

President Asks Foreign Chief Meeting First

Disarmament, Europe Today's Probable Topics

GETTYSBURG (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported Friday night to have disagreed with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's proposal that the West make a firm offer of a summertime summit conference with Russia's Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Authoritative informants said Mr. Eisenhower stuck to his view that such a high level parley must hinge on whether a prior foreign ministers meeting succeeds in easing East-West tensions.

Mr. Eisenhower and Macmillan talked over their differences face-to-face during an initial 2-hour meeting in a mountain lodge perched atop the summit of one of the Catoctin Mountains in Maryland.

The two leaders reaffirmed their determination to stand firm against Soviet threats to West Berlin.

Conference spokesmen described their initial meeting as "a free-for-all" discussion of Russian pressure against Berlin and West Germany. They refused to provide any details.

The talk, the first of a 4-day review, was carried on as the two men sat relaxing in easy chairs in a sun bathed room of Mr. Eisenhower's private mountain lodge at Camp David, 65 miles from Washington, D.C.

Macmillan led off by giving Mr. Eisenhower a confidential report on his Kremlin talks with Khrushchev three weeks ago, as well as his talks last week with France's President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Mr. Eisenhower and Macmillan, each flanked by four top aides, arranged to resume their far-ranging discussions after a dinner in the Aspen lodge which is serving as their conference site.

Disarmament and European security promised to figure as the main talking point in today's sessions. Mr. Eisenhower asked three of his top experts in this field to join him in the morning—Dep. Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles, Atomic Energy Commission Chairman John A. McCone, and Eisenhower's special scientific adviser, James R. Killian.

Mr. Eisenhower and Macmillan sat down to outline their personal views after having a 57-minute talk with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles about the Berlin crisis.

The meeting with Dulles took place in Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington, where Dulles has been under treatment for cancer. British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, who accompanied Macmillan to Camp David, took part in this session.

The ailing Dulles was understood to have stressed the need to avoid any proposals which would bolster the Allied foothold in Berlin at the cost of freezing the present East-West division of Germany.

Macmillan is reported by some informants to favor negotiating a deal with the U.S.S.R. which would preserve Allied rights in Berlin by giving the Western sector an international status.

This is understood to be one of the differences to be threshed out. Top U.S. officials are highly skeptical of such an approach unless it is part of a broad understanding with the Soviets which will advance Germany unity.

Planning Chief In Soviet Union Gets Demoted

Josif Kuzmin Replaced By Alexei Kosygin

MOSCOW (UPI) — Deputy Premier and State Planning Minister Josif Kuzmin, who once was Nikita S. Khrushchev's choice as head of Soviet industrial planning and economic growth, was dismissed Friday and replaced with a consumer goods expert.

Alexei Kosygin, former Commissioner of Textile, and a deputy premier was named to succeed Kuzmin as head of "Gosplan," the top state planning commission. No reasons were given for the change.

Kuzmin was given the lesser post of minister in charge of the cabinet's new Scientific and Economic Council, according to a 2-paragraph announcement by the Tass News Agency.

On the face of it, Kuzmin was demoted. However, his duties remain highly important. It is not unusual when a new agency such as the Scientific and Economic Council is established to remove a man from a top post and make him its chief.

Tass said only that Kuzmin had been "relieved of his duties."

The Economic and Scientific Council was formed only a few weeks ago, after the 21st Communist Party Congress in February.

The Kuzmin-Kosygin switch was the first big government change since the Congress.

The re-shuffle came barely a month after Premier Khrushchev formally launched a 7-year plan designed to surpass the United States and make Russia the biggest industrial nation in the world.

Kuzmin, who had been an obscure member of the Communist Party's Central Auditing Commission, was tapped by Khrushchev in 1957 to head economic programming as State Planning Minister. He also was named a first Deputy Premier.

Kosygin had been a deputy chairman of Gosplan. Like Kuzmin who is five years his junior, the 55-year-old Kosygin is one of the new generation Communist leaders. He had no part in the 1917 Bolshevik revolution.

