Iowa City Jobs Total $1,235,041

Contracts for construction of the new junior high school and rehabilitation of the present junior high buildings were awarded to four firms Tuesday afternoon by the Iowa City School Board.

Iowa City voters May 13 approved a $1,448,000 bond issue for this project. Of this amount, $1,268,000 is for construction of the new school and $180,000 is for work on the present buildings.

Local Firm Has Low Bid
Frantz Construction Co., Iowa City, was awarded the general construction contracts for both the new and the old schools. This firm submitted the low bids of $760,000 on work on the new school and $63,000 for work on the old school.

In addition, the firm offered an alternate of using vinyl instead of asbestos tile for $14,000 more. The Board wanted vinyl tile, but allowed firms to bid more to install it. Eight firms bid for the general construction contracts. Bids were allowed on each project separately or on both projects combined. Three contracts were awarded for each project: general, mechanical, and electrical. A single bid for all three contracts was possible.

Kehrer Wheatland, Inc., Cedar Rapids, was awarded the mechanical contract for the new school with the low bid of $221,000.

The mechanical contract for the old school was awarded to C. F. Puth Co., Inc., Cedar Rapids, which submitted the low bid of $59,554.

Nine firms bid for the mechanical contracts.

Frandel Electric Co., Cedar Rapids, was awarded the electrical contracts for both schools. Frandel beat four other firms with a low combined bid of $132,487.

29 Teaching Rooms
The new junior high school, which will be located on a site north of the Rock Island Railroad tracks and east of First Avenue, will be a 2-story brick building with 29 teaching rooms. It will meet all modern safety and fireproof tests, representatives from Kingscott and Associates, Davenport architectural firm, who submitted plans and specifications to the board last month said.

900-Student Capacity
Final plans call for a building that will hold 750 students at ideal capacity and 900 students at maximum capacity.

The band and chorus units will be soundproof to prevent interference with other classes.

The gymnasium will be modern with folding bleachers and a uniform drying room in addition to the usual equipment. A large canvas curtain will be used to divide the gym into separate gyms.

Plans call for a combination cafeteria-auditorium. The room will hold 300 persons for eating and 600 persons for programs. A stage will be at one end of the room, and the tables will fold to allow quick conversion into an auditorium.

Work on the present junior high school will include establishing two exits in every room in case of fire, revamping of the heating system, and building a covered passage-way between the main building and the gymnasium.

Showcase Trial No. 2: Verdict, Death

Trial Of Third Major "Hatchet Man" Next

HAVANA (UPI) — A revolutionary courtmartial Tuesday condemned Maj. Pedro Morejon Valdes to death by a firing squad as one of ousted President Fulgencio Batista's three major "hatchet men."

Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, another member of the trio, was sentenced to death by the same revolutionary tribunal last Friday. The third, Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grao (CQ) was expected to be tried next.

Verdicts Appealed

Both Morejon Valdes and Sosa Blanco have appealed the verdict to the superior war board.

Nine other men convicted of "war crimes" by revolutionary tribunals elsewhere in Cuba were reported facing early execution. They were tried in Santiago and Manzanillo, Oriente Province; Santa Clara and Cabaiguán, Las Villas Province, and Cardenas, Matanzas Province.

Capt. Humberto Sori Marin, the Army's advocate general, met with 10 Army attorneys to consider immediate formation of two additional revolutionary tribunals to speed the trials.

Two newspapers reported meanwhile that a possible counter-revolutionary plot was thwarted in Pinar Del Rio Province, west of Havana.

Counter-Revolutionists Arrested

Revolution, the organ of Fidel Castro's July 26 Revolutionary movement, reported that 10 members of Batista's dissolved Army, including one lieutenant, were arrested on charges of conspiratorial activity in the town of San Cristobal.

Many men were arrested and arms seized, Crisol reported.

Fidel Castro returned from his triumphal 4-day visit to Caracas, Venezuela, early Tuesday. His departure from the Venezuela capital was marred by tragedy when one of the chief leaders of Castro's revolutionary army, Maj. Francisco "Paco" Cabrera, 37, was killed by one of the propellers as he was going to board Castro's plane.

School Classroom, Teacher Shortage Reduced Slightly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's shortage of school classrooms was reduced slightly last year. But enrollment in public schools last fall ran about 1,843,000 in excess of the normal capacity of existing classrooms.

The 1958 excess enrollment compared with 1,943,000 reported in the fall of 1957.

The states said they had 1,233,000 classrooms available for use last fall.

Total enrollment in the public schools was put at 33,936,000, up 1,148,000 over the previous year.

The number of teachers increased from about 1,253,000 in the fall of 1957 to about 1,300,000 last fall.

Economically Superior By 1970: Nikita

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev Tuesday launched a campaign for the economic conquest of the West that was designed to put Russia ahead of the United States by 1970.

He proclaimed the Communist doctrine that neither hot or cold war was inevitable against capitalism in his message to the opening of the 21st Soviet Communist Party Congress. He stressed that while Russia wanted peaceful competition, it was keeping itself well-armed with missiles.

Shortest Working Week

He spoke for six hours five minutes on everything from Germany and Berlin to giving Russians the shortest working week in the world and each family an apartment. His every point drew loud applause.

He disclosed that military strength would not be sacrificed. "Massive serial production of intercontinental missiles is under way," he said.

The premier did not elaborate. But he warned that Russia, with its cosmic rocket and satellites, had missiles to hit any point on earth.

The United States will be "outstripped" by 1970 in the new "realistic" Russian plan, he said.

