

Hawkeye Cagers Win Season Opener 67-46

Sharm's First Big Ten Team Nips Colorado

By LOU YOUNKIN
Sports Editor

Iowa won its basketball opener over Colorado, 67-46 Monday night and Sharm Scheurman's coaching debut was a roaring success as 7,600 fans watched the Hawkeyes completely dominate the Buffaloes from Boulder.

In his first coaching duty since taking over from the late Frank (Bucky) O'Connor, Scheurman's five looked like a polished ball club in midseason form the first half of the contest which saw them build a 39-21 bulge at the intermission.

Play during the final 20 minutes, however, was marked by many mental errors and bad passes by both teams.

Iowa Hits .429

The Hawkeyes wound up with a shooting percentage of .429 after a red hot first half percentage of .522 on 15 birdies in 29 attempts. Iowa managed 12 of 34 in the second half.

Colorado was incredibly cold, hitting nine field goals in each half. The Buffs took 30 shots in the first 20 minutes and 40 in the second half for an overall percentage of .257.

A large bit of credit for Colorado's low percentage must go to a determined Iowa defense, however. Most of the Big Eight representative's attempts were from long range as the Hawks' defense was sharp and short shots by the visitors were few.

80 Straight

It was the 80th consecutive victory by Iowa over a non-conference foe at home. The last time the Hawkeyes bowed to a team other than one from the Big Ten was in 1942 when Kansas took a 53-51 decision.

Dave Gunther, Iowa's high scorer the past two seasons, finished with 15 points to take scoring honors for the night although Clarence Wordlaw was right on his heels with 14. Gerry Schroeder paced Colorado with 12.

Bufs Never Led

The Buffaloes never led during the contest. After tying the score at 2, 4 and 6, coach Russel Walsh's squad fell behind 13-6 and never got any closer. Wordlaw banged in a 15-footer and Nolden Gentry tallied on a long one while Frank Mundt, Bobby Washington

Loveless Lauds Israel Farms

JERUSALEM, ISRAEL (UPI) — Gov. Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa and Israeli Premier Ben-Gurion compared notes on farming in Iowa and Israel, in a 45 minute talk Monday.

Loveless also was received by Mrs. Golda Meir, Israel's foreign minister. They discussed the middle East political situation.

Loveless will dedicate a Iowa-financed re-forestation area in central Israel Thursday. He is visiting here as the guest of the Government and a committee organizing a farmers' convention in Israel next April.

While motoring through the Judean hills outside Jerusalem Monday, Loveless told an aide, "I wish Iowa farmers would come here and see with their own eyes just what Israel farmers are doing."

SUlowans Buy 2,860 Tickets For Rose Bowl Grid Game

The Iowa football team will have at least 2,860 rooters at the Rose Bowl Jan. 1. SUI students bought 2,260 tickets and staff and faculty bought 600 tickets during the three days of sales here.

SUI students have also made 886 reservations for the Student Council sponsored trip to the Rose Bowl. A representative of the travel agency handling the trip said 823 students made reservations the first three days and the remainder signed up during the 1-day extension Monday.

Ticket requests by non-SUlowans began pouring into the Athletic Department Ticket Office Monday. No estimate of the number of letters received was made, but one member of the staff said they were "surprised" by the amount.

Two years ago, when the Hawkeyes went to the Rose Bowl, about 70,000 requests were received for the same number of tickets allotted this year — about 10,000.

The University ticket office sent out non-campus applications for Rose Bowl tickets last Wednesday to regular football season priority groups which include benefactors, "I" Club members, the Alumni Association, and varsity lettermen. This group is limited to two tickets per person.

The victims were Thomas Dakin, 45, and his wife, Betty, 41. They were shot with a .22-caliber automatic rifle. Police said the couple's eldest daughter, Jane, 17, a pretty junior at Mauston High School, "told what happened" but they refused to elaborate on the statement.

Still Tickets For 'Chairs,' 'Soldier'

Tickets are still available for five of the six performances of the University Theater's presentation of "The Chairs" and "The Tale of a Soldier."

The dual program, a blend of music, theatre and dance, will be presented Thursday, Friday, Saturday of this week and Dec. 11-13. Tickets are still available for the Thursday and Friday night performances this week and all of the performances next week, but there are no tickets available for this Saturday's presentation.

SUI students will receive reserved seat tickets for the two plays free of charge upon presentation of their identification cards at the East Lobby Desk of the Iowa Memorial Union from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Wisconsin Couple Shot To Death

MAUSTON, Wis. (UPI) — A well-to-do businessman financier and his wife were shot to death in their home Monday night and authorities questioned the couple's 17-year-old daughter about the shooting.

The victims were Thomas Dakin, 45, and his wife, Betty, 41. They were shot with a .22-caliber automatic rifle. Police said the couple's eldest daughter, Jane, 17, a pretty junior at Mauston High School, "told what happened" but they refused to elaborate on the statement.

Weather Forecast

Warmer temperatures are predicted for Iowa City in the next few days. The recent cold spell reached its end Monday when temperatures climbed above the freezing point for the first time in five days.

Hights today will be in the upper 30s in the east to the upper 40s in the west. The further outlook for Wednesday calls for partly cloudy skies and warmer temperatures.

Decision On IC Utilities In 2 Weeks

The Iowa City Council may reach a preliminary decision within "a couple weeks" on proposed gas and electricity rate increases for the city, Mayor Louis Loria said Monday.

Loria made the prediction at a special meeting of the Council, after a representative of the Iowa-Indiana Gas and Electric Co., Louis Shulman, asked that the Council give some kind of specific indication when it would be ready to express an opinion on the utility rate proposals.

Shulman, an Iowa City attorney, told the Council that the company feels it has now supplied all the information it can on the formula used to arrive at the proposed rates.

The Council has been considering the utility rate question since last February, when the Iowa-Indiana Gas and Electric Co. proposed increases based on a formula used by the Iowa Supreme Court in determining rates for Fort Dodge.

In that case, the Court ruled that a utility has a right to a six per cent return on the "fair value" of its property, and that "fair value" should be computed on the basis of 70 per cent reproduction cost and 30 per cent original cost.

The Council also has a report from a public utilities rate consultant, Dr. John Bauer, who was hired to make an independent study of the question. The Bauer report employs a different formula for determining "fair value," basing the worth of the company's property on 40 per cent reproduction cost and 60 per cent original cost.

The Bauer formula also differs from the company's in the way in which depreciation and working capital are evaluated in arriving at "fair value." It would result in lower rate increases than those proposed by the company.

In figures presented to the Council Monday, the company is asking for a $405,851 hike in electric revenue and a $153,466 increase in gas revenue. This represents a combined increase of 24.2 per cent over present rates.

Fire!

TRAPPED IN A FLASH FIRE, 90 persons—at last count Monday night—lost their lives. The blaze ripped through a Chicago parochial school less than half an hour before it was to be dismissed for the day. There is a suspicion the fire was the work of an arsonist.

Ludwig Among Candidates For U.S. JayCee Award

George H. Ludwig, research assistant in the SUI Department of Physics, is among 50 candidates remaining in contention for one of the Nation's Ten Outstanding Young Men of 1958 awards.

The U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, which makes the awards annually, announced the remaining 250 leading young men representing all fields.

Ludwig, 31, designed and assembled the cosmic ray apparatus for Explorers I, III, and IV. His chief work was a tiny tape recorder—eight ounces, 2½ inches across—which makes it possible to tell the whole story of cosmic rays met in each orbit of the satellites, and which conserves battery power over millions of space miles.

Ludwig grew up on a farm near Tiffin, Iowa. While still in high school, he was regarded as a local expert with radios and other electrical and electronic devices. He was graduated from Tiffin High School in 1946, the valedictorian of his class.

