Macmillan: Best Meeting Ever

Ends 3-Day Strategy Meet, West United

Opposed To Geneva For Summit Location

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan ended their 3-day strategy conference Monday by agreeing it was the best they ever had.

The two old friends reviewed their decision to offer the Soviet Union's Premier Nikita Khrushchev a summertime summit meeting during a farewell 30-minute White House talk.

As he prepared to fly back to London today, Macmillan was reported advocating a series of informal summit conferences with Khrushchev as the surest way to ease tensions inflaming East-West relations.

The British leader was understood to be opposed to Geneva as a site. He favored a more secluded spot to try to avoid the glare of worldwide publicity.

Referring to his talks with Mr. Eisenhower, Macmillan said as he left the White House:

"It was the best conference we ever had in the most enjoyable surroundings."

Presidential press secretary James Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower shared Macmillan's view — equally, Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower enjoyed informal intimate talks of the kind he had with Macmillan, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and half a dozen other top British aides.

Macmillan is understood to have outlined his views in favor of informal summit conferences during the weekend talks he had with Mr. Eisenhower at Camp David in the Maryland mountains.

Macmillan, however, did not press the President for acceptance of the idea, apparently because he wanted Mr. Eisenhower to agree to a single summit parley with Khrushchev this summer.

Macmillan's attitude toward future summit negotiations was disclosed by authoritative diplomatic informants.

Macmillan discussed British complaints against trade restriction during the day with three of the Administration's top economic policymakers — Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson, Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss, and Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon.

Macmillan was reported convinced a summit meeting with Khrushchev has been virtually assured by his private talks with Mr. Eisenhower and Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter.

The actual language of the offer to Khrushchev, to be included in diplomatic notes before this weekend, ties the summit parley to a prior foreign ministers' meeting May 11, in Geneva.

Officials said the foreign ministers would be given a triple talk: (1) to draft positive agreements on specific issues, (2) narrow East-West differences where accords are impossible, and (3) prepare proposals to be discussed at a summit session.

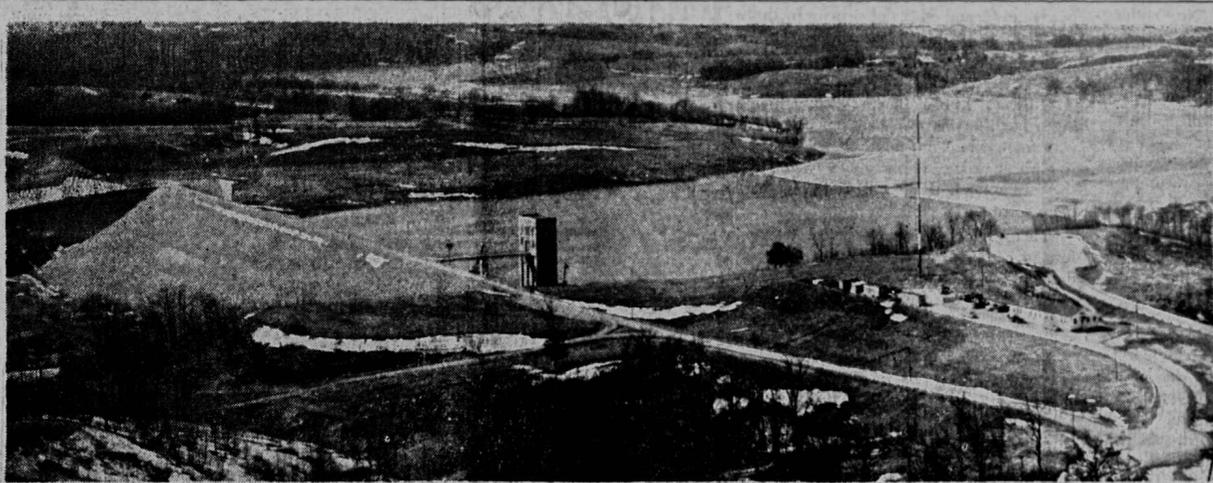

Mr. Eisenhower and Macmillan both agreed, they said, to make it clear a date and site for a heads of Government meeting would be picked when developments justify this.

This approach, however, does not foreclose a summit conference if the foreign ministers fail to ease tensions. In Macmillan's view a summit conference would be all the more urgent to avoid war over the Soviet's threat to turn Berlin into a "free city" by May 27.

The main purpose of the Big Four foreign ministers sessions would be to get negotiations started before the Soviet deadline. This would give Khrushchev an opportunity to back away from this threat without losing face.

Khrushchev already has said he would delay turning the Soviet sector of Berlin over to the East German Communists if negotiations were under way by deadline time.

The American-British-French notes due to be sent to Moscow in a few days are reported to meet partly Soviet demands that Poland and Czechoslovakia be allowed to attend discussions on Germany at a foreign ministers level.

Coralville Reservoir From The Air

REACHING A RECORD HIGH, water in the Coralville flood control pool rose to 684.2 feet above sea level Monday. The high water, which caused the pool to spread to more than a quarter-mile in width above the Coralville Dam, is due to heavy flows from the Cedar, English, and Iowa Rivers.—Daily Iowan Aerial Photo by Darel Hein.

Residents Debate Sidewalk Issues

By GRETCHEN BROGAN Staff Writer

If the Iowa City Council compels property owners in certain residential areas of the city to install sidewalks on their property it will be a needless expense to these people to build sidewalks which are neither needed nor desired. This was what Iowa City residents who opposed this measure told a special hearing by a committee of the whole of the City Council Monday night.

"Sidewalks are a matter of safety to our children and convenience; they are not part of a popularity contest," said the opposition at the hearing made up of other residents of these same areas who feel that sidewalks are needed in their neighborhoods.

Twenty different streets and residential areas were discussed individually at the meeting. Each street was given time to have a representative for and against the proposal speak. Several of the representatives of the opposition to the measure said that they had 100 per cent support for their stand from their neighborhood.

Safety for the children, concern for trees, shrubs and terraces, the fact that one side was represented by a hired lawyer, safety for older people and many other aspects of the problem were debated in the discussion before approximately 70 people who crowded into the Council room.

The safety of the children was the most hotly debated. "More than sidewalks are needed for this safety. You need fence, good training for the children and you need a mighty sharp parental eye besides."

The reply to this came from several parents. "If we keep driving our children back and forth to school they will be a bunch of missy by the time they reach high school, but I am afraid to let them walk on the streets."

The opposition had an answer to the idea of safety for the children. "While speaking about safety what about the old people who will die of heart trouble shoveling those walks?" "We are not going to build sidewalks where they are not needed so that children can play on them."

The opposition also suggested that the city might mend its own fences before trying to put in sidewalks where they were not wanted. "Take a look at the sidewalks around city hall. They are all cracked and broken and are a hazard for older people who might be walking by. There are many places the city could better spend money."

Another of the main issues of residents who did not want sidewalks in their areas was the damage it would do to the appearance of the locality and the expense it would be to the property owners.

Those who favored the walks seemed to regard the landscaping of the streets as of little importance and were more concerned by the fact that part of the opposition was represented by lawyers. "We wouldn't quibble over a child's life or a woman's life and we won't quibble over trees."

As to the lawyers — "Are we sure this isn't just a vocal minority. One proof of such a minority is their hired lawyer." And, "Some people can afford to hire a lawyer to defend their case so what is a poor man to do? But, we will get these sidewalks if we have to put them in ourselves."

The issues were discussed heatedly, neither side appeared convinced and both expressed the intention of continuing the fight. Since the hearing was a special session of the Council no definite decision could be made. The final decision will probably come at the next regular meeting of the Council, said Louis Loria, council member, which will probably be on April 13.

It is possible for some of the streets to be required to put in the sidewalks, said Loria and others may not. It will depend on the merits of the individual arguments.

Deadline Today To Drop Course

Today is the last day for SUI students to drop courses with their advisor's consent. Students must have a passing grade to receive a report of "Withdrawn."

Consent of both their advisor and instructor will be necessary for students to drop courses after today.

SUI Students Attend Funeral For Don Prall In Des Moines

Nearly 30 college friends attended the funeral Monday of Donald Prall, former SUI student whose body was found Saturday in a ravine near Broadlawn General Hospital in Des Moines.

Dr. Leo Luka, Polk county coroner, said Prall, who was missing from his Des Moines home since March 2, shot himself in the head with a shotgun several weeks ago. Recent snows explained the delay in discovering the body.

Police said Prall had threatened to kill himself and had left a note mentioning ill health.

Prall's death has brought a rehash of the controversy which centered around remarks attributed to him in a Parade magazine feature article Nov. 30.

Written by Sid Ross, the article was the result of a poll taken to find the type of campus figure which was most admired by his fellow students. The "campus leader" was found to be most admired, and Prall was selected as a typical leader.

Prall, whose picture was on Parade's cover, was quoted by Ross as saying, "You have to be careful not to associate with the wrong clan of people."

Other "quotes" included, "As a result of what I've done and learned in college, I feel confident that I can become a really good organization man—bright, eager, personable, with a background of organizing and leading educated people," and "I'd like a wife who's nice-looking, affable, able to get along with people. The same type of personality I'd consider myself to have."

The article brought a storm of critical letters to The Daily Iowan, most of them from irate students. Remarks ranged from sarcastic to downright angry as writers asserted their right to a public voice on the matter of campus leaders.