The Tass announcement said simply that the Presidium (Cabinet) of the Soviet Parliament appointed Kosygin to the planning post.

IT'S SPRING! ?—But Chuck Kiple, A2, Oitumwa seems a bit confused. We can hardly blame poor Chuck, he has just heard that snow is expected all over the state on this first morning of spring. But for Chuck, and all of you, it will be partly cloudy Sunday—and warmer, the weather Bureau says.

It Was A Long, Cold Winter, But Spring Is Finally Here

By MEL PITZEN Staff Writer

Ah! Made it through another Iowa winter!

That is what most winter-weary Iowa Citizens are hoping as the calendar shows that spring is due to bust out all over.

The winter's snowfall, which totaled over 44.3 inches in Iowa City, should be nothing but a reverie to SUlowans once the expected May flowers bloom.

May riverbankers will shudder when they recall the wintry day Jan. 5, when the temperature nosedived to the winter's low of 20 degrees below zero.

The vanishing 21.1 inches of heavy, wet snow and howling, blizzard winds of March will be big good riddance by students who are anxious to change to spring wardrobes.

Sun-tanned SUlowans in June will walk to classes with smirks on their faces as they vicariously remember the city crews busily removing snow from the streets in mid-March.

The $4,000 ($225 to $250 per hour) spent by the city for removal of a typical snowfall from the downtown area will look like money spent for a fruitless cause. After all, Mother Nature would have removed the snow cost-free if she was just given a little time.

How disgusted city employees must have felt after using 26 trucks, 4 loaders, 2 graders, and 2 snowplows to make driving possible on March 6; then to wake the next morning to find that someone had brought the white, flaky stuff back again.

And think how much popcorn could be salted with the 245 tons of rock salt ($15.40 per ton) used to prevent streets in Iowa City from becoming too slippery.

And what did Joe College's parents from Arizona think on that day on March 4, when they visited Joe on campus? They witnessed rain, snow, sleet, wind, sunshine, and cloudiness, all in less than a 10 hour period.

They said it couldn't be done! Now, is spring really near?

According to weather statistics kept by Prof. Joseph W. Howe, of the Mechanical and Hydraulics Department, snowfall for the remainder of March will be slight, if weather holds true to form.

Records show that in the past eight years a total of only 17.9 inches of snow has fallen in Iowa City after March 20. No snow fell later than March 20 in 1958 or 1956. Snowfall recorded during April of the same eight years was slight.

The temperature after March 20 last year ranged from 20 degrees on March 22, to 60 degrees on March 31. However, temperatures have dipped below zero later than March 20 in the past. It was two degrees below zero in Iowa City on March 21, 1951.

All in all, since this season's first snowfall of .3 inches on Nov. 28, it has been a long, severe winter.

Mrs. Duncan Sentenced To Gas Chamber

VENTURA, Calif. (UPI)—Elizabeth Duncan, a mother who wouldn't share her son, must die in the gas chamber for the murder of his wife, a jury decreed.

Eight women and four men who convicted the 54-year-old matron of first degree murder returned the death verdict after deliberating three hours and 20 minutes.

Spring Arrives With Fever, Promise Of Sun And Fun

By GRETCHEN BROGAN Staff Writer

The first warm lazy day of the new season drifted slowly into Iowa City this week, jumped two or three puddles, circled an occasional snowbank and then struck the SUI campus full force.

The progress of the spring-like day was followed closely by reports of an epidemic of that strange and wild disease, Student Spring Fever. The day, and possibly the fever, caused The Daily Iowan to decide this was a good time to interview several of our well known student and faculty campus figures to find out what spring will be like at SUI this year.

We weren't sure about the weather so first we interviewed one of our student weather experts—Blizzard Bill Snow, A4, North Pole, head of CSC (Central Snow Committee), the group which furnishes SUI with winter weather. He said, "This looks like the last of a great season. We may be able to manage one or two more good blizzards and a little additional sleet, but it's just about over. We aren't even sure the snow scheduled for the weekend will arrive. Certainly, was a wonderful year, though."