Following graduation he spent six years in the U.S. Air Force, achieving the rank of captain as an electronics specialist. Deciding that a university would give him more freedom than the armed services to pursue his interests, he entered SUI in 1953 and earned his bachelor of science degree in physics in 1956.

While still an undergraduate, in the summer of 1955, he was a member of an SUI Arctic expedition to launch cosmic ray probing "rockoons" 60-70 miles above the waters west of Greenland.

Ludwig had one of the biggest assignments of the International Geophysical Year—the job of "miniaturizing" cosmic ray instrumentation so it would fit within a small satellite. His instrumentation was the major scientific payload for the Explorers.

George Ludwig
Outstanding Young Man

Selection of the ten outstanding men is based on exceptional achievements and contributions to their chosen field or to the community, state or nation.

Nominations for the awards are limited to men below 36 years of age.

A judging committee of nationally prominent citizens will make the final selection of ten men.

The winners, to be announced later, will be honored at the 21st Annual Ten Outstanding Young Men Awards Congress, January 16-17, 1959, in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Host for the event will be the Fort Lauderdale Jaycees.

90 Persons Die In School Blaze

Chicago Fire Takes Lives Of 87 Children

Authorities Suggest Possibility Of Arson

CHICAGO (UPI) — Fire and murderous black smoke mushroomed through an old Roman Catholic parochial school Monday, trapping and killing children at their desks or as they fled through corridors. Ninety persons, 87 of them children, were killed.

As the night wore on, it was feared the final death toll in the holocaust which swept through the Our Lady of the Angels school might reach 100.

Dr. James Seagraves, staff physician at St. Anne's Hospital where 35 of the 96 injured children were taken, said four to six of the youngsters were not expected to last the night. Many of the children's bodies had been broken when they jumped from second story windows, he said. The flesh of others had been seared to the bone.

3 Nuns

The Cook County Morgue, a scene of tragedy and pandemonium where hysterical parents thronged to seek out their young, said it had received the bodies of three nuns, 53 little girls, and 34 boys.

Federal, city and county investigations were ordered into the blaze which caught 1,300 of the school's 1,700 students in a building with only one fire escape just half hour before classes would have been dismissed for the day.

Coroner Walter McCarron said a "blue ribbon jury" would be impaneled today to investigate the causes of one of the worst disasters in Chicago history.

Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn ordered an investigation to determine whether the fire was set by an arsonist. The FBI said in Washington it was working in "close liaison" with the investigation. Meanwhile, a search was ordered for a man reported by a grocery owner to have been loitering about the school.

Once A Church

Police and firemen also investigated reports that a 30-gallon steel drum was found at the base of the stairwell where the fire broke out. Authorities said Monday night they could not confirm the report.

The school building, once used as a church, had portions which were more than 40 years old. Although it had a large English-style basement, it was classed as a 2-story building and fire officials said it lawfully required only the one fire escape. Quinn said the building had been inspected by fire inspectors only a week ago and its fire precautions had been approved.

At the height of the fire, children died at their desks, children jumped screaming from the windows, a nun rolled children down the stairs and a father begged in vain for his little boy to jump into his arms.

In the aftermath, searchlights played across the fire-blackened school. Hysterical parents crowded the street corners, begged doctors in hospital emergency rooms for news of their children, and then went in ashen-faced fear to the morgue basement and to a police station where headquarters were set up for identification of the dead.

The death count jumped by the 10's and 20's. Firemen found 24 children at their desks in one room, their school books open before them. It was presumed that their teacher, knowing escape was impossible through the smoke-filled corridors, had told the children to await rescue. They obeyed and died, apparently when smoke overcame them or when the fire's heat exhausted the oxygen in the room.

1958 Contest For Miss SUI Opens Tonight

The 1958 Miss SUI contest opens today with the formal presentation of the candidates in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

After three days of candidate campaigning, SUI male students will vote for their favorite Friday morning and Miss SUI and her four attendants will be presented at the University Winter Formal to be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Main Lounge of the Union.

Tickets at $4.50 a couple are still available at the Information Desk of the Iowa Memorial Union for the University Winter Formal featuring Louie Armstrong.

Tonight's program will include introductory skits for each of the 26 candidates and will be climaxed by the announcement of the 10 semi-finalists.

The semi-finalists will be chosen on the basis of poise, beauty and personality by a Board of Experts composed of four non-students.

Wednesday morning Iowa City will be transformed into a chaotic campaign center as SUI coeds enthusiastically advertise their particular candidates.

Posters of the various candidates will decorate all of the downtown store windows, and almost every male button hole will be adorned with a slogan as the girls continue their campaign activities through Thursday evening.

The individual skits will be presented in all of the SUI fraternity houses from 5 to 7:30 p.m. both Wednesday and Thursday.

Thursday at 8 p.m. a special skit presentation will be performed for the male dormitory residents and members of the professional fraternities in front of the north bleachers in the Fieldhouse.

Mexicans Pledge Friendship To U.S.

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Adolfo Lopez Mateos, installed Monday as Mexico's 57th President, pledged in his inaugural address to carry out a policy of sincere friendship toward the United States.

The new chief executive stressed foreign relations in his address, delivered a few minutes after he was sworn in for a 6-year term.

He spoke before a distinguished audience of some 3,000, including U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, special delegations from 52 countries, the entire Mexican Congress, Supreme Court justices, all state governors, military chiefs, and many specially invited guests.

A threatened Communist demonstration against Secretary Dulles failed to materialize. At one point, Dulles passed through a narrow cordon of spectators in route to the inaugural and there was some applause. No one made any anti-American remarks.

Lopez Mateos began his first speech as President shortly after outgoing President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines removed the symbolic tricolor presidential sash from his own chest and placed it on Mateos.

Dealing with domestic affairs, Mateos said "poverty and ignorance are two great national problems." He pledged his administration to intensify the struggle to solve them.

A former educator, the new president laid heavy emphasis on education and said he would seek wider distribution of the national income to raise general purchasing power.

He dispelled any concern that might have existed about his government's attitude toward foreign investments with the assertion that Mexico needed new capital to continue its development.

On the international front he said that "Mexico will struggle for concord, cooperation, peace within justice, for non-intervention and for mutual respect among nations."

Geologist To Discuss Oil Deposits

Ralph W. Edie, a Canadian petroleum geologist will lecture on "Limestone Facies and Stratigraphic Traps" today at 7:30 p.m. in the Geology Building lecture room.

His lecture will be the third of a series sponsored this year by the Geology Department at the Graduate College in cooperation with the Distinguished Lecture Committee of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

Many geologists believe that most oil found in the future will be discovered in stratigraphic traps, which are caused by changes in the character and composition of rock units in which oil and gas are found.

There are two general classifications of stratigraphic traps which occur in both sandstones and limestones. The primary type results from variations in the composition of rock units as they were deposited, the secondary type from changes after the rocks were laid down.

Edie will discuss an important type of oil accumulation in secondary stratigraphic reservoirs in limestone, illustrating his lecture with examples from a large stratigraphic trap oil field found recently in Saskatchewan.

Science Academy Offers Research Associateships

The National Research Council-National Academy of Sciences has announced the renewal of a program of postdoctoral resident research associateships open at certain government laboratories and research laboratories and research centers, according to information received by Dean Walter F. Loehwing of the SUI Graduate College.

Associateships are open to citizens of the United States who are qualified holders of a doctoral degree, or with equivalent experience and training, in the fields of biological sciences, physical and mathematical sciences, engineering, psychology, visual psychophysics and the psychology of learning. The candidate must have demonstrated superior ability for creative research.