Khrushchev visualized stepped up Russian production under the 1959-1965 7-year plan. Then, within the next five years, or by 1970, the time will come when Russia has "the decisive edge" in the world.

He called for an 8.6 per cent annual increase in Soviet production and said America's annual increase was only 2 per cent.

Admits U.S. Lead

He admitted that the United States industrial production per capita now was double Russia's and that American agricultural production was 40 per cent ahead.

Khrushchev called for a 1965 production target of 65 to 70 million tons of pig iron, 86 to 91 million tons of steel, and 65 to 70 million tons of rolled stock. Other metal should double to 230 to 240 million tons. Electric power stations must double capacity.

The national income is to rise as much as 65 per cent, he said.

To the workers and farmers who will be the backbone of the economic effort, Khrushchev promised "the shortest working day and working week" as well as abolishment "in the near future" of personal taxes. (These now run only 7.8 per cent of the Government revenues.)

Housewives can expect 50 per cent more living conveniences and appliances and 70 per cent more food. There will be apartments for every family, with 15 million housing units to be built, in seven years, he said.

International Scene

He made these points on the international scene: Russia stands pat on its demand that the Western allies get out of West Berlin by May 27.

A German peace treaty is needed because West Germany is becoming a nuclear rocket base.

Communist China's communes are not opposed by Russia. Russia considers it a duty to work for another summit parley.

Russia and the Mid-East countries see eye-to-eye in the fight against imperialism, despite Soviet-Arab ideological differences.

Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan's American tour can lead to an improvement in Soviet-American relations.

Russia wants a "zone of peace, free from Atomic weapons," in the entire Pacific Ocean and Far East. This was a new proposal, complementing the Communist "denuclearized" zone plan for central Europe.

Snow Rabbit

"HARVEY, did you say something?" Susan Scott, freshman at City High School, seems anxious to hear the advice of the rabbit on her lawn at 903 Iowa Ave. Susan said, "Harvey appeared last Saturday when brother Bill, A4, was home alone supposedly writing a book report."

Between Semester Doldrums, Students Take Trip On Raft

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Three college students, cramped together on a 15-year-old Army surplus rubber raft, are getting more exercise than sleep on a trip they hope will end at New Orleans.

"We've been gone from Cincinnati about 50 hours," said Mike O'Connell, "and I guess we've had only five hours of sleep. Mainly we've been fighting to keep warm."

O'Connell and his companions, Jim Kappas, 23, and his brother John Kappas, 19, were hit by between-semester doldrums at Xavier University. They decided on the raft trip to New Orleans in time for Mardi Gras, Feb. 10.

"We thought we should wait until it warmed up," said O'Connell when the raft docked here Monday. "Then we thought the heck with it—let's take off."

The trio, all football players, financed the trip by a student pool. Their Xavier buddies donated toward expense money on a chance of winning the pool.

Each contributor selected a down-river town where he figured the journey would end. The person picking the right town will be paid off at odds of 5-1, based on his investment.

They collected $140, most of which went for the raft and heavy clothing.

The distinguished educator and former ambassador said he had one general criticism of the schools he has visited: The academically talented students, whose generally in the upper 15 per cent of their class, aren't being challenged enough, and aren't offered programs with a wide enough range.

He submitted a list of 21 specific recommendations for strengthening public high schools within their present framework.

One was a basic course of studies to be taken by every student, including four years of English and three or four years of social studies. For the brighter students, the program would be considerably tougher and include four years of math and four years of one foreign language. The latter program would call for 15 hours of home work each week.

"Aside from this important change," he said, "I believe no radical alteration in the basic pattern of American education is necessary in order to improve our public high schools."

One Will Pilot First Manned U.S. Satellite

To Reduce Candidates To 12 By March

NEW YORK (AP) — One hundred and ten rugged young Americans have "made the squad" which will provide America's entry into the race to put the first man into orbit around the earth.

This was disclosed Tuesday night by Dr. T. Keith Glennan, U. S. space chief, in a surprise addition to a speech.

The potential American pioneers were not listed by name. Glennan said the 110 carefully chosen men will be reduced to 12 by late March.

Glennan, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told of the plans in a talk to the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

Project Mercury

He said volunteers for this U.S. flight would be known as Mercury Astronauts; America's manned satellite venture is known as Project Mercury.

Whether one or more of the astronauts is actually the first human to go into orbit around the world will depend in large measure, of course, on whether America's program beats the Russians'.

Glennan made his announcement in these words: "The process has begun to select the U.S. citizen who will become our 20th century Mercury, orbiting the earth in space."

Necessary Characteristics
Glennan gave these as characteristics of the man to be finally selected:

1. A university graduate, with a degree in the physical sciences or in engineering.

2. A graduate of one of the military test-pilot training schools with at least 1,500 hours of flying time.

3. Younger than 40, and no taller than 5 feet 11.

4. In superb condition, with the physical and psychological characteristics best suited for space flight as determined by the aeromedical scientists who are helping NASA in Project Mercury.

"We are determined that the risks to the pilot will be no greater than those experienced during the first flight of a new, high performance airplane," Glennan said.

"Repeated flight of the space capsule, first carrying only instruments, and later animals, will have tested and proven the practicability of the final phase of Project Mercury—manned satellite flight—before it is undertaken."

Glennan said the first step in the selection process has been completed. This was the screening of the records of Air Force Navy and Marine officers who have been graduated from the services' test-pilot schools.

On the basis of requirement set up by NASA's Aero-Medical Committee headed by Dr. W. Randolph Loveless of Albuquerque, N.M., the 110 most likely candidates were selected.

Starting early next month these candidates will come to Washington in groups of about 10 to be given a full description of Project Mercury by NASA, Army, Navy and Air Force biomedical experts.

