

U.S. Newsmen Get Extended China Visas

30 Reporters Could Go To China

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department today indirectly invited Chinese Communist newsmen to apply for visas to enter the United States and report on American affairs.

It took the step in announcing that it was extending for one year the passport validations of 30 American newsmen for travel to Red China.

The correspondents represent 30 U.S. news agencies which have been authorized for some time to send one representative each to Red China.

The Peking Government originally suggested that American newsmen come to Red China. The State Department responded in August, 1957, by dropping its previous opposition to the idea and granting the necessary authority.

At that point, however, Red China refused to give the newsmen the necessary visas to enter the country unless the United States agreed in advance to admit Chinese newsmen to this country on a man-for-man basis. U.S. officials decided this was impossible legally.

Only one American correspondent on the accredited list, John Strohm, representing newspaper enterprise association, got into Red China. He obtained a visa in Europe.

The United States does not recognize Communist China and forbids Americans generally to travel there.

In its statement today, the department said it "has repeatedly made it clear that if any bona fide Chinese Communist newspaperman should apply for a visa, the Secretary of State is prepared to consider recommending to the Attorney General a waiver under the law so that a visa could be granted."

This was the department's first actual suggestion that Red newsmen apply for American visas.

The 30 American news organizations whose representatives have received passports were selected on the basis that they have "demonstrated sufficient interest in foreign news coverage to maintain at least one full-time American correspondent overseas, and that they wished to be represented in Communist China for six months or longer." Lawyer Also Needs To Be Sort Of Psychiatrist: Dean

By RON HOWES Staff Writer

"In dealing with clients, the practicing lawyer also has to be a sort of practicing psychiatrist," Arthur H. Dean, senior partner of the New York law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, said Thursday night at the annual Murray lecture.

Dean, speaking on "Human Relations and the Law," stressed the importance of the fact that law cases deal with human beings. The conception of a Wall Street law firm is that it is a huge, impersonal machine, he said.

"But there are people in New York," he said, "just like there are in Iowa. They have the same hopes, the same fears, and the same emotions, and they sometimes get into trouble."

He said that a lawyer must often be like a family physician or a minister. Speaking of trials in television plays where the lawyer is seen berating and screaming at the witness he said "I like to watch them because I have never seen a trial like that in my life. Many of the ablest cross examiners never raise their voice."

"You must never lecture a client. They are in trouble and they know it. The problem is to get the facts. Under pressure he may tell you what he thinks has happened, but this is not necessarily what has actually happened. It is when the client is relaxed that you will get the facts," he said.

Dean has a vast background in many phases of law and his work with Sullivan and Cromwell has taken him all over the world.

He helped formulate the Securities Act of 1933 with Felix Frankfurter and James Landis. He was a member of the Dickinson Commission which recommended the creation of the Securities Exchange Commission of 1934. He participated in the anti-trust cases which dealt with the oil interests in the middle east from 1946 to 1953.

He represented the United States and sixteen other UN countries in the truce talks at Pammunjom, Korea. In 1958 he was a member of the UN conference on the law of the sea.

Speaking of Pammunjom he said, "No trial lawyer is prepared for anything like that. The meetings were held in a hut. Once you went in you never moved for anything. Often it was 10 below zero and it sometimes reached 20 or 25 below. The 38th parallel ran down the middle of the room. The worst thing was, the stove was on the Communist side."

He added, however, that although the Communists took every advantage in their legal manipulations, only once did they lose their aplomb.

Bill To Govern

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa House approved 85-12 and sent to the governor Thursday a bill allocating $25,000 for a two-year study of capacities of state-supplied and privately endowed colleges.

Dulles Takes Special Post As Consultant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Foster Dulles, with President Eisenhower and other high officials at his side, was sworn in Thursday as a special foreign policy consultant in a brief and poignant hospital room ceremony.

Eisenhower told the ailing former Secretary of State that his acceptance of the special post was "but one more example of your magnificent spirit and devotion to the nation's welfare."

The job will carry Cabinet rank and pay $20,000 a year.

Dulles expressed his gratitude to the President and said he accepted the post in the hope that he still could be of service in the nation's "quest of a just and honorable peace."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Christian A. Herter, Dulles' successor as Secretary of State, Mrs. Dulles and Dulles' brother, Allen, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, also witnessed the swearing-in.

At the request of Dulles' physicians, the 10-minute ceremony in the Presidential suite of the Walter Reed Army Medical Center was private. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty gave reporters an account later.

Dulles, who had to return to the hospital 12 days ago after an apparent new outbreak of cancer, was dressed in street clothes for the oath-taking, which was held in the living room of the hospital suite. He wore a blue suit, a light blue shirt and a blue tie.

The 71-year-old diplomat used the occasion to praise Herter and to express "pride and confidence" in him. He referred to Herter as "my trusted friend" and noted that Herter was his "second in command" as former undersecretary of state.

After Dulles took his oath from Frank K. Sanderson, White House Administrative Officer, the President gave him his commission, which Herter had countersigned.

He also gave Dulles a resolution adopted by the National Security Council this morning praising Dulles for his work and cooperation on the council.

WORLD TRADE WEEK WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Thursday proclaimed the week of May 17 as World Trade Week. He said in a proclamation that international commerce contributed to the economic stability and progress of the United States and other trading nations.

New Plan Drafted To Reapportion

DES MOINES (AP) — A new plan of legislative reapportionment was drafted by a committee of Iowa House members Thursday in another attempt to find a formula acceptable to both rural and urban representatives.

House Majority Floor Leader Clark McNeal (R-Belmond) said the plan would be submitted to caucuses of Republican and Democratic House members this morning to find out whether it could muster enough support for passage.

The proposal, whipped together by House members of both parties who have been active in the reapportionment drive, uses as its base the Senate-passed Stuart plan.

It leaves the Senate as proposed in that plan — 53 members apportioned on the basis of area, but with some weight given to population. As in the Stuart plan, the state would be divided into 53 legislative districts of two counties each, except that the seven most populous counties would form districts in themselves.

Each county would have one House representative under the new plan, and each would elect one additional representative for each one 110th of the state's population it has. That would result in a House of about 135 members.

Whenever any county's population fell more than 30 per cent below one-110th of the state's total population, however, it would lose its representative and would be joined to the smallest adjoining county.

In counties entitled to several representatives, two would be electd at large and the county would be set up in districts for election of the others.

The plan also would eliminate the "freezing" of legislative districts into the Constitution. Instead, the Legislature would determine the alignment of counties in the legislative districts.

"This isn't a plan proposed by any one person or group, but rather an attempt to resolve the thinking of all factions," McNeal said.

House Democratic Leader Scott Swisher (D-Iowa City) said that on the basis of Iowa's estimated population for 1958, a county would have to drop below 7,500 population to lose its representative.

The only county now in danger of losing its seat in the House on that basis is Adams County, he said. Adams County has about 7,600 population.

"We concluded it is impossible at this time to set up a true population basis for representation in the House," Swisher said. "However, as the years go by, population shifts will be taken into account in future redistricting and we'll eventually come to a true population basis."