A few, however, had letters published defending Prall, saying that he might have been misquoted. One said "I could wax at length about the miscarriage of justice the fourth estate has perpetrated against this young man."

Prall was silent to the accusations and the defense, explaining that to a formal defacing before a national audience. On Dec. 9, however, he finally wrote a letter to the editor saying that the Parade writers had twisted his opinions, brought his sentences together, and coined phrases.

"This letter was not written to be verbose, clever, or cutting; merely candid," wrote Prall. "The final conclusion is yours."

A full two months after the controversy was forgotten or dropped, Prall did not return to register for second semester classes.

He had obtained a job in Des Moines, and was to report for work on the day of his disappearance, said his father.

On March 5, the father reported to police that he had found a hardware firm's sales slip that might have been for a gun. Police checked the hardware store and found that Prall had purchased a shotgun and four shells for $10.75. The gun was found with Prall's body Saturday.

He had been driving a car, registered to his father, which was found later Saturday in the hospital parking lot.

Prall was graduated from East High School in 1954. He studied one semester at SUI, then dropped out to enter Marine flight school. He resumed study at Iowa in February, 1958.

Funeral services were held in Arnold's Highland Park Funeral Home, and burial was at Leon.

Prall is survived by his parents and a sister, Mrs. Charles Heller of Des Moines.

Tibet Revolt Wanes; India Refuses Help

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament Monday India is keeping hands off the anti-Communist revolt in Tibet, and that fighting between the Red Chinese and street mobs apparently has died down in Lhasa, the capital.

His statement apparently demolished one of the last hopes of the Tibetan rebels.

Jyalo Thondup III, one of four brothers of the Dalai Lama, spiritual ruler of the lofty Himalayan nation, told reporters at Darjeeling, near the Tibetan border, "the only hope of Tibetans now is that India and the free world will act."

Representatives of Tibetan refugees met at Kalimpong, also on the border, and decided to seek to send a delegation to Nehru to ask him to use his moral influence with Red China to stop fighting.

Nehru said, however, that "this is a difficult and delicate situation and we should avoid doing anything which will worsen it. We have no intention of interfering in the internal affairs of China, with whom we have friendly relations."

India always has had close trade, cultural and religious relations with Tibet, but since a Red Chinese army seized Tibet in 1950 Nehru has gone to lengths to avoid offending the Peiping Government.

The general opinion in New Delhi that a Tibetan appeal to the United Nations would have no effect, since Red China is not a member of the U.N. The Tibetans appealed to the U.N. in 1950 without results.

Gross Questions Use Of Apartment For Training Site

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said Monday that an "apparent dodge of our dual compensation laws" was involved in the operation of a military training school at a swank Arlington apartment.

Gross said he obtained information indicating that the school's top 14 officials were recently retired officers who drew military pensions and also were on the payroll of the American Institute for Research, which operates the school for the Defense Department.

Gross made the statement at a House manpower subcommittee investigation of possible conflict of interest in the school's operation. Gross, a member of the subcommittee, also charged that the school was "luxurious."

The Defense Department awarded the institute two contracts, for $274,136 and $222,115, last summer to set up and operate the school. It trains personnel going overseas to handle military assistance programs.

John Holcombe, a Defense Department official, told the subcommittee the private institute won the contract because neither the State Department nor military services could offer satisfactory training programs.

He said the school "is effective in carrying out its mission that will result in improved U.S. operations of the military assistance program."

There were reports Sunday that the Chinese were holding him prisoner in his 1,000-room palace as a hostage.

The Khamba tribesmen Sunday were reported to have seized the central trading town of Gyantse and to have extended their control over towns in Kham Province, seat of a tribal independence rebellion now almost three years old.

All that could be learned from knowledgeable persons in Kalimpong was that the fighting was believed spreading still further.

The Communists were known to have artillery and automatic weapons. The rebels were fighting with whatever they could lay their hands on. In the past, the wild terrain of the Himalayas has served them in good stead in guerrilla warfare against the Chinese who took control of Tibet in 1951.

A 30-member Tibetan delegation from Kalimpong was to travel to Gantok, in India's Sikkim Province, to appeal to the Indian political officer for help.

Moliere Play To Open Here On April 2

The cast for the University Theatre presentation of "The Imaginary Invalid," a farce-comedy by Moliere, has been announced by Play Director David Schaal, assistant professor of Dramatic Art.

Fifth play of the season, it will be presented April 2, 3, 4, 8, 9, 10 and 11 at the University Theatre.

In the play, Moliere uses a farcical situation to burlesque the practice of medicine of his time. His main character type, a hypochondriac, is universally recognizable in a series of situations which he himself provokes.

Included in the cast are: Charles Metten, G. Iowa City; Dodie Jeck, A2, Spirit Lake; Suzanne Raymond, A2, Des Moines; Debbie Gee, Iowa City; Dick Byrne, G. Iowa City; Tom Ingham, A2, Norfolk, Neb.; and Ken Brown, A2, Council Bluffs.

Mike McNamee, A3, Phoenix, Ariz.; Norman Handelsman, G, Pomona, Calif.; Yvonne Bonsall, G, Riverside, Calif.; Earl Fuller, Bellevue; John McCurdy, A3, Windsor Heights, W. Va.; and Phil Levi, A4, Miami, Fla.

Judy Snow, A1, Chicago, Ill.; John Hohl, A1, Donnellson; Jerry Hatch, A2, Oelwein; Jerry Wolter, A4, Mason City; Tom De Yarman, A4, Olds; Pete Vagenas, G, Davenport.

Tom Carson, A2, Iowa City; Bill Schettler, G, Mansfield, Ohio; Ken Brown, G, Council Bluffs; Norman Handelsman, G, Pomona, Calif.; and Mike McNamee, A3, Phoenix, Ariz.

The settings were designed by Anthony Collins, G, Phoenix, Ariz., under the supervision of A. S. Gillette, professor of Dramatic Arts. Lighting is by David Thayer, instructor in Dramatic Arts.

Costume designs are by James Asecareggi, G, Cicero, Ill.; Joseph Markham, G, Oakland, Calif.; Barbara Lauder, G, Ocala, Fla.; Margaret Hodge, A2, Iowa City; Dennis Jones, A3, Marion, and Jean Novy, A2, North Liberty.

The designs were done under the direction of Margaret Hall, assistant professor of Dramatic Arts.

Tickets for the play may be obtained at the Theatre reservation desk, East Lobby, Iowa Memorial Union, between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on week days and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. The reservation desk will be closed for Easter recess beginning at noon Thursday, reopening Tuesday, March 31.

Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Spring let Iowans know she was around Monday by blessing the state with the warmest day of the year thus far.

The mid-afternoon high Monday jumped to 62 in Iowa City. A new disturbance, however, is expected to push into the state today, touching off light scattered shower activity in the extreme north.

High today will be around 70.

Minneapolis Symphony Concerts Here April 1

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Antal Dorati, will present two concerts in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union April 1 at 2:30 and 8 p.m.

The program will include the "Brandenburg Concerto No. 3 in G major," by Bach, Igor Stravinsky's "Petrouchka" and "Symphony No. 2 in D major, Opus 73," by Brahms.

SUI students may obtain free tickets to the concert upon presentation of their ID cards. Tickets are available to students and the University staff beginning Wednesday through April 1 from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. at the Information Desk of the Union. Saturday the desk will distribute tickets between 1 and 5 p.m.

Remaining tickets will also be available to the general public on March 31.

The concert, which is sponsored by the University Concert Course, will present one of the most widely known and widely traveled symphony orchestras in the country to the SUI campus.

In addition to its yearly tours of United States, Canada and Cuba, the symphony, in 1957, made a 34,000 mile tour around the world which included concerts in Greece, Baghdad, Iraq, India and Yugoslavia, under the auspices of the International Exchange Program of the State Department.

During an ordinary season the

Antal Dorati To Conduct Orchestra

Symphony presents approximately 70 concerts on tour and 40 concerts in Minneapolis.

Dorati, as musical director and conductor, has an impressive list of predecessors including Henri Verbrugghen, Eugene Ormandy, now musical director of the Philadelphia Orchestra and Dimitri Mitropoulos, who left the Minneapolis Symphony conductorship for a similar capacity with the New York Philharmonic.

U.S. Claims Soviet Trawler Broke Transatlantic Cables

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States Monday officially accused a Russian fishing trawler of breaking American transatlantic cables off Newfoundland last month. It said the trawler acted either willfully or negligently.

In a note delivered in Moscow, the State Department demanded that the Kremlin punish those responsible. The United States also reserved the right to seek damages later. Further, it called on Moscow to make sure there was no repetition of the incident.

The note rejected a Russian protest of March 4 that the United States was guilty of a "provocative" action in putting a boarding party on the Soviet ship Novorossisk on Feb. 26 to investigate cable breaks in the area.

It said the United States acted under an 1894 international treaty designed to protect undersea cables. Czarist Russia signed the treaty but the Communist regime subscribed to it after it came to power.

The U.S. note said 12 breaks occurred in five U.S. cables between Feb. 21 and Feb. 25. It described nine as "tension breaks" and said three were "man-made cuts." All occurred along the route of the Soviet trawler, the only ship known in the area.