36 Will Be Chosen
Glennan said 36 will be chosen from those who answer affirmatively, for the next step in the selection process.

This smaller group will be given a series of intensive physical and psychological tests, including studies of their ability to cope with space flight stresses.

It is expected that 12 volunteers will have to be chosen by late March to begin a training program that will progressively close closer to those of orbital space flight.

Hawaii Statehood Drive Over 1st Hurdle; Approval Certain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Interior Committee wound up the first phase of its hearing on statehood for Hawaii Tuesday. Early approval of statehood legislation appeared certain.

No Opponents Appear

Committee chairman Leo W. O'Brien (D-N.Y.) said the group had originally planned to hear testimony today from opponents of Hawaiian statehood but that so far no one had requested permission to appear.

Consequently, O'Brien said, he hoped the committee could start a line-by-line consideration of the legislation Thursday and hand the House Rules Committee a bill by Feb. 8.

House Democratic leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) already has promised his cooperation in scheduling a House test "as quickly as possible" after the committee adopts a bill.

At Tuesday's hearings, spokesmen for the Pentagon, State Department and organized labor put their stamp of approval on making Hawaii the 50th state.

Be Careful Where You Park Tonight

Parking will be prohibited on the west side of portions of Clinton and Capitol Streets from midnight tonight to 7 a.m. Thursday in order to facilitate snow removal operations.

The areas affected will be from Market to Church Streets on Clinton Street, and Burlington to Benton Streets on Capitol Street. Motorists may park on the east side, however.

Manes, chief of naval operations for the Administration, said the pending legislation appeared to safeguard U.S. military interests.

He added, however, that the Defense Department hopes to work out an amendment eliminating the necessity for renegotiating terms governing military use of some 114,000 acres of leased or ceded land on the islands.

State Department Endorsement
State Department endorsement of statehood for the island territory came in a short statement. And George D. Riley, AFL-CIO legislative representative, gave the nod from organized labor.

The only dissenting note was a brief exchange over alleged Communist influence in the island's economic and political life.

Rep. James A. Haley (D-Fla.), one of the few statehood opponents on the committee, argued that Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) still has a stranglehold on Hawaii's economy.

But O'Brien, who headed a fact-finding committee to Hawaii last year, disclosed that a "very high source" informed the group there were only 25 known Communists in the territory.

Ralph Beck Jr., a vice president and personnel manager of the Hawaiian Telephone Company, asserted in reply to Haley that Communist influence in the islands has been "greatly overemphasized."

Beck also noted that only about 10 per cent of Hawaii's 210,000-man labor force belong to the ILWU. He strenuously denied that the union had the power to tie up the island's economy or even its waterfront.

NEW BUILDING includes: First floor, twelve classrooms, typing room, library, speech, health and conference rooms; Ground floor, two homemaking rooms, three classrooms, two general science rooms, arts crafts, general shop rooms, gym, cafeteria, band and music facilities. Site of the new building will be north of the Rock Island tracks and east of First Avenue.

Friendship

When The Money Stops, Ties Strained

By J. M. ROBERTS AP News Analyst

For years the United States has been so intent on maintaining the well-being of her friends around the world that now she cannot refuse a request or put her own interests first without getting into trouble.

Events following her decision to back away from financing the Aswan Dam in Egypt have become historical.

The British press this week has been full of recrimination because a low-bidding British concern lost a Federal government contract for turbines for an Arkansas power project to a Philadelphia company located in an area of unemployment.

The heavy electric machinery industry has been a recession victim. The Government considers it vital to preserve this industry because of its relation to national defense.

But you'd think from the criticism in Britain that the United States was backing away from her policy of aiding freer foreign trade.

The normally balanced London Times thinks the United States is flipping over to a protectionist line.

The Financial Times, also of London, says the case affects the possibility of further extending the recent liberalization of silver convertibility into dollars.

Other papers have been hollering for two days, and the British Government has launched a campaign in Washington for reversal of the decision, although denying its action represents a formal protest.

Less than $2 million is involved. There's also a campaign of criticism in the Philippines. Some time ago agreements were made for American loans to aid various industrial developments there.

Much of the money has been held up pending completion of project plans satisfactory to the United States. Just like when your banker insists that you establish a sound operation before he advances you money for business expansion.

But they're mad about it over there, talking about greater orientation toward Asia rather than the United States. Ambassador Romulo has been called home from Washington and the United Nations, technically for consultations but actually to emphasize the protest.

Papa Needs Them The United States wants to help the new Cuban regime. But Fidel Castro has talked about nationalizing many industries developed by American capital. This causes embarrassment, heightened by the circus atmosphere developing around the war criminal trials.

Pakistan and Iran, Baghdad Pact members, are insisting on stronger wording of new mutual assistance agreements than the United States, a participating non-member, feels she can grant.

Sometimes it reminds of kids kicking daddy on the shin to make him increase their allowances. But they're his, he needs them, and anyway he's got to look after them.

Letters To The Editor

Final 'Names-News' Note

To the editor:

The defense of your action in placing the story of Kevin Furlong's arrest on the front page is well stated—if we accept your premise that "Names can make the news."

It is also true that men who become famous soon learn that they're objects of journalistic attention off stage as well as on stage.

When a football player turns in a commendable performance on the playing field, that is newsworthy material. When he breaks a law there is no reason why a newspaper should appeal to the gossip instinct in all of us by giving the event undue prominence.

This kind of reporting is understandable, though not justifiable, in a paper which must compete for subscribers. There is no reason why it should exist in the Daily Iowan.

