Castro Halts War Crime Trials

Spring Exam Scare Causes New Tests, Stricter Proctors

JOHNSON COUNTY'S FIRST TRAFFIC FATALITY OF 1959 was recorded Tuesday morning as Emmett H. Berkey, 60, River Junction, was killed in a 3-car wreck near Lone Tree. Officials shown removing the body are, left to right: Dr. George D. Callahan, Johnson County coroner; Dave Cook, deputy sheriff of Johnson County; and Harold Wright, Lone Tree constable. The other two men in the picture are unidentified.—Daily Iowan Photo by Jerry Mosey.

County Auto Toll Gets Early Start

Johnson County got an early start toward equaling the 1958 traffic toll of 21 Tuesday morning when Emmett Harley Berkey, 60, of River Junction, was killed in a 3-car smash-up on Highway 22 three miles west of Lone Tree.

The mishap occurred on a straight stretch while the highway was still shrouded in early morning fog. Berkey's automobile collided with a westbound car driven by Bruce Keeler, 27, of Lone Tree. Keeler was reported in "fairly good" condition at Mercy Hospital in Iowa City late Tuesday.

The driver of the third auto, T. D. Weckel, 33 of Davenport, was not seriously injured.

According to officials investigating the accident, the Weckel car, was moving east behind Berkey's vehicle. It apparently struck the right rear end of the Berkey's car, causing it to swerve into the path of the westbound vehicle.

Visibility at 7:20 a.m., the time of the mishap, was less than one block according to officials. Weckel told authorities that he did not see the Berkey automobile in time to avoid the initial collision.

Services for Berkey are pending at the Sorden and Adams funeral home at Lone Tree.

Lawrence Winters Concert Tonight

Lawrence Winters, opera and concert stage performer on two continents, will present the second concert in the Civic Music Association's annual series in Macbride Auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight. Admission is by season ticket only.

The program will include "Sciaciatà dal suo nido" from "Rodelinda," "Where'er You Walk" from "Semele" and "O Rudder than the Cherry" from "Acis and Galatea" by Handel; "Pilgrim's Song" by Tchaikovsky; and "To the Children" by Rachmaninoff.

Winters will also sing works of Strauss, Wolf, Giordano, Hely-Hutchinson, Copland, Henriquez, Villa-Lobos, and two arrangements by Thomas Kerr.

Sherman Frank will accompany Winters, a baritone, on the piano.

Demos Hail Loveless' Speech As Good Progress Roundup

DES MOINES — Both Republican and Democratic leaders of the Iowa Legislature hailed the "State of the State" message of Gov. Herschel Loveless Tuesday as a good roundup of state progress.

They said the governor's request that the Legislature provide a site for the proposed national agricultural hall of fame would be one of the first orders of business in the early days of the session.

Loveless, in his speech, confined them to have extraordinary gains largely to a review of gains he said the State Government had made in the past two years — his first term as governor.

Loveless said economic conditions and that tax revenues have grown to the point that the state will need no "extremely burdensome tax rates" in the next two years.

He also detailed what he said were solid advances in the fields of mental health, penal affairs, welfare programs, school reorganization, highway construction and highway safety.

Rep. Clark McNeal (R-Belmond) the House majority floor leader, termed the address "an excellent roundup on matters generally."

"I am certain," he added, "that we can all take pride in the accomplishments of our State. I hope we can provide those things to further the State's growth, that we couldn't do two years ago because of differences of opinion."

He said the speech seemed to indicate that the governor "might propose only those increased expenditures which the state's economic growth will provide."

Sen. Jack Schroeder (R-Davenport), the Senate majority leader, termed the speech a good one "although it dealt in generalities. The progress he cited was not only a credit to his Administration but also to previous administrations and the last Legislature," Schroeder said.

What About Future

Sen. J. Kendall Lyles (R-Plainfield), commented:

"I'd rather hear what he proposes to do in the future. A few of the things he took credit for are things which continue from administration to administration."

Lt. Gov.-elect Edward J. McManus, (D-Keokuk) said the report by Gov. Loveless on the conduct of State Government during his Administration is "evidence to the people of Iowa of the advantages and benefits of a two party system of government."

Speaker of the House Vern Lisle (R-Clarinda) said he thought the governor's speech "reflected very well on the work of the last Legislature and the Budget and Financial Control Committee. It looks like Iowa is getting along pretty well."

Rep. Scott Swisher (Iowa City) the House minority leader, said the address was "a restatement of the principles on which the Governor won the last election. It showed the progress and the things that have been accomplished add up to two good years."

Lt. Gov. William H. Nicholas termed the speech "one of the best Loveless has given. I thought the governor was sincere in everything he had to say."

Joint Meetings Planned

Loveless said Tuesday he will hold conferences with legislators of both parties during the current session. Legislators from each of the state's eight congressional districts will be invited to breakfasts at the governor's home. The governor also plans to hold periodic meetings with legislators in his office.

Inauguration Prepared

A 6-member House committee was named by Speaker Pro-tem J. Henry Lucken (R-Akron) Tuesday, to prepare for the inauguration of Gov. Herschel Loveless and Lt. Gov. Edward J. McManus Thursday.

The committee members are Reps. Howard Reppert (D-Des Moines), chairman; Robert Conner and Dean Aubrey, both Ottumwa Democrats; Bert Fairchild (R-Ida Grove); Joseph Platt (R-Waverly) and Clarence Christophel (R-Waverly).

Secrecy Rule Flayed

Loveless Tuesday flayed the Iowa senate's new rule on secret voting in committees.

"When a man seeks public office," the governor said, "he should be willing to accept the responsibility for his action. Secret committee votes enable a person to escape that responsibility."

The senate rules permit committee meetings closed to public and news reporters and allow secret ballots, if the meetings are executive sessions

Give Fewer Objective Final Tests

By GRETCHEN BROGAN Staff Writer

The results of last semester's final week will show up this final week in new types of tests and stricter administration of them according to SUI professors. Last June rumor and fact about students who had examination answers in advance flew around campus.

At least two departments which were mentioned in these rumors, the French and Spanish Departments, will be giving a completely different type of final this year. The French Department last year altered its exam at the last minute due to rumors that the test was out.

"Our policy now is to have a new test every year," said C. G. Christofides, associate professor of Romance Languages. Christofides, who is head of the beginning French courses, said "This year our test will be more subjective than objective. We are fast abandoning the objective exam."

No Objective Tests

"We have not given objective tests all semester and the final test will not be objective," said Miss Ruth Davis, associate professor of Romance Languages and head of the beginning Spanish program. "There will no longer be answer sheets to fill in, she said. 'The test will be essay, writing sentences or something similar to that.'"

The general zoology final and the psychology final, which were believed to be in student possession last year, will be changed this year. Jerry J. Kollross, professor and chairman of zoology, said that last year complaints were received from students that questions on the final were taken from old exams. "That is being taken care of," said Kollross. "This year's general zoology exam will be completely new."

Don Lewis, professor of psychology, made a similar statement. "This semester's final will be new," he said. "Not an item which is on it has ever been stolen as far as we know." Lewis, who is the lecturer for the introductory psychology course, went on to explain that his department does not operate on the principle of a completely changed exam every semester.

He said that the questions on this test will be mostly brand new because it was discovered last May that a psychology test had been stolen. Although the test was recovered, it was felt best to make up a new one he said. Making up a new test of 140 questions has occupied him for a large part of this whole semester he added.

Ordinarily, Professor Lewis said, finals are made up from a choice of questions which have been proven good by tests. An effort is made not to repeat questions in consecutive exams. It is not of benefit to the student to have completely different questions each time, he said, because they all cover the same material and some of the questions have been proven superior.

Extra Precautions

Although no plans have been made for any complete changes in exams, other departments mentioned in last spring's stir will be taking extra precautions this coming final week.

Paul R. Olson, professor and head of economics, said that his department is tightening up on their whole procedure. He said that monitoring during this final would be made more watertight, and that more detailed instructions would be given about passing out and picking up exams. Olson said that he did not feel that the principles of Economics examination was "out" last year. "We do not repeat the same questions year after year," he said.

Christofides said that until five minutes before the test begins he

IC Board Readies Sale Of Bonds

The Iowa City Board decided Tuesday night to hold a special meeting as soon as all details are ready for the sale of bonds to finance the junior high building program.

Approval of a $1,448,000 bond issue for construction of a new junior high school and rehabilitation of present buildings was given May 31 by Iowa City voters.

The Board also approved use of $20,000 from the school house fund to make a payment to Kingscott and Associates, Davenport architectural firm that prepared plans and specifications for the building program.

Money from the school house fund will be replaced after the sale of bonds, the Board decided.

Bulford W. Garner, superintendent of schools, reported that two committees of the School Study Council will meet with him and the Board Jan. 20 at 7:30 p.m. to discuss present and future school problems.

The Board denied a request by former members of the SUI gymnastics team to use public school gymnasiums for private trampoline instruction. Opposition to use of public buildings for personal gain was the reason given by the Board for denial of the request.

Robert T. Davis, secretary, was given authority to make a preliminary study of possible use of C.S.A. Hall. An opportunity to purchase the hall was revealed by Garner. No details were given.