Jack Soppedshoe, A2, Australia, coach of the varsity puddle jumping team seemed to prefer the spring weather. He said, "Iowa City puddles are bigger and better than ever this spring, so the team will be in top shape. We expect to top last year's 30 foot jump by at least five feet. We aren't as worried as usual about keeping the men eligible, because we think many students have had enough training to step in and replace any one we lose."

We were fortunate enough to interview one of the truly big men on campus, Bill Sacktime, A4, Stayhome, the 1957-58 SUI champion class cutter. He gave us the inside information on this year's race. "Competition is rough. I've never seen such tremendous spirit; they're cutting those classes right and left. I think this year's national champ may be an SUI man."

Scarlett O'Burn, A3, Florida last year's $5,000 Suntan Scholarship winner said that she has gotten off to a very slow start so far. "I am not as worried about the weather as I was," she said. "I was afraid we might have snow from now until school is out. I will say that it has been a little uncomfortable out on the roof and down by the riverbank until recently, but I am looking forward to some really hot days now, possibly even in the 30's."

Another coed champ, Elizabeth Sharpey, A1, Flighty, the girl who rode in the most convertibles last fall, is already making new plans. "Yes, I saw two of them today and both had their tops down. It won't be long now."

Miss Sharpey was also kind enough to pass along a few fashion tips for SUI coeds this season. "It's a khaki year, girls; the coed who isn't wearing a khaki coat and tennis shoes will be neither sharp nor neat."

Among the other student leaders interviewed was Oliver Randall Holmes, L5, Virginia, who reassured us about one of SUI's oldest traditions. "The law students will definitely be out on the steps between every class again this spring," he said. "I know the girls were a little worried Thursday, but the warm weather caught us by surprise and only a few members were able to make it. The next warm day will find us out in full force, I promise."

Reactions to the weather varied among the faculty members. Professor Simon L. Legree, head of the new core course in Hydraulic Diffusion and Thermodynamic Confusion, the course which meets seven times weekly for 2 hours credit, was in high spirits Thursday. He had these cheery words for his public. "Students can stop worrying about my courses. All sections will definitely meet every day all the rest of the semester. No matter what my personal feelings are I feel that the student's tuition fees entitle him to a completely complete course. Anything for education, I always say."

Prof. Egbert Easy, head of the Underwater Basketweaving Sequence wasn't quite as pleasant. He said he regretted the necessity to announce a tough new policy in his department. "Twenty five cuts will have to be limit in my classes this year. One cut more will reduce the student's grade to an A-. We have to meet a little often this semester since we have three new baskets to learn. Students will not be excused to sunbathe."

Our final interview was with Frankstein Karloff, Iowa City Water Blender, who gave us some really exciting information. He told us, "The students have no idea of what is in store for them during the rest of this year. Our new blend for spring, the result of years of research, is the supreme achievement of our careers. It is indescribable; you must taste it to believe it."

We were not successful in locating John Peagreen, A1, Clear Springs, the Student Water Sampler, since he has been confined to the Infirmary since January. Our spring interviews left us convinced that SUI students have much to look forward to this season. It should be a wonderful year for all.

Tibetan Tribesmen Battle Reds

Report Violent Fighting In Holy City Of Lhasa

NEW DELHI.—(UPI)—Tibetan tribesmen invaded the sacred Buddhist city of Lhasa Friday in a violent climax to months of skirmishing with the troops of Communist China, according to reports reaching New Delhi.

The hard-riding Khamba tribesmen rode down from the Himalayas and battled Red Chinese troops within the walls of the holy city, the reports said.

The Khambas were said to enjoy widespread popular support. There have been reports of isolated fighting between the tribesmen and Chinese troops for nearly two years.

Lhasa is the site of the famed Potala Palace of the Dalai Lama, religious and political head of Tibet.

