

SUI Kenton Concert Will Sound 'Different'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the story of Stan Kenton, who is recognized as one of the outstanding pioneers in the field of progressive jazz. It deals with his life as a band leader and his ideas about music. The story was compiled by Staff Writer Kay Lund from articles in Time, Saturday Review, and Vogue magazine.)

The notes sound different when Stan Kenton plays them — for Stan Kenton is a man with his own ideas about music.

He lives hard — he plays his music hard. Given a 38-piece orchestra, he emerges with a musical product so persuasive that it is almost overpowering.

In his 19 years as a musical figure, Kenton has given the world a new type of music — introspective, exploratory, and driving. He has coined this type of music "progressive jazz."

Kenton has said of music, "It's a funny thing. People hear music and they don't know what they like about it, but it creates a certain turmoil, certain insecurity, certain things that are with us today."

It was that "certain turmoil" in his music that skyrocketed Kenton to the top.

His History
The Kenton style was born on Memorial Day, 1940, when he opened with his 13-piece orchestra at the Rendezvous Ballroom in Balboa, Calif. His music, indicative of things to come, was relentless and heavy booted with a staccato, two-beat attack.

By the end of the summer Kenton had built not only a staunch West Coast following but also had aroused considerable speculation about his "new music" in the East.

The Kenton organization soon split the record-buying public into Kenton-lovers and Kenton-haters.

But he continued his rise to the top, sweeping the country with his "innovations in modern music."

Then in December, 1948, the musical world received a surprised jolt. Stan Kenton had quit.

At the time, he band was making almost as much money as it was noise. However, Kenton, who regarded himself as a concert man, was sure he wasn't "contributing." He did like some of the places he was playing, especially the dance halls.

In 1950, he returned to his first love and the only life he knew — music. He re-opened in February with a 38-piece orchestra in Los Angeles Philharmonic Auditorium with his "Innovations in Modern Music for 1950." His goal: to present a concert-styled jazz.

He told his audience, "If you start looking for the melody, you won't find any... we get a great thing out of concocting sound."

The new Kenton was enthusiastically received and began a barnstorming tour of 77 U.S. cities. In 1953 he marched triumphantly through Europe and proved especially successful in Paris — a city where "progressive jazz" was jeered at and disliked.

His Music

His explanation for the origin of the phrase "progressive jazz" is simply: "About 1947 jazz took a sudden leap forward. It changed radically... so I called a meeting of the band and said, 'Look, we have to have a name for this.'" Progressive jazz was born that day.

Kenton's ambition was to marry classical music and jazz. What emerged was a driving, nervous wedding of swing and Schonbergs.

The present Kenton style features a big reed section rooted with a baritone saxophone, a metallic-sounding inflexible rhythm section, and driving ear-ringing brass teams. All of these pile, block by block, into gigantic masses of sound.

This, then, is what Stan Kenton has "contributed" to the world — not just music but a new type of music. It is a new sound which is already well indoctrinated into the language of notes and rhythm.

Perhaps the best description for progressive jazz was offered by Kenton himself, "Well, its pretty stark."

I'll Tell What U.S. Aid Dictators Get: Hays

U.S. Figures Kept Secret For Security

Decision To Exclude Press Sets Off Row

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) said Tuesday he is so annoyed and disgusted that he is going to make public "what some of these dictators get" in foreign aid from the United States.

Hays repeated this threat several times during an out-of-the-ordinary row in the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The row was set off by a committee decision to exclude the public and the press from questioning of Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon.

If Hays carries out his announced intention, he will break a precedent of several years standing. Country-by-country figures on military aid have been kept secret on security grounds. Economic aid totals by countries have been announced on occasion, in the past tense.

Hays charged — and Chairman Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa) promptly denied — that the secret committee meeting was the idea of President Eisenhower's Administration. Hays said he is tired of hearing "the same leading questions the Administration sent up here" to be asked — questions "that witnesses have written answers all ready for."

The blowup over secrecy was only the stormiest of several events marking the second day the committee has considered President Eisenhower's $3,930,000 foreign aid proposal.

In other major developments:

1. A special presidential advisory panel urged that the approximately $1½ billion military part of the program be increased by $400 million, primarily for missiles and jet aircraft for NATO countries.

2. Dillon told the committee the pipeline of goods bought or ordered in earlier years, and still on the way to Allies, is running low. The total was $8½ billion in 1953, he said, but will be down to about 2½ billion by July 1.

All-Campus Election Today

To Elect 37 Students From 81 Candidates

7 Polling Places
Open 8:30 To 4:30

Thirty-seven organization heads and student representatives will be chosen today by SUI students in the annual All Campus Elections. Voting for the 81 candidates running in the Elections this year will begin at 8:30 a.m. and close at 4:30 p.m., according to Larry Krueger, C3, Iowa City, Elections Committee chairman.

Officers will be elected today to the Liberal Arts senior class; Women's Recreation Association, YWCA, Associated Women Students and Independent Town Men. Representatives to Student Council from Town Men and Married Student housing, student trustees for the Board of Student Publications, Inc., and eight new Union Board members will also be chosen.

The exact locations of the seven polling places was announced Tuesday by Krueger. He said there will be polling places in the north end of the basement of Schaeffer Hall; in front of the second floor Office of Student Affairs in University Hall; the entrance to the Gold Feather Room in Iowa Memorial Union; the south end of the basement in Macbride Hall; the east lobby of Chemistry Building and in front of the main office in the Mechanical Engineering Building.

Krueger emphasized the fact that students can only vote once and in only one location, because their identification cards will be punched. Krueger said students should choose a polling place where ballots for everything they wish to vote for are located. Ballots are located in the logical places, he said, and for the convenience of voters. Ballots where less than the prescribed number of candidates are voted for will be counted, he said.

Board of Student Publications, Inc.
All University students are eligible to vote for their representatives of the board of Student Publications, Inc. Ballots for these offices will be available at all polling places.

The eight candidates for the three positions open on the board this year are: Walter Barbee, A3; Phil Carter, A2; Donald D. Forsling, A3; David P. Miller, L2; Lonson Barr, A2; Jane Gilchrist, A2; Judy Jones, A3; and Mary Annette Roese, A2.

Married Student Representatives To Student Council
All Married Students will be eligible to vote for their representatives to Student Council. These ballots will be located at all polling places.

The four candidates for the three Council seats open this year are: Allen E. Bennecke, L1; Richard P. Runke, L2; Robert L. Burmeister, A4; and Phillip E. Burks, G.

Union Board
Liberal Arts members of Union Board will be elected by all Liberal Arts students. These students may vote at Schaeffer Hall, Macbride Hall, Iowa Memorial Union and Chemistry Building.

College of Commerce students will also elect two members of Union Board, but will vote only in University Hall.

The twenty-five candidates for Union Board this year are: Linda Brown, A2; Tom Flickinger, A2; Robert Downer, A2; James W. Clayton, A3; John Edison, A2; Roger F. Ewen, A3; David H. Springs, A2; Ellis Betensky, A2; Thomas Oblinger, A3; Barbara Bjornstad, A2; Dee Drain, A2; Marilee Olson, A2.