Location of work for these research associateships is restricted to laboratories of the Air Research and Development Command at Air Force Cambridge Center, Bedford, Mass.; Air Force Missile Development Center, Alamo, N.M.; Rome Air Development Center, Rome, N.Y.; and Wright Air Development Center, Dayton, Ohio. The laboratories will provide necessary supervision, facilities and equipment, and will pay the stipend.

The annual gross stipend is set by a Civil Service schedule and in most cases amounts to $7510. An award winner is expected to devote his efforts entirely to advanced training and research. A research associate may not receive aid from another appointment, fellowship, scholarship or similar grant during the term of his appointment. However, he will be eligible for most of the fringe benefits of federal employees.

All applications are to be received by the Fellowship Office of the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council no later than Jan. 19. These must be accompanied by complete college transcripts, a statement of previous research and a plan of research which the applicant proposes to conduct.

The name of the scientific adviser who will supervise his research and the names of at least four references who are acquainted with the applicant's academic and professional experience must be provided on the application form.

Before the application can be presented to the board of selection, the candidate must present evidence that his problem is acceptable to the scientific adviser under whom he will work at the laboratory of his choice. Applicants may be requested to appear before the board or its representative for a personal interview.

Unless otherwise arranged, tenure begins after July 1, 1959, and continues for one year with provisions for a vacation period. Awards will be announced about April 1.

Requests for application forms or for additional information should be addressed to the Fellowship Office, National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington 25, D.C.

TV Students Study Physics Over Coffee

Some Iowans are getting up before the birds in the mornings this winter to take a television course in college physics with their breakfast coffee.

Each weekday morning from 6:30 to 7 a.m., 90 Iowa students tune in "Physics for the Atomic Age," on their NBC station and begin "taking notes. More than 300 colleges and universities are cooperating with NBC in offering college credit for work completed through the "TV Continental Classroom."

Thirty-one students are enrolled in the first semester of the course at SUI and about 30 each at Iowa State College, and Iowa State Teachers College.

The first semester's basic review of college physics carries three semester-hours of upper level and graduate credit, designed for teachers, engineers and other who may profit by improving their background in physics.

During the next week the lecturer, Dr. Harvey E. White, professor and vice-chairman of the department of physics at the University of California, will lecture to the early risers on angular momentum, rockets, satellites and space travel, and crystals.

An approach to atomic physics will be offered in the four-hour second-semester course, which will begin Feb. 11. Tuition fees are $14 per semester-hour.

Persons wishing to take the second-semester course should have completed either a year of college physics or the first-semester television course. Lesson outlines and enrollment forms may be obtained from the registrar at ISC and ISTC or the Extension Class Service at SUI.

Students send in problem solutions once a week and attend three seminar sessions and take examinations each semester on selected Saturdays. The next seminar and examination will be Dec. 20. Students may take examinations at any of the three Iowa institutions regardless of where they are enrolled.

The television course is supported by the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

Professors Elkins, Stromsten Died During Past Week

Two SUI faculty members, Higdon D. Elkins, professor of radiology, and Frank A. Stromsten, associate professor of zoology, died last week.

Prof. Elkins, 51, died of a heart attack Saturday. He had been associated with the department of radiology in the SUI College of Medicine since 1946. He received his bachelor and master's degrees from Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.

An intern and resident in internal medicine in St. Louis from 1930 to 1932, he then was a resident in radiology at SUI from 1934 to 1942. He practiced in Ely, Nev., and in 1942 he joined the Army Medical Corps, being discharged as a major.

Prof. Elkins was a diplomate of the American Board of Radiology, a member of the Radiological Society of North America, a fellow of the American College of Radiology, a member of the American Roentgen Society, a member of the American Radium Society, and a charter member of the Society of Nuclear Medicine. He was also a member of the county, state and national medical societies.

Prof. Elkins is survived by his wife, Katharine, and his mother. There were no funeral services. The body was cremated. Beckman's were in charge of arrangements. A memorial fund is being established with proceeds going to the American Cancer Society.

Funeral services were held Saturday at Beckman's for Mr. Stromsten, 86, who died Wednesday. He had been a member of the SUI zoology faculty since 1901.

Later services and burial were in Corydon, his birthplace.

2 SUI Iowans At Psychology Meet At Miami Beach

Boyd R. McCandless, director of the SUI Iowa Child Welfare Research Station, and Kenneth W. Spence, head of psychology, are attending a conference on graduate education in psychology sponsored by the American Psychological Association.

Approximately 125 psychologists from all over the nation are meeting in Miami Beach, Florida. The conference, which will continue through Dec. 7, began Nov. 28.

The meeting is a work conference and is a sequel to a conference held 10 years ago in Boulder, Colorado. The Boulder conference was called to begin studying the various aspects of the graduate training programs in psychology departments in colleges and universities in the United States.

Reports of the progress made during the last 10 years in that area, and future plans for psychological education will be the main topic of discussion at the Florida meeting.

General Notices

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 201, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written, and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

THE DAILY IOWAN will issue a special Rose Bowl Edition of 20 pages or more on Dec. 17. For students and faculty desiring to send copies of this edition to parents and friends, The Daily Iowan is making a special offer of three copies for 50 cents, mailed anywhere. Orders containing the three addresses and possess a valid driver's license. For further information come to the Business and Industrial Placement Office Room, 107, University Hall, 12.

ALL STUDENTS interested in seeking positions in business and industry following graduation in February, June or August should pick up registration papers at the Business and Industrial Placement Office, 107 University Hall, immediately. It is especially important that February graduates have their papers completed as soon as possible. Men anticipating military service should be sure to register and take interviews while in school.

BOWLING—WOMEN'S LEAGUE All women faculty, staff and faculty wives are invited to participate. Bowling is on Mondays at 7 p.m.

PLAY NITES at the Fieldhouse will be each Tuesday and Friday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., provided that no home varsity contest is scheduled. Available for members of the faculty, staff, and student body and their spouses are the following: Tuesday nights—badminton, handball, paddleball, swimming, table tennis and tennis. Friday nights—all Tuesday night activities, basketball and volleyball.

RECREATIONAL SWIMMING on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 4:15 to 5:15 p.m. at the Women's Gym.

UNIVERSITY COOPERATIVE BABY-SITTING League book will be in charge of Mrs. Norval Tucker from Nov. 25 to Dec. 9. Telephone her at 8-2800 if a sitter or information about joining the group is desired.

VETERANS: Each P. L. 550 veteran must sign a V. A. form VB 7-1966a to cover his attendance from Nov. 1 through Nov. 30. A form will be available at the window outside Veterans Service in University Hall through Dec. 5. The Veterans Administration advises students not to make a change of address ap-

SUI To Host Collegiate Speech Meet

Nuclear weapons and U.S. relations with Latin America will both be topics of discussion for more than 50 Midwest college students who will attend the annual Intercollegiate Conference on World Problems at SUI Dec. 5 and 6.

Students attending the invitational forensics conference will hold discussion sessions on the question: "How Can We Improve Our Relations with Latin America?" At the opening meeting in Old Capitol.

Debate teams will match their forensic abilities on the proposition: "Resolved: Further Development of Nuclear Weapons Should Be Prohibited by International Agreement."

Professor Orville A. Hitchcock will direct the conference, which is one of two intercollegiate forensics meetings sponsored each year by the University's Department of Speech and Dramatic Art.

Following discussion of the Latin American question and the debates, the entire group will join at two legislative sessions to propose and pass resolutions on the subjects.

Competition in individual speaking also will be held in the following categories: original oratory; extemporaneous speaking; expository speaking and dramatic interpretation.

Speaker at the concluding luncheon of the conference at Iowa Memorial Union will be A. Craig Baird, professor emeritus, speech.

McCroly To Talk At Medical Meet

The Johnson County Medical Society will hear Dr. Wallace W. McCroly, M.D., speak about "Progress and Problems in Pediatrics" at their monthly meeting Wednesday evening.