Good Tickets Still Available For Play Opening Thursday

A good selection of tickets is still available for the opening performance of the University Theater production "Six Characters in Search of an Author," Thursday night.

There are no tickets left for Saturday's performance and only a limited number for Friday evening.

Good tickets may still be obtained for all of next week's performances, Jan. 21 through 24.

Reserved seat tickets are available at the Theater Reservation desk in the East Lobby of the Iowa Memorial Union. SUI students will receive free tickets upon presentation of their I.D. cards. Others may purchase tickets for $1.25.

Former SUIowan To Go To Japan

Professor Willis R. Boss, who received a Ph.D. in 1943 in zoology from SUI, has been selected as one of seven distinguished scientists to be attached to an American embassy abroad.

Boss was appointed by the State Department to be senior science advisor to the American embassy at Tokyo, Japan, for two years, effective July 1.

He had an appointment with the Atomic Energy Commission for three years following World War II and during that time made several trips to Japan.

Boss is currently a professor of zoology at Syracuse University, Syracuse, New York.

Iowa City Again Fog Bound Today

Iowa City residents will be fog-bound again today. Highs are expected to be in the mid 40's with partly cloudy skies.

All of southeastern Iowa was covered with dense fog Tuesday, with visibility in Iowa City one block or less. The fog lifted slightly during the day, but returned with a light drizzle Tuesday evening.

Noon temperatures Tuesday rose to a moderate 36 degrees with expected lows in the 30s Tuesday night. Colder temperatures are predicted for tonight.

The outlook for Thursday is partly cloudy and colder.

Highschoolers Will Glimpse SUI Through 40 Exhibits

One of the most important discoveries of the new-born space age—the "Van Allen Radiation Belt"—will be graphically represented in part of a $50,000 exhibit planned for high school students who will attend Old Days here January 16-17.

This elaborate look at the SUI Physics Department, along with about 40 exhibits and displays from most of the SUI colleges and departments, will be on display in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday afternoon.

The exhibits were constructed and set up by students and professional organizations within the various departments and colleges. Faculty members and students will be on hand during the day to discuss their displays with the high schoolers.

Visiting students will also tour the SUI Medical Laboratories Saturday. Graduate medical students will explain each of the six displays set up for the high schoolers.

One of these unusual exhibits will show an isolated heart beating.

Bus loads of students will leave for the tour of the laboratories from 1-2 p.m. Members of the Women's Recreational Association will lead the tour groups.

University staff members will be prepared with explanations and answers to students' questions from 4-5 p.m. Friday. The following offices will be represented in various classrooms in Shaeffer Hall: examinations service, Student Health, admissions, student affairs and housing.

For an overall look at the campus, six tours are planned to take in all of SUI's 88 buildings. These bus tours will leave from the Union at 9, 10 and 11 a.m. and 1, 2 and 3 p.m. A member of WRA will travel with each tour group to fill in details and answer questions.

Fran Varley, A4, Wheaton, Ill. and Kay Hill, N3, Burlington, are co-chairmen of the tours and displays program.

Stage Set For Mikoyan Meet As Dulles Hits German Plan

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Tuesday blasted the Soviet Union's proposals for Germany as brutal, stupid and probably unworkable.

Coupling this harsh criticism with an implied promise of flexibility, Dulles added that this country is willing to meet with the Soviet Union, Britain and France to discuss the German problem.

Dulles thus set the stage, at a news conference for round No. 2 of Anastas I. Mikoyan's Washington talks about the future of the divided nation. Mikoyan, deputy Soviet premier, is due back here late this week after a cross-country tour.

Sen. Morse Asks End To "Blood Baths"

5. American Nations Criticized Castro

HAVANA (UPI) — Rebel leader Fidel Castro Tuesday night was reported to have ordered a halt to the "war crimes" trials and executions sweeping Cuba in a wave of bloody reprisals against followers of ousted President Fulgencio Batista.

No immediate confirmation of the order was available in Havana, but one such was known to have been received by the rebel commander at Colon in Matanzas Province. There, it saved at least temporarily the lives of three men already condemned to execution.

Latest reports indicated that nearly 200 persons had been convicted and executed by hastily set-up rebel courts, including 84 reported put to death in Santiago, capital of Oriente Province, alone.

The executions led to mounting criticism of the Castro regime, some of it from Latin American nations friendly to the revolutionary movement.

UPI correspondent Andres Lopez reported from Colon that Tuesday's order appeared to be directed in general terms to Army posts throughout Cuba.

Suspension Order Broadcast

Lopez reported that Capt. Julio Chaviano, rebel Army commander in Colon, immediately suspended trials and executions there.

The Cuban Army General Headquarters in Havana is connected to all Army posts throughout the island by microwave circuit.

Castro's order, issued through Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, commander of the Army headquarters at Camp Columbia outside Havana, apparently was designed to prevent a bloodbath in the island's interior and to carry out Castro's promise that the trials of former Batista adherents would be held legally.

Foreign Minister Roberto Agramonte in Havana, meanwhile, defended the apparent wholesale executions in a press statement affirming that "executions by firing squads have been carried out under the revolutionary law."

"Each person has been found guilty by a military tribunal and condemned to death by a military firing squad."

Agramonte said this type of execution "is at least humane, as compared to the barbaric treatment accorded revolutionary soldiers captured by Batista men."

Agramonte said he "regretted" that Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) called for an end to the "blood baths." "Apparently many other friendly citizens in the United States, misinterpreted the reasons for the executions... citizens and plundered the treasury."

Agramonte said provisional President Manuel Urrutia soon would announce the reorganization of the Supreme Court to take over from the military tribunals and "give every citizen the guarantees he never had under Batista."

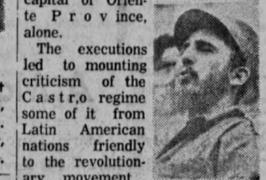

Not Unchristian

Agramonte described Cuba as a traditionally Roman Catholic country and said that "execution by firing squad in the eyes of the Roman Catholic Church is not unchristian or against moral law, providing the guilty persons have been allowed to confront their accusers."

Agramonte charged that the Batista regime "murdered and tortured at least 20,000 Cuban men, women and children of all ages."

Pointing out that freedom of the press had been fully restored in Cuba, Agramonte said: "We have nothing to hide from anybody... we sincerely hope the people of the United States and the rest of the world will understand that charity cannot stand in the way of justice, regardless of how horrible it may appear."

The new revolutionary Government has been under pressure from friendly sources abroad to halt the summary executions of Batista followers.

UPI correspondent Andres Lopez reported from Colon that Tuesday's order appeared to be directed in general terms to Army posts throughout Cuba.

She Got It!

The Lady From Maine Rates Private Bathroom

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. Margaret Chase Smith has finally won a long, 1-woman battle for a separate bathroom just a hop-skip-and-jump away from the Senate floor.

The improved seniority of the Republican lady from Maine, after last fall's defeat of several ranking GOP Senators, plus the gallantry of Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo.), chairman of the Senate Committee on Rules and Administration, came to her rescue.

And possibly this week she will be able to move into a little hide-away office in a back corridor of the Capitol where a special bathroom is being built to satisfy her long-standing plea.

The fact that she is the lone woman Senator has meant problems for Mrs. Smith in the rest room department.

Until now when she was on the floor of the Senate she had a choice of a long subway trip back to her office in the Senate Office Building; standing in line in a public ladies room on the floor below the Senate Chamber; or a trip to a special ladies room for Senate wives.

Mrs. Smith didn't mind the public room, but she often didn't have time to stand in line with lady tourists without missing a crucial Senate vote. She also hated to push ahead of waiting women who might resent it.

As for the Senate wives' lounge just above her own new hideaway, she often got delayed there by chatter.

Now, with just a 2-minute walk and a fast Senators-only elevator trip down one floor, she can be in her own private suite in no time.

Letter—

Tired Poet

To the editor:

I ran across these few lines composed by a graduating senior at one of the Big Ten schools, and thought you might be interested in printing it.

I'm tired. Tired of puppets instead of people. Of crew cuts and tweed coats, of pipes and Picasso buttons, of people who drop soliloquies carefully labelled intelligence.

I'm tired of people who play the dating game like touts at the race track. Tired of seeing people used because it's only a game. Of people who turn making out into a social grace and a woman into a piece of beef.

I'm tired of cynics who call themselves realists. Tired of minds rotting in indifference. Of people bored because they're afraid to care.

I'm tired of people who have to be entertained. Tired of people looking for kicks with a prophylactic in one hand and a bottle in the other.

I'm tired of sophisticated slob. Of people who tinker with sex until it's smut. Of people whose understanding goes as deep as "neat."

I'm tired of people who scream they hate it, but won't leave it because they're lazy. Tired of people with nothing better to do than glue their days together with alcohol.

I'm tired of people embarrassed at honesty, at love, at knowledge.

I'm tired, yes... very tired.

John Foster Dulles Red Proposal Is Stupid Mikoyan Alters Tactics

By J. M. ROBERTS AP News Analyst

Soviet Dep. Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan has said that the Soviet Union doesn't want any war over the German issue, and that it is up to the West to adopt an attitude which will avoid one.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has made it clear that he is going to tell the visiting official that the way to avoid it is for the Soviets themselves not to attempt to drive the Allies out of Berlin or take other unilateral action trying to extend Soviet hegemony in Germany.

