Iowa Hopes To End Loss String At 2

By LOU YOUNKIN Sports Editor

First-place bent Michigan invades Iowa Fieldhouse tonight at 7:30 with a possibility of the top spot riding in the Big Ten conference game riding on the outcome.

The Wolverines, 3-1, trail league-leading Michigan State by one-half game and should Northwestern put a halt to the Spartans' march tonight at East Lansing, Michigan could reign supreme, at least momentarily, with a win over the Hawkeyes.

Iowa, however, is primed for the encounter after dropping its last two games to Northwestern a week ago, 99-96 in an overtime and to Ohio State, 86-72, Monday night. The Hawks are presently tied for eighth place in the loop with the Bucks with a 2-4 mark.

Michigan returned to action Wednesday after a semester examination layoff and downed Washington of St. Louis, 68-63. The Wolverines' overall record is 10-2. Iowa is 5-9.

The Hawkeyes have played good ball this season despite their sub-par record. Three of their four conference losses have been by a total of 12 points—the Ohio State loss being the only decisive one.

Even At Home

Iowa has broken even on its home floor so far, losing to Northwestern and downing Michigan State, 80-68 for the only black mark on the Spartans' conference ledger.

Michigan's only defeat in conference play was an 83-78 setback administered by Northwestern. Michigan's wins were 82-75 over Purdue, 84-74 over Wisconsin and 78-74 over Ohio State. The Wolverines have not lost on the road in conference play; the Purdue and Wisconsin games being on the road.

The contest will be carried by five Iowa radio stations and one Michigan station. KXIC, Iowa City will feed the Hawkeye Sports Network. The Iowa stations are WSUI, Iowa City; WHO and KRNT, Des Moines; WMT, Cedar Rapids and KOKX, Keokuk.

Wolverine coach Bill Perigo is expected to start the same five that has put Michigan back on the basketball map. That would find M. C. Burton, 6' 5", and George Lee, 6' 4", at forwards; Lowell Farris, 6' 3", at center and Terry Miller, 6', and John Tidwell, 6' 3", at guards. All but Farris are averaging in double figures to date.

Bill Would Start Children's Mental Clinic In Iowa City

DES MOINES (AP) — A new start on efforts to provide facilities for the care and treatment of emotionally disturbed or mentally retarded children at Iowa City was sought in a bill introduced in the Iowa House Friday.

The measure, offered by Reps. Scott Swisher (D-Iowa City) and Jack Milroy (R-Vinton), would do two things:

Return to the state general fund $130,000 appropriated by the 1955 Legislature for improvement of facilities at University Hospitals to provide for care and treatment of emotional disturbances or mental retardation of children.

Appropriate $170,000 for construction and equipment of such facilities.

Swisher and Milroy explained that none of the money provided in 1955 for this purpose, has been used because it was believed desirable to provide new facilities for emotionally disturbed children, rather than merely remodeling existing facilities.

They said the 1955 measure also allocated the money directly to University Hospitals and it was felt that the improvements should be under the auspices of the State Board of Regents instead.

23 Miles Off Greenland In 20-Foot Waves

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (UPI) — The Danish freighter Hans Hedtoft struck an iceberg off the southern coast of Greenland on its maiden voyage Friday and reported it was sinking with 95 persons aboard. A rescue ship radioed that it had reached the scene and found no sight of the distressed vessel in 20-foot waves.

The rescue ship, the German trawler Johannes Kreuss, reported that it had searched a large area in which the Hedtoft had said it was going down.

Can't Find Ship "On the scene," the Kreuss messaged. "Cannot see anything. Poor visibility."

Earlier the Kreuss had signaled that it was prepared to take off the 40 crew members and 55 passengers.

The Coast Guard said it understood there were 90 passengers and 40 crewmen aboard for a total of 130. But the ship's owners in Copenhagen said there were 95 aboard—40 crewmembers and 55 passengers. It added that the ship had accommodations for only 56 passengers. The ship owners said the passengers included 19 women and 6 children.

The last word received by the Kreuss, the nearest vessel to the area, from the stricken Hedtoft came at 3:08 p.m. when the Hedtoft messaged that it was "sinking slowly."

It was the first time a ship had hit an iceberg in the Atlantic during peacetime since the sinking of the Titanic in 1912, according to the Coast Guard in Washington.

Confused Identity The 650-ton Kreuss had earlier been reported to be the German motorship Justis Haslinger. But the Coast Guard in New York said a study of its call letters determined that it was the Kreuss at the scene instead of the Haslinger.

Earlier the Kreuss reported that it had lost radar contact with the Hedtoft after sighting what it believed to be the stricken ship.