The December meeting of the Society will be held at 6 p.m. at the Mayflower.

Dr. McCroly is head of pediatrics at McCroly's Hospital.

Bowling Team To Be Selected

Registrations are now being accepted at the Iowa Memorial Union for a place on the National Association of College Unions (NACU) undergraduate bowling teams in both men's and women's divisions.

Twelve men and 12 women will be selected to serve on the NACU teams through local competition beginning in January.

Robert Froeschle, manager of the IMU recreation area, said that regional and national winners will be chosen on the basis of scores sent to the national organization.

Registrations can be made through Dec. 19 at the recreation desk of the Union.

DEATH FOLLOWS SCRIPT

LONDON (UPI) — Actor Gareth Jones was cued into death last night by the lines of his TV script.

Jones, a 35-year-old Welshman, was playing the part of a businessman trapped by a masonry cave-in in a subway station. He fell, gasping that his heart was troubling him. All this was in the script.

But there the script ended for Jones. A moment later he died of a heart attack. The play continued without interruption.

Good Listening—Today On WSUI

DECEMBER MUSIC LIST is available to listeners who are not regular recipients; anyone wishing to receive this month's Guide to Serious Music need only address a card to "Music List", Radio Station WSUI, Iowa City, Iowa. A telephone call to University extension 2171 is sufficient to cause the name of the caller to be placed upon WSUI's permanent mailing list. The December Guide To Serious Music will be particularly useful for those whose enjoyment of the holiday season is partially dependent upon the hearing of good music. WSUI will again maintain a full broadcast schedule throughout most of the Christmas vacation period; and during that time, many moving works of music, as well as some that are pure amusement, will be presented.

MUSIC THIS MORNING: at 9:15, Contemporary Creations for Spanish Guitar, an album of sparkling, new short pieces, with guitarist Laurindo de Musique, a gift of music by his contemporaries from Rossini to his fair lady, sung by Soprano Suzanne Danco; and at 11:15 a.m. selections from the works of the modern composer Malcolm Arnold.

NEWS FROM BRITAIN will be heard at 12:45 p.m., following news from the world in general at 12:30 p.m.

MUSIC THIS AFTERNOON: at 1 p.m., La Mer by Debussy and Grieg's Quartet No. 4 Op. 83; Music from Sweden at 2:30 p.m.; and at 3:30 p.m. Beethoven's Concerto No. 32 in C Minor.

MOSTLY FOR CHILDREN: at 5 p.m. today, Emma Sue Phelps begins reading "The Sword in the Stone." Based on the saga of King Arthur, "The Sword in the Stone" is done in modern dress by Arthur T. H. White.

MUSIC THIS EVENING: beginning at 6 p.m., listeners may hear Piano Concerto No. 20 by Mozart, Enigma Variations by Elgar and Persephone by Stravinsky.

PROFESSOR CONRAD WRIGHT, lecturer and Registrar at the Harvard Divinity School, may be heard at 8 p.m. in a talk delivered recently on the SUI campus: "Rational Religion in 18th Century America." Both a theologian and an historian, Professor Wright is a Carnegie prize winner.

McElroy Skeptical Of Soviet A-Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy said Monday he was highly skeptical of a report that Russia was testing the world's first nuclear-powered aircraft.

He admitted the Soviets might have a slight lead over the United States in that area. But he added that "it would be a surprise to us" if they actually had flown an experimental atom-powered bomber.

"If it is true," McElroy said, "it would be a tremendous jolt to us in this country."

The defense secretary commented to United Press International on a report by Aviation Week magazine that the Russians were testing a huge A-plane and might be planning to fly it around the world several times non-stop.

The Pentagon later issued a formal statement saying that the secretary "does not know if the report is true or not, but he is highly skeptical of it."

"We do not contemplate any change in our program at this time," the statement added.

However, Sen. Gordon Allot (R-Colo.) said the report might hasten construction of a proposed laboratory at Denver to push work on nuclear plane propulsion. He understood this was being studied before the Aviation Week article appeared.

"The story comes as no real surprise," Allot said in a statement, "since the defense and AEC (Atomic Energy Commission) people working in this field have assumed that Russia was making considerable progress."

At Augusta, Ga., White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said he did not know whether President Eisenhower would re-examine proposals to launch a crash program to complete a nuclear-powered U.S. plane.

The President called a meeting of the National Aeronautics Space Council for Wednesday. But Hagerty said he did not know whether the Aviation Week report would be taken up by that policy-making group.

Western circles in Moscow were unaware of any test flights by an atom-powered Russian bomber. Aviation Week, usually authoritative on such subjects, said the craft had been flown over the Soviet capital area.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White said he had no information on the report.

This Government has not announced a contract to build an atom-powered plane. However, General Electric is working on a nuclear bomber engine and convair and Lockheed have been studying designs for the airframe of such a craft.

Educators Here Today, Wednesday

The 43rd annual SUI-sponsored conference on School Administration and Supervision begins here today and will continue through Wednesday.

This year's meeting will be devoted to the public school curriculum.

Included in the 2-day program are observations in the University Elementary School and the University High School, followed by discussions of these observations. Panel discussions and speeches are also scheduled.

Among the educators scheduled to deliver addresses at the conference is George Z. F. Bereday, associate professor of Comparative Education at the Teachers College of Columbia University.

Bereday was born in Warsaw, Poland and received his early training there. He served as a research assistant in the Russian Center at Harvard for some time and recently spent a month in the U.S.S.R. Bereday will talk on the curriculum in European Schools and on European criticisms of American public education.

Speakers from SUI are: G. R. Carlsen, professor of education, and head of the English Department at University High School, Ernest Horn, professor emeritus at SUI, Camille J. Levois, associate professor in romance languages and head of languages at the University High School, T. R. Porter, associate professor in science education and head of the science department in the University Schools, Vernon Price, professor of mathematics and astronomy and head of the mathematics department at the University High School.

F. Eugene Mueller, Superintendent of schools at San Bernardino, California, is also one of the speakers. Mueller received his undergraduate and graduate degrees from SUI.

The conference is sponsored by the SUI College of Education and the Extension Division.

It's rumored the idea for sneaking a girl into the Naval Academy wasn't original with the midshipmen. They just got hold of the plan Hillcrest men have been using for years.

Santa has arrived in Iowa City, but alas not at his usual spot at the corner of Clinton and Washington Streets. This year he is parked in a city lot at a parking meter like everyone else.

Los Angeles has gotten relief from a 4-day smog. For a while we thought they had a new defensive action for Duncan's passing in the Rose Bowl.

Community Theatre To Give O'Henry's 'Gift Of The Magi'

As a Christmas gift to the city this year, the Iowa City Community Theatre will present a dramatic setting of the O'Henry short story classic, "The Gift of the Magi".

Emma Sue Phelps, director of the play, said that the holiday drama will be available to a limited number of area organizations without charge.

The play will be ready for presentation any time after December 8, said Miss Phelps. Any groups interested in performances of the play for Christmas programs may call Miss Phelps at Radio Station WSUI, University extension 2172, or 2171.

An all-student cast will present "The Gift of the Magi". Two of the students will play dual roles and the third will act as narrator, Jim Wilke, A4, Iowa City, will play both Jim and John. Cindy Wilke, (Mrs. Jim Wilke), G., Iowa City, will play Stella and Della, and David Carter, G., Iowa City, will narrate.

The play, one act in two scenes, is a Christmas fantasy Miss Phelps said. It is a contrast between a jaded modern couple and the couple in the play who sacrifice their most prized possessions for each other.

The arrangement of the play was very simple to facilitate presentation in various locations, she said. It will be presented with narration and music, she said, and Christmas carols will be played before and after the performance.

