Victim Of Mob Lynching Found

Pearl River Debris Yields Parker Body

Fingerprints Identify Decomposed Body

BOGALUSA, La. (UPI) — The body of a Negro who was dragged from his jail cell after being accused of raping a white woman was found among driftwood in the Pearl River Monday.

The FBI identified the bleached and decomposing remains through fingerprints as the body of Mack Charles Parker, a 23-year-old Negro who was abducted from the Poplarville, Miss., jail April 25.

Parker's body was found at 10:45 a.m. floating among the debris in the river that separates Louisiana and Mississippi.

An FBI agent and a Mississippi state trooper found Parker's body, object of a long search by officials in two states. Only the head was above the water.

An FBI spokesman declined comment when asked if the cause of death was known.

The corpse was badly decomposed and discolored. The skin was bleached by the sun and water. At the time Parker was seized from his jail cell, the river was swollen from heavy rains.

The spot where the body was found is about 20 miles from Poplarville, seat of Pearl River County.

Parker was seized shortly after midnight from an unguarded third floor city jail cell by 9 or 10 masked, white-gloved men. They beat him savagely and dragged him head first down three flights of stairs to a waiting car.

Parker was awaiting trial on charges of raping a pregnant young white woman who lived until recently at Bogalusa.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, said the body was located floating in the Pearl River on the Mississippi side near Bogalusa, La., approximately 20 miles from Poplarville. No estimate of the time the body had been in the river has been made.

An FBI spokesman said investigation would continue. He said the FBI was contacting Parker's family in Lumberton, Miss., and that the body would be turned over to the family as soon as the autopsy was completed.

The FBI spokesman said the body was so badly deteriorated agents had been unable to tell if there were any cuts or rope burns on it. The mob lynching set off a stream of criticism throughout the nation, and Federal agents were requested by Mississippi's Gov. J. P. Coleman to remain on the case until it was solved.

No break in the case came until Monday when an FBI agent and a Mississippi patrolman, strolling along the banks of the Pearl River spotted Parker's head sticking out of the water.

India Play To Be Staged Off-Broadway

SUIowans To Produce "Shakuntala"

An SUI alumnus and a graduate student from India will produce the classical Indian play "Shakuntala" at St. Mark's Playhouse, Off-Broadway theatre on Second Avenue in New York City, opening the last week of September.

Lee Morgan, 1957 M.A. graduate of SUI, now drama director at Illinois College, Jacksonville, and Krishna Shah, graduate student in speech and dramatic arts at SUI, from Bombay, said tryouts for some of the 25 parts will be held at SUI in mid-May to give SUI students a chance to try out.

Jim Symons, Illinois college senior, will play the role of Dushyant, an Indian king, and Penny Thomas, graduate student from Bombay, India, now attending Drake University, Des Moines, has been cast as the Indian mountain girl, Shakuntala, who plays opposite the king.

Morgan, who wrote his masters thesis at SUI on Indian theatres, will direct the Off-Broadway production, while Shah will be co-producer, working in collaboration with Patricia Newhall, New York director-producer.

"I think that cultural exchanges are more powerful than summit conferences for developing understanding among peoples of different nations," says Shah, who came to this country first to study law at Yale University. He registered at SUI to study drama after completing work for the law degree.

"Shakuntala" was written by Kalidasa frequently referred to today as the Hindu Shakespeare of the Fifth Century. The love story of the Indian king and the mountain girl is told with poetic simplicity. The work will be the first Indian play staged on either Broadway or Off-Broadway for 40 years.

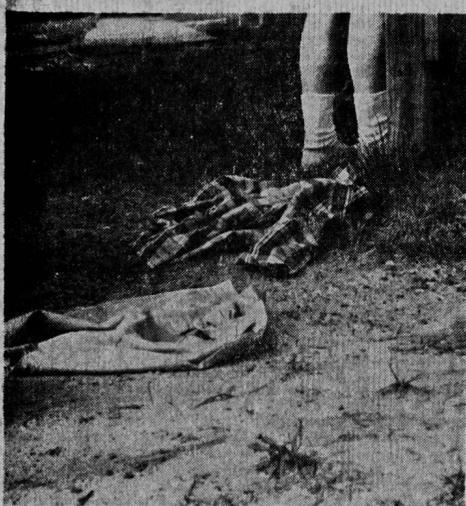

Shah's study at SUI is sponsored by the Indian National Theatre of Bombay. A play which he directed before coming to the United States is still running to full houses on the semi-professional stage in Bombay. Shah has won a number of awards in the field of theatre in Bombay.

Persons interested in the tryouts should contact Shah, 613 North Van Buren, Iowa City, or sign up at the SUI Theatre.

Pulitzer Prizes Announced, 'J.B.' Wins Drama Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Archibald MacLeish won the 1959 Pulitzer Prize for drama Monday with his first play, "J. B.," a modern rendition of the Biblical story of Job. Twice previously he had won the poetry award.

The play opened on Broadway Dec. 11, starring Raymond Massey. Last month it won the American Theater Wing's "Tony" award as the year's best play.

MacLeish, former librarian of Congress, will celebrate his 67th birthday Thursday. He won Pulitzer prizes for poetry in 1933 and 1953.

He was one of the few repeat winners in this year's list of Pulitzer Prize winners announce Monday by trustees of Columbia University.

Another was William H. Bill Mauldin of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who won his second award for cartooning.

In the field of newspaper editorials, the prize this year went to Ralph McGill of the Atlanta, Ga., Constitution for his attack on church and school terrorism by rabid minority haters.

The Pulitzer Prizes for fiction was awarded Robert Lewis Taylor's "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters." It concerns a wagon train journey to California during the 1849 gold rush. It is the 46-year-old writer's ninth book.

The gold medal for meritorious public service in journalism went to the Utica, N.Y., Observer-Dispatch and Utica Daily Press for "their successful campaign against corruption, gambling and vice in their home city and the achievement of sweeping civic reforms in the face of political pressure and threats of violence."

In a special statement, the advisory board took note of 556 nominations for this year's journalism prizes and called this "an impressive commentary of the vigilance, enterprise, courage and devotion to the public interest by scores of small and large newspapers throughout the United States."

Aside from the gold medal for distinguished public service, all of the journalism prizes are for $1,000 each.

Awards for literature and music are for $500 each.

A traveling scholarship in art was awarded to Jerome P. Wilkin, a student at Cooper Union in New York.

Most of the categories cover work done during the calendar year 1958. The exceptions are the drama and music awards, which cover the period from April 1 last year to the same date this year.

The prizes were established under a will of the late Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the New York and St. Louis Post-Dispatch. They were first awarded in 1917.

Douglas Talk To Be Held Wednesday

William O. Douglas, associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, will speak on "Democracy vs. Communism in Asia," Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

He will discuss the rising democratic institutions in Asia, and the impact of Marxism and communist tactics there along with his conception of the manner of repelling them.

His talk will also cover the contemporary problems of Red China and end with a summary of the Western relations with Soviet Russia and an appraisal of the outcome.

Since his birth in Maine, Minn., 63 years ago, he has worked in a creamery, done harvest labor in the fields of Minnesota, taught high school in Washington state, studied law at Columbia University, been a member of the law faculties of Columbia and Yale, and been a member of the Securities Exchange Commission.