Jo Roberts, A2; Peg Newell, A3; Jean Harman, A2; K. Elaine Armstrong, A2; Karen Lee, A2; Lynne Wight, A3; Naida Worton, A2; Janet Joy Moeller, A2; John Stoy,

NUCLEAR REACTIONS will be studied at SUI with this 5-ton reactor, which was installed this week in the Chemical Engineering Laboratory. The uranium fuel supply in the reactor cannot cause a chain reaction, but SUI chemical engineering students will be able to measure and analyze the continuous atomic processes taking place. James O. Osborn, professor of chemical engineering, is shown inserting a tube containing uranium into the reactor as Harvey Davis, provost, and students watch. Get Nuclear Reactor

The latest atomic-age version of the "pickle barrel" nuclear reactor was installed in the Chemical Engineering Laboratory at SUI this week for teaching students to work with atomic energy.

The reactor, of a type often called a "pickle barrel" because early models were made of wood barrels, is the first of its kind in Iowa, according to James O. Osborn, professor of chemical engineering. Designed by the Nuclear-Chicago Corporation for teaching purposes only, SUI's stainless steel model weighs five tons and has a nearly 3-ton source of uranium fuel to produce nuclear reactions. It is a subcritical reactor, however, which means that a "runaway" or atomic chain reaction as in an atomic bomb, cannot occur to present health hazards or reduce the equipment to molten metal.

The $25,000 reactor was obtained after SUI received a $75,305 total grant from the Atomic Energy Commission for initiating nuclear science and engineering courses into the curriculum.

The instrument consists of a six feet high, four feet in diameter stainless steel tank in which 275 aluminum tubes containing the uranium are immersed in distilled water.

The water acts as a shield against possible radiation effects to the students, and also as a moderator to slow down the particles produced by a neutron source. Neutrons are uncharged particles capable of penetrating the atomic nuclei of uranium and thereby initiating the nuclear reaction.

With associated instruments, students are able to detect, measure and analyze the continuous atomic processes going on within the reactor.

"This reactor provides the tool to teach students about radioactivity and how it may be developed for industrial purposes," Dr. Osborn said. In addition to investigating the development of nuclear power, which is already beginning to compete with coal and oil, Dr. Osborn's students will study radioactivity materials called radio-isotopes.

Easter Concert Tonight At 8

The SUI Chorus and Symphony Orchestra will appear in an Easter Concert tonight at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

The program includes "Gloria," by Vivaldi and "King David," by Honegger. Herald Stark, professor of music, will conduct and Harold Shiffler, assistant professor of dramatic art, will be the narrator.

THAT'S SOME FIVE O'CLOCK SHADOW, but Carolyn Parks, A1, Maquoketa, seems to be impressed as she uses calipers to measure the beard of Tom Kraemer, E4, Iowa City. Carolyn is one of the candidates for the engineer's Mecca Queen who will be named Friday night at the Mecca Ball. Tom, an electrical engineering student, will match his beard against those of other engineering students at a smoker Thursday night.

SUI's Sleuthing Engineers Find 9th Clue In Blarney Stone Hunt

SUI's sleuthing engineers found the ninth clue Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Riverside, Iowa, during their search for the Mecca Week blarney stone. They have not disclosed the nature of the clue, however.

The detectives in engineering were at last report working on the formula to the tenth of the of the twenty clues which will lead them to the granite stone. Graduate engineers gave the students a clue after they found the location of a telephone number clue (no. 7) through a friend of one of the seniors in the telephone exchange.

Clue no. 7, which read, "Be at 9735 at 1735 plus 100N," told the students that at the location of phone 9735 at 1735 (5:35 p.m. by military timetelling) they would be given their eighth clue. At precisely that time the clue was telephoned in on a public telephone bearing that number at an Iowa City supermarket.

The telephone message, (a solution for carbon tetrachloride) led the senior engineering students on a search of all the fire extinguishers in Iowa City. At 5:30 p.m. the necessary information was found near a fire extinguisher in the Engineering Library.

This clue (no. 9) "John Frank was laid to rest at water's edge in 1948" led the engineering seniors to Riverside, Iowa.

Searching for the blarney stone started Monday, and opened SUI College of Engineering's week of observance for their patron saint, St. Pat. The week will end with the Mecca Ball on Friday night.

The search has taken the engineers to Old Finkbine Golf Course, the junction of Highways 218 and 30 near Cedar Rapids, and to the University Library.

The stone, which was hidden by graduate students in the College of Engineering, is to be presented at a 7 p.m. smoker Thursday in the Engineering Lounge.

'Psychiatry And Religion' Subject Of Lecture Friday

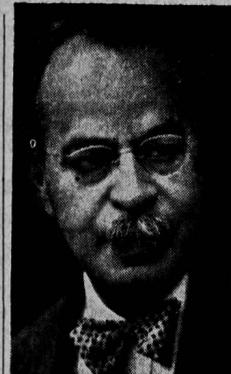

Dr. Gregory Zilboorg, widely known New York City psychiatrist and psychoanalyst, will lecture on "Psychiatry and Religion" Friday at 8 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium. The lecture is open to the public.

Sponsored by the SUI School of Religion, the lecture will be the second in the Science and Religion Series, which has been made possible by a grant from the Old Gold Development Fund.

Dr. Zilboorg was born in Russia and received medical degrees from the Psychoneurological Institute of St. Petersburg and from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University in New York.

The psychiatrist has been engaged in private practice in New York City since 1931.

His publications include "A History of Medical Psychology," "Mind, Medicine, and Man,"

SUI Spring Dance Concert

Orchestra and Junior Orchestras, SUI student modern dance groups, will present their original works in a spring concert, "Students' Dance Theater", at the Old Armory Studio Theater, Thursday and Friday at 8:15 p.m.

Tickets for the program may be purchased in advance for 75 cents at the Woman's Gym or at the door before performances.

According to Mrs. Doyle Bladon, sponsor of the group, the students are presenting their original works in an effort to create their own ideas and moods through the medium of movement and dance.

As to audience reaction, Mrs. Bladon said that everyone will find numbers that they will definitely like best, numbers that they will be uncertain about and would like to see again, and numbers they will react to strongly either in a negative or positive direction.

"If you like dances that are light and gay," she said, "then you will respond to such numbers as 'This Week's T. V. Guide', which includes dance interpretations on sports, science fiction, story book time, and western sagas, Spring Suite, the creation of Junior Orchestras; and 'Facade'."

"If you particularly enjoy the jazz music and movement forms, then you will have a positive reaction to 'Nightmare.' However," she continued, "if you like numbers to be 'dancy' and 'pretty' pleasant with no 'bad' reactions, then you'll like numbers like 'Ebb-tide', 'Dance', and 'Suite Pre-Classica'."

"The original compositions of 'Korobushka', a Russian Gypsy Tune, and 'Adarim', an Israeli Folk Tune, will be enjoyed particularly by those who like folk type of movement and folk tunes," she said.

MOODS THROUGH MOVEMENT are created by Gary Binning, A2, Laurens and Judy Peterson, A1, Estherville as they rehearse their number "Suite Pre-Classica" in the "Student Dance Theater" to be held Thursday and Friday at 8:15 p.m. in the Old Armory Studio Theater. —Daily Iowan Photo.