The Hedtoft radioed a distress message at 2:36 p.m. saying, "I am slowly sinking and need assistance."

It was located then about 37 miles south southwest of Cape Farewell, on the southernmost tip of Greenland.

All ships in the area veered off their courses and plowed through snow, fog and high seas toward the ship, United States and Canadian rescue units swung into action.

Planes Forced Back A Canadian Air Force Lancaster bomber took off from nearby Torbay Air Base but poor visibility prevented it from heading to the stricken ship some 700 miles to the northeast. It was forced to put down at Goose Bay, Labrador, and was prepared to take off again at day break today.

The Royal Greenland Trade Department, operator of the Hans Hedtoft, said the 288-foot ship was completed last Dec. 19 and was believed to be making its way back to Copenhagen after several stops in Greenland on its first voyage.

SUI Religion Week Will Explore Arts

Final plans for Religion-In-Life Week, to be held Feb. 27 through March 6, are now being made by the Inter-Religious Council, chairman Paul Burian, A3, Cedar Rapids, said Thursday.

This year's program is designed to show the correlation between religion and the arts on campus, Burian said. The theme for the week's activities will "Religion in the Arts."

Nathan Scott, assistant professor of theology and literature at the University of Chicago, will be the main speaker for Religion-In-Life Week.

Scott is a member of the Federated Theological Faculty at the University of Chicago. He is the author of two books, the most recent one is entitled "Modern Literature and Religious Frontiers."

Music, Drama, Literature Different phases of art will be explored during Religion-In-Life Week, Burian said. Definite plans have been made to schedule special events in music and literature.

Other programs in drama and the fine arts may be added to the program later, he said.

Zhivago Symposium A symposium will be held Tuesday, March 3, on the religious implications of "Dr. Zhivago," current Nobel Prize winning book by Boris Pasternak. Moderator for the symposium will be Robert Michaelson, professor and head of the School of Religion.

Music will also play a part in the week's activities. Friday night, March 6, the St. Ambrose Choir will present a concert in the Main Lounge of the Union.

Morning Chapel As usual, during Religion-In-Life Week, the council will sponsor morning chapel and housing unit visitation. Chapel will be heard on WSUI from 8 to 8:15 a.m. March 2-8. Members of the council will take turns giving the programs.

Inter-Religious Council, a new group this year, is designed to coordinate various types of campus religious activities. The council is a student group which represents the churches that have active programs for students. The council has nine members, three each from B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation Newman Club, and the Student Christian Council.

'Castle' Nursing Home Swept By Fire; 9 Die

GLEN ELLYN, Ill. (UPI) — Uncontrollable fire raged through an old, castle-like nursing home Friday, trapping elderly and crippled patients in their beds and killing at least nine persons.

The last hideously charred body was taken from the ruins of the Glen Ellyn Acres Nursing Home Friday night, almost seven hours after the flames swept the second floor of the rambling stucco and frame mansion.

Bodies Unidentified A total of seven bodies, none of them identified, were found in the burned-out building. Another man was dead on arrival of burns at a hospital and assistant fire chief Don Stoffregen, 58, suffered a fatal heart attack while manning a fire truck.

Fire chief James Brody called off the search for more bodies after the discovery of the last victim huddled on the first floor near the chimney. The body was brought out of the house by the eerie light of a portable spotlight.

Ten more of the 20 patients and seven employees of the home were hospitalized with burns and other injuries.

Castle 100 Years Old The fire apparently started in the electrical wiring on the second floor of the home, an antique building known as "the castle" which was believed to be almost 100 years old. Only the walls of the building were left standing by nightfall and damage was estimated at $50,000. Many of the patients were unable to walk and had to be dragged out. A 200-pound bedfast woman was too heavy to carry and had to be abandoned to the flames.

Inside the holocaust, firemen and orderlies told how they were unable to save old persons even though they reached their sides. In many cases, the would be rescuers were driven back by flames which licked at the victims' bodies.

The home's owner, Mrs. Pearl Beard, 52, collapsed in hysteria after her employees forcibly restrained her from going back into the blaze.

Inferno Within Minutes Heavy wooden trim inside the house provided perfect fuel for the blaze and the flames reached inferno proportions within minutes.

An orderly, Frank Mack, 30, smelled smoke in the first floor living room, heard nurse Rosie Lee Haley scream, "Fire! Help! Help!" from the second floor, and turned in the fire alarm.

Janitor Anton Rostowski was on the second floor when he smelled the smoke. He darted downstairs to check the basement, returned to the second floor, and "saw flames bursting out of a closet."

"I tried to grab a woman by the leg," he said. "The flames were licking at her and she was screaming. I couldn't help her. I did all I could."

