Philip F. Morgan Elected To 1-Year Term

By DENNIS BROWN Staff Writer

Philip F. Morgan, professor of sanitary engineering at SUI, was elected mayor of Iowa City Monday...

Morgan succeeds Louis Loria, who has completed a 1-year term of office.

Acts As Chairman

Under present agreement by members of the Council, the office of mayor is held for only the one year term.

Councilwoman Mrs. Thelma Lewis, speaking for the Council, congratulated Loria for doing an able job of chairing the Council and of representing the city to the public.

Morgan, whose term as Councilman expires in a year, was elected to that post in 1955 as a candidate of the Council-Manager Association.

Other Action

With an agenda crowded with business of major importance, the Council in brief:

1. Recommended that electricity revenues in Iowa City be increased seven per cent and gas revenues five per cent...

2. Heard the first reading of a new sanitation ordinance governing restaurants and taverns...

3. Adopted the city budget and a set of wage scales for city employees...

4. Postponed hearing an ordinance submitted by representatives of the American Legion to rezone a tract of land...

Less Than Asked

The recommendations of the Council on utility rate hikes would result in increasing revenues of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co. by $195,000 per year...

The Council figures, recommended by City Manager Peter F. Roan in a memo examining the formulas used in determining the rate base...

Protests Wages

Also appearing before the Council to protest wage scales for city employees was Mel Smith, a representative of street and sanitation workers and Teamsters Local 238.

Weather

Partly cloudy skies with temperatures in the middle 40s are forecast for Iowa City today.

Senate Adopts Anti-Talkathon Rules Change

Shot In Arm To Supporters Of Civil Rights

2/3 Senators Present Can Cut Off Debate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate handed Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson a smashing personal victory Monday night by approving his compromise to end the Senate's fight over anti-filibuster rules.

Capping a 4-day battle, the Senate by a 72-22 vote approved Johnson's proposal to let two-thirds of the Senators present and voting cut off debate.

While representing a setback for stronger anti-filibuster rule, the one finally adopted does improve slightly chances for passage of new civil rights legislation.

In the final showdown, 44 Democrats and 23 Republicans voted for the Johnson plan. Opposing it were 19 Democrats and three Republicans.

After the vote, Roy Wilkins, of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, promptly issued a statement praising the leaders of the liberal bloc for their "gallant effort to secure majority rule" in the Senate.

Johnson's victory rested in the fact that he pushed through the rules change without bringing on a Southern talkathon and at the same time fought off moves by liberals of both parties to relax the anti-filibuster rule still further.

Although the liberals denounced the compromise to the end as a sham, the struggle never quite became the drag-out fight once predicted, mostly because of Johnson's firm control of his forces.

The Senate rejected 67 to 28 a proposal by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (Ill.) and others to let a simple majority (50) of the membership limit debate after 15 days. It also turned down 58 to 36 a second plan, advanced by liberal Sens. Thurston B. Morton (R-Ky.), John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) and Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.), to allow three-fifths of the Senators present and voting to shut off debate.

Settling of the rules fight cleared the way for the Senate to proceed with organizing for the new Congressional session. All other business has been stymied since the Senate convened last Wednesday.

Although neither the liberals nor Southerners could claim any victory in the Johnson compromise, both scored gains.

The liberals did force a relaxation of the anti-filibuster rule, however slight. Some of them had argued the change was so slight as to be negligible, but many of them voted for the plan in the end.

They also scored on another provision of the new rule — that closure (the debate-stopping maneuver) can be applied in debates on rules changes. Heretofore, there was no limitation of debate where rules changes were involved.

The Southerners gained a concession in the third provision of the new rule. It specifies — for the first time in writing — that the Senate is a "continuing body" with rules that carry over from session to session until changed by the membership.

Iowa Legislature Off To A Fast Start

DES MOINES (I) — The 1959 Legislature got off to a fast start Monday with appointment of committees in the House and moves in both chambers to give the public more information about committee meetings.