Link Gambler To 8-Man Killer Ring

Cuban Leader Remains Calm In Crisis

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eight men were reported Thursday to have been hired to assassinate Cuban Premier Castro during his visit to the United States.

Police said all of the men were Americans and one of them might be David Rosen, 57, a convicted gambler and associate of racketeer Meyer Lansky. When the Castro Regime cracked down on big time gambling in Cuba Lansky fled the country.

The suspected plotters were reported by police to have entered the city in two cars, one a dirty gray Cadillac. The cars were reported loaded with weapons.

The group also was said to include five brothers from Philadelphia, each with a long criminal record and mob connections in Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia and Florida.

The report of the assassination plot touched off a citywide search by police and federal agents.

Rosen, who has hotel interests in Las Vegas, also was linked by police to deported Mafia Boss Lucky Luciano and millionaire racketeer Abner (Longie) Zwillman, a prohibition run-running czar who recently hanged himself in his New Jersey home.

Police listed Rosen among the suspects because one of the men was reported to be called "Doc." This is part of an Alias Rosen has used frequently, police said, leading them to believe he might be one of those sought.

Police acted swiftly on information given to them by members of the intelligence wing of Cuba's 26th of July Movement, which ousted Dictator Batista.

Castro went ahead with his scheduled activities including a luncheon address at the Overseas Press Club.

"They say there is a plot to kill me," he said. "It does not worry me. I do know this. I will not live one day more than the day I am going to die."

Castro, who arrived here Tuesday, has worried police officials by his refusal to abide by security precautions during public appearances.

The number of police at city hall was nearly doubled when Castro arrived there to meet Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

A police memo circulated throughout the city said hired gunmen would "seize the first opportunity" to kill the Cuban Rebel leader.

The five brothers from Philadelphia were identified as John Scoleri, 33, James (Banty) Scoleri, 28, Ralph, 30, Pat, 35, and Fred. There also was a James Scoleri, 63, apparently a relative of the brothers.

Additionally, the memo named Rosen who uses the aliases: Joe Stacker and Doc Harris. The eighth man was not identified.

Police said the six Scoleris and Rosen have long criminal records. Two other Scoleri brothers, Anthony and Edward, were convicted of killing a storekeeper last year. Anthony has appealed a death sentence to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, while Edward is serving a life term.

Police said the men had arrived in New York in separate cars, one bearing Michigan registration plates and the other Florida.

Handicapped Children Make Ceramics—Crafts

Projects ranging from printed stationery to coffee tables brought admiring glances from guests at the Industrial Arts and Homemaking Open House Thursday at the Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children.

Students at the school designed and completed their projects with the help of instructors and, in some cases, the use of special equipment. Safety guards were installed on the electric saws, for example, and special chairs for support enabled the children to maintain their balance while working with electrical equipment.

"We can adapt or devise mechanical aids to help a student make something he is not physically able to undertake," said one instructor. "For example, a girl with limited use of her arms wanted to make a hammered metal ash tray. We devised a lever with the hammer attached so she was able to literally pound with one finger," he said.

Among the facilities available to students are weaving looms, ceramic kilns, electric woodworking equipment, and various handicraft supplies.

Homemaking students at the school prepared the refreshments and acted as hosts and hostesses during the Open House.

Howard Suiter Arrested Sunday

Howard D. Suiter, 24, Columbus Junction, arrested Sunday night after a wild auto chase, received sentences Wednesday in Iowa City police court that could keep him in jail until mid-summer.

Suiter pleaded guilty to six of the seven charges against him. He waived preliminary examination on the most serious charge, driving while intoxicated, and was bound over to the district court.

Suiter, driving a borrowed car, led highway patrolman Paul G. Foster on a 7-mile chase at speeds of 70 to 80 miles an hour on old Highway 218. The pursuit started south of North Liberty and continued on Dubuque Street through Iowa City. Foster stopped Suiter at the intersection of Kirkwood Avenue and Dubuque Street, when he bumped the back of Suiter's car slightly, turning it around.

Judge Chapman sentenced Suiter to a minimum of 60 days in the county jail on two of the charges, and imposed fines totaling $100 or 30 additional days in jail on four other charges. He also recommended that Suiter's driver's license be suspended for one year.

Sentences received were: Speeding (up to 70 miles an hour in 25-mile-an-hour zones) in Iowa City, 30 days, beginning immediately.

Improper passing, 30 days, to begin May 17.

Night speeding, $30 fine plus $4 costs, or nine days in jail, to begin June 14.

Running red lights, $30 fine plus $4 costs, or nine days in jail, to begin June 23.

Failure to heed the signal of an overtaking vehicle, $30 fine plus $4 costs, or nine days in jail, to begin July 2.

Possession of fireworks, $10 fine plus $4 costs, or three days in jail, to begin July 11.

Charges were filed by Patrolman Foster Sunday night after the chase. Foster said the chase began when Suiter failed to dim his lights as he passed going south on old Highway 218.

Foster said that several times during the chase Suiter attempted to force him off the road as he pulled along side.

Also during the chase, Suiter forced several cars off the road, passed in a no-passing zone, ran red lights, threw firecrackers out the window, and completely ignored orders to stop, Foster said.

The windshield of the speeding car was smashed when Patrolman Howard Shapcott hurled a flashlight at it as Suiter ran a road road block at the north edge of the city.

Judge Chapman told Suiter, who has had a number of previous arrests in Iowa City, including a charge in 1957 of assault with intent to commit great bodily injury, that he was fortunate not to be going to Anamosa or Ft. Madison for manslaughter instead of to the county jail.

"I could have sentenced you to seven months in jail," the judge said, "but if you don't learn something in two or three months, I doubt if you would ever learn any more in seven."

Suiter merely shook his head when Judge Chapman asked if he had any explanation for the incident.

The highway patrol turned the car over to the Columbus Junction dealer who had loaned the car to Suiter. It had to be towed to Columbus Junction because the motor had been so overworked in the chase that it wouldn't start.

"IT'S SIMPLE," says Robert Frantz, Riverside, as he shows Kathy Kemp, N1, Cedar Falls, and Dick Zwemke, C4, Marshalltown, how to weave a cotton scarf. Robert also made a pair of wooden salt and pepper shakers which he displayed at the Open House.

Just An Idea

Again today, as has often been the case lately, we are talking about highway safety.

We were interested to hear of a recent announcement of the development of an experimental system which would broadcast low frequency warnings to motorists through ordinary or special radio receivers in passing automobiles.

Taped messages are put into a transmitter (as is being done in the accompanying photograph) and are then broadcast via ferrite antenna poles beside the highway.

The motorist's regular radio program, we are told, is muted automatically while the warning message is transmitted. If the radio is switched off, the transmitter signal instantly turns on the radio's stereotized output stage and the message is received just the same.

The system, developed by General Motors, might be of some use in Iowa. Iowa, of course, does not have a record of very progressive highway programs. For this reason, however, General Motors' new device might be very practical in our state.