Virginia Moves To Open 1st Integrated School Next Week

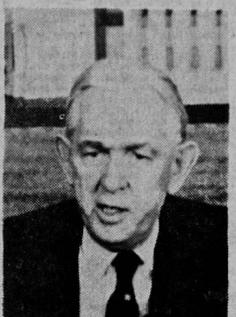

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Virginia moved Friday toward the state's first public school integration next week with Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. resisting last-ditch moves in the Legislature to block it.

Integration Vote Overwhelming There appeared little hope that, unless the states Administration's stand changes suddenly, any segregationist bills could receive the four-fifths vote necessary for approval. Almond's own program, which offers no hope of blocking integration next week, received overwhelming votes and appeared ready for enactment today.

Advocates of continued massive resistance to any classroom race mixing sought without success to get Almond's backing for legislative moves to win more segregated time.

Almond's aides reported he was standing firm on the program he offered the Assembly when he conceded Wednesday massive resistance had run its legal course. He offered the Assembly a program of transition to a system of partial private schooling to minimize integration as much as possible.

The seaport city of Norfolk went ahead with arrangements to reopen Monday the six high and junior high schools closed by the state last September when a federal court directed the admission of 17 Negro pupils. Ten thousand white pupils were displaced by the closures.

No Police Force Show Safety Director Calvin H. Dalby said the city did not intend to make a show of police force at the school Monday. He did not enlarge on this.

In urban Arlington County on this side of the Potomac River from Washington, school authorities planned for the admission of four Negro pupils to Stratford Junior High School which is attended by 1,076 white pupils. But counsel for the Arlington School Board explored a final avenue of delay by turning to Chief Justice Earl Warren of the U. S. Supreme Court in the wake of Thursday's turnaround by a U.S. appeals court judge.

The chief justice told the attorney, Frank L. Ball, to list his grounds for a stay and said he wanted a reply from counsel for the four Negro pupils by 11 a.m. Saturday. Warren promised to act promptly.

Legislators seeking some action stronger than Almond's request for repeal of the compulsory school attendance law and his tuition grant bill offered new proposals and saw a couple of early ones quickly killed in committee.

Leaders on both sides said the course of the Assembly—before it recesses to let a study commission draft a long-range transitional program — probably would include a compromise to ward of a threatened serious rift in the state Democratic organization. They didn't expect the compromise would be anything strong enough to defer the integration in Norfolk and Arlington.

Segregate By Sex One late proposal would segregate pupils by sex where they couldn't be segregated by race. A legislator said Almond turned this one down, too.

A bill which would put funds for operating schools this year in the hands of the governor and the State Board of Education for distribution at their "direction or discretion."

Last Minute Cramming

A NOVEL WAY to study for finals was demonstrated by Gary Yates, A1, Ottumwa, who used a funnel to stuff class notes into the ear of Stuart Bowers, A1, Kansas City, Mo. Other students resorted to more common study devices like coffee and cigarettes to keep their nerves calm, eyes open, and brains clear. —Daily Iowan Photo by Tom Hoffer.

Currier Coed Moves, Sink Moves; Crash, Clank, Spurt, Splash, Glug

Two Currier Hall coeds were caught in a flood before finals Thursday morning, but before the excitement died down, more than their spirits were dampened.

Helen Longstreth, L3, Atlantic, was sitting on her bed with her legs propped on the sink calmly talking on the telephone, but when she decided to move; the sink moved, too.

The sink crashed to the floor, and the exposed water pipes sprayed the ceiling, furniture, and floor with water. Before the torrent could be turned off, half an inch of water covered the floor. Books and bedding were drenched.

Helen's roommate, Andrea Brudevold, G, Raymond, Wash., heard screams and rushed into the room in time to be greeted by a stream of water.

As for Helen, her final comment was, "I'm glad it was clean water."

Von Braun: Russia 5 Years Ahead In ICBM Technology

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Werner Von Braun said Friday it would take the United States five years to overtake Russia in the intercontinental ballistic missile field even if this country decided to go all out.

The German-born rocket expert, head of the Army's ballistic missile agency at Huntsville, Ala., told investigators he was speaking from a technological standpoint, without reference to numbers of ICBM's.

No Operational ICBM Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy testified Thursday that Russia will have more ICBM's in a year or two because this country was not trying to match the Soviets missile for missile. He said neither nation now has an "operational" ICBM.

Von Braun, referring to peaceful space exploration, also said it would take the United States a year to overtake Russia in that field even if the Soviets stood still during that time.

