

Democrats Score Snowslide Victory In Alaska Elections

Grueing Tops Stepovich For Senate Seat

Demos Also In Control Of State Legislature

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Democrats made a clean sweep Wednesday of every major national and state race in Alaska's first election as the 49th state.

They captured the two U.S. Senate seats, the single Congressional seat and the Governorship.

Democrats completed their massive landslide of Tuesday's election by gaining overwhelming control of the 60-member first Alaska State Legislature.

Last Hope Defeated

Former Gov. Ernest Gruening eliminated the Republicans' last chance to prevent a shutout when he took an insurmountable lead over ex-Gov. Mike Stepovich in the battle for one of the U.S. Senate seats.

Stepovich, 39, did not concede immediately. He said in Fairbanks he would study the situation before making a statement.

The 107 unreported precincts were in Anchorage and Fairbanks where Democrats are strong, and in remote outposts where the scattered vote could not affect the outcome.

In Anchorage, Gruening credited vigorous campaigning and a united Democratic effort for his victory.

"I am extremely grateful to my fellow candidates for both state-wide and legislative offices who campaigned for me while campaigning for themselves — and through a united party achieved victory for all."

Came From Behind

The 71-year-old Gruening, who served as Alaska's appointive governor more than 13 years, had trailed Stepovich by 5,700 votes in Alaska's statehood referendum in August.

But he waged a hard campaign and it was known before the election that he had closed the gap.

Gruening will go to the Senate with Democrat E. L. Bartlett, 54, for 14 years Alaska's nonvoting delegate to Congress. Bartlett was a landslide winner over R. E. Robertson, 73, a Juneau lawyer and Republican who did not campaign actively.

Ralph Rivers, former Alaska attorney general, will complete the Alaska Congressional delegation. Rivers, 55, was elected to the House as a representative-at-large from Alaska by defeating Republican Henry Benson, 48, Alaska's commissioner of labor.

Egan New Governor

Democrat William Egan, 44, of Valdez, rolled up a wide margin of victory to become the first elected governor of the Union's newest and largest state.

Egan carried into office with him, Hugh J. Wade, 57, who will serve as secretary of state in the new Democratic state administration.

Egan and Wade swamped Republican gubernatorial candidate John Butrovich Jr., 48, of Fairbanks and his running mate for secretary of state, Brad Phillips, 33, of Anchorage.

Republicans have been defeated soundly before in normally Democratic Alaska, but never by such a margin.

The Alaska sweep increased the Democratic majority in the U.S. Senate to 64-36 and in the House to 283-153.

Safety Men Warn Winter Plus Cars Can Mean Trouble

Winter weather predictions, coupled with crowded highways, could spell trouble for the Thanksgiving motorist in Iowa.

State safety officials warned Wednesday that this weekend might be a prelude to hazardous winter driving conditions and urged motorists to use caution, especially on rural roads.

Frank Ullish, acting state safety education director, reminded drivers that darkness comes earlier each day this season and "normal" night time highway speeds can be dangerous.

Ullish also cautioned motorists to start trips early and budget their time so they will not have to speed on the highway.

The Iowa City Police Department and the National Safety Council passed along the following tips for safe driving and walking this winter.

1. Have your car checked now, the motor tuned up and defective parts replaced.
2. Use chains on icy streets. Allow more stopping distance between your car and the car ahead. Be especially careful at intersections.
3. Check your brakes on a spot where loose sand or gravel is on the road surface. Make a series of slow stops, and be sure that your brakes are not "grabbing" on any one wheel.
4. Pedestrians should wear something white at night to help drivers spot them. Walk facing traffic where there is no sidewalk.

Berlin Situation Topsy-Turvy

Allies Dismayed Dulles Would Deal With E. Germans

Just A Prank —

Girl Fools Naval Academy By Posing As Midshipman

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Midshipman James Wilson was removed as Brigade Commander at the U.S. Naval Academy because a "high spirited" 17-year-old girl wearing a white uniform successfully masqueraded at the Academy as a midshipman, the Baltimore News-Post said Wednesday. In a copy-righted story, the paper said the recent tour of the Academy grounds by disguised Susan Johnson, daughter of a Baltimore surgeon, was responsible for the removal of Wilson and the demotion of five other ranking midshipmen.

The paper said Miss Johnson cracked more than a century of tradition at the Academy by marching undetected with the brigade into the dining hall, eating with the men, and polishing off her tour of "duty" by standing night formation. Then she left.

The Academy has said that Wilson, 21, was removed and the others demoted for "lack of judgment."

Wilson was to have led the 3,600 Middies in the traditional parade into Municipal Stadium at Philadelphia at the Army-Navy game this Saturday. He was elected commander, one of the highest honors the Academy can bestow, last September.

Mrs. Marius Johnson confirmed to the paper that her daughter had masqueraded at the Academy.

"It was just a prank," she said. "There was no question of any moral issue involved. Susan is just a typical high spirited American girl, full of fun and life."

"The Midshipmen and my daughter thought it was a great joke. But I am sorry about what they did to those boys. Midshipman Wilson did not have any idea what was going on. He could not have known. I think it was unfair to remove him from his post in the brigade."

The Academy admitted that Wilson was not directly to blame for the masquerade but added that he had to take the responsibility because he was commander.

West German Newspapers Attack Dulles

Term His Statement Concession To Moscow

BERLIN (UPI) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' statement in Washington that the West might be willing to deal with East German Communists as Soviet agents provoked angry editorial comment in West Berlin newspapers.

The mass circulation Morgenpost termed the Dulles statement "thoughtless" and said, "words spoken at a press conference should not be regarded as binding declarations of a statesman. One would expect, however, that a statesman like Dulles, would weigh his words carefully."

MORGENPOST said there was no agreement to regard East Germans as agents of the Soviet Union and added:

"John Foster Dulles is mistaken if he really believes that a policy of freedom in Europe is still possible when representatives of East Germany replace the representatives of the Soviet Union in the Berlin 4-power administration. If he actually believes this he is no longer a statesman but a petty politician."

THE TABLOID B. Z. said the Dulles statement contradicted "everything which has thus far been officially said (on the Berlin situation)."

The newspaper continued: "We cannot but ask: Was it really necessary to make this political advance payment to Moscow even before Moscow has actually disclosed what it is demanding?"

"There will be many people in Berlin today who will be unable to suppress a feeling of disillusionment."

