Ind., one in Newark, Del., one in Los Angeles and the rest in the Detroit area.

The 8,000 engineers and office workers represented by the United Auto Workers Union walked out at 10 a.m. deadline Tuesday at 34 plants in which they are thinly. Picket lines formed quickly.

Treasure Buried 1,200 Years Goes On Display In Britain

LONDON (AP) — A collection of silver treasure buried in the Shetland Islands 1,200 years ago—probably to hide it from one of the first Viking raids—went on show in the British Museum Wednesday.

A museum spokesman said the hoard, discovered on St. Ninian's Island in July, is undoubtedly one of the most important ever found in this country.

Full study of its significance will take five years, he said.

Reds Ask U.S. To Scrap Overseas Military Bases

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union demanded Wednesday the scrapping of all U.S. overseas military bases as the price for agreeing to international cooperation on outer space problems.

But the United States declared that what Moscow really wants is not agreement, but to destroy the capacity of the non-Soviet world to defend itself from Soviet aggression.

Soviet Dep. Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin and U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge put forward those views in a sharp exchange at the outset of the U.N.'s first full-scale debate on control of outer space for peace.

Zorin told the U.N. Political Committee the United States has "nightmarish plans" for setting up military bases on the moon for use in attacking Soviet cities.

He said such plans were being pushed by the military disciples of U.S. Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic majority leader who will speak in the U.N. space debate next week.

He urged the committee to support a Soviet resolution recommending both a ban on use of outer space for military purposes and elimination of military bases on foreign territory.

The United States is bringing in a resolution asking for the creation of a special committee to study all aspects of peaceful control of outer space and to report back to next year's General Assembly.

Lodge immediately accused Zorin of misrepresenting the position of the United States. He said it was impossible to accept the Soviet statements on foreign bases at face value.

"They — the Russians — do not mean what they say they mean," Lodge declared.

Lodge said the overseas bases of the United States are located in countries with their free consent.

Diplomatic sources reported the United States had 21 nations as sponsors of its resolution. Formal introduction was being delayed pending conferences with some delegations, including those from Latin America, about precise wording. The general purpose has not been changed.

Curley Dies; Boston Boss Of Politics

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — James M. Curley, political boss who out-lived his generation — and as he said, most of his enemies — died Wednesday eight days short of his 84th birthday.

Curley was born in a ramshackle tenement. His immigrant mother was widowed when he was a boy.

He educated himself after meager schooling, and rose to the highest administrative offices of his city and state. He was four times elected a representative in Congress on the Democratic ticket, was four times mayor of Boston and served one term as Massachuetts governor.

Known as last of the nation's big political bosses, Curley said he considered himself "not exactly a political boss."

Thousands of the Bostonians mourning him remembered him as one who had befriended their immigrant parents or grandparents.

Death came after Curley suffered an adominal blood clot just as he seemed to be recovering from his second major intestinal surgery in two years. He had undergone an operation for intestinal obstruction Nov. 4, after casting an absentee ballot and forecasting sweeping Democratic victories.

Curley rose to national prominence in the presidential campaigns of 1928 and 1932. He was credited with playing a major role in winning Massachusetts for Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

One of the first to hail Franklin D. Roosevelt as a presidential possibility, Curley sought election as a Democratic convention delegate pledged to Roosevelt. Defeated, he astonished politicians by appearing at the convention as an accredited alternate delegate from Puerto Rico. Later he stumped the West for FDR.

Carpenter Likes Taste Of Nails

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Surgeons reported Wednesday they removed 160 nails, a pocket knife and a spoon from the stomach of Sayd Mohammed, 40, a carpenter. He had complained of pains in the abdomen.

"I don't remember swallowing the knife and spoon but I always liked the taste of nails," said Mohammed.

Reds Won't Get Out Of Germany

BERLIN — Premier Otto Grotewohl beat a hasty retreat Wednesday night — apparently on orders from the Kremlin — after indicating the Soviet Union might be willing to withdraw troops from East Germany without waiting for the West to pull out.

A revised version of a statement the Communist East German Premier gave a news conference made clear the Kremlin was not retreating on its stand that Soviet troops will stay as long as Western armies remain.

Grotewohl, in an expansive mood, had told a news conference in East Berlin his regime expected to open talks soon with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev about withdrawal of Soviet troops from East Germany.

Under questioning by Western newsmen, Grotewohl said "perhaps" the Soviets would stick by their old stand that the Western troops leave Germany, too.

Six hours after the news conference the official East German news agency ADN put out a correction changing "perhaps" to "naturally" — thus emphasizing that the Soviets intend to stay in Germany as long as Allied powers do.

In Bonn, the West German Government rejected in unusually strong language Khrushchev's call for an end of the 4-power occupation of Berlin. It accused the Soviet Premier of pursuing a policy endangering world peace.

Gomulka: End Berlin Occupation

WARSAW (AP) — Communist chief Waladyslaw Gomulka Wednesday pledged all-out support for Soviet efforts to end 4-power control of Berlin.

"We give our full support to the policy of the Soviet Union toward which is necessary as a result of the Berlin question a revision of the communal breaking of the basic Potsdam decisions by the Western Powers and especially by the German Federal Republic, West Germany," Gomulka said.