In 1939 President Roosevelt appointed him to the Supreme Court. He has always been fond of the outdoors. As a youth he was stricken by infantile paralysis, and, determined to build up his legs, he took up mountain climbing, a sport he still enjoys. He is also fond of fishing and has traveled extensively.

Over the past several years he has written a number of books about his vacation adventures. Among them are "Of Men and Mountains," "North From Malaya," and "Russian Journey."

Free tickets to the Douglas lecture are available to SUI students and staff members upon presentation of their identification cards at the East Lobby desk of the IMU. They will be available until 8 p.m. Wednesday. Any tickets remaining Tuesday will be distributed to the general public.

Age Down, Tax Up On Cigarets

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Senate acted late Monday to increase the tax on a pack of cigarettes one cent.

At the same time it passed the cigarette tax bill, the Senate also lowered the age for purchasing cigarettes from 21 years to 18.

The cigarette bill, which passed 22-13 and goes back to the House for concurrence in an amendment, would increase the tax from two cents to three cents a package. It was estimated the increase would bring in $2,800,000 more a year in state revenue.

Unanimous Vote By Iowa Senate For ISC Change

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Senate Monday completed action on a measure changing the name of Iowa State College to Iowa State University.

Senate approval came on a 45-0 vote, and the measure was sent back to the House for concurrence on a minor amendment.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Robert Rigler (R-New Hampton), provides that the name change would not affect any policy on curricular or any other activities at the Ames school.

Sen. Carl Ringenberg (R-Ames) argued against the amendment, contending that it was not needed for the bill.

Rigler said by changing the name there was no attempt at altering any of the school's policies educationally or otherwise.

If Gov. Herschel Loveless signs the measure the name change would go into effect July 4.

New Attempt At Remap In Committee

DES MOINES (AP) — A third Conference Committee to tackle the deadlocked reapportionment issue was named Monday afternoon.

But little chance for solution was seen as the Legislature stepped up its pace in a move toward possible mid-week adjournment.

Named to the latest committee from the Senate were Gene Hoffman of Algona, Democrats, and Jake Mincks of Ottumwa, Democrats, and Duane Dewel of Algona and John Shoeman of Atlantic, Republicans.

The House named Robert Wilson of Cedar Rapids and Casey Loss of Algona, Democrats, and Bernard Balch of Waterloo and Conrad Ossian of Stanton, Republicans.

The new committee was named after a second Conference Committee headed by Sen. W. C. Stuart (R-Chariton) failed to reach agreement Monday on any redistricting plan.

Although any reapportionment plan this session appeared hopelessly tangled, some legislators were keeping up the fight for a compromise plan.

The last one has been offered by Sen. Jack Miller (R-Sioux City). It would have a Senate based on population and a House apportioned on area.

Miller told the legislators that adjournment would be impossible without resolving first the question of legislative reapportionment.

The second Conference Committee had stalled on a plan which would have provided for a 55 member Senate, based on area, and a House of about 110 members apportioned according to population.

Stuart said that although the proposal was given some support last Friday, it was unable to muster enough votes to get out of committee Monday.

The first conference committee appointed to iron out the differences reported Thursday. The Senate accepted the report but the House refused it.

After the second committee failed to reach an agreement Monday there was a period of doubt as to what should be done.

One proposal was to abandon the effort as useless. Another was to appoint a committee of eight from each house to study it further.

'Regular' Now 19.9 Cents Per Gallon

A low of 19.9 cents per gallon for regular gasoline was expected to spread through Iowa City and Coralville this morning as the local "gas war" swings into its second week.

Gasoline dealers said they expected the action as a result of similar price slash Monday by a major gasoline dealer in efforts to end the "gas war."

Independent gasoline dealers, whose prices are normally two cents below those of major stations, matched the 19.9 cent figure Monday, but indicated they did not expect to drop prices below this figure.

Most major dealers were selling regular gasoline Monday at 26.9 cents per gallon and premium at 30.9 cents. Normal prices for major gasoline dealers are 32.9 cents for regular and 35.9 cents for premium.

Most dealers said they would drop prices as soon as authorization was received from their distributors.

Without authorization, any loss caused by the price reduction is carried by the local retailer, they said.

Phil Foraker, manager of the Shell Station at 304 S. Dubuque St. which recorded the first drop to 19.9 cents, said he was losing four cents per gallon of gasoline. Foraker said he hoped gasoline distributors would work out a solution to the price-cutting, rather than suffer this loss.

Foraker said that the "gas war," which began a week ago Saturday, was a result of the price difference between major and cut-rate gasolines.

He said "cut-rate dealers are here to stay" and that major dealers should accept them without trying to match their prices.

Foraker said the drop to 19.9 cents for regular gasoline was the first drop he has made. He pointed out that Waterloo has a "gas war" which has lasted over eight months and said that if Iowa City dealers do not act soon, prices will go down one or two cents each week and the "gas war" will last indefinitely.

House Alters Point System In Wrap-Up

DES MOINES (AP) — Bills to legalize the State Safety Department's traffic point system and to add 25 men to the State Highway Patrol were among 33 bills passed by the House Monday in a drive to prepare for final adjournment by mid-week.

But the House defeated 57-42 a motion to suspend the rules and vote for an adjournment from Wednesday until the second Monday in January 1960. The proposal, although it received the required two-thirds margin.

Majority Leader Clark McNeal (R-Belmond), indicated a similar motion may be laid before the House Tuesday, under the regular House rules.

In its bill-passing zeal, the House raced through all the bills on its noncontroversial calendar Monday morning, and then cleaned up all the measures on the regular Sifting Committee calendar during the afternoon.

It also tabled a motion to reconsider the passage of a bill defining the offense of shoplifting.

A May Shower

KEEPING COOL—Bob Reis, P1, Hamburg, has the right idea to combat the unseasonably warm weather of the last several days—study under the Hillcrest shower. It looks like Bob will have to keep up this technique of studying because the Weather Bureau forecasts more warm weather for the Iowa City area today. Expected highs today will be in the mid-80's. There is a chance of some showers today. Temperatures again nearly reached 90 degrees Monday after coming within one degree of the all-time high for May 3. The reading of 88 was the highest mark in the state Sunday. The forecast through Saturday predicted temperatures slightly above normal highs of 67 to 70 and normal lows of 43 to 47. About an inch of rainfall is also expected.

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the University.

It's 'December' Again

Like the small midwestern city which received delivery of its new snow plow during last summer's hottest day, SUI students can now take advantage of a breath of cool—and very fresh—air.

December Magazine, which began its not-too-regular, but eagerly anticipated publication a couple of seasons back, is now on the stands in Iowa City.

Once again, we note, "December" is brimful with interesting and provocative reading.

Art work, short stories, poetry—"December" has them all. "The Great Silence in Iowa City," the lead article, is definitely deserving of not a whisper, but a shout of praise.

Perhaps this sounds like a little plug for "December." It is. The magazine is, of course, still in its infancy. But it is a new, bold and rewarding expression of confidence in the ability of SUI students to appreciate and to accept, the new and the bold. We hope that "December" will fall not only in May this year, but in several other months as well.

University Bulletin Board

University Bulletin Board notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301 Communications Center, by noon of the day before publication.

INTERNATIONAL BANQUET, sponsored by the International Club will be held on Friday at 7 p.m. in the River Room of the Union.