Bubble Bursts So Balloon Spacemen Still Earthbound

Rapid City, S.D. — (UPI) — A giant strato-lab balloon split from top to bottom Wednesday a half hour before it was to carry two spacemen 80,000 feet above the earth.

The balloonists, Prof. John Strong of Johns Hopkins University and Navy Cmdr. Malcolm D. Ross, were already sealed inside their gondola when the balloon crumpled and fell a few hundred feet away from them.

Cause of the failure was not immediately determined. The Navy said it had a spare balloon on hand and might try another ascension soon, possibly today.

The strato-lab project, designed to give scientists their first close-up look at the planet Mars, has been dogged by repeated postponements.

35 SUI Foreign Students Spending Holiday In Osage

By ELIZABETH DAVID Staff Writer

Osage families will set 35 extra places for today's Thanksgiving feast for SUI foreign students who are spending the Thanksgiving week-end as their guests.

The students, representing 12 countries, left Iowa City Wednesday afternoon by chartered bus and will return to SUI Saturday.

For nine years the people of the small town of Osage, in northern Iowa, have invited SUI foreign students to their homes for Thanksgiving.

The project is sponsored by the Osage Rotary Club and was first suggested by a former SUI student Joyce Horton of Osage.

Busy Schedule

Among the activities planned for the foreign students this year are: informal tours of the Osage community, an appearance on television station KGLO-TV in Mason City, a banquet, and a coffee hour given by the Osage Chamber of Commerce.

Although new foreign students are given the first chance at the invitations each year, there often is room in the chartered bus for a few "old" students. Many students go back several times and lasting friendships are established.

"My hosts became vegetarians for the four days that I was in their home," recalled Subramaniam Shastri, G. India, who went to Osage last year. Shastri is a vegetarian.

This year Shastri filled one of the extra places in the bus and is visiting the same family again.

Shastri said Wednesday that he was looking forward to the warm and informal hospitality of the W. F. Sternes family. "What I like best about being in their home is that I can relax and feel absolutely at home," Shastri said. The Sternes keep in touch with Shastri through letters and through their daughter, Ann Sternes, who is a student at SUI.

"Everyone becomes attached to the family that they visit," said Diptish Chakravarty, G. India. Mr. and Mrs. Chakravarty and their 3 year old son, Bubun, are staying at the International Center in the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Maner who are on vacation in Europe.

Chakravarty went to Osage four years ago when his wife and son were still in India. Because Chakravarty will be getting his Ph. D. in Pharmacy in February and his family is with him now, his former hosts wanted them to come to Osage this Thanksgiving. The Chakravarty's could not leave the International Center at this time so they visited their hosts two week-ends ago. "I enjoyed the intimacy of riding around in my host's fuel truck when he went to deliver fuel to the farmers in his community," Chakravarty said.

The hosts were intrigued by the fact that Bubun, who came to the United States before he started to talk, now speaks only English.

Keep In Touch

Kadhim J. Assad, G. Iraq, has an "uncle" and "aunt" in Osage who he is visiting again this Thanksgiving. "They have kept in touch with me through letters, gifts and cards during the last two years," Assad said, "and think of me as their son."

Il Chu Choi, G. Korea, is unable to go to Osage this year, but he is looking forward to having his fiancée from Korea join him next semester. The wedding will be in Choi's hosts' home in Osage. Choi's hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn M. Cheney, have been corresponding with Choi's fiancée and are looking forward to having their adopted son and daughter-in-law-to-be in their home.

U.S. Pledges To Keep Open Supply Lanes

Dules Skirts Query On Use Of Force

BERLIN (AP) — Surprise and dismay spread through Allied and West Berlin circles Wednesday night at Secretary of State Dulles' statement that the West might deal with East Germany in a Berlin showdown.

The West Germans highly disturbed even though Dulles also served notice that the Western Big Three intended to use all land, air and water routes to Berlin even if East German Reds try to block them.

At a news conference, he implied military force might be used, if necessary, to back up the Western view that Russia has guaranteed them unimpeded access to the Communist-surrounded city.

Academic Question

But Dulles said neither the Soviets nor East Germans have made any concrete move to blockade the city. Therefore, he said, the possible use of force is an academic proposition now.

Dulles brushed aside a flurry of questions aimed at drawing him out on how far the Allies will go to keep Berlin open. At one point he said: "We do not intend to waive, either in fact or in law, any of the rights which we have. But I prefer not to speak in terms of a military threat, you might say, in relation to a situation which we have no reason to believe will occur."

The news of Dulles' apparent willingness to deal with the East Germans hit the isolated old German capital shortly after it was disclosed Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had visited East Berlin. Official Soviet sources said he gave the green light for Communist officials to make ready for a Soviet withdrawal from East Berlin.

Officials showed little reluctance to exhibit their private consternation at Dulles' remarks.

"The feeling was that Dulles' statement-despite its qualifications-gave away a bargaining counter before the Russians even showed their hand."

Western officials have never ruled out the possibility of limited contacts with the East Germans on the 110-mile rail and highway link to West Germany. But it was indicated that this would be a concession of last resort.

Airlift Considered

Over the past two days Allied officials gave the impression that the Western powers might resort to an airlift rather than yield to even limited dealings with the Communists.

Shortly before Dulles' news conference in Washington, London declared the Big Three were united and determined to stick to Berlin and preserve routes into the city. Similar comment came from the French.

The plane's wreckage was scattered over the bay, on the edge of a thickly populated section of Brooklyn.

Abominable

Elusive Snowman Or Plain Brown Bear

By GEORGE DIXON
King Features Syndicate

The Rajah of Mustang is a little horsed over a creature shot by his men high in the Himalayas. The Rajah can't decide if it is the Abominable Snowman or a brown bear. I hope the same kind of indecision is not motivating President Eisenhower. He wants all his White House correspondents to have new press pass photographs taken in color.

This Mustang on which the Rajah has his seat is not a bucking bronco, but a territory 19,000 feet almost straight up on the Nepalese side of the Tibetan border. Few outsiders go there except in Cinemas. So far as is known, even John Foster Dulles hasn't made it. Nevertheless, an unidentified hunk of fauna has been reported as loping up there on its two hind legs.

A Yeti Yet
This creature is known either as the Abominable Snowman, or the Yeti, depending on how fluent you are in Nepalese. Searching parties from Katmandu, and other urban centers, report seeing it from time to time, apparently even when sober, but it seems to prefer solitude to being shot, which may explain why the hunters call it Abominable.

Some of the Mustangs, or Mustangers, managed to get something up there recently, however, but about all that's come of it to date is controversy. This is because the Rajah considers the victim's skin different to anything on earth while photographs indicate it to be a plain brown bear.