The props for the play will be very simple to facilitate presentation in various locations, she said. Giving the play free of charge to various organizations has become a Christmas tradition with the Community Theatre, said Miss Phelps.

Last year nine performances were given in various places including General Hospital and Veterans Hospital she said. The idea has been very successful in the last two years, she added.

Miss Phelps said she considers "The Gift of the Magi", one of the most beautiful Christmas stories ever written.

Examples of viruses which ordinarily are studied and identified only in the larger centers are those which cause influenza, poliomyelitis, non-paralytic poliomyelitis and psittacosis.

In many cases, Iowa doctors mail specimens to the U.S. Public Health Service laboratories in other states, a procedure which may add several days to the actual time required for laboratory diagnosis.

With techniques learned in the workshops, pathologists in local laboratories will be able to perform much of the diagnostic work which the large centers are now relied upon to do.

The local doctor will receive faster service on identification of the organism involved, and he will have the benefit of direct and personal contact with the pathologist (who is also a medical doctor).

One workshop was held at SUI this fall. The meeting was conducted by Dr. Jack M. Layton, associate professor of pathology; Dr. Albert P. McKee, professor of bacteriology, and Dr. Emory D. Warner, professor and head of pathology, all of SUI; and Dr. Ken Cross, pathologist at Mercy Hospital in Iowa City and president of the Iowa Association of Pathologists.

Growing Recognition

Dr. Layton, who, with Dr. McKee, teaches a graduate course in virology at SUI, says there is a growing recognition of the need for broader service by local pathologists in the identification of certain organisms.

Research such as that which is under way at the SUI Medical Center often produces improved and simplified diagnostic techniques, the scientist explains, and the University, in conjunction with the Association, can help the local pathologist by passing along an understanding of these procedures as they are developed.

The primary aim, of course, is to help the patient, Dr. Layton says. Having laboratory diagnostic services available locally, he points out, aids the physician in making a diagnosis of the patient's disease quickly and correctly.

SUI Diagnostic Services To Aid Iowa Pathology Labs

Three SUI scientists and the Iowa Association of Pathologists have started a program aimed at helping hospital and community pathology laboratories provide broader diagnostic services than have been available locally in the past.

In workshops sponsored by SUI and the Association, private pathologists from all parts of the state will be familiarized with diagnostic techniques which grow out of research at laboratories such as those in SUI's departments of pathology and bacteriology.

No Local Service

At present, when a physician wishes to obtain positive identification of certain viruses, the specimens often must be sent to large laboratories in distant cities.

Identification is important both in the treatment of the patient and from the standpoint of the communities' efforts to control epidemics.

Professor Ray To Explain SUI Computer Center

Ernest C. Ray, assistant professor of physics, will speak today at 4 p.m. at the physics colloquium on the "SUI Computer Center." The colloquium will be held in Room 311, Physics Building.

Ray will discuss his work on computing the properties of the "free" cosmic particle in space.

The computer center, located in East Hall, houses SUI's new $250,000 IBM computer and associated equipment. The computer was installed last September.

Recreation Poll To Begin Today

The League of Women Voters will begin a survey today of 165 Iowa City residents in an attempt to determine the recreational needs of Iowa City.

Mrs. M. Kuhn, president, said the survey will help the League in its study for a proposed recreational center in Iowa City and the facilities which should be included.

The names of the residents to be polled were selected at random. The survey will continue through Dec. 9.

SUIowans Will Attend Georgia Frat Meeting

Two fraternity men and Ronald W. Roskens, fraternity adviser, will represent SUI at the National University Interfraternity Conference in Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 4-6.

The men representing the interfraternity council are Todd Parker, A4, Des Moines, and Floyd Burns, C4, Atlington Heights, Ill.

FELIX UP IN BED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter sat up in bed Monday and is making a recovery from his heart ailment, his office reported. Frankfurter was hospitalized last Monday. There is still no word as to when he may return to the bench.

Strikes continued against two others of the "big four" airlines, Eastern and Trans-World, representing one third of the nation's domestic airlines.

Negotiations between Eastern and the striking flight engineers' union remain deadlocked as the engineers rejected an arbitration proposal. In Kansas City, however, federal mediators were hopeful of a good recovery from his heart ailment, his office reported. Frankfurter was hospitalized last Monday. There is still no word as to when he may return to the bench.

The two appeared on the Ed Sullivan TV show Sunday night. Duncan was the first draft choice by the Green Bay Packers in the National Football League draft Monday.

American Air Line Pilots Ordered Not To Walk Out

CHICAGO (UPI) — A federal judge Monday continued in effect an order prohibiting a strike by the Air Line Pilots Association (ALPA) against American Airlines (AA). The planes of Eastern and Trans-World Airlines (TWA) remained grounded by strikes of other unions.

Judge Frederick Van Pelt Bryan, in New York, rejected the contention of the AFL-CIO Pilots' Union that his temporary restraining order against a walkout by 1,491 American pilots was invalid.

Union attorneys then challenged the court's jurisdiction under the provisions of the Norris-Laguardia Act. Bryan recessed the hearing until tomorrow without ruling on that point. His restraining order will remain in effect until he rules on the request by the airlines for a temporary injunction against the union.

Airlines unaffected by strikes had taken up most of the slack left by the Eastern and TWA walkouts, but a strike against American might seriously hobble the nation's air transportation system.

The pilots have been set to walk out for a week to back up their demands that the third man in the cockpit of jet airliners be a qualified pilot and not merely an engineer.

Hawkeyes Second In Final UPI Football Poll

Grid Coaches Name LSU National Grid Champions

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Louisiana State Tigers, who used a 33-man "first team" to compile major college football's only perfect record this fall, Monday were voted 1958 national football champions by United Press International's Board of Coaches.

Coach Paul Dietzel's Tigers, picked to finish ninth in their own 12-team Southeastern Conference, instead defeated their 10 opponents to win the league title and a Jan. 1 Sugar Bowl date with Clemson. This performance earned the Tigers 29 first-place votes in the final balloting by 35 leading coaches who rate the nation's teams weekly for UPI.

4 Name Iowa

Four coaches gave their first-place votes to Iowa's Rose Bowl-bound Hawkeyes, who finished second in the final ratings. Army, which finished third, received one first-place vote. The other first-place vote went to the Air Force Academy, which wound up eighth. Auburn finished fourth, Oklahoma fifth, Wisconsin sixth and Ohio State, the 1957 champion, seventh. The Air Force Academy, bracketed with Louisiana State as the surprise teams of the campaign, was eighth. Its Cotton Bowl opponent, Texas Christian, was ninth. Syracuse, Oklahoma's Orange Bowl rival, rounded out the top 10.

LSU Polls 331

Louisiana State received a total of 331 points, only 19 shy of a perfect score of 350 in the final voting. The Tigers will be awarded a permanent trophy by United Press International.

Runnerup Iowa, the Big Ten champion, received 275 points and Army 255. Auburn received 224, Oklahoma 174, Texas Christian 74 and Syracuse 64. Only eight other teams received votes in the final balloting. Purdue was 11th with 54 points. It was followed by Mississippi, 41; Clemson, 24; Notre Dame, 22; Florida, 9; California, 8; Northwestern, 6; and Southern Methodist, 2.

1. Louisiana State (29) 10-0 331
2. Iowa (4) 7-1-1 275
3. Army (1) 8-0-1 255

Duncan Uncertain About Pro Football

Iowa quarterback Randy Duncan, the nation's No. 1 football pick in the pro football draft, said Monday he won't decide until after Jan. 1 whether he will play professional ball.

"I'll wait until after the Rose Bowl game," the Iowa passing expert commented. Iowa meets California at Pasadena Jan. 1.