The Chinese Reds, who forced their rule on Tibet in 1950, were reported to be planning "strong measures" to quell the tribesmen's rebellion.

The Chinese Communists have been attempting to set up Tibet as an "autonomous region" within the sphere of China proper, but they have had consistent resistance from the rugged tribesmen in the bleak mountains surrounding the "forbidden city."

After Chinese "liberation" of the country, a clandestine group began circulating pamphlets calling for united opposition to the Communists.

Two years ago the Kashag, the Dalai Lama's cabinet, appealed to the Chinese to pull out their troops. Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai said the matter would be taken under consideration but nothing has been done.

Lhasa is about 250 miles northeast of the Indian city of Darjeeling. It has a population of about 55,000. The ancient city is in a valley nearly 12,000 feet above sea level.

Report Says Ukrainians Defy Soviets

VIENNA (UPI) — Ukrainian partisans blew up explosives in the streets of three major cities in southwestern Ukraine last week in a defiant demonstration of the struggle for an independent state, Western intelligence sources said Friday.

The reports said several persons were injured in the explosions which touched off a "general turmoil" and brought unusual strict action by Soviet security police.

The explosives were tossed into the streets of Mukachevo, Khust and Uzhgorod shortly before midnight March 14, eve of the 20th anniversary of the proclamation of a free Carpatho-Ukrainian state, according to the reports. The cities lie in the Transcarpathian Oblast (province) of the Ukraine, which borders on Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

Police reinforcements were called in from nearby towns of Stry and Stanislav and an extensive search made for the perpetrators and for anti-Soviet leaflets and posters distributed by the partisans.

Several persons were arrested and interrogated by Soviet secret police agents in the attempt to track down the underground leaders. However, according to the reports, the organizers escaped to hideouts in the mountains and forests.

The reports said Communist police searched homes and business establishments in the drive to confiscate anti-Soviet material.

BOLSHOI BALLETT TOUR MOSCOW (UPI) — The Bolshoi Ballet announced Friday that a troupe of 100 dancers and 20 technicians would leave April 12 for its first North American tour. The group will perform four weeks in New York and in Los Angeles. Two weeks in Chicago and two weeks in Canada.

Strannigan Sought As Cage Coach At Wyoming

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Iowa State College Basketball Coach Bill Strannigan spent about three hours Thursday with Glen J. Jacoby, director of athletics at the University of Wyoming, who is seeking a basketball coach for his school. Strannigan played at Wyoming in student days.

He and Jacoby are attending the National Collegiate basketball tourney. Jacoby is looking for a successor to Ev Shelton, who resigned recently after 19 years as coach of the Cowboys.

There have been reports that Strannigan will succeed Shelton, but Strannigan said nothing has been decided. He added that Jacoby is talking to others, also, and that the job hasn't been offered to him.

Glenwood Employee Suspended 30 Days

DES MOINES (AP) — The State Board of Control said Friday it was informed that an employee of the state school for the mentally retarded at Glenwood has been suspended for 30 days on grounds he broke rules covering girl inmates.

It said Carl Hullinger took a group of girls on a bus ride without permission of school authorities, and gave some of them cigarettes contrary to rules.

It's Spring! 2SUI Coeds Canoeing On Iowa River

By MARLENE JORGENSEN Staff Writer
Whattayamean? It's not too cold to go canoeing. It's spring!
It's been spring for two coeds ever since the ice on the Iowa River melted. Judy Jones, A3, Moline, Ill., and Sandra Larson, A3, Elgin, Ill., have been rising bright and early Saturday morning, taking their breakfast, and watching the sun rise as they relax in a canoe on the river.
Wearing pajamas, levis, sweat-shirts, coats, and mittens, the girls tie the canoe to a barrel anchored around the bend toward Coralville. They make themselves comfortable with pillows and carry books in plastic bags, just in case.
Own Canoe
The girls are experienced canoeists. Judy has been canoeing since she was 12, and Sandra has been canoeing since she was 10. They have a 15-foot Yellowjacket inboard 120 miles to Iowa City on a trailer last year. Jock explained that he usually tried to go boating every day the weather was suitable.