The United States said evidence indicated the trawler scooped up the cable with its drag, pulled onto the deck and then had to cut it to free its fishing nets.

The boarding officer also reported, the note said, that "two broken sections of trawling cable each about 60 feet in length were observed wrapped around the hatch on deck."

"The four sides of these cables were shredded and frayed and appeared to have parted as a result of a sudden strain such as could have been caused by snagging the gear."

"These sections are identical in type, age and condition with the trawling cable. Some of the fish observed lying frozen on the deck were of the bottom type."

The note also said a preliminary report from a U.S. repair ship which fixed the cable "states that the eastern portion of the damaged cable had been scraped and scuffed for about a mile east of the break."

The main purpose of the Big Four foreign ministers sessions would be to get negotiations started before the Soviet deadline. This would give Khrushchev an opportunity to back away from this threat without losing face.

Khrushchev already has said he would delay turning the Soviet sector of Berlin over to the East German Communists if negotiations were under way by deadline time.

The American-British-French notes due to be sent to Moscow in a few days are reported to meet partly Soviet demands that Poland and Czechoslovakia be allowed to attend discussions on Germany at a foreign ministers level.

Repairs were completed at about 3 p.m. Monday on the water service line which broke at University High School this weekend. School officials expected classes to resume today, after their cancellation Monday.

Officials said the break occurred just outside the building foundation. Some water seeped into the building but no flooding or damage occurred.

The World's Most Beloved People

The crisis on the international front today and the obvious fact that we Americans are not the most beloved people in the world should bring to us more forcefully than ever the importance of our attitude toward the other nations of the world. But, one might ask, is there something wrong with the "American attitude?"

One possible answer is: "No, nothing. Other countries are inhabited by goldbrickers, who are very happy to take our money and, for compensation, to dislike us for having more than they."

"We are the most generous people in the world, doling out cash, credit and supplies to every other country out of the sheer goodness of our hearts without hope of any profit or reward. And what reward do we get? None. Absolutely none. It is not just."

"Who ever heard of anyone's being so good and unselfish as we are, looking for no reward, and then, to cap everything, getting no reward after all, not even that of being the most highly esteemed of all people on earth — a reward which would be little enough, to tell the truth, since we richly deserve it? No wonder our blood curdles with indignation."

In our personal lives, or in our schoolbooks and other readings, we are familiar with non-Americans of all sorts who have come to America and want to be Americans. Our schoolbooks and folklore are full of the American — refuge-of-all-the-downtrodden-and-woebegone theme. We have inscribed this theme on the Statue of Liberty—"Give me your tired, your poor . . . wretched refuse . . ."

Intoxicated with a heady appreciation of our own charity, we forget that the "non-Americans" very often did not come because, all things considered, they did not think America was worth it.

This is a truly shattering thought for unthinking Americans. It is very difficult for an American to believe that anyone could not particularly care to be an American, and all but impossible for him to believe that anyone could cold-bloodedly not want to be one.

The inscription on the Statue of Liberty, and its many equivalents, and all that we learn, keep our collective ego bright and shining by sheltering us from the thought of such repulsive possibilities.

Much of America's wealth is not the product of America herself, but of the complicated role of both benefactor and exploiter. Americans console themselves commonly by representing other peoples as venal, panting after American wealth. They will do anything for American money, the tourist and the taxpayer both thinking of foreign loans tell themselves. This argument is, however, a 2-edged sword. Turned over, it says that the only way Americans have of getting along with other nations is with money.

The truth is often that Americans do attract the venal elements in other civilizations because we are venal ourselves, making up for our linguistic and other deficiencies by throwing our economic weight around. It is certain at least that we have become symbols of venality all over the face of the earth.

An American businessman stated with glowing self-satisfaction: "Whenever I do business with foreigners, I insist that they write me in English. It makes for better understanding all the way around." Half-way around might be more correct.

There are American technical teams in foreign countries who, observers report, are definitely less loved by the people around them and less in contact with these people than the corresponding Soviet teams. There is our utterly miserable record in providing diplomatic staff able to handle the language of the country to which they are sent.

When this serious state of linguistic affairs was reported to President Eisenhower, his answer was that "money" should be raised to train suitable men. This answer certainly must have caused many a smile in foreign lands.

"Money" will not create the desire to learn foreign languages and to become more familiar with the aspirations of peoples of other nations which America desperately needs.

In the present crisis of adjusting ourselves to other men, what we need to do, first of all, is to think. For it is the unthinking "innocence" of Americans toward the rest of the world, which plagues us. Our thoughtlessness is caught in phrases such as "Un-American activity" (imagine "un-British activity," "un-Irish activity," "un-Venezuelan activity").

For British missionaries to teach cricket or Canadian missionaries to teach lacrosse would be chauvinistic, but for American missionaries to teach baseball is not spreading American culture but merely enabling the benighted natives to be human beings.

For a citizen of any other country to become a citizen of the United States is admirable; for an American to become a citizen of another country is virtually treasonable.

We need imagination and human sympathy for those unlike us. And above all — a hard thing for Americans — we have a great need to understand ourselves.

University Bulletin Board

University Bulletin Board notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301 Communications Center, by noon of the day before publication. They must be typed and signed by an adviser or member of the organization being publicized. Purely social functions are not eligible for this section.

DELTA PHI ALPHA, honorary German fraternity, will not meet today as scheduled.

PH.D. GERMAN READING EXAMINATION will be held Wednesday, April 1, from 8-11 a.m. in the Registrar's Office, 101 Schaeffer Hall if taking the examination.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets today at 7:30 p.m. in the East Boy Conference Room of the Union.

THE SUI PHYSICS COLLOQUIUM meets today at 4 p.m. in Room 301 Physics Building. Dr. Theodore Sterne, Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, Cambridge, Mass., will speak on "The Celestial Mechanics of Earth Satellites."

THETA TAU PLEDGE CLASS meets at 6:30 p.m. today in Room 05, Engineering Building.

SOCIETY FOR EXPERIMENTAL BIOLOGY meets today at 7:30 in Room 179 of the Medical Laboratories Building.

SOCIETY FOR EXPERIMENTAL BIOLOGY AND MEDICINE, Iowa section, will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, today in 179 Medical Laboratory.

ORDER OF ARTUS will meet today at 12 noon in the Middle Alcove of the Iowa Memorial Union. Richard Wilmet will speak on "The Organization Man or, Who Belongs to Whom."

STUDENT ISKA-NEA will meet on the porch of the Union at 7:30 p.m. today. The topic of discussion will be "The Job Interview and You."

UNIVERSITY COOPERATIVE BABY-SITTING LEAGUE book will be in charge of Mrs. Crosby from March 17 to March 31. Phone her at 5535 if a sitter or information about joining the group is desired.

THE DAILY IOWAN EDITOR for the term May 14, 1959, through May 15, 1960, will be chosen by the Board of Trustees of Student Publications, Inc., on April 8, 1959. Applications for the position must be filed at the School of Journalism office, Room 205 Communications Center, before 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 1. Applications must include a letter from the Registrar certifying good scholastic standing. Experience on The Daily Iowan and demonstration of creative ability are other qualities the Board will look for in candidates.

THE NORTH GYMNASIUM of the Fieldhouse will be opened for the recreational use of SUI students each Friday from 1:30 to 4 p.m. and each Saturday from 1:30 to 5 p.m. In order to gain admittance into the North Gymnasium on Saturdays, students must present their I.D. cards to the person-in-charge who will be located near the North cage door.

THE WEIGHT TRAINING ROOM, located on the third floor of the southeast corner of the Fieldhouse, will be open for use by SUI students from 2:30-5:30 p.m. each Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon.

APPLICATIONS are currently being accepted for enrollment in the Army Advanced ROTC Program for the next school year by the Army Adjutant, room 4 of the Armory. Additional information may be obtained by telephoning x2487. Successful completion of this program leads to a commission as a second lieutenant in the United States Army.

SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS. Undergraduate students interested in obtaining information about scholarships for the 1959-60 school year are advised to check with the Office of Student Affairs. Requests for scholarships from students now in school must be made before June 5, 1959.

ALL STUDENTS registered with the Business and Industrial Placement Office who have not yet indicated their second semester work to date and indicated their first semester grades in their files should do so promptly.

'Gee — Maybe Some Day They'll Establish Communication With Us'

Letter To The Editor —

Objects To Argument That Students Are Free To Differ With Instructors; Cites Limitations

To the editor: I would like to attempt some kind of explanation to Dr. Samuel Hays, in print, as regards his comments on student participation and debate. Being twenty-eight years of age I am not sure whether I am in the "silent" or "beat" generation. Perhaps I am just "silently beat."

It is almost certain that most of my comrades in the "silently beat" generation will consider this letter a declaration of lunacy, but I happen to be more mildly annoyed at this constant bearing of students when it is obvious to the bear, if not to the antagonist, that the bear is behind bars. This is not directed solely at Dr. Hays, but at a group of liberal educators at SUI who present dogmatic lectures, give dogmatic exams but foment "relative" discussions.

No Watering Down

There is no intent in this letter to be disrespectful, but it must be frank in order to have any strength, and to water it down would be to do what Dr. Hays feels we should avoid.

