

Marine Jet In 'One-In-A-Million' Accident With Train

Fighter Skids Into Path Of 'San Diegan'

Only Three Injured As Five Cars Derailed
EL TORO MARINE AIR STATION, Calif. (UPI) — A Marine jet fighter and the Santa Fe "San Diegan" carrying 130 passengers collided in a "one-in-a-million" accident Wednesday when the plane skidded into the path of the train.

Five cars, including four passenger cars and a baggage car, as well as two units of the diesel engine were derailed. But only three persons were injured, according to Marine and civilian authorities.

Two passengers were hurt and Marine pilot Lt. Philip Schmidt, 22, suffered painful but non-serious injuries when the train — traveling an estimated 75 miles an hour — smashed into the wrecked jet.

"It was like hitting a truck," said engineer Bill Ryder, 63, Los Angeles.

South of L.A.
The collision occurred near the Overline Crossing about 35 miles south of Los Angeles at 5:18 p.m. Iowa time.

The plane, a Navy F 4D Skyray, bounced off the runway when Schmidt made an unsuccessful attempt to catch the aircraft's tail hook on an arresting gear at the El Toro runway a quarter mile from the collision scene.

Schmidt had radioed the tower that he was going to attempt an emergency landing when he had a flameout (power failure) immediately after takeoff, and emergency fire crews were ready to move as soon as the crash occurred.

Schmidt had managed to ditch his fuel tanks over the nearby ocean to avert further disaster.

Aboard the train, State Sen. Fred H. Kraft of San Diego said he was seated in the club car when porter Hubert Tucker, 41, Los Angeles, shouted for passengers to hold tight for the sudden stop.

The collision ripped up at least 100 to 120 yards of track in the collision and Santa Fe estimated it might take several days to clear the right-of-way. However, a siding was available on which the railroad hoped to route traffic around the crash.

So Much Dust
Ryder said when the collision occurred, "I pulled up my window as some flames shot around the cab. I couldn't see what happened before the impact because there was so much dust from the wrecked plane."

Authorities speculated a worse disaster apparently was averted only by a matter of seconds, since the plane might have hit the train broadside if the jet had reached the impact point seconds later.

Marine authorities said that the jet apparently "cartwheeled" after the initial impact and came down beneath the fourth and fifth cars of the seven car train.

Brakeman Pat Schamber was credited with rescuing the pilot. Witnesses said he pulled the injured man from the plane just before it exploded.

Schamber himself had been knocked from the train by the impact and jumped up to assist the airman.

No One Injured When AF Bomber Flips On Its Back
TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — An Air Force B-57 flipped over while taxiing down the runway after landing at McChord Air Force Base near here Wednesday night but early reports indicated no one was killed.

Capt. Joseph Wiggins, base public information officer, said the plane carried only two men and was inbound from Albuquerque, N.M. and that both the pilot and co-pilot escaped death and were taken to a hospital for treatment. He did not say how badly they were injured.

Wiggins said the pilot had radioed McChord at 7:45 p.m. (Iowa time) and reported that he had minimum fuel. The plane, a medium bomber, landed at 7:50 and suddenly flopped over on its back.

Weather Forecast
Partly cloudy skies and continued cool temperatures are in store for Iowa City today. The temperature here should reach the low 50's today. The outlook for Friday is for continued cool temperatures and decreasing cloudiness.

State Doesn't Ask Death For Caril Fugate

But Demands Verdict Of 1st Degree Murder

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — County Atty. Elmer Scheele concluded the state's first degree murder charge against Caril Ann Fugate Wednesday without specifically seeking the death penalty. He said he was "perfectly willing" to leave that decision to the jury.

The state told Caril Ann Fugate's jury that conviction of first-degree murder "is the only possible conclusion you can reach in the interest of justice."

"Even teenagers must be made to realize they cannot go on 8-day murder sprees and get off because they are only 14 years old and a girl," Scheele said in winding up his final arguments at the girl's murder trial.

The jury can impose a death sentence or life imprisonment if it convicts Caril of first-degree murder.

Ignore Killer's Words
The seven men and five women who will decide Caril's fate were warned by the defense earlier that she should not be judged on the testimony of her mass slayer boy friend, Charles Starkweather, described by the defense as "an incredible maniac and liar."

"Eleven people have met violent death at Starkweather's hands," Defense Attorney John McArthur said in a 3-hour closing statement. "Is it possible the fate of still another should depend on him?"

McArthur's lengthy statement was sandwiched between two presentations by Scheele as Caril's trial neared its end. Instructions to the jury will be made today before it retires to deliberate. The trial opened Oct. 27.

Scheele insisted that Caril, although only 14 last January when she accompanied Starkweather on his murder spree, "knows the difference between right and wrong" and "actually assisted" Starkweather in the slayings.

Blinded By Prejudice
McArthur accused the prosecution of being "blinded by prejudice" because of the "unprecedented reign of terror and bloodletting" as Starkweather stalked from murder to murder, "dragging a little girl along against her will."

The defense attorney said that when authorities look at Caril, they don't see her, they see "Lucretia Borgia or one of the witches out of Macbeth."

Starkweather has already been sentenced to die — but has appealed — for the Jan. 27 murder of Robert Jensen, 17. Caril's case is based specifically on the same slaying for which Scheele contended the girl "is just as guilty as the one who pulled the trigger."

Scheele, a slender former FBI agent, told the jury he "did not enjoy" prosecuting the former eighth grader. He said he would "like to believe Caril was incapable of performing the things this girl did" but "this is no ordinary girl... we are dealing with."

Willing Companion
He charged she was the "willing, knowing companion of Starkweather" throughout their rampage and despite her contention she was a hostage, had deliberately passed up several chances to escape.

McArthur described Starkweather, who testified against his former girl friend, as "the greatest enigma you or I will ever see." The jury should disregard the mass slayer's testimony, he suggested, because it has no standard "for judging when he is telling the truth."

The Devil Rides High

DANCERS REHEARSED a scene — the triumphant march of the Devil — from Stravinsky's "The Tale of a Soldier" Wednesday night at the University Theatre. The SUI production is scheduled for December 4th through the 6th, and December 10th through the 15th. The production will feature an all-faculty ensemble. Stravinsky's work, based on a collection of Russian fairy tales, features the theme of a man's surrender to the devil. —Daily Iowan Photo by Jo Moore.

Second SUI Symphony Concert—

Turner Work Typical Of Modern Music

A Daily Iowan Review
FREDERICK WILKINS

CONCERT PROGRAM
Fantasia on a Theme by Thomas Tallis
Symphony No. 2 in F
Death and Transfiguration, Op. 24
Overture to La Forza del Destino
Presented by the University Symphony Orchestra, James Dixon conducting.

The University Symphony Orchestra, in its second concert of the 1953-1954 season, gave a thoroughly professional and controlled performance Wednesday night.

The program opened with a moving tribute to the late Ralph Vaughan Williams. The Fantasia displayed a well-trained string section, brilliantly directed by James Dixon, who captured the flowing rise and fall of the score. Special praise must go to Stuart Canin, whose solo work was perfect, soaring above the ensemble.

Professor Dixon captured all the emotional variety of the romantic "Death and Transfiguration," and molding the orchestra into a single instrument, brought to the concert its real climax.

Verdi's "La Forza del Destino," a traditional favorite, which was rather an anticlimax after the brilliant reading of the Strauss tone poem, although the violent contrasts were all achieved, and the ensemble, even in pizzicato passages, was smooth and sharp.

The Turner symphony is an intriguing work, and seems characteristic of the strengths and weaknesses of serious modern American music. The sombre opening leads to a passage of rising intensity, which is followed by a bizarre spastic gavotte. This fanciful, polyrhythmic portion of the movement is by far its best section. A blast in the brasses is then answered by the violins, above cellos and muted brass. Then follows a rather muddy area, a seemingly violent struggle between the different sections of the orchestra, with the brasses emerging triumphant. It seemed especially at the end of the first movement, that dissonant bombast was sometimes used in place of any sincere intensity of expression or feeling.

The inauspicious opening of the second movement is in sharp contrast to the earlier material. Here, some faulty french horn work provided one of the few orchestral flaws of the evening. The many jarring tone clusters were far more effective in the brass instruments than in the strings or woodwinds.

This movement displayed the typical modern lack of real melodic sense. Melody is replaced by an intricacy of harmonic detail, which, though effective, seems to lack a solid foundation. The movement is well framed, closing, as it opened, with a quiet union. The bridge passage between the second and third movements is shallow but effective in providing transition. The final round begins with full orchestra, followed by some fine Coplandesque counterpoint. The main theme returns in the woodwinds. Professor Turner uses these instrument best in passages that are staccato, and light in mood. The symphony ends with a moving crescendo to the ultimate note of positive affirmation at the close.

The Department of Music is to be commended for bringing both new and familiar music to the campus.

Loveless Proposes Study Of Efficiency Of State Schools

DES MOINES — An independent study to determine how efficiently Iowa's state educational institutions are being operated was proposed Wednesday by Gov. Herschel Loveless.

He said he thinks substantial savings could be gained by such a study covering utilization of manpower, organization of departments and use of classroom space.