Duncan said his basic desire is to become an attorney and he intends to go after a law degree whether he plays pro ball or not. His thinking, he said, was that he might be able to pursue his law studies along with his pro career. Green Bay, however, is the one pro football city where there is no law school.

"Now that I'm drafted by Green Bay," Duncan said, "I'm going to have to think the whole thing through again. My mind is open on the subject."

Duncan said he had no preconceived opinions as to what professional club he hoped he might play with. He said he will talk the whole thing over with his father and Coach Forest Evashevski.

"They both give pretty good advice," he said.

Basketball—

and Wordlaw added free throws for the 7-point Iowa spree. Scheuerman used his starters less than three-fourths of the game with reserves George Seaberg, Earl Nau and Ron Zagar looking especially effective.

Following the game Scheuerman said he was glad to keep the home-game winning streak going and would have "sure hated to break it the first game out." He added, "I hope it will be intact for another five or six years — at least."

Sharm Satisfied

The congenial Sharm seemed happy with the Hawks' performance but said there was a lot of work needed yet and agreed Iowa made a number of mistakes.

Scheuerman said, "We were getting some good shots over their zone defense the first half but during the second half we had a little trouble adjusting to their man-to-man defense."

Scheuerman said he didn't expect to make any immediate changes in the Iowa starting lineup. He didn't single out any Hawks as mentioning an outstanding game but pointed out that Frank Mundt was improving fast and had become more aggressive.

The Hawkeyes travel to Southern Methodist Saturday and Oklahoma Monday before returning home to face Texas Tech the afternoon of Dec. 13 in a regionally televised game.

Four Cities Bid For Olympics

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Four cities — Brussels, Tokyo, Vienna and Detroit — have applied to stage the 1964 Olympic games, the International Olympic Committee said Monday as the time limit for applications expired.

The Brussels application came at the last moment.

Calgary, Alberta, Innsbruck Austria, and Lahti, Finland have bid for the 1964 Winter Olympics.

The sites of both the 1964 games are to be selected at the IOC's 55th session, opening at Munich, Germany, May 22.

Toyko and Innsbruck are believed to have the best chances, but the 64-member IOC often has taken unexpected decisions.

Duncan 1st NFL Draft Pick

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Iowa quarterback Randy Duncan, selected by the Green Bay Packers, was the No. 1 choice in the annual National Football League draft Monday.

Duncan, 21, pinpoint passer and field brain of the Rose Bowl bound Big Ten champion, was one of 10 players chosen by the pros from the perennially powerful Western Conference.

The Los Angeles Rams reaped the biggest harvest as the pros opened the 1958 college grab bag and dipped in for future stars. The Rams came up with nine players, their regular quota of four plus five secured in trades with other league teams in the past year. Detroit bagged seven and Cleveland and San Francisco five each during the four-hour session.

Duncan is a six-foot 180-pounder. Green Bay hopes he will solve its passing quarterback problem. The downtrodden Packers, 1-8-1 in the NFL this season, had first pick under the draft season which calls for selections from at last to first as of the standings the day prior to the draft meeting.

Duncan led the Big Ten in total offense in 1958, with 1,706 yards in nine games. He completed 101 of 172 passes for 1,346 yards, 11 touchdowns and an excellent 58.7 pass completion percentage. A former Des Moines high school star, Duncan has been the passing scourge of Big Ten opponents the

In Baseball Draft —

Majors Pay $275 Gs For 11

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big league baseball clubs shelled out $275,000 Monday for 11 minor league players after a major realignment project had been completed by the American Association and Texas Leagues.

The draft meeting, official start of a week-long series of conferences among baseball executives, drew a surprise starter when Senator-elect Kenneth Keating (R-NY) addressed the gathering briefly.

"Friend of Baseball"

Introduced by Commissioner Ford Frick as a "friend of baseball," Keating said he hoped some legislation could be passed at the next session to help the clubs, players and the public.

"There is a great need for legislation to prevent harmful decisions of the courts which might spell the end of our team sports," Keating said.

He also said he hoped New York would have a second club soon.

11 Drafted

It had been expected that the price tag of $25,000 on each draftee would cut down on the selections but the total of 11 equalled the 1957 crop. As might be expected, trader Frank Lane, the Cleveland Indians' general manager, was active with two picks. The Chicago White Sox also took two. Nine of the 16 teams drafted players, the other seven passing their turns.

Several of the draftees were somewhat shopworn from previous handling. Glenn (Rocky) Nelson, a perennial minor league batting hero, but a flop in the big time, got another chance from Pittsburgh. It was his second time around with the Pirates. Rocky, who led the International League in hitting, .326, home runs, 43, total bases, 340, and runs batted in, 120, was selected from Toronto. The 34-year-old first baseman has been up before with St. Louis, Cleveland, Brooklyn, Chicago, and Pittsburgh.

Familiar Names

Other familiar names among the draftees were outfielder Jim Pisoni, picked by Milwaukee from the Yankees' Richmond farm after a .313 season; pitcher Art Ceccarrelli, grabbed by the Chicago Cubs from Phoenix after a 10-6 year at Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League; and Johnny O'Brien, one of the Pittsburgh "bonus twins" who was taken as first choice by the Philadelphia Phillies from Rochester of the International League.

Duncan Gets Another Honor

Iowa's passing wizard, Randy Duncan, was named quarterback on the 69th official All-America football team selected by the American Football Coaches Association.

Unlike many All-America teams, this eleven was not dominated by Big Ten players. Besides Duncan, only Sam Williams of Michigan State was chosen.

Dawkins Picked
Billy Cannon, who led Louisiana State to the national football championship and a Sugar Bowl berth, Pete Dawkins, Army, and Nick Pietrosante, Notre Dame, completed the backfield.

Flanking Williams at the other end was Jim Wood of Oklahoma State. The tackles were Hogan Wharton, Houston, and Ted Bates, Oregon State.

Vanderbilt's George Deiderich and Colorado's John Wooten were selected as guards, and Jackie Burkett, Auburn, was named center.

546 Coaches Vote
A total of 546 coaches from more than 150 colleges took part in the balloting which was coordinated by the All-American Board, headed by Charles (Bud) Wilkinson of Oklahoma.

The 1958 dream team, sponsored by General Mills, appeared on the Ed Sullivan show Sunday night.

This 1958 team is the 69th annual selection in the great gridiron tradition originated by the famed Walter Camp of Yale in 1889 which appeared in Colliers magazine until the magazine discontinued publication in 1956. Camp made the selections until his death in 1925 when he was succeeded by Grantland Rice. In 1948 the American Football Coaches Association undertook the responsibility for selecting the team on the basis of on-the-field observations, comprehensive scouting reports and an expert analysis of game movies.

Army May Favor Bowl Appearances

NEW YORK (AP) — Army may fall in line with the other service academies and favor bowl appearances in the near future. The Associated Press learned Monday.

An informed source said there is an element in the Army which would like to see the Cadets participate in post-season games.

The unbeaten Cadets of 1958 were eagerly sought by several bowls.

The strong possibility of a change in the stand by the Army results partly in the "apparent precedent being set by the other service" according to the source.

Wilkins, Arctic Explorer, Found Dead In Hotel

FARMINGTON, MASS. (AP) — Sir Hubert Wilkins, bearded, Australian-born scientist who won international fame by his polar exploits, was found dead Monday in his hotel room. He was 70.

Dr. Irving Weisenfeld said a coronary attack apparently caused death.

Sir Hubert made the first under ice explorations by submarine in the arctic area in 1931. He took the old Navy submarine Nautilus and a crew of retired Navy volunteers on a trip that British experts termed suicidal.

Beck Said He Never Lost A Night's Sleep Over Income Taxes, Don't Worry

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI)—Dave Beck once told the operators of a non-scheduled Alaska Airline in which he had invested that he "never lost a night's sleep" over income taxes a witness testified Monday.