An Encouraging Note

The Daily Iowan is happy to report that in the future comprehensive accounts of the meetings of the American Association of University Professors will be made available to our readers.

It has been our belief (as expressed in our editorial of March 13) that the SUI student body wants to know, and has a right to know, more about the opinions and ideas expressed by our instructors.

We would like to call your attention to the letter on today's editorial page written by Samuel Hays, assistant professor of history, who spoke at the latest AAUP meeting.

Why Vote This Year?

Let there be more candidates than voters in today's All-Campus Elections, we are going to voice once again that tired, overworked but very important cliché: "Get Out And Vote."

In last year's elections, only 1,800 SUI students could spare the few seconds it takes to mark a ballot. This isn't a very good percentage.

Student government is often at best a mere "exercise in democracy." It is only a significant, exercise moreover, when the degree of enthusiasm shown by its participants is strong and enthusiastic.

Just Spell It Out

As in the case of Alaska, we freely predict a Post Office decision shortly that "Hawaii" should not be abbreviated. How could it be? The next state will not want to be dismissed as Ha... much less as Haw. And Hi. hardly gets the message across the Pacific, either.

University Bulletin Board

University Bulletin Board notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301 Communications Center, by noon of the day before publication.

UNIVERSITY FOLK DANCERS will meet Sunday evening, March 22, from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m., on the Main Floor of the Old Armory.

Free Debate And Discussion Play Vital Educational Role

To the editor: The editorial in the Daily Iowan concerning the failure of the AAUP to open its meeting last Tuesday to reporters was certainly well taken.

There at SUI to compare with the ringing declaration of freedom which the Board of Regents in Wisconsin drew up long ago: "Whatever may be the limitations which trammel inquiry elsewhere we believe the great State University of Wisconsin should ever encourage that continual and fearless sifting and winnowing by which alone the truth can be found."

Distinctive Characteristics Recently a study was made of 36 colleges and universities to determine what are the distinctive characteristics of those institutions which are attractive to good students and which produce a high proportion of students who go on to graduate college.

Room For Improvement

One may argue that at SUI there is considerable freedom of debate. Granted. But there is clearly room for improvement, as evidenced by the fact that issues are not debated on the SUI campus.

Comparison with the University of Wisconsin, for example, might demonstrate the point. What is there at SUI to compare with the ringing declaration of freedom which the Board of Regents in Wisconsin drew up long ago?

At the meeting on Tuesday night, I pointed out, among other things, that the Iowan and the Board of Student Publication could go further than they have in their responsibility for improving the educational climate of the University.

Lamp Not A Mirror

It is true that a University community does not stand isolated from society. But to blame society for the college detachment from live issues is to evidence a fatalism that none of us would accept.

Looking Around The Word Is 'Personality'

By Larry Schneider

While working in Hollywood last year we came into contact with dozens of beauty queens, but we never met a group such as SUI's. The local girls aren't concerned with beauty.

We recently stopped by at the Union to chat with Miss Perfect Profile, the Inter-Fraternity Pledge Council Queen, Honorary Cadet Colonel and Quadrangle Queen.

We were also supposed to meet Miss SUI and the IFC Queen but Sharon McIntosh and Sue Willis had to cancel their appointments because of a make-up class and a meeting.

We should have realized then that we were among a most unusual breed of Queens. The Hollywood girls would have blackjacked their boyfriends, stolen the police chief's car and shot their mother to keep an appointment with a newspaperman.

As the four girls had won beauty contests, we called them experts on the subject of how to win a beauty contest.

Instead of responding with pleased grins, the girls smiled embarrassedly. One said "I don't consider myself the beauty queen type," and another said "Beauty? You should see my freshman ID card!"

This was not the Hollywood reaction. Puzzled, we asked the girls to decide the criteria by which queens should be chosen. And lo and behold, beauty was their last choice.

The word at SUI is "personality." Closely following is "intelligence." Then beauty.

None of the girls is interested in a career in modeling or acting. Ruth is a freshman majoring in Art Education; Ann, another freshman, will major in elementary education; Normandie will graduate soon as an occupational therapist, and Judy is a sophomore in home economics.

Letter To The Editor- 'Our Brightly Glowing Future'

To the editor: By(e) jingo, we've done it again! In the good old Anglo-American "muddin' through" tradition, the U.S. has solved - effortlessly, pragmatically and permanently - the problem of handling our senior citizens.

Golly, what but that marvelous synthesis of Yankee ingenuity and ingenuousness could have evolved the "per centum" or "requestat in pace" approach?

The formula is simplicity itself: Take assorted oldsters, pack tightly into an 80 to 100 year old wooden structure, preferably several stories high, sprinkle littered and obstructed hallways, bare spots in the wiring and debris stairways - and set on fire.

I scarcely need point out that the method is adaptable - simply areas (and their inhabitants) overcrowded schools, institutions for the mentally ill, etc. Some experimentation seems to be underway in several of these fields.

Senate Rackets Group Links Insurance Firms, Teamsters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Rackets Committee brought out evidence Tuesday indicating that two Chicago Teamster officials were secret stockholders in an insurance agency which collected inflated commissions on union welfare policies.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), said it appeared that the Teamsters — international vice president John T. (Sandy) O'Brien and Frank Brown, former president of local 710 — were profiting on the union's insurance business.

Committee investigator Alphonse Calabrese, who checked the books of the Dearborn Insurance Agency of Chicago, agreed with McClellan's conclusion.

However, Calabrese said the agency's stock certificate records could not be located and that the committee therefore could not determine definitely who owned its 40 "silent shares."

Another investigator, Martin Uhlmann, testified that Dearborn had received almost $500,000 in excessive commissions on 21 union welfare policies which were underwritten by the Occidental Life Insurance Co. of Los Angeles.

Most of it came from the policies of teamster local 710, 777 and 703 and restaurant workers union 593. Calabrese said the Dearborn Agency was set up in 1949 as a Peeble Beach, Calif., between Harold R. Maris, an Occidental agent of Oakland, Calif., and Frank Keenan, a former Chicago Alderman.

Maris became president of Dearborn. Keenan was one of the original stockholders along with three other Chicagoans. Keenan since has dropped out and is now appealing a conviction for federal income tax evasion, the committee said.

Calabrese said Maris received about $175,000 on the side from Occidental for obtaining the business. Uhlmann said this was far in excess of fees would have been under rates recommended by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

At one point Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.), interrupted to demand that the investigators say what they were trying to prove. He said Occidental was a "very, very fine reputable company" result of a golf course meeting at Dearborn.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), replied that "it doesn't have to be a crime to be improper."

The committee spent the entire day tracing the formation of Dearborn, its commissions from Occidental and the correspondence between Maris and his various partners in the venture.

The letters mentioned contacts with Chicago politicians and union officials while the insurance deals were being arranged. The minutes of one Dearborn board meeting named Brown as one of the directors present.

In a January, 1951, letter to Murray, Maris mentioned "payments" and said union officials "have got to go to bat for us" if employer trustees of the welfare funds tried to get lower insurance premium rates.