Perturbing
Well, anything that perturbs the Rajah of Mustang perturbs me, and I was wondering if we couldn't spare some of our Abominable creatures to take his mind off his quandry when the White House issued an order that we'd have to be better identified ourselves.

It decreed that each and every one of us, beaklike or unbeaklike, must report at Room 39 in the cellar of the Executive Office Building, near the State, War and Navy Building, to have new pictures taken in color. If we don't obey between now and Dec. 12, our White House passes will become no good — a prospect even more terrifying to a reporter, who must either cover the President or go back to honest work, than seeing himself in color.

Erratic And Controversial — The History Of Thanksgiving

By FRANKIE SHARP
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The late president Franklin D. Roosevelt sparked a thundering row in 1939 when he proclaimed Thanksgiving Day for the third Thursday in November.

"Thanksgiving has always been on the last Thursday in November," maintained the irate traditionalists. The chorus grew so loud that in 1941, Congress passed a joint resolution declaring that Thanksgiving should fall on the fourth Thursday in November.

But Thanksgiving hasn't always been on the last Thursday in November—it hasn't always been in November and a few times it hasn't even been on Thursday.

Since the first Pilgrim feast in 1621, Thanksgiving has been skidding around like a ball of butter on a hot skillet—and once it disappeared entirely for 47 years.

The Pilgrims themselves skipped their own day in 1622—the harvest was very poor and they didn't feel they had much to give thanks for.

Not Always In Fall
The Pilgrims re-instated Thanksgiving in 1623 but it wasn't always in the fall. Once they gave thanks in July. The Thanksgiving custom gradually spread through the New England towns and states. The first nation-wide Thanksgiving was declared in 1777 by the Continental Congress.

There was one every year until 1783, then the custom died for six years. After the states reorganized into the present union, Congress decided to revive Thanksgiving and asked George Washington to proclaim a Thanksgiving Day.

The vote was over the bitter opposition of a suspicious-minded gentleman from South Carolina, Thomas Tudor Tucker.

"Why should the President tell the people how to do something they might not have a mind to do?" demanded Tucker.

"How do we know the people are thankful for a Constitution that hasn't been tried out very long? We do not yet know but they may have reason to be dissatisfied with the effects it has already produced."

Irregular History
Nevertheless, Thanksgiving Day was proclaimed in 1789 by President Washington and popped up irregularly for the next 70 years.

Thanksgiving

All sorts of grain which our own land doth yield,
Was hither brought, and soon in every field,
As wheat and rye, barley, oats, beans and peas
Here all thrive and they profit from them raise,
All sorts of roots and herbs in gardens grow,
Parsnips, carrots, turnips, or what you'll sow,
Onions, melons, cucumbers, radishes,
Skirets, beets, coleworts and fair cabbages.
Famine once we had . . .
But other things God gave us in full store.
As fish and ground nuts, to supply our strait,
That we might learn on Providence to wait,
And know by bread man lives not in his need,
But by each word that doth from God proceed.

—Governor Bradford

Thomas Jefferson was a strict anti-Thanksgiving man, feeling it was a "monarchical" practice. But other presidents took more kindly to the idea.

The New England Thanksgiving had been a fall celebration, but presidents proclaimed national Thanksgiving Days in hop-scotch patterns.

There are only three months that haven't had Thanksgiving Days: March, June, and October.

President James Madison proclaimed Thanksgiving Day on April 15, 1815. And that was the last national Thanksgiving Day until 1862 when President Lincoln declared one.

Lincoln, a deeply religious man, proclaimed three national days for prayer and four national days of Thanksgiving. He was the first president to make Thanksgiving a holiday, urging that work be suspended so that everyone might give thanks to God.

All of Lincoln's Thanksgivings were not in November, but his

Our Blessings Are Many

There is hardly an American who will not be touched by the material things which go traditionally with Thanksgiving, who will not have something extra to make this a different and better day.

For nearly all of her millions there is plenty. Even the derelicts will, for the most part, be cared for.

That, in itself, is a great blessing. An even greater one is that, despite all the world's tensions, Americans are not dying in battles which have so often been threatened.

Indeed, the list of blessings which may be recounted as Americans sit down to their traditional feast is a very long one.

One American blessing transcends all others. Its people are of a character which sets aside a national day for recognition that go-getting is not enough — that their welfare is so largely due to fortuitous natural location, and a power beyond their own.

Good Listening— Today On WSUI

THANKSGIVING IS A HOLIDAY for WSUI as well as for all others. There will be no transmission today; however, WSUI will return to the air tomorrow and Saturday with the programs of interest which follow.

FRIDAY MORNING, since Professor Olson's Foreign Trade classroom broadcast will not be heard, the second program from the series "The Challenge of Communism" will be presented at 8:30 a.m. Called "Economic Growth in Underdeveloped Countries," the program is based on the challenge to the free world of the Communist controlled economy. Leading economists talk.

"THE LAST HURRAH" the book by Edwin O'Connor, has its last day in court on the Bookshelf at 9:35 a.m. Friday. With the conclusion of the book there will be liberal quotations from the obituaries of the late James Curley whose death two weeks ago caused a revival of speculation that he is the "fabulous original" after whom Frank Skiffington in "The Last Hurrah" was modeled. A new book will be begun Monday at 9:35 a.m.

ANOTHER TRAGIC HERO, "Don Pasquale" has been immortalized in the opera so named by composer Gaetano Donizetti. "Don Pasquale" opera buffa in three acts, is WSUI's evening at-the-opera presentation at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Richly musical and highly comical is the performance recorded by the San Carlo Theatre Company of Naples under the direction of Francesco Molinari-Pradelli.

ON SATURDAY, a final wrap-up of the 1958 football season will be heard at 9:30 a.m. with Paul Eells utilizing hundreds of the thousands of feet of tape which have been recorded during the season just concluded.

CUE RETURNS to its old, non-football status; a quiet, relaxed period of entertainment from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

A NEW PROGRAM, Saturday Supplement, to be heard every Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m., begins this week. Designed, in fact, to supplement the regular listening and reading fare of the steady listener, Saturday Supplement will draw heavily upon resources of recorded and printed material which deserve, but may not have reached, greater attention.

A Review Of The Play — Cue For Passion

By JACK GAYER
UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK — Dramatist Elmer Rice plays his own variation on the "Hamlet" theme in "Cue For Passion," which the Playwrights' Company and Franchot Productions offered at Henry Miller's Theater Tuesday night.