The governor suggested the study in discussing with newsmen the budget requests of the State Board of Regents.

The Regents have asked slightly more than $42 million a year for operation of the state educational institutions in the two years starting next July 1. The present appropriation is a little over $31 million a year.

They also have requested $29 million in building funds during the next biennium. Loveless said the state must re-evaluate its educational programs in view of increasing enrollments. Every time there is an enrollment increase there is a problem of new buildings and more teachers.

He said he doesn't think it is possible to boost appropriations to meet these increasing demands for buildings and faculty, but that he agrees the Board of Regents should be permitted to issue bonds to finance a long range building program.

The governor said an efficiency study might show a way to take care of some of the need through better use of facilities and faculty already on hand.

Only Two Survive Ship Disaster

Two men, the only survivors of a crew of 35 aboard the cargo ship Carl D. Bradley when she broke up and sank in northern Lake Michigan, were brought ashore Wednesday.

With them, aboard three coast guard ships, were the bodies of 17 of the 33 who were lost. The body of an 18th crewmember was recovered by a freighter, but had not been brought ashore. Fifteen crewmen still were missing, but Coast Guard officials said they were practically certain the men were lost.

A large room at Charlevoix City Hall was turned into a temporary morgue late Wednesday to receive the bodies of the 17 crewmen brought ashore. Relatives were summoned to make identification.

The two men who lived through 14 storm-tossed hours on a frail life raft and were rescued by the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew, were First Mate Elmer Fleming and Deck Watchman Frank Mays, both of Rogers City, Mich.

They were taken to Charlevoix Hospital where they were met by their wives. They suffered from severe shock and exposure, but were in fairly good condition considering their ordeal, according to Dr. Lawrence E. Grate, who examined them.

"We prayed like we never prayed before," the two men told newsmen in a hospital interview after a few hours of rest.

Fleming said he was in the pilot house with the captain when the ship broke up. The captain, Roland Bryan, Loudonville, N.Y., was among the lost.

The two men told how they got into a life raft immediately after the ship sank and managed to call two other men to the raft. The other two were washed overboard during the night and lost.

Mays said he saw flames dropping from search planes and knew a hunt for survivors was going on. He said at one time they were within half a mile of the rescue

Survivors' Wives Happy But Sorry For Others
ROGERS CITY, Mich. (UPI) — "I'm happy, but I'm sorry so many other wives are so sad."

This was the reaction from Marlys Mays, 23, as she talked of the rescue of her husband, Frank, 26, from the sinking of the freighter Carl D. Bradley.

Mays was one of two survivors. The other was Elmer Fleming, 43, also of Rogers City, whose wife, Mary, could say only "oh, God," when she was told her husband also had survived.

"Frank will be 27 Monday," said Mrs. Mays. "We're going to have a big birthday, Thanksgiving and Christmas party all rolled into one."

Marlys, mother of three children, is a native of Waterloo, Iowa. "I never want him to go back," Mrs. Mays said. "I'll die if he does."

Picasso Painting Brings Top Price At Art Auction

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hotel man Arnold Kirkeby's collection of modern French paintings brought $1,548,500 at auction Wednesday night, the second highest amount ever paid at auction for paintings in the United States.

The 29 paintings by France's impressionist and post-impressionist masters were sold before a crowd of 2,000 of the world's top collectors and international celebrities at the Parke-Bernet Galleries.

The top price was paid for an early Picasso Mother and Child which brought $152,000. A Cezanne Portrait of the Artist's Son brought $125,000. A Mediterranean Landscape by Renoir ranked third at $105,000.

6-Year-Old Hit By Car Near Intersection

Dewey Robshaw, 60, Was Driver Of Vehicle
A six-year-old girl was killed Wednesday in Iowa City, just four days after the city's first traffic fatality in 4½ years.

Janice Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Steele of 1182 E. Court St., was struck by a car near the intersection of Burlington and Gilbert streets while on her way home from St. Patrick's Elementary School.

Blinded By Sun
The driver of the car which struck the girl was Dewey R. Robshaw, 60, of 1909 Morningside Dr. Police said Robshaw was driving west on Burlington street, and turned south onto Gilbert street which the Steele child was crossing.

Police said Robshaw told them he had been momentarily blinded by the sun while making the turn.

The time of the accident was 3:06 p.m., Iowa City police said. The girl was taken to Mercy Hospital where authorities said she died at approximately 4 p.m.

No Autopsy Yet
An autopsy report was not available Wednesday night, but police investigating the accident said the girl apparently sustained extensive head and leg injuries.

Police still are investigating the accident. Since all witnesses had not been interviewed by police by late Wednesday, it was not specifically determined whether or not the girl was in the pedestrian crosswalk.

County Attorney William Tucker said no charges have yet been filed against the driver.

The girl's father, Leonard L. Steele, is an employee at the local office of the U.S. Geological Survey. His daughter was one of five children.

Same Neighborhood
Iowa City's only previous traffic fatality in 4½ years occurred last Sunday morning when Mrs. Jesse Cook 79, of 106 S. Gilbert St. was killed in a car-pedestrian accident at Washington and Gilbert streets, just two blocks from the scene of Wednesday's fatality.

Iowa City's two automobile-pedestrian accidents this week have brought the Johnson County traffic death toll for this year to 21.

Mrs. Horace Dodge On Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Policewoman Edna Disney told a municipal court jury Wednesday that Gregg Sherwood called her names and said "shut your mouth" when the former showgirl was booked last Aug. 26.

The prosecution rested Wednesday in the trial of the 34-year-old wife of automobile heir Horace Dodge II for battery and drunkenness. The defense will begin its presentation Friday after a 1-day recess made necessary because prosecuting Atty Don Bringold, Dep. City Atty., has another case today.

The court also heard testimony Wednesday by another policewoman, Marilyn Sperry, that it was not unusual for brasserie searches to be made of women prisoners while male officers were present. Miss Sherwood was searched Aug. 26 in the presence of one of the arresting officers, a witness said.

DES MOINES (AP) — William A. Niemann, Des Moines insurance executive, has been named Iowa chairman for the 1959 March of Dimes drive. The annual campaign for funds will be held in January. He said the fund-raising drive next year will be to fight arthritis, virus diseases which cripple, birth defects and disorders of the central nervous system as well as polio.

"The expanded program will permit the continued effective work of March of Dimes volunteers in Iowa because now a much broader field of service for those who are crippled has been made available," he said.

Two Iowa Students Get $300 Scholarships

DES MOINES (AP) — Two Iowa high school students were awarded $300 college scholarships Wednesday in the Iowa section of the National Mutual Insurance Youth Farm Fire Safety contest. They are Virginia L. Partridge, 17, Allerton, and Robert Johnson, 15, Greenfield. The awards were presented at the convention of the Iowa Assn. of Mutual Insurance Assns.

Harry L. Gross, president of Iowa Mutual Tornado Insurance Assn., Des Moines, resigned Wednesday after 27 years as secretary of the state association.

State Plans To Pave Iowa Highway 146

AMES (AP) — A road delegation from New Sharon hit the jackpot Wednesday when it arrived at the Iowa Highway Commission to urge action toward paving Iowa 146 from New Sharon to Grinnell. The commission advised the delegation that it had just finished approving the $1,069,061 low bid on the 21-mile asphaltic concrete project. The low bidder was Kaser Construction Co. of Des Moines.

The paving will be done after road work opens up in the spring.

Intoxication Causes Most Iowa Accidents

DES MOINES (AP) — Intoxication and speed are the most common causes of traffic accidents in Iowa, a State Safety Department study shows. The study indicated that "speed too fast for conditions" is a primary cause in 30 per cent of all motor vehicle accidents. Driving while intoxicated was blamed as the main cause in another 30 per cent.

Failure to yield the right-of-way was blamed in 20 per cent of Iowa accidents.

Iowa Farm Bureau Elects New Vice-Presy

DES MOINES (AP) — Wayne Keith of Burt, was elected vice president of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation at its convention here Wednesday. He succeeds Howard Waters of Danville, who had held the office for four years. Voting delegates chose Keith in a contest between him and Waters. E. Howard Hill, federation president, was re-elected to a two-year term last year.

Argentina OKs Gomez' Resignation

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina's congress meeting in joint session last night accepted the resignation of Vice President Alejandro Gomez. Senator Jose Maria Guido, president of the upper house, presided over the joint session. The Government controls all Senate seats and 130 of the 187 seats in the Chamber of Deputies and there was little doubt that the resignation would be accepted. Gomez resigned yesterday to end a nine-day political crisis. He touched off the crisis by telling President Arturo Frondizi and Acting Defense Minister Alfredo Vito he had been warned that a military conspiracy was afoot to unseat the Government and by suggesting that a new coalition government be set up to thwart the plot. When Gomez refused to disclose the source of his information, he was widely accused of trying to take advantage of the alleged plot to seize power for himself.

Coastguardsman Killed In Fight In Lighthouse

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two Coastguardsmen waged a dramatic duel with hammer and knife in a lighthouse by the sea last night. Today one of the men died of a slashed throat and the other was arrested. Officials disclosed only scanty details about the fight in the residential quarters of one of the nation's most important beacons—the Coast Guard's Fort Wadsworth Lighthouse, which lights the entrance to New York Harbor.