Like Who's On Jazz

To the editor:

What's the difference whether we have this Bernard Peiffer jazz outfit or not. I for one have never heard of the man. Maybe I'm out of date, but I just don't grasp the significance of this new trend in music.

Why can't we have more entertainment that everyone can enjoy, instead of just the minority of "real people."

In the field of soloists I'd much rather hear Doris Day than any bearded saxophone player's unintelligible score.

William A. DeBlonk, E2 A90 Quadrangle

Can You Criticize The Boss And Still Keep Your Job?

To the editor:

While Senator Morse is standing up for the principle of greater justice in the Cuban revolutionary trials and Elgin Baylor is standing up for the principle of civil rights in America, most of us here in Iowa City remain contentedly seated.

I have been informed by a student who works as a waiter in one of the men's residence halls that he is being suspended from his job at the end of the semester because of his "disparaging remarks about the food being served."

Even if the meals at this residence hall were superlative examples of culinary art (a purely hypothetical situation, as could be attested to by 700 lean young men), such a dismissal policy would be an outrage.

Civil liberties, like charity and incest, begin at home—and in the kitchen. If a student in a part-time, temporary job is not permitted to complain in whatever non-defamatory way he likes about the food he eats and serves, without the fear of being ousted from his position, there is not much liberty left.

The incident is trivial; the implications, frighteningly vast. I sincerely hope that there was more reasoning behind the dismissal than this single charge of "gripping."

Berates Barrett For Beating A Dead Horse

To the editor:

Righteous indignation can become rather tedious at times. Larry Barrett's recent article fits this category. I wish he would stop beating the dead (or at least dying) horse.

It is saying is "Those who take direct action in a cause in which I believe are to be admired."

If this were not the case, we must assume he admires the direct action taken by the governors of Virginia and Arkansas for causes in which they believe as well.

However, it has to be admitted that I do enjoy his polemic; but that seems to be true of the majority of the University community.

Therefore, his recent advocacy of direct action in support of principles raises the question of why Mr. Barrett wastes his journalistic talents on us (comparatively speaking).

As a course of direct action for him in support of his principles, I hereby suggest that he put on his shining ivy league, buckle on his snow white motor scooter and put-putt down to the segregated matches where the unconstructed heathen are far more numerous.

SUI's loss will be society's gain and the principle of direct action will have been nobly demonstrated.

Review— Intruder

THE INTRUDER. By Charles Beaumont, Putnam, $3.95.

Adam Kramer's personable air conceals the diseased mind of a rabble-rouser who, in this novel, stirs up some vicious passions in a Southern town called Caxton.

The high school has been "integrated," the town doesn't like it and is resigned to the change. The considerable cast of characters with personality problems of one sort or another includes a backwoods preacher, a frustrated heir, a prostitute trying to go straight, a gullible teen-ager, and a rabid octogenarian.

Weak on literary polish, Beaumont is strong on story and moral. Your attention doesn't waver, you speed along rapidly, you arrive at a happy destination. —W. G. ROGERS

Mikoyan

Who Knows What Evil Kruks

By GEORGE DIXON King Features Syndicate

WASHINGTON — Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan proved such a drawing card that it's too bad we can't keep him around as a permanent attraction. If we could only make a steady display of him drinking American-made vodka with former New York Gov. Averell Harriman we wouldn't need any temperance lecturers.

Mr. Mikoyan visited Washington twice, and if he didn't win our hearts, he certainly gave us something to talk about. He will be a topic for some time to come. We shall be speculating as to what he really told Khrushchev about us. There is no sure way of assessing whether his tour of this country did us any good, but the chances are it didn't do much harm. He couldn't have done any spying of consequence because a spy has to listen. It is almost impossible to soak up the secret plans while talking out of all seven corners of the mouth.

There is always the danger, of course, that Mikoyan may not have drunk all the vodka Harriman poured for him, but surreptitiously poured some into a vial and taken it back to Russia for analysis. We shall feel sheepish if the Russians break down the formula for making vodka and claim they invented it.

Mikoyan suggested to a gathering of capitalists that American businessmen go over the head of the U.S. Government and trade with Russia. He didn't specify what we should trade, but how about rocket experts?

Well, it is interesting to have the No. 2 man of the U.S.S.R. here, rubbing elbows with us. Possibly we should now count elbows, to see if any are missing.

They're saying that Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson is ineligible for the Presidency because of the last amendment to the Constitution, which specifies that no man may serve more than two terms as the Nation's Chief Executive.

There are people here in Washington, especially on Capitol Hill, who will tell you the persuasive Texan is running everything. I would think twice before I said a thing like that. Okay — I've thought twice. He's running everything.

I still can't figure how he does it, because the generally accepted theory that he does it with charm doesn't seem sufficient. Too many of the Senators are charm-proof.

It takes Senator Johnson less than 8 kilowatt hours to make a new senator light up. Why, Gruening and Bartlett, from Alaska, had hardly finished tossing for which would have the title of "Senior Senator" before Johnson had them in the same corner with himself and the two senators from Mississippi, Eastland and Stennis.

I discussed the Johnson technique with Clair Engle, the new Democratic Senator from California. Senator Engle is an old veteran of the House and learned something about Texas-brand persuasion from Sam Rayburn. He said, in the rustic way these city boys affect:

"I don't know what Lyndon Johnson's got, but you sure got to brace yourself against it. "Then you're trying to buck him?" I suggested.

"I am not, Lyndon is a valuable piece of property. He sure holds a rough herd of mules together."

"Then," I said, borrowing his homespun style, "he's got you in his mule shed?"