Von Braun joined Rr. T. Keith Glennan, head of the Government's Civilian Space Agency, in testifying before the Senate Space Preparedness Committee that Russia is ahead of the United States in space exploration.

Glennan said it was reasonable to assume that Russia's great rocket power had shot the Soviets a year and a half ahead. Like others, he said it was in rocket thrust that the Soviets enjoyed an advantage. Glennan said this country was equal in most other fields and was working with wartime speed on rockets.

As for ICBM's, Von Braun said that if Russia continues full speed ahead, it would take the United States five years to catch up — provided the U.S. decided on an accelerated program.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.),

Werner Von Braun Reports On Rockets

a critic of the Eisenhower defense program, asked at what point the United States would be in a "hopeless" position if the present U.S. program was continued. Von Braun replied sometime "within the next decade."

Plea For More Money Von Braun coupled his warning with a plea for more money to speed U.S. space developments.

The outspoken rocketeer asked for an additional $140 million alone to speed construction of a cluster of Jupiter rockets. They would be used to hurl a military valuable communications satellite into orbit or to send tons of equipment deep into space.

The cluster would have one and a half million pounds of thrust. But according to committee testimony it would not be ready for three years under present planning.

After hearing Von Braun the committee closed its 2-day hearings.

However, the House Space Committee announced it would open a 4-day inquiry Monday into the space program with testimony from Glennan, Von Braun and other civilian and military officials.

Throughout his testimony, Von Braun called for more speed all along the space line.

"If the Russians stopped making progress right now, we might catch up with them in about a year," he said. "But there is no evidence that they are stopping."

Gap Stationary Now "The question is whether we have caught up with their working speed. I would say that a year ago they were still rolling ahead. Perhaps the gap may be stationary now."

Von Braun agreed with Glennan and two of Glennan's aides—Drs. Homer Stewart and W. H. Pickering — that there was nothing phony about Russia's claims that its "Lunik" rocket had shot past the moon and is now orbiting the Sun.

He also agreed with Stewart, planning director for the Civilian Space Agency that the Lunik shot showed the Russians have developed a rocket guidance system that could direct a hydrogen missile to its target.

Von Braun said the missile could be sent crashing down on a city. Stewart testified that the guidance mechanism could pilot the missile to within 15 or 20 miles of the desired target.

Von Braun said the United States had confirmed that the 3,000-pound Russian "Lunik" passed the moon about where the Russians said it would, but an hour earlier than predicted.

Glennan testified that the rocket cluster would make it possible by 1962 to put 10 tons of payload into orbit and to send two tons "far beyond the moon."

Time To Sharpen Up

SUI STUDENTS AREN'T the only ones who have been doing some sharpening up for finals. Bobby Farnsworth, an employee of University Examinations Service, spent most of this week sharpening pencils, with an electric pencil sharpener, to be used for the machine-graded tests that are corrected by Examinations Service.

Last Day To Register For New License Plates

If you have a car sitting under a snowdrift and have forgotten to buy new license plates — act now. The County Treasurer's Office in the Court House will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today for late registration.

Beginning Monday, a penalty of five per cent of the license cost will be added with a minimum charge of $1.

If you've been particularly dormant this winter you may also need another reminder — you can't drive with an expired driver's license.

The Department of Public Safety, in an effort to reduce expenses, does not notify a license holder that his expiration date is near, as it has in past years. This new policy has caused an increased number of expired licenses, said Iowa City Patrolman Paul Foster.

Driver's licenses must be renewed every 2 years within 30 days before the holder's birthday. If the license expires the driver is required to take the same driver's examinations as beginning drivers, Foster said.

Automobile drivers who take the written driver's test today must be able to answer questions about Iowa traffic laws, such as:

1. Within what distance must the wheels be from the curb when parallel parked?
2. Is it illegal to park closer than

Would Give 10% Of Sales Tax To Schools

DES MOINES (AP) — Ten per cent of state sales tax receipts would be allocated to the public schools under a bill introduced Friday in the Iowa House by Rep. Ken Stringer (R-Davenport).

The measure provides that the funds would be distributed to the counties in the same proportion as sales taxes are collected in the various counties. They would be divided among the school districts on the basis of average daily attendance.

Ten per cent of sales tax receipts now are allocated to the road use tax fund. All the rest of the revenue from the sales tax now goes into the general fund.

Will Amend Resolution For State Liquor Vote

DES MOINES (AP) — Howard Reppert (D-Des Moines) said Friday he will amend his resolution calling for a statewide vote on legalizing liquor by the drink to make sure that all Iowa voters may take part.

The wording of the resolution as introduced raised a question as to whether voters outside areas where registration is required could vote. Most rural voters are not required to register to vote in ordinary elections.