Authorities investigated a report that the two men had feuded because one feared his wife was receiving too much attention from the other.

Engineer 1/C Thomas Somogyi, 28, Cecil, Pa., was killed and Boatswain's Mate Jacob A. Hughes, 30, Orangeburg, S.C., was arrested.

Hughes, according to reports, thought his wife, Marion, was receiving too much attention from Somogyi. The two families had been living in the same house at the base of the lighthouse and the two men had shared the duty of tending to the high-powered beacon. Investigators were told that the two men recently stopped speaking to one another, except in the line of duty. Last night, they quarreled and then clashed in the hall between their apartments. U.S. Wants Leadership: Williams

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan said today he believed the last election showed that the people of the United States would be looking in 1960 "for an aggressive candidate who meets problems head-on."

Williams, considered a possible candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, said he thought the crisis over school integration stemmed from lack of leadership on the part of the Republican Administration.

"I feel strongly that the American people are essentially law-abiding and that if they are given any leadership, they will follow the law," he said.

Williams, here for a five-day visit, paid a "courtesy call" today on Mayor Robert F. Wagner, a fellow member of the Democratic National Advisory Council.

The two political leaders said there was some talk of politics during their chat, but they refused to go into detail.

Williams, who was elected to an unprecedented sixth term as governor of Michigan Nov. 4 also refused to say who he considered to be the leading presidential prospects.

Rebels Report New Fighting Near Santiago

HAVANA (UPI) — New fighting was reported by the rebels today in the long stalemated battle for Santiago, Cuba's second largest city, and the army called for new recruits. The Army's GHQ issued a call for an unspecified number of youths between the ages of 18 and 25 to "complete the 7,000 men forming new tactical units under organization."

The Army had no immediate comment on rebel radio reports of heavy fighting at Santiago.

The fact that the rebel announcer admitted "heavy casualties on both sides" and described the new battle as of 48-hour duration appeared to indicate that the Government was holding its own.

The rebels have had Santiago under virtual siege for the past several weeks but have not been able to push to a final decision.

An army communique reported 42 rebels killed in three clashes in Oriente Province in the past 24 hours. This brought to nearly 700 the number of rebels the army claimed to have killed in the last ten days.

The rebel radio reported Government troops suffered 50 casualties when the rebels attacked a military motor convoy in eastern Oriente Province.

The U.S. Embassy reported that unidentified war planes bombed the Nicaro nickel mines operated by the American government in northeastern Cuba twice this week.

The coastal town is in territory where rebel leader Fidel Castro's forces are strong.

Mrs. Klumpp claimed the shooting was accidental. She said, however, that she took the gun with her when she went to meet Mrs. Bergen to talk. The gun belonged to William Bergen and Mrs. Klumpp had borrowed it for target practice.

The blond divorcee said she decided to burn the body "not so much to destroy it, but because I was afraid of fingerprints or some other evidence that might point to me."

Mrs. Klumpp, who had been seeing Mrs. Bergen's estranged husband, William, for some time, said Mrs. Bergen pointed the gun at her when they began to talk.

"I reached down to get a soft drink bottle and when I straightened up Louise had a gun in her hand pointed at me. We kind of wrestled around and then the gun went off. It was pointed under her chin."

The woman said she put Mrs. Bergen's body in the trunk of her car, then drove to her economics class at Norwood High school where she was known as Mrs. Bergen.

U.S. Making "Fragmented Effort" In Space Age: Gavin

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maverick Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin charged tonight that the United States was making only a "fragmented effort" to meet the all-out Russian challenge in the cold war.

The former chief of Army Research and Development, who quit his job because of disagreement with high-level policy, said Russia had integrated its scientific, industrial and economic resources and those of its satellites for the "strategic competition" of the Space Age.

But, he said, the West had "hardly tapped" its own tremendous resources.

"National Program" Roy W. Johnson, director of the Pentagon's Advanced Research Projects Agency, said the United States has launched a "national research program" to develop a defense against Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles.

He revealed that the United States knows "a great deal" about Soviet space programs and that the Russians have had their "share of reverses" just as this country has.

Gavin and Johnson spoke before more than 1,000 members of the American Rocket Society at a dinner meeting climaxing the first day of the Society's 13th annual meeting.

Compartment Work "For reasons characteristic of our economy, and sometimes out of an understandable concern for national security, we have tended to compartment our work," Gavin said. "Now it is imperative that we move toward the ultimate objective of a completely integrated scientific and technological effort."

Gavin is now Vice President of Arthur D. Little, Inc., research and engineering firm in Cambridge, Mass.

Gavin said closer cooperation among scientists and technologists "can set us well on the course to the early exploration of space and the betterment of mankind." He said he was "convinced that a

24-Year-Old Head Coach—

Sharm Has Big Job Ahead

Taking over the reins of a Big Ten basketball team is no easy job for a 24-year-old, just two years out of college, with limited coaching experience, it is a herculean task.

The choice of Milton (Sharm) Scheuerman to replace the late Bucky O'Connor was a big surprise last spring when it was well known that some of the best coaches in the country were beating a path to the Iowa door. The choice is not entirely a sentimental one.

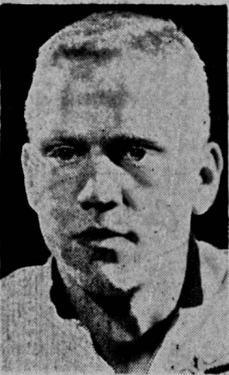

Sharm learned his basketball under Bucky, knew his system probably better than anyone else and was already acquainted with the present team. The team would not have to undergo any radical changes or learn anything new with O'Connor's prize pupil in the driver's seat.

Last year Iowa placed sixth in the Big Ten with an even 500 record of 7 wins and 7 losses. Gone from that team besides its coach O'Connor, are Jim McConnell, Larry Swift, Tom Payne, Peer Hegg and Americus John-Lewis. Of this group only McConnell was not a big man. Swift 6'6", Payne 6'8", Hegg 6'7", and John-Lewis 6'8" all figured in the Hawkeye pivot situation. The loss then was not evenly distributed among the positions. The result has left the new coach with plenty of backcourt material but he is very thin in the front court.

Sharm inherits a team with its share of problems, particularly at center, but he is not easily discouraged. "We have an optimistic outlook toward our coming season," he says, "we could be just an average team if certain things happen to go wrong. However, if we can get some scoring punch out of our center position without sacrificing at forward, we could better our performance of last year." The Hawks won 13 and lost 9 in 1957-58. Strong point of the team is at guard where Scheuerman has them about 4-deep. He rates four as starting material but refuses to make any preseason decision on any two. Mike Heitman 5'8", Earl Nau 5'11", Bobby Washington 5'10" and Clarence Wordlaw 6'3" lead the parade with the latter also eligible for forward duty.

Four others are "just a shade behind." They are Lester Kewney 6'2", Ron Zagar 5'9", Bob Carpenter 6'2" and Joe Williams 5'10". Of this group, Zagar and Carpenter are highly-rated sopho-

Almost Forced To Become Pro: Rose

MELBOURNE — Australian tennis star Mervyn Rose said Wednesday the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia had almost forced him to become a professional.

Rose made the statement after getting a letter from LTAA Secretary J. A. C. Andrews advising him that his suspension would not be lifted until Jan. 31, 1959.

On that date he would be permitted to play amateur tennis if he complied with a series of stipulations laid out by the LTAA. Rose refused to reveal the conditions and said he would see a legal adviser about them.

"As usual, I have been made a scapegoat. If I am dealt with this way the LTAA would be justified in starting a general purge to inquire into the expenses of 30 other official and unofficial tennis tourists. It might be a good idea if the expenses allowed for amateur tennis managers also were investigated."

Rose said he had not officially heard about an offer by American tennis promoter Jack Kramer. "In view of the LTAA's action I'd be silly if I did not make further inquiries," he said.

more but the experience of the veterans has been showing in the daily workouts.

The G-Men

At forward there is no question that Dave Gunther 6'5" and Nolden Gentry 6'7" are two of the best in the conference. Gunther hit for 435 points last season and 19.8 average while Gentry lifted 241 rebounds off the rim. Behind them is George Seaberg and the ever-present Wordlaw. Both are the 6'3" category which is a big drop-off from the first two in height but each will see a lot of action this year as they have in the past.

Wordlaw, though erratic the last two years, has averaged in double figures in both of those seasons and with some defensive improvement could be a first rate performer. Mike Dull, the 6'5" transfer from Notre Dame, also figures in the scene at forward.

Center poses a different picture. Sharm has been working a lot with big Frank Mundt 6'8" and 235 pounds and he is "hoping that Mundt will improve." Dennis Runge, at 6'8", is also a possibility although he is probably still a year away. A lot depends on what happens here. "If neither comes along we might have to move Gentry to center. I would rather not make this move. With one of the bigger fellows in the middle we would be a stronger rebounding team."

Center Key Position

With Gentry at center, Scheuerman would have to give away at least four inches at the vacated forward spot. The outcome at center appears to be the key to the Hawk 1958-59 season.