"I ain't admitting that, either," returned Senator Engle, firmly. "All I will admit right now is that I backed him on his first motion before the 86th Congress."

"What was that?"

"A motion to recess. I reasoned with myself: 'If the Majority Leader can't adjourn, who can?'"

To the editor:

The following poem was sent me by one Alfred George, a close friend of mine from Cambridge, Massachusetts. Perhaps some of your readers will appreciate its light touch. The title is:

I have been guilty of unjustly charging the city with failure to remove snow from streets. Packing the snow into chasms created by the gas, etc., companies makes costly resurfacing jobs unnecessary.

Khrushchev sees a thaw in East-West relations. More than likely he's only looking towards an early spring like everyone else.

The Iowa Senate Highway Safety Committee approved a 70-mile-an-hour daytime speed limit. Well, that's better than a 150-mile-an-hour limit.

Somebody goofed. For the second semester in a row I (and other students unfortunate enough to have their last name begin with "K") have been scheduled to register the second day when many courses are closed. We should get a special schedule of courses — only half as thick.

Grapplers Defend Perfect Record At Madison Today

By GEORGE KAMPLING Staff Writer

Iowa's unbeaten wrestling team is in Madison today going after victory number five against the Badgers of Wisconsin. Iowa has beaten Illinois, Indiana, Michigan State, and Minnesota for a 4-0 record.

Wisconsin won the State Collegiate title, and won a quadrangular meet with Ohio State, Ohio University, and Baldwin-Wallace. In dual competition, they have split a pair—beating Illinois Normal, 17-15, and losing to Southern Illinois University, 23-9.

Bill Gordman, (3-2), 130; Earle Edwards, (3-1), 137; Jim Innis, (3-1), 147. At 157 is Tom Toman (3-0); 167, Gerald Modale (5-2); 177, John Flora (2-2); and unbeaten heavyweight Terry Huxley, (5-0).

For the Hawks are five grapplers with perfect records. They are Larry Moser (4-0) 123; Gene Luttrell (4-0) 137; Jim Craig (4-0) 177; Gordon Trapp (2-0) heavyweight; and Bob Riehm (1-0-3) 167. The rest of the lineup for Iowa will probably be John Kelly (3-1) 130; either Tom Halford or Joe Mullins in the 157-pound class, and either Don Tucker or Brian Kenyon in the 147 pound division.

Machen Files Suit To Halt Title Match

NEW YORK (AP) — Promoter Bill Rosenzohn went ahead Tuesday with plans to sign a Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title match by Thursday despite a federal court suit against the challenger from Sweden.

The suit was filed on behalf of Eddie Machen, Redding, Calif., heavyweight, who sought an order barring Johansson from fighting Patterson — or anybody else in the United States — until he fulfilled an alleged rematch agreement with him.

Machen was knocked out in one round by Johansson, Sept. 14, in Göteborg, Sweden. He claims he has a written agreement with the European heavyweight champ for a rematch in Chicago in late January or early February.

Rosenzohn said he had received word that the governor of Indiana and the mayor of Indianapolis both were interested in having the fight held in Indianapolis May 29. New York, Los Angeles and Colorado Springs also are seeking the fight.

Casey Backs Front Office On Salaries

At the same time he warned the athletes to either improve their training habits or face the possibility of a trade.

Stengelse Type Talk

"Some of the players, if they don't like it here, they'll be moving like some of those ball club did," he said in his best Stengelse. "Some individuals better not think they're bigger than the ball club."

Casey didn't mention names, but pulled no punches as he accused some of his hirings of breaking out past curfew, visiting out of bounds night spots, arriving late at the ball park, not giving out 100 per cent at all times and otherwise misbehaving.

"The trouble with some of our players is they don't know the difference between midnight and afternoon," he said.

More Strict In '59

"Some people seem to think I was too easy going last year. I'm going to be stricter next year. The players will have to be getting to bed by midnight and they'd better be getting to the game on time."

"There were three reasons for some of the pay cuts. The players didn't live up to their ability, they didn't live up to the rules, or they may be right when they say I didn't give them much of a chance to play."

"Maybe some of them deserve raises. But I know some of them don't. If I were to tell the front office about some of 'em, they wouldn't get nothing."

Packers Will Meet Today; Arizonan To Interview Burns

Iowa football coach Forest Evashevski and assistant Jerry Burns were mentioned in two Associated Press stories Tuesday.

GREEN BAY, Wis. — A special meeting of the board of directors of the Green Bay Packers Football Corporation has been called for today to discuss hiring of a new general manager and coach. Head Coach Ray McLean resigned at the end of a 1-10-1 season and Forest Evashevski of Iowa is the most prominent figure named as his possible successor.

Evashevski, however, is reported to have turned down a Green Bay offer in favor of finishing his 10-year contract at the Big Ten school. He has five years to go.

Athletic Director Dick Clausen went to Kansas City for the announced intention of interviewing Eddie Crowder, Oklahoma assistant coach.

While touring the Midwest, Clausen also is expected to talk with Iowa assistant Jerry Burns and Michigan State assistant Everett Grandelius. Burns indicated last week he is ready to listen to any offers.

Gunther 14 Points Back Of Cain In Record Bid

A man who was overlooked in last week's basketball statistics is about to be overtaken in scoring by Iowa's Dave Gunther within the next game or two.

It was reported last week that only two men had scored over 1,000 points for Iowa — Bill Logan and Chuck Darling. Carl Cain, a teammate of Logan's during the 1953-54 through 1955-56 campaigns, scored 1,054 in his three seasons and at the moment ranks third in Hawkeye scoring annals.