Speaker of the House Vern Lisle (R-Clarinda), elected and installed during the morning, quickly announced assignments of the 108 representatives to 37 standing and three "select" committees. It was the first time in many years that committees had been announced on opening day.

BOTH HOUSES adopted rules of the 1957 session as the temporary rules of the Assembly, but amended them to give the public freer access to information about committee actions. Previously committee sessions were closed and votes taken were off the record.

In another action, the Senate voted 32-17 to take the power of appointing standing committees out of the hands of Lt. Gov. elect Edward J. McManus (D-Keokuk).

The Republican Senate recently agreed at a joint GOP caucus in Des Moines to let the Committees make appointments to all Senate standing committees. They invited McManus to make Democratic minority appointments.

Sen. George O'Malley (D-Des Moines), Senate Minority Leader, vigorously contested any move to take away the traditional appointive powers of the lieutenant governor.

Sen. Jack Schroeder (R-Davenport), Majority Floor Leader, countered that in the United States Congress the majority party picks a committee majority.

WE OF THE MAJORITY party feel that since the people of Iowa gave us our majority we cannot capitulate and give up responsibility bestowed on us," he said.

In naming the House committees, Lisle said he had tried to place each member "where I felt he was best qualified."

He said he tried to maintain as nearly as possible a ratio of about six Republicans to four Democrats on each committee. This is approximately the same as the party split in the House.

Omaha's Bail To Speak At Graduation

President Philip Milo Bail of the Municipal University of Omaha, will be guest speaker at the midwinter SUI Commencement Feb. 7.

The Commencement exercises will be held in the SUI Fieldhouse, starting at 10 a.m.

Bail graduated from Missouri Valley College, Marshal, Mo. in 1920. He served as principal of University High School while enrolled for graduate study at SUI, where he earned a M.A. degree in education in 1928 and a Ph.D. in philosophy in 1931. He was awarded an L.L.D. by Missouri Valley College in 1947.

Midwinter Commencement will end SUI's first semester, with registration for second-semester classes to start Feb. 9 at 8 a.m. Classes will open Feb. 11 at 7:30 a.m.

Final examination week for the first semester will begin Friday, Jan. 30, and close at 5:30 p.m. Feb. 6.

SOME STONE-AGE entertainment will be provided by SUI students in "Varsity Varieties," all student-show to entertain high school students who will be attending Old Gold Days at SUI Friday and Saturday.

400 Register For University Old Gold Days

Almost 400 high school students have registered to attend SUI's weekend in their honor, Old Gold Days, January 16-17. Bill Sutton, A3, Red Oak, chairman-director of the event, said Monday that he expects to receive additional registrations this week.

The deadline for high schoolers to sign up was Friday, Jan. 9, but requests for late registrations have been received by the Old Gold Days student board, Sutton said.

The weekend, which is designed for outstanding high school students, will focus upon SUI's academic program, but the visitors also will be treated to a glimpse of extra-curricular activities.

Social activity for the high schoolers will be centered in the Iowa Memorial Union Saturday. The Union Board will play host at a dance, "Union Showcase," from 8:30 p.m. until 11:30 p.m. Three bands will play for the evening: Shirley Porter in the Main Lounge; Bob Watson in the River Room; and Jim Wilke in the Gold Feather Room. The bands are sponsored by the Recording Industry Trust Fund.

SUI students as well as high schoolers are invited to attend the dance. There will be no admission charge.

During the same hours Saturday evening the Union will hold an informal open house for visiting students.

All student religious organizations on campus will be open to the students from 7-10 Friday.

A trip to the SUI Fieldhouse is also on the agenda for interested visitors. The high schoolers will be admitted free to see Iowa challenge Michigan State in a swimming meet here Saturday afternoon.

Following the meet, the Dolphin Club will show off its skill in a short water show for the high school students and administrators.

Four performances of Varsity Varieties, SUI student talent show, are scheduled for 7 and 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights in Macbride Auditorium. All of the shows are open to Old Gold Days guests, SUI students and faculty and Iowa City residents.