Whether the center problem is solved or not, the Hawks must score a lot more than they have in the past if they are going to get a ywhere. Gunther must help in this department. Sources for this aid are, of course, Wordlaw who with consistency, could average over 15 per game. Earl Nau, if he can fight the tough competition at guard, could do the same. Gentry, though great off the boards last year, averaged 9.5 a game and must improve in this output.

If Mundt fulfills Sharm's hopes at center he could help out, too. Big Frank averaged only 4.4 last year and he would have to come close to 10 a game to help out. Mike Heitman and Bobby Washington can also score and the highly-rated sophs, Zagar and Carpenter, have come to Iowa with great prep scoring records and show that they can really shoot.

Colorado Dec. 1

Sharm makes his coaching debut here December 1 when Iowa meets Colorado. From then on he is a very busy fellow. On December 20 Iowa fans will be treated to a double-header when the Hawks entertain Washington and Wisconsin meets California. That will be the last home game of the 1958 year as the team journeys west to Corvallis, Ore., and the West Coast Classic December 27 through the 29.

Buckeyes' White Lauds Line That Flattened Iowa Forwards

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Praise makes Ohio State's bruising full-back Bob White a little tongue-tied.

So the big, red-haired terror of the gridiron was downright speechless Wednesday when he learned he has been named Associated Press back of the week.

He finally blurted: "I can think of a couple of guys right on our own team who deserve it more than I do: Don Clark had his finest day of the season against Iowa and Jerry Fields took over at quarterback in a tough situation and did an amazing job." Warming up to his subject as he recalled the Buckeyes' 38-28 upset victory over Big Ten champion Iowa last Saturday. White almost giggled as he went on:

"And that line! One time when I was going through on that last drive I almost stopped dead and wanted to laugh. I couldn't believe it. Every Iowa player had been knocked flat on his back!"

White was talking about the touchdown drive which put Ohio ahead 35-28. He personally carried on 11 of 14 plays in the 90-yard march. It was almost a repeat of his 1957 feat against Iowa when he carried seven of eight times in a climactic drive when OSU trimmed the Hawks 17-13.

Major Leaguers Want Cut Of TV Money

NEW YORK — The major league baseball players are considering the possibility of taking "drastic action" should the owners reject their demand to be cut in on the regular season television and radio money of the 16 clubs. League representatives Robin Roberts and Eddie Yost have been authorized by the other 14 team representatives to ask the owners at their Washington, D.C. meeting next month for a quick reply to their demand of 25 per cent of the TV and radio money.

Feel Entitled To Money
"We feel we are entitled to a portion of the money the clubs have been getting from the telecasting of our regular league games," a player representative told The Associated Press Wednesday. "We thrashed the matter over thoroughly at our last meeting and we even discussed the possibility of taking drastic action should the owners turn us down."

The player, who asked not to be identified, declined to say what these "drastic actions" would be. He insisted, however, the players meant business and declared the representatives would meet Dec. 1 in Washington to decide on a course of action should they be rebuffed by the owners.

No Conclusions Yet
"We don't want to draw any conclusions until we know the owners' reaction," he said. "But it wouldn't be any sense in asking for something if we didn't plan to do anything about it. We'd look ridiculous then."

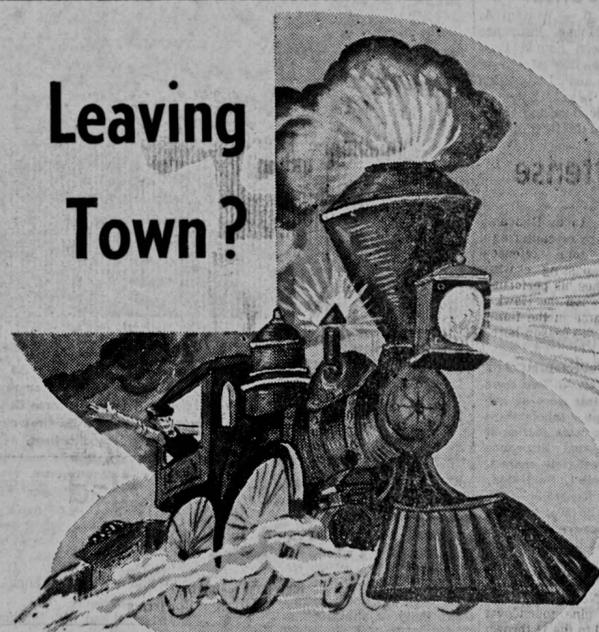

The players in October requested a cut of the TV and radio receipts of regular season games but because of the excitement of the World Series little publicity was given to it.

Roberts, contacted by telephone, said he anticipated no difficulty with the owners and was confident something would be worked out. He added, however, that no decision has been reached as to what steps will be worked out in case of rejection.

Gross Income Up
"The clubowners' gross income, because of television, has gone up tremendously during the past several years," said the Philadelphia Phillies' star pitcher. "Baseball salaries have gone up, too, during this time, but not nearly in ratio with the clubs' earnings. Baseball salaries have fared poorly in proportion to salary increases in other professions, too."

...then certainly some of it should be distributed among the players. Television is becoming more and more important. Who knows how big it will get? I don't believe the players have benefited as much as they should have from it. It's time we were."

Duncan Close To Top In U.S. Statistics

Iowa Retains No. 1 Spot In Total Offense

Iowa quarterback Randy Duncan stands a good chance of capturing college football's total offense title and forward passing crown if he even approaches his performance of last week when the Hawkeyes face Notre Dame in the final scheduled game of the season here Saturday.

Duncan is now second in both categories and trails the leaders by just a shade. The Des Moines senior has completed 91 passes, which is one less than Arizona's Ralph Hunsaker has completed. Hunsaker also ends his season Saturday against Arizona State, but will have played 10 games to Duncan's nine.

Top Percentage

"Dandy Randy's" completion percentage of .603 is tops in the nation and his 1,163 yards overhead also rates him No. 1 over his counterparts. His nine touchdown passes rank second to the 11 thrown by Phil Cummings of North Carolina.

In total offense, Duncan's 1,182 yards is only seven less than that compiled by Charlie Milstead of Texas A&M. Milstead winds up his season Thanksgiving Day against Texas in a televised game, and as Hunsaker, will have played in 10 contests.

The No. 3 man in total offense is California's Joe Kapp with 1,131 yards. If the Golden Bears take the PCC championship with a win over Stanford this week, Kapp and Duncan will be opposing quarterbacks in the 1959 Rose Bowl game.

Merz, Norton

Iowa's two ends, Curt Merz and Don Norton, rank high in pass receiving statistics in the nation. Merz, out of the Notre Dame contest with a knee injury, is tied for 11th with 22 receptions while Norton is tied for 14th with 22 grabs.

The Hawkeyes as a team continue to lead the nation in total offense with an average of 399.6 yards per game. Army, in second place, is averaging 384.1 yards per contest. Notre Dame is No. 4 with an average of 370.5 yards a game.

An indication of its balance is the fact that Iowa rates the fifth position in both passing and rushing figures on the national scene. The Hawkeyes have gained 248.9 yards on the ground and 158.8 through the air per contest.

A scoring average of 25.4 points per game rates Iowa the No. 8 spot in that category — Syracuse leads with 31.1 points per contest.

Plan Inquest In Death Of Fighter In Sioux City Bout

SIoux CITY (AP) — Dr. Tom L. Coriden, Woodbury County coroner, said Wednesday night he planned an inquest into the death of a 25-year-old lightweight of injuries received in a boxing match here Tuesday night.

Nat B. Simon of Los Angeles, collapsed after the end of the ninth round in a scheduled 10-round bout with Danny Davis of Minneapolis. He was taken to a hospital where he died Wednesday.

The coroner said Simon apparently died of a brain hemorrhage but he planned an autopsy which will be held after the boxer's wife, Barbara, arrived from Los Angeles.

Dr. Coroden said he would decide at the time of the date of the inquest.

Simon's manager, Cal Woods, said the boxer was in top condition and was breathing easily after eight rounds. Newsmen at the ringside said Simon took a left hook to the head near the end of the ninth and collapsed after going to his corner.

Woods said Simon had fought 14 professional bouts before coming here, had four knockouts to his record and had never been knocked out before himself.

Boxing in Iowa has never been legalized by the State Legislature.

Scribe Picks Iowa Over Irish; Sees Tulane Upsetting LSU

By WILL GRIMSLEY Associated Press Sports Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Culprits guilty of crimes sometimes find sanctuary below the border. Our only crime — murdering the weekly football selections — but we're taking no chances of a necktie party thrown by chagrined alumni.

So from a sheltered hacienda—Iowa 27, Notre Dame 14; Willie Fleming and Randy Duncan outscore bullet-passer George Izo.

Tulane 18, Louisiana State 15: This is a grudge fight and Tulane is primed for the year's major surprise.

Princeton 21, Dartmouth 14: The Ivy League blue plate special, with the Tigers stronger at home.

Rice 24, Texas Christian 14: Rice looks like a good Mexican dish this week, seasoned with hot peppers.

Southern California 19, UCLA 7: An old rivalry on the coast. The Trojans have come very fast.

Duke 20, North Carolina 14: We fear the Tar Heels left too much on the field against Notre Dame.