Maris noted that since "commissions are built upon percentage of premium, obviously the higher premium we get, the higher commission we get."

Plan Six Summer Concerts

The board of directors of the Iowa City Community Band this week announced tentative plans for a series of six concerts to be played during the coming summer months.

The band has received assurances thus far from five guest conductors who will direct single performances during the concert season. These include Prof. Frederick C. Ebbs, director of bands at SUI, Prof. Thomas Ayres and Prof. William Gower of the SUI Music Department, Howard Robertson, director of the Iowa City High School Band, and Laverne Wintermyer, former conductor of the Iowa City High School Orchestra.

The band this week began filling vacant positions on its board of directors. Prof. Himie Voxman, head of the SUI Department of Music, has accepted the first of several appointments to be announced. Reappointed in their positions of musical director and publicity director were, Prof. Paul Anderson of the Department of Music and Larry Barrett of Radio Station WSUI.

The cost of paying the musicians for the summer series of band concerts has again been underwritten, through the cooperation of Local 450 of the American Federation of Musicians, by the Record Industries' Recording and Transcription Fund. The first concert of the new season will be held in College Hill Park, Sunday, June 21.

New Labs, Facilities Readied At SUI Physics Building

Transforming two physics labs into four with accompanying storage rooms is a tough job — but its being done on the second floor of the Physics Building. The last of the new labs will be completed in about 10 days said Edward B. Nelson, associate professor of physics.

The job will have taken ten weeks (five weeks for each old lab), he said. The transformation will provide excellent lighting, adequate storage, an entrance foyer, and will unify the operation of each set of labs, Nelson explained. The new facilities, he said, are being made from two old labs located at each end of the second floor corridor.

The labs will allow the two types of physics courses, liberal arts physics and pre-engineering physics, to be separated. Separate lab problems may be set up for each, he said. The labs at the north end of the corridor are already used for experiments in electricity and optics. Those at the southern end of the corridor will be set up for mechanics and heat experiments.

The next step in the renovation will be additional laboratory benches and supplies, said Nelson. A new system for electrical distribution to the students also will be undertaken, he said, and the result will be fuses and switches for both AC and DC currents at each experimental site.

The renovation, according to Nelson, will provide adequate space, apparatus, and privacy so each student can work without being disturbed.

Africa Mob Spears 2 British Officials

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia, (UPI) — An African mob speared and wounded two British officials and burned Government buildings in an anti-white outburst far to the north of here, dispatches from the area said Tuesday.

Two Africans were reported killed in the rioting, which apparently spilled over into relatively peaceful northern Rhodesia from neighboring Nyasaland.

The Africans attacked British district commissioner G.E.K. Walsh and his assistant, J. E. Sharp, on Chilubu Island in Lake Bangweulu, 350 miles north of Lusaka. Walsh was wounded slightly by a spear thrust. Sharp was wounded seriously and was brought to Ouska for treatment.

Government buildings were burned in two other northern areas. There was no further details. It was the thirteenth rioting in northern Rhodesia since the Zambia African National Congress was banned two weeks ago by British authorities.

Police units were on their way to the area.

In southern Nyasaland, rioters Monday burned the home of a loyal African chief named Kunthembe. A number of adjoining shelters also were set afire. The chief, who lives in the airport district of Blantyre, was not harmed.

Kunthembe has been an outspoken opponent of the National Congress which demands independence for Nyasaland, now part of a British federation with northern and southern Rhodesia.

FOG FIGHT
LONDON (AP)—The Supply Ministry has notified Parliament it expects to complete tests in five to six weeks on an economical way to burn off fog over airports. A similar but expensive system known as Fido fog, intensive, dispersal of was used at military air fields in World War II.

1200-Pound SUI Fossil To Occupy Smithsonian Wing

By KATIE HARRIS Staff Writer

A fossil ammonite weighing 1,200 pounds has been sent to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. by the SUI Department of Geology, William W. Furnish, acting head of geology, said.

The ammonite, which resembled an oversize snail shell, was 4 1/2 feet in diameter. It was one of the largest ammonites found in the Northern Great Plains and Northern Rocky Mountain regions, Furnish said.

The ammonite will be used for display purposes in a new wing of the Smithsonian Institution, Furnish said. The curator of the institute, Dr. G. A. Cooper, hopes to display the ammonite in a prominent position, he continued.

Cooper heard of the fossil through Arthur K. Miller, professor of geology, and requested it be sent to him for the display, Furnish said.

Estimated age of the fossil is near 80 million years old, Furnish said. Ammonites lived during the Cretaceous period of geologic history.

The SUI Geology Department received the ammonite in 1945 after it was found near the Big Horn Mountains of Montana by a cowboy, Furnish said the cowboy thought the ammonite was a large dinosaur bone common to that region and started to dislodge it from the ground with a sledge hammer. He called for help when he realized it was an unusually large shell.

The ammonite was removed from the area in several pieces with pack horses. The original weight of the ammonite was between 400 and 500 pounds before restoration. Reconstruction of the fossil took place in the SUI Geology Department.

F. Howard Brady, an SUI geology graduate, heard of the find and was responsible for making it available to the Geology Department.

Plan Armstrong, Bondurant Shows By Highlanders

The Highland Fling and the Sword Dance will be two of the specialties demonstrated by the SUI Scottish Highlanders in special benefit performances, the first of which will be presented April 3 at Armstrong, Ia.

Nearly 35 internationally famed Highlanders will participate in the 200th anniversary of the birth of Scottish poet Robert Burns.

On April 10, 35 different Highlanders will travel to Bondurant to give the program in the Bondurant High School Gym.

Along with their dance specialties, the Highlanders concert will include six musical selections for which Burns wrote lyrics: "A Highland Lad," sung by the Highlander Chorus; and "Will Ye No' Come Back Again," "Auld Lang Syne," "Over the Sea to Syke," "Highland Laddie" and "Bonnie Charlie," to be played by the Bagpipe Band.

Chinese Students To Cook Dinner

SUI Chinese students will prepare and serve food from their country at the International Center, Sunday at 6 p.m.

The menu for the supper is: sweet-sour pork tenderloin, Maner's Special (surprise), allspice egg, Taipei green (vegetable), bamboo soup, fortune cookies, and Dragon-Well tea.

Stanley Yeh, G. Taipei, Formosa, is in charge of the supper. His helpers are Frank S. Pang, E4, Taipei; Lung C. Young, G, Formosa; and Olive Chou Chen Wu, G, Taiwan, China.

After supper a film on Chinese painting will be shown.

Tickets for the supper are available at the Office of Student Affairs for $1 each.

GERALD A. PARSONS received his B.A. in 1950 and his M.B.A. one year later, both from Cornell University. He joined General Electric in 1954 and is presently Specialist-Marketing Administration in the company's Large Steam Turbine-Generator Department.

"The biggest challenge a man has to face is himself"

"Men and businesses are alike in one respect," says Gerald A. Parsons, 30-year-old marketing and personnel development specialist. "Their success depends to a great extent on how well they respond to challenge. And I've found that the biggest challenge a man has to face on his job is not the competition of others — but the far more important one of developing himself to his fullest capabilities.