Mrs. Virginia Evans said Beck invested $27,000 in the Golden

North Airways Aug. 2, 1950. After the CCA revoked her license, she went to Beck with a tax problem.

"He told me not to worry about it," she said. He said the Internal Revenue Bureau had been trying to pin something on him for a long time.

Flemming Says Southern Youngsters Have Missed Million Days Of School

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, said Monday Southern youngsters have missed a million days of public schooling because of the "indefensible" closing of their classes to block integration.

Flemming told a news conference that 3,400 children in Little Rock, Ark., and Norfolk, Charlottesville and Front Royal, Va., still were not getting any schooling. He said in a prepared statement that 16,400 students each have missed between 54 and 63 days of public instruction.

Rebel Radio Attacks U. S. Policy Toward Cuba: 'Enough Is Enough'

HAVANA (UPI) — The rebel radio broadcast Monday a new vitriolic attack on United States policies toward Cuba.

The announcer said Fidel Castro, the rebel leader, was "sick and tired" of U.S. Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith's "meddling" in Cuba's internal affairs.

"Enough is enough," the announcer said, adding that the rebels were "tired of being branded as communists by the American State Department."

He warned that "if any (American) Marines land on Cuban soil they would be fought the same as Batista's soldiers."

'I Am Not And I Will Not' Adlai Says Pointedly, But...

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai Stevenson says "I am not and I will not" be a candidate for a third presidential nomination in 1960.

Some talk has persisted of Stevenson as a possible choice of the Democrats, despite the fact he was snubbed under twice by President Eisenhower.

Stevenson's latest views were expressed in a letter to a newsman who had inquired as to his reaction to nomination.

He did not say, however, what he would do if the nomination was again offered to him.

$1.5 Million Gem Theft In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Diamonds valued at $1,500,000 were reported stolen Monday from the vault of a prominent Chicago hotel, and the FBI promptly moved into the case.

The theft was discovered by Charles Stager, a salesman for the New York diamond brokerage of Henry Winston & Co., when he went to place another half-million dollars worth of gems into the vault.

Richard D. Auerbach, agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said the Federal Agency was "up to its neck" in the investigation of the theft from the Congress Hotel.

Police were puzzled how the mounted diamonds disappeared from the vault, because it is inaccessible to the public.

Lt. Charles Pierson of the burglary squad said it looked like a "good gang of jewel thieves" learned about the gems and pulled the theft. Stager also possessed the only key to the jewel case, Pierson said.

The jewels disappeared, Stager told police, apparently sometime between Sunday afternoon and Monday noon.

Stager told police he arrived here Friday, and placed the diamonds in the vault on the first floor of the hotel. Stager said he displayed his gems to several wealthy persons over the weekend, replacing his jewelry case into the vault after a prospective sale.

The salesman added he didn't cater to the usual diamond trade, but generally dealt with wealthy individuals seeking appropriate diamond pieces for gifts.

Way Cleared For De Gaulle's Power Push

PARIS (UPI) — President Rene Coty Monday cleared the way for Premier Charles De Gaulle to become the first "strongman" president of the Fifth French Republic in the wake of his three landslide election victories.

Coty gave De Gaulle an all-clear sign by announcing that he would not stand for re-election in the presidential balloting scheduled for Dec. 21.

The announcement, was issued jointly by the offices of Coty and De Gaulle after a meeting between the two leaders. It said the President "confirmed to the Chief of Government that he does not wish to seek renewal of his mandate."

De Gaulle has not yet stated publicly whether he plans to stand for the presidency.

It was generally expected however, that De Gaulle would inform his cabinet he had decided to climax his career by standing for the presidency.

The presidential voting will be limited to about 100,000 "grand electors"—an electoral college composed of members of Parliament and civic leaders throughout the nation. They will choose France's chief executive for the next seven years.

In the unlikely event that no candidate gets more than 50 per cent on the first ballot, there will be a run-off vote Dec. 28. It was not known, however, whether any other presidential candidates would even stand. If they did, they were certain to be swamped by another De Gaulle tidal wave.

As president under the Fifth Republic's constitution, De Gaulle would have sweeping powers to run the nation.

U.S.: Soviets Back Of Any Berlin Attack

BERLIN (UPI) — Fresh East German demands for control of the allied lifelines to Berlin Monday drew a warning that the United States would defend itself "even at the cost of war."

Informed sources, amplifying a statement made Sunday by Gen. Henry I. Hodes, U.S. Army Commander in Europe, said the United States would defend itself against any Red attack. The sources emphasized the United States felt such an attack highly unlikely at present.

Hodes had said at a West Berlin news conference that any action against the 8,000-man American garrison in Berlin would become a military matter and "I know what I will do."

But the East Germans, capitalizing on Russia's avowed intention of turning West Berlin into a "demilitarized free city," continued to agitate for withdrawal of the Western allies at best and at least recognition from them.

East German Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz denied that there are any existing agreements giving the United States, Britain and France the right to travel to Berlin.

In a speech to the Communist-dominated "national front" in East Berlin, Bolz went beyond previous East German challenges to the Western air and land routes to West Berlin. He said no agreements ever were made on them and none exist now.

"Berlin was a part of the Soviet occupation zone and is a part of the (Communist) German Democratic Republic," he said.

The West does not recognize the Government of East Germany, and any agreement by the allies to deal with the East Germans on the question of routes to Berlin might be taken as implied recognition.

Bolz denied that the Four-Power agreements giving the Western powers and Russia administration of Berlin in any way changed that fact that all Berlin is a part of East Germany.

But informed western sources said the United States had no intention of withdrawing or leaving its troops in Berlin at the Mercy of the Communists.

"The U.S. is determined to defend its troops in Berlin even at the cost of war," the sources said.

They added that if East German forces were to attack, the United States would consider the Soviet Union Party to it and take whatever steps it saw fit.

A Review Of—Flower Drum

—Not Quite A Song
By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The new Richard Rodgers-Oscar Hammerstein musical, "Flower Drum Song" is a charming and pleasant piece for the most part and is peopled with a host of most engaging performers, but don't expect to find it one of the team's overpowering works.

Since the two set their own standards for comparison—and for almost everyone else, too—comparison is unavoidable. It would place the new one well north of "Me and Juliet" and "Pipe Dream," and well south of "Oklahoma!" "Carousel," "South Pacific," "The King and I," and, yes, even "Allegro," despite the fact that the latter was not a popular hit while "Flower Drum Song" is likely to be one.

While there is an occasional delightful song, the score as a whole is not a real solid one that bowls you over with its melodies and lyrics. But you'll be hearing plenty of "You Are Beautiful," "I Enjoy Being A Girl" and "Sunday" in short order, and one of these years "Love Look Away" will be recognized as a beautiful "stand-ard."

A quick opinion is that Hammerstein's lyrics are a cut above the Rodgers' melodies much of the time.

The libretto is by Hammerstein and Joseph Fields, who is co-producer with the songwriters. It is based, rather freely, on C. Y. Lee's novel "The Flower Drum Song," dealing with the clash in San Francisco's Chinatown between an elderly Chinese and his American-raised son about the proper procedure to get a wife for the latter.

There is a flash of humor in the libretto now and then, and more than a dash of "corn" where corn shouldn't be. The main love story has a wistful quality that depends more upon the sincerity of the two performers involved than on the material.

The direction by Gene Kelly is lively and authoritative. Carol Haney's choreography, interpreted by some mighty expert dancers, is an important asset.

The cast is made up largely of persons of some oriental background, and most of them are new to Broadway. Miyoshi Umeki is utterly charming and a delightful singer in a small-voiced way as a picture bride from China. At the opposite pole is hoydenish, big-voiced Pat Suzuki playing a completely Americanized Chinese girl. She can really belt out a song and is a great crowd-pleaser.