Syracuse 27, West Virginia 20: Chuck Zimmerman leads the Orangemen to another victory, but the Mountaineers are tough.

Auburn 14, Wake Forest 7: It's No. 23 without defeat for the rugged Plainsmen.

Giardello Bows To Webb On TKO

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Underdog Spider Webb slashed deep cuts under and over Joey Giardello's left eye Wednesday night to win by a seventh-round technical knockout in the national televised battle between the two ranking middleweights.

Webb, 158½, from Chicago, took command almost at the start jabbing Giardello's back and moving in to score with short, sharp rights.

Giardello, 159, of Rosedale, N.Y., had blood pouring down his face when Referee Vern Bybee called a halt after one minute and 30 seconds of the seventh round in their Cow Palace fight scheduled for 10.

Horn Works Out Lightly In Practice

Don Horn, Iowa's starting fullback most of the season, worked out lightly Wednesday as the Hawkeyes continued preparations for Notre Dame here Saturday. Horn is expected to see limited duty against the Irish. End Curt Merz has already been ruled out of the game with an injured knee. A third casualty of the grueling Ohio State battle, guard Hugh Drake, worked with the No. 1 unit and appears to be ready for the Irish.

Jeff Langston has replaced Merz at end while Capt. John Nocera has filled in for Horn. Al Miller and John Brown have replaced Langston and Nocera, respectively, on the alternate unit.

Irish Fill Air With Passes In Rugged Drill

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's football team had its final rugged practice Wednesday for Saturday's invasion of Iowa.

Coach Terry Brennan stressed offense and had four quarterbacks, George Izo, Bob Williams, Don White and Mike Dugan, tossing plenty of passes.

It now appears unlikely either tackle Bronko Nagurski or Ron Toth, fullback, will play against the Hawkeyes. Nagurski has been sidelined with a knee injury and Toth has a sprained ankle.

Hawks' Bowl Opponent Is Still Uncertain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Rose Bowl situation in the Pacific Coast Conference is close enough Wednesday, but it might be even closer after the final conference games are played Saturday.

Four teams, California (5-1), Washington State and Oregon State (each 5-2) and the University of Southern California (4-2), have a mathematical chance to get the assignment. Iowa already has been picked as the Big Ten competitor.

California and Stanford, Oregon State and Oregon, Southern Cal and UCLA, Washington State and Washington are the games on tap.

Two teams, Oregon under the no-repeat rule, and UCLA because of conference penalties, are not eligible for the bowl.

Acting PCC Commissioner Bernard Hammerbeck explained the mechanics of the selection.

There is no automatic selection off a victory by any team Saturday. The conference must vote for its representative.

May Not Be Formality

Usually this is a mere formality, but it might not be this time. There must be a majority vote of five schools to select the team.

If there is a tie vote between two or more schools, the school last in the bowl is eliminated and the school farthest away from the bowl is selected.

Oregon State was last in the bowl in 1957, Southern Cal in 1955, California in 1951 and Washington State in 1931.

Tunnell, Ex-Hawk Star, To Have Day

Emlen Tunnell, former Iowa star and defensive halfback stand-out of the New York Giants football club for the last 11 years, will be honored Dec. 14 at Yankee Stadium in New York in ceremonies preceding the game with the Cleveland Browns it was announced this week.

The day has been declared "Emlen Tunnell Day" and a committee headed by Roy Campanella as honorary chairman has been set up to present the gifts and pursue that Tunnell's friends and Giant fans are raising.

Monte Irvin, former New York Giant baseball star, is co-chairman with Campanella on a committee that includes virtually every field of endeavor. Sugar Ray Robinson is another committee-member from the world of sports. Stage and screen personalities, band leaders, singers and leaders of business and industry are also included.

Tunnell, who played here in the

Emlen Tunnell To Have Day Dec. 14

Alumni Game this spring, has been a mainstay in the Giant defense ever since he joined the team and is one of the reasons why the Giants are considered the outstanding defensive team in the National Football League.

He has not missed a game since joining the Giants and has set records for pass interceptions and punt returns. Tunnell played his last season of football at Iowa in 1947.

Campanella has requested that all contributions to the fund be directed to The Committee for Emlen Tunnell Day, 60 East 42d St., New York 17, Room 2228.

Open House At Press Box Nov. 30

Ever wonder what the inside of the new Iowa press box looked like? Nov. 30 is the day to find out.

Iowa athletic officials announced Wednesday they plan an open house that day from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The public is invited to use the elevator at the middle of the base of the west stands and view the facilities now available for press, radio and television personnel. Several athletic department staff members will be on hand to explain the various working areas and coffee and doughnuts will be served to all guests.

Barney Baker Named As Leader—

Nebraska Trucker Claims Teamsters Ruined Business

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An incredulous Senate Rackets Committee Wednesday ordered the National Labor Relations Board to explain today why it took three months to count seven votes in a labor election.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) telephoned the order to NLRB Chairman Boyd Leedom after Tom Coffey, a former Nebraska trucker, swore that a boycott by the Teamsters Union forced him to sell his business before the NLRB handed down a decision in his case.

The NLRB said its solicitor, James V. Constantine, would appear to explain the delay. However, NLRB records showed the board was barred from counting the votes by two Federal Court restraining orders obtained by the Teamsters.

'Moron'

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr. (D-N.C.), who was not aware of this, contended that a "moron" could have handled the case in half an hour.

He told Coffey that "you starved to death while justice was traveling on leaden feet."

Coffey, former owner of the Coffey Transport Co. of Alma, Neb., said an NLRB election covering seven drivers at his Lincoln, Neb., terminal was held in January 1956.

He said this was several months after he requested the election to determine whether his employees wanted to be represented by the Teamsters. In the meantime, he said, his business dropped off to zero because the union got other truckers to refuse to handle his cargoes.

Forced To Sell

Coffey, now state purchasing agent of Nebraska, said the NLRB did not notify him until April that the vote was 4 to 0 against the union with three votes challenged. By that time, he said, he had been forced to sell his company at a loss of more than $50,000.

"I never lost a case in the NLRB or the courts," he said, "but I lost my business." Coffey said the result bore out predictions by Teamster officials that they would force him out of business by stalling the NLRB proceedings.

An NLRB spokesman said the board was barred from proceeding in the case for several months by the court orders but finally certified the election results in April, 1956.

Board Finally Won

The spokesman said the union went into court to attack the constitutionality of one provision of the Taft-Hartley Act which allows the board to deny the right to vote in NLRB elections to certain strikers who have been permanently replaced. The board eventually won the case.

McClellan, Ervin and Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb.) used such terms as "inexcusable," "ridiculous" and "outrageous" in describing the NLRB's role in the case.

McClellan said it was "reprehensible" that the union could "completely destroy a small enterprise." He said such tactics could "lead back to the law of the jungle."

The committee extended its investigation of secondary boycotts another day to hear the NLRB's side of the story.

Barney Baker

Coffey testified that Burly Barney Baker, a top teamster organizer, and two union colleagues approached him to lead membership cards for only seven of his 22 drivers. He said two of the drivers later denied signing cards.

When Coffey demanded an NLRB election, the union officials told him "We don't have time to organize all your men. We're going to organize you from the top down."

Coffey said Baker told an Omaha newspaper reporter there would be a strike "if Coffey isn't down here and signed up tomorrow." The next day pickets appeared at the Coffey terminal.

Coffey said his refusal to sign a contract resulted in other truckers refusing to exchange freight bound to or from Coffey's Nebraska-Kansas territory and in March 1956 the company went out of business.

Barney Baker Teamster Leader

In addition, he said, his trucks were sabotaged and threatening calls were made to his employees and their families.

Phil Harris Suffers Minor Injuries In Auto Crash

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Entertainer Phil Harris suffered minor injuries in an auto accident Wednesday, but a "premonition" may have helped him guard against more serious harm.

Harris, 51, well-known for radio, movie and television appearances, received shoulder and ankle bruises when the taxicab in which he was a passenger collided with a car. "I had a feeling, a premonition, that something was going to happen," said Harris. "So when I saw the crash coming, I just put both feet up on the back of the front seat."

Harris, husband of actress Alice Faye, was not hospitalized. He gave his address as the Thunderbird Golf Club, Palm Springs, Calif.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Florence E. Feldner, 44, Los Angeles, was taken to Hollywood Receiving Hospital with possible head and back injuries. Cab driver Charles Schooley, 62, Los Angeles, was treated at the scene for minor head cuts.

New Congress To Be Prudent, Says Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) promised Wednesday that the heavily Democratic new Congress will give careful study to President Eisenhower's spending proposals.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.) predicted Mr. Eisenhower will veto any bills Congress sends him which he thinks entail excessive spending.

Johnson is Democratic leader in the Senate. Martin is Republican leader in the House. Both spoke with reporters after talks with Mr. Eisenhower — Johnson Tuesday night and Martin Wednesday morning.

Substantial Savings

Martin said Mr. Eisenhower has laid down a general policy aimed at cutting federal spending wherever possible, adding: "We're going to try to make substantial savings."