The setting is a handsome country house in Southern California, the period is the present and the characters are the members and friends of a wealthy family.

Rice has turned in a workmanlike job as a writer, he has staged the play well, the actors are a good group and the physical production is handsome. But once the interest in observing the mechanics of "construction" of the paraphrase of the classical tragedy begins to wane, there seems to be weakening of his grip on the viewer.

Despite the introduction by Rice of a couple of twists of his own in the latter part of the play and valiant efforts of the players to build the suspense, a certain tedium set in so far as this reviewer was concerned. Although not nearly so long as Shakespeare's "Hamlet," it began to seem that Rice's script would never come to grips with the resolution of its problem.

The Hamlet in this case is a youth who suddenly leaves college and sets off on a world-wide tour that lasts two years, during which he doesn't communicate. But he gets the word that his wealthy father has died accidentally. Suddenly he returns home some six months later to find his mother married to the directing genius of his father's enterprises, a life-long friend.

The youth uncovers various things that seem to strengthen his belief that his father was killed by his successor. But it develops that the son never had liked his father, was happy only that his mother was away so that she and he had grown up with a mother complex of the most disastrous sort. Their permanent parting is the only solution.

While John Kerr usually is one of the best at portraying sensitive young men, I could wish that his big drunk scene were a little less "drunk"; in fact, that whole performance were a bit more disciplined. Diana Wynyard is excellent as the mother.

Lloyd Gough, Anne Revere, Joanna Brown, Robert Lansing and Russell Gaige give good accounts of themselves.

George Jenkins designed and lighted the attractive production.

Hawk Cagers Open Season Monday

Colorado Here For Sharm's Debut

By LOU YOUNKIN
Sports Editor

Coach Sharm Scheuerman will send a veteran Iowa five onto the Fieldhouse court Monday night to face the University of Colorado Buffaloes in the season's lifeline at 7:30. It will also be the initial game of the year for visiting coach Russell Walseth's squad.

A 78-game winning streak against non-conference foes on the home floor is at stake for the Hawkeys. Not since Jan. 29, 1942, when Kansas turned the trick, has a team other than a Big Ten opponent defeated Iowa on its own court.

Scheuerman will be making his first appearance as head basketball coach since replacing the late Frank (Bucky) O'Connor last spring. Bucky was killed in an automobile accident near Waterloo April 23.

Only 24 years old, Sharm was a regular for the Hawks from the 1953-54 season to the 1955-56 season — a span during which Iowa won the conference title twice and earned the nickname of "The Fabulous Five."

Scheuerman served as freshman coach his first year out of school and last year was assistant varsity coach.

THE FIVE PROBABLE starters for the Hawks were starters a good share of last season also when Iowa won 13 games and dropped nine. A 7-7 league mark gave the Hawkeys the No. 6 slot in the final Big Ten standings although they were contenders until the final two weeks of the season before bowing to Michigan State, Purdue and Michigan in the last three games of the season.

Dave Gunther, the team's leading scorer the past two seasons and also voted the most valuable Hawkeye both years, will open at one forward. A senior from LeMars, Gunther was the fourth high scorer in the conference last year with a 20.8 scoring average. The 6' 5" Gunther has all the shots — a deadly jump shot from the sides or front, a hook, and — always the opportunist — Dave gets more than a few points by being at the right place at the right time.

Defensive stand-out and rebounding star Nolden Gentry of West Rockford, Ill., will be at the other forward. A 6' 7" junior, Gentry usually gets the assignment of guarding the opposing team's top scorer. The bespectacled Gentry also led the Hawks in rebounding last season.

JUNIOR FRANK MUNDT from Ida Grove is the Iowa center. A big man at 6' 8" and 235 pounds, Mundt will have to improve his scoring output of 4.4 points per tilt last year. A rugged rebounder, big Frank notched 12 points during a brief appearance against the freshmen in the annual varsity-freshman game Tuesday (won by the varsity, 96-53), and Sharm has indicated he is improving in his overall play.

In the backcourt Iowa is long on talent but short in height. Senior Clarence Wordlaw at 6' 3" is the big man. The Chicago native is probably the most spectacular of the Hawks and is a fine shot and superb passer. His 14.8 average of last year was the team's second high mark behind Gunther.

Bobby Washington, a 5' 10" junior from West Rockford where he prepped with Gentry, will team with Wordlaw at the other guard. Washington is a deadly shooter from outside and serves as the quarterback when in the lineup.

Earl Nau and Mike Heitman are very close to being starting guards, Scheuerman said, and could very easily work into the starting rotation this season. Nau is 5' 10" and hails from Mt. Pleasant while Heitman stands 5' 8" and is a Moline, Ill., product.

THE "SIXTH MAN" in the Iowa lineup, 6' 3" George Seaberg from Rock Island, is slated to see plenty of action in the front court.

Two sophomore guards showed up well in the freshman contest and may see a lot of duty although the competition at that position is exceptionally keen. They are 5' 10" Ron Zagar from DePue, Ill., and 6' 2" Bob Carpenter from Louisville, Ky.

Dennis Runge at 6' 8½" is the tallest Iowan, but Sharm said he still has to improve his all-around play to break into the lineup. He is a sophomore from Calumet.

THE BUFFALOES are expected to be paced by 6' 9" sophomore center Bill Wraga and veteran guard Gerry Schroeder who averaged 13.2 points per game last year. Colorado won eight games last season and lost 15, but information on this year's quintet is not complete.

A member of the Big Eight Conference, Colorado won three conference games during the 1957-58 campaign and lost nine for a seventh place finish.

Iowa travels to Dallas, Tex., Dec. 6 to face Southern Methodist, and on Dec. 8 Scheuerman's Hawks will be at Oklahoma. The next home game for Iowa will be against Texas Tech., Dec. 13.

Billy Austin Of Rutgers Is Back Of Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Austin, whose playing status was not known until shortly before the kickoff, Wednesday was named back of the week for the sensational finish he put on his Rutgers football career.

Playing with a heavy bandage on his broken left hand, the slender single wing tailback scored five touchdowns and ran for two conversions in the 11 times he handled the ball as Rutgers routed Columbia 61-0.

Despite the remarkable showing, Austin was the pick of Associated Press sports writers and broadcasters by only a narrow margin over halfback Billy Cannon of Louisiana State, Dick Bass of College of the Pacific, and Southern Methodist's Don Meredith.

Austin's 34 points gave him a season's total of 106.