Prof. Miller Lectures To SRO Crowd

First the janitor at Old Capitol couldn't find enough chairs to fill the Senate Chamber for the Humanities Society lecture Monday night. When the chairs were finally rounded up, there were still too many people waiting to fill them.

Charles T. Miller, professor of English, analyzed what he loosely defined as the "long, short story."

The long, short story is a work of fiction with 25,000 to 50,000 words, Miller said.

Conrad, Faulkner

Instead of giving a brief condensation of a number of works that fit this classification, Miller concentrated on two long, short stories: Conrad's "The Heart of Darkness" and Faulkner's "The Bear."

In evaluating the two stories as works of art Miller said he felt that "The Heart of Darkness" was superior to "The Bear."

The themes of the two stories, Miller said, bear certain likenesses. Three important comparable parts are the magnitude of the stories, the universal theme of nature versus civilization, and the long trial of the main characters to achieve a chosen goal.

Wider Horizons

Conrad, said Miller, has wider horizons in showing magnitude than Faulkner. Miller stressed the fact that Conrad uses no obvious repetitions of other authors in either structure or example.

Both authors show the immensity of the earth, Miller said. Conrad's setting is in the Belgian Congo, which, as he quipped, "is even larger than Texas, the second largest state in the United States."

Faulkner also emphasizes the earth's size by his references to the bigness of the woods in the chase for the bear. The trials of the main characters in the stories constitute a life-long conduct which is based on the individual ethical choices, he said.

Breeze Through Finals? Here's Help

By MARY JANSS Staff Writer

How would you like to be able to breeze through a final test, alert and well rested because of a good night of solid sleep?

No, its not as impossible as it sounds. Many students with a slow or medium reading rate find themselves plodding through hundreds of pages of test material the night before a big final. The effect is often foggy minds, coffee nerves, and low test grades.

The SUI Reading Improvement Program is designed to aid slow readers in increasing their rates of speed and comprehension. Since it was organized in 1944, hundreds of SUI students (and even some faculty members) have doubled or tripled their reading rates.

The reading program, which is directed by William Eller, associate professor in the College of Education, is non-credit and voluntary.

Mrs. Eloise Snavey, instructor in charge of the reading improvement laboratory, said that the course is unusual in that grades, as such, are not given, and that little outside homework is assigned. "The reading course is often suggested to students by their instructors," Mrs. Snavey pointed out. She added, however, that the results of their reading work have no effect upon the class grade given by the instructor.

She also explained that in order to maintain such a course, the students must be both enthusiastic and have a sincere desire to improve their reading rate.

Mrs. Snavey explained that poor reading habits are the main problems to overcome in such an improvement program.

"Many of our students have developed the habit of reading material word-for-word," she said. The reading course attempts to break this habit, and train the student to read complete phrases instead of separate words.

She explained that some readers may read complete phrases, but have the habit of pausing after each phrase. Some students also may have "regressive eye movements," which means that the reader may read a certain word or phrase, and then jump back to a preceding word or phrase.

Another reading fault, according to Mrs. Snavey, is the habit of "vocalizing." This means that, as each word is read, the student himself, or forms the word with unconsciously says the word to his lips.

The reading improvement lab, which is located on the second floor of Old Armory Temporary, is well equipped to help slow readers improve their reading habits. Lab facilities include reading accelerator machines and special films. Both are designed to allow each individual student in a class to have a chance to eliminate poor reading habits.

In using the accelerator, the reading material is inserted in the machine and a time-regulated shutter slides down the page at a speed previously determined by the reader. By gradually increasing the speed of the shutter, the reader forces himself to try to read faster.

The films used in the reading improvement lab were designed and produced at SUI. They consist of a page of print which is focused on the screen. The student then reads from this "page" as the phrases become lighted. Since only one phrase is lighted at a time, the student must learn to read with the speed at which the light is moving.

Mrs. Snavey and the two other reading lab instructors, Mrs. Carolyn Foster and Douglass Bolling, also make use of timed readings for their students.

Through timed readings, students may compute their exact reading rate. Each student in the class is given the same amount of reading material, and reads the selection at his own speed. After he has completed his reading, he records the time he has taken and then is able to compute his rate.