French Mycologist To Lecture At SUI

Prof. Roger Heim, distinguished French mycologist on the faculty of the University of Paris, will speak on "Hallucinogenic Mushrooms" Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. His lecture, open to all who are interested, will be given in Room 331 of University Hospital. It will be illustrated with slides.

The French professor has earned a worldwide reputation for his knowledge of the species of mushrooms which cause hallucinations. He is director of the Cryptogamic Laboratory of the Museum of Natural History in Paris, France. His field — mycology — is the branch of botany concerned with fungi. A cryptogram is a plant which produces neither flowers nor seeds, reproducing instead by spores.

The author of a number of authoritative books and articles on subjects in the field of mycology, Heim has spent a lifetime in the study of mushrooms and other fungi. A cryptogram is a plant which produces neither flowers nor seeds, reproducing instead by spores.

Dental Profs. To Chicago For Meeting

George S. Easton, assistant dean of the SUI College of Dentistry and professor of oral diagnosis, and Alton K. Fisher, professor and head of the Department of Stomatology, will attend a meeting of the American Dental Association's Council of the National Board of Dental Examiners Monday and Tuesday in Chicago.

The Council is composed of nine members, fifteen consultants and a full-time secretary. Council members represent the American Dental Association, the American Association of Dental Schools and the American Association of Dental Examiners, three being elected by each group.

The consultants, selected by the Council, are specialists in the several professional areas represented in the battery of examinations constructed for National Board use. Easton, one of the representatives for the American Association of Dental Schools, will retire as chairman of the Council at the end of next week's meeting. Fisher is a consultant in pathology for the Council.

fungi and has travelled widely collecting them. His basic researches have been made possible recent developments involving the use of hallucinogenic mushrooms in psychiatry.

Heim was consultant to Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Wasson in the writing of their book "Mushrooms, Russia and History," widely discussed in this country since its publication in 1957. Published in a limited edition and beautifully illustrated, the two-volume work deals with the part mushrooms have played in folk lore throughout the world as well as in Russia. The SUI library has a copy of the work.

The French scientist is in the U.S. by invitation of the New York Academy of Sciences to give several lectures during a public exhibit and lecture series on hallucinogenic mushrooms which the Academy is sponsoring this week in New York City. He arrived in New York Jan. 24 and will return to France soon after his talk at SUI, which will be his only other public lecture in the Midwest.

Heim's lecture at SUI is being presented by the SUI College of Medicine lecture series committee, and was arranged by the botany department.

Final Nerves Indicated By Union Sales

"We can always tell it's final time — the cigarette and candy sales take a great leap," a desk supervisor at the Iowa Memorial said this week.

Students are restless. They will study for awhile, buy some cigarettes, study again, take a break in the Gold Feather Room, study, buy some life savers — anything to break the tension, one supervisor said.

The hostesses reported that students are even having trouble finding places to study. "The lounges, Union Library and Music Room have been filled to capacity all day," one hostess reported.

Yes. The pressure is on!

Wolverines In Bid For First Place In Big Ten

Need Victory, Spartan Loss For Top Spot

leads the league in that department and is also the Big Ten's second high scorer with a 22.3 average although Tidwell, fifth in the loop, leads in scoring for all games with a 19.8 average. In all games, Burton is firing away at a 19.4 clip.

Against Wisconsin, Tidwell came within one point of tying the Michigan scoring record when he split the strings for 37 points. The record of 38 was set against Butler last season — by Burton.

Lee 13th

Lee has been contributing 16.6 points a contest to the Michigan total and his 18.5 average in conference play places him in 13th place. Miller's average is 11.6 while Farris, one of the shortest centers in major college ball, is hitting at a 4.7 clip. Gordon Rogers 6'6", is the No. 2 center and is slated for heavy duty in relief today.

The Wolverines are a rugged team that rebounds well. Although lacking exceptional size or speed, they handle the ball cleverly, work in for short shots and have adequate outside shooting.

Perigo, however, evidently lacks depth as after the first six men, no player possesses a scoring average of over one point.

Same Five For Iowa

For Iowa, coach Sharm Schermerman is expected to go with the same starting five that opened the Ohio State fray. Guard Ron Zagar, who pumped in 17 counters against the Buckeyes, has evidently nailed down a starting position. In his three previous games, the 5' 10" Zagar scored 16, 13 and 11 points—all in relief chores. His average is now 5.3.

Opposite Zagar in the backcourt will be Bobby Washington who also stands 5' 10". Washington's point production is 6.4 but the same as Zagar, his passing wizardry, defensive skill and hustle more than offsets his lack of height.