Cannon received solid support for his work in the 62-0 rout of Tulane which enabled LSU to conclude its regular season unbeaten. He scored three times, including the lid-lifting touchdown, gained 108 yards in 14 carries, and intercepted a pass deep in Tiger territory.

Bass romped for six touchdowns and 191 rushing yards as COP smothered San Diego State.

In SMU's 33-29 hair-raiser over Baylor, Meredith was the difference — and more. The clever junior quarterback ran for two touchdowns and 50 yards while passing for a third score and 206 yards.

Clemson May Play In Sugar Bowl

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Journal said Wednesday that Clemson will play in the Sugar Bowl next Jan. 1 if it defeats Furman this weekend.

A story by Gregory Favre said it was learned that Clemson had received and accepted an invitation to meet LSU in the New Orleans football classic.

The story added the agreement contains a stipulation that if Clemson should lose to Furman, the pact will be broken, but it added that a Clemson victory "is considered a mortal lock."

In New Orleans, Claude Simons, president of the Sugar Bowl, said no invitation had been extended to Clemson.

Eastern Football Games Top Schedules For Today

Renasant Eastern football, original source of the idea that an afternoon in an icy stadium is the proper preliminary to a big Thanksgiving dinner, regains a share of its former glory today.

virtually wrapped up for the season, the ancient Penn-Cornell, Pitt-Penn State and Brown-Colgate tussles assume at least equal importance to the nationally televised Texas-Texas A&M encounter.

The lure of these games is largely traditional. The same thought applies to such games as Virginia Tech-V.M.I., Richmond-William and Mary, Utah-Utah State and Denver-Colorado State University — and they all fall somewhat under the shadow of the even bigger traditional classics.

such as Army-Navy, coming up Saturday.

Here's what they have to offer:

PENNSYLVANIA, whose recovery from the football doldrums began with a 14-6 upset of Cornell a year ago, can complete its most successful season in several years with a victory. Cornell, by winning, could take some sting out of the midseason collapse that cost it a chance for the Ivy League title. They're tied for third in the Ivy now and the winner will tie Princeton for second.

Colgate doesn't figure to offer too strong opposition to Brown and the big thing here is the chance for quarterback Frank Finney to take whatever Brown passing and offense records he doesn't already hold.

PITT AND PENN STATE, both three-time losers, still rate among the East's better teams although their bowl hopes have been dashed. The Texas-Texas Aggie game always is a no-holds-barred affair and television viewers can expect an interesting afternoon though there's nothing much at stake. They have identical 2-3 Southwest Conference records though Texas has the better over-all standing.

Touchdown Tendency

Army Picked By 7 Over Navy; Notre Dame 7 Point Favorite

A college football season of many surprises completes its last regular roundup this week with Notre Dame and Army picked to win the two top spectacles.

Notre Dame's Irish collide with Southern California's Trojans — another installment in a thrill-packed football legend. The Smith Touchdown Tendency System of Ratings sees the tenth-ranked Irish disposing of their old nemesis by 7.

In the annual gold braid classic the System calculates fifth-ranked Army to annex a 7-point win from Navy. Southeastern games match ancient rivals. Georgia Tech and Georgia will wage their annual clash, with the Bulldogs one-point underdogs.

Three headlines are on the card in the Southwest Conference. Make it Texas over Texas A&M by 8, Texas Christian over Southern Methodist by 7, and Rice by 7 over Baylor in these traditional rivalries.

The third-ranked Sooners of Oklahoma are 20-point favorites to thump their neighborhood rivals, Oklahoma State.

What does so much...

For so little?

Your gas and electric service! And it's doing so much more for you today!

If your family is like the average family you've just about doubled the use of electricity in your home during the past ten years — and also increased the use of gas tremendously.

How many new gas and electric appliances have you added that you didn't have ten years ago? Five? Ten? Fifteen? What are some of them? A TV set — food freezer — refrigerator-freezer — automatic washer — automatic gas clothes dryer — gas incinerator — hi-fi — power tools — better lighting?

Whatever they are, they're making your life a lot easier, more convenient and more enjoyable. Yet the amount you pay for your gas and electric service has increased by only a relatively small amount in comparison with most anything else you can name.

What, besides dependable gas and electricity, does so much for you — for so little?

Thanksgiving For Campy—

Thankful To Be Alive

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — "It's great to be alive."
Those were Roy Campanella's grateful words Wednesday as the former Dodger catcher, still paralyzed from the neck down, was to spend his first Thanksgiving Day at home following his tragic automobile accident of 10 months ago.

Roy Campanella
Glad To Be Alive

"I've got so many things to be thankful for," said the wheelchair-bound Campanella, who only a week ago was able to discard the brace that had held his head in place ever since his operation for a fractured neck last January.

"I'm thankful I'm alive. I'm thankful that no member of my family was with me at the time of the crash-up. I'm thankful the car didn't burn up when it overturned. I'm thankful I didn't die on the operating table. I'm thankful I've got all my senses. I'm thankful just to be home with my family. I just can't begin to tell you how lucky I am."

This from a man who on last Thanksgiving was eagerly looking forward to the Dodgers' move to Los Angeles because "it will add

10 years to my baseball career. This from the once great catcher who is learning all over again to catch a ball as part of his rehabilitation program. This from a once robust, agile athlete who now is limited to only the use of his arm and shoulders.

4 Children
Make no mistake about it, Campy was happy and sincere as he counted his blessings. His eyes glistened as he looked up at his wife, Ruthe, busily preparing the table for the evening dinner. He was surrounded by four of his six children, David 15, Roy Jr., 10, Tony 8 and Princess 5. The other two 18- and 19-year-old daughters attending out of town colleges, were expected momentarily.

"Look at these kids," Roy exclaimed. "They're not worried a bit about me being in a wheelchair. 'Daddy's home!' that's all they care about. I have trouble keeping the little ones out of the wheel chair. When I'm in bed, they're in there with me. I've got no time to sulk with them around."

Holds Glass
"You know something," he said. "I held a glass in my hand yesterday . . . full of water. That was the first time. And I picked up a hamburger. My boy, Tony, made it for me, too. It may not seem like much to the average guy but it meant a great deal to me. It provided to me that I'm making progress."

Huge Majority Expected For De Gaulle

PARIS (UPI) — Premier Charles de Gaulle Wednesday appeared headed toward absolute control of Parliament in France's new Fifth Republic.

Barring upsets in the nationwide run-off balloting Sunday, de Gaulle seemed likely to become the first French constitutional leader in nearly 80 years to enjoy such a majority.