Johnson said he did not discuss with Mr. Eisenhower the President's campaign accusations that many Democratic candidates were "radical" spenders who could not be counted upon to protect the integrity of the dollar.

Johnson did say he had cited figures on appropriations bills passed by the current Democratic years. He said these showed that President Eisenhower's budget requests had actually been trimmed by more than 5% billion.

$5 Billion Higher

During the campaign Mr. Eisenhower and other GOP speakers contended that Congress would have pushed spending $5 billion higher than the current level but for vetoes by President Eisenhower and other Administrative actions.

Speaking of the new Congress' attitude toward spending, Johnson said:

"In some areas I think there will be an excess of appropriations above what the President asks, but in a good many areas the appropriations will be less. We are going to be prudent and careful of the taxpayer's dollar both at home and abroad. If there were no difference of opinion, it would indicate that one man was doing all the thinking."

Syrians Murdered British Woman, Israelis Charge

JERUSALEM, Israel, (UPI) — Israel charged Wednesday that Syrians had murdered "in cold blood" the wife of Britain's Air Attache to Israel. Her bullet-riddled body was found early today near the Syrian border.

A Foreign Ministry statement said Mrs. Mary Joyce Doran, 47, who disappeared while taking a walk Monday, was struck by three submachinegun bullets fired at short range. Three cartridge cases bearing Syrian markings were found alongside the body, the statement said.

Mrs. Doran, wife of Wing Commander Kenneth Doran, failed to return from a walk after leaving a rest home operated by Italian nuns in northern Israel. She was

Reds Snub Plan To Prevent Surprise Attacks

GENEVA — The Western powers told the Soviet bloc for the first time Wednesday what they believe a system for prevention of surprise attacks should include.

With Italy's Paolo Emilio Taviani as spokesman, they listed mechanical means such as radar networks, reconnaissance flights by aircrafts operating on an open skies system, and international inspection teams to keep watch on such things as missile sites.

Further, they invited the Soviets to submit a list of their own and to study these technical matters with them in the 10-nation conference, here on prevention of surprise attacks.

But the Soviets turned their backs on the suggestion. Western sources interpreted this attitude as a sign of the Soviet Union's continuing hostility to any arms control proposals involving foreign observation of Soviet territory.

Red Germany Signs Of Christmas In Iowa City

BERLIN (AP) — A responsible Soviet source said Wednesday night the Soviet Union intends to give Communist East Germany control over all Western Allies supply lines to Berlin-air, rail and highway.

It was a confirmation of East German hints and Western expectations in a pattern building up since Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev called Nov. 10 for an end to the 4-power occupation.

The Soviet informant said transfer of control of the supply lines was the meaning behind Khrushchev's speech.

Khrushchev proposed that the United States, Britain and France, with city garrisons totaling 10,000 troops, get out of West Berlin.

He said the Soviet Union would hand over its occupation rights in the old German capital to East Germany.

He did not spell out, however, whether he would risk a new East-West crisis by also transferring to Premier Otto Grotewohl's Red regime the supervision of traffic between West Berlin and West Germany, divided by 110 miles of Communist German territory.

But the pressure is on. Refusal of the United States, Britain and France to yield to East German controls might lead to a blockade of their West Berlin garrisons.

It left no choice, experts here believe the three nations would yield to controls while making it clear that this does not constitute recognition of the East German Government. They would officially regard East Germans manning the checkpoints as supply agents of the Soviet Union.

Traditional street decorations, a reminder that Christmas is only five weeks away, were put up in the Iowa City business district this week.

Sponsored by the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce, the decorations will be lighted for the first time on Thanksgiving evening, Nov. 27.

In addition to street decoration the Chamber is sponsoring a children's Christmas party at the Varsity, Engler, Capitol, and Iowa theatres at 10 a.m. Nov. 28.

A program of cartoons is planned, and Santa Claus will visit each theatre with gifts for the youngsters.

The Chamber will provide Santa with an Iowa City headquarters beginning Nov. 28. Space has been reserved at the new Washington Street parking lot, where a combination houseboat and trailer will be set up.

Santa will be available at his houseboat headquarters in the evenings until city schools close Dec. 19. After that he goes on an all-day schedule.

Medical, Biology Group To Meet Tonight

The Iowa section of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Room 179 of the SUI Medical Laboratories Building.

SUI speakers will be Drs. H. W. Fischer, associate professor of radiology; W. E. Connor and J. W. Eckstein, assistant professors of internal medicine; and J. Tonndorf, research assistant professor, S. N. Reger, research professor, and R. J. Voots, instructor, all of the department of otolaryngology.

Bitter Storms Brought Death To Midwest, West Coast

A mammoth storm left gale-force winds in the Great Lakes Wednesday as a grim remembrance of the most vicious early November weather onslaughts on record.

The center of the six-day storm was far to the north, churning over Hudson's Bay. But it was still close enough to power winds of gale force across Lake Superior and Lake Michigan, where a cargo ship with 35 men aboard went down Tuesday.

On the west coast, Southern California shivered in the third day of crop-killing black frost. Farm losses were estimated in the millions of dollars.

Temperature in 20's

The temperature got into the 20's in the parts of the Antelope and Coachella Valleys, where truck farmers reported heavy losses to cantaloupes, sweet corn, squash, cucumbers, beans, peas and potatoes. Wind machines helped save some citrus orchards. Despite a slight warming, Los Angeles shivered in 49-degree temperatures.

Meanwhile, the count of storm dead rose to 25 and it appeared the final toll would come to 33. The bodies of nine crewmen from the sunken freighter Carl D. Bradley were recovered or sighted in the storm-tossed Straits of Mackinac. Two survivors were rescued, but hopes were slim for the other 23 men aboard.

Reach C-46

In Colorado, a ground party reached the wreckage of a C-46 transport which crashed in a blizzard Sunday. The rescuers reported the two crewmen were dead. Meanwhile, the search was called off for the last of eight airmen who parachuted from the stricken plane over Utah and there was hardly any hope of finding three Boy Scouts lost in Arizona snowlands.

Earlier, 14 storm deaths were reported — three in both Utah and Oklahoma, two in Texas and New Mexico, and one each in South Dakota, Wisconsin, Colorado and Missouri.

The storm had left its mark from the nation's northern and southern borders and from the Rockies to the Mississippi. A snow blanket still covered the great plains from Minnesota and the Dakotas to Western Kansas, measuring as high as a foot at Grand Forks, N.D.

Bitter Cold

Bitter cold followed the snow in the western mountains, taking the temperature to 13 below at Anamosa, Colo., and 9 below at Bryce Canyon, Utah. The same cold front pushed slowly eastward, moving to the Appalachian Mountains, the Hudson River Valley and Western Florida. Damaging gale-like winds up to 49 miles an hour preceded the cold front across Upper New York State, where the temperature was a balmy 74 degrees at Buffalo.

In the west, a new Pacific storm moved in and closed two passes in the California Sierras. Warm chinook-type winds gave the mercury a boost in snow-blanketed Colorado, but the cover was still too heavy in the Utah mountains to permit rescue of 5,000 stranded sheep.

At Tooele, Utah, furniture store owner became a delayed-action storm victim. Two feet of snow collapsed his roof and he reported his $8,000 building and its contents a total loss.

West Wants Change In Russ Space Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The Soviet Union won qualified approval from smaller nations today in its compromise move on outer space, but Western diplomats said they would seek changes in the new Russian draft resolution.

The United States and 19 other nations co-sponsoring a draft resolution calling for a year's study of outer space by a special U.N. committee planned to consult as soon as they could get reactions from their governments on the Soviet move.

Two principle objections to the Russian measure emerged after preliminary consideration by Western delegations here.

Committee Weighted

First, they believed the composition of an 11-member preparatory study committee suggested by Russia was weighted in favor of the Communists and did not give enough consideration to geographical distribution and technical advancement.

Second, they considered the Soviet proposal to set up a standing committee on outer space under U.N. auspices as "premature."

These objections were not seen as blocking eventual agreement on a final version because Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin said yesterday all points of his draft were open to negotiation.

Changed Remarks

Kurt Waldheim, Austrian Ambassador to Canada, told the General Assembly's Political Committee that he changed his remarks after seeing the new Soviet resolution last night.

"In the original draft of my statement I was thinking of expressing my delegation's hope that a rapprochement between the two opposing points of view would take place," he said.

"We are extremely happy that this hope has turned to reality. The draft resolution submitted yesterday by the Soviet Union opens the door to mutual understanding and gives reason to hope that a unanimous decision by this committee will be possible. It seems mandatory that the sponsors of the two resolutions try to work out a single text."

UAR Agrees

United Arab Republic delegate Zaki Kenawi voiced similar sentiment.

"The gap between the Soviet Union on the one hand and the Western powers on the other has been greatly narrowed and we urgently hope that a unanimous solution would be reached," he said.

Polish Ambassador Jerzy Michalowski and Bulgarian Deputy Foreign Minister Milko Tarabanov both said they still felt the issue of foreign military bases and other disarmament considerations should be tied into the outer space measure.

RECORD BUDGET

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions of the Congregational Christian churches has set a record budget for overseas missions in 1959: A total of $2,275,665, topping the 1958 figure by $150,000.