Up front will be Iowa's 1-2 punch of Dave Gunther and Clarence Wordlaw. Gunther is currently No. 3 in conference scoring with a 22-point average. Through 14 games, the 6' 5" co-capt. is hitting the hoop at a 23.8-point clip and this week joined the exclusive group of Carl Cain, Chuck Darling and Bill Logan in the 1,000 point scorers for Iowa.

Could Pass Cain Today

Gunther, who also leads the team in rebounding, trails Cain by only 14 points, 1,054-1,040 and could pass the "Fabulous Five" forward today.

Wordlaw ranks fourth in conference scoring with a 20.8 average. The 6' 3" flash was held to only 11 points at Ohio State. Due to a slow start in non-conference play, Wordlaw's all-game mark is 13.6.

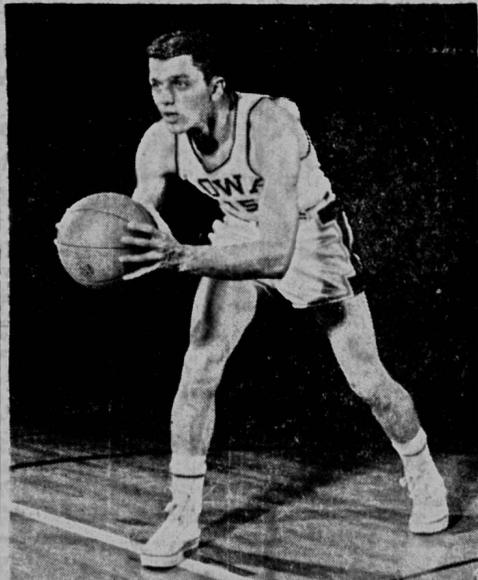

Nolen Gentry, 6'7" co-capt. gets the call at center and conceivably could get the job of guarding Burton. The team's No. 2 rebounder, Gentry is averaging 10.7 points per contest.

Conference statistics for the two teams show the Hawkeyes with a slight advantage in shooting percentage — .400 to .380, but the Wolverines holding the upper hand in free throws with a percentage of .691 to .632. Michigan, with a rebound percentage of .511, also leads Iowa (.502) in that department.

Game No. 49

Today's meeting will be the 49th between the two schools. Iowa holds the lead in the series, 26-22. Michigan took both games last season including the 95-92 thriller at Ann Arbor in the season's finale. Iowa will be at Michigan Feb. 16.

The next next game for the Hawks will be next Saturday when they host another strong contender, Minnesota at the Fieldhouse court. Michigan will be at Illinois Monday night before returning home to tangle with Indiana next Saturday.

Colorado State vs. Iowa On Mat Today

After defeating five Big Ten opponents, Iowa's unbeaten wrestling team will step outside the conference to meet Colorado State University in a dual meet today at 2:30 p.m. at the Fieldhouse.

Iowa has downed Indiana, Illinois, Michigan State, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The most recent victim, Wisconsin, was whipped, 29-3, Wednesday at Madison as the Hawkeyes won seven of eight bouts, four by falls.

Colorado State has a 3-2 record going into the Friday evening meet with Iowa State at Ames. Teams beaten by the Colorado team are Western State, New Mexico and Air Force Academy, while national champion Oklahoma State and Colorado State College defeated the Rams.

Half of the Iowa wrestlers have perfect dual meet records. Larry Moser, 123; Gene Luttrell, 137; Jim Craig, 177, have won all five bouts and Heavyweight Gordon Trapp has taken all three.

Other good marks are held by John Kelly, 130, 4-1; and Bob Riehm, 167, 2-0-3. Scoring is close among Moser, with 19 points; Luttrell and Craig with 17; and Kelly 16.

The three top wrestlers for Colorado State are Jim Wirtz, 167, 4-1; Ed Rath, heavyweight or 177, 4-1; and Gary Riter, 147, 3-1. Rath won the Skyline Conference title at 167 and 177.

These are the probable opponents with bout record of each—exclusive of the Iowa State-Colorado State meet Friday night:

IOWA

Larry Moser	(5-0)	123
John Kelly	(4-1)	130
Gene Luttrell	(5-0)	137
Don Tucker	(0-4)	147
Joe Mullins	(1-2)	157
Bob Riehm	(2-0-3)	167
Jim Craig	(5-0)	177
Gordon Trapp	(5-0)	HW

Bucs Swap Thomas In 7-Player Deal

NEW YORK — The Cincinnati Redlegs and the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday night completed a 7-man player deal. The Redlegs obtained Frank Thomas, John Powers, Jim Pendleton and Whammy Douglas in exchange for Smokey Burgess, Don Hoak, and Harvey Haddix.