While it would seem highly incongruous for such an advanced system to be put into use on our pathetically out-dated highways, certain benefits would certainly be realized.

At the very least, drivers could be warned of approaching hazards. Narrow bridges, unscientifically banked curves, high curbs—Iowa has them all. If we cannot in the near future do away with these relics of the horse-and-buggy days, the driver should at least be well aware of their danger.

We do not know yet what the cost of installation of the transmitters might be, or even that they will be proven to be practical. It is safe to assume, however, that their cost would be considerable.

But as long as our philosophy of highway safety seems to be concentrated more on warning drivers of a road hazard rather than rectifying it, General Motors' electronic device would not be out of line for Iowa.

At the very least, the use of Scientific devices to warn drivers of our many road hazards might help to focus attention on the real problem—that of modernizing Iowa's dangerously-obsolete highways.

Letters To The Editor — Opposes 'Science By Decree'

To the Editor:

May we have a few inches to discuss education, Iowa Department of Health-style?

In spite of all the research... and all of the favorable findings, the fluoridation of the public water supplies is still a controversial issue. However, it is our belief that education of the public will finally win and the fluoridation of the public water supplies will become as common as the chlorination of milk.

Now we are all in favor of education (why else are we here?) and who is there to be educated by the public. We are not, however, all in favor of fluoridation; this is still a controversial issue.

Perhaps education is not the term Health Commissioner Zimmerman wants. What can real education win — the opening of a few minds, the habit of raising questions? Of all the pamphlets distributed to the dental health conferees in Iowa City yesterday, not one raised the legitimate objections to fluoridation, and when only one side is presented we do not speak of education; we speak of propaganda, brain-washing.

GEORGE DIXON — 'El Pitcho' From Cuba

WASHINGTON — People who get close-up looks at Fidel Castro seem to see the Cuban Prime Minister in many contradictory ways. Some see him as a liberator; others as merely a substitute dictator.

Some see him as a foe of Communism; others as a footsie player with the Reds. Some see him as a dedicated patriot; others as a mountebank.

I have just had the privilege of being with him three times in four successive days. I see him as a pitcher.

I have a private theory that the reason Dr. Castro appears as so many different things to so many different men is that he is an actor. He strikes me as being an artist — of the protean, or quick-change, school.

He reminds me of many carries I used to know in the old days when I traveled with an Indian show. When he is talking, I can shut my eyes and imagine I am listening to an old carnival pitcher.

Dr. Castro's English is difficult, but many of the carries of my day were no Christian Herter's for undefined usage of the Queen's tongue.

When the conquerer of Dictator Batista is holding forth, it doesn't take much imagination for me to fancy myself on a Midway listening to a persuasive spiel. The accent and twisted English do not break the spell. I knew several speller who faked an almost identical accent to ballyhoo Latin fandango sideshows. They thought it added an air of authenticity.

Dr. Castro may seem to be filibustering in broken English, but I noted that he always rambled to the point. He kept returning to his main pitch: "You like a fine time? — You come to Cuba"; "You like to swim and lie in the sun? — You come to Cuba."

As I listened to him at the meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors; at the Cuban Embassy; and again at the National Press Club, it occurred to me that a great nickname for him would be "El Pitcho." —King Features Syndicate

Nikita Consolidating Power By Weeding-Out Opponents

Wishful Thinking To Suppose Political Churnings Represent Threat To Khrushchev

By HAROLD K. MILKS Associated Press Staff Writer

Westerners who regard political churnings in several Soviet states as signs of trouble for Nikita Khrushchev are apt to find they have been engaged in wishful thinking.

Most of the upheavals were inspired by the Soviet Union's top boss, rather than resulting from any possible criticism of the man or his program. Khrushchev is simply building up his local political fences and weeding out men he regards as weak either in performance or personal loyalty.

Latest of a series of upheavals among the Soviet states came in Byelorussia where a new premier was named and shifts made in the party lineup. But veteran observers in Moscow said the move strengthened rather than weakened the man who replaced Stalin.

Nikita Khrushchev approaches the May 11 meeting of foreign ministers on German problems in by far the strongest personal position among leaders from either side of the cold war barriers.

Since taking over full governmental as well as party powers, he has ruthlessly eliminated any possible critics or opponents. He used the attack on the "anti-party group" to get rid of several, including such old line party stalwarts as Malenkov, Molotov, Kaganovich, and Bulganin.

He skillfully split the nation's outstanding military leaders to pave the way for ouster of a national hero, Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

Veteran diplomats in Moscow scoff at the possibility of any trouble for Khrushchev at home at this stage.

There is opposition to the stocky hard-talking leader and some of his policies, even within the powerful Communist party Presidium of 15, they say. But those who oppose either the man or his policies do so privately.

Khrushchev demonstrated his contempt for any possible rivalry in the Soviet hierarchy by permitting Mikhail Suslov — frequently mentioned abroad as a threat to the present ruler's position — to lead a Soviet delegation to England recently. Suslov's pro-Khrushchev behavior abroad was obvious.

"Khrushchev has nothing to worry about today," was the way one Western diplomat summed up the situation. "He is the boss. He makes the rules and the others follow them. I don't think even a major political setback or a crop failure in the virgin lands would shake him much these days."

When Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko goes to Geneva for the May meeting of foreign ministers, he will spend a lot of time on the telephone. Khrushchev will be on the other end of the line.

"Whatever Gromyko says on any subject, where he talks hard or soft," said an oldtime diplomat in Moscow, "the voice may be his but the words will be Nikita's."

Observers have noted a steady tendency since Khrushchev reached the top. More and more, they say, Nikita is taking over the reins of governmental and party activity. More and more it is Khrushchev — and Nikita Khrushchev alone — whose name appears day after day on the front page of Pravda.

played by a largely student orchestra, it simply did not rate the glorification given it in comparison with the harsh treatment accorded the Petrouchka of the Minneapolis concert—a work recognized as one of the finest extant instrumental compositions of the century played by a top-flight ensemble.

Briefly though, Stravinsky is difficult for many to grasp, and an excellent performance played as intended—may even tend to confuse and irritate those unfamiliar with its character—such as Mr. Goodson.

Tchaikovsky's Fourth, a melodious, thrilling, and easily appreciated work even when ineptly performed—this our "critic" understood and enjoyed; while the Minneapolis Brahms Second, a more lofty and complex work of the same Romantic period, seemed to confound him.

Mr. Goodson's candor and enthusiasm, while fitting admirably into the style of Max Shulman's Barefoot Boy With Cheek, finds little application in an ostensibly artistic endeavor such as a review.

'Transitory Citizens'—Yes

To the Editor:

Almost every town and village in the United States has some sign of spring. In Iowa City it is students wasting time on a river bank or making nightly visits to the taverns.

Many inhabitants of this city, though realizing that the students contribute greatly to their prosperity, would I think, feel that these students could contribute something more to the city than this. A citizen by definition involves an allegiance to the city and a share in the privileges and freedoms delegated to him by the city.