The extent to which de Gaulle will be in the drivers' seat was indicated by Roger Fryer, Secretary-General of the new Gaullist (UNR), which appeared certain to emerge as France's strongest political party. General predictions were that the UNR would win a minimum of 150 seats in the new assembly.

At DeGaulle's Disposal
Frey told a news conference that the party would not shift either to the right or left but would remain at the General's disposal to accomplish the tasks of national rebirth. He indicated that the party would constitute a solid voting machine prepared to ram through Parliament any measures desired by De Gaulle.

Conservative Support
In addition to an estimated 150 UNR votes, experts estimated that De Gaulle also could count on support in the next Assembly from some 120 conservative independents, plus about 70 rightists from Algeria and the Sahara. Communist strength was expected to be cut to as low as 20 or 30 seats from the previous high of 150.

West 'Delighted' To Enter Economic Race: Nixon

LONDON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Wednesday the West would be "delighted" to accept Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's challenge to an economic race between the Communist and free worlds.

Nixon warned, however, that the West could not let down its military guard while "the law of the jungle" prevailed.

The Vice President told a dinner meeting of the English Speaking Union that "the world would be infinitely better off if man's energies were used for the welfare of families rather than the building of armies."

Besides, he added, "in such a contest no one could really lose."

Sees Churchill
Nixon's speech ended a busy day which included a surprise call on Sir Winston Churchill and attendance with his wife, Pat, Queen Elizabeth and other members of the royal family at the dedication of the American chapel in St. Paul's Cathedral. The Nixons arrived Tuesday for a 4-day visit.

"Just a few weeks ago," Nixon told the dinner meeting, "Premier Khrushchev promised his people a revolution in living standards within the next 12 years. He claimed that the Communist system would overtake and surpass the economies of the Western world."

"If Mr. Khrushchev wishes to consider these steps as a form of competition or contest," Nixon said, "I am sure that all of us would be delighted to accept the challenge."

Stresses Economic Stability
His speech stressed the importance of proving the West's economic stability. He said the economic battleground now was in Asia, the Middle East, Africa and Latin America.

These growing nations, he said, would, if necessary, "choose progress even without freedom." And, he added, "no people in the world today should be forced to choose between bread and freedom."

"Let us speak less of the threat of Communism and more of the promise of freedom," Nixon urged. "Let us adopt as our primary objective not the defeat of Communism but the victory of plenty over want, of health over disease, of freedom over tyranny."

Attorneys Move To Free Pacifist Pastor From Jail

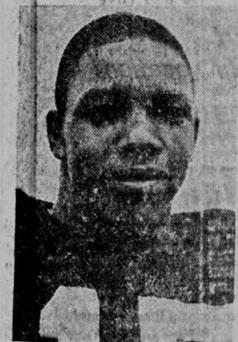

CINCINNATI, O. (UPI) — Court-appointed attorneys for the Rev. Maurice McCrackin, 52, pacifist Presbyterian minister who objects to paying income taxes, filed a motion in the Federal District Court here Wednesday to try to get him out of jail.

They asked Judge John H. Druffel to vacate the order by which the minister was jailed for contempt of court.

Druffel said Rev. McCrackin could leave the jail by signing his own recognizance and pleading to an indictment for refusal to answer the Internal Revenue Department summons. The minister has said he will do neither and does not want the attorneys to do a thing for him.

The minister has refused to pay any Federal income taxes because he claims most of the money goes for armaments.

Fleming Sets Big Ten Mark; Many Iowans Among Leaders

Willie Fleming
Sets Big Ten Mark

CHICAGO (AP) — Iowa's sophomore speedster Willie Fleming set one of the three individual records established in Big Ten football this fall.

Fleming's record came on his 8.8 average per carry on his 41 trips with the ball. He had a net of 362 yards for fifth place in the rushing department.

Iowa quarterback Randy Duncan easily captured forward passing laurels but was overtaken by Dick Thornton of Northwestern in the final week for total offense. Thornton played one more conference game than Duncan.

Duncan led the passers with 66 completions on 111 tosses for a .595 average. He accounted for 898 yards.

Thornton led Duncan 957 yards to 910 in total offense. Halfback Ray Jauch of Iowa finished third in rushing with 381 yards. He averaged 7.3 yards on 52 carries. Jauch was second in kick-off returns with a 25.8 average on 8 returns.

Iowa ends Curt Merz and Don Norton were third and fourth, respectively, in passing receiving. Merz caught 18 for 250 yards and Norton grabbed 15 for 217 yards. Both scored two touchdowns during the Big Ten season.

The other records were by Bob White, Ohio State fullback, and Dean Look, Michigan State halfback. White's record was on his number of carries — 178 for 713 yards. His total rushing yardage was the highest in the conference. Look had a new high average of 32.5 on 6 punt returns.

Acting PCC Commissioner Bernard Hammerbeck told us our request to waive the conference rule to prohibit members from participating in a post season game other than the Rose Bowl had been stopped short of a vote by a formal objection of UCLA and USC," Bates said.

Bates said this apparently meant the question of WSC negotiating for a Sugar or Gator bowl bid could only come up at a regular conference meeting.

Bates said both he and Dr. C. Clement French, WSC president, were shocked by the veto action. The conference is due to meet Dec. 7 and Bates said there are no provisions to call for a special meeting.

The vote in the 9-school conference apparently was 7-2. Bates, obviously disappointed and perhaps even angry at the outcome told a news conference:

"Of course we never before have asked permission to play in an outside contest. In this case we felt that since the conference is breaking up after the present season there would be no serious objections to such a proposal as it would not establish a precedent for the future."

Duncan Gets Two More Grid Honors

Iowa's quarterback Randy Duncan received more recognition Tuesday for his outstanding play the past season.

Duncan was voted the National Collegiate "Player of the Year" by the Cleveland Touchdown club and chosen on the Wisconsin all-opponent team.

The Cleveland honor goes annually to the most valuable player in college ranks. Duncan will receive the Joe Fogg Memorial Award in Cleveland Jan. 20 at the annual awards dinner.

In addition to Duncan, the all-opponent team members picked are: Badger coach Milt Bruhn; Ron Burton, Northwestern and Don Clark, Ohio State, halfbacks; Bob White, Ohio State, fullback; Sam William, Michigan State, and Rich Kreitling, Illinois, ends; Andy Cvercke, Northwestern, and Jim Marshall, Ohio State, tackles; Ron Maltony, Purdue and Ellison Kelly, Michigan State, guards; and Mike Svendsen, Minnesota, center.