Although the films and timed readings may appear to be primarily speed tests, Mrs. Snavey explained that the course encourages speed only with adequate comprehension.

Moderately Difficult "That is why we use material of only moderate difficulty," she added. "Material which is extremely difficult for a student always will need to be read more slowly, especially for adequate comprehension."

Mrs. Snavey explained that the average reading rate for a student entering the course is about 220 words per minute. The student is expected to have about 80 per cent comprehension of the material he reads. After repeated work during the six week period with the accelerator machines, films, and timed readings, many students may be able to raise their rate to 500 or more.

Cut Study Time "Students tell us," Mrs. Snavey concluded, "that the course has helped them read more efficiently, and cut down on their study time. This is not a study course in itself. But, with increased reading efficiency, a student will probably study more efficiently."

Anyone interested in the reading improvement program may obtain further information for next semester at 35-A, Old Armory Temporary.

SUI STUDENTS WHO used the reading improvement program aren't worrying about trying to catch up on their studying before semester tests. One of the devices used in the reading program is a reading accelerator (shown above) which moves down the page and forces the student to read faster.

Research Can Be Fun

The late Wilson Mizner once said, "If you steal from one author it's plagiarism, if you steal from more than one it's research."

Therefore, today's column deals with research on the Rose Bowl Game from the New York World-Telegram & Sun. The Sporting News, the Dewitt Observer and the Daily Californian.

Commenting on Iowa's 38-12 win over California in the 1959 Tournament of Roses classic, Joe Williams of the World-Telegram & Sun said:

"The Rose Bowl ran true to form. The price-makers had Iowa winning by 18 points, the widest spread of the day. They won by 26. California was a soft touch. If this futility continues, the Rose Bowl may yet attract the attention of Floyd Patterson's manager."

Rube Samuelsen of the Sports-In News put it this way:

"One of the worst mismatches in Rose Bowl history. . . . The equal of any Big Ten team (Iowa) ever sent to Pasadena. . . . One of the finest college offensive elevens in years. . . . A score which might have mounted to 50 to 0, or more, had the winner been of a mind to do so."

The competition is so one-sided that the Rose Bowl teams should toss in the sponge or, at the least, quit playing the admittedly superior Big Ten champions.

What took place was devastating. The Hawkeyes outclassed the Golden Bears as the Baltimore Colts might trample—well say Marquette."

Bob Parrott of the Dewitt, Ia., Observer said:

"An enjoyable afternoon was doubtless spent by many Iowans watching the New Year's Day football games on television.

Like others, we were most interested in watching the performance of the fabled LSU team, rated No. 1 in the country, ahead of Iowa, with a 10-1 record. The opportunity to see both teams in action on the same afternoon was most enlightening and, frankly, confirmed our perhaps biased belief that Iowa is the better of the two teams.

The southern viewpoint of Iowa's and Big Ten football is rather caustically indicated in an issue of the Jackson (Miss.) Daily News, dated Dec. 26. . . . Here's one comment: "Some northern newspapers are unhappy because Louisiana State University's unbeaten football team was voted the nation's best. These newspapers. . . are not concerned with LSU's fine record but are miffed because the honor goes to a southern school. The South can hardly expect fair treatment on anything from these newspapers. That's why a large segment of the population in the North has received more misinformation than truth about many happenings in Dixie."

Here's another that ought to curl hair on the back of your neck, this from a sports column headed "Bows just aren't the same anymore." It reads thusly:

"And the Rose Bowl—who is in that one? The University of Evanshewski and some bush league bunch from the West Coast. . . . Read where Tug Wilson is concerned about who'll do the milking back in Iowa because all the Evanshewskis are headed West. One more illustration that the farmer is making money hand over fist from the government. When they learn to put cows in the soil bank, the Evanshewskis will have no worries at all."

The Iowa-LSU game will never be played and, for the sake of the South's general temperament and their frightful inferiority complex, it's just as well. The sight of fellows like Bobby Jeter and Willie Fleming, both Negroes, running through their favorites would probably be too much for them to bear."