First of all I feel that Dr. Hays is somewhat like the man who is standing on his back porch looking over the fence at the mess in his neighbor's backyard, and completely overlooking the litter in his own. Why, if he considers class attendance a "minor matter," does Dr. Hays spend two weeks learning names and faces before he stops taking attendance? Even if the students' absence does not prejudice the grading of the indication of Dr. Hays' retentive powers certainly has a psychological effect on the would be absentee. Why, if Dr. Hays is so concerned about the "hesitation of students to disagree with faculty in classrooms," does he himself allow discussion and foment such discussion only before and after a test? If a student puts down his pen to ask a question, he has missed two pages of notes by the time he is recognized. And I would like to know, frankly, if Dr. Hays, with his superior background does not mark arbitrarily if a student's "challenge (of) a view on paper in an examination" is not quite the way Dr. Hays himself would approach the criticism.

No Sour Grapes

These questions and comments are not, though they might seem to be, "sour grapes." I am attempting to put forward the true position of the students, and point out how the situation oftentimes must appear to him even though the view might or might not, appear realistic to the men in command.

In the military the sanction for an action comes directly from the uniformed code of military (in) justice. In college, which is also pretty much of an artificial situation, the sanction comes from that little, green grade book. In my own Comm. Skills class I am constantly chiding my students over concern for a grade, anything to impress them with the fact that their reason for being here is to develop and mature through erudition and new insights into new concepts proffered by books, faculty and fellow students. If they follow this course the grade will necessarily follow. Sometimes I think I'm whistling in the dark. I once had a Professor at another university who gave me his advice on how to be a successful scholar, "stop studying the courses and start studying the teachers." I followed his advice because my grade point ("nebulous as this standard is) was somewhat in jeopardy. I was successful and got my degree, but I was damned frustrated. To some it might seem shocking that a grown man was so naive as to think he went to college to find out what the hell it was all about ("Life I mean, not college) and hot to get a union card stamped M.A.

Every student, from freshman on through graduate school, realizes that if he keeps his mouth shut, speaks when spoken to, and only asks the questions he knows the professor is fishing for, he has his best chance of getting an A. If he disagrees, even mildly, he might get a C, but then again he might get an A, and if he contributes nothing with the rest of his peers his grade will depend solely on his preparation for the written tests.

Education Competitive

Hays I do not doubt your sincerity and I certainly would not question your integrity, but let's face it, higher education today is highly competitive. Freshmen and sophomores are constantly being reminded of the "extremely tenuous" ground on which they are standing. They are not, only told that they are expendable, but statistics are quoted on the mortality rate of this group. I even heard of one classroom altruist who told his students to look around the room at all the faces because half of them won't be around at the end of the year.

Graduate students tremble at the mention of the word "Comps," and few feel brave enough to jeopardize several years work for a principle by alienating a professor who might be on the board. It comes down to a case of naiveite again, and which do you want: that union card and security, or a battered principle and a busted career? The professor, as dealer can always pull that ace, whether he will or not is another matter. It takes one hell of a gambler to stay in the game to the bitter end. I am not much of a gambler, and I'm a lousy pressure ball player, but my native curiosity, somehow, holds me at the table, mesmerized, even though I've lost many times before.

I hope this letter will be taken in the spirit in which it is intended. My position is a simple one. I don't feel that the powers that be know the true position and emotional state of the students. In a small college where there is a greater degree of communication and communion than there could ever be here, students have a sense of belonging and a feeling of some kind of security. In a school of this size and type, a student feels that he is merely one more bill from the registrar, and feels that his only hope for survival is to further wrap himself in anonymity.

There Is Debate

There is, actually far more discussion and debate in this town than the faculty is conscious of. It is carried on in the dormitories, fraternities, sororities, and in the graduate student, Kenney's is his forum. Students feel safe here from the mental calibrations of men who are instrumental in determining their futures. The faculty has created an abyss, and students would rather enter into discussion with people they know and trust, and people who don't have the ability, or the desire, to ridicule them or punish them with a slap in the little green book.

Applauds Review Of Easter Concert

To the editor: After reading the review of the Easter Concert in the Daily Iowan, I decided to let you know I liked it. For the first time this year an honest review was printed. I don't mean that the former critics were bribed by the performers, but rather that one review could have been used all year, just by changing the names and dates.

I think this new critic is far superior to those writing before. Let's have more reviews by him. Steve Bianco, A1 E-118 Hillcrest

Iowa Congressmen Present Views On NDEA Loyalty Oath Comments In Reply To Local AAUP Support Of Kennedy Amendment

Iowa Congressmen have presented views both supporting and rejecting the loyalty oath in the National Defense Education Act. Their comments were in reply to a request from the SUI Chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP). The AAUP has passed a resolution supporting the Kennedy Amendment which would strike the oath from the Act.

Senator Bourke Hickenlooper is the most outspoken in his support of the oath. "I think my activities as a public official over the last twenty or more years have indicated my deep interest in the advancing of education, but I am completely at loss to know why any teacher who is an American citizen and is being paid by public funds should take any offense whatsoever in declaring loyalty to the United States," he said.

"Every other public official from the President right down into the townships willingly makes such an affidavit," Hickenlooper continued.

Hickenlooper continued, "You (the AAUP) state this provision 'invidiously reflects upon the character and loyalty of students and members of the teaching profession.' I can't for the life of me see how this provision invidiously reflects upon the character and loyalty of an American citizen who declares that he is loyal to the Government and the Constitution."

"I have taken these obligations repeatedly and I am happy to continue to take them," Hickenlooper said.

In reply to the Hickenlooper statement, the SUI chapter of AAUP states that such an affidavit of loyalty "could, under tyrannical or overly cowardly educational administrators, provide the basis for the creation of institutional investigatory establishments concerned not only with the group association of students and faculty but also with their thoughts and beliefs."

"The deleterious impact of such an investigatory establishment upon our national civil servants is well documented in the Yarmolinsky Report," the AAUP pointed out.

The AAUP claims the loyalty oath in truth "Could represent an implicit denial of the Jeffersonian ideal by which all opinions remain unfettered in a truly competitive intellectual market place."

"Throughout American history the general tendency behind the occasional imposition of test oaths or loyalty affidavits has been to narrow the scope of controversy over both public policy questions and ideological commitments," The AAUP contends.

The AAUP also points out that Congress has bestowed many benefits in the form of loans or outright grants to many segments of the population including business, agriculture and labor and rarely have they been coupled with a loyalty oath requirement.

"Why then in 1958, should the students and faculty members of America's institutions of higher learning be singled out?" the AAUP asks.

Representative Steven Carter replied that he had been advised the oath "provided for no more than those which have to be made by all Federal employees, all veterans who receive educational benefits, and by other such people as members of Congress and their staffs, before they can assume their jobs with the Government."

Carter went on to explain, "My colleagues also tell me that even though they would not have voted such a provision into the bill had it not come over in the form from the Senate (the amendment was actually put into the bill by Senator Mundt), they feel a greater furor would be now created by taking the provision out of the bill than by leaving it in. That is because the repeal of this provision would have the effect of saying that anyone of Communist sympathies is entitled to further his education with the use of federal funds."

"I really can see no basis for objection to an occasional reaffirmation of belief in the principles of the United States and our form of Government," Carter said.

Carter said, however, regardless of his own feelings, that there will be no change during this session in the Federal Defense Education Act.

the purpose of preventing the granting of benefits by the Government to persons bent on destroying it."

"Moreover, I believe that if the provision is allowed to remain, it will do more harm than good in carrying out the general purpose of the act in stimulating and helping to satisfy the educational ambitions of the country's youth," he continued.

Schwengel added, "The justification for any law's existence should be found in the answer to the question: 'Will it promote the general welfare?' Unless this a law has no reason for being and can be answered in the affirmative, is better off repealed."

"Moreover, I believe that this section is actually detrimental," Schwengel said. "Some colleges have refused to participate in the programs offered under the act because they find this section so obnoxious. The students at these colleges have there by been denied the benefits offered them under the act, principally those contained in the student loan program," he continued.

Representative Neal Smith and Senator Thomas Martin both indicated interest but did not take a stand on the issue.

Smith explained the legislation has not yet been scheduled for action and he will make the recommendation for repeal known to his colleagues.

Martin said the AAUP views will help him when the legislation comes before the Senate for consideration.

A sequence featuring the benevolent Benny and three chimps was the funniest bit seen in ten years of network TV. It's sure to be repeated. Don't miss it.

Shop Talk: With all this outer space stuff hitting the headlines these days it's getting to the point where an editor who suffers from an earthbound Afghanistan complex is accused of running too much local news.

The Hole Truth: A pedestrian reported the other day that he failed to see his shadow as he pulled himself up out of a chuck-hole on Riverside Drive. He seems to think this is a positive sign of spring.

Although he wasn't hurt by his fall, doctors are still determining the extent of injuries suffered as he climbed to the surface. It seems he didn't see the shadow of that oncoming truck, either.

A December 30, 1955 Daily Iowan report indicated that the remodeling of MacBride Auditorium the following summer cost between $135,000 and $178,000. When the work was done the seating capacity had been reduced, more comfortable chairs installed, air conditioning added, the stage lowered, and sound and proreude installed. All this for the benefit of the thousands of SUI students who gather there daily to take notes.

Do you know there's not a single pencil sharpener in the place?