Surprise Attack Talk Deadlocked

GENEVA (UPI) — The West Wednesday called for a showdown at the East-West conference on the prevention of surprise attacks.

A similar challenge made to the Soviets at the deadlocked talks on nuclear test suspensions went unanswered Wednesday.

At the surprise attacks conference, the West bluntly asked the Soviets whether they wanted to continue or break off the talks. The Russians and their satellites were charged with sidestepping their agreement with President Eisenhower to come to Geneva for technical talks on how to reduce the dangers of an atomic-age Pearl Harbor attack.

The talks have been bogged down by the Soviet insistence on introducing purely political issues since the conference opened more than two weeks ago.

WSC Can't Play After Season Ends

SPOKANE (AP) — Washington State College was refused permission by the Pacific Coast Conference Wednesday to negotiate for a post season football bowl game on the votes of UCLA and Southern California.

WSC Athletic Director Stan Bates said UCLA and USC invoked an obscure veto clause in the PCC athletic code to kill the WSC petition.

"Acting PCC Commissioner Bernard Hammerbeck told us our request to waive the conference rule to prohibit members from participating in a post season game other than the Rose Bowl had been stopped short of a vote by a formal objection of UCLA and USC," Bates said.

Bates said this apparently meant the question of WSC negotiating for a Sugar or Gator bowl bid could only come up at a regular conference meeting.

Bates said both he and Dr. C. Clement French, WSC president, were shocked by the veto action. The conference is due to meet Dec. 7 and Bates said there are no provisions to call for a special meeting.

The vote in the 9-school conference apparently was 7-2. Bates, obviously disappointed and perhaps even angry at the outcome told a news conference:

ISC To Resume Hunt For Director

AMES (AP) — The Iowa State College Athletic Council will meet Dec. 7-8, presumably to take further action toward finding a successor to Louis Menze as athletic director.

Council member Joe Walkup said Wednesday the council would ask for a report from the Sifting Committee which was named to screen candidates for the job. Menze has announced his retirement.

There is "at least one man we regard pretty highly who is a head football coach," Walkup said. "We will try to get things off of dead center those two days." The council has been looking for Menze's successor for about a year.

Missouri Fullback Signs With St. Louis Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Hank Kuhlmann, 21, University of Missouri's star fullback, was signed by the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday to a bonus contract which may have given him as much as $30,000 for his signature. He will play with the Cardinals' farm club at Rochester in the International League. Kuhlmann was a catcher with the University of Missouri.

Benson Approves Of Farm Vote Against Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson said Wednesday farmers acted in their own best long-term interests in voting to end production controls on corn.

More than 71 per cent of the farmers who took part in Tuesday's referendum favored ending the 25-year-old government production controls on corn, the nation's largest single crop.

Benson interpreted the vote as "a firm expression by farmers of a willingness to move further in the direction of a freer agriculture and away from the burdensome, ineffectual programs of the past."

He said the old program has not worked, and that most farmers had repudiated corn acreage controls in recent years by deciding not to comply with the requirements.

He predicted that there will be very little change in corn production without controls, nor would there be a drop in farm income. If there is any change, he said, it will be in the direction of higher income.

East Germans To Train Army For Atomic War
BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany is going to train its troops for nuclear warfare, a private West Berlin intelligence agency said Wednesday.

Use 'Radical' Charge, Nixon Urged GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 650-word private telegram went from Vice President Nixon to all Republican candidates for Congress two weeks before the November election, urging them to press the "radical" cry against the Democrats.

The text of the message was released Wednesday by Nixon's office, after accounts of its content and distribution had appeared in the New York Post and the Washington Evening Star. Nixon is on an official visit to Great Britain.

Nixon in effect was suggesting to GOP candidates that they sail into the Democrats along the same campaign line he was following. His own speeches had declared that the dominant wing of the Democratic party was controlled by Northern and Western radicals.

Also, the Oct. 19 pep talk message to more than 350 GOP candidates repeated what Nixon hammered on from his own platforms — a contention that there had been a sharp swing to the Republicans. It repeated that the Republicans could win big if they would get in there and fight. "From now on," it said, "all Republican candidates and spokesmen should radiate optimism and should be on the offensive."

Transportation Tie-up Ends At Burlington

BURLINGTON — A three-day strike of drivers and maintenance workers, which tied up public transportation here, ended Wednesday afternoon.

Larry Johnson, president of the drivers union local, said the union membership approved a new contract offered by L. A. Worley, general superintendent of the newly formed Burlington Transit Lines.

The union struck the Burlington City Lines, which was dissolved after its 10-year franchise expired. Worley then started Burlington Transit Lines.

One Killed As B47 Carrying A-Bomb Burns

LAKE CHARLES, La. — An explosion of a take-off device on a B-47 medium jet bomber, carrying a nuclear weapon, touched off a fire and burned the plane, killed the aircraft commander and injured the navigator at Chennault Air Force Base here Wednesday.

An evacuation alert was sounded, but was lifted when the fire was brought under control a few minutes later. The nuclear weapon aboard the craft was not involved in the blast or fire, which occurred while the bomber was parked on the flight line.

Names Withheld
Base officials did not identify the commander or the navigator, pending notification of relatives.

Base commander Col. T. S. Walters said the fire was caused apparently when an ATO bottle exploded. An ATO bottle is a rocket-like assisted-takeoff device in a rack on the fuselage. It is designed to give the plane a boost in getting off the ground.

The co-pilot was not injured.

No Danger of Radiation
The Strategic Air Command in Washington confirmed the plane was carrying a nuclear weapon, but added "there was no danger of a nuclear explosion and no harmful nuclear radiation is present. Well-established procedure for handling such mishaps were carried out as a matter of routine."

All persons on the base, except those engaged in fighting the fire, were ordered from the area, the Air Force said, but the alert was called off and roadblocks lifted when the blaze was brought under control.

Snow, Cold Mar Nation's Holiday

By United Press International

The coldest weather of the season closed over most of the nation at the start of the Thanksgiving holiday Wednesday night.

Temperatures hit 23 degrees below zero at Cutbank, Mont., and a northern plains blizzard left 14-inch snows and drifts six and a half feet deep across the Dakotas.

Weathermen said these wintry figures were the pace setters for a frigid holiday.

Only Southern California could look forward to a relatively warm holiday. Cold air was driving out of the West, promising the first freeze of the year in the Southland, November's coldest night in up-state New York, and snow flurries and squalls from the Great Lakes to the mountains of West Virginia. Along the New England coast, winds were expected to reach gale force.