River-Banking Tips For Coming Season

By LARRY DAY Staff Writer
If there's one reason SUI students hate snow, slush, rain and freezing temperatures, it's because this kind of weather just doesn't go along with river banking.
We have been kept away from the riverbank for a long time now, but with a decent break from the weatherman we can soon get back to the bank for sun bathing and other things.
Don Sinek, who is in charge of the maintenance of our campus, has been preparing the riverbank for spring for several months. His crews have been picking up the accumulation of trash that winter always leaves—preparing the riverbank for your use.
Don't Build Fires
Of course if you choose to study the shoreline after dark, you probably won't see the large assortment of shrubs and flowers which will be planted this spring. However, according to Sinek, you shouldn't build fires to keep warm or light your way. It's against University rules because it kills the grass. A fire will mark your location for the occasional night watchman who makes it a point to "check" on the student relaxing near the riverbank.
There are no rules against entertaining near the river. Sinek pointed out. However, it is best that students should know where they may do so legally. The University river boundaries extend, on the west bank, from the City Park bridge south to Myrtle Avenue; on the east bank, from University High south to the Heating plant.
If you wander into other areas, you'll be trespassing on private property. If you are getting your schedule in order, probably the most favorable surroundings may be found on the west bank in front of the Fine Arts building.
In case you haven't gotten your supply of "equipment" for these springtime activities, you'd better hurry. Several stores in Iowa City have reported a sharp rise in the sale of napkins, paper plates, mugs and dill pickles. The sale of blankets is expected to jump momentarily.
However, some good advice for a day or two would be that you refrain from premature celebration and be content with outings on the Memorial Union Sun Porch. The forecast promises more blustery January weather—but remember, spring is coming—someday.

Water, That Is—Skiing Can Be Fun

By MARY JANSS Assistant City Editor
Rowing is fun, and sailing is great, but many water enthusiasts prefer their exercise the easy way—just turn on a switch, steer, and let the motorboat do the rest.
So, if SUI students run true to form, the Iowa River will soon break out in a rash of boats, water skis, and girls in swimming suits (well, someone's got to use those skis). And amidst all this confusion, the lucky motorboat owner will find himself busy trying to work in time for classes.
Such was the case with Jock Miller, A2, LaGrange, Mo., when he hauled his 15-foot Yellowjacket inboard 120 miles to Iowa City on a trailer last year. Jock explained that he usually tried to go boating every day the weather was suitable.
"If you just ignore the dirty river water," he added, "you can't beat speedboating."

Lake Macbride Open To Public May 30

The opening of Lake Macbride State Park on May 30 will signal the beginning of the picnic season. The park, 11 miles northeast of Iowa City, has undergone several changes since last season.
The water level of the lake was raised 30 feet by the construction of the Coralville dam. Also, clubs and homes were moved back from the lake, which now extends to within a mile of the Solon city limits.
The lake has now been stocked with bass, bluegills and croppies, and should become a good fishing area.
The facilities at Lake Macbride will accommodate thousands of picnickers. Crowds there on hot Sundays and the Fourth of July have been estimated at 10,000 people.