Gunther, however, went over the 1,000 point in Saturday's loss to Northwestern by scoring 24 points for a 1,017 total. His 23 Monday at Ohio State brings his 2-year plus total to 1,040 — only 14 behind Cain.

Logan holds the record with 1,188 while Darling scored 1,094. By maintaining a 20-point average in the final eight games, Gunther will become the new Iowa scoring champion.

Mac Lewis Signs Pro Pact With Cardinals

Mac Lewis, right tackle on Iowa's Big Ten and Rose Bowl champion football team, became the second member of the squad to sign a professional grid contract last week-end.

Lewis, who tips the scales at 305 pounds, signed with the Chicago Cardinals and will thus return home to play his pro ball. The 6'6" senior played his high school football at Morgan Park high in Chicago.

Capt. John Nocera signed with the Philadelphia Eagles earlier this month.

Dulles, Nixon Doubt Red's Talk Of Thaw

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles took a skeptical attitude Tuesday toward Russian hints of a cold war thaw. But he said the door was open for Big Four negotiations this spring on European and German problems.

Dulles said he thought the Communists were trying to win some political and military advantages for themselves and were using talk of ending the cold war as a cover for their motives.

But despite these suspicions of the recent soft talk from Soviet leaders, Dulles told a news conference that a meeting of foreign ministers from the United States, Russia, Britain and France would be timely.

Dulles said, however, that the first move to ease world tensions was up to Russia. He said the Soviets wanted to back away from their 1955 Geneva agreement on free elections to re-unify Germany, and it was up to them to suggest a workable alternative.

He said the United States was willing to listen to any sincere Russian proposal on Germany, even though the West still believed free elections were the best way.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, speaking in New York Tuesday night, said it was Russia which "began and insists on continuing the cold war."

"There is very little chance for a thaw in a world climate which is constantly subjected to the icy blasts of Soviet propaganda against all those who stand in the way of international Communism's drive to dominate the world," he said.

Nixon said Americans want a cold war thaw because "we realize that if there is none we will all eventually be frozen in the ice so hard that only a nuclear bomb will break it."

Dulles went into detail to illustrate his suspicion of recent statements about ending or thawing the cold war from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan.

He said Mikoyan, during his recent visit to the United States, made sweeping statements about encouraging trade between the two countries.

But when it got down to arm-length bargaining with U.S. officials, Dulles said, Mikoyan wanted this country to drop its controls on strategic materials to Russia, give the Soviet Union "most favored nation" trade status and extend large trade credits to Russia.

Dulles said Mikoyan offered the United States nothing in return. However, he said the United States clings to the hope that the Russians can be persuaded to make agreements fair to both sides.

Integration Of Norfolk Schools Set

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — A federal judge Tuesday struck down a plan by the Norfolk City Council to close all junior high and high schools here instead of opening some on a mixed racial basis.

The action by Judge Walter E. Hoffman apparently struck down the last barrier in the way of integration in public schools here.

Mayor W. Fred Duckworth said Norfolk's bench order "prevents the Council from doing what it deems to be in the best interest of the city," but said, pending an appeal, the Council would abide by the order.

In Richmond, meanwhile, Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. prepared to go before a special session of the legislature today to present a stop-gap program to stave off integration in Virginia.

Virginia's "massive resistance" laws against integration, which resulted in school closings in Norfolk, Charlottesville and Front Royal, crumbled a week ago under adverse court decisions.

In Charlottesville, the city council Tuesday adopted a resolution favoring a "minimum degree" of integration in preference to abolition of the schools.

In Norfolk, Hoffman held that the city council could not cut off school funds to close the schools because it fears violence if Negroes are admitted under federal court order to White schools.

He said that in attempting to close more schools, the council had "perpetrated an evasive scheme" to avoid integration.

The council had voted to cut off funds to all classes above the sixth grade, thus closing the schools.

The city board took an opposite stand, saying it was ready to operate all schools in this city — large or small — even on an integrated basis.

The judge, who earlier had directed the admission of 17 Negro students to six White schools, said he would issue an immediate injunction forbidding the planned closures next Monday.

His ruling followed by eight days the overthrow of Virginia's "massive resistance" laws. It cleared the way for the admission of the Negroes to six schools closed last fall by Almond under the now-defunct anti-integration laws.

Less than a month later, Russia's Lunik did exactly what the Army had tried to do. The important propaganda difference was that the Lunik weighed 3,245 pounds — 250 times as much as the Army's little Pioneer III.

The Air Force fired a mighty Atlas missile Tuesday night. The rocket's engines burned unusually long as it arched over the Atlantic missile range.

It was believed at first that it was another fairly routine test firing to make the Atlas more predictable and easier to use before putting it in the hands of troops.

The advance information here indicated the test was for only about 4,500 miles down range — nearly 2,000 miles short of full intercontinental capability.

But veteran "birdwatchers" on the cape here saw the Atlas rocket engines burning for six and a half minutes — longer than even the Atlas which hurled a satellite into orbit with President Eisenhower's Christmas "peace" message last month.

The firing followed by a few hours an announcement by Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev that Russia is now turning out ICBMs in "serial production."

The Air Force here described the shot only as another in the research and development series of the Atlas, and the Defense Department said any announcement would come from the cape.

The only apparent answer to the extremely long engine burning time appeared to be that the Atlas was sent up to an unusually high altitude — much higher than the 800-mile mark of the missile on an inter-continental range test — to gain data on nose cone re-entry at an ultra-high speed.

The nose cone on the Atlas appeared to be the same blunt cone used in several previous tests. The Atlas cone would be used to protect a 5,000-pound hydrogen warhead from atmospheric friction generating heat of some 4,000 degrees on re-entry into the Earth's atmosphere from space.