PHYSICS COLLOQUIUM will present Dr. Frank B. McDonald speaking on "Primary Cosmic Ray Intermittents during a Solar Cycle" on May 5 at 4 p.m. in 301 Physics Building.

UNIVERSITY COOPERATIVE BABY-SITTING LEAGUE BOOK will be in the charge of Mrs. Moskowitz from May 5 to May 19. Telephone her after 6 p.m. at 8-5284 if a sitter or information about joining the group is desired.

DELTA PHI ALPHA, honorary German fraternity, meets May 7 at 8 p.m. in 122 Schaeffer Hall. Mr. Robert E. Holzappel will give his impressions of Berlin and the Free University of Berlin. Slides will also be shown. Public welcome.

Good Listening—Today On WSUI

THE TRIAL OF LORD BYRON, the third in a series of experiments in biography which have included similar treatment of Dr. Bowdler and Machiavelli, will be heard this evening at 8 p.m. from WSUI. Written by Laurence Kitchen for the British Broadcasting Corporation, The Trial of Lord Byron is purely imaginary, "and the witnesses—drawn from Byron's contemporaries and from our own—include Claire Clairmont, whose daughter by Byron died in an Italian convent, Lady Byron, Thomas Moore, Leigh Hunt, and Fletcher the valet as well as people of our own time. The evidence is fairly evenly balanced; he was vain, passionate, capricious and with a scorpion's tongue; but his youth had been soured by a mother who taunted him with his deformed foot. . . . On such points as these (developed in a courtroom situation) we are left at the end of the play to consider our verdict."

mer Night's Dream by Mendelssohn.

A LOW-BUDGET MUSIC LIST, prepared for the months of May and June, has gone out to regular listeners whose names appear on the WSUI mailing list. Devoted to WSUI principally but including one large item from each evening's FM schedule, the music list assists listeners who wish to be selective in their listening. A post card addressed to WSUI will be sufficient to place any name on the mailing list.

THE CURRENT EXHIBITION of contemporary Italian music is to be observed on KSUI-FM during the next several nights with the playing of representative works drawn from the exhibit. Tonight, for example, Dallapiccola's "Songs of Prison" joins the featured presentation, Chopin's First Piano Concerto.

GEORGE DIXON

'Doth He Bow Too Low?'

WASHINGTON—Being a member of the Armed Services Committee of House or Senate these days is very hard on the head. It is apt to swell. Whenever a member comes into a hearing room, all the beribboned generals and admirals leap to their feet and stand at attention.

Seldom in the course of civilization have the military coveted to civilians the way the Pentagon brass courts these Congressmen. The Defense Department won't send a warrior to Capitol Hill until he has taken a special course in ingratiating himself with members of the Armed Services committees and subcommittees.

The Senators and Representatives have gotten used to this deference from men in uniform; in fact they accept it as due. But even the most swiftdespatched haven't yet become inured to the fawning they are now getting from civilian representatives of industry.

The industrial sycophancy reached a new low of obsequence the other day when the top men of Lockheed appeared before the House Subcommittee for Special Investigations, chaired by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, of Louisiana.

The Lockheeders—Robert E. Gross, chairman of the board; Dudley E. Browne, vice president of finance; and L. Eugene Root, vice president of the missiles and space division, were in their seats when Hebert walked in. They jumped up and stood at attention.

Chairman Hebert forbore from comment until Rep. Porter Hardy, of Virginia, arrived very late. The millionaires shot up again. Hebert couldn't stand it any longer. "Now gentlemen," he said, "we appreciate your courtesy, but you can overdo this thing. We are not accustomed to such attention. Just keep your seats and get along with the business at hand."

"But," protested Lockheed Chairman Gross, "we hold you gentlemen in awe." This was all the opening needed by the literary Rep. Hebert, who used to be a city editor down in New Orleans. "I appreciate that, Mr. Gross," he told the witness, "but would remind you of an incident in the great play about Cardinal Richelieu when a court plotter who was planning to kill the Cardinal swept the floor with his plumed hat in bowing out of his intended victim's presence. The Cardinal turned to his page and said: " 'Met'hinks he doth bow too low.' "

There was no more bowing that morning, but after the hearing broke up, Chairman Hebert was congratulated by his cultured colleagues on his ability to quote Shakespeare.

"Why, you ignorant louts!" Hebert grunted in disgust. "That quotation was from E. Bulwer-Lytton." King Features Syndicate.

Well, you see, she didn't think she was speaking for publication, or maybe I mean I think her husband's publication is unspeakable. Anyhow, she's a very good diplomat, only she's not very diplomatic. Well, her husband naturally thinks she's great, so naturally he said that she should resign. Mind you, I'm not one to kick, even when somebody beats this old bag of bones.

HEBERT LOCKED UP BY THE WASHINGTON POST CO.

Explosive Force In Contrast Between East, West Berlin

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a four-article series analyzing the Berlin crisis and its impact on the East-West struggle.

BERLIN—It was noon on a quiet day in West Berlin.

A shabbily dressed woman walked down Tauentzien Strasse and looked into the window of the Woolworth department store.

A radio announcer read the midday news.

A gray-haired man entered the Marienfelde refugee camp, just as some 300 persons do every day.

Common events. Hardly noticed.

Explosive Force

But they contained the kind of cumulative explosive force that has resulted in Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev raising the spectre of World War III over Berlin.

Why? That woman came from Communist East Berlin. What she saw in the store window made her think how much better life could be in the West, and she went home to tell her neighbors.

That radio announcer was broadcasting free world news and ideas to the 18 million people of surrounding satellite East Germany.

That gray-haired man was an engineer, one of hundreds of thousands of professionals, technicians and skilled workers who have fled into West Berlin from East Germany.

Symbol Of Hope

To the East Germans, West Berlin stands as a symbol of hope, truth and a promise of eventual liberation.

To Khrushchev: "Berlin is a bone in my throat."

By ending the Allied occupation and turning West Berlin into a so-called free city, Khrushchev hopes to neutralize the metropolis.

This Khrushchev cannot do as long as divided Berlin is governed by the postwar four-power accord. These assure free movement between West Berlin and East Berlin, now the capital of East Germany.

Few Links

West Berlin, which is linked to West Germany by one railroad and one highway under Soviet control, and three air corridors, lies 110 miles deep in the heart of East Germany.

To understand its upsetting impact on the East Germans, take a tour of West Berlin. Then visit East Berlin.

Start on West Berlin's fashionable Kurfuertendamm, the broad glittering boulevard, lined with colorful sidewalk cafes and shop windows crammed with choice goods.

Look into the theaters or the pages of the city's 10 daily newspapers and see how the world's clashing ideas compete for attentions.

U.S. Community

In tree-lined Dahlem suburb, the U.S. Army garrison of some 4,000 men is based. The soldiers and their families live in a rather insular community with their own housing, amusement facilities, school and shopping center.

However, within rifle shot of the PX you come upon the combat-ready tanks of the three battle groups and the alert GIs who maneuver in nearby Grunewald Forest.

"If the Russians attack West Berlin, we know what to do," says Maj. Gen. Barksdale Hamlett, the blunt soldier-diplomat who is the American commander of West Berlin.

What Hamlett means is that his men would shoot.

Command Respect

Their shots could signal World War III and nuclear strikes against the Soviet Union. Knowing this, the Red army—with its 400,000 troops encamped in East Germany—respects the token garrison of 10,000 American, French and British troops who defend West Berlin.