100 New Rose Bushes To Be Added City Park Spruces Up

Old Man Winter may still have some cold weather tricks up his sleeve for SUIwans, but optimistic Iowa City Park custodians are busy working to prepare City Park for the spring and summer seasons.
About 500 picnic benches are being painted to ready the park for spring use, George Turecek, park custodian, said. He added that playground equipment and garbage containers would be painted and repaired later in the season.
Dead leaves and tree limbs also will be removed when the snow melts, Turecek said.
One hundred new rose bushes have been ordered for planting at the entrance to City Park and along Iowa Avenue. The rose bushes will replace those killed by this year's hard winter, Turecek explained.
Plans are also being made to continue work on the new baseball diamond across the Iowa river from the park, Turecek continued.
The diamond was started last fall, when trees were cleared from the area. Hauling dirt and seeding the diamond will begin when the ground becomes settled, said Turecek.
The river road which circles City Park will also be repaired and oiled, he said. The road is now closed to public use because of the weather.
Turecek said that later in the summer custodians will spray for insects and poisonous weeds throughout the park.
"Picnicking is our biggest business," Turecek explained, "and we will take reservations for the use of the shelter houses from now until the close of the season." Reservations may be made by calling the City Park. A deposit of one dollar is needed to make the reservation, but this can be reclaimed if the receipt of deposit is returned within a four-day period.
Iowa City employs five custodians year round to care for City Park. On April first, a night watchman will be added to the staff for the summer, Turecek said.
City Park covers 80 acres of land on the northern edge of Iowa City. Included in the city park system are the "islands" on Iowa Avenue and Washington street, Third Ward Park, Blacksprings Circle, and College Hill Park.

SPRING CLEANING—City park employees have begun preparing the park facilities for spring and summer activities. Charles Reynolds, front, Lyle Wheeler and Harold Drake, give the finishing touches of paint to park benches.

WHAT ARE AMERICAN EDUCATION'S GREATEST NEEDS? That is the theme of today's Saturday Supplement from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00. Participants include Norbert Wiener, David Riesman, Harold Taylor and Helen White in a panel discussion; Gerard Mansell, BBC producer, discussing a European education; and Sheldon P. Zitner, Assistant Professor of English at Grinnell College, speaking convincingly and entertainingly on "The Delusions of a University". Others whose opinions will be voiced today on SS are President Whitney Griswold of Yale University, Robert Hutchins, head of the Fund for the Republic, and Martin Mayer, author of the best-seller, Madison Avenue, USA. Today's program asks this basic question: Has something gone wrong with what SUI President Virgil Hancher has called the "Questing Desire to know" in American education?

Major League Outlook
The Boston Red Sox

By LOU YOUNKIN
Sports Editor

This is the fourth of a 16-part series on each of the major league baseball teams.

Boston is my choice to round out the first division in the American League behind New York, Detroit and Chicago despite the fact that three Red Sox positions are not adequately filled. One of the three positions, however, is left field and 40-year-old Ted Williams more than fills the bill when he plays.

The Thumper, who will be 41 in August cannot play every day and his replacement may be hard to find. Any replacement for baseball's greatest hitter is, of course, hard to find.

The other two posts are the all-important ones of shortstop and center field. At short it looks like either banjo-hitting Don Buddin or rookie Pumpsie Green will get the nod and both are of doubtful major league calibre.

31 Bobbles For Buddin

Buddin committed 31 errors last year to lead the league in that department and his highest batting average was .239 in 1956. Green, the first Negro on the Boston roster, hit only .253 at AAA Minneapolis in '58 but being a switch-hitter is in his favor.

Poor Hitters In Running

Busby has been under .250 four years in a row now and at 32 it is doubtful that he will win the job. Geiger and holdover Marty Keough, a pair of All-America outs, are also to be in the running for the center field position. I doubt it.

On the strong side, the BoSox have the league's top hitter of 1958, Williams, and the runnerup in second baseman Pete Runnels. Williams edged his teammate in a red-hot duel in September to win the title, .328 to .322.

The American League's most valuable player, Jackie Jensen, is set in right field and all-star third baseman Frank Malzone is a shoo-in at the hot corner.

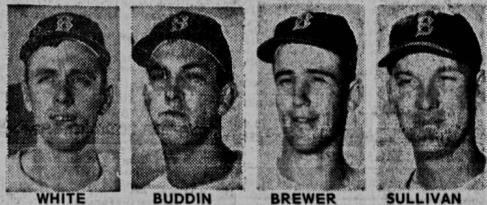

In these four men Higgins has the cream of the crop but despite their individual brilliance, they can't push the rest of the team any higher than fourth. Last year Boston came in third, 13 games off the pace.