I have not found this allegiance, among students I have known but have found them equally anxious to share in the privileges and freedoms extended to all citizens of the town. Seemingly the only advantages taken by the students are those the city offers in the supply and entertainment areas.

Other privileges extended to actual citizens of Iowa City accrue from voting and paying taxes to the city. Any group of people who do not vote or pay taxes are by definition transitory. This fact should be well known to those students from towns having transitory labor markets. The city would be rare

Max Shulman Of Reviewing?

To the Editor:

Although the musically informed in Iowa City paid him no heed, it is possible that some readers, with little information, have actually been influenced by the last two so-called "reviews" by the "campus critic"—one John Goodson. It is most annoying to find a person entrusted with some measure of duty and responsibility, using his position as a vehicle for worn-out metaphors and pompous displays of ill-founded criticism.

In dilettante Goodson's latest adventure in the fine arts, he felt compelled to substantiate his past mistakes by a final stab at the recent Minneapolis Symphony Concert (very bad form for a critic). These two articles afford readers a much clearer picture of the ability of our "campus critic."

The belief that one demonstrates his shrewdness by listening in unbecoming silence and applauding reservedly, after a concert such as Minneapolis performed, is juvenile indeed—and Goodson has neither the skill nor the authority to question another's personal enjoyment of the art. He, as critic, is to review the performance, not give a dogmatic appraisal of the audience's intelligence or discrimination because they enjoyed or did not (as in the SUJ concert) applaud sufficiently to satisfy him.

Unquestionably Goodson was correct, and it was quite widely acknowledged, that the second trumpet man in the Minneapolis and the soloist in the recent Hayden were somewhat flat—this criticism is defensible, as is tone coloration, etc. capable of being compared. Beyond that and similar areas of criticism our "campus critic" obviously lost control of and foundered in his subject.

With all due credit to Professor Hervig's modern "novelty" symphony (as Goodson described it)

Cleveland Rolls To 9th Win In 10 Starts

Ninth Setback In Ten Games For Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Reliever Dick Bredowski put down a budding Detroit rally in the fifth inning and hurriedly shut out the rest of the way, saving Cleveland's 10-4 triumph over the Tigers Thursday.

Billy Martin slammed a 3-run homer that helped sink his teammates and paced a 10-hit attack off six Detroit pitchers.

The victory gave the Indians a sweep of the 3-game series, and all the victories were lopsided scores. Cleveland, winner of 9 of its first 10 games, took the other contests by 14-1 and 10-1 margins.

Detroit used 15 pitchers in the series as Cleveland collected 41 base hits, and every man on the Tiger staff except Bill Hoelt saw service.

The Tigers, now eight full games out of the lead after dropping 9 of 10 decisions, have failed to get a complete game out of the pitching staff figured to be one of the most effective in the American League.

CHICAGO (AP) — Home runs by Walt Moryn and Dale Long and a 2-run single by Ernie Banks carried the Chicago Cubs to a 6-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday.

Moe Drabowsky, a 23-year-old right-hander who hasn't gone the route since last July 5, failed again but was credited with his first triumph against one loss after being driven from the mound in the ninth inning.

Drabowsky had a 3-hitter going until the ninth when Bill White led off with his first homer and Gene Green followed with a single.

Don Elston took over, got Hall Smith to hit into a double play, walked pinch batter Joe Cunningham and fanned pinch hitter Ray Jablonski to end the game.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators collected only three hits Thursday but exploited Yankee pitcher Bob Turley's seventh inning lapse of control for all the runs they needed in a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees.

Turley, mixing his blazing fast ball with change of pace curves, pitched six shutout innings until he lost his touch.

Jim Lemon led off the seventh

BOSTON (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles rallied for three runs in the eighth inning Thursday then choked off a budding Red Sox threat to preserve an 8-7 victory.

Fleet center fielder Willie Tasby was the big gun in Baltimore's come-from-behind effort, driving in four runs on an homer and two singles.

Baltimore Manager Paul Richards used 22 players, including six pitchers in taking a 2-1 edge in the 3-game series. In all, there were 24 hits and 19 men left on base in the 3-hour, 22 minute game.

With Boston ahead 7-5 in the eighth, Jim Finigan, pinch hitter Brooks Robinson and Whitey Lockman stroked singles to produce one run; Chico Carrasquel added another single to tie it up, and Tasby produced the winning run with another single to center.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pinch hitter Gene Freese blasted a 2-run homer in the ninth inning Thursday night and the Philadelphia Phillies came from behind 4-3 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Freese, who last Saturday had socked a grand slam home run in his only other appearance at the plate this year, batted for Valmy Thomas and blasted a drive into the upper left field stands, scoring Joe Koppe who had walked to open the inning.

After pinch hitter John Easton was called out on strikes and Richie Ashburn lined out, Hamner followed with a drive into the upper

Right-hander Ray Semproch, making his first start of the season, picked up his second victory. Southpaw Juan Pizarro was charged with the loss.

Big Ten Baseball Opens Today; Hawks Meet Indiana

By JIM BREAGY Staff Writer

With 15 non-conference games under its belt, Coach Otto Vogel's Hawkeye baseball team opens the Big Ten season this weekend with three games. Righthander Roger Rudeen (1-4) goes against Indiana this afternoon at 3:30 p.m. He is currently hitting at .276 but has produced only one RBI.

Third basemen Don Peden is another fixture in the Hawkeye lineup. He is hitting at .296 but a check of the boxscores shows that he has reached base, with bases on balls and other devices, 31 times in 68 trips.

Mauren At Leadoff
Football halfback Jerry Mauren is using his speed this spring beating out rollers and thieving bases. He is hitting .275, has stolen three times and has been patrolling any one of the three garden areas. "I'll keep Mauren in there," says Otto.

"he's a good leadoff man... he really gets down the base line."

The second base combination of Mike Bougdanos (.280) and Lester Kewney (.118, he only hits triples) appears set as the Big Ten season opens. Bougdanos has been a steady performer throughout all fifteen games with only six errors and a .915 fielding average. Kewney took over the shortstop position when Jack Leabo came up with a sore arm.

With Rudeen going this afternoon, Vogel will choose from four others—Bob Pearl, Allan Bachman, Allan Klinger and Dick Clauson—for Saturday's starting assignments. Pearl has been bothered with a turned ankle lately and Klinger complains of a dead arm. The latter has been playing a lot of centerfield and is sporting a .313 batting average.

With Indiana the Hawk pitching staff will be in for a stiff test. The Hoosiers collected 71 runs on 80 hits against non-conference opposition. They are 8 and 6 for the season.

3 High-Average Hitters
First basemen Ken Smith is pacing the team at the plate with a .484 average and two home runs. Outfielder Don Foreman, .412, and shortstop John Anderson, .378, are other big hitters. Anderson has driven 15 runs. Foreman 11 and Smith 10.