The Meaning That's what it means when one diplomat says he hopes another government will not make any miscalculations and accidental mistakes.

The firm position taken by the Western powers about their tenure in Berlin already has produced a deviation in Kremlin statements about its intentions. Two months ago the Moscow emphasis was on determination to turn East Berlin over to the puppet regime in East Germany.

Now the emphasis is on negotiations and how the issue can be settled. However, the conditions put forward so far are as unacceptable as the original.

Sham Recognized The Germans themselves, always susceptible to any sort of talk of unification, have been quick to recognize what the Soviet Union wants. That is a neutralized Germany, shorn of defensive alliances with the West, which would be helpless before any blackmailing demands backed by Communist military power.

Dulles points out also that an attempt to isolate Germany in such fashion would repeat the mistakes made after World War I which produced dangerous and restive forces.

Dulles said the Soviet proposal on Germany is stupid and will not work. But it wouldn't be stupid from the Communist standpoint if they could get away with it. The important thing is that he is letting them know they won't get away with it.

HOLLYWOOD — You may never have heard of movie executives James H. Nicholson and Sam Z. Arkoff. And you won't hear of them at this year's Academy awards.

But they can get a loan at the bank a lot quicker than some producers of prominence whose names are linked with Oscars.

Nicholson and Arkoff run American-International Pictures whose credits include such titles as "The Beast With a Million Eyes," "The Amazing Colossal Man," "Blood of Dracula," "Teen-age Frankenstein" and "How to Make a Monster."

Four years ago, the pair started — with $3,000. They nursed their investment into a national craze and a million dollars. The craze — an old Hollywood standby — is geared to teen-agers, who are the bulk of the moviegoing public.

"Our stock in trade is titles, monsters and gimmicks," says Arkoff. Nicholson explains why their scripts won't be up for any artistic awards.

"We start first with the title, then comes the monster or gimmick, next comes the producer and director. Finally, we call in the writer to fashion a script to the concept of the title and the gimmick."

Inside The Great Bender Investigation

By GEORGE DIXON

WASHINGTON — Anyone ignorant enough to imply that former Senator George H. Bender may not be earning the $250 a day he receives for performing the Teamsters Union, just isn't keeping abreast of the great Bender "investigation." The cash and "prober" has established a pen palship with the State's Attorney of Cook County, Illinois, who is a Democrat converted to Republicanism.

The forever-GOP Bender, a pioneer in the field of investigating by mail, wrote to State's Attorney Benjamin S. Adamowski to ask if he knew of any Teamster impurities in Chicago. In light of the exposes of the McClellan Committee, this seems akin to asking Ike if he knows of any Republicans in the Administration.

I have the correspondence before me, and I hope you will agree with me that it verges on the remarkable. Bender opened it by writing (rather superfluously, I should think, for anyone who reads the newspapers) that he had been retained by Teamster President James R. Hoffa to head an "Anti-Racketeering Commission" to "investigate" the Teamsters Union. Bender added: "The Commission has been given a free hand in this assignment."

"Don't Quote Me"

Iowa's 1959 Legislature got off to a fast start Monday with the appointment of committees. With the preliminaries out of the way they can now get down to the business of arguing.

SUI Prof. Philip Morgan is the new Iowa City mayor. Maybe the city will now recognize the University as more than just a rebel regime and initiate diplomatic relations.

A Washington columnist says Ike has done a full 'bout-face from liberal to traditional Republicanism in the last 6 years. What Republican isn't going around in circles.

The new Congressional office buildings have sloped over into the clerk and typist parking lot causing a parking problem in Washington. SUI should offer their intricate restrictive system. It's just complicated and effective enough to be adopted by Congress.

Stereophonic Revolution! Sweeping Record Industry

By GEOFFREY GOULD

NEW YORK — A revolution is sweeping the record industry, and its dust has not yet settled. Its name is stereophonic sound. It is an authentic revolution. Stereophonic sound is not just a gimmick. It adds a new dimension to the art of capturing music on discs or tapes and then playing it back in your living room.

Stereo is a method of reproducing sound as though you were hearing it with both ears instead of one.

Two Mikes Two microphones, separated somewhat, record the orchestra from different angles, just as your ears would hear it from slightly different angles if you were in the concert hall.

These separate recordings are then laid down — by a complicated bit of scientific ledgerdom — in a single groove of a record. A new kind of needle picks up both sound tracks — still separated — and sends them through separate amplifying systems and finally out through two separate speakers, located some distance apart.

Only then are the two sound tracks mixed and they are mixed by your own ears and mind. This gives the music — or any thing else you might record — a third dimension — depth. Not only does the music surround you completely, but it has a magical illusion of almost perfect reality.

The older method of recordings, known as monaural (the new kind is binaural), cannot give this third dimension illusion, no matter how high the fidelity of the phonograph system.

Costs Money Yet many who already have hi-fi systems will be satisfied to stick with them. Converting them to stereo costs money, although it can be done fairly easily.

The record industry, though, is a tiger by the tail for the second time in 10 years. A decade ago the advent of the long-playing record made high fidelity possible and boosted the record industry tremendously.

Another new business sprang up at the same time — the making of high fidelity components. Both of these huge industries are now jumping onto the stereo bandwagon.

Monaural records are far from dead however, and probably won't be for a long time. How does the stereophonic revolution affect those who already have a large library of monaural records?

OK For Monaurals It works this way. You can play a monaural record on a stereophonic system and it will sound as good or better than it ever did, although it won't be stereophonic. But you can't play stereo records with a monaural stylus needle — it would damage the record.

If you already have a high fidelity system, which includes a turntable and pickup arm, preamplifier, amplifier and speaker, you can convert to stereo by adding a new amplifier and another speaker. You may also require a new stereo preamplifier to balance the channels properly.

Once you have your stereo you can still enjoy your old monaural library as much as ever, while adding stereo records to it. Stereo pickups also will play old 78 rpm records well.

He succeeds H. Roy Hamey who resigned to return to the world champion New York Yankees as assistant general manager.

5-Year Pact
Announcement of the triple play involving the three major league clubs was made almost simultaneously in Philadelphia, Milwaukee and New York. Quinn has a 5-year contract and the unenviable assignment of leading the Phillies out of the wilderness.

Bob Carpenter, president and owner of the Phillies, said Hamey had decided to go back with the Yankees with whom he spent 17 of his 34 years in baseball. Hamey will handle player signings and supervisory activities of the farm system.

In Milwaukee, Quinn said, "Bob Carpenter offered me a proposition I just didn't feel I could turn down."

Tebbetts No Obstacle
Quinn, 50, denied that his leave taking was prompted by the recent appointment of George (Birdie) Tebbetts as executive vice-president of and heir apparent to the presidency of the Milwaukee club.

Although it is known Quinn was deeply hurt by the Tebbetts appointment, the man under whose executive leadership the Braves won three pennants and one world title and finished in the first division 14 of the past 15 years, insisted he was leaving only for a better job.

40 Per Cent Raise
It was reliably reported that Quinn would receive $35,000 a year in Philadelphia, about $10,000 more than he was supposed to have earned in Milwaukee.

Quinn guided the development of more than 70 per cent of the current Milwaukee squad. He joined the Boston Red Sox as an assistant farm director in 1932, three years after his graduation from Boston College.

Hamey, also a veteran baseball executive, got his start in the game in 1925 as business manager of the Springfield club.

4 Hawkeyes Will Defend Titles In 3 Winter Sports

Iowa's winter sports teams have four athletes who will defend their titles in March championship meets. They are headed by Gary Morris, the National Collegiate and Big Ten 50-yard freestyle swimming titlist.

Others are Gene Luttrell, Big Ten 137-pound wrestling winner; Bill Buck, National Collegiate and Big Ten side horse champion in gymnastics; and another gymnast, John McCurdy, sharer of first place in the Big Ten trampoline competition.

NO FAT INDIANS

NEW YORK (AP) — If Frank Lane has his way, there isn't going to be a fat Indian on the Cleveland club this year. The Tribe's general manager warned all Cleveland players to start taking off that excess weight.

Hawkeyes Meet Spartans In Pair Of Meets Over Weekend

Four contests against Big Ten opponents, and one non-conference affair, face Iowa teams this weekend, with Michigan State to be met in both swimming and wrestling.

The gymnastics team which split with Michigan and Minnesota last Saturday, meets the Air Force Academy in the Fieldhouse Friday at 4 p.m., and then takes on perennial conference champion Illinois Saturday at Champaign.

Tankers Host Spartans
Iowa swimmers, who opened under their new coach, Bob Allen, with a 53-47 win over Wisconsin, oppose strong Michigan State in the Fieldhouse pool Saturday at 2 p.m.

Coach Dave McCuskey's wrestlers, defending Big Ten champions and unbeaten so far this year in dual competition, leave by train Friday morning for East Lansing, Mich., where they will meet the Spartans of Michigan State in a dual meet Saturday.

The Iowa grapplers have a 2-0 record, defeating Indiana and Illinois in December matches. Michigan State won a quadrangular meet against Minnesota, Purdue, and Northwestern, taking at least four titles, but lost a dual meet Saturday to Indiana.