Williams' Replacements

As I said before Williams will have more rest than ever and his replacement will have to come from the group of Keough, Geiger, Stephens or Busby or possibly even first baseman Dick Gernert. A and manager Pinky Higgins has been unable to fill Piersall's vacancy as yet.

The best bets for center are Gene Stephens, who was Williams' caddy last year and Jim Busby who goes to Beantown from Baltimore in a switch with infielder Billy Klaus.

Stephens had a poor year at the plate in '58, but a fulltime job may be what is needed. Higgins has indicated so far that Stephens will right-handed swinger, Gernert found the inviting 315-foot left field wall at Boston's Fenway Park for 20 home runs, but hit only .237 in the process.

Runnels is an up-and-down player. His .322 average in 1958 was preceded by an anemic .230 at Washington in '57. His fielding is barely adequate and he will have to maintain his hot batting to stay in the lineup.

Jensen won the MVP honors on the strength of his 35 home runs and 122 runs batted in although his average was an unspectacular .286. The former California football star is an excellent outfielder and one of the few men on the team who can be considered fast. He is 32 years old.

Malzone is probably the best third baseman in the major leagues although Cardinal fans will rise in defense of Ken Boyer at that statement. A great fielder and power hitter, Malzone hit .295 with 15 homers and 87 RBIs last season.

Wertz At First Base

Wertz will handle the first base chores with Gernert as his No. 1 replacement. A lefthanded batter, Wertz may find the distant right field barrier a handicap, but he says Fenway is his favorite park. Another lefty teammate has had pretty fair success there—Williams. Wertz, at 34, will have to stick to first base and is the logical man for the cleanup spot in the batting order.

This is a circumstance that must make manager Higgins wince. With a slow mover like Williams preceding him at bat, anything hit on the ground will almost be a cinch doubleplay.

No other major league team has the wealth of catchers as Boston. No. 1 man is Sammy White, a .259 hitter last year with six homers and 35 RBIs. Haywood Sullivan, out last season with injuries, is considered the second man and Pete Daley third. Daley did a good job of pinch-hitting in '58—321 in 56 trips to the plate.

Ted Lepico and Billy Consolo are slated for reserve infield spots with Gernert as a spare first baseman-outfielder.

Bill Renna, a good hitter but poor fielder, may be kept on as a pinch-hitter. He hit .268 in that capacity for the Sox a year ago.

Two Catchers Slated For Minors

Two fine catching prospects will probably be sent back to the minors. They are Ed Sadowski who hit .262 with 15 homers at Minneapolis and Jerry Zimmerman who was Sadowski's replacement for the American Association club.

Boston has a fair pitching staff which is headed by veteran righthanders Frank Sullivan and Tom Brewer. Sullivan won 13 and lost 9 last season while Brewer's mark was 12-12. Both posted good ERAs—Sullivan .357 and Brewer 3.73.

Ike Delock, formerly a relief man, was a pleasant surprise last season when he compiled a 14-8 record as a starter with a 3.38 earned run average. He looks like the third starter but the No. 4 slot is up for grabs among Bill Monbouquette, Ted Bowsfield and Frank Baumann. Monbouquette, 3-4 with the Sox last year, seems to have the edge at the moment although Higgins would like to see a southpaw—either Bowsfield or Baumann—come through.

Bowsfield was impressive in whipping the Yankees three times last year and looks like the best bet between the portsideers Baumann, a big bonus boy of a few years back, has apparently let success go to his stomach.

California Upsets Cincinnati 64-58

West Virginia Wins 94-79 In NCAA

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — California upset Cincinnati 64-58 on the clutch play of Al Buch and Darrall Imhoff, and high-powered West Virginia smashed Louisville 94-79 behind magnificent Jerry West's 38 points Friday night to gain the finals of the NCAA Basketball Championships.

With the great Oscar Robertson shackled in the second half, the Californians pulled even with Cincinnati's Bearcats with 11 minutes to play, engaged them in a shot-for-shot duel until 3 1/2 minutes remained and then rushed away for the victory.