Righthander Paul Michaels, who is likely to get the nod today, has worked more than any other Hoosier pitcher—21 1/3 innings. He has an impressive 2.08 earned run average and 23 strikeouts. In his last appearance against Taylor College, Michaels fanned 12 in six innings.

HAWK SHORTS . . . Arizona, Iowa's early season opponent has gone on to great things since the Hawkeyes were at Tucson. The Wildcats have won 26, lost 4, tied 2 so that Iowa's 2-3-1 record against them looks quite respectable, now . . . Charlie Lee, who is foregoing football this spring to play baseball, is taking a lot of ribbing from his gridiron mates for his lowly .050 batting average. Even Coach Evashevski joined in the fun when—Lee dropped over to watch spring football practice one day last week.

Five lengths behind Duce was W. M. Ingram's Scotland, who held on for third place in the field of nine Kentucky Derby eligibles.

Tomy Lee, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner Jr., was clocked in 1:48 3/5 seconds for the mile and an eighth race, a furlong less than the derby.

The winner, carrying derby weight of 126 pounds, returned $2.60, $2.40 and $2.20.

The victory, Tomy Lee's eighth in 12 starts, earned $21,557 for the Turners, bringing the Colt's bankroll to $252,517.

Duce, carrying the colors of Claiborne Farm, collected $6,518. Scotland picked up $9,255, and Mrs. Carrie C. Hillock's Quantrell received $1,627 for fourth.

Title Fight Jordan-Akins Rated Even

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The odds were even both on the title fight and the fact it will be held between world welterweight champion Don Jordan of Los Angeles and ex-champ Virgil Akins of St. Louis in Kiel Auditorium tonight.

This 15-round encore to Jordan's upset victory over Akins in Los Angeles Dec. 5 has staggered into reality after two postponements by causes far removed from the realm of fisticuffing.

A tornado which ripped the arena erased the first scheduled bout March 6. Then the bout was shifted from April 3 to April 24 because of the illness of Jordan's wife.

The match will be attended by an estimated 7,500 and viewed on national television via NBC at 9 p.m. Iowa time.

The 31-year-old Akins was bewildered, bewitched and belabored by Jordan's quick and persistent attack in Los Angeles. Early in that fight, Akins seemed to act as if he wished the whole thing would finish soon.

Akins, who has a 49-19-1 record, has lost only twice in 25 fights in his home town of St. Louis. That may explain why the odds are hovering at 5 to 6, pick 'em.

Jordan, 24, has done fairly well on the road in compiling his 44 victories in 55 starts. The champ has won 13 of 16 bouts — five by knockouts — away from Los Angeles.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Tomy Lee, the odds-on favorite, took the lead at the turn Thursday, held off a challenge by Duce, and raced to a head victory in the $32,550 Bluegrass Stakes at Keeneland.

Five lengths behind Duce was W. M. Ingram's Scotland, who held on for third place in the field of nine Kentucky Derby eligibles.

Tomy Lee, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner Jr., was clocked in 1:48 3/5 seconds for the mile and an eighth race, a furlong less than the derby.

Mostly Baseball

While going over my textbooks the other day I counted 648 players on the rosters of the 16 major league teams, but only three from our great state of Iowa.

Thus Iowa is represented by a slim 1.9 per cent of the major league total—and not a regular among them. The three are Pittsburgh's Gene Baker (Davenport), Cincinnati's Haven Schmidt (Maquoketa), and the Chicago White Sox' Hal Trosky, Jr. (born in Cleveland, O. but now a Cedar Rapids resident).

Why should a state of Iowa's size be so under-represented in big time baseball? There is certainly no lack of baseball enthusiasm, the host of minor league teams sprinkled throughout the state will testify to that.

In Northern Iowa, especially, baseball is played with the same fervor that hockey is played in Canada, yet only three Iowans were carried on the big league rosters at the start of the season—and only Schmidt from the northern sector of our sober, backward little domain.

One big reason is that many high schools are dropping baseball from their curriculums, and concentrating on track, tennis, golf and other sports. This seems to be in direct contrast to the boom the Little Leagues have enjoyed in Iowa.

Kids get a chance to play organized baseball early in life and then when they reach high school and the age when the extra push is all they need, they find no baseball team.

Of the three Iowans I named above, only Baker has played much under the big top, but he is now on the disabled list with an injured knee. Trosky, a pitcher, and Schmidt, a catcher, are youngsters and still a year or so away it seems.

In the meantime, we Iowans who follow major league baseball will pick our heroes from other states and wait for another Bob Feller. It was over 20 years ago that Feller went from Van Meter to Cleveland and stardom and from the looks of things we may have to wait another 20 years for another bona fide Iowa major leaguer.

The second annual Varsity Alumni football game will be Saturday afternoon, May 9 and I would like to offer a suggestion to those planning to attend. Buy your tickets in advance.

Several hundred fans missed the pre-game presentations and most of the first quarter when only one ticket booth was used and one heck of a mess resulted. In disgust, the many people broke out of the slow, slow-moving line and swarmed tickless through the gate.

To avoid a repeat performance buy your tickets early. I suspect more than one ticket window will be open this time, but why gamble? The opening kickoff is the biggest thrill of the game.

Reichardt, Rice, Tunnell To Play On Alumni Squad

The "old timers" of Hawkeye football don't want to be overshadowed by the youngsters of the 1956 and 1958 championship Iowa teams.

One of the ways to prove that they still can play football is to sign up for the Alumni-Varsity game in Iowa stadium May 9. And the first three of the older group to accept are among the finest in Iowa history: Emlen Tunnell, Bill Reichardt and George (Dusty) Rice, all backs.

Tunnell Pro Since '48

Tunnell is the eldest of the trio but he has played the greatest amount of football. He has played for the New York Giants since 1948 and is rated as one of the great defensive backs in pro history.

Em, now 35 years old, still is the joint holder of one Iowa record, that for most touchdowns in one game, three against Indiana in 1947. Two of his other records, most passes caught, six, and most yards gained on passes, 155, have since been broken. The mark broken most recently was most yards, cracked in 1957 by Jim Gibbons with 464.

"Dusty" Rice, who completed his Iowa career in 1953, still holds the Big Ten record for a touchdown on kickoff return, 100 yards. He made the mark at Purdue in his first conference game as a sophomore. Rice also is the shareholder of the Hawkeye mark for most touchdowns in one game, three, against Wyoming and again against Minnesota in 1953.

Rice Service Vet

The former Delwin star played considerable ball in the Air Force, especially in service games in Japan. As an Iowa senior, Rice averaged 5.5 yards per carry in 1953 and topped Iowa scorers with 60 points.

Rugged Bill Reichardt was all-conference fullback in 1951. He won the Chicago Tribune's silver football trophy as the league's most valuable player. Bill still holds the Iowa record for the most rushes during the season, 178; most yards gained rushing, 737, in nine games; and most rushes per game, 31, vs. Minnesota. His 35-yard field goal against Purdue in 1951 equals the modern Iowa record.

Helps With Ticket Sales

Now a Des Moines business man, Reichardt also played in the 1958 Alumni-Varsity game. He is helping with the sale of spring game tickets in Des Moines.