Probable Starters
Going for the Hawks, McCuskey said, will probably be either Vince Garcia or Larry Moser at 123 pounds; John Kelly, 130; Gene Luttrell, Big Ten Champ at 137; Tom Halford or Don Tucker, 147; Joe Mullins, 157; Bob Riehm, 167; Jim Craig, 177; and Gordon Trapp, Heavyweight.

The first home appearance of the wrestling team will be against Minnesota, Jan. 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the Fieldhouse.

Meanwhile the basketball team will play its second road game of the week against Indiana at Bloomington, Saturday.

Blaik Resigns As Army Grid Coach, Athletic Director

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Earl H. (Red) Blaik, college football's most successful tutor, resigned Tuesday night as head coach and director of athletics at the United States Military Academy.

In making the surprise announcement, Lt. Gen. Garrison H. Davidson, superintendent of the military academy, said both resignations will become effective Feb. 15 — Blaik's 62nd birthday.

During his quarter of a century as head coach, Blaik compiled the finest record over the longest period of time of any active football coach. His teams won 166 games, lost 48 and tied 14. He spent seven years as head coach at Dartmouth before taking over at West Point in 1941.

Lt. Gen. Davidson hailed Blaik as "the finest football coach in the country," in an official statement that accompanied the announcement.

Accepted With Regret
"His resignation has been accepted with regret," Davidson said. "His contribution to the military academy has been outstanding and we will find it extremely difficult to select a successor."

Coincident with the announcement, Blaik did not reveal his future plans except to say he and Mrs. Blaik will leave immediately for a brief vacation. He is considering several business opportunities which he considers "excellent."

Blaik reportedly had been at odds with Army officials in recent years over the Cadets' long-time ban against post-season bowl participation, and this may have prompted his resignation.

He believed the Cadets deserved a bowl trip last season but officials at the Point overruled him after Army had received "feelers" from the Cotton Bowl and Orange Bowl.

During Blaik's 18 years as head coach at the Point, Army won 121 games, lost 33 and tied 10. The 1958 Cadet squad won nine games and was held to a tie by Pittsburgh.

Blaik took over as head coach of the Black Knights in 1941. Under his guidance, Army won two national championships and seven Eastern titles. The Black Knights completed six unbeaten seasons during Blaik's tenure, running up winning streaks of 32 and 28 games.

Played At Army
As a football player at West Point, Blaik starred at end during the 1918-19 seasons. He put in two years of service with the 8th Cavalry following his graduation and later resigned his commission to enter the real estate business with his father in Dayton, O.

However, he returned to his first love — football — in 1926 as an assistant to George Little at Wisconsin and later rose to glory as one of the nation's outstanding coaches.

Blaik returned to the Point in 1927 and put in seven seasons as an assistant coach before moving to Dartmouth in 1934.

During Blaik's regime at Dartmouth, the Big Green won 45, lost 15 and tied four.

After Army won only one of nine games in 1940, Gen. Robert Eichelberger, then superintendent of the

32-Game Card Set For Iowa Baseball Team

A schedule of 32 games, covering a period of exactly two months, has been drawn for Iowa's 1959 baseball team.

The schedule, one of the longest in years, was announced by Athletic Director Paul Brechler. Coach Otto Vogel's Hawkeyes will open March 23 at Arizona and close May 23 at Michigan.

As usual since 1952, the Iowans will have six games with Arizona in Tucson during the week of Easter recess. The midwest games will

Hawkeye Grid Staff Appears Set For 1959

Iowa's football coaching staff for the 1959 season, despite many rumors, shapes up the same as the 1958 staff of head coach Forrest Evashevski and assistants Bob Flora, Jerry Burns, Archie Kodros, Whitey Piro, Jerry Hilgenberg and Bill Happel.

Evy this week denied a rumor that he had been contacted for the head coaching job of the Green Bay Packers in the National Football League. Burns last week asked to be dropped from the list of head coaching candidates at Detroit University and Hilgenberg this week nixed a move to Michigan where he would have served as assistant under another former Iowa assistant Bump Elliott.

Kodros at one time was mentioned as a possibility for Elliott's staff, but he too seems a likely fixture in Evy's plans for another year at Iowa.

Dodgers Get Chavez OK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday got the green light to build their dream stadium in Chavez Ravine.

The state supreme court upheld the baseball club's real estate deal with the city.

The decision was greeted with joy by the Dodgers and city officials.

50,000 Seat Stadium
"We are of course pleased with the decision," said Dodger President Walter O'Malley, whose plans for a 50,000 seat stadium in the near-downtown ravine have been shrouded in legal smog since July.

"I'm delighted," said Mayor Norris Poulson, prime mover in luring the Dodgers to Los Angeles from Brooklyn.

The unanimous 7-man opinion sidetracked a taxpayer's suit brought by attorney Phil Silver. The suit contended the transfer of the land to the Dodgers was void because a clause in the deed by which the city obtained the property from the federal government stipulated that the land be used for public purposes.

Clear Road Ahead
"I see nothing which could block the plans for the stadium now," said City Attorney Roger Arnebergh.

"The fight is not over," said Silver, leader of opposition to the Dodger deal. "I fully intend to perfect an appeal to the U.S. Court to review this decision."

Silver conceded the high court might refuse his petition on grounds the dispute does not come within federal jurisdiction.

Ring World 'Shook Up'

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The fight world still was a little wobbly Tuesday, trying to piece together the muddled heavyweight situation and the Supreme Court's knockout of the International Boxing Club.

Cus D'Amato, manager of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, said he expected Bill Rosenzohn, independent promoter, to take advantage of the court ruling that opens Madison Square Garden to all at a fair rental.

Defend Title
"Patterson definitely will begin having title defenses — an unlimited number," D'Amato said. "Yes, he would box in Europe if necessary."

From London came word that Rosenzohn predicted Patterson would fight either Ingemar Johansson, the European champ, or Henry Cooper, the new British champ, this summer in the United States. Or possibly both.

However, Jack Solomons, London promoter, wants to match Cooper with Johansson in London June 2.

Gibson Returns
While all this was going on, Truman Gibson, IBC president, had hurried home from London to huddle with other IBC officials. The club's legal staff studied the official court ruling before handing out advice or comment.

As far as Madison Square Garden is concerned, it was pretty much business as usual. Under the court's decree, Jim Norris must resign as president and Arthur Wirtz as vice-chairman and treasurer of Madison Square Garden. Norris and Wirtz also must sell their 39 per cent stock interest within five years.

Leading scorers of the teams so far include Staffan Carlsson, of the gymnastics team with 54 1/2 points scored in two meets. Carlsson graduates at the end of the semester, Feb. 7, and his loss will be felt greatly by coach Dick Holzappel.

Other point leaders include Clarence Wordlaw, basketball, 67 points in three conference games; Gary Morris, swimming, 12 in one meet; and Larry Moser and John Kelly, wrestling, 8 in two meets.

The fencing team is idle until Feb. 7, when they meet Notre Dame and Indiana in a triangular meet here. The fencers have an 0-1 record, losing in a match against the Air Force Academy. The only unbeaten fencer is John Youngerman, sophomore, in the epee event who won three bouts in the Air Force Academy meet.

Liberals Undiscouraged; Continue Civil Rights Push

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Liberal Senators, trounced in their effort to impose strict filibuster curbs, pushed ahead Tuesday with plans to seek stronger civil rights legislation in the new Congress. But members of the bi-partisan group, which failed to convince the Senate that it should limit its tradition of nearly unlimited debate, conceded that civil rights bills would have a rough time. They had banked on a stiffer anti-filibuster rule to overcome southern oratory against any rights bill that reached the floor. Four liberal Republicans — Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating (N.Y.), Clifford P. Case (N.J.) and Hugh Scott (Pa.) — announced Tuesday they would co-sponsor a bill restoring the controversial section three to the 1957 "voting rights" law. The section, deleted from the original bill during Senate debate, would permit the U.S. Attorney General to seek court orders to stop "interference with civil rights" in nearly any area including education, transportation and recreation. Their bill also would extend the life of the present Civil Rights Commission. It is scheduled to expire in September.

Inhospitable Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), another liberal leader in the anti-filibuster fight, also said he would push for stronger civil rights legislation. However, he said it was "improbable that we might get a meaningful civil rights bill in the near future."

Javits said "the climate in the Senate is inhospitable to really serious civil rights legislation."

The Senate voted 72 to 22 to adopt a mild limitation on debate late Monday after turning down every effort by the liberal bloc to destroy the filibuster as a means of killing legislation. The new rule allows two-thirds of Senators present and voting to limit debate; the old rule required two-thirds of the entire 98-member Senate to vote for a debate limitation.

Wanted Limit The liberals wanted a majority of Senators to limit debate after 15 days discussion on the business at hand.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the southern bloc, paid tribute Tuesday to Senators who "refused to be enticed by the threats or intimidated by the promises of pressure groups" in the filibuster fight.

He said the result was "encouraging evidence that members still recognize the Senate as the forum of states and as the traditional safeguard for full and free expression of the views of minorities."

Republicans Big Spenders In November Elections, Financial Reports Show

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Big national Republican campaign groups, which came out on the short end of last November's balloting, spent about a million dollars more than their Democratic counterparts, final reports showed Tuesday.