Driving past the magnificent new Hansaviertel residential district suddenly you come upon the Brandenburg Tor—gateway to East Berlin, and home of 1,100,000 people.

In the drab, bomb-shattered Communist capital, there is little of the cheerful bustle of West Berlin. The absence of surging pedestrian crowds and throbbing traffic is eerie.

The gray, dirty walls of the buildings are decked with Red banners bearing slogans: "Socialism Triumphs."

The Reds promise that major reconstruction of East Berlin will begin next year.

Sole Showpiece

The only showpiece street is Stalinallee, a broad boulevard lined with apartment buildings in the grim square style of Stalin architecture.

Next: The German Reunification Problem.

Letter To The Editor—

Did Poplarville Abductors Transcend Or Break Law?

To the Editor:

A few nights ago, in Poplarville, Miss., nine or ten men entered the courthouse cell of M. C. Parker, aged 23. They had broken through a window to enter the building, and had obtained the keys to the cell block by forcing a cabinet drawer. They questioned the prisoner, M. C. Parker, regarding the crime he had been charged with. Despite his protestations of innocence the men attacked Parker and after a violent struggle, they overpowered him. They then dragged him bodily down the stairs and out of the building to some automobiles which were parked there. After another struggle with him, they drove away. The authorities have been unable to locate the men or the prisoner.

Presumably, the men had decided to take the responsibility themselves for administering justice, in place of the Government. Their authority for this step was physical power, and their procedure was by group acclamation. Their action, being premeditated and well planned, ought to be distinguished from mob action.

If this group of men were a small state in itself and if M. C. Parker were one of the citizens of this small state, we would have no objections to the activity described above, other than an arbitrary compassion for the suffering of the prisoner. But those nine or ten men are part of a state much larger than their imaginary one, and so is M. C. Parker. The authority of this large state is written law, not physical strength, and the government, or procedure is by careful application of the law, not group acclamation.

Doubtless the men would say that they expressed the will of the people, who are the state, by their action, and so transcend the ordinary authority and procedure. This is a plausible argument. But at the same time, it is a terrible responsibility, since these nine or ten men must express the will of the entire state, not only for the moment but also backwards and forwards from that moment in the history of the state.

In our state the principle of authority and government by law has been legitimately transcended, these instances have been manifested in an open and unabashed resistance, probably resulting in an alteration of the law after due consideration. At any rate this "legitimate" kind of transcendence has not been characterized by covert, nocturnal activity, as in the Parker case. Americans ordinarily voice their protests in an outspoken and fearless manner.

Those nine or ten men are a part of a state much larger than their imaginary one and that larger state is part of a community of states. America calls herself champion and protector of individual liberty. She says the tenets of individual liberty are part of her vitals. The other states observe the Parker incident and doubt what America calls herself. But what does that matter, say the nine or ten men. Let them go to hell and we'll solve our own problems. And they are right, because propagation of an international hypocrisy is less important than maintaining our "internal" integrity.

Can these nine or ten men transcend the sixth amendment? The Constitution of the United States, Article VI (1791):

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law; and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witness against him;

He became a hero of the free world.

As the years passed he handed out his prescient advice about the world's affairs, pierced clearly the veil of which the Iron Curtain was only a symbol while many others remained confused.

Now, when he travels, he gets his advance notices. People remember that not-so-long ago, the symbol and faith and the courage of free men fighting, and they feel warm toward him. And if a man now passes through some danger, some other is likely to say:

"He's as indestructible as Winston Churchill."

to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

By all means let Khrushchev point toward Poplarville, Miss., and tell his people that they have only to look for themselves to see what the American way of life is like. By all means, let Hungarian and Tibetan know about what happened to M. C. Parker. Broadcast it over the Voice of America if you will, but let us decide now whether or not Parker's abductors transcended the law or broke the law. If the former is the case, then we ought to change the law; if the latter is the case, then we ought to exert all our strength until these nine or ten men are apprehended and brought to trial.

During War: Visits To U.S. No Publicity

By J. M. ROBERTS Associated Press News Analyst

It doesn't seem like such a long time since the papers omitted advance notices of Winston Churchill's visits to the United States.

Yet he was a more important man then than now. The notices were omitted because, back in the early '40's, there were men—Nazi submarine and bomber commanders—who would have tried to kill him if they could have found him on the Atlantic seelanes.

He was not a young man then—he's 84 now—but nobody could ever persuade him to take care for his own life as long as he thought his trips were needed to care for the life of Britain.

Take 1943, for instance. He and President Franklin D. Roosevelt conferred that year in Washington, Quebec, Tehran with Stalin and Casablanca. At those meetings they planned how they would knock Mussolini out of the war, converge on Hitler until he accepted unconditional surrender, and then settle with Japan.

Already, while Churchill led a lone Britain and the United States was not in the war, the two had met at sea off Newfoundland to announce the kind of world they hoped for after the war. Their statement was called the Atlantic Charter, and its ideas became the foundation of the United Nations.

In some ways they were a strange pair—Roosevelt with his ideas about the common man, and Churchill with his determination to save the imperial position of Great Britain.

After Pearl Harbor nobody was ever surprised when Mr. John Bull showed up in Washington. He spoke to Congress. He wore the coveralls of a man at work. He made his V-for-Victory signal, drank his brandy, smoked his cigars.

He became a hero of the free world.

As the years passed he handed out his prescient advice about the world's affairs, pierced clearly the veil of which the Iron Curtain was only a symbol while many others remained confused.

Now, when he travels, he gets his advance notices. People remember that not-so-long ago, the symbol and faith and the courage of free men fighting, and they feel warm toward him. And if a man now passes through some danger, some other is likely to say:

"He's as indestructible as Winston Churchill."

Letter To The Editor—

Faculty Council Did Not Cast Rose Bowl Vote Due To 'Negative Attitude'

To the Editor:

Without attempting to evaluate the merits or demerits of the recent decision by the Board in Control of Athletics, a matter that is too complex to be discussed in such a letter as this, I feel that a defense of the "negative attitude" of the Faculty Council is in order in view of the comments made by the Sports Editor in his column, "Younkin On A Limb" (Friday, May 1, 1959).

Without attempting to make this a personal issue, or to impose my own opinions on post-season participation in the Rose Bowl—opinions which are here beside the point. In view of the fact that it is unimportant whether I approve or disapprove of the decision by the Athletic Board, I do not feel called upon to make the usual apologetic defense that "I personally like football." Whether I like or do not like football or the Rose Bowl pact is not the issue.

The issue concerns the Sports Editor's poor taste in attacking the integrity of the Faculty Council.

The Sports Editor writes in his editorial concerning the Faculty Council's decision to vote against a continuation of the Rose Bowl pact: "One of the points brought up by the Faculty Council is that the students miss too much school when the team goes West. Is this the real reason or is it just that a few noses are out of place because of the publicity, salary and popularity of football coach Forest Evashevski?"

"That seems more logical to me." Granted that all of us have a great capacity for petty sentiments, do not the Sports Editor's suspicious and uncharitable insinuations appear to be meaner and more petty than the sentiments he condemns.

Granting the Sports Editor's suppositions, suppositions which I feel are unjustifiable, aren't his imputations in extremely bad taste?