Marge, our Northwestern correspondent, says that Conn auditorium wasn't the same for quite a while after the Kingston Trio held sway there recently. If her report is accurate, then SUIwans who attend the group's second show at the IMU April 4th may find the stage in shambles. Her report concludes by saying that Northwesterners are clamoring for a return visit.

Two wrongs may never make a right. But a pair of rights (not the Constitutional or upper-cut varieties) can combine to make a good left according to one source. If you should doubt this check the writing desks in 321A Schaeffer Hall. Not a left handed one in the bunch.

It's an ingenious southpaw who can sit nestled between two of these right-handed affairs so that one can provide seating while the other gives him writing space.

NCAA Wrestling Meet Begins Here Thursday

255 Entries Received From 67 Schools

Perfect records in dual meet matches will be carried into the National Collegiate wrestling tournament at the Iowa Fieldhouse March 26-28 by dozens of athletes from all sections of the nation.

Meanwhile, Iowa officials are preparing for large crowds at the first N.C. wrestling tournament ever held here. Action will open on five mats Thursday at 7:30 p.m. with the prelims and first round matches. Quarterfinals are Friday at 1:30 p.m., semi-finals Friday at 7:30 p.m., consolation bouts Saturday at 1 p.m. and finals Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

The record entry list of 255 men from 67 schools contains athletes who have bowled over the opposition on many mats during the season and now seek the N.C. crown as their final 1959 honor.

In the 123-pound class, Gary Hoagland of Portland State has 14-0-1 and Larry Lauchle, Pittsburgh, 10-0. Paul Powell of Pittsburgh, the defending 123-pound champion, has a 10-0 mark and is entered in both 115 and 123-pound classes but where he actually will compete is not yet known. Steve Kerlin, Toledo, has 14-0 and the Mid-American title and Duane Miller, Oklahoma, has 9-0.

Brandon Glover of Virginia Tech has 9-0 in the 130-pound class and the Southern conference title and Clarence McNair, Kent State, has 15-0 with Stan Abel of Oklahoma at 11-0-1.

In the 137-pound class, Iowa's Gene Luttrell, Big Ten champion for two years, has 11-0-1 and Dick Santoro, Lehigh, has 14-0 and the Eastern Intercollegiate title. Shelby Wilson of Oklahoma State, the Big Eight champion, has 9-0-1.

Several 147-pounders are outstanding, such as Bill Berry, Washington State, 10-0 and the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate crown; Bob Pac, Lycoming of Pennsylvania, 11-0 and the Mid Atlantic title; John Driscoll, Lehigh, 9-0-3, the Eastern Intercollegiate winner; Ron Gray, Iowa State, 9-0-1, the Big Eight title and the N.C. 1958 crown; and Charles Patten, Iowa Teachers, 10-0-2.

Fritz Fivian of Oregon State has an impressive 15-0 and the Pacific Coast title in the 157-pound class and Dick Beattie of Oklahoma State has 9-0-1, the Big Eight title and won the N. C. honor in 1958. Frank Hankin of Utah won all 15 of his bouts and the Mountain States title and Bob Rohm of Bloomsburg (Pa.) State Teachers has a 9-0 mark.

The 167-pounders include Don Conway of Oregon State, 11-0 and a title; Duane Murty of Oklahoma State, the N.C. defending champion, now 10-0; Kenneth Koenig of Kent State, 15-0-1; and Bob Godwin, Depauw, 12-0.

Ron Conrad of Northern Illinois has a great 18-0 mark and the Interstate Intercollegiate title in the 177-pound class and John Dustin of Oregon State has 11-0 and the Pacific Coast heavyweight title but will enter the 191-pound class. Tim Woodin of Michigan State, another unbeaten heavyweight, will go at 191 in the N.C. meet.

Wrestlers with a perfect record in the unlimited (heavyweight) class include Tom Doyle of Northwest Missouri State, 12-0; Walter Goltz, Colorado State College, 6-0-1 and the Rocky Mountain conference crown; and Bob (Tiny) Marelle, 285-pound Ithaca (N.Y.) College grappler who has 10-0 and a career victory string of 17 wins. Oklahoma State's Ted Ellis has 3-0 and the Big Eight title; and Iowa's Gary Grouwinkler won both his dual meet bouts.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The University of Arizona and Iowa battled to a 6-6 tie Monday in a 10-inning, 3½-hour baseball game halted by darkness.

Iowa, behind 6-4 going into the top half of the ninth, tied up the game on a single by Paul Bonstad, another by catcher Dick Weatherly and triple by Fred Long.

Arizona took a 5-0 lead after the first two innings, then Iowa rallied with three runs in the third on two walks, a triple by Don Peden and a sacrifice fly. The Hawkeyes picked up one run in the fifth.

The two clubs play the second game of a 6-game series today.

McCuskey Sees Chance For Hawks In Top 10

Iowa Enters Meet With 10-2 Dual Mark

By GEORGE KAMPLING Staff Writer

The Iowa wrestling team is preparing for the first National Collegiate wrestling tournament to be held in Iowa City. The Hawkeye team finished second in the Big Ten meet held here two weeks ago. Iowa had a 10-2 dual mark in the tournament, finishing with an unbeaten conference record of 8-0. The only losses suffered by the Hawks this year came at the hands of defending national champion Oklahoma State, and last years N. C. third place winner, Oklahoma University.

Iowa coach Dave McCuskey feels that Oklahoma State will be the favorite in the N. C. meet because the Aggies were last year's winner, and they have a stronger team this year. Other top teams listed by McCuskey are Oregon State, one of the strongest teams on the West Coast, Colorado State of Greeley, Wyoming, Iowa State, Oklahoma, Penn State, Pittsburgh, and the winner of the Eastern Intercollegiate title — Lehigh. Lehigh is coached by Gerald Leeman, who wrestled under McCuskey at Iowa State Teachers College. He was a national champion in 1946, and a member of the 1948 Olympic team.

Strong individuals
"Iowa has a good chance to be up among the first ten or so," said the Iowa coach. We have

There are two additional weights in the National meet. Larry Moser will go for the Hawks in the 115-pound class, with Trapp entering the 191-pound division, and Gary Grouwinkler, football star turned wrestler, entering the heavyweight class.

The Iowa lineup as listed by McCuskey will be: 115-Moser; 123-strong individual contenders, some who could go on through, but not enough team balance to be real contenders in every weight."

Iowa will not enter a full team in the tournament. There will be no one wrestling in the 130 or the 167-pound divisions.

Leading the Iowa team are two individual Big Ten champs, Vince Garcia, 123-pounder and Gene Luttrell, who for the second year won the 137-pound title.

Two second place winners in the Big Ten are also members of the Iowa team. Jim Craig, who lost a 7-3 decision to Bill Wright of Minnesota, and Gordon Trapp, heavyweight during the season, who lost a heartbreaker to Tim Woodin of Michigan State, 6-4.

It was in this match that Trapp threw personal glory to the winds trying to throw Woodin for an Iowa tie with Minnesota for the team title. "A great exhibition of true sportsmanship," were the words used by McCuskey after the match.

The Iowa team has four grapplers from Waterloo, two from Davenport, and one each from Des Moines and Wapello.

TRAPP, 191-pounder, is from Waterloo. He is an Engineering junior, with one more year of eligibility left. In a match in 1952 between East and West Waterloo High Schools, Trapp decided present Iowa teammate Brian Kenyon 6-4 in the deciding match of the meet. He graduated from West Waterloo with John Winder and Harlan Jenkinson who both came to Iowa and won Big Ten championship mat titles.

Trapp said opponents from other schools were not his big worry. "I worry more about making the team than I do any coming meet," he said.

MOSER wrestled in the 123-pound class most of the season. He is a senior. In high school he wrestled for West High of Waterloo, winning two seconds and a third in state meets. He competed in the Big Ten meet in the 130-pound division. Larry finds that dropping to 115 is a little hard. Sunday he still had 4½ pounds to shed, but said, "I think I'll make it." When asked who his toughest opponent was this year, Larry picked Oklahoma's Duwayne Miller, to whom he dropped a 3-1 decision after having won nine and earning a draw in his first ten meets.

LUTTRELL, Big Ten 137-pound king, is also a West Waterloo product, and senior. Though not winning any titles in high school, he has proved himself to be a champion at Iowa, winning the Big Ten 137-pound title two years in a row. His opponents probably have the thought of beating the champ when facing him. "I know they are going to try awfully hard to beat me," he said, "and I want to beat them just as much." This he has done, winning 18 and having one draw, while only losing two in Garcia: 137-Luttrell; 147-Brian Kenyon; 157-Joe Mullins; 177-Craig; 191-Trapp; and Grouwinkler, heavyweight.

Coach McCuskey is in his seventh year of coaching at Iowa. He came here in 1952 after compiling a terrific record at Iowa State Teachers College. His teams there had a record of 102 wins, 31 losses, and 7 ties. This, coupled with his Iowa record of 50-19-2, gives him an all-time record of 152 wins, 50 losses, and 9 ties.

Among the high spots of his Iowa teams were the fourth place tie in the National Collegiate championships in 1954; second in the Big Ten in 1955; second in the Big Ten and fourth in the Nationals in 1956; Big Ten champions in 1958 and fifth in the National meet; and second place in the Big Ten this year.