Airline, Union Agree On Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Capital Airlines and the Machinists Union agreed Wednesday on a new wage contract for ending a 35-day mechanics' strike that halted flights to 77 cities east of the Mississippi River.

The agreement will be submitted to union members for a vote, possibly today. If the mechanics return to work, the nation's fifth largest airline could resume its scheduled flights early next week.

Capital President David H. Baker and Union President A. J. Hayes announced jointly that they had reached "a mutually satisfactory agreement on all issues in dispute."

Baker and Hayes ended the long negotiations only Tuesday.

Mechanics who service Capital planes went on strike Oct. 15, demanding a wage increase of 42 cents an hour and a two-year contract. Capital had offered 38 cents over a three-year period. Top-scale Capital mechanics now earn $2.54 an hour.

Twenty-four hours after the mechanics walked out, Capital cancelled all its flights and furloughed 7,544 employees, including 850 pilots whose salaries reach $14,000 a year.

Veteran pilots said they had taken a variety of jobs to tide them over. One made $20 a day digging clams along the Chesapeake Bay. Three drove taxicabs, one painted houses and one took over as a part-time school teacher.

Two other airlines, Trans World and Eastern, are threatened by strikes. Mechanics have set an 11 a.m. (EST) Friday strike deadline on TWA. No date has been set for a walkout at Eastern. Mechanics on National and Northeast Airlines also are negotiating new contracts.

The Capital strike was the first major walkout ever experienced by the airline. Negotiations aimed at heading it off had been in progress for more than a year.

Shortly before the strike, a presidential emergency board recommended a 9 per cent wage increase over a two-year contract period. It would have meant an increase of 22 cents an hour for top-scale mechanics. The union rejected it and ordered the strike.

Prior to the strike vote, the nation's six major airlines announced an agreement under which they would turn over to Capital the profits from any additional business they received as a result of the strike. At least one payment was made to the airline.

Scientists Think They've Found Effective TB Vaccine

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI)—A team of North Carolina research scientists who have tested 1,600 persons since 1954 reported Wednesday they believed they had found a safe and effective vaccine to prevent tuberculosis.

The scientists emphasized that their 4-year tests should continue for at least six more years before the vaccine's effectiveness could be scientifically evaluated.

Dr. Stuart Willis of the North Carolina Sanatorium System, chief investigator in the project, said the vaccine, called R1, had been proved safe in animals and humans. He and his associates believe R1 will prove to be the vaccine needed to prevent TB among high risk groups in this country and among the populations of other nations which have "staggering" TB problems.

For Special Use

Willis said the vaccine should "not be regarded as being for general use." He said it is for specialized use among members of high risk groups such as employees of TB hospitals and in countries which have a high rate of incidence of the disease.

Willis said that the persons on whom the vaccine had been tested were employees of institutions with a high rate of incidence.

Dr. H. Mac Vandiviere, who joined the Sanatorium System seven years ago to work on the vaccine, reported that no active tuberculosis cases had been found so far among the 1,600 persons vaccinated with R1 in 1954. But he added that the subjects must be followed for a minimum of 10 years before the vaccine's effectiveness could be scientifically evaluated.

True Value Not Known

"The true value of the vaccine will, of course, not be known until it has been tried in a country such as Haiti where the death rate is almost 50 times greater than it is here and exposure to TB is certain," Vandiviere said.

But he added that R1 had been shown to give better and longer protection than several BCG vaccines used widely in other countries and to a lesser extent in this country.

"The immunity R1 elicits is true in the broad sense although it is not complete in that it does not protect against any possible number of TB germs," he explained. "It is specific for TB and will cause the body to resist hundreds of times the ordinary number of germs required to cause disease."

He illustrated the significance of his statement by pointing out that the vaccine for smallpox, which is probably the best known and most effective, does not give absolute protection. A person can have a smallpox vaccination that "takes" and still get the disease if he receives an overwhelming number of smallpox germs.

British Kill Cypriot Leader

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Nov. 19 (UPI)—British troops today cornered and killed Kyriakos Matsis, reputed EOKA underground leader for all of Northern Cyprus, in a grenade attack at the village of Dhikmo.

Matsis was the most wanted member of the Greek Cypriot anti-British underground after EOKA leader Col. George Grivas himself.

Authorities said Matsis refused to surrender when the troops followed him in his hideout below a house in the village which was under curfew. A British soldier then lobbed two grenades into the hideout, killing Matsis instantly.

Two other EOKA members wanted for terrorist activities came out of the hideout to surrender before the grenade attack.

Today's operation represented the most spectacular success to date for Maj. Gen. Kenneth Darling, director of British anti-terrorist activities on this troubled Mediterranean island colony.

A United States International reporter who visited the scene this afternoon said Matsis' body was blasted to bits. Beside him lay a Sten gun and several boxes of ammunition.

Nasser Gives Blessing To New Sudan Military Regime

KHARTOUM, Sudan, Nov. 19 (UPI)—United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser tonight gave his Government's formal blessings to the new Sudanese military regime led by Gen. Ibrahim Abboud.

Nasser, in a message of recognition delivered here, expressed warm hope for cooperation with Abboud's newly-installed junta and welcomed its statement of willingness to settle differences with the United Arab Republic.

Hope for Peace

The message was delivered by U.A.R. Ambassador Mahmoud Khalifa while Abboud's regime, which took over following a bloodless coup Monday, still awaited recognition from the West.

Nasser expressed the hope that the two nations would live side by side in peace and prosperity.

The United Arab Republic thus joined Jordan in recognizing Abboud's regime. But nothing has been heard from the West although Abboud personally had asked, swift recognition in a meeting with ambassadors of 22 nations a few hours after his dawn coup.

Abboud and his military regime informally relaxed the state of emergency during the day, withdrawing most of the military forces in the capital and making it clear that former government members were free to move about as private citizens.

Oath Before Allah

Abboud and most of his junta took an oath of office before Allah to preserve the nation's independence and well-being.

The general formally was installed as president of a 13-man all-military "Supreme Council of the Armed Forces" and premier of a 12-man cabinet that was dominated by military men.

Ousted Premier Abdullah Khali and his former ministers were free to come and go.

Jr. High School Crime Wave Hit

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police attempting to stamp out a crime wave in a Brooklyn junior high school announced today they had arrested four boys on charges involving homemade zip guns and an attack with a baseball bat.

That brought the total to 15 of the number of youths charged with crime in and around Mark Hopkins Junior High School since last January. An additional 10 youngsters were turned over to the Juvenile Aid Bureau for investigation during that period.

Police said a genuine crime wave had swept the school this year, with offenses ranging from truancy to assault, robbery and extortion.

Three Puerto Ricans and one Negro were arrested late yesterday on juvenile delinquency charges.

A 14-year-old was accused of firing a zip gun in a classroom at Mark Hopkins.

A 13-year-old boy was arrested at the school a short time later when a zip gun was found in his book bag. A 15-year-old boy also was arrested for possessing a zip gun.

The fourth boy was charged with attacking another boy with a baseball bat and threatening to shoot his parents. He told police Mark Hopkins school was "loaded" with members of teen-aged gangs.

Military To Cut Back To 2.5 Million Men

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The military began shrinking its troop strength Wednesday. The Army asked for 9,000 men for the January draft — 2,000 less than it has been calling up the last several months. At the same time Secretary of Defense McElroy ordered all four services—the Army, Marine Corps, Navy and Air Force—to begin now trimming their manpower to an over-all strength of 2,525,000 by June 30, the end of the fiscal year. Military manpower now is 2,596,282.

Decision Last Winter

The Eisenhower Administration's decision to cut back the armed services' manpower was made when the budget was prepared last winter, but this action was held up when the Middle East and the Formosa crises came along. Until McElroy made public his instructions to the services Wednesday, the assumption had been that only the Army and Marine Corps would be required to make further reductions.

The decision to go ahead with the original program for reducing manpower to 2,525,000 by June 30 posed the question of whether the Administration may be considering still further trimming.

McElroy Noncommittal

McElroy was asked that question at a news conference last week. His answer was noncommittal. He said no level below that for the present year had been set.

Religion To Be Topic Of Lecture

Conrad Wright, of the Harvard Divinity School, will lecture in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol at 8 p.m. today on "Rational Religion in 18th Century America." Wright, author of the book "The Beginnings of Unitarianism in America," also has published a number of articles on religious history. His ideas and writings have attracted the attention of scholars interested in religious doctrine, in church history, and in the history of reform movements in the United States.

After obtaining his B.A. in 1937, and Ph.D. in 1946, Wright was appointed assistant professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1954 he joined the staff of the Harvard Divinity School as registrar and lecturer on American Church history. The lecture, sponsored by the School of Religion with the assistance of the Billings Fund of the American Unitarian Association, is open free of charge to the public.

Death Takes Father Of McClellan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), whose life has been marked by a series of family tragedies, was informed today that his father had died in Arkansas.

The Senator was notified of the death shortly before 5 p.m. (EST) during a meeting of his Senate Rackets Committee. His father, Isaac Stock McClellan, succumbed in a hospital at Pine Bluff, Ark.

The elder McClellan, a retired attorney, was 87 years old. He had been ill for about a year and two weeks ago suffered a serious stroke.