LEOPOLDVILLE, BELGIAN CONGO (UPI) — A band of Africans smashed traffic signals and stoned cars belonging to Europeans Tuesday in a brief demonstration in this Belgian Congo capital.

Police arrested six of the demonstrators, who had roamed angrily along streets in the area of the Avenue Prince Baudoin. They were dispersed without gunfire.

The demonstration apparently was sparked by rumors that a young African had been killed by a European resident.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Southern Democratic Senators Tuesday offered their solution to the school integration dispute — A proposed constitutional amendment to assure states and localities full control over education.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge (D-Ga.), who headed the list of eight Dixie sponsors of the amendment, said it would avert the "unparalleled catastrophe" of wholesale school closings.

The amendment would need the support of two-thirds of Congress and three-fourths of the 49 state legislatures.

SENATE APPROVES — The Iowa Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday turned down a House bill to appropriate one million dollars a year to pay teachers pensions. It said the cost estimate was too high.

Instead, the Senate group approved an amendment to the House bill that would appropriate $181,000 to pay pension claims until July 1.

A new bill then was approved that would appropriate $450,000 a year to take care of the estimated claims. It will be introduced as a Senate committee bill.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Air Force fired a mighty Atlas missile Tuesday night. The rocket's engines burned unusually long as it arched over the Atlantic missile range.

It was believed at first that it was another fairly routine test firing to make the Atlas more predictable and easier to use before putting it in the hands of troops.

Kidnaped N.Y. Baby Found Ill

NEW YORK (UPI) — A sick 28-day-old baby, kidnaped five days ago, was found by police Tuesday in the care of a 25-year-old mother of three. The woman said she stole the baby and led her husband to think it was her own.

"I was very proud of the baby," said the abductor's common-law husband. "I thought it looked like me."

The abducted infant was John Tavarez, who was taken from his parents' home when he was 23 days old. The abductor was Mrs. Asuncion Ortiz, who told police she stole the baby to replace her own infant who was still born two days before the kidnaping.

Mrs. Ortiz, a short, chunky woman, at first insisted to police and FBI agents the baby was her own. She change her story when confronted by blood and footprint tests that definitely established the baby belonged to Doralisa Tavarez, 31, and her husband, Jose, 30.

The baby had a severe cold when taken from the Tavarez apartment last Thursday. Examination at Roosevelt Hospital disclosed that the baby was suffering additionally from acute bronchitis and an intestinal infection and would have to remain in the hospital at least a week.

It was the second infant kidnaping in New York in a month. Lisa Rose Chionchio was kidnaped from a Brooklyn hospital two hours after she was born on Jan. 2. She was found 10 days later in the care of Mrs. Jeane Iavarone, a widowed grandmother, who is now undergoing mental tests in a hospital.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), offered the bill on behalf of 32 Democratic and six Republican co-sponsors believed conditions were FQ sponsors. He held a news conference the sponsors believed conditions were such now that the President would not veto the new version.

Rep. Daniel J. Flood (D-Pa.), said he expected 100 House members to back the bill at the outset. Terming it a "people's bill," he said it provided for local option and under no circumstances could be considered a "dole."

SENATE APPROVES — The Iowa Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday turned down a House bill to appropriate one million dollars a year to pay teachers pensions. It said the cost estimate was too high.

Instead, the Senate group approved an amendment to the House bill that would appropriate $181,000 to pay pension claims until July 1.

A new bill then was approved that would appropriate $450,000 a year to take care of the estimated claims. It will be introduced as a Senate committee bill.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Air Force fired a mighty Atlas missile Tuesday night. The rocket's engines burned unusually long as it arched over the Atlantic missile range.

It was believed at first that it was another fairly routine test firing to make the Atlas more predictable and easier to use before putting it in the hands of troops.

The advance information here indicated the test was for only about 4,500 miles down range — nearly 2,000 miles short of full intercontinental capability.

But veteran "birdwatchers" on the cape here saw the Atlas rocket engines burning for six and a half minutes — longer than even the Atlas which hurled a satellite into orbit with President Eisenhower's Christmas "peace" message last month.

The firing followed by a few hours an announcement by Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev that Russia is now turning out ICBMs in "serial production."

The Air Force here described the shot only as another in the research and development series of the Atlas, and the Defense Department said any announcement would come from the cape.

The only apparent answer to the extremely long engine burning time appeared to be that the Atlas was sent up to an unusually high altitude — much higher than the 800-mile mark of the missile on an inter-continental range test — to gain data on nose cone re-entry at an ultra-high speed.

The nose cone on the Atlas appeared to be the same blunt cone used in several previous tests. The Atlas cone would be used to protect a 5,000-pound hydrogen warhead from atmospheric friction generating heat of some 4,000 degrees on re-entry into the Earth's atmosphere from space.

LEOPOLDVILLE, BELGIAN CONGO (UPI) — A band of Africans smashed traffic signals and stoned cars belonging to Europeans Tuesday in a brief demonstration in this Belgian Congo capital.

Police arrested six of the demonstrators, who had roamed angrily along streets in the area of the Avenue Prince Baudoin. They were dispersed without gunfire.

The demonstration apparently was sparked by rumors that a young African had been killed by a European resident.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Southern Democratic Senators Tuesday offered their solution to the school integration dispute — A proposed constitutional amendment to assure states and localities full control over education.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge (D-Ga.), who headed the list of eight Dixie sponsors of the amendment, said it would avert the "unparalleled catastrophe" of wholesale school closings.

The amendment would need the support of two-thirds of Congress and three-fourths of the 49 state legislatures.