Gunther Receives Award

DAVE GUNTHER, right, Iowa basketball star received an award Monday in recognition of his selection to the Look Magazine Area 4 NCAA All-America basketball team. Jack O'Brien, sales superintendent of the Curtis Publishing Company in this area and a Vinton native, made the presentation at the WSUI studios. Eight areas named teams in the current issue of Look. Joining Gunther from Area 4 were Johnny Green, Michigan State; Tom Hawkins, Notre Dame; Joe Ruklick, Northwestern and M. C. Burton, Michigan. Gunther, named Iowa's most valuable player by his teammates the third straight year, finished his career earlier this month with a total of 1,188 points to tie the all-time Iowa scoring record.

the last two years. Charles Coffey of Minnesota was picked as his toughest opponent this year. He beat Coffey, 5-3 in a match here early in the season.

KENYON, Iowa's 147-pounder, is from Waterloo also, but from East High School. He came across some pretty good competition there. Gordon Trapp for example. "Gordie beat me, but he weighed a little more, and was a little stronger too," said Kenyon. Who was Kenyon's toughest opponent this year? "They've all been tough. I've met Holzer, Aubrey, and Wilson. They don't come any tougher."

The three men named by Kenyon are Illinois' Werner Holzer, second place winner in the Big Ten meet; Paul Aubrey, Oklahoma's 1958 137-pound National champ; and Shelby Wilson, 147-pound National runner-up last year, from Oklahoma State.

MULLINS is the 157-pound entry for Iowa. He is a senior from Tech High of Des Moines. In high school he won city and district titles in the 154-pound division. Michigan State's Jim Ferguson, Big Ten champ, was one of the toughest that Mullins faced this year, although "they've all been pretty tough."

CRAIG, Hawkeye 177-pounder, is a senior from Davenport. He won a district title and finished second in the state meet in high school. Minnesota's Bill Wright was chosen by Jim as his toughest opponent this year. Craig has dropped two of three to the Minnesota ace.

GARCIA is the Iowa entry in the 123-pound division. He is a junior from Davenport. Vince won the Big Ten title defeating Mike Hoyles of Michigan in the finals, 4-1. He said his toughest opponent this year was Moser, with whom he has been trying out against all season. The toughest opponent he has faced in dual competition was Bob Harold of Oklahoma State.

Is wrestling more fun than football? Not according to GROUWINKLER, Iowa's heavyweight entry in the N.C.A.A. meet. "You have to be in a lot better shape for wrestling. There are more muscles in use, and there is no rest during the match," said the Hawkeye star football guard.

Grouwinkler is a senior from Wapello. He did not wrestle in high school, but he did participate in football, track and basketball. He went out for wrestling in his freshman year at Iowa, but then devoted all his time to football. He liked wrestling, and now that he is a senior he decided to try it again.

Two matches were all Gary had during the season, but he won them both. He decided Don Meyers of Colorado School of Mines, 6-0, and Bob Deasy of Northwestern, 6-1.

Red Schoendienst To Leave Hospital After 4-Month Stay

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Red Schoendienst, hospitalized four months with tuberculosis, happily announced Monday he will leave the hospital today and predicted he would report "bright and early" for 1960 spring training with the Milwaukee Braves.

"I feel like I'll be able to get in uniform the last month and a half of this season," the great second baseman said, "but if my doctors say no, I won't do it."

Red said he will gradually build up his strength at his home in South St. Louis, "but I'm not going to rush it."

His doctors have told him he can be up for a half hour at a time in the morning and again in the afternoon, Red explained. His activity can be slowly increased as his strength returns.

Surgery on the diseased portion of Schoendienst' lung shortened his stay in Mt. St. Rose Hospital a good deal.

Spiked Soft Drinks For City Picnic—Lands In Jail—He Used Arsenic

CULLMAN, Ala. (UPI) — Jury selection began Monday for the trial of U.P. Kirk, 62, accused of spiking soft drinks for a city picnic with arsenic.

Kirk, field superintendent for the Cullman Power Board, has been indicted on three counts of attempting to poison the mayor, the power board manager and a power board accountant.

The incident occurred almost three years ago. Police said the caps had been removed from the soft drink bottles and the drinks dosed with arsenic. Fire Chief John Hasenbein discovered the bottles had been tampered with the day prior to the picnic held on a TVA lake at Guntersville, Ala., July 20, 1956.

No motive has been offered by authorities who sought the incidents against Kirk.

President Eisenhower Signs Bill; Military Draft Extended To 1963

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Monday signed into law a bill continuing the peacetime military draft for four more years.

The measure, passed by overwhelming margins by both houses of Congress, extends the act which had been due to expire June 30.

Besides continuing authority to induct young men between 18½ and 26 years old, the legislature also continues for four years: —special authority to draft doctors and dentists. —The law giving enlisted men allowances for dependents. —extra pay for newly-commissioned physicians, dentists and veterinarians.

The house passed the bill 381 to 20 on Feb. 5 and the Senate approved it 90 to 1 on March 11.

U.S. Warships To Tour Great Lakes Despite 1817 Treaty Forbidding It

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UPI) — A fleet of American warships will tour the Great Lakes next summer despite an 1817 treaty that prohibits either the U.S. or Canada from having warships of menacing size in the Lakes.

The tour by 28 destroyers, submarines, frigates, cruisers and landing craft was announced here

Monday by the U.S. Navy.

A few hours later, a State Department spokesman in Washington hastened to explain that the warships would be in the Lakes with the explicit consent of the Canadian Government. He said there had been numerous "invasions" by both sides in the past—each carefully cleared in advance.

Ten-Month-Old Siamese Twins, Joined At Head, Undergo Operation In England

LONDON (UPI) — Ten-month-old Siamese twins Timothy and Jeremy Thackeray, who were born joined at the head, were separated Monday by a surgeon's knife.

"The twins are alive but their condition will remain extremely critical for several days," said an announcement from St. Bartholomew's, the great London teaching hospital.

Brain surgeon John O'Connell, 52, performed the operation—one of the most hazardous in all surgery. The rarest form of Siamese twins are those joined at the head.

Timothy and Jeremy were born last May to Kathleen Thackeray, 35. Her husband Reginald, 39, is a suburban bank manager.

A third boy, Peter was born with the twins. He is normal and has lived with his parents while the twins have been in a hospital awaiting the operation.

Judge Orders 150 More Jurors Called For Possible Duty In Nicholas Trial

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Judge Thomas Faulconer Monday ordered up a third venire of 150 persons in the hunt for a jury to try divorcee Connie Nicholas for the slaying of her faithless lover.

Mrs. Nicholas' first degree murder trial ended its sixth day Monday with a jury still unchosen.

The latest jury call is intended to supply prospective jurors until mid-April. Faulconer said he did not mean to imply that he expects six weeks would be required to obtain a jury.

"I'm just looking ahead," he said.

Approximately 17 to 18 persons were believed left for questioning from the 75 called Monday. If these are exhausted, a recess will be called until Wednesday, when another 50 are to report.

Link Family Killing With Earlier Case

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Police Chief Wilbur Wade speculated Monday a "bushy haired" itinerant sawmill worker may have killed the four members of the Carroll V. Jackson family and buried their bodies in shallow graves.

Wade, head of the police force in Anne Arundel County, Md., said the brutal slayings of Jackson, his wife and their two small children appeared to be the work of the same man who killed another woman on a secluded road near Annapolis, Md.

Mrs. Margaret Harold was shot to death as she and an army sergeant sat in their parked car in June, 1957.

"If we get the man who killed the Jacksons, I believe we'll get Mrs. Harold's murderer," Wade said.

Mrs. Harold's body was found about a half mile from where the bodies of Mrs. Jackson and her 5-year-old daughter Susan Anne were discovered Saturday in a shallow grave by two teenage boys.

Jackson, a feed store clerk of Mineral, Va., and the couple's other daughter, 18-month-old Janet Carol, were found three weeks earlier, buried face down in a rotted sawdust pit near Fredericksburg, Va.

Scores of police working on the Jackson kidnap-murder have been stumped by the lack of clues and a movie.

The family vanished on the night of Jan. 11 as they returned home-wear from a Sunday visit to Mrs.

Jackson's parents not far from Mineral.

Wade pointed out that all of the bodies, including that of Mrs. Harold, were found near sawmills. This might indicate that the killer was familiar with the areas in Virginia and Maryland where he buried the Jacksons.

Roy Hudson, the army sergeant who was with Mrs. Harold the night she was slain, said a "bushy haired" man had forced his way into their car and killed the woman, shot at him and then fled.

There had been reports shortly after the Jacksons disappeared that a "bushy haired" man had tried to force one or two motorists off the road near the spot where Jackson's car was found abandoned. Skid marks indicated he was forced to stop by another car.

Dr. Russell Fisher, Maryland Chief Medical Examiner, said Mrs. Jackson and Susan were killed in January, probably within a few hours of the time Jackson and the other daughter were slain. Jackson died from a .38 caliber pistol wound in the head. Janet Carol apparently was left to suffocate beneath her father's body in the sawdust pit.

Fisher said there was "no evidence whatsoever" of a sexual attack on Mrs. Jackson or Susan Anne. Their bodies were moved to the Baltimore City Morgue for further examination.