Sen. McClellan immediately made arrangements to fly to Arkansas tonight. Funeral arrangements for his father, who lived at Sheridan, Ark., still were incomplete.

McClellan's last surviving son, James, was killed in an airplane crash in Arkansas only last summer. Another son was killed in service. Still another was killed in an automobile accident while enroute to funeral services for the first.

In addition to the Senator, the elder McClellan is survived by five other sons, and his widow, the Senator's stepmother.

Archaeologist Tells Origins Of Etruscans

Clark Hopkins, associate professor of classical art and archaeology at the University of Michigan, Wednesday night named several possibilities of the origin of the Etruscans.

Speaking in Shambaugh Auditorium under the joint sponsorship of the Iowa Society of the Archaeological Institute of America and the SUI Graduate College, Hopkins said, "Inscriptions found in Etruscan ruins were different from all known languages."

The first Etruscan settlements in Italy were founded about 700 B.C. on the coast near Rome and spread inland, Hopkins said.

"They reached the peak of their civilization in the fifth century B.C.," he said. "At that time they controlled Italy from the Po River Valley almost to the tip of the boot with a few exceptions."

Hopkins used examples of Etruscan art to explain his theories concerning the places from which the Etruscans might have come.

"As in Greece, the Etruscans often used a combination of horses and birds in their art," Hopkins said. "The Etruscans also copied their armor from the Greeks."

"Another aspect of Etruscan art was a variation of the Egyptian sun disk."

"They also used a very elaborate horse's bit quite similar to some found in Persia."

Hopkins also named some aspects of Etruscan art that were unique. He said that they had the best examples of large scale paintings of that period.

Pharmacy Grad Talks At Seminar

Alfred Mannino, sales manager for the hospital division of McKesson and Robbins, addressed the Graduate Pharmacy Seminar Wednesday afternoon on the topic "Pharmaceutical Problems in the Hospital."

Mannino was graduated from the SUI College of Pharmacy in 1942.

POLITICAL RESPONSIBILITY (CHICAGO (AP) — A seminar of lawyers, theologians and public officials at the University of Chicago law school agreed that the church-goer who stays home from the polls on election day through indifference or ignorance or a conviction that "politics is dirty" is falling in Christian responsibility.

Wildest Ever Ray Houchens, chief of university police, called the demonstration the wildest he's ever witnessed. "After seeing it, I wonder why someone wasn't killed," he said.

Fred Alexander, Student Council president, condemned the ring-leaders of the disturbance as a "bunch out for a colorful time who wanted to pop the lid off."

The apparently well-planned demonstration began when an old car was dragged into an open field and set afire. The students then began to surge through the streets.

Observers To Leave Lebanon: Hammarskjold

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said Wednesday he is pulling U.N. observers out of Lebanon because they are no longer needed. No date was set. There are 591 observers under the June 11 resolution of the Security Council to see that there was no illegal infiltration into Lebanon from President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

The observation group told the Council its observers had detected no infiltration for some time and recommended withdrawal.

Police Find Arsenal Which May Belong To Irish Republican Army

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police checking on reports of children playing with live ammunition Wednesday discovered a huge arsenal in a Bronx basement which they believed was to be smuggled to the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

The weapons collected, worth thousands of dollars, included two 20 MM cannon, a small mortar, a .50 caliber machine gun, several Browning submachine guns and a number of German-type "Burr" guns.

Police said the resident of the 2-story stucco home where the arsenal was uncovered, Henry Barrett, 51, would say only: "I want to see a lawyer."

Nova Scotia Miners, Including Negro, Begin Georgia-Sponsored Vacation

JEKYLL ISLAND, Ga. (UPI) — Twelve of 19 Springhill, Nova Scotia miners, entombed last month from six to nine days 13,000 feet underground, began a seven-day vacation with their families today in bright 80-degree weather.

The miners, including Maurice Ruddle, 46, a Negro, who brought along four of his 12 children, have a full week of activities ahead of them.

Their trip was made possible by Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin, who was vacationing in western Canada when the mine disaster claimed 74 lives.

Griffin and hundreds of other Georgians contributed money to make the trip possible.

Power's Body Returned To Hollywood; Linda Christian Barred From Funeral

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Tyrone Power's body was returned by plane tonight to Hollywood as his former wife, Linda Christian, bowed bitterly to a request by the actor's young widow that she stay away from his funeral.

Mrs. Power, 26, broke into tears shortly after the plane landed, but regained her composure somewhat as she departed hastily for her hotel.

"It is difficult to believe that any woman Tyrone would marry would have such an inhuman streak," said Miss Christian, who flew here from Paris Tuesday.

Power's widow, Debbie Ann Minardos, said in Boston earlier Wednesday that she believed Miss Christian's presence at the funeral Friday "might result in an emotional scene such as has occurred at recent funerals of other prominent persons."

Abdoud Pledges That New Government Will Honor Existing Treaties

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UPI) — Premier Ibrahim Abdoud pledged today that his new Sudanese Government would honor treaties and obligations of the regime he overthrew Monday.

Gen. Abdoud and Foreign Minister Ahmed Khayr declared in a joint statement that Sudan is bound by all agreements entered into since becoming an independent nation in January, 1956.

They said specifically that Sudan would fulfill its obligations to the United Nations and the Arab League.

Campus Chest Has Shaky Beginning

Campus Chest solicitation booths, which were scheduled to appear at strategic spots on campus Wednesday, failed to materialize. But the chairman of the drive, Jack Burge, A1, Charles City, said they definitely will be open for business today. Goal of the 3-day drive is $7,100.

Off-campus housing units and dormitories were canvassed Wednesday by fraternity and sorority pledges and Burge said they will be solicited again today.

HARVEY ADDRESSES MEETING

I. D. Harvey, central division sales manager for Abbott Laboratories, spoke on the topic "Opportunities Unlimited" Wednesday night at a meeting of the American Pharmaceutical Association Student Branch in 314 Pharmacy-Botany Building.

Merchants Plan Four Extra Nights Of Xmas Shopping

Four extra nights of shopping are planned by Iowa City retailers for the Christmas shopping season, which opens officially Nov. 28.

In addition to the usual Monday night shopping hours, retail stores will remain open three Friday evenings, Dec. 5, 12 and 19, and one Wednesday evening, Dec. 17.

The official opening of the Christmas season will be marked by the arrival of Santa Claus and the annual Chamber of Commerce-sponsored theater parties.

Santa Claus will have his headquarters this year in the new city parking lot on Washington St. west of Clinton St.

Post Office Offers Hints For Overseas Packages

Thirty-five shopping days until Christmas — and the Iowa City Post Office has offered several suggestions to assure that overseas packages reach their destination by December 25.

Today is the deadline for mailing regular parcel post packages overseas, the Post Office said, and airmail packages should be mailed at the latest by December 10.

Packages weighing up to 70 pounds and with a circumference total of 100 inches may be mailed at parcel post rates.

Domestic Rates

Rates will be determined by regular domestic zone rates between the place the package is sent and the post office through which it is routed overseas.

Airmail packages will go for seven cents an ounce for packages up to eight ounces, while heavier parcels will be carried at 80 cents a pound.

The post office suggests that the inside of packages be tightly packed to keep articles from moving around and to prevent the box from being crushed.

Rigid Covering

Wood, metal, or heavy fiber-board for the outside covering is suggested because of the long distance the packages will travel.

If corrugated cardboard is used, it should be covered with heavy wrapping paper. All packages should be tied with heavy string.

In addition to the address of the recipient which should go on the outside of the package, this same information should go inside the package in case the outside address is torn off.

List Contents

Also, the post office said, a list of contents of the package should be included inside in case of breakage.

Restrictions on overseas mailing apply to certain areas in weight limits and size restrictions, as well as in mailing lighter fluids, matches, and in some cases cigarettes, tobacco products and coffee.

Postal authorities can provide further information on these restrictions.

Do You Think for Yourself? (SEE WHAT THIS TEST TELLS YOU ABOUT YOURSELF!*)

A series of 10 questions with illustrations and YES/NO boxes. Questions include: Would you turn down an unusual opportunity if it would alter a preconceived plan for the future? Do you instinctively feel a qualm when you walk under a ladder? Do you feel your education would suffer if books and notes were allowed at examinations? Do you think that a public official should do what the voters want him to do, even though he personally may feel it is wrong? Can you honestly say you enjoy a game or sport as much whether you win or lose? Do you let other people tell you what filter cigarette is best for you, rather than making up your own mind? Do you instinctively feel a qualm when you walk under a ladder? When introduced to important people, do you act a role which is quite different from the real you? If someone wanted to hypnotize you, would you refuse to let him try? Would you feel that you should leave a formal affair if you found you were wearing clothes that were different from everybody else's?

Viceroy Filter Tip Cigarettes advertisement. Includes a pack of cigarettes and a photo of a man and woman. Text: "The fact is, men and women who make up their own minds—who think for themselves—usually smoke VICEROY. Their reason? Best in the world. They know only VICEROY has a thinking man's filter and a smoking man's taste. *If you have answered 'NO!' to six of the above questions—you are a man who thinks for himself!"