"During my four years with General Electric, I've had plenty of opportunity for self-development. Challenging training assignments at five different locations within the company have given me a broader understanding of my career area. In my present job I have the benefit of working with experts, both in establishing long-range goals and in helping to achieve them. I've found that working toward future potential is vital in the development of successful businesses — and successful men."

Young men such as Gerry Parsons are important to the future of companies like General Electric and to the growth of America's dynamic, competitive-enterprise economy. Our nation's progress will depend more and more upon those forward-looking individuals who continue to develop to their fullest capabilities during their lifetime.

That is why General Electric provides a climate for individual progress — with opportunity for increasing knowledge and skills — for all of its employees, including 30,000 college graduates. For it is only as individuals meet the challenge of self-development that there continues to be progress for a business, an industry, or a nation.

Major League Outlook The New York Yankees

By LOU YOUNKIN
Sports Editor

Today's column will be the first in a series of 16 devoted to the major league teams in the ensuing pennant race. Between now and the start of the season I will climb out on my limb 16 times and make a prediction for each team, giving the why and wherefore for each guess.

Yankees First

Since most baseball talk begins with the New York Yankees, that seems a logical place to start.

Making a prediction where the Yankees will finish in a pennant race is hardly worth the effort. The Yankees will waltz in with another flag for the simple reason that the rest of the American League is woefully weak.

Since Casey Stengel took over as manager in 1949 the Yankees have won 9 pennants in 10 seasons. They have won 10 flags in the last 12 years. They are the defending World Champions.

In the 1958 World Series the Yanks overcame a 3-game to 1 deficit to win their seventh World Championship under Stengel. Pitcher Bob Turley and outfielder-catcher Elston Howard were outstanding in the comeback victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

When the New York era of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Co. came to an end in the mid '30s it was thought that at last the pennant races would pretty well even out. All the Yanks have done in the 23 seasons since 1935 is win 17 league championships. And 1959 looks like more of the same.

Won By 10 Games

In 1958 Stengel's charges lost 28 of their last 55 games and still finished in first place by 10 games. This indicates two things — the Yanks have some weaknesses and the rest of the league can't even cope with a champion that plays under .500 ball the last two months of the season.

It has been said pitching is 75 per cent of baseball so let's take a look at the Yankee pitching staff. Stengel's hurlers led the loop last season with a combined ERA of 3.22. (ERA is the number of earned runs allowed per nine innings.)

Turley was just about the whole show last season when he won 21 games and lost 7 and he figures to be at least as good in '59.

STENGLER TURLEY HOWARD BAUER

Southpaw Whitey Ford, 14-7 last year, could easily make it to the 20-game circle if he ever goes through a season without injuries or ailments. Ford's 2.01 ERA was the best in the junior loop last year although he was healthy enough to hurl only 219 innings.

Another hurler who spends as much time on the sick list as on the mound is Don Larsen. The big righthander of perfect game fame in 1956 won nine and lost six last season but has been mentioned by Stengel as a possible outfield replacement. Shades of Babe Ruth.

Rest Of The Staff

Behind these three are some rather inconsistent performers from '59. They are: Johnny Kucks (8-8), Tom Sturdivant (3-6), Art Ditmar (9-8), Duke Maas (7-3), Zack Monroe (4-2) and Bobby Shantz (7-6).

If a couple of these men can pick up the slack as starters, the Yanks will again make a shambles of the race. They will win it anyway, but with a healthy staff it will be strictly no contest.

Ryne Duren returns to duty in the bullpen and with the possible exception of Washington's Dick Hyde, there was no better fireman in baseball a year ago than the bespectacled Duren. Although his record was an unspectacular 4-4, Duren was credited with 18 saves and compiled an excellent ERA of 2.02.

Casey has named World Series hero Howard as his No. 1 catcher — a role that relegates the great Yogi Berra to reserve and pinch-hitting duties. Both Howard and Berra show the flexibility that Stengel desires in his players and that is probably the one big factor that makes the New Yorkers the standouts they are. Besides being catchers, both can play first base and the outfield.

Howard Best Hitter

Howard was the best hitter, average-wise, for the Bombers last season with a .314 mark and 11 home runs. Berra hit .266 with 22 homers.

Bill Skowron, who slumped to .273 with 14 roundtrippers in 1958, will again be at first base, but not until he beats out a horde of men Stengel has mentioned for the initial sack. Besides Berra, the names of Faye Throneberry and outfielder Norm Siebern have popped up as first base possibilities.

Another chronic ailer, Skowron owns a lifetime batting average of .312 and should regain his job easily. Throneberry hits with power but infrequently (.227) and may be shipped out.

McDougal Slipped

Second base is no problem—yet. Gil McDougal hit only .250 last year and his constant shifting from position to position may be taking its toll. If this is the case Stengel has the capable Bobby Richardson to step into the job.

Shortstop Tony Kubek slumped to .265 and only two homers last year and did not field his position in a major league fashion. The Yankees hope he returns to his 1957 form when he won "Rookie of the Year" laurels and swatted the ball at a .297 clip.

If Kubek fails to make the grade there is the possibility that 22-year-old rookie Cletus Boyer may be the man of the hour. Boyer, who is a brother of the Cardinals' Ken, hit .284 with 22 home runs at AAA Richmond last year.

Stengel will probably 2-platoon at third base again. Andy Carey (.286 and 12 homers) will face the lefthanders and Jerry Lumpe (.254 and 3 homers) will face the righthanders.

Mantle Top Outfielder

The fabulous Mickey Mantle heads the outfield. Mantle led the league in home runs last season with 42 and hit a highly respectable .304. Stengel and General Manager George Weiss agree that he can do better. Mantle has been known to loaf in the outfield and he is one of the toughest men in the league on water coolers. He struck out 120 times last year and that is a statistic he will have to cut down on in '59.

Aging Hank Bauer (.36) is set again in right field, but will need more rest. This is where Berra or possibly rookie Deron Johnson will come in. At Richmond last season, Johnson clubbed 27 home runs and drove in 103 tallies. Bauer's 1958 average was .268 with 12 circuit drives, the Yankees.

Norm Siebern, despite his defensive flaws, looks like the regular left fielder. His .300 batting average and 14 homers in '58 helped offset his poor fielding. Rookie Jack Reed, .309 with 19 homers at New Orleans, may be kept for relief chores in the outfield.

The New York Yankees should win again in 1959 as easily as in 1958, or 1957, or 1956, etc. Stengel has his problems but there are seven other managers in the American League who would like to trade places with him.

Same Lineup Practically

It will be pretty much the same lineup as a year ago with the possible exceptions of Boyer, Johnson, Reed, catcher John Blanchard (.291, 19 home runs, 96 RBIs at Denver) and pitchers Mark Freeman (13-10 at Denver) and John Gabler (19-7 at Denver).

It is noteworthy that the Yankees have been unable to swing a deal to bolster the weak spots. The rest of the league seems to have realized too late that you can't overtake the Yankees by trading with them.

The impossible could happen, of course. New York could go into a tailspin and Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago or Boston could win the championship. But don't bet on it. You'll never get rich betting against the Yankees.