The deal announced by General Manager Gabe Paul of Cincinnati and Joe Brown, Pirates' general manager, came as a surprise and was completed after the executives conferred here Friday.

Presentation Monday—

Rice Trophy To Iowa

The transition of the Grantland Rice Trophy, symbolic of the national intercollegiate football championship, from Ohio State, the 1957 winner, to Iowa, 1958 honoree, will occur in a 30-minute ceremony here Monday.

Between 4 and 4:30 p.m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union, the Big Ten champion Hawkeyes of 1958 and Rose Bowl game winner of Jan. 1, 1959, will be recognized officially as the No. 1 team in the United States.

The affair, open to the public with pre-ceremony coffee and doughnuts to be served at 3:30 p.m., will have a distinguished cast of personalities. In addition, the Iowa varsity band will appear and Len Flander of Iowa City, president of the student council, will be master of ceremonies.

Tim Cohane, sports editor of Look Magazine, will come from New York to present the stylized gold football which is mounted upon a mahogany base. His publication is sponsor of the Rice award, after selection of the winning university has been made by a 5-man committee of the Football Writers association of America.

The Football Writers group will be represented by a long-time member, John O'Donnell, sports editor of the Davenport Democrat, who will tell of the role played by the association in the annual project.

Hancher Accepts Trophy

President Virgil M. Hancher will accept the trophy on behalf of the university. Then the chief executive will call upon head coach Forest Evashevski and give the trophy to him.

Captain John Nocera, the 1958 leader, will participate in the ceremony with Evashevski. Iowa's squad will be seated upon the large stage, along with the assistant football coaches and Hawkeye athletic officials.

The whole affair will be enhanced by the presence of Gov. Herschel Loveless, who will come from Des Moines especially to attend. The governor is a strong Iowa football fan. It is expected that he will say a few words of commendation to the university and team. Harry Hagemann, president of the state board of regents, will be another visitor.

The Grantland Rice award, perpetuating the memory of the great sports writer who died in 1954, was conceived by Cohane and Bert Barkas, formerly a Look Magazine promotion staff member. Rice in his later years did all of his magazine work for Look, writing Football Forecasts and collaborating with the Football Writers Association in choosing the All-America team.

After adoption of the idea, with the endorsement of Mrs. Katharine Rice, Raymond Loewy, the noted designer created the trophy. The award was won in 1954 by UCLA, in 1955 and 1956 by Oklahoma and in 1957 by Ohio State.

Winner Named By Committee

A 5-man committee of the Football Writers association selects each winner after the New Year's Day bowl games. This method of selection is based upon the logic that bowl games actually are part of the preceding season and that no true decision as to a national champion can be reached until after such games are played.

The committee is: Bill Leiser, San Francisco Chronicle; Bert McGrane, Des Moines Register; Murray Olderman, Newspaper Enterprise association; Bill Rives, Dallas News; and Fred Russell, Nashville Banner.

Iowa received four of the five first place votes and one second for 14 points, while Louisiana State, No. 1 in press service polls, had 8 points.

Frick To Ask Ban Be Lifted On Winter Ball

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Commissioner Ford Frick is expected to ask major league club owners today to lift all restrictions on Latin Americans playing winter baseball in their native lands.

Under the present rule a man who has played two consecutive years in the big leagues cannot play winter ball. Frick will make his plea on behalf of the Caribbean winter leagues.

The club owners rejected this request at their regular winter meeting in Washington, D.C., last month by a 16-0 vote.

The only other order of business at the annual midwinter meetings will be the official installation of Joe Cronin as president of the American League.

Cronin was unanimously approved recently by a special screening board selected to recommend a successor to Will Harridge, who resigned the position last Dec. 3.

The Caribbean situation may be resolved through a proposal by Frank Lane, general manager of the Cleveland Indians. Lane said he will recommend that all Latin Americans be allowed to play in their native countries provided United States players are allowed to play either in winter leagues or exhibition games here.

It is Lane's plan to form winter leagues in California and Florida where U.S. players would be allowed to play until Feb. 15. The same would apply to those who wished to barnstorm or play exhibitions.

Under current rules, all barnstorming must cease 30 days after the World Series.

To Seek Site For Title Bout

NEW YORK — Promoter Bill Rosenzohn said Friday he expects to start out next week on a tour of cities listed as possible sites for his Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title match.

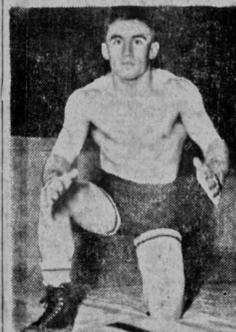

The boxing promoter said he would meet with Mayor Robert Wagner of New York Tuesday. He plans to be in Indianapolis Wednesday. The rest of his itinerary has not yet been mapped out.