With the great Oscar Robertson shackled in the second half, the Californians pulled even with Cincinnati's Bearcats with 11 minutes to play, engaged them in a shot-for-shot duel until 3 1/2 minutes remained and then rushed away for the victory.

Buch, a 6-2 senior from Brooklyn, N.Y., scored 10 of California's last 19 points and Imhoff, a 6-10 towhead supposed to be better on defense, added 6-including a turn-around jump shot with 2 minutes to play that poked Cal into the lead to stay.

Imhoff's shot made it 56-54, and Buch and Bob Dalton each added a pair of free throws in the next minute as Cal opened a 60-54 advantage.

All America Jerry West scored 38 points, 27 in a magnificent first-half performance, and red-hot West Virginia shattered hometown Louisville 94-79 Friday night in the opening semifinal of the NCAA Basketball Championships at Freedom Hall.

West so dominated play that even the rabidly partisan Louisville fans gave him a standing ovation when he left the floor with about a minute to play.

He tore apart Louisville's defense in the first half but tapered off in the second half and let some of his buddies do the scoring. Then he came back with another outstanding playmaking and rebounding exhibition when Louisville, down 23 points with nine minutes to play, whittled the Mountaineer lead to 12.

The 6-3 junior from Cabin Creek, W. Va., fired 21 times from the field and hit 12. He attempted 20 free throws as he continually lured one after another Louisville defensive player into fouls and hit 14 of the free tosses. The 38 points, gave him 132 points for four tournament games, 28 short of the record for a five-game series. The 160 mark was set by Hal Lear of Temple in 1956.

Exhibition Results

Yanks 6, Braves 3

MIAMI (AP) — Bill Skowron hit a three-run homer to lift the New York Yankees to a 6-3 exhibition decision over the Milwaukee Braves Friday. Joe Morgan and Hank Aaron homered for the Braves.

Tigers 5, Pirates 3

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — A trio of Detroit pitchers held Pittsburgh to five hits and the Tigers, with the aid of some loose Pirate fielding, notched a 5-3 victory.

Indians 5, BoSox 4

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Cleveland beat Boston 5-4 Friday on a pair of ninth-inning runs scored on a wild pitch and a Vic Power single.

Cubs 3, Giants 1

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Bobby Anderson went the route and gave up four hits to pace the Chicago Cubs to a 3-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants fanned seven and walked four as the Chicagoans snapped a 4-game losing streak. Chick King and Tony Taylor homered for the Cubs.

Senators 3, A's 2

Bradley Sets For Showdown In NIT Final

NEW YORK (AP)—"I'm more apprehensive than confident." This is the way Chuck Orsborn, coach of Bradley's top-seeded Braves, feels about today's game with St. Johns of New York that will decide the National Invitation Tournament championship.

"We're going to have to come up with one of our best games to beat them," Orsborn added. "I've not been satisfied the way we've looked here in New York. In our first game against Butler we were poor defensively. Thursday night, against NYU we went sour for quite a while in the second half."

Bradley squeezed past NYU 59-57 in the semifinal opener Thursday night. St. Johns followed with a convincing 76-55 victory over Providence.

Counting its victories in the Madison Square Garden tourney, Bradley has won eight straight. For the year, the Braves are 25-3. Unseeded St. Johns is 19-6 for the season.

Michigan To Oppose Round Robin

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The University of Michigan ordered its Athletic Board Friday to do everything it can to kill the Big Ten's plan for round robin football.

The chief objections were that it makes the football season too long and forces compulsory competition against other conference members.

Under the round robin schedule, slated to become effective in 1969, each member team would play the others.

The Board of Regents, governing body of the university, told the Athletic Board to "invoke every available means" to prevent inauguration of the plan.

The action was recommended by the athletic board headed by H. O. (Fritz) Crisler. Crisler voted against the legislation when it was proposed last December.