Ike Gives GOP Labor Reform Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower laid a broad new labor reform bill before key Republican members of Congress Tuesday and was reported to have won their unanimous support.

The President, who will send the measure to the House and Senate today, first discussed it with top GOP congressional chiefs at a 2½ hour White House meeting.

In a further effort to cement GOP backing, Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell then went to Capitol Hill to outline the measure in detail.

Mitchell said after meeting with the Senate GOP Policy Committee and Republican members of the House Labor Committee that all party members he talked to endorsed the bill.

GOP leaders frankly billed the Administration proposals as a challenge to a milder bill introduced by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

In a further stiffening of legislative battle lines, GOP Congressional leaders pledged their support to the President's efforts to balance the budget. The House GOP Policy Committee said it would oppose "extravagant" Democratic spending schemes that "can lead only to national disaster."

The 30-man committee said after a closed door meeting that it deplored "the numerous attacks on a balanced budget." It charged that Democrats were captives "of their own promises to powerful groups with a selfish interest in greater Federal handouts."

Republicans said they also planned to "blow the whistle" on Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson's prediction that Eisenhower would veto a lot of bills this year.

The administration's plan to link Taft-Hartley amendments with curbs on racketeering faces trouble in the heavily-Democratic House Labor Committee, which will hold its first meeting of the year tomorrow.

Democratic members will attempt then to set up a special subcommittee to draft a bill aimed solely at curbing rackets. One Democratic strategist said there was strong sentiment among Democratic committee members that anti-rackets legislation and Taft-Hartley changes should be completely divorced.

Grade School Pupils To Learn French

The Mark Twain Elementary School will begin a series of experimental classes in French for fourth, fifth and sixth graders today at the school. There are 22 students enrolled in the class, which is sponsored by the school's Parent-Teacher Association.

The classes will meet three times a week at 8:15 a.m., before the opening of the regular school day, for a 45-minute class. Mrs. Pauline Aspel, who will instruct the class, said sponsors of the plan hope the class will eventually be incorporated into the regular school curriculum.

Mrs. Aspel is a French instructor at University High School. She received degrees from the University of Paris and SUI. At present she is serving as president of the Iowa Chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French.

Mrs. Aspel said the idea for the experimental classes originated with Harry T. Muhly, professor of mathematics and astronomy and a member of the PTA group. Muhly sent questionnaires to parents of children in the middle elementary grades at the school to determine interest in the proposed classes.

When a favorable response was received a committee was chosen and the classes were planned.

The classes will be allowed to use school facilities, but a tuition fee is required for enrollment in the classes.

IS STUDYING NECESSARY?

Once there were three roommates and their names were Walter Pellucid, Casimir Ring, and LeRoy Holocaust and they were all taking English lit. They were all happy, friendly, outgoing types and they all smoked Philip Morris Cigarettes as you would expect from such a gregarious trio, for Philip Morris is the very essence of sociability, the very spirit of amity, the very soul of concord, with its tobacco so mild and true, its packs so soft and flip-top, its length so regular or long size. You will find when you smoke Philip Morris that the birds sing for you and no man's hand is raised against you.

Each night after dinner Walter and Casimir and LeRoy went to their room and studied English lit. For three hours they sat in sombre silence and pored over their books and then, squinty and spent, they toppled onto their pallets and sobbed themselves to sleep.

This joyless situation obtained all through September and October. Then one November night they were all simultaneously struck by a marvelous idea. "We are all studying the same thing," they cried. "Why, then, should each of us study for three hours? Why not each study for one hour? It is true we will only learn one-third as much that way, but it does not matter because there are three of us and next January before the exams, we can get together and pool our knowledge!"

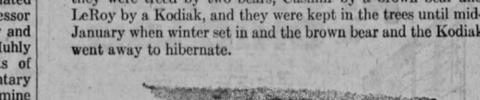

Oh, what rapture then fell on Walter and Casimir and LeRoy! They flung their beanies into the air and danced a schottische and lit thirty or forty Philip Morris and ran out to pursue the pleasure which had so long, so bitterly, been missing from their lives.

Alas, they found instead a series of grisly misfortunes. Walter, alas, went searching for love and was soon going steady with a coed named Invieta Breadstuff, a handsome lass, but, alas, hopelessly addicted to bowling. Each night she bowled five hundred lines, some nights a thousand. Poor Walter's thumb was a shambles and his purse was empty, but Invieta just kept on bowling and in the end, alas, she left Walter for a pin-setter, which was a terrible thing to do to Walter, especially in this case, because the pin-setter was automatic.

Walter, of course, was far too distraught to study his English lit, but he took some comfort from the fact that his roommates were studying and they would help him before the exams. But Walter, alas, was wrong. His roommates, Casimir and LeRoy, were nature lovers and they used their free time to go for long tramps in the woods. One November night, alas, they were treed by two bears, Casimir by a brown bear and LeRoy by a Kodiak, and they were kept in the trees until mid-January when winter set in and the brown bear and the Kodiak went away to hibernate.

So when the three roommates met before exams to pool their knowledge, they found they had none to pool! Well sir, they had a good long laugh about that and then rushed to the kitchen and stuck their heads in the oven. It was, however, an electric oven and the effects were, on the whole, beneficial. The wax in their ears got melted and they acquired a healthy tan and today they are married to a lovely young heiress named Ganglia Bran and live in the Canal Zone, where there are many nice boats to wave at.

And here's a wate at you filter smokers. Have you tried Marlboro—same fine flavor, new improved filter and better makin's—made by the makers of Philip Morris, sponsors of this column?