Patterson and Johansson signed Thursday to fight in the United States before Sept. 30.

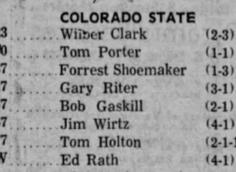

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, refused to comment Friday on reports that Patterson would defend his title in Toronto or Vancouver this summer.

Cyclones Win, 25-3

AMES — Iowa State's Big Eight wrestling champions picked up their sixth victory in seven starts Friday night, trouncing Colorado State University, 25-3.

The Cyclones only loss in the dual meet was in the 177-pound class when Ed Rath, a two-year Skyline Conference champ, won a 3-2 decision over Tom Green.

Underdog Vargas Defeats Anthony On Split Decision

NEW YORK — Reuben Vargas, a swarming 5-1 underdog, dropped Tony Anthony for a nine count in the eighth round on the way to a split decision in a bloody 10-round brawl Friday night at Madison Square Garden. Anthony weighed 177, Vargas 186½.

Referee Dave Feld called it even in rounds but gave Vargas, of New York, the edge in points 7-5 on the strength of the knockdown. Judge Charley Rosen saw it 5-4 for Vargas. Judge Mike Davidowitch scored it 6-4 in favor of Anthony, of Richmond, Calif. The AP card was 5-5 and would have put Vargas on top because of the knockdown, 7 points to 5.

Anthony, the No. 1 light heavy contender moving into the heavy division, was the sharper puncher with his frequent quick flurries. However, he let Vargas bull him around the ring and proved a sucker for a long overhand right that Reuben uncorked.

The eighth round had hardly started when Vargas landed a solid left hook on Anthony's unprotected jaw. The former Olympic team boxer went down on his back, his head hitting the ring apron. He was half outside the ring with his head under the bottom rope.

The decision snapped Anthony's 7-fight winning streak, built up since he was knocked out by Archie Moore in a light heavyweight title match in 1957.

Wildcats In Feature Tilt Tonight Against Spartans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two pre-season favorites, first-place Michigan State and sixth-place Northwestern, clash in the feature contest of Saturday's Big Ten basketball program.

Michigan State, ranked No. 8 in the Associated Press poll, has lived up to expectations. The Spartans now lead the conference with a 4-1 record, a half game ahead of runner-up Michigan (3-1).

Northwestern, however, dropped three straight league games before tipping Iowa in an overtime stand 3-3 in the loop chase.

Three other Saturday conference games include Michigan at Iowa (2-4); Illinois (3-2) at Purdue (2-3); and Minnesota (4-2) at Ohio State (2-4) in a regionally-televised matinee.

Local fans will be able to view this game on either WMT-TV Channel 2, Cedar Rapids or WOC-TV Channel 6, Davenport beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Indiana (3-2) is host to De Paul in a non-loop joust. Wisconsin (0-4) is idle.

Northwestern's visit to Michigan State will find Wildcat scoring star Joe Ruklick trying to maintain a comeback. Ruklick emerged from a pointmaking slump against Iowa with 30 points. He now has a conference average of 18.6 points, topped by two Michigan State stars—Johnny Green with 20.4 and Bob Andereg with 19.4.

Minnesota, riding strongly in third place, will unveil the Big Ten's top scorer at Ohio State. He is Ron Johnson with a 6-game average of 22.3.

The Illinois-Purdue game could make or break the title chances of either. The Boilermakers already have dropped three of their five conference starts, but are back at full strength after a rash of injuries.

Illinois, tied for fourth with Indiana, boasts the Big Ten's top scoring outfit with a 5-game average of 85.4 points, shading Iowa by less than a half point.

What They Are Saying

The following was printed in Jack Mabley's column in the Chicago Daily News edition of Jan. 27 under the headline, 'A Lot of Oafs:'

It is startling to hear the bad manners, bad taste, and pure oafishness of students at Big 10 college basketball games. They boo and shout and jeer at their opponents. The conduct of Iowa fans during last Saturday's televised game with Northwestern was a disgrace to the state.

In the 30s, at our state university, and I am sure at Iowa and at others, booing at a basketball game was unthinkable. A code of sportsmanship was a vital part of a school's integrity.

I suppose today's oafs can, and by their standards of conduct will, chide their predecessors — their fathers, if you will — as nicey-nicey boys.

Could be. But almost to a man the players on these teams of the 30s, and the boys in the stands who cheered them, went into the Army, Navy and Marine Corps and helped win the toughest mob fight in history.