With the expectation of a large crowd, athletic department officials advise the purchase of tickets in advance, thereby helping fans to avoid congestion at the ticket windows in the stadium before the game. Tickets for the public are $2 and for students $1, and can be obtained from the ticket office at the Fieldhouse.

Iowa coaching staff members expect numerous other former Iowans to return. First practice is set for Wednesday, May 6. Among the men from the 1956 and 1958 Big Ten title teams who already have said they will appear are Frank Gilliam, Bob Prescott, Mac Lewis, John Burroughs, Gary Grouwink, Hugh Drake, Don Suchy and Charles Pierce.

Injuries Slight As Hawks Finish 8th Spring Drill

Despite the hard work that Iowa's spring football candidates have been going through injuries have been few as practice entered its eighth day Thursday.

Veteran halfback Ray Jauch sustained a knee sprain in Saturday's scrimmage and has been working out without pads this week.

Bill Reif, freshman guard and a Nile Kinnick Scholar, is also injured. Reif dislocated his left shoulder in Tuesday's workout aggravating an old high school injury.

Curt Merz is still taking light workouts in sweatclothes exercising the knee that was operated on in late February. Merz will not participate in any contact this spring but Trainer Doyle Allsup reports that the big end is making good progress.

The team went through a comparatively light scrimmage Thursday then ran plays against dummies.

PLAYER BENEFITS

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—National Football League club owners Thursday granted their players a league-paid hospitalization, medical life insurance and retirement benefit.

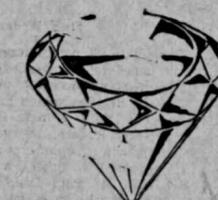

NFL Commissioner Bert Bell announced the program which he said was approved unanimously by the owners. He said the plan would be administered by the trustees yet to be appointed.

Under the plan, all active NFL players became eligible immediately for hospitalization, medical and life insurance benefits. The life insurance ranges from a minimum of $20,000, depending on length of service. Any player who is ill and in financial distress can borrow up to $1,000 from the plan.

Dag, Herter Meet On Paris Strategy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter conferred Thursday for more than two hours with United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld as he prepared for critical Cold War negotiations with Russia in the Berlin and German problems.

Herter and Hammarskjöld, who returned earlier this month from talks with Soviet leaders in Russia, discussed a variety of topics, including the current German situation, the State Department reported.

Hammarskjöld said after the meeting that the services of the U.N. might be available in the Berlin crisis if the Big Four powers decided that the world organization could serve a useful role at some future stage in the negotiations.

Associates of Herter said he was optimistic that the Western foreign ministers, who meet in Paris next week, will hammer out strategy for the negotiations with Russia at the May 11 Geneva conference, will be able to resolve their differences and reach an agreement.

Herter will leave Monday for the Paris meeting, which begins Wednesday and is expected to last about three days. He plans to return to Washington for about five days before going back to Europe for the Geneva meeting.

With Hammarskjöld and Herter at Thursday's meeting were the U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, Henry Cabot Lodge, and Walter N. Wamsley, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for International Organization Affairs.

Herter, after his participation in the recent western ministerial meetings here, is well aware of the difficulties of getting full allied agreement on a package proposal to present to Russia at Geneva.

He was said to be particularly concerned by the reluctance of the West Germans to accept some portions of the American plan for a phased approach to German unification through a step-by-step process of increasing political, economic and cultural relations between the two parts of the divided country.

Top officials acknowledged that American, British, French and West German diplomatic experts, who have been meeting in London the past 10 days, have yet to achieve full accord.

However, they said they expected the difference to be narrowed and most of them solved by the Western foreign ministers at their Paris sessions beginning Wednesday.

U.S. officials were heartened by the agreement of the British to tie their central European troops and arms limitation plan into the U.S. step-by-step program for German reunification.

These officials said the West German attitude, which already has caused Herter considerable concern, remains the major stumbling block in the way of allied agreement.

The West Germans still are reluctant to accept those stages of the American plan for reunification that suggest any form of confederation between the two parts of the divided country.

American officials have eliminated the word "confederation" from the plan but still propose creation of a committee, council and consultative assembly of the two Germans before the country is actually unified under free elections.

He said the present challenge to businessmen was to prove that free market economy "can out-produce any other kind of economy known to man."

"The old saying was that 'trade follows the flag,' he said, 'today we can say 'the flag follows trade,' but the flag of which I speak is an international banner, that of freedom and peace.'

In his talk, the President said other nations were vitally interested in the fiscal soundness of the United States.

Governor Threatens Force To Keep Peace In Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Gov. A. B. Chandler warned that the "power of the state" would be used to enforce peace in the eastern Kentucky coal fields, as the third mediation conference between coal operators and United Mine Workers Union officials ended unsuccessfully Thursday.

The conference between the two sides and state officials was adjourned after three hours with no progress reported toward ending the 47-day-old strike.

State Commissioner of Economic Security Vego Barnes, conference chairman, termed the negotiations at "an impasse."

He said the governor told the negotiators he considered a 13-point "peaceful picketing" agreement a "code of ethics" in the mine dispute and added, "the power of the state of Kentucky will be used to enforce these 13 points."

National and District UMW officials have said the Union would not be bound by the agreement.

Harrison Combs, Washington, association counsel for the UMW, said the UMW position is the same as that taken by District 30 President Carson Hibbits in his letter to the governor renouncing the 13-point agreement on April 16.

Hibbits' letter listed numerous alleged violations of the agreement and charged the coal operators with negotiating in "bad faith."

W. A. Boyle, assistant to UMW President John L. Lewis, claimed neither the operators nor the governor's representatives "wanted to talk contract" at the meeting.

More than 120 SUI fraternity and sorority members will take part in the annual Greek Week community service project Saturday at Lake Macbride and Camp Coralville.

About 60 Greeks will work in the Lake Macbride area on a knoll about one-fourth mile from the lake. Brush covering an area of about 100 sq. ft. will be cleared out, and stone fireplaces will be built.

The other half of the group will work at the Coralville Girl Scout Camp. They will clean up the area and paint one of the camp buildings.

The Greeks will begin work at 9:30 a.m. At 12:45 p.m. the two groups will meet at Lake Macbride for a picnic which is being paid for with funds received when a "meatless meal" was served in each of the houses during Greek Week.

Judy Jones, A3, Moline, Ill., and Gene A. Bier, A3, Mason City, are the co-chairmen in charge of the Greek Week service project.

Greek Week was held in February, but the project was postponed until weather conditions permitted work in Lake Macbride and Camp Coralville areas.

Average City Property Tax Hits $216

The average Iowa City property owner is paying $216.90 property tax per year and the municipal governments share of this is $72.44 or one-third, according to a report given by City Manager Peter Roan at the biennial meeting of the Council-Manager Association.

This report, which is being printed in pamphlet form and will be mailed to 8,000 homes in Iowa, also listed the complete sources of income of Iowa City for this year.