However, the GOP margin of spending could be trimmed to about $500,000 when the tally is revised to include Democratic contributions from organized labor's political arm, the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE).

The outlays were listed in final reports on the 1958 election filed with the House Clerk by the two political parties.

The Republican National Committee and the GOP House and Senate campaign committees reported they received contributions totaling $2,349,804. They spent $2,267,909.

The Democratic National Committee and the Democratic House and Senate campaign committees reported contributions of $1,239,480. They spent $1,268,734.

While the Democratic total did not include contributions from COPE, the labor group said on Oct. 31 that it had spent $570,000.

The Republican National Committee received more contributions — and spent more — than any other of the big seven committees.

A total of $1,377,989 in contributions poured into its cash boxes — $218,715 of it in the last two months of the year. It spent $1,349,553, including more than $250,000 in the last two months.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., of New York, sent in two of the biggest personal contributions in November and December: $3,000 each.

The Democratic National Committee received $874,601 in contributions — $115,870 in the last two months of the year. It paid out $903,215 — $136,435 in the last two months.

Shipping czar Aristotle Socrates of "Monte Carlo, Monaco" headed the list of big Democratic contributors for November and December with a $2,500 check.

However, Onassis may be bipartisan. The man who took the top contributor spot on the GOP Senate campaign committee report at a cost of $2,500 was listed as "A.S. Onassis," of New York.

Four Students To Present Recitals Here

Four students in the SUI Music Department will present recitals this weekend in the North Music Hall.

Dale Noble, G. Riceville, will present a baritone vocal recital Friday at 7:30 p.m. The piano accompanist will be Mary Ossian, A1, Shenandoah.

Included in the program are "Mighty Lord, and King All-Glorious" from the Christmas Oratorio by Bach, "Recitation and Air—Thus Saith the Lord" from the Messiah by Handel, "In Questa Tomba Oscura" by Beethoven, "Widmung" by Schumann, "Wie Melodien zieht es mir" by Brahms, "Ruhe, meine Seele" by Strauss and "Biblical Songs, Op. 99, Vol. 1" by Dvorak.

Nobel will conclude the recital with selections from Williams' "Songs of Travel" including "The Vagabond," Bright is the Ring of Words" and "The Roadside Fire."

Donald Johnson, A4, Ames, will present a trombone recital Saturday at 2 p.m. Sue Donelson Johnson will be the piano accompanist.

Johnson will play "Sonata in E-flat" by Sanders, "Allegro de Concert" by Cools and "First Sonata for Trombone" by Galliard.

A bassoon recital will be given by Marjorie Joy Mason, A4, Mason City, on Saturday at 4 p.m. The piano accompaniment will be provided by James Taggart, G, Iowa City.

The program will include "Sonata in A Minor" by Vivaldi, "Concertino" by Bozza, "Concert Piece" by Phillips and "Trio" by Poulenc. She will be assisted in the final number by flutist Sandra Taylor, A4, Iowa City.

Rosalee Hartwig, A4, Clarence, will present a clarinet recital Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Susan Elwell, G, Garwin, will be the piano accompanist.

The program will include "Sonata in E-flat Major" by Brahms, "Aria and Presto" by Schubert-Walsh, "Phantasy Suite" by Dunhill and "Canonic Suite" by Carter.

Assisting in the final number will be Judith Harker, A4, Emmetsburg, Richard Staebler, A4, Plymouth and Joe Zucco, A4, Centerville, clarinetists.

De Gaulle Grants Rebel Reprieves

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle Tuesday night granted reprieves to all Algerian rebels condemned to death and reduced the sentences of thousands of others in a dramatic gesture toward making good his promise to restore the hope of peace to revolt-torn Algeria.

At the same time, it was announced that the new Cabinet decided to take early steps to modify the grim austerity economic program laid down by De Gaulle "in order to lighten the burden on the taxpayer."

The economic program evoked considerable protests both in metropolitan France and in the overseas territories.

The clemency measures were announced by Information Minister Robert Frey after the first full Cabinet meeting since De Gaulle stepped up to the presidency of France five days ago.

Ahmed Ben Bella, 40, who was appointed Deputy Premier of the Algerian "Government in exile" while in a Paris prison, and fellow leaders of the National Liberation Front (FLN), will be transferred to "fortified quarters" elsewhere, Frey said. They are expected to be put under house arrest on Belle Isle off the Brittany coast.

Bella and four other FLN leaders were captured in October, 1956, when their plane was forced to land at Algiers while on a flight from Rabat, Morocco, to Tunis, Tunisia. The incident led to a near-rupture of diplomatic relations between France and its former protectorates of Morocco and Tunisia.

De Gaulle also spared all condemned rebels whose rights of appeal had been exhausted — an estimated 130 — from the Guillo-tine. Their sentences were commuted to life imprisonment at hard labor.

Alabama Grand Juries Open Voting Records To Probers

CLAYTON, Ala. (UPI) — Two Alabama Grand Juries opened voter registration records to civil rights investigators Tuesday ending weeks of wrangling about whether Federal agents could see them.

The action came on the eve of a Federal court hearing in Montgomery by a judge who set a deadline of 4 p.m. Tuesday for Alabama officials to cooperate. Specifically, Circuit Judge George Wallace of Clayton was under direct orders to make available the voter records of Barbour and Bullock Counties.

Wallace refused and instead turned the records over to the Grand Juries of the two courts.

He handed the Barbour records to a Grand Jury here Monday and Tuesday turned over another set to the Bullock County Jury in nearby Union Springs, Ala. The Grand Juries decided to permit civil rights agents to inspect the records in the presence of the Grand Jury foreman and another county official. The Bullock Grand Jury said it was demonstrating the "good intention" and "good faith" of "all officials of the circuit and county concerned."

Wallace had recessed the Barbour County Grand Jury until Thursday but its foreman, Winn E. Martin, called it back into session Tuesday. It decided to let civil rights agents inspect the records while Martin and another county official, solicitor Sam Le Maistre, watched.

Le Maistre said the agents had "full access" to the records. Martin said the Grand Jury was recalled because the agents gave newsmen the impression that they were denied full opportunity to look at the records Monday.

Federal Judge George M. Johnson Jr. is scheduled to hear a report in the civil rights controversy today in Montgomery and observers predicted he may cite Wallace for contempt.

Wallace said he based his action on a "matter of principle of a state judge to perform his judicial functions without any interference."

He told Grand Jurors that he was "willing to accept the consequences" if his action brought a contempt of Federal court citation.

Higuchi To Speak To Chem Society

Takeru Higuchi, an award winning pharmacist, will address the January meeting of the Iowa Section of the American Chemical Society tonight on the topic of "Kinetics and Mechanisms of Deterioration of Drugs."

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Lecture Room 321 of the Chemistry Building, and will be open to the public.

Higuchi is a professor of pharmacy at the University of Wisconsin. He received his A. B. degree from the University of California at Berkeley in 1939. He went on to the University of Wisconsin, where he received his Ph. D. in physical chemistry in 1943, and was appointed research associate.

From 1944 to 1947 Higuchi worked as a research chemist in Akron, O. doing research on synthetic rubber. In 1947 he went back into academic work, becoming an assistant professor of pharmacy at Wisconsin. He was successful in applying his training in physical chemistry to the solution of outstanding problems in pharmacy. He became a full professor in 1954.

Higuchi has received the coveted Ebert Award in pharmacy a number of times for his many research contributions and publications. He is a member of Rho Chi, Sigma Xi, American Pharmaceutical Association, the American Chemical Society and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

U.S. Rejects Pilot Release

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—The United States has rejected an East German offer to release a U.S. Army pilot held captive since Dec. 3 because it refuses to do business with Communist East Germany, it was announced tonight.

The East Germans promptly accused the United States of blocking the release of the pilot, 1st Lt. Richard Mackin of Washington, D.C. East German authorities are "ready now, as before" to hand over the pilot, a statement issued in Berlin said.

But U.S. Ambassador to Prague, John M. Allison, said in a phone conversation to United Press International in Frankfurt that the Red offer was declined because the United States will deal only with the Soviet Union in East Germany, not the East German Government. Negotiations with East Germany could imply recognition of the East German Regime.

The East German offer to release the pilot was made before Christmas. A short note was sent to Col. Francois Devlin, the U.S. military attaché in Prague, offering to release Mackin.

A letter from Mackin to his wife, urging her to "trust our government," accompanied the note.

Mackin said he was well. The East Germans have said he is being well treated.

Col. Devlin told the East Germans through an intermediary that he could not negotiate for Mackin's release.

In Washington, State Department authorities said there were indications Mackin would be released soon — but by Soviet authorities.

Mackin was taken into custody by the East Germans when his L-3 liaison plane wandered over the East German border and he ran out of fuel.

Two Burge Hall girls are convinced that the elevator in Currier is being taught to discriminate against girls who live across the street.

Sally Gaines, A4, Burlington, and Shirley Schmidt, A4, Muscatine, went to Currier one night last week to get bottled cokes instead of the fountain cokes in Burge Hall.

DRUG STORE DILEMMA

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — State Senator Tom Mitchell of Tuesday to define a pharmacy Memphis introduced legislation or drug store as a business in which 51 per cent of the floor space is devoted to drugs, first aid supplies, cosmetics and a soda fountain.