Larry Blyden, well known to the stage, is a winner as a hip character in Chinatown.

Activities Planned For Rose Bowlers

A sketch of Rose Bowl-centered activity in California promises a busy holiday for visiting Iowans, according to Loren L. Hickerson, executive director of the SUI Alumni Association.

The party, which is to begin at 6:30 p.m. will feature entertainment in addition to dinner and dancing.

Hickerson has urged Iowans to secure tickets for the event before leaving for California, as accommodations are limited. The tickets, which sell for $7.50 per person, are available in advance only at the Iowa Alumni House.

The annual Dinner for Champions, sponsored by the Big Ten Club of Southern California, will honor the SUI coaches and team at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 30 at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles.

Annual Iowa Picnic
The annual winter picnic of the Iowa Society of Southern California will be held Dec. 31 at Brookside Park in Pasadena, with a program featuring SUI and state officials. There will be no admission fee, transportation and picnic lunches. Iowans and former Iowans attending the picnic will register by counties in which they now live or lived at one time.

Following the game on Jan. 1, an Iowa-Big Ten reception is scheduled at the Biltmore Hotel from 6 to 8:30 p.m. The Big Ten Club of San Francisco and the SUI Alumni Club of San Francisco will co-sponsor the event.

Space On Trains Available
Hickerson said some space is still available on the second Hawkeye special train sponsored by the alumni assn. Reservations, which are open to any citizen of Iowa, will be taken in person or by mail at the Alumni House.

The trains may be boarded in Chicago, Davenport, Iowa City and Des Moines on Dec. 25. They will arrive in Los Angeles on Dec. 28. The train will leave Los Angeles Jan. 2 and arrive in Iowa City on Jan. 6.

The Iowa Alumni headquarters will be at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, Hickerson said. The Alumni room in the hotel, staffed with alumni association personnel, will be open to visitors.

Exhibits illustrating the effect of drugs on an isolated heart of a rabbit, the use of the electron microscope, and a display showing the electrical activity of the brain of a live cat will be part of the Science Day program planned Friday for people interested in science.

Students from 21 colleges along with 350 local school students have been invited to attend the annual Science Day program Friday, sponsored by the Gamma Alpha Scientific Fraternity. Nine exhibits and research demonstrations will be presented by the SUI Departments of Anatomy, Bacteriology, Biochemistry, Botany, Geology, Pharmacy, Physiology, Radiation Research and Zoology.

The purpose of Science Day is to encourage students to continue science study in graduate work at SUI, Dr. A. V. Boccabella, resident assistant at the University Hospitals said.

Students interested in attending the program may register Friday morning in Room 105 of the Medical Research Laboratories, where they will then assemble for a guided tour of the exhibits and demonstrations in the Medical Center.

A $5 penalty is assessed if fees are not paid by the 12th. If the student has not paid his fees by December 20, his registration will be cancelled and he must pay a $10 reinstatement fee.

U.S., Britain, Russia End Wrangling

GENEVA (AP)—The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union Monday began hammering out the opening article of a treaty defining the meaning of a controlled suspension of the nuclear weapon tests.

After a month of procedural wrangling, the world's atomic powers came to grips for the first time with the difficult task of drafting a treaty defining obligations.

East and West agreed that no quick and easy agreement is in sight, but both sides emphasized that the delegations have moved into the substance of the problem.

Up for discussion was a revised opening article of a Soviet draft treaty and a separate first article submitted by U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth.

Exchanges to follow are aimed at getting agreement on the language of the opening article.

The opening article of a treaty usually defines the scope of the obligations undertaken by the signing powers. In the case of these negotiations the United States and Britain insist that the opening article must link the suspension of tests with a promise to cooperate with an international control organization.

Still to be defined are the answers to these major questions: Will the Soviet Union accept an international control system which will meet the West's demands for a tight policing?

Will the United States and Britain continue to insist that a controlled suspension of tests must be organized on a year-by-year basis with its continuation depending on progress in the related field of disarmament?

The Soviet delegate, Semyon Tsarapkin, strode from the conference room and told waiting newsmen that both sides had gotten down to talking about the treaty.

Wadsworth, Tsarapkin and the British chief delegate, Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore, all looked pleased after the hour and 45-minute meeting.

Students Must Pay SUI Bills By Dec. 12

SUI students have until December 12 to pay fees for this month.

Students received bills Monday for housing; University charges, such as student health and dental clinic; and the third installment on tuition, which would be $20 for a resident student in the College of Liberal Arts.

Under the new system of billing, students are able to pay tuition in four installments. Resident students paid $50, the first installment, before registration.

If a student has paid the full amount of his fees, he will still receive a bill, but a credit will be shown in the amount due column. A minus sign after the amount means credit to the student's account.

Leonard R. Brcka, University secretary, said the business office does not consider payments for specific items, but rather payments on account. All charges made to the student by the University are put on the same bill. Rather than receiving statements from each department, the student receives only one bill which he pays monthly.

Brcka said confusion arising from the new system comes because "the students just don't bother to look at their bills." An explanation of the statement is printed on the reverse side of the envelope sent to each student.

Brcka said 150 letters were received by the business office last month from students who did not understand their statements.

He pointed out that this was a small percentage of the 10,500 students enrolled at SUI and the University was not discouraged with the present system of billing. He said most payments were made promptly and in the correct amount.

Brcka said the new system is most easily explained by comparing the University to a large department store. All the departments send their bills to the business office which in turn sends them to the students. This requires the student to make only one payment.

A $5 penalty is assessed if fees are not paid by the 12th. If the student has not paid his fees by December 20, his registration will be cancelled and he must pay a $10 reinstatement fee.

Brooks Victor In Nebraska Governor Race

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The official canvass showed Monday that Democrat Ralph G. Brooks won the Nebraska governorship by 1,555 votes in the Nov. 4 election.

Brooks defeated Republican Governor Victor Anderson who was seeking re-election to his third term.

The vote was 209,869 for Anderson and 211,424 for Brooks.

The canvass showed that another Democrat, Richard R. Larsen, Omaha, won by 2,265 votes over state Sen. J. Monroe Bixler of Harrison for the state treasurer.

The Republicans have taken preliminary steps to a possible contesting of the two races but haven't made a final decision on the matter.

SUI Plans Science Day

Examiner Urges FCC To Revoke Miami TV Permit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A special examiner recommended Monday that the FCC punish a subsidiary of National Airlines for allegedly improper pressure on former FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack by taking away its lucrative Miami television channel.

The examiner, Judge Horace Stern, said behind-the-scenes attempts of Public Service Television, Inc., to influence Mack's vote in the hotly-disputed four-way contest for TV channel 10 "cannot be tolerated."

"It is for this reason, above all others, that Public Service Television is now to be penalized by a revocation of the permit which was previously awarded to it," Stern said.

In urging the Commission to hold further proceedings in the case, Stern said none of the four original applicants for the channel would be disqualified automatically. But he said any improper conduct must reflect adversely against them and weighed against them in any final FCC decision.

Ike Will Face Defense Costs, Space Trouble

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower will preside at high-level Washington conferences Wednesday on defense spending and the future of the Army's space scientists.

Plans for White House meetings of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency and of the National Security Council were announced as Mr. Eisenhower neared the end of a 13-day working vacation at the Augusta National Golf Club.

He will start back to the Capital by plane late Tuesday afternoon for a busy next few weeks in preparation for convening of the new Congress early in January.

The President faces the job of getting along with much heavier Democratic majorities in both the House and Senate as a result of the November elections. He will call in leaders of both the Democrats and the Republicans for conferences later this month.