Both Mrs. Jackson and Susan apparently died from beatings. Mrs. Jackson also had a silk stocking knotted tightly around her neck.

One veteran police officer said "sexual motivation" could still figure in the case although none of the bodies bore evidence of attacks.

The officer, who asked not to be quoted by name, said "sexual desires take many strange and perverted outlets, including sadism."

An estimated 50 to 75 FBI agents and five Washington detectives joined Maryland and Virginia authorities in the intensive hunt for the killer. Key officers met Monday in Washington to coordinate the hunt and try to run down some clue or motive for the savage crime.

Castro Warns Against War From Without

HAVANA (UPI) — Fidel Castro Monday steered Cuba toward a new policy of total mobilization against counter-revolutionary invasion which he warned might originate in the U.S. or the Dominican Republic. Men, women and children prepared to bear arms.

The young premier singled out "reactionary" Americans for particular criticism in a speech to 100,000 labor union members Sunday. He charged that a "foreign-fostered" invasion might come from Florida or the Dominican Republic ruled by his chief enemy, Gen. Rafael Trujillo.

Castro accused the U.S. of sending arms at cut-rate prices to the Dominican Republic, where ousted Cuban President Batista lives in exile, and said some Americans and some news agencies were behind a campaign to overthrow him in favor of ex-dictator Batista.

Castro called for total mobilization of the Cuban people, "even of women and children," to defend the island nation against any attempt to turn his successful revolution into defeat.

In Washington, the State Department branded as false Castro's charges that U.S. arms were reaching his enemies in the Caribbean.

(State Department press officer Joseph W. Reap said "no arms are being licensed for shipment" to Batista "or any of his followers.")

(Reap added that there are no "clandestine arms shipments or preparations taking place on U.S. territory," as Castro charged. Reap said the Justice and Treasury Departments "have taken every precaution" against this.)

"We have no evidence to corroborate the charges," Reap said. "We have, moreover, received no communications from the Cuban Government with respect to any of these matters."

The aggressions which "worry us Cubans will not come from other continents," Castro said. "They may come from mercenary hands, from the beaches of Florida or the Dominican Republic."

Senate Risks Veto; Passes Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate passed a $389½-million-dollar bill designed to help areas of chronic unemployment with Federal grants and loans Monday. It far exceeded President Eisenhower's request.

The roll-call vote was 49-46.

The bill now goes to the House which has conducted hearings on similar legislation.

Mr. Eisenhower last year vetoed a similar bill, carrying 100 million less than the measure before the Senate Monday. Republicans freely predicted he also would veto the new version.

The bill passed by the Senate, sponsored chiefly by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) and other Democrats but supported by some Republicans, carries these allotments:

100 million dollars for loans for redevelopment projects in industrial areas and 100 million dollars for loans for redevelopment projects in rural areas.

100 million dollars for loans for public facilities to attract new industry. 75 million dollars for Federal grants for public facilities in areas in such bad financial condition that they could not handle loans.

10 million dollars for subsistence payments to unemployed workers.

4½ million dollars in technical assistance to aid communities in drawing up redevelopment plans.

98-Pound Girl Tries Rescue From Cave

CASTLETON, England (UPI) — A diminutive 18-year-old girl descended into the murky depths of the "Devil's Hole" early Monday to try to save the life of an amateur cave explorer trapped 1,000 feet underground since Sunday afternoon.

June Bailey, who is five feet tall and weighs only 98 pounds, volunteered to try to rescue Oxford student Neil Moss, 20, when an urgent call was sent out for "the smallest porthole in North England."

Royal navy submarine escape experts arrived Sunday night with chemicals to purify the foul air which hampered efforts to save Moss. The student was wedged in a niche of rocks in an accident that recalled the tragedy of Floyd Collins in a Kentucky cave 34 years ago.

Moss, six foot two inch man who became entrapped in a 40-foot vertical tube-like crevice while exploring with some other amateurs, slipped into unconsciousness yesterday. Rescue officials said last night his breathing had become irregular, and there were fears he might not be able to hold out much longer.

Miss Bailey, a Manchester girl whose hobby is cave-exploring, was nearby on a practice rescue mission when she heard of the urgent call for a small pot-holer, or cave explorer, to go down into the "Devil's Hole." She arrived at the scene late Sunday night dressed in a red sweater and red miner's helmet.

"I'll do my very best to get to him," she said as she began the descent. "As far as I know, there is no experienced pot-holer smaller than I in the entire country."

Moss was wedged in so tightly that he had been unable to move his arms to reach the food that was dropped down to him.

Girl Dies After Injection For Unnecessary Abortion

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The death of Brenda Emerson, 16-year-old bride whose body was found on a hospital lawn, was blamed Monday night on an abortionist who didn't know to administer a dangerous drug.

County Coroner Theodore J. Curphey said the teenager apparently died from a too rapid injection of sodium pentothal, a local anesthetic. Curphey said the young woman apparently thought she was pregnant and went to an abortionist. However, he said, thorough examination showed she was not going to have a child.

In the hands of an amateur who might administer the drug too rapidly, the coroner said, the anesthetic could be fatal.

"We feel secure in saying her death was due to a too rapid injection of the anesthetic," he said. Curphey's report came a few hours after the arrest of a convicted abortionist in Tijuana, Mexico, about 140 miles south of Los Angeles.

Detectives arrested Mrs. Ruth Davidson, 42, as she prepared to board a plane for Mexico City. Officers also were looking for Edgar Schratler, a Hollywood salesman.

The Davidson woman had served a one-year term for abortion in 1955.

The cause of death was established by chemical tests after an autopsy on the young woman, whose neatly clad body was dragged from a black sedan Saturday night and left in front of St. Joseph's Hospital in nearby Burbank.

Hypodermic needle punctures on the right arm and hip were the only marks on the bride, described by autopsy surgeon Harold Kade, "a perfectly healthy 16-year-old girl."

At first, police reported the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Blonder, refused to talk about the case, but later Capt. Arthur G. Hertel of the Los Angeles Police Homicide Squad said it was done intentionally to keep suspects in the city, if possible.

The young woman eloped to Phoenix, Ariz., last June and married Steven Frank Emerson, 20, now unemployed. The marriage was opposed by her parents.

Emerson said he last saw his bride Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

The autopsy surgeon said Mrs. Emerson's death came between 5 p.m. and shortly after 7 p.m.

when her body was found in front of the hospital.

An anonymous telephone call was received at the hospital from a man who said, "There's a body lying out on your lawn. A black sedan just drove off real fast."

Hospital attendants went outside and found Mrs. Emerson. The body was fully clothed with capri pants, a short coat and a blouse. Engagement and wedding rings were on her left hand. Her shoes were placed beside her.

Thirty SUI chemical engineering students are visiting chemical plants and laboratories in the Chicago area this week. The trip, designed to show the students the diversity of fields in which chemical engineers are engaged and to show the relationship between classroom theory and actual practice, is an annual affair required of all upperclassmen in chemical engineering.

265 New Mothers At SUI—All Living At Wellman House

By MARLENE JORGENSEN Staff Writer
There are about 265 new mothers on campus—all of them in Beth Wellman House.
Wellman coeds are helping to support an 11-year-old Korean girl from Pyongyang, North Korea. She is Bo Yong Chae, a fourth grade pupil in primary school in Seoul. During the war, the town was liberated by United Nations forces, and the family left for South Korea. Bo Yong and her mother reached their destination, but they were separated from the rest of the family. Nothing has been heard from her father, brothers, and sisters since that time. It is believed that they still may be in North Korea.
After living as refugees through the war and the ceasefire, Bo Yong and her mother moved into a small rented room on the southern outskirts of Seoul where they live now. Mrs. Chae has managed to support herself and Bo Yong by doing knitting at home.

Bo Yong and her mother still hope to be reunited with the rest of their family. Wellman residents will try to make the wait more pleasant by writing to Bo Yong and contributing money for her support.
Contributions for the girl's support can be made in the wishing well set up at Burge store. The dormitory will be planning other activities to raise the $120 they have agreed to give Bo Yong.
Officers of Beth Wellman House became interested in the project through information received from the Save the Children Federation. The Federation sponsors children from Greece, Italy, Finland, West Germany, France, and Austria, as well as Korea.

To Inspect ROTC Department Today

The annual formal inspection of the SUI Department of Military Science and Tactics will be conducted today at the SUI Fieldhouse.
Activities to be inspected include supply, classes, and administration.

Science Open House Wednesday At U-High

A Science Open House will be presented to the public Wednesday, 3:30 to 5 p.m., at University High School.
Science projects in the fields of physics, physical science, biology, bio-chemistry, and chemistry made by junior high and high school students will be displayed.

Miller To Speak At Matrix Banquet

Harlan S. Miller, Des Moines Register columnist, will speak to outstanding campus and city women at the Matrix Table banquet April 29 in the Iowa Memorial Union.
Miller's column, "Over the Coffee," appears daily in the Register. He also writes a monthly column,

"There's a Man in the House," for Ladies' Home Journal magazine.
Also on the banquet program will be the presentation of two awards, one to an SUI senior woman for leadership in campus affairs and one to an Iowa City woman for service in community affairs.
Award nominations by SUI and Iowa City clubs and organizations are due today at the main office, Communications Center.