Said Mitchell, "some of these so-called drug stores are actually department stores. And it's almost impossible to find the drug department in them."

Suitor Aims At Boy's Mother—

Sammy Joe Dies In Vain

MONTICELLO, Ind (UPI) — Sammy Joe Moss was the kind of boy every mother wants — healthy, a little bit on the rowdy side sometimes, loving and brave. Sammy was dead Tuesday because he was that kind of kid. The 10-year-old boy, dressed in his blue Cub Scouts uniform, threw himself in front of a gun aimed at his mother and fell dead with a bullet in his head Tuesday night.

His sacrifice may have been in vain. The gunman, a suitor who had been rejected by Sammy's mother, shot her in the head as she knelt beside her son. He then turned the gun on himself, but the bullet merely grazed his forehead.

The mother, Mrs. Alma Moss, an attractive, 34-year-old divorcee, never recovered consciousness. She was hospitalized in extremely critical condition. Her rejected suitor, Albert M. Colvin Jr., 35, Kokomo, Ind., signed a confession saying he went to the Moss home with a stolen gun firmly intending to kill her because she had rejected his offer of marriage.

Colvin, a twice-married unemployed salesman, found Mrs. Moss preparing for a meeting of the Cub Scouts pack of which she was den mother. Two boys, Bobby Burns, 13, and Billy Morris, 9, had arrived early and were talking with Sammy. Mrs. Moss' two other children, a 16-year-old daughter and 17-year-old son, were not at home.

Colvin stood in the doorway, drew the gun, and ordered the boys to leave. Bobby and Billy ran out across the street. Sammy stood by his mother. A moment later, the fleeing boys heard the first of three pistol shots.

Colvin, in his confession, said he had aimed the gun at Mrs. Moss and told her he was going to kill her.

Without a word, he said, Sammy threw himself in front of his mother as Colvin fired. Perhaps he hoped to grab the gun or perhaps he meant to take the bullet himself. The Cub Scout fell to the floor dead.

Colvin appeared at a preliminary hearing today and was jailed afterwards awaiting the next grand jury. He begged to be allowed "to plead guilty to murder — anything — it doesn't matter." But no specific charge had been placed against him.

"It was an accident," he protested. "I didn't mean to harm the boy."

Police Chief Lawrence Kraud said Colvin had been a boarder at the Moss home. He had quarreled with Mrs. Moss at a New Year's Eve party, Kraud said, and stole the gun six days later from a filling station where he had a temporary job.

A cousin, Clyde Lytle, gave a sort of epitaph for Sammy. "He was a typical American kid, the rough and tumble type," he said. "He liked to play football. He was interested in sports. He was full of activity and happy all the time."

"He was always tearing in and out of the house. It's hard to imagine this happening to a little kid like Sammy."

Prize Photos On Display At J-School

Seventy photographs, award-winners in the 18th Annual News Pictures Contest, are being exhibited at SUI this week.

On display in the SUI Communications Center, these pictures are the work of photographers from 40 daily midwestern newspapers. The contest was sponsored by Northwestern University's School of Journalism for the Inland Daily Press Association in Chicago.

Categories for the competition were news, sports, feature and photo pictures. Entries were divided into black and white entries for photographers on newspapers over 50,000; photographers on newspapers under 50,000 circulation; and part-time photographers (those combining photography with some other newspaper position). There was also a color entries division.

Sweepstakes winner was Edward C. DeLuga, of the Chicago Daily News, with a feature picture entitled "Sunrise Serenade." This picture also took first place in the black and white division.

Winner of the color division was Wayne Bell of the Minneapolis Star, who submitted a photograph entitled "Plane Crash at Night."

These and other pictures entered in the contest, will be exhibited on the second floor of the Communications Center through Saturday.

GOP Hopes For Tax Drop If Ike Gets Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republicans held out hope Tuesday for a tax reduction in two or three years—if the Democrats go along with President Eisenhower in holding down spending.

This prospect was raised by Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the new House Republican leader, after he and the other GOP chiefs in Congress conferred with Mr. Eisenhower.

The Republican leaders were given previews of the President's budget, which is to be submitted to Congress next Monday, and his economic report, due the following day.

No Sacrifice

"We were all impressed with the attainability of a balanced budget next fiscal year without sacrificing or unduly injuring any of the essential functions of Government," Halleck told reporters. Mr. Eisenhower announced Dec. 22 he will submit a balanced budget of around $77 billion for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, said after the meeting that this budget contemplates a surplus of about $100 million.

Expect Deficit

In the current fiscal year, ending June 30, the experts expect a deficit of around $12 billion. The 77-billion figure projected for spending in the new fiscal year is more than two billion below the estimate for this year.

Democrats have called Mr. Eisenhower's budget plan unrealistic. They have said also that he isn't concerned enough about the need for spending on national security. However, Halleck said that while the new budget calls for some belt tightening, none of it is in areas which would impair security.

Mr. Eisenhower said in his State of the Union message last Friday that he is counting on some tax relief in the foreseeable future. Halleck was asked Tuesday how far ahead that might be.

He replied that he thinks tax cuts will be possible in two or three years if Congress—which is controlled by the Democrats—will back the Eisenhower program.

That program is likely to call for higher gasoline taxes and a new boost in postal rates and bring in more revenue.

Dulles Calls New Soviet Plan "Brutal And Stupid"

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Tuesday Russia's new proposal for a German Peace Treaty would create a new danger to peace. He called the Soviet plan brutal and stupid.

Dulles denounced the Russian proposals for a meeting of the 23 World War II allies at his first news conference since the Berlin situation became crucial.

He said Soviet demand for a neutralized and demilitarized Germany was worse than brutal, it was stupid and unrealistic.

The danger, he said, was the possible creation of a restive and dangerous German force in Mid-Europe which might try to play the West against the East and set off a new world conflict.

"Smothering Blanket"

Dulles said the German people could not be put under a smothering blanket as the Russians proposed.

opinion worse than a brutal approach, it's a stupid approach, because we don't think it will work."

The Secretary told the newsmen that while American officials were not actually negotiating with Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan during the Russian Leader's visit, he hoped each side was getting a better understanding of the other's thinking.

Dulles-Like Agree

His statements on Germany dovetailed with reports that President Eisenhower would refuse to bargain with Mikoyan when the two meet Saturday. Dulles said the United States would make no counter-proposals on Berlin unless they first have been cleared with U.S. allies in Western Europe.

Mikoyan was reported to have asked Dulles for Western counter-proposals when they met briefly a week ago.

The Secretary of State said Mikoyan's visit and his discussions with U.S. leaders should help the two countries avoid any misunderstandings about the intentions of the other.

He characterized Mikoyan's purpose in visiting the United States as a genuine and understandable concern about the future of Germany.

Iowa Doctors At Postgrad Course Here

Physicians from all parts of Iowa are attending a postgraduate course in obstetrics and gynecology today at the SUI College of Medicine.

The program, one in an annual series conducted by the SUI College of Medicine, is co-sponsored by the University's Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology and the State Department of Health's division of maternal and child health.

Guest speakers are Dr. Ralph C. Benson, University of Oregon Medical School; Dr. R. Gordon Douglas, New York University College of Medicine, and Dr. Irwin H. Kaiser, University of Minnesota Medical School.

Moderators for the two sessions of the meeting are Dr. John H. Randall, professor and head of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at SUI, and Dr. W. C. Keettel, professor in the same department of medical postgraduate studies.

Can't Raise Bail; Woman Kidnaper Sits In Jail

NEW YORK (AP) — Jean Iavarone is being held in lieu of $50,000 bail in the kidnaping of a newborn baby after the child's reluctant father was talked into signing the complaint against her Tuesday.

"We bear this woman no grudge," the father, Frank Chionchio, said of himself and his 26-year-old wife. Their baby, Lisa Rose, was found alive and unharmed Sunday in Mrs. Iavarone's tiny Brooklyn apartment.

Police said Mrs. Iavarone, 43, abducted the baby from a Brooklyn hospital Jan. 2, only 2½ hours after it was born, in a plot to induce her boyfriend to marry her by passing the infant off as their love child.

Chionchio, a 28-year-old lawyer, at first refused to sign a kidnaping complaint against the buxom blonde widow, the mother of seven living children.

He was talked into it, however, in the chambers of Felony Court Magistrate James A. Roe Jr. He was told that if he didn't sign the complaint he could be subpoenaed

Housing Boss Gives Up Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Tuesday accepted the resignation of Albert M. Cole, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency since the Eisenhower administration took office in 1953.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower would name a successor, probably within the next two days. Norman P. Mason, Commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration, has been mentioned as likely to get the post.

Cole took the President in a letter dated Jan. 9 that he wanted to quit for personal reasons.

Unemployment Tops 4 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment topped 4,000,000 in December in a new winter climb in the number of Americans out of work.

The Government said the job situation has improved from what it was in the depth of the recession but not nearly as much as the rest of the economy. The nation has well over 1,000,000 fewer jobs than in the pre-recession era.

Tuesday's joint monthly report of the Commerce and Labor departments said employment declined by 680,000 from 64,653,000 in November to 63,973,000 in December.