Being acquainted with at least one member of the Faculty Council, I feel sure that if he is representative, the motives imputed to the members are untrue, and moreover, unnecessarily malicious and slanderous.

It is unfortunate testament of the low esteem in which we hold our professors that an individual in a responsible position is able to make such an irresponsible attack. As professors deserving of our respect, it is indeed disturbing that the Sports Editor's comments about the Faculty Council not only imply disrespect for them, but active distaste.

And yet this does not seem to be the chief issue here. Perhaps of even greater concern is the intolerable implicit in the Sports Editor's comments. He seems to be unable to grant that the Faculty Council might have a sincere difference of opinion. Rather, he seems to argue from a disturbingly narrow and intolerant position. He seems to imply that one can not sincerely disagree with the wisdom of the Athletic Board's decision. Those who do disagree cannot possibly have sincere, thoughtful convictions since there is only one possible way of viewing the matter and that is my way. They must therefore, not be intelligent men but merely narrow, small-thinking, frustrated glory-seeking, mercenary, envious ivory-tower academicians acquainted with any but the most narrow scholastic concerns. They are, in substance, unpleasant intolerant people. At this point one wonders where the intolerance and unpleasantness reside.

But this is not all the Sports Editor has to say. He then proceeds to move from abuse to absurdity.

In one of his few sensible, justifiable, and generous remarks he writes: "Let's give Evashevski and his staff a pat on the back for their successful hard work"; but in the following remark he vituperates the previous one: "and not a slap in the face for a job well done." The implication once again being that the Faculty Council by not voting for a continuation of the Rose Bowl pact not only did not show their appreciation to Mr. Evashevski, but actually intended to insult him. Certainly it is not an either/or situation. Even granting that one does not "give Evashevski and his staff a pat on the back," does this mean that one necessarily gives him "a slap in the face"? One is reminded by the Sports Editor's remarks of the absurdly fallacious argument that he who is not with me is against me, or that he who is not my friend is my enemy. Such a logical fallacy is unworthy of a thoughtful individual.

Finally, the Sports Editor sees fit to equate "a professor taking off for hither and yon" (presumably, I'm sure he realizes, for academic or productive purposes) with a dismissal of classes for pleasurable pursuits. One is absolutely forced to ask how many individual can equate the welfare of the country and trips to Cape Canaveral with the welfare of post-season athletics and a trip to the Rose Bowl.

Certainly life is, and perhaps should be, a blend of pleasure and productivity, but to equate the virtue of the two has unpleasant implications about one's values. Life could not and probably should not be all work and no play, but to equate it with all, the value to mankind of knowledge and wisdom with recreation and pleasure is frightening. The curious and thoughtful person (presumably what we all are, or should be, striving to become at a university) will not hesitate to choose the former.

In conclusion, one need only repeat the Sports Editor's final paragraph to see the fallacious thinking and impoverished reasoning, the distortion, and the appallingly snide malice he feels toward the Faculty Council for their decision or, as he puts it, their "negative attitude."

"The next thing you know we will be de-emphasizing physics around here and voting 'no' on trips to Cape Canaveral. Even Evashevski hasn't gotten his picture on the cover of Time Magazine."

I'm sure that a public apology to the Faculty Council by the Sports Editor is in order, and I'm sure, if he is the sincere, thoughtful individual I hope him to be, he will agree. Certainly silence or any defense, other than a considered apologetic explanation by him, will only serve to reinforce the impression left that he is a thoughtless intolerant person with poor taste and worse manners.

Student Released On Bond In Arson

An SUI graduate student has been released from jail here on $2,500 bond, after being charged with arson.

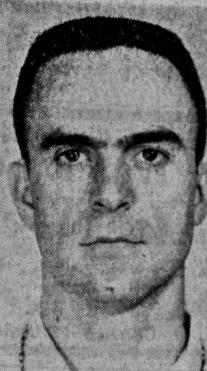

Glenn C. Hesselstine, 27, Chicago, was arrested early Saturday and charged with setting fire to a barn on the Roy Greer farm, about four miles west of Iowa City, according to Johnson County Sheriff Pat Murphy.

Hesselstine, who is working on a master's degree in rehabilitation counseling failed to pass a lie detector test given him in connection with the incident, the sheriff said.

Murphy said two witnesses saw a man resembling Hesselstine running toward the barn just before the blaze was discovered. He was later taken into custody while watching the fire.

According to the sheriff, Hesselstine's shoes match footprints found around the barn. Hesselstine has denied the charge. His case is being continued.

Hesselstine, the son of Dr. H. Close Hesselstine, Chicago, parachuted out of a light airplane onto SUI's Finkbine golf course in October of 1957. He later tried to form a parachute club at SUI.

Two Chosen To Complete Cheerleaders

Two SUI men were selected Monday to complete next year's cheerleading squad. Larry Krause, A2, Waukegan, Ill., was chosen as the fourth regular man on the team. Howard Friedman, A1, Rock Island, Ill., was named to the squad as an alternate.

Six women and three men were named to the team at earlier try-outs. Helen Medakovich, A2, Council Bluffs, chosen as a women's alternate, has been moved into a regular position on the team.

Other regulars include Sandra Pollack, N2, Highland Park, Ill.; Mary Ann Sheahan, A1, Highland Park, Ill.; Judy Snow, A1, Chicago, Ill.; Bill Buck, A3, Glenwood, Ill.; Marshall Claus, A3, St. Paul, Minn.; and Jim Tate, A3, Burlington.

Women's alternates will be Debbie De Shon, A1, Bettendorf, and Kay Grau, A1, Dennison. Don Carney, A2, Lawrence, Kan., will be in charge of special effects and gymnastics.

Judges for the tryouts included Mr. and Mrs. Sam Baillie, cheerleading coaches, and retiring co-captains Jean Hansen, A4, Cedar Falls, and Dick Weiner, A4, Villisca.

Team members were selected from a field of over 40 candidates in competition described by Weiner as "the best I've ever seen in my four year's of participation."

Shoplift Bill—Lost? Stolen?

"What happened to the Shoplifting Bill?"

This is the great mystery at the statehouse, according to Russell M. Ross, associate professor of political science. "The last I heard," he said, "the shoplifting bill had passed through both houses, but it never reached the Governor's desk."

In essence the shoplifting bill would provide for stricter punishment of shoplifters in Iowa. It would also enable merchants to apprehend shoplifters without so much fear of legal suits in case of a mistake.

Reports on the bill are scanty as yet. A spokesman for the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce indicated that he understood the bill had been presented to Governor Lovell.

The Retailers Division of the Chamber has sent a wire to the Governor asking him to sign the shoplifting bill.

The Chamber of Commerce has been active in the drive to get the bill passed. Last February the Retailers Committee, with the cooperation of Police and the agreement of local merchants, staged 80 "robberies" in Iowa City stores. Twelve "robbers" were selected from the Delta Sigma Phi commerce fraternity. Only one of the eighty "robberies" was detected.

Art Guild To Hold Patio Show Here This Weekend

An outdoor exhibition of student art work at SUI will be presented in the Art Guild Annual Patio Show to be held here this weekend.

Marvin Cone, professor of art at Coe College, Cedar Rapids, will judge the student art work on Friday. The works will be exhibited on the patio of the Iowa Memorial Union the two following days. Many of the student works will be placed on sale.