Coaches Favor Louisville In NCAA

Home Court Advantage To Aid Cards

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Each of four coaches whose teams will participate in the NCAA Basketball Championships this weekend made these predictions Tuesday:

1. My team will not win.
2. I don't think my team will lose, either.

Coaches of West Virginia, Cincinnati, California and Louisville were the subjects of a press interview over a four-way telephone hookup. It originated from the site of the tournament, Freedom Hall. Actually, in the coaches' predictions of the tournament winner, it was Louisville 2-1.

Coach George Smith of Cincinnati and Freddie Schaus of West Virginia predicted Louisville would win because of its home floor advantage.

Pick Opponents

Coaches Pete Newell of California and Peck Hickman of Louisville picked their first round opponents, Cincinnati and West Virginia.

All except California's Newell complained of a lack of scouting reports on their opponents, and without exception, the coaches had nothing but praise for the teams they face.

Friday night's schedule has the Louisville meeting West Virginia at 7:30 p.m., and Cincinnati playing California at 9:30 p.m.

West Virginia's Schaus said his team is "apprehensive" because of Louisville's spectacular performance in the Mid-East regional tournament.

"When you beat Kentucky and Michigan State on successive nights, you've got to have a fine team," Schaus said.

Fear West

Louisville's Hickman, referring to West Virginia star Jerry West, said he is altering Horace Greeley's advice. "We're making it 'go after West, young man.'"

Cincinnati Coach Smith complained that all he knows about California is "what I have read in the papers."

But opposing Coach Newell felt that is little disadvantage for what he called "one of the real great teams of the country."

Ehmke, Star Of '29 Series Against Cubs, Dead At 65

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Howard Ehmke died Tuesday bringing back memories of one of baseball's most dramatic episodes.

Ehmke, owner of a tarpaulin firm, passed away at the age of 65 of an unannounced ailment. Private funeral services will be held here Friday.

16-Year Career

Although the tall former major league pitcher won 166 games, including a no-hitter, and lost 164 in a 16-year baseball career, it was his final victory that made him a baseball legend.

Three weeks before the end of the 1929 season, Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics summoned Ehmke for a conference.

So the story goes, Mack told Ehmke, a second-line hurler on the powerful American League Athletics, that he (Ehmke) was going to start the first game of the 1929 World Series.

Great Staff

"It was one of the nicest things in my whole life," Ehmke related many times. "We had a great pitching staff, George Earnshaw, Lefty Grove, Rube Walker, Eddie Rommel, John Quinn and Bill Shore. They all won more games than I did."

Mack cautioned Ehmke not to tell a soul of the decision. Ehmke kept the secret, even from his wife.

The day the series opened in Chicago, the baseball world was startled when Ehmke came out of the dugout to warm up. Even his teammates gaped in amazement.

Fanned 13

But Ehmke pitched. Not only did he win, but he struck out 13 Chicago Cub batters, erasing the series record of 12 set in 1906, by big Ed Walsh.

The most memorable strikeout to Ehmke was the last out of the game.

Chicago scored once in the last of the ninth to cut the Philadelphia lead to 3-1. The tying runs were on base with pinch hitter

Gunther Chosen Iowa's MVP For Third Straight Season

Iowa forward Dave Gunther has been chosen the most valuable player by his teammates for the third straight season.

The announcement of the selection of the 6'5" Lemars senior was made Tuesday by the Chicago Tribune.

Gunther is now eligible for the Tribune's Silver Basketball award, an award made annually to the most valuable player in the Big Ten. Last year's recipient was Indiana center Archie Dees.

Iowa began naming its most valuable player in 1946 and Gunther is the first player to be named three years in a row. Four others—Murray Weir, Frank Calsbeek, Chuck Darling and Carl Cain—were named twice. Weir was voted the top player in the conference in 1947 and 1948, Darling in 1951 and 1952.

Gunther tied the all-time Iowa scoring record in his final appearance for Iowa at Michigan State March 7 when he potted 17 points in a losing cause against the Spartans. In his three years of varsity play Gunther, this season's co-captain with center Nolden Gentry, totaled 1,188 points to tie the mark set by Bill Logan during the golden years of Iowa basketball from 1953 to 1956.

As a sophomore Gunther scored 271 points for a 12.3 average. In his junior year he averaged 19.8 on 435 points and this season he was No. 19 in the nation with a 21.9 average on 482 points.

Gunther, who has said he has no professional basketball ambitions, was eighth in Big Ten individual scoring this season with 280 points for a 20-point mark.

Other valuable players in the Big Ten announced by the Tribune were: Roger Johnson, Minnesota; Willie Jones, Northwestern; Willie Merriweather, Purdue; Roger Taylor, Illinois; John Green, Michigan State; M. C. Burton, Michigan; Larry Siegfried, Ohio State; Walt Bellamy, Indiana and Bob Barnson, Wisconsin.

Bassey, Moore Rated Even In Title Bout

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Betting odds were about even and take your pick Tuesday between featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey and contender Davey Moore on the eve of their 15-round title fight.

The evenly matched pair step into the ring at the Olympic Auditorium tonight at 9 p.m. CST with the 26-year-old title-holder from Nigeria risking his crown for the second time in less than a year.

The fight will be televised nationally (ABC, KCRG-TV channel 9, Cedar Rapids).

The two are the top 126-pounders in the world, Bassey the son of a sub-chief of an agrarian tribe in Nigeria, 25-year-old Davey the son of a Springfield, Ohio minister. Moore, 25, is the No. 1 ranked challenger.

Bassey has won his last 11 fights, Davey 13 in a row.

The fight will be scored under the 10-point must system—10 to the winner of a round, nine or less to the loser.

Akins-Jordan Bout Postponed Again

ST. LOUIS (AP)— The welterweight boxing title fight between titleholder Don Jordan of Los Angeles and challenger Virgil Akins of St. Louis was rescheduled Tuesday from April 3 to April 24 because of the illness of Jordan's wife.

Promoter Sam Muchnick said Jordan's wife gave birth nine days ago to a 2½-pound premature baby and Jordan was fearful of leaving his wife's side at this time.

The fight will be held at the same site — Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis.

This is the second postponement for the fight. It was to have been held March 6 but was reset for April 3 after a tornado hit St. Louis and damaged the Arena.

Jordan lifted the crown from Akins late last year with a decisive 15-round decision.

Fleming, Ogiego, Horn Not Sound Academically—Evy

Iowa football coach Forest Evashevski said Don Horn, Mitch Ogiego, and Willie Fleming are not academically sound in a Cedar Rapids speech Tuesday night.

Iowa coaches have gone about as far as they can with Ogiego, Evy said. It seems he just has not adjusted to college life, he continued. Ogiego was in line as the No. 1 replacement for Randy Duncan.

We're not planning too much on him, Evashevski said.

Red Aid To U.A.R. May End: Experts

BEIRUT, Lebanon, (UPI)—Western diplomats speculated Tuesday that Russia might cut its massive aid to the United Arab Republic in the wake of Nikita S. Khrushchev's attack on Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Premier Khrushchev solidly lined Russia up behind Iraq in the bitter quarrel between President Nasser's United Arab Republic and the Iraqi regime of President Abdel Karim Kassem. Iraqis—particularly the powerful Communists—were jubilant.