Well said, Mr. Parrott, well said, Mike Berger of the Daily Californian summed up his school's loss thusly:

"The score was different, but the song lingered on. Iowa's football team not only gave a brilliant demonstration of its superiority over the best the west could offer on Jan. 1, but also gave strong indication that this might hold for the rest of the nation, too."

"A record breaking offense led by a horde of fast running backs ran through California defenses and carried Iowa to an overwhelming 38-12 triumph. No better example of simple superiority of one team over another could be set forth than the 1959 Rose Bowl game."

Aside from the 48 points tossed in by Taylor and Jackson, John Wessels had 18 for Illinois and Al Gosnell added 10.

Iowa had five scorers in double figures. Dave Gunther was high with 19 followed by Clarence Wordlaw's 18 and Nolden Gentry's 16.

Kansas Whips ISC; Undefeated In Big 8

AMES (AP) — An overpowering Kansas team jumped to an early lead and rolled to its third Big Eight Conference basketball victory Tuesday night, swamping Iowa State, 69 to 48.

Undefeated in the league campaign, the Jayhawks chalked up this one without the services of their top scorer, Ron Loneski, who hurt an ankle in Saturday night's 69-62 victory over Missouri.

But Al Donoghue, a 6-5 junior who went in for him, did a commendable job leading the scoring with 19 points.

Kansas used a shifting zone defense that the Cyclones couldn't penetrate and they seldom got off a clean shot except in the first half in which they shot 42 per cent to the Jayhawks' 29.

But in that period Kansas committed only four fouls and collected handsomely on Iowa State miscues to lead 32-29 at the intermission.

In the second half it was a run-away for Kansas. The Jayhawks tallied 35 points while the Cyclones could get away only 7 field goals and netted only 17 points.

IBC KO'd By Supreme Court; Operations Called Monopolistic

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday upheld the decision breaking up the International Boxing Club's fight-game empire because of its monopoly on championship bouts.

On a 5 to 3 vote the court upheld a lower court decision which found that the IBC violated the anti-trust laws and ordered its dissolution in New York and Chicago and its complete divorcement from the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

Monday's ruling is expected to cause at least one of the two weekly nationally-televized fights to be staged by a new promotional organization.

James D. Norris, former president of the IBC and still controlling head of the organization, was ill at his home in Coral Gables, Fla., and had no immediate comment.

However, at London, Truman Gibson, new IBC president, said, "of course the IBC will comply with the Supreme Court ruling to break up the monopoly."

The court ordered that the decision and directive of New York's Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan be carried out. Judge Ryan had ruled on March 8, 1957, that the IBC's tie-up of title fights and champions constituted a monopoly. And on July 2, 1957, he ordered the IBC empire broken up.

Judge Ryan's decision was upheld in its entirety. Justice Tom Clark, speaking for the majority said that if some of Ryan's proposals prove to be too harsh, the defendants could ask the New York District Court to soften them.

Besides Norris, the defendants were the International Boxing Clubs of New York and Chicago, the Madison Square Garden Corp., and IBC Director Arthur M. Wirtz. They appealed to the Supreme Court after Judge Ryan against them.

Ryan ordered Norris and Wirtz to sell all of their Madison Square Garden stock within five years and to resign as directors and officers of the Garden. He also directed that the New York and Chicago boxing clubs be dissolved.

"I think I'll be able to play this season," said Schoendienst optimistically. Red's doctors, however, were not optimistic. Even with his rapid progress, they doubted he would be on the field this season.

Brown, Voted Top 1958 Pro Player, Praises Linemen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jimmy Brown, whose explosiveness on the gridiron belies his modesty off it, Monday credited the Cleveland Browns' line for earning him the vote of an Associated Press panel of experts as pro football player of the year.

The 22-year-old Brown won AP's top player honors for the second successive year. He smashed the existing ground gaining record of 1,146 yards set by Philadelphia's Steve Van Buren in 1949 by rushing for 1,527 yards and scoring 18 touchdowns. His scoring output was double that of 1957.