The show will consist of a wide range of art works, including paintings, sculpture, metal work, ceramics, prints, jewelry and drawings. Prizes will be awarded to students exhibiting outstanding art pieces.

Cone, whose paintings have been exhibited throughout the nation, studied at the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, Paris; at the Chicago Art Institute; in Mexico and at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y.

The Art Guild, which presents the Patio Show each year, is composed of fine arts students at SUI. Robert Wolfe, Jr., G, Oxford, Ohio, Art Guild President, and Walter Nichols, A4, Dardenelle, Ark., chairman of the Patio Show, are organizing the show.

Explosion In Pharmacy Room Causes Fumes, Small Fire

Students and staff in the chemistry building started Monday morning with a bang when a refrigerator exploded, spreading fumes.

The refrigerator exploded in a pharmacy laboratory in the building about 8 a.m. No one was in the large laboratory at the time.

The force of the explosion blew open both doors of the refrigerator, moving it about six feet and scattering chemicals throughout the room.

The contents of the refrigerator, which was used to store materials used by graduate students in research projects, had still not been determined Monday.

The reaction of all the chemicals, including ether, ammonia and refrigerant liquid, sent blinding smoke through the room.

Firemen who went into the room to check for fire had to wear self-contained gas masks to breathe.

A small fire that started as a result of the blast was put out by SUI employes using hand operated fire extinguishers.

Construction Halted Here By Picketing

Work on five local construction projects was halted by picketing construction laborers Monday.

Projects stopped included the Hillcrest dormitory addition and the Army-Navy Reserve Center. Other projects shut down were the Coralville School addition, St. Andrew Presbyterian Church and the new A&P supermarket.

The picketing began Monday after laborers walked off the job Friday. The strikers are members of the Laborers and Hodcarriers Union, Local 43, of Cedar Rapids, whose local contract expired Friday.

Members of other building trades unions honored the picket lines and also left their jobs.

Contractors and union representatives are meeting in Cedar Rapids in an effort to end the strike. The union has reportedly asked for a 25 cent hourly wage increase, and the contractors have offered a 10 cent increase.

Hogan Putts Way To Win In Colonial Invitation Meet

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Ben Hogan came out of his golden past to win another golf tournament Monday, his pin-point approaches and clutch putting giving him a four-stroke playoff victory in the $27,300 Colonial National Invitation over Fred Hawkins.

Hawkins, seeking his first victory in a playoff, floundered with a double bogey on the fifth hole when his tee shot went into a creek, costing him two strokes.

$5,000 For First
The two Texans had tied for the lead Sunday with 285 for 72 holes and they played 18 holes Monday to decide who got the $5,000 first money. Second money was $3,000. Hogan shot a 1-under-par 69. Hawkins was 3-over-73.

Hogan ran up a four stroke bulge over Hawkins in the first seven holes and then played safe, conservative golf.

It was the fifth time for Hogan, the Fort Worth great, to win the Colonial tournament.

Took Lead At 3rd
Hawkins, the lanky El Paso veteran who had won but one tournament — the Oklahoma City Open in 1956 — took the lead at the third hole when he ran down a 15-footer for a birdie. But Hogan lashed his tee shot to the green on the 235-yard fourth hole and sank a 12-foot putt for a birdie after first waiting until a cement mixer had rattled by. Behind it came a truck that made more noise than the mixer but Hogan paid no attention to it. Hawkins took a bogey on the hole when he missed a short putt.

Then came Hawkins' disaster on the fifth where he was in the river and although Hogan took a bogey on six when he missed a three-foot putt, Hawkins overshot the seventh green for another bogey. That sealed his doom.

Cronin Slaps Fine On Four

BOSTON (AP) — American League President Joe Cronin Monday fined principals in Sunday's brawl between players of the Cleveland Indians and Washington Senators.

Cleveland Manager Joe Gordon was fined $100, Indian outfielder Jim Piersall and Washington pitcher Pedro Ramos $50 each.

Cronin also approved a fine of $50 levied on a Senator pitcher John Romosky by Umpire-in-Chief Ed Hurley.

The Cleveland brawl began after Piersall, carrying his bat, walked toward Ramos after the latter threw a high inside fast ball while Piersall was batting.

Players and umpires rushed to get between Piersall and Ramos and a verbal exchange developed between Gordon and Ramos. Ramos threw the ball at Gordon and a general melee developed.

Dykes Signs Pact As Tiger Skipper

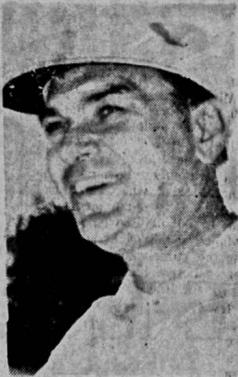

BETHOIT (AP) — Veteran Jimmy Dykes signed a contract as manager of the Detroit Tigers Monday, 24 hours after he had shaken the ball team out of a three week truce that brought 15 defeats in its first 17 games.

Dykes arrived in town Sunday morning. Sunday afternoon the Tigers swept a doubleheader from the troubled New York Yankees, 4-2 and 8-2.

Dykes made only one significant lineup change. He pushed Charlie Maxwell off the bench and into left field. Maxwell responded with a record-setting performance of four consecutive home runs, making Dykes crystal ball look priceless.

"I liked the way he (Maxwell) has played in the past, Dykes said. "I just told him I wanted him in the lineup."

For his coaching staff Dykes retained Billy Hitchcock, Willis Hudlin and Tommy Henrich who had served under Bill Norman. Cash terms of Dykes' contract were not disclosed. The pact runs for the rest of the season.

Burgess Hitting Lofty .420 But Aaron 80 Points Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — Smoky Burgess, the hottest batter in the Smoky City, is giving the Pittsburgh Pirates much needed punch behind the plate while proving what he needed all along was steady work.

Burgess is batting .420 with 21 hits in 50 tries. He was acquired the past winter from Cincinnati where he served as a pinch-hitter and fill-in for Ed Bailey, the Reds' regular catcher.

Under normal circumstances, Smoky's lofty average would be enough to make him the No. 1 batsman in the National League. But Hank Aaron's performance has been something out of the ordinary. Aaron, star outfielder of the Milwaukee Braves, continued his torrid hitting in last week's games to maintain his .500 percentage. He collected 10 hits in 20 at bats and showed 36 safeties in 72 attempts through Sunday's action. Four of Hank's blows were home runs, putting him in a deadlock for the lead with Ed Mathews, another Braves' slugger. Each has eight.

Ernie Banks, the NL's Most Valuable Player of 1958, is the top player in runs batted in with 24, one more than Vada Pinson and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati.

In the American League, Nellie Fox of the Chicago White Sox took over the batting lead. His average moved up 12 points to .398. Harvey Kuenn of Detroit is second with .387 followed by Vic Power of the league-leading Cleveland Indians with a .384.

Harmon (Killer) Killebrew of Washington slammed four homers last week and took over the top spot with seven. Killebrew also is well up there in the runs batted in competition with 18. He trails only Baltimore's Gus Triandos, who has driven home 19.

Still Set To Ink Warrior Contract At Near $50,000

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Eddie Gottlieb will announce this week what most insiders have known all along. Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain will play for the Philadelphia Warriors next season for the highest salary ever paid a National Basketball Associate player.