Baghdad newspaper proclaimed that Nasser had lost "his best friend" as a result of Khrushchev's Moscow speech Monday accusing Nasser of trying to annex Iraq. Dispatches from Baghdad said the Communists, buoyed by the turn of events, were trying harder to rid the army and government of remaining pro-Nasser elements.

In Cairo, the newspaper Al Akhbar charged Iraq was being ruled by a 9-man "secret cabinet" composed entirely of Communists. The future of relations between Russia and the U.A.R. remained in doubt, Nasser rejected Khrushchev's attack as "totally unacceptable interference" in domestic affairs.

It was obvious that the Moscow-Cairo honeymoon was over. But Western diplomats said Nasser might be chained economically to the Soviets regardless of politics.

Much of Nasser's plans for economic development hinge on trade and economic pacts with the Communist bloc. Russia has promised $175 million in aid and $100 million to help Nasser start his dream dam at Aswan on the Nile River. There was some speculation that Russian aid might be cut. Nasser has aligned himself to trade with the Eastern bloc since 1955, and has received arms as well as industrial goods from Russia and Czechoslovakia. He is believed to have a 2-year stockpile of arms and spare parts furnished by the Communists.

Brown: Not Presidential Candidate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California, disclaiming presidential aspirations for himself in 1960, said Tuesday that because of world conditions a U.S. Senator probably would make a better president than a state governor.

But he quickly added that there were "exceptions to every rule" and that the Democratic and Republican candidates next year would not necessarily have to come from the Senate.

Brown, a Democrat, told a news conference "The average governor is so tied up with his own state problems that he can no longer keep himself informed as he should to become presidential material in this international age."

Because international issues are so vital, he said, a senator probably would be better qualified to deal with them.

Three governors are most often mentioned as possible 1960 presidential nominees—Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Democratic Govs. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey.

Sens. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.), Stuart Symington (Mo.) and Lyndon B. Johnson (Texas) are the Senate members considered as possible Democratic presidential nominees.

13 Americans Now Held In Cuban Jails

HAVANA (UPI)—New arrests Tuesday brought to 13 the number of American citizens held in Cuban jails, most of them without any formal charge.

At the same time, the newspaper Revolucion, which identifies itself as the official organ of Fidel Castro's July 26 Revolutionary Movement, published the first of a scheduled series of editorial attacks against the American owned United Fruit Company.

The character and severity of the attack prompted foreign observers to recall that similar action in other Latin American countries often was a prelude to Government steps against the American company involved.

Seven additional men convicted of war crimes by revolutionary courts were executed by firing squads, bringing the unofficial total since early January to 464.

Those executed included the former president of the urgency court at Pinar Del Rio, Judge Aristides Perez Andreu, 56.

Four more Americans were arrested Tuesday, and it was disclosed that a fifth had been held since last month.

Police announced that Angelo de Cristoforo, manager of the Capri Casino, was detained "for questioning." It was recalled that two Bronx models, Elaine Mitchell, New York, and Xenia Thomadakis, Elmhurst, Long Island, being held on charges of smuggling in Cuban currency, said the money was intended for the Capri.

Luis Martinez, of Canton, Ohio, was held on a charge of not paying his hotel bill at the Hotel Havana Hilton. He was the only American with a formal charge against him.

The American embassy reported that George M. Jones, a resident in Mexico City for the past 13 years and formerly of Chicago, had been held without charge since Feb. 17.

Cypriot Leader Receives Hero's Welcome Home

ATHENS (UPI)—Col. George Grivas, leader of the EOKA underground army in the 4-year battle against British rule of Cyprus, emerged from his hiding place on the now peaceful Mediterranean island and flew here to a hero's welcome.

Athenians turned out in force to greet the 61-year-old Grivas. Police had difficulty restraining the crowds. Grivas wore a tattered khaki uniform and an old beret. A pistol was strapped to his side.

Thousands cheered as he emerged from the plane and embraced his wife whom he had not seen since he took over as military commander of the EOKA extremists.

Grivas then shook hands with government, city and religious officials, reviewed a detachment of the Greek Army, and exchanged brief statements with the welcoming party.

Grivas was Britain's "most-wanted" target during the years-long rebellion. The British put a price of $28,000 on his head and sent as many as 30,000 troops through the hills and forests of Cyprus in search of him.

Many of the soldiers who participated in the fruitless search stood by at the Nicosia Airport to watch Grivas leave for Athens under an amnesty granted by the British Government following the London agreement which granted independence to Cyprus.

Refugees Warn Of Betrayal

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three refugees from Communist persecution in the Far East warned Tuesday that recognition of Red China by the United States would be "a betrayal" of a people suffering under the yoke of tyranny.

The refugees—Christians from Formosa and South Korea—arrived in New York by air from Los Angeles as part of a 5-man team brought to this country by the American Council of Christian Churches to tell "the facts" about life and religion on Red China's mainland.

The Rev. Cheng, at a news conference, said he is "shocked" that some religious leaders in America had suggested recognition of Red China. He branded the Communists as atheists who are "persecuting" Christians and Christian churches on the China mainland.

Dulles Nears End Of Radiation Cancer Treatment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles neared the end of his radiation treatment for cancer Tuesday with another massive dose of X-rays at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

He has been in the hospital since early in February and began taking the radiation treatments after a Feb. 13 hernia operation revealed the recurrence of abdominal cancer.

He took leave from office, but has been in constant contact with foreign developments.

Connie Told Keep Quiet During Trial For Murder Of Teel

Indianapolis, Ind., (UPI)—Connie Nicholas was told angrily at her murder trial by her own attorney Tuesday to keep her mouth shut if she wanted his defense against charges she killed her wealthy, married lover out of jealousy.

The 42-year-old divorcee has been chatting animatedly during the trial with newsmen and she stuck her foot in it by telling reporters she would rather go to the chair than be put in prison for the slaying of Forrest Teel, handsome drug company vice president.

When her remarks reached veteran defense lawyer Frank Symmes, 74, he turned red and said sharply to her during a courtroom recess:

"I told you to keep your mouth shut if you wanted us to help you in this case."

Connie took the rebuke meekly

but did not deny that was what she said.

The exchange enlivened a tedious day trying to pick a jury. The prosecution has knocked off prospective jurors who said they could not pass a death sentence and the defense eliminating those who showed prejudice.

The trial has been marked by great informality with Mrs. Nicholas talking freely. She admitted she had a "good offer" to write the whole story of her 15-year-old affair with the 34-year-old Teel.

"But I'd like to get this chapter first," she laughed.

The state charges she shot and killed Teel in his white Cadillac after waiting for him outside the apartment of his new girl, Laura Mowrer, 30.

She was asked whether she would like to be known to the public as "Connie" or "Mrs. Nicholas."

"Oh, Connie, by all means," she said.

"Your real name is Minnie Belle, isn't it?" she was asked.

"Yes, but please don't call me that," she said. "I'd rather have a number."

Deputy prosecutor Judson Hagerty got dismissal of four jurors who said they were against the death penalty. An interesting sidelight was that Hagerty, while a member of the Legislature, several years ago, introduced an unsuccessful bill to bar capital punishment in Indiana.