Unemployment rose by 250,000 from 3,833,000 to 4,108,000—the largest monthly increase since a 500,000 hike last June pushed the idle total to its recession high of nearly 5½ million.

NOT RIVER BANKING

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Two men aroused by police at 3:30 a.m. as they snoozed peacefully on a frozen Chena River here had a ready explanation.

Harold Griffin and Jack Moore said they were just making good on a bet they could spend the night comfortably in their sleeping bags. The thermometer showed 35 below zero.

Want Free Election

While rejecting the Russian proposals for Germany, Dulles said the United States would not object to a German State reunified by free elections joining either the Western or Soviet-sponsored mutual security groups.

The United States also promised in 1955 that it would not send any North Atlantic Organization forces to the Eastern territory if the new reunified Germany chose to join NATO and it would come to Russia's aid if Germany ever attacked the Soviet Union.

Last Of The Outhouse Laws May Go This Year

AMES (AP) — The State Highway Commission came out Tuesday for repeal of Iowa's "outhouse" law. That was one of a number of legislative acts the commission indicated it would seek passage of in the current session of the Legislature.

The law prohibits the state from taking possession of a property under condemnation proceedings until damages have been determined and paid.

Contest Expense Bond Filed By Messer

DES MOINES — A bond covering expenses of the contest by Frank F. Messer, Iowa City Democrat, of the election of Supreme Court Justices Ralph A. Oliver and Theodore G. Garfield, was filed in the Secretary of State's office Tuesday.

The official state canvass showed Oliver won re-election to the Supreme Court in the Nov. 4 general election by only 122 votes over Messer.

The bond to cover the costs of the contest is necessary since Iowa law provides that the loser must pay the costs of the contest.

William Rupe, Publisher And GOP Leader, Dies

AMES (AP) — William S. Rupe, 72, publisher of the Ames Daily Tribune and widely known leader in Republican party circles, died Tuesday at Mary Greeley Hospital in Ames. He had undergone surgery Jan. 7.

Rupe had been publisher of the Tribune since 1935 and had enjoyed successful careers in journalism, politics, education, and philanthropy.

Only last year, he worked hard for the nomination and election of William Murray who became the Republican nominee for governor.

"Music Man" Willson Visits Legislature

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa's "music man" — Meredith Willson — and his wife were greeted with a standing ovation by members of the Iowa Legislature Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willson, here for the opening in Des Moines of Willson's hit musical "The Music Man", were escorted to the rostrum of the House after Gov. Herschel Loveless had delivered his "State of the State" address at a joint Senate-House meeting.

Willson said his appearance before the Legislature was "One of the proudest moments of my life."

4 SUI Profs Collaborate On Comm Skills Study

Many SUI sophomores, whether they know it or not, were major participants in a regulated, department-wide communications skills experiment last year.

The details of the study in different comm skills teaching methods and its results have now been published in a monograph entitled "Communication Skills — An Experiment in Instructional Methods."

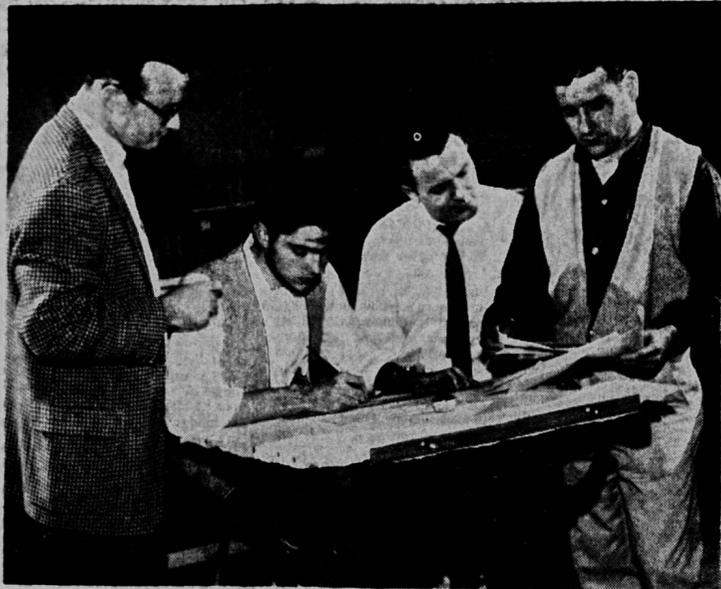

According to the monograph, several major problems in the instruction of communication skills have become apparent in the past few years. One of these problems is due to the fact that the majority of graduate students who are given "on the job" training as instructors are either literature or speech majors.

The monograph states that "their preparation is biased, lacking in some of the basic aspects of the material covered in communication skills courses."

OTHER PROBLEMS include providing better training of staff members, making maximum use of instructional resources, and raising the level of instruction by utilizing experts in the presentation of the principles of communication.

In an effort to provide a partial solution to these problems the Communications Skills Department divided its 1957-1958 enrollment into three basic treatment groups for the experiment.

Governor Given Head—With Moral

DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. Herschel Loveless received something unusual in Tuesday's mail.

It was a simulated shrunken head.

The small black head, made of rubber, was sent to the governor by the Cedar Rapids Executives Association.

A letter, which accompanied the gift, said: "We present the great governor of Iowa a relic of former centuries that may be of interest to you."

"Hearsay and rumor have it," the letter continued, "that this shrunken head originally enjoyed being part and parcel of one of the earliest governors of South America."

"History appears to prove that the opposition" got the best of him, causing him to turn black with rage and to ultimately lose his head."

Home Ec Club To Discuss Packing

Evidence of poor planning in suitcase packing for the Rose Bowl trip suggested the topic for the Home Economics Club meeting to be held at 4:30 today in the large dining room at Macbride Hall.

Dixie Kerr, A3, Iowa City, will present the program geared to college girls on packing a suitcase properly. She will also give the girls laundry tips and suggestions on storage of personal things for girls living in the dorms.

'Slow And Easy' Describes Methods Of The Map Maker

Amidst the fast moving courses offered SUI there is at least one course where the student can make good progress by taking his time.

According to Edwin Thomas assistant professor of the cartography branch of the SUI Geography Department, students in cartography (map-making and map interpretation) get more done by drafting maps slowly and carefully. It takes less time to apply the ink with care and precision than it does to have to take it off as a result of careless mistakes, he pointed out.

Thomas said that whenever a geographer is stumped with a problem his first inclination is to "map it." In geography the map is used as a graphic analytical device, employing dots, lines, and area patterns, to suggest ideas and hypotheses which can be tested by mathematical and statistical techniques.

Compared with other kinds of maps, the analytical map must portray spatial distribution clearly and with relative objectivity, Thomas said.

In addition to the analytical map, there are two other broad types—the reference map, such as the all inclusive National Geographic Society map, and the illustrative map, which is clear but not necessarily objective and is drawn to emphasize a particular characteristic of a spatial distribution, Thomas said.

The reference map is used like an encyclopedia, and because of the amount of material shown on it, frequently appears cluttered, he noted.

"From conception to completion, the development of a finished map is a slow and costly process," Thomas said. "First of all the geographer has to have clearly in mind the use to which the map is to be put. For example, a map which is to be used by the general public might have a set of characteristics entirely different from those used in a map for a 6th grade geography class or a map for an audience of professional geographers."

"The geographer must also organize the material to be portrayed on the map. For an analytical, statistical map, as an example, the geographer must select class intervals, which divide the data into meaningful divisions. The geographer, considering his problem, selects those intervals which will portray the data most realistically."

Next, Thomas continued, the geographer selects a base map which may be of the type which is either conformal or equal-area. The conformal map is one with good shapes but the areas are distorted. On the other hand, the equal-area maps have good areas but the shapes are badly distorted. The smaller the surface of the map the less problem there is with areas and shapes. Again the type of "projection" employed for the map is largely determined by the problem at hand.

Knowing the shape of his basic area, the geographer then does a layout or map design, he continued. This consists of a roughly sketched map with enough space for the map legend or key which contains the scale of the map, the date, the name, the place, the source of the data, and other pertinent information.

The final phase in which the geographer-cartographer has a very active interest is in the execution of the original map in ink, Thomas concluded. After all desirable information is placed on one map in pencil, it is redrafted in ink. This inked copy then may be reproduced for many purposes such as a wall map, as a text book map, or it may appear in professional journals.

Cartography, Thomas said, is used extensively in city planning, marketing, graduate geography work, and by various federal agencies such as the Army Map Service.

Gov. Faubus Offers New School Plan

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who closed Little Rock's public high schools to block integration, Tuesday proposed what he apparently considers a long-range solution to the racial problem.

The governor, in his address, asked the Arkansas General Assembly to consider a constitutional amendment which would permit school districts at their option to allot each student his prorata share of public educational funds for use at any school of his choice.

Such a plan would permit districts where no attempt has been made to integrate to continue segregated public schools while clearing the way for use of public funds in private, segregated schools in districts faced with court orders to integrate, Faubus said.

Mikoyan Eludes Handful Of N. Y. Refugee Pickets

NEW YORK (UPI) Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrived from Los Angeles Wednesday at Idlewild Airport where he was met by a handful of Iron curtain refugees shouting "Red murderers!"