The seven-foot-plus Chamberlain said Monday he planned to meet with Gottlieb, owner of the Warriors, in the next day or so.

"We've reached agreement on everything except salary in a proposed one year contract."

Asked if Gottlieb had offered him around $50,000, Chamberlain replied — "you're not too far off, one way or another."

Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics, who reportedly receives in excess of $25,000, currently is believed to be the highest paid NBA performer.

The former Philadelphia Overbrook High and Kansas University All-American, said:

"I'd love to play with the Warriors because Philadelphia is my home and it would give me a chance to play competitive ball in the NBA, the highest-ranked basketball league in America. That would be an honor."

Sugar Ray Inactive; Dethroned By NBA

MULLENS, W. Va. (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson is no longer recognized by the National Boxing Association as the world middleweight champion, NBA President Ward Wylie said Monday.

"They've dealt me a foul blow," said Sugar Ray at a press conference in New York. "They can have their own champion and do what they want about it. But I'm not retiring."

Not Informed
He said bitterly that the NBA hasn't informed him yet of its vacating action and accused the group of being dominated by the "IBC" (International Boxing Club). Robinson said as far as he was concerned the IBC still was in business despite the court action dissolving the twin boxing clubs of New York and Chicago.

The dapper, 38-year-old champion said he doesn't know what he will do next but indicated he will keep dickering for a fight.

New York State Boxing Commissioner Melvin Krulwich said an original ultimatum to the inactive Robinson still stands, despite the NBA decision.

Until May 15
"As far as the State Boxing Commission is concerned," he said "Robinson has until May 15 to sign a contract to defend his title."

Wylie said the NBA would recognize the winner of the fight between Carmen Basilio of Conastota, N.Y., and Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, as the new champion.

He said the winner of the Basilio-Fullmer fight would be required to defend his title within 90 days against an opponent to be named by the NBA.

Signed For Summer
In Syracuse, boxing promoter Norman Rothschild said Monday he had signed Basilio and Fullmer to fight for the title this summer.

Spider Webb of Chicago is listed by the NBA as the third-ranked middleweight, and probably would face the winner of the Basilio-Fullmer bout if he still has the rating at that time.

Wylie noted that Robinson has not fought for more than a year and said NBA recognition was withdrawn because he "has failed to keep his agreement with the NBA to defend his title."

Iowa Bowlers Take Lead Over Iowa State

Iowa's bowling team scored 4,219 points to beat Iowa State College to take the lead after five games of a ten-game series.

Iowa State will visit Iowa City May 16 for the remaining five games, the winner to receive a trophy that ISC won last year.

3 Records Broken, 3 Tied As Iowa Wins Track Meet

The Iowa track team led by John Brown, who scored a first, two seconds and anchored the mile relay team to victory, defeated Indiana in a dual meet here Saturday, 76% to 55%.

Three meet records were broken and three were tied as both teams took seven firsts.

"The team had a pretty good day," said Iowa coach Francis Cretzmeier, "particularly Bob Warren, Tom Burrows and Brown. I hope they won't rest on their laurels this week, as we have some tough ones ahead."

The Iowa coach said that Saturday's discus throw by Herb Marske was his best. "Nolden Gentry and Carl Anderson both had the best jumps in their lives, and Denny Rehder ran a good mile, his first in competition," said Cretzmeier. "We needed the seconds and thirds, and we got them."

Jack Hill broke the mile run record with a time of 4:22.4. Hill set the old meet record of 4:23.2 in 1958. Burrows, Iowa Captain, tied both the 100 yard and 220 yard dash records, with times of :09.8 in the century and :21.2 in the 220. The meet record in the 100 was set by Len Sykes of Iowa in 1951, and tied by Tim Hines of Iowa in 1958. The 220 mark was set in 1957 by Indiana's Greg Bell.

Indiana's hurdle champ, Willie May, broke the 220 yard low hurdle record of :24.0 set in 1951 by Dave Martin of Indiana with a time of :22.9. May also tied the mark in the 120 yard high hurdles that he set in 1957. His time in this event was :14.5. Reg Sheppard of Indiana set a new high jump record with a leap of 6'5". This broke the record of 6'4" set in 1951 by Jack Weik of Iowa and Jim Harper of Indiana.

Brown won the 440 yard run and finished second in the 220 yard dash and the broad jump. In the mile relay he came from behind in the last 15 yards for the Iowa victory. Bill Orris who has been out of action the past three weeks with a pulled leg muscle finished second in the 220 yard low hurdles, and third in the 120 yard high.

In his first college track competition, Iowa basketball star Gentry finished in a three-way tie for second place in the high jump with a 6'4" jump. Iowa's Carl Anderson and Indiana's LeRoy Johnson tied with Gentry.

The next competition for the Hawkeye track squad will be a dual meet Saturday at Purdue. The next home meet will be May 16. This will be a quadrangular meet against Minnesota, Northwestern, and Wisconsin starting at 1:30 p.m.

Hockey Award Won By Wings' Delvecchio

MONTREAL (AP) — Alex Delvecchio of Detroit edged Andy Hebenton of the New York Rangers for the 1958-59 Lady Byng Memorial Trophy Monday in the closest vote ever for a National Hockey League postseason award.

Only five-tenths of a point separated the two in the balloting by hockey writers and broadcasters for the coveted honor.

Delvecchio, 26, of the Detroit Red Wings, won the award with 107 votes, while Hebenton, 25, of the Rangers, received 106 votes.

Delvecchio, who has played in 107 NHL games, has scored 10 goals and 10 assists in 107 games.

Is This The Year?

The cry "this is the year the Yankees will lose" is a familiar one at the moment—but don't put too much money on it. Although New York is off to its worst start since 1940—a 7-12 record and seventh place so far—the Yanks still have 135 games left on the schedule and one heck of a lot of things can happen between now and October.

Trying to figure out what has happened to the World Champions leaves one a little mystified. A year ago with practically the same team the Yanks had a 14-5 mark at the same point in the schedule and were three games out in front instead of 6½ games behind.

Charges May Have Hurt
I doubt that Manager Casey Stengel's pre-season charges of playboys and players not playing up to their full potential under his command exactly endeared him to his squad—especially the players who are not playboys and give 100 per cent every day.

The Yankees will be back, just like MacArthur. You just don't fold that quickly. But should something like that happen, should the Yanks actually fade right down the line, Stengel had better pack. No job in the world is as touch-and-go as that of the major league manager.

Look what happened to Bill Norman at Detroit last week. Norman is a good baseball man, but his team lost 15 of its first 17 games and somebody has to pay. Since it doesn't figure to fire the players because they are young and supposedly healthy, the manager has to go.

So Jimmy Dykes is now at the helm of Detroit's Fat-Cats and he is on the hot seat. Dykes did a whole of a job last year at Cincinnati, taking the Reds at mid-season when Birdie Tebbetts quit and bringing his club in fourth place after taking over when it was on the bottom.

Smith For Dykes
In another classic front office maneuver, the Cincinnati brass thanked Dykes for his efforts and gave him his walking papers in favor of Mayo Smith. Smith was a midseason casualty at Philadelphia when his Phils were languishing in the cellar.

The manager who is looking good so far is Cleveland's Joe Gordon. A real fighter (Sunday's fracas with Washington's Pedro Ramos cost him $100), Gordon has had the pleasant chore of naming a starting lineup and letting 'em go for the most part. When the big move has been needed Gordon has made it like a magician.