Brown won 22 of the 41 votes cast, followed by Baltimore's quarterback Johnny Unitas, who got 15. Other votes were divided among quarterback Bobby Layne of Pittsburgh; halfback Lennie Moore of Baltimore and New York Giants lineman Sam Huff and Roosevelt Grier.

In another award Monday, Gino Marchetti, pile-driving defensive end of the Baltimore Colts, was named 1958 lineman of the year in the Associated Press poll.

The six-foot, four-inch, 240-pound blockbuster earned the honor in competition with 11 other outstanding linemen. He received 15 of the 41 votes, three times the total of linebacker Sam Huff of the New York Giants, who was runnerup with five.

Baltimore tackles Gene "Big Daddy" Lipscomb and Jim Parker received four votes each the same total as New York defensive end Andy Robustelli. Giant tackle Roosevelt Brown got three votes.

Miller Chosen Detroit Coach

DETROIT (AP) — The University of Detroit, determined to get back into the national football limelight it enjoyed under Gus Dorais, reached into the Big Ten Monday for a new head coach.

He is Jim Miller, defensive line coach of the Purdue Boilermakers the last four seasons.

Miller, 38, learned his football under Paul Brown at Massillon Ohio High School where many gridiron greats have had their beginnings.

Terms were not disclosed. The one-time Purdue lineman, whose only previous college head coaching experience came during two seasons at Niagara University, replaces Wally Fromhart Dec. 2 after his 1958 team produced a 4-4-1 record.

Jerry Burns, SUI backfield coach, was also under consideration for the position, but asked that his name be withdrawn Friday.

Vossler Wins Tijuana Open; New Record Set

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Ernie Vossler of Midland, Tex., cut loose with a blast of birdies on the last nine holes Monday and won the $20,000 Tijuana Open Golf Tournament.

The 30-year-old Texan finished with a 68 and a 72-hole score of 273, shattering the tournament record of 280 set a year ago by Dutch Harrison.

Vossler picked up a check for $2,800. He led the rest of the field by two or more strokes.

Irate Commuters Storm Train

STAMFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Several hundred enraged commuters, thrown far behind schedule by wreck-caused delays on the New Haven Railroad, ripped up part of a four-foot-high iron fence today and stormed the New York-bound State of Maine Express.

Many of the several thousand commuters milling in the station had waited more than an hour when the express arrived.

Scores of commuters leaped from the station platform and rushed toward the Express. Some tossed brief cases over the fence barrier and climbed over. One man pounded the fence with a wrench. Others joined him and they succeeded in tearing down about eight feet of the fence.

Egan At It Again; Floored In Hospital After Fracas

AURORA, Ill. (UPI) — Battling Mayor Paul Egan traded punches with a bouncer in his own City Council chambers Monday. The mayor went down for an eight-count and retired to a hospital.

Witnesses were unable to determine whether Egan was felled by a hay-maker or slipped to the floor when he missed one of his own.

It was a normal development in the life of Mayor Paul. In the last few months he has landed in the city lockup twice and has made York parrot as Aurora's police unsuccessful attempts to hire a red-haired publicity woman and a New chief.

Just as the town's police department has ignored Egan's order firing the lot of them, the mayor ignored a motion to eject him from the city council meeting "for disorderly and disgraceful conduct."

Council Sergeant-at-arms H. M. Halbesma enforced the order and things reached the punching stage after Egan broadcast his opinion of Halbesma ("you big slob").

It took a police captain and three officers to pry the combatants apart. The council meeting went on while Egan took a car to St. Charles Hospital. An attendant there said the mayor "appeared to have been beaten up."

Supreme Court Will Hear Negroes' Civil Rights Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to rule on a civil rights case brought by six Negroes who were sentenced to 30 days in jail for trespassing when they tried to play golf on a public course at Greensboro, N.C.

The Negroes were arrested at the Gillespie Park Golf Club Dec. 7, 1955, after they paid 75 cent fees and started out on the course despite orders to leave. The course, once city-operated, had been leased by Greensboro so it could be run as a public — but not municipal — course for whites only.