More than 200 policemen were stationed at the airport to head off any violence by demonstrators. Only about 20 to 30 pickets showed up.

Police kept them in a parking lot area, about four blocks from where Mikoyan's plane landed.

Mikoyan and his party were whisked to waiting limousines without the demonstrators being able to catch a glimpse of him. The pickets carried placards that read: "Don't try to cut our throats, Mikoyan, Berlin is just one step of Red expansion to West," and "today, Berlin, tomorrow Washington."

Prison Garb
Some of the pickets wore striped black-and-white prison garb over their regular clothes. The uniforms were replicas of that worn by prisoners of the Soviet Union.

The pickets at the airport included Dr. Bela Fabian, chairman of the Federation of Former Hungarian Prisoners. He waved a placard that read: "Six returned. Where are the 11 other American Airman?" That was a reference to the crash of an American Air Force plane behind the Iron Curtain last year.

Fabian and the other pickets protested the police insistence that they remain well away from the Mikoyan party.

"When (Sir. Winston) Churchill was here, the Communist pickets were treated very politely," said Fabian. "They were permitted to come very close to him. I want to get the same treatment that the Communists got when they picketed Mr. Churchill."

Police were stationed on the roofs of buildings for Mikoyan's arrival. Other police were placed in strategic positions along the route into Manhattan.

Mikoyan waved to newsmen when he stepped off the plane with Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov. A group of 6-foot uniformed policemen and detectives quickly surrounded him as he reached the end of the ramp. The police, towering over the short and stocky Mikoyan, escorted him immediately to a limousine parked nearby.

Police were determined to avoid any egg and rock-throwing demonstrations such as have occurred at some other cities during Mikoyan's tour of the country.

Arkady Sobolev, Russia's permanent representative to the U.N., and Richard C. Paterson Jr., representing Mayor Robert F. Wagner, were among those greeting Mikoyan. As the motorcade pulled away, it swerved into a back route out of the airport so that Mikoyan never saw the shouting pickets.

At the Soviet U.N. delegation headquarters, 68th St. and Park Ave., there were 245 policemen stationed to prevent any incidents, and there were no pickets there in sight in advance of his arrival.

Mikoyan arrived on a regular United Airlines flight. He and his party remained aboard the plane until the rest of the passengers got off.

A police spokesman said the security force paralleled the precautions taken for visits of President Eisenhower to New York.

Fabian met with Mayor Robert F. Wagner at city hall this morning to protest police restrictions on the Federation's plans for "peaceful protest demonstrations." The Hungarian leader was accompanied by Robert Morris, Federation attorney.

Besides the picketing at Idlewild, the Federation and other refugee groups planned demonstrations when the Russian trade expert addresses the Economic Club of New York today at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, and when he attends a reception at the Council of Foreign Relations on Thursday.

Mikoyan is scheduled to confer with President Eisenhower in Washington on Saturday.

On his arrival here Jan. 4 to begin his good-will tour of the United States, Mikoyan avoided planned demonstrations by refugee groups by driving directly to Washington in a motorcade instead of stopping at the Soviet United Nations Headquarters on Park Avenue.

In his protest to Wagner, Fabian said the Federation had been told that Pickets would not be permitted to set foot on the square block on which the Waldorf-Astoria is located, but would have to picket from across the street. The police also banned requiem music and black flags of mourning.

Morris said that Wagner upheld the police restrictions.

"The pickets will be protesting the economic club's inviting one of the butchers of Budapest, who is responsible for Soviet savagery against the Hungarian people as well as his role in the unlawful detention of American fliers whose plane was shot down illegally during the past year," said Morris.

Mikoyan will hob-nob with some of Wall Street's top executives at the Economic Club dinner in the hotel's Grand Ballroom. More than 1,000 business executives are expected to attend. Mikoyan, in his speech, is expected to once more put in a plug for expanded trade between the U.S. and Russia.

In Los Angeles, Mikoyan and his party went to the airport in a 12-car motorcade escorted by 15 motorcycle officers. There were no demonstrations.

During his visit there, Mikoyan clowned on a Hollywood movie set with comedian Jerry Lewis, appeared on a local television show, toured UCLA and lunched with prominent businessmen and educators.

He said he had received the "best impression of the American people" despite the public demonstrations that occurred during his visits to Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and San Francisco.

"Thorough, skilled investigation of traffic accidents is basic to establishing proper enforcement, education and engineering procedures," Holcomb explained.

The men will study such subjects as investigating accident scenes, questioning drivers and witnesses, estimating speed from skidmarks, making reports, deciding what charges to file, and testifying in court.

Instructors in the course will be experienced investigators, physicians, and attorneys, Holcomb said. Classes will meet at the Iowa Center for Continuation Study on the SUI campus.

Reds To Hold Exposition In New York; U.S. Plans One For Moscow This Summer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Soviet Union has leased two floors of the giant New York Coliseum for its first exposition in the U.S. since the 1939-40 World's Fair, it was announced Tuesday.

The announcement followed by two weeks the signing of an agreement between the U.S. and the Russians calling for a reciprocal exchange of scientific, technological and cultural exhibits this summer.

The U.S. is planning to spend more than 3 million dollars on an exhibit in Sokolniki Park in Moscow.

Eastern And Western Railroad Officials Disagree On Subsidies

CHICAGO (UPI) — Officials of 17 major railroads and 13 cities discussed Federal subsidies to railroads Tuesday and wound up in an east-west split blamed on a difference in "political climate."

Generally, western railroad officials struck harshly at all Federal "handouts," while eastern railroads said that without either tax relief or governmental help, commuter service is doomed.

New Jersey was named as being especially antagonistic to railroads.

Rioting, Unrest, Bring Congo Suffrage, Independence Promises

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The Belgian Government Tuesday promised the Congo independence in the future and voting rights this year.

The Government declaration, read in Parliament, was received with apparent calm in Leopoldville, capital of the big African colony, where unrest over independence exploded into riots last week.

At least 42 Africans were killed and 208 injured in the disturbances. Troops patrolled Leopoldville as the statement was released.

Rumor Molotov To Be Boosted To Ambassador To The Hague

MOSCOW (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said Tuesday the Dutch Government had agreed to the appointment of former Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov as Soviet Ambassador to the Hague.

Molotov, a member of the "anti-party group" ousted in disgrace from high Kremlin positions in July, 1957, has been serving as Ambassador to Outer Mongolia at Ulan Bator.

There has been no official comment as yet from Moscow or the Hague on Molotov's change of posts.

Bill Graham Victim Of Campaign Stress; May Have To Slow Down

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UPI) — Weary evangelist Billy Graham entered the Mayo Clinic Tuesday to discover whether a spasm in his left eye means the time has come for him to slow down.

The 40-year-old revivalist turned himself over to the Mayo Clinic specialists and began a series of exhaustive medical tests.

His personal physician, Dr. Kenneth Gieser said the eye ailment was caused by stress, strain and nervous tension.

will be the only one outside Examinations Service who will have seen this year's French final. He said that he will make up the test, type it and take it to the Testing Service himself. After that, he said, "It will be kept in a place which it takes about five keys to even get at it."

There will be no opportunity for students to obtain the Spanish final either, according to Miss Davis. She said that she makes up the tests herself, locks them up and carries the key with her. She also said that the monitors of the Spanish tests are instructed to be very careful.

Professor Lewis said that the Psychology Department knows where every examination booklet is. They are passed out in sequence and must be handed in at the end of the test, Lewis added. If there is no exam book for the student there is no grade either

Roving Red Wins Hearts, Headlines; And Headshakes

LONDON (UPI) — Anastas Mikoyan hammed his way into headlines across Europe on his American tour.

The super-salesman from Armenia had a ready audience in newspapers from London to the Vatican. All gave big, black headlines to his comments on world affairs. Many gave bigger headlines to his clowning with the stars in Hollywood.

Ever since the Soviet First Deputy Premier arrived in New York to start his "unofficial" tour, European papers have been publishing columns of cabled reports about his news conferences and the demonstrations by egg-throwing Hungarian refugees.

Moscow newspapers also have been playing up his trip — although without mention of the demonstrations.

Mikoyan made his biggest press splash of all in Europe with dispatches on how he cavorted on the set with Hollywood stars yesterday.

"Mr. Mikoyan Gambols on Hollywood Set," said the normally reserved London Daily Telegraph.

"Some papers started calling him 'Mik.'"

In Paris, the Paris-Journal headlined: "Mikoyan's Slavic Charm Conquers Hollywood."

Peace Officers To Meet Here

About 40 peace officers are expected to begin an intensive 1-week course in accident investigation Jan. 26 at SUI.

Police officers, county sheriffs, and members of the Iowa Highway Safety Patrol will be enrolled in the course, Richard L. Holcomb, chief of the bureau of police science of the University's Institute of Public Affairs, said today.

"Thorough, skilled investigation of traffic accidents is basic to establishing proper enforcement, education and engineering procedures," Holcomb explained.

The men will study such subjects as investigating accident scenes, questioning drivers and witnesses, estimating speed from skidmarks, making reports, deciding what charges to file, and testifying in court.

Instructors in the course will be experienced investigators, physicians, and attorneys, Holcomb said. Classes will meet at the Iowa Center for Continuation Study on the SUI campus.