General taxation supplies 60 per cent of the income, parking meters 11 per cent, sewer rentals 6 per cent, fire service fees 4 per cent, liquor tax refund 2 per cent, swimming pool fees 1 per cent and all other sources 6 per cent.

The chief items for which the city's share of property taxes are used, as listed in the report, are streets, sanitation, police department, safety building, parks and recreation, employee retirement, general fund and fire department.

Other items include lighting and hydrants, the library, debt service, airport, cemetery and city assessor.

Besides the city government's 33.4 per cent of the total property tax funds, the rest of the funds are divided in the following manner: schools 54.6 per cent, Johnson County 11.5 per cent, and the State of Iowa 0.5 per cent.

Red China Claims Tibetans Lost 2000

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China Thursday claimed its troops killed, wounded or captured 2,000 Tibetans in a punitive offensive against anti-Communist forces in southern Tibet. It made no mention of Chinese casualties.

The Reds, at the same time, sounded new warnings for India to keep out of Tibetan affairs. The official Peiping People's Daily said that some "hot-headed" Indian officials were "going too far" in criticizing China. A speaker at the Peiping National People's Congress said friendly relations between India and China were in "serious jeopardy."

Claims of "tremendous victories" scored by the Chinese troops in Tibet came in a dispatch of the official New China News Agency, Broadcast by Radio Peiping. It indicated the offensive ended only a few days ago and that the Red Army now has controlled all key points in southern Tibet.

But, it indicated Tibetans still were operating outside towns and villages. It said Red troops were "hunting down a few remnant bands who have fled to remote mountainous areas."

The description of the battle indicated that the anti-Communist forces' control of the vast region was far more extensive than originally believed.

The news agency said that when the rebellion was crushed in Lhasa, Chinese troops were "ordered to take punitive military action against the Tibetan clique of traitors."

Army units swept southward in a three-pronged drive from Lhasa on April 8 across hundreds of miles in 10 days of action and "mopped up the hard-pressed rebels."

The Tibetan forces, it asserted, "constantly received arms from abroad and supplies air-dropped from unidentified foreign planes."

"In more than 10 days of fighting," Peiping said, "the People's Liberation Army Troops captured over 30 Dzong and Chi (administrative units) south of the Tsangpo River, east of Gyantse, north of the Himalaya Mountains and West of Tsela Dzong."

It was the first official admission by the Communists of the extent to which the revolt had spread. Tibetan refugees had reported a massive Red offensive from Lhasa southward.

The broadcast claimed that all key points in the border area of the Loka area and in the northern ranges of the Himalaya Mountains are now completely under the control of our army."

But it said that "a part of the rebellious (Tibetan) elements fled to India."

Sherry Seeman, A3, Des Moines, has developed a new system of waking up in the mornings. At night she places a sign on her door saying: "To anyone passing by at 7:30 a.m. Please stop in and wake me up. My roommate is lazy. P.S. So am I. P.P.S. If this sign is still up at 8 a.m., for pete's sake, do something!"

She reported that the only result was a girl rushing in one night before Sherry was in bed to tell her it was after 8 o'clock.

Continuing the "pale look" fight: We see a hint of hope in the recent news article concerning lipstick shades banned by the Food and Drug Administration. Seventeen cosmetic colors, says the Administration, have been proved poisonous and will no longer be used in lipsticks and other make-up.

It's our fervent prayer that the ban will include the pastel colors currently so popular in "high fashion" circles.

Last weekend about 20 future dental hygienists, all members of their professional fraternity, Alpha Kappa Gamma, climbed into a chartered bus and headed for two busy days on a farm near Monmouth, Ill.

The girls were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Livingston, whose daughter, Jean, is a senior in dental hygiene. The city girls were treated with lessons on how to drive tractors, a trip to "Muddy Corners" country schoolhouse, and the fun of watching the "cute little pigs."

The Rock Island Argus covered the event and plans to feature the girls in their farm magazine Sunday. The photographer suggested that the girls pile into a picture much like the ones of pile-ups in sports cars and phone booths. The girls obliged but just as he was about to take the picture, the iron supporters on the swing bent, landing swing with girls on the ground.

The Monmouth Review-Atlas also noted the girls' arrival. The society page item identified the girls as members of SU1's mental hygiene fraternity!

'Hootch', Bad Gun Prevent Jail Riot

BOSTON (UPI) — A defective .32 caliber revolver and a jug of lemon "hootch" — the tools of rebellion — were found Thursday in Concord Reformatory where a drunken kidnaper led an abortive uprising.

Supt. Edward S. Grennan made the disclosure even as the Middlesex County district attorney's men questioned each of the 59 convicts and their 15 hostages.

The gun was the one held by Charles (Bull) Martin, 38, who threatened mass homicide unless he was set free. The lemon extract in a gallon jug stolen from the prison kitchen gave him the courage to defy his keepers.

The riot was quelled in less than four hours as state police moved in — lobbing tear gas shells into the cell block fortress and cutting through the bars with acetylene torches.

Martin, a stocky, sad-eyed hoodlum, was clearly drunk, the hostages reported. "But they'd all been drinking," said one correction official.

Guard Fred Bobola, 31, heard the metallic click of a revolver as the barrel pressed against his head. The gun misfired. Another shot fired at another hostage went wild.

Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) will present the bust at ceremonies in the Outagamie County courthouse. The presentation was financed by a fund established by Republican groups in Wisconsin, the Connecticut Veterans of Foreign Wars and interested individuals.

The bust, in "heroic" proportions — twice life size — is by Suzanne Silvercray Stevenson who has done likenesses of many public figures, including a bust of former President Hoover at the university in Louisville and a bust of Lord Tweedsmuir in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

Senate Committee OKs Luce To Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday approved the nomination of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce to be U.S. Ambassador to Brazil by a 16 to 1 margin. The nomination now goes to the Senate where confirmation was assured.

Sen. Wayne L. Morse (D-Ore.), who announced his opposition to Mrs. Luce in advance, cast the only dissenting committee ballot.

Committee Chairman J. William Fulbright joined Morse last week in subjecting Mrs. Luce to sharp questioning about her past political speeches. He voted for the nomination, however.

Morse's principal objection was a speech in which Mrs. Luce, the wife of Henry R. Luce, editor-in-chief of Time, Life and Fortune, and other magazines, said that former President Franklin D. Roosevelt "lied" the United States into World War II.

The Oregon Senator also took exception to other election camaign statements made in 1944, 1946 and 1952 by the former GOP congresswoman and Ambassador to Italy.

Mrs. Luce, 56, a playwright and author before she entered politics and diplomacy, filed a supplemental statement with the committee after the stormy public hearing seeking to document some of the statements to which Morse had objected.

She retracted none of her statements, but conceded during the hearing that some of her language had been "intemperate."

Mrs. Luce, a trim, ash-blond, was a Republican House member from Connecticut for two terms and served three years during the first part of the Eisenhower administration as this country's Ambassador to Rome. Morse also criticized her conduct as Ambassador.