The court now will hear arguments on the Negroes' appeal and hand down a written opinion later. In a second civil rights case, the court refused to hear a Savannah, Ga., Negro woman's challenge of racial segregation in federally-aided public housing. Mrs. Queen Cohen's appeal was rejected in a brief order. Two lower courts ruled that technically she had no right to sue.

The Court, at its first session in three weeks, also ordered the International Boxing Club to break up its monopoly of championship fight and other big bouts. On a 5 to 3 vote, it fully upheld a lower court order which laid down a series of steps the IBC must take to comply with the anti-trust laws.

Judge Ignores Federal Order In Alabama

CLAYTON, Ala. (UPI) — A defiant Alabama judge ordered by a Federal court to surrender vote records to the Civil Rights Commission gave them to a grand jury instead Monday. The grand jury also refused to give them up.

The grand jury decided to hold the records in its custody past a deadline set by a Federal judge in Montgomery. Circuit Judge George Wallace recessed the grand jury until Thursday at its request.

The Federal judge last Friday ordered Wallace to produce the Barbour County records for the Civil Rights Commission by tonight. Wallace told the grand jury Monday he is "willing to face the consequences" if his action brings a contempt citation. He said he no longer has control of the records.

Agents Declined Offer
The grand jury said it had offered to permit Civil Rights agents access to the records during the course of a grand jury investigation, but that the agents refused. It was reported that Wallace planned to take similar action in Bullock County today. Civil Rights investigators are seeking to inspect vote registration records in Barbour, Bullock and Macon Counties in efforts to determine if Negroes were denied voting rights.

Barbour County circuit clerk James Teal said he expected the grand jury would continue studying the records through Wednesday although 3 p.m. today is the deadline given Wallace by Federal judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. to surrender the records. Johnson has set a hearing in Montgomery on Wednesday to see whether his order has been obeyed.

May Jail Judge
Spokesmen indicated that if Johnson considers Wallace's action a violation of his court order he may cite the circuit judge for contempt and order him to jail. In Washington, a Civil Rights Commission spokesman said the dispute now is between Wallace and the Federal judge.

The Barbour grand jury went behind locked doors at 9:53 a.m., ostensibly to consider whether to produce the records for Federal investigators.

"The grand jury is a supreme, inquisitorial body over which a judge has no control," Wallace said. "I impounded the records Oct. 29 after receiving several complaints of election fraud in the spring Democratic primaries. I made the records available to the grand jury because of this and I told the jury it has complete control."

Symington Challenges Nixon To Compare U.S., Russian Missile Strength

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) challenged Vice President Richard M. Nixon to issue a public percentage comparison of U.S. and Russian missile strength Monday. Otherwise, he said, he would do so himself.

Nixon did not reply to Symington. But he has passed word to Senate associates that he believed the Administration's missile and space programs could stand any democratic scrutiny because the United States led Russia in overall military strength.

Symington, one-time Air Force secretary in the previous Democratic Administration, based his challenge on reports, the vice president had said this country was ahead of the Russians in military ballistic missiles.

In talking with Senate friends, Nixon emphasized he never referred to U.S. missile superiority in terms of numbers but in rate of development. He feels that while this country lags now, it is moving faster than the Soviet Union and will catch up.

Rescuers Reach Missing Globemaster In Alaska; All 9 Aboard Dead

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Wreckage of a missing C124 Air Force Globemaster was reached by rescuers Monday high on an Alaskan glacier. There were no survivors among the nine men aboard. The crippled cargo plane crashed late Sunday while trying to reach the airfield at Homer, beyond the Kenai Peninsula mountain range it failed to hurdle. The wreckage was sighted by a civilian pilot in mid morning.

Defeated Portuguese Presidential Candidate Given Asylum In Embassy

LISBON, PORTUGAL (UPI) — The Brazilian embassy early Monday granted political asylum to defeated Portuguese presidential candidate Humberto Delgado, who said he was in danger of arrest.

Delgado, an opponent of Prime Minister Antonio Oliveira Salazar's Government, fled to the residence of Ambassador Dr. Alvaro Lins Sunday.