Explosion Kills Nine Miners In Tennessee Coal Mine

ONEIDA, Tenn. (UPI) — Nine miners, some of them running for their lives, were killed Monday when an unexplained explosion flashed fire and fumes through the shaft of a brimstone coal camp mine.

The victims were burned to death — apparently caught by a sweeping sheet of flame that snuffed out their lives instantly 4,000 feet inside the shaft. The bodies were brought out by early afternoon and state and Federal inspectors began an investigation of the tragedy.

The victims included a father and two of his sons, and two brothers. There were no survivors among the men who had descended to begin the week's operations, and the victims included three of four partners who owned the mine.

Four of the first five bodies recovered were found face down on the tunnel floor, their arms outstretched as if they were fleeing the danger which struck them down. But if they knew the cause of the blast death had sealed their lips.

First indications were that the blast was a coal dust explosion. Authorities also investigated possible gas accumulation in the mine.

Those who ran or were walking away were felled by the force of the blast or overcome by the hot, deadly fumes it shot through the underground shaft. Their bodies were unmarked and untouched by fallen slate or timbers.

Beyond them lay the bodies of their fellow-miners, all near the apparent center of the explosion.

The shaft is one of several deep mines bored into the coal veins in the side of a mountain in Scott

County, near the Southeast Kentucky border.

There has been labor trouble in the coalfields of Kentucky and East Tennessee recently among small, independent operators, but there was no indication of labor disputes at the explosion-hit mine. Highly mechanized, it employed only 11 miners.

"The men were all facing toward the mine entrance when we found them," rescuer Audie Acres said. "They were badly burned. Their hair was burned off, their skin was black and just peeled off."

Acres said he believed that either gas or dust, ignited by some spark, set off the explosion.

"I don't know what happened," said W. O. West, a surviving partner in the Phillips and West mine. His brother, Oscar West, 44, of Oneida, was one of the victims.

"I had just started to go into the mine myself when I heard the explosion," West said.

He ran to a telephone and called for assistance and ambulances.

Sheriff Dorsey Rosser said rescue crews who entered the inky, underground shaft to bring out the bodies reported indications dynamite may have been set off accidentally.

The bodies were fairly close together, Rosser said. The explosion occurred shortly after the victims entered the shaft to begin the day's work. It is standard practice to make a safety check of the shaft prior to blasting.

The grief-stricken families of the victims and other miners gathered at the mine entrance, awaiting news from the crews which went into the shaft.

Hope faded for any survivors after the first five bodies were brought out.

Sixth Childbirth Lecture Tonight

The sixth series of "Education for Childbirth" lectures will begin tonight at 7:30 in Room 331 of the SUI General Hospital.

The sessions, held each Tuesday through April 21, will be open to all interested persons.

Topics for the five sessions are: anatomy and physiology of pregnancy; pre-natal care, labor and delivery, post-partum care, and care of the infant. The meetings will be conducted by resident physicians from the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology and the Department of Pediatrics, and by nurses from the hospital nursing staff and from the College of Nursing.

Each meeting will include both a film and a lecture on the scheduled topic.

Family Life Discussion Tuesday At Union

A panel discussion on family life and customs by three foreign and two American SUI students will be featured in the YWCA all association meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in the Pentacrest Room of the Union.

Members of the panel are Milla C. Peters, AX, Holland; Yoshie Osada, G., Japan; Mrs. Felicitacion Ejercito, Philippines, Cherry Nuffington, A2, Mt. Pleasant; and Nancy Lee Ross, A1, Marion.

New members will be introduced at the meeting.

All YWCA members are invited to attend.

Satellite Talk Today

Physicist-astronomer Theodore Sterne, of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., will speak on "The Celestial Mechanics of Earth Satellites" today at 4 p.m. in Room 301 of the SUI Physics Building.

A graduate of Princeton University with his doctor of philosophy degree from Cambridge University, Dr. Sterne was the war-time chief of the special problems branch of the Ballistic Research Laboratories, Aberdeen, Md., Proving Ground.

Since 1953 he has held the consulting post of scientific advisor to the director of the Aberdeen Proving Ground.

Dr. Sterne's appearance at SUI is sponsored by the Physics Colloquium. While largely technical in nature, the lecture is open to all interested persons.

Iowa City Schools Close Wednesday

Iowa City Community School District schools will close on Wednesday, March 25, at the regular time for the Easter vacation.

They will convene on Tuesday March 31, Buford W. Garner superintendent, has announced.

International Puzzle Ring Collects Over $45,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI Monday cracked an international ring which allegedly obtained more than $45,000 by getting advance solutions to crossword puzzles in newspapers across the United States.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover announced the arrest of 12 Americans and said fraud charges have been filed in this country against two Canadians now across the border.

Operators of this "far-flung swindle," as Hoover described it, dreamed up a dummy newspaper company and a dummy bank in Canada to trick the puzzle solutions out of two New York feature services — Superior Features Syndicate Inc., and General Features Syndicate.

American members of the ring then got the solutions by telephone, the FBI said, and collected more than $45,000 in prizes between last November and February.

FBI agents moved in on the alleged ring, arresting four persons in Oregon, three in Michigan, two in Pennsylvania and one each in Indiana and Wisconsin. A twelfth arrest of a Minneapolis man was made in Miami, Fla.

Charges were filed against Joseph Dyson 30, of London, Ont., and George Dingman 34, of Port Stanley, Ont. Officials said a legal study will be made as to whether these men can be extradited for trial in the United States.

All 14 were charged with using the mails and long distance telephones to defraud eight newspapers. They also were charged with conspiracy to defraud.

The warrants listed eight newspapers as having been defrauded. They were the Portland Oregonian; the Philadelphia Bulletin, the Milwaukee Sentinel, the Chicago American, the Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot, the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press, and the Syracuse (N.Y.) Herald-Journal.

Several weeks ago, the Oregonian and the Journal announced they had reports of a "fix" in puzzle contests. They stopped using the contests and asked for an FBI investigation.

Last month, counsel Robert F.

Kennedy of the Senate Labor-Management Committee said underworld figures — trying to persuade a prospective witness not to answer committee questions — had offered as bait solutions to newspaper puzzles in several cities.

In describing the way the alleged swindle operated, the FBI said ringleaders subscribed to the puzzle feature services in the name of a nonexistent newspaper company which was called "Suburban Publishers, Ltd."

Hoover said "Suburban Publishers" supplied the syndicates with the name of a fictitious bank called the "Middlesex Trust Co.," with a mailing address listed as P.O. Box 699, Byron, Ont., Canada.

The FBI said the feature services do not furnish contest answers to a subscribing newspaper, but send them to a bank to be held in confidence until the deadline has passed for submitting contest entries.

In this case, the FBI said, puzzle solutions sent to the Ontario box were picked up by the ringleaders in Canada. Then, the agency said, associates living in the United States entered the contests, armed with solutions furnished by telephone from either Detroit or Canada.

Hoover said the use of interstate communications brought federal action.

Good Listening— Today On WSUI

JAMES BRYANT CONANT, educator, diplomat and author of "The American High School Today," turns his attention this evening at 8 p.m. to the site of his last post abroad, Germany. On the second of the 1958 Godkin Lectures given at Harvard University, Dr. Conant discusses "Politics and Economics in the Federal Republic of Germany." A former High Commissioner for and Ambassador to Germany, the speaker has given to the Godkin Lecture Series of three talks the general title: "Germany and Freedom—A Personal Appraisal." With Germany looming large in the foreign affairs of a cold war, these opinions take on added importance.

JOHANNES BRAHMS' Piano Concerto No. 1 in D Minor will be heard this morning at 11:15 a.m.

PRIME MINISTER MACMILLAN who is about to sit down to talks in the White House, may readily be expected to be the subject of the British News Background program which may be heard, following the 12:30 p.m. NEWS, at 12:45 today.

RAVEL, PROKOFIEV, MAHLER and Respighi are the composers whose works may be heard this afternoon on WSUI. At 1 p.m., a sonata for violin and piano by Ravel and "One Guard for Peace" by Prokofiev are scheduled. At 2:30, Respighi's Church Windows and Mahler's Fourth Symphony complete the afternoon's serious offerings.

COUNT BASIE, FRANK SINATRA and others of note take over at 4 p.m. to comprise Tea Time, an hour of the best in recorded popular and jazz music.

ALISTAIR REED is the author of the prize-winning children's book, Fairwater, which is the current fair on Children's Stories at 5 p.m. Last Spring the "Honor Book" award of the New York Herald-Tribune was given to Fairwater along with the Caldecott Medal for 1958 children's literature.

TRIO WILL BE HEARD TONIGHT, 9 to 9:45 p.m.

LUDWIG VAN BEETHOVEN'S "Creatures of Prometheus" will be the feature on KSUI-FM tonight during the three hours of Fine Music from 7 to 10 p.m. at 91.7 megacycles.

Political Science Workshop Opens

DES MOINES (AP) — About 70 students from 15 Iowa colleges and universities gathered at Drake University Monday to open a two-day political science workshop on "Politics and the Legislative Process."

The workshop, sponsored by the Iowa Citizenship Clearing House in cooperation with Drake, is designed to give college students a first-hand view of laws in the making.

The Monday schedule included three sessions at Drake at which leading legislators, party leaders and political scientists discussed how laws are made.