Ike's Berlin Stand Step Toward Unity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Western diplomats agreed Tuesday that President Eisenhower has taken a big step toward achieving Allied unity in the approaching Berlin showdown with the Soviet Union.

They said his speech Monday night, endorsing a summertime summit conference if developments justify it, will ease the way for this week's talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

In fact, these diplomats said, it has virtually assured the success of Macmillan's mission. The Prime Minister, with Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd, arrives in Washington Thursday in what is generally regarded as an effort to achieve solidarity in the Western camp.

Eisenhower's radio-TV address to the nation apparently was a hit at home and abroad, drawing only a weak kind of sour note from the Kremlin.

The President's expressed willingness to attend a heads of government meeting with the Soviets was expected to be translated into a formal Big Three response to a Soviet note received last March 2.

The response is being worked out among Allied diplomats in Paris. It is expected to be sent to Moscow in a matter of days.

In general, the message reportedly will tell the Soviets the Allies are ready for a summit meeting this summer if a foreign ministers conference on Germany, proposed for mid-May, justifies it.

The White House said favorable telegrams are pouring in from around the country as an aftermath of Eisenhower's talk. The British and West German press almost unanimously hailed Eisenhower's acceptance of summit talks this summer.

Congressional comment was generally friendly, although some Democrats voiced reservations on certain points.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he still felt it was bad psychology to reduce the Army, Navy and Marines when the country is facing negotiations on situations like the crisis in Berlin.

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, voiced complete approval of Eisenhower's stand that the United States will not retreat one inch from exercising its rights in West Berlin or abandon the people there to possible Communist takeover.

The State of New York has granted accreditation to the SUI dental hygiene program, according to an announcement by Helen Newell, professor and coordinator of the SUI program.

The accreditation by the New York commissioner of education will allow SUI graduates who hold an SUI Certificate of Dental Hygiene to appear before the New York board for examination. Of the 33 professional dental hygiene schools in the U.S., SUI's program is now one of the 18 accredited in New York.

With the New York accreditation, SUI dental hygienists are now accepted for licensing examinations in all states, including Alaska and Hawaii, according to Dean William J. Simon of the College of Dentistry.

In asking the action by the New York commissioner of education, Newell submitted SUI's 2-year curriculum leading to the certificate. To be eligible to receive the certificate, the SUI students must complete a total of 1,980 clock hours of study in liberal arts, dentistry, and laboratory and clinical work.

Bach: Berlin Pact Might Influence Neutral Nations

FORT MADISON (AP)—Any agreement negotiated with Soviet leaders on the Berlin crisis may be worthless in terms of Russian performance but United States efforts may influence neutral or uncommitted nations in the cold war, an SUI professor said here Tuesday.

Marcus Bach, professor in the School of Religion, who recently completed an extended visit to Russia, addressed the management club of the Sheaffer Pen Co. He said:

"Americans can readily accept Russian claims in scientific or measurable areas, but the Soviets do not consider truth or accuracy a necessary component in dealing in the realm of humanities."

Aside from the demonstrated military strength of Russia now, the Soviets cannot be expected to match the United States capacity for production until it abandons its state-supported laboratory of atheism," he said.

2 Delegates To Mafia Meet Offer To Talk

NEW YORK (UPI)—The first crack appeared Tuesday in the barrier of silence maintained by delegates to the notorious underworld conclave at Apalachin, N.Y., on Nov. 14, 1957.

Delegates Frank Valenti, 47, and his brother, Gostenze, 32, offered to tell all about the convention in return for their freedom.

They have been held in jail since Aug. 22 after being found guilty of contempt of court for refusing to testify before the state investigation commission.

The brothers, both of Rochester, N.Y., told the commission that they were ready to talk about what the meeting was called and what was discussed. The meeting was broken up by a state police raid. It has been described since as a convention of Mafia leaders on the Eastern Seaboard to discuss administration matters in various rackets.

The commission will not meet again until next Monday. As a result, the Valenti brothers appealed to State Supreme Court Justice Edgar Nathan Jr. for an immediate release from jail rather than wait until Monday.

Nathan signed an order requesting the commission to show cause why the brothers should not be released at once. The writ is returnable today.

Five other delegates to the convention are still in the city's civil jail on the same contempt charge. They have so far not given any indication of willingness to talk.

Hospital-Social Welfare Meeting Continues Today

"Homemaker service plans" for the chronically-ill provide services which are needed by families in all economic groups — not the poor families alone, a speaker at SUI's third annual Hospital-Social Welfare Conference said Tuesday.

Eileen Lester, medical social consultant with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said communities which establish homemaker plans should consider making services available to everyone, with payment policies ranging from free to full pay.

Miss Lester outlined findings of the National Conference on Home-maker Service, which was sponsored last year by 26 voluntary agencies and eight divisions of HEW.

Speakers today on the conference program are Jacob G. Gold, executive director, Orthodox Jewish Home for the Aged, Chicago; Mrs. Gethel Marshall, director, Washington County Department of Social Welfare, Washington, Iowa; Ralph Shannon, editor, Washington Evening Journal, Washington, Iowa; and Dr. Charles Beckman, Kalona.

Striking Miners Stone Workers In Eastern Kentucky Coal Dispute

HAZARD, Ky. (AP)—A massive crowd of striking miners swarmed over a coal mine tangle in nearby Letcher County Tuesday, throwing men to the ground and stoning them.

By the time state police arrived one man had suffered a fractured neck and at least three others were injured less seriously.

The scene is within 60 miles of the area which came to be known as "Bloody Harlan" in the strike violence of the 1930s.

Letcher County is part of a large section of eastern Kentucky where the United Mine Workers is striking for a $2-a-day basic wage increase. The current scale is $24.25 a day.

The state police director, Maj. Charles Crutchfield, said only three troopers were near the scene when the demonstration began and an additional 12 were rushed to the area.

Air Force Transport Crash-Lands; 8 Persons Aboard Escape Injury

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI)—A crippled Air Force transport crash-landed in a woods near Pope Air Force Base Tuesday but the eight persons aboard escaped serious injury.

The 2-engine C-123, assigned to the 776th Troop Carrier Wing at Pope, was on a routine equipment and personnel drop when it developed trouble. The pilot, 1st Lt. William W. Mains Jr., Houston, Tex., brought the "provider" plane to earth about two miles northwest of Pope, located on the military reservation here.

The plane carried four crew members and four paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division, Ft. Bragg.

Senate Hearings On Nomination Of Secretary Of State Very Calm

WASHINGTON (AP)—The storm that is expected to erupt in Senate hearings on Lewis L. Strauss' nomination as secretary of commerce was missing Tuesday as the Commerce Committee began quizzing him on his views.

In an atmosphere of academic calm, the 63-year-old Strauss, center of some hot controversies in the past, spent three hours answering questions about Russia's economic offensive and U.S. restrictions on trade with Iron Curtain countries.

The hearing may spread over several weeks.

Strauss, a former New York investment banker and a reserve admiral, succeeded Sinclair Weeks as Secretary of Commerce Nov. 13 under a recess appointment. President Eisenhower sent his nomination to the Senate when the new session began this year.