29 Major U.S. Petroleum Firms To Stand Trial On Anti-Trust Charges

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Twenty-nine major U.S. petroleum companies must stand trial on anti-trust charges, a federal judge ruled Monday, but he told Government trust-busters to appear in advance exactly how they think the firms conspired to fix prices.

U.S. District Judge Royce H. Savage rejected an oil industry motion to dismiss the charges and ruled the case must proceed.

'Mothers Shouldn't Be Stripping' Even At $200 A Week, Husband Claims

CHICAGO (UPI) — Martin Kritzberg, 45, went into court Monday with the plea "I'm tired of all this monkey business. Mothers shouldn't be stripping."

He asked family court to declare his estranged wife, Charlotte, an unfit mother so he could place their 22-month-old son, Ira, in a foster home.

Charlotte, Kritzberg, said, is billed as an exotic dancer at a saloon on Chicago's Wilson Avenue nightclub strip.

"You know what this is, don't you?" he asked. "That means she strips."

"I had to go to work to support him properly," she said. "I had to hold up my end."

Charlotte makes good money at her profession, Kritzberg admitted. "With $125 a week and 20 cents every time a customer buys her a drink, she makes about $200 a week," he said.

Rep. Charged With Defraud In Signal Corps Depot Deal

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Rep. William J. Green Jr., Democratic party chairman of Philadelphia, went on trial with six others on charges of conspiring to defraud the Federal Government Monday in a politically potent case that may last as long as six months.

The defendants, with a "million dollar" battery of legal counsel behind them, are charged with conspiring to defraud the Government in construction of the $33 million army signal corps depot at Tobyhanna, Pa.

The indictment charges that Green, an insurance broker, obtained about $20,000 in surety bond commissions from contractors and sub-contractors. It said he received 30 per cent fee instead of the customary 20 per cent and that he also accepted a $10,000 bribe.

Faculty, Staff Publications Being Shown

The 1958 publications of faculty and staff members which include books, pamphlets, and magazine articles are now on display in the exhibit hall of the SUI Library throughout the month of January.

Among the 130 outstanding works shown in this exhibit are those of SUI President Virgil M. Hancher who contributed three speeches to the exhibit entitled "What Makes A Great State Great," "Perspective on Teacher Education," and "The Challenge We Face."

President Hancher has also written an article appearing in the April issue of The Pharos entitled "Medical Research in a University Setting."

Another contribution worth considerable recognition is that of James A. Van Allen who has several books in the exhibit on the Observation of High Intensity Radiation By Satellite 1958 Alpha and Gamma; and New Rocket Measurements of Ionospheric Currents Near the Geomagnetic Equator. The exhibit also contains an article from Life Magazine (Feb. 17, 1958) about Van Allen called Explorer's News From Space.

From the romance language department the exhibit contains a number of works by Alexandre Aspel who has both French and Swedish publications. Last November Aspel had honor attributed to him in an article entitled Homage to Alexandre Aspel on the Occasion of His 50th Birthday by Ants Oras, a professor at the University of Florida. This work appeared in Mana, the Estonian Literary Quarterly.

Also highlighting the exhibit are the works of the following: Kinsey A. Anderson, David A. Armstrong, Robert H. Allen, Marcus Bach, A. Craig Baird, Samuel L. Becker, Harold P. Ever meet a pessimist?

He sees the world through dark glasses. He just knows that he'll wind up in a job he doesn't like, that he'll be underpaid, that he'll get lost in the crowd. But realistic men know these things depend largely on their own decision in choosing a career.

Realistic men look for companies that provide sound training, advancement opportunities, challenging work, stimulating associates and good pay. These are the fundamentals that insure success and progress in a career.

The Bell Telephone Companies offer these fundamentals to hard-working, ambitious realists majoring in the arts, the sciences, business or engineering. Get the whole story regarding telephone careers. Talk with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus. Ask him about training, advancement opportunities, salary, job security. We think you'll like what you learn.

You can also get information about telephone careers by reading the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office.