Americans On Move
Americans were on the move Wednesday night, despite the weather and two airline strikes which grounded one third of the nation's domestic airliners.

New York State reported the first holiday traffic casualties. They were Mrs. Ruth Bergman, 49, and her daughter, Ruth, 5, who were killed near East Aurora, N.Y., in a head-on collision. Three persons were injured.

The National Safety Council declined to issue a prediction of holiday traffic deaths during the 102-hour period starting at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ending at midnight Sunday. Thanksgiving, traditionally, is not the kind of holiday when drinking parties and wild driving boost the traffic toll, the council said.

However, the council pointed out that on an average non-holiday period of the same length at this time of year, 470 persons could be expected to die in traffic smashups.

After last year's 102-hour Thanksgiving holiday, the United Press International had counted 554 traffic deaths—84 over the normal.

Space Agency Plans Venus Satellite

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's new civilian space agency plans 8 to 12 rocket launchings next year, including an attempt to place a satellite in orbit around the planet Venus, a spokesman said Wednesday.

He also said the agency, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), planned to put a weather satellite in orbit over the North and South Poles.

Other 1959 launchings by NASA were expected to include three or four Vanguard earth satellite rockets, the first of which has been set for February.

Mid 1959
The agency has said previously that Venus, nearest planet to the Earth, would be in a favorable position for a launching in mid-1959. The Air Force's Thor-Able moon rocket has the power to make the trip.

The Air Force, meanwhile, was planning to send up several experimental military reconnaissance satellites that could bring the total U.S. space launchings next year to a score or more.

The Air Force launchings will be from its Vandenberg base on the West Coast. "Aviation Week" magazine predicted Sunday that the first would take place Dec. 15. The Air Force had no comment on this.

The NASA spokesman said the agency was "very conscious" of the advantage of placing a weather satellite in a North-South orbit. With the Earth turning evenly beneath it, a Polar satellite could observe every spot on the globe once every 24 hours.

Space Weatherman
Such a satellite, if successful, could revolutionize weather forecasting. Meteorologists would be provided with a daily picture of the earth's cloud cover.

No more Army Explorer satellites were planned. But the Army may get the job of putting up an inflatable satellite balloon 100 feet in diameter that could easily be seen with the naked eye.

Maintain Berlin Status, Adenauer, DeGaulle Say

BAD KREUZNACH, GERMANY, (UPI)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and French Premier Charles De Gaulle agreed Wednesday that the international status of Berlin must be maintained despite Soviet threats to turn the city over to the East German Communists.

The two western allied leaders also pledged to pursue further economic cooperation in the European common market and to collaborate with their western European allies in other fields.

Adenauer and De Gaulle announced their views in a communique issued after a 1-day conference held in this resort town.

The conference, scheduled before the Berlin situation became tense, was aimed at further cementing economic and political relations between the two former enemies. In the face of Russian cold-war moves, however, Berlin became an important issue in the talks.

No details were released on the discussion of the Berlin crisis. The communique said only that Adenauer and De Gaulle "confirmed the importance they attach to the problem, that is to say the maintenance of the status of Berlin as it has been defined in existing international agreements which are guaranteed by the governments of France, the United States and the United Kingdom and with the Governments of other states with whom they are associated as members of NATO."

It had been reported that Adenauer would try to get De Gaulle to take a firmer stand against the Soviets who, ignoring 4-power pacts governing the occupation of Berlin, are taking steps to turn the city over to East German rule.

Pan Am said one of the jet clippers set a new commercial speed record from New York to Shannon, Ireland, of five hours and 39 minutes, bettering a previous record set by a Pan Am plane by 28 minutes. One plane averaged 601 miles per hour, the other 552.

Elderly Couple Killed In Flaming Crash; Alert Out For Trucker Who Caused It

SOMERSET, PA. (UPI) — An elderly couple from Oakmont, Pa., near Pittsburgh, was killed and an Illinois woman was injured Wednesday in a fiery multiple-vehicle collision in the Allegheny Tunnel of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

State police immediately sent out an all points alert for the driver of a tractor-trailer who triggered the accident and failed to stop at the scene.

The dead were identified as Mr. and Mrs. George W. Patrie Jr. The husband was about 70 and his wife approximately 67. Their bodies were burned beyond recognition. The heat of the fire which followed the crash was so intense that numbers on the license plate of their car were melted.

Arms For Cuban Rebels Captured In Florida After 2-County Chase

OCALA, Fla. (UPI) — An auto convoy of arms for Cuban rebels, led by a Miami soldier of fortune and his attractive girl friends ended in the hands of police Wednesday after a 2-county chase.

Federal authorities were called into the case quickly to determine where the arms came from and where they were going.

John P. West, senior patrol inspector of the Border Patrol, said officers found a detailed map of the Ocala Airport in one of the cars. He said he believed the

Union Offer Rejected, TWA Strike Continues

CHICAGO (UPI) — Trans World Airlines turned down a union's strike-settling offer Wednesday and Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa took a hand in the nation's other major air walkout.

The twin strikes against TWA and Eastern Air Lines appeared certain to last through the Thanksgiving holiday season, when an estimated 150,000 Americans had planned to travel by air. Airline sources figured that one third of the nation's domestic airliners were grounded during one of the year's busiest travel periods.

Strikes Averted
Strikes against American Airlines and National Airlines were stayed off at the last minute, although 1,491 American pilots may walk out after Friday. Eastern was also battling to get a court order ending its 3-day-old strike by flight engineers and machinists.

But hopes for a letup in the Thanksgiving air jam took a nose dive when the TWA refused to accept a "compromise" proposal from nearly 7,000 machinists who have been on strike for six days.

TWA headquarters at Kansas City said the offer from the International Association of Machinists was no compromise at all, but "simply reduced to writing the offer made to the company last Saturday and which was found unacceptable."

Negotiations continued for five

Hoffa Joins In

On the other major strike front, an important new figure appeared in the walkout of 550 flight engineers and 7,500 mechanics which has grounded Eastern Air Lines, the nation's busiest air carrier.

The new figure was James R. Hoffa, controversial and powerful leader of the monolithic Teamsters' Union. He revealed that the Teamsters are giving the engineers "moral and financial help in their dispute with Eastern." And engineers president George R. Petty Jr. said he had a promise that Teamster-driven trucks would not cross the union's picket lines to deliver gasoline to Eastern planes.