She was named Feb. 26 to succeed Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs at Rio De Janeiro.

DAR Renews Demand For United States' Withdrawal From UN, Vice Versa

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The daughters of the American Revolution voted Thursday to renew its twin demand that the United States withdraw from the United Nations and tell the international organization to get off American soil.

The unscheduled move came as the 3,000 delegates to the DAR's 58th Continental Congress balloted on new officers to guide the organization for the next three years.

The U.N. resolution, first adopted last year, was omitted from the list of proposals originally slated to be brought up for consideration this year. There were reports that the omission was prompted by the widespread criticism of last year's action.

Meg And Prince Have Cocktails

ROME (U) — Princess Margaret went for cocktails Thursday night at the home of the young Italian prince who is her dancing partner at a gay Roman night club party.

A British Embassy spokesman said the 28-year-old British princess has been invited to the Villa Savoia, once a home of Italian kings and now the residence of Prince Enrico of Hesse.

Prince Enrico, 31, is a descendant of the Italian house of Savoy and the German house of Hesse.

Margaret danced until almost 5 a.m. Thursday at a party given for her by old London friends in the fashionable Cabata night club.

Margaret slept past noon. She spent the afternoon sightseeing and went to Prince Enrico's for cocktails without Queen Mother Elizabeth. The two royal ladies — the mother and sister of Queen Elizabeth II — are in Rome on a five-day unofficial visit.

Federal Indictment Cites Companies In Oil Act Abuse

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Standard Oil Company of Texas, Pasotex Pipeline Co. of Houston, another company and four individuals have been named in a secret federal indictment charging violation of the Connally Hot Oil Act. U.S. Attorney William B. West, III, said Thursday.

The indictments were returned on April 16 by a Federal Court Grand Jury in Dallas, West said. They involved 17 counts of violating the Connally Hot Oil Act and one count of conspiracy.

Oil "in excess of 50,000 barrels" in a Scurry County operation was involved," West said.

The Connally Hot Oil Act was authored by former Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex.), and passed by Congress in the 1930s to put teeth in state conservation laws.

In essence, the Connally Hot Oil Act makes it a federal violation to move in interstate commerce any oil produced in excess of fixed state allowances.

Convictions usually result in stiff fines against the companies and individuals involved.

New York Investment Bankers Disclose Offer To Buy Railway Express Agency

NEW YORK (UPI) — The investment banking house of Lehman Bros. has made an offer to 66 major railroads to buy their interest in Railway Express Agency, it was disclosed today.

Frank Manheim, a Lehman Bros. partner, confirmed that the offer had been made but said he could not reveal the amount.

William B. Johnson, Railway Express president, said, however, that no decision yet had been reached on the offer or "a number of other plans" for the future of the Express Agency.

Manheim said that Lehman Bros. believed that the Agency could be operated in such a way as to compete with the government-run parcel post service.

The 66 rail owners of the Railway Express have between now and Thursday to decide whether to withdraw from their agreements and hence terminate the 120-year-old Express business, or whether it is possible to continue the business on a reorganized basis.

The New York Central formally gave notice last Dec. 24 that it would withdraw as of Jan. 1, 1960. Central cited the Agency's heavy operating losses as the reason for its decision.

Three Killed, Seven Injured In KC Chemical Plant Blasts

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (U) — Three men were killed Thursday in an explosion that wrecked the black-long production and storage plant of the Thompson-Hughes Chemical Co.

The other workmen were injured, and two firemen were hurt as fire companies battled the flames.

The first thundering blast, a few minutes before the day shift was to report, rattled dishes and windows 12 miles away, and sent aloft a boiling black cloud of smoke.

Other blasts followed as the flames reached other parts of the one-story plant, used mainly in the production of weed-killer containing isopropyl alcohol, methanol, acids and solvents.

Ador John Wayne, Linked To Panama Revolt, Claims Only Business Connection

PANAMA CITY, (UPI) — Panama Thursday linked movie actor John Wayne, hero of scores of Hollywood adventure epics, with the accused mastermind of a plot to overthrow the Panamanian Government. Wayne repudiated the connection was limited to business.

Presidential Press Secretary Salustiano Chacon said a memorandum found in a blue canvas suitcase belonging to accused revolutionary Roberto (Tito) Arias mentioned Wayne in connection with the payment of more than half a million dollars for Arias' "Panamanian operations."

Wayne said in Hollywood he had been "in business with the Arias family for a long time," and he was shocked at reports that Arias was involved in a revolutionary plot.

2 New Missiles Launched By AF

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The supersonic "Hound Dog" missile, a new bomber-launched weapon with a range of several hundred miles, made its flight debut Thursday and met its test objectives.

The Air Force disclosed the new missile was launched over the Atlantic missile range by a B-52 bomber at 1:29 p.m.

In another significant rocket development, the Air Force launched a test vehicle off the west coast of Florida to test a parachute designed to slow the descent of a man or instrument package plunging back to earth after a trip through space.

Officials said the rocket reached an altitude of more than 15 miles above the earth. The test, conducted at Santa Rosa Island near Eglin Air Force Base, was part of the nation's "man in space" program.

The Hound Dog is designed to carry a nuclear warhead. A winged missile, it would enable Strategic Air Command bombers to stay out of range of enemy defenses while attacking distant targets.

Officials said only that the missile "successfully met its test objectives." They did not disclose how far the weapon traveled.

Powered by a J-52 jet engine produced by Pratt & Whitney, Inc., the Hound Dog has a gyroscopic guidance system which cannot be jammed.

Cotton Mills Defy Order, Won't Yield

HENDERSON, N.C. (UPI)—Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills refused a request by Gov. Luther H. Hodges to shut down its violence torn night shift until a labor dispute is settled.

Mills President John D. Cooper Jr. said suspending night shift operations "would be an absolute surrender to force and violence."

Non-union employees and non-strikers have been placed in jobs on the night shift, displacing members of the Textile Workers Union of America (AFL-CIO) who agreed to end a 23-week-old strike last weekend. Fresh violence erupted Monday when Union members found only about 30 jobs available instead of approximately 250 they expected.

Hodges rushed in 100 state troopers following the Monday night violence. The frightened night shift employees spent the night in the mills, fearing for their safety outside. Gunfire and dynamiting incidents have occurred each night.

He wired Cooper a request that he shut down the night shift and cancel plans for the third shift because of mob demonstrations outside the mills. One man was wounded and a number of cars peppered by gunfire last night.

He said the company was "certainly not responsible" for Hodges' being misled regarding the number of jobs available. Cooper said that Boyd Payton, Carolina director for the TWUA, was told at the apparent settlement meeting last Friday that "he could not assume all of the jobs on the second and third shifts were open."

Police said there apparently was "nothing to" reports that a woman was wounded by gunfire in last night's violence.

Fred Bowles, a striker, was wounded by a .38 pistol bullet in the right shoulder as he stood on a railroad track near the entrance to the north mills. He said he thought the shot came from a worker's car on a street behind the space voyager back alive.