For instance he sent reserve outfielder Tito Francona in to bat in the 10th inning of Friday night's game against New York and the former Oriole-White Sox-Tiger responded with a game winning three-run homer. When things are going well, it's tough to make the wrong move.

On the other hand a manager who may be right on Norman's heels is Solly Hemus of the Cardinals. The Redbirds are off to a horrible start but unlike the Tigers they weren't supposed to do much better. If they stay in last place a few more weeks, however, Hemus will join the ever growing legion of former major league managers. And as in most cases if he is fired it will be because he couldn't win with a team nobody could win with.

With only two pennant winners a year in the majors, this is a high mortality rate.

Dodgers Bump Braves From Top

Spahn Victim Of Home Runs, Loses 5-3

Hodges, Demeter Pace LA With Homers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two home runs by Gil Hodges and another by Don Demeter in a battle of homers powered the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-3 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Monday night.

The defeat dropped Milwaukee from first to third place in the National League.

Eddie Mathews and Joe Mauer homered for Milwaukee. Hodges' first homer was in the sixth inning. The other came in the eighth.

Demeter's four-bagger smashed a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning, scoring Charlie Neal.

The victory boosted Johnny Podres' record for the young campaign to 3-2 and handed Milwaukee hurler Warren Spahn his third loss against as many victories.

Mathews' two-run homer opened Milwaukee's scoring in the third inning. Adcock homered in the eighth.

The Braves outthrew the Dodgers 2-8 and left eight men stranded on base to seven for Los Angeles.

Giants 6, Reds 5

CINCINNATI (AP) — The San Francisco Giants edged into the National League lead Monday night, getting past the Cincinnati Redlegs 6-5 with a ninth-inning rally.

The Giants now are .009 per cent ahead of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who won from Milwaukee.

Cincinnati blew an early one-run lead in the ninth when the Giants finally caught up with Reds' ace, Bob Purkey, for four runs. The big blow was Jim Davenport's bases-loaded double good for three runs.

Reliever Gordon Jones collected the victory but it took Jack Sanford to preserve it in the ninth.

Frank Robinson banded a homer off Jones and another run from a single-double combination brought Cincinnati next to a tie. But Sanford got Roy McMillan to fly out ending the rally.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates drove Bob Anderson from the mound with a two-run eighth inning outbreak Monday night and took over fifth place in the National League with a 2-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Anderson, who tangled in a pitching duel with Pirates hurler Ronnie Kline, had a one run lead on Jim Marshall's sixth inning home run—

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two door-slaming performances by relief pitcher Bill Monbouquette and lusty hitting by Dick Gernert and Jackie Jensen paced the Boston Red Sox to a 8-4 over the Kansas City Athletics Monday.

The bases were filled with none out when Monbouquette took over for starter Frank Baumann in the bottom of the second. He struck out Dick Williams and Hector Lopez and got Roger Maris to bounce to Dick Gernert at first.

Monbouquette himself filled the sacks in the sixth, issuing passes to pinch hitter Preston Ward, Whitey Herzog and Lopez before Maris again made the third out.

Monbouquette, now 1-0, held the A's to three hits, fanned six and walked five before yielding to Murray Wall after 6½ innings.

Gernert was four for five at the plate, hitting run-scoring doubles in the sixth and eighth innings.

Jensen sent the ball over the left field fence for his fifth homer of the year in the ninth inning. Marty Kousser was aboard.

Hawkeye Golfers Split With Michigan, Illinois

Iowa's golf squad split in two dual meets at Ann Arbor, Mich., Saturday, defeating Illinois 27-9, and losing to Michigan 25-11.

Frank James and John Liechty led Iowa with scores of 79-77—156 and 79-78—157 respectively. Mike Dull, playing in his first collegiate competition, shot a 78-85—163 for the third best Iowa score.

Wisconsin Votes No On Rose Bowl

CHICAGO (AP) — Wisconsin Monday became the fifth Big Ten school to vote against renewal of the Rose Bowl football contract — but there still is a chance of gaining the necessary majority to "sidetrack killing the annual event."

The Associated Press learned there will be a behind-the-scenes campaign at the conference meeting May 20-23 in Ann Arbor, Mich. to have one of the five negative schools abstain from casting an official vote.

If this were achieved, and there is a precedent for it, the final ballot would be 5-4 in the affirmative and negotiations would be completed with the West Coast officials for continuing Big Ten representation in the Rose Bowl.

A 5-5 deadlock would kill the measure and return the conference to its previous policy of no post season football. This, of course, would rule out any tie-ups with any other bowl.

Wisconsin's faculty cast its vote in the negative, joining Minnesota, Ohio State, Illinois and North western. Those in favor of continuance are Michigan, Purdue, Michigan State, Iowa and Indiana.

Western Michigan, Bradley Downed By Hawkeye Netmen

By JOHN HANRAHAN
Staff Writer

The Iowa tennis team boosted its spring record to 4-3 Monday by downing Western Michigan, 7-2, in a dual meet which took over five hours to complete.

The Hawkeyes captured 5 out of 6 singles matches and 2 out of 3 in the doubles en route to their victory. Don Middlebrook fell 6-1, 0-6, 6-3 to Fred Zuidema, and John Stoy and Bill Voxman lost to Zuidema and Kent Miller in doubles, 8-6, 5-7, 6-2 for the only Iowa losses.

The Stoy-Voxman-Zuidema-Miller match lasted nearly two hours.

John Stoy played in the No. 2 slot for the first time this season and turned in a fine performance, edging Doug Poort 7-5, 7-5.

Art Andrews, the Hawks No. 1 player, stopped Western Michigan's star, John Cook 6-4, 8-6 in one of the afternoon's top matches. Andrews teamed with John Nadig in the doubles to whip Cook and Doug Poort, 6-4, 6-2. In this match Nadig played some of his best tennis of the year.

Iowa Coach Don Klotz said that he believes the team is coming along in fine shape now. "This warm weather will help. The way we're going now it looks like we might be coming to our peak by conference tournament time," he added.

Saturday the Hawks romped to a 6-0 decision over Bradley. Iowa had little trouble against the Braves, losing only one set all day.

Iowa Begins Last Week Of Practice

Monday's heat forced the Iowa football team to open its fourth and final week of spring drills at tired in shorts and tee shirts as Coach Forest Evashevski made two lineup changes.

Veteran John Sawin was switched from tackle to guard and sophomore Wilburn Hollis moved from the quarterback slot to left half-back behind Bob Jeter.

Hawk Nine Halts Losses With Split

Iowa's baseball team broke a long dry spell Saturday as they edged Wisconsin 3-2 in the second game of a doubleheader after losing the opener 4-1.

The win broke a 10-game losing streak for coach Otto Vogel's charges and knocked the Badgers out of a first place tie with Illinois and Minnesota.

Bob Pearl throttled the Badgers with a seven-hit performance, boosting his record to 3-4, the best mark on the Hawkeye staff.

Iowa's winning run came in the eighth inning of what was scheduled to be a seven-inning contest. Singles by Paul Bonstead, Mike Bougdanos and Fred Long pushed across the game-winning run.

Dick Clausen hurled the first game for the Hawks, allowing nine hits. Iowa could collect only four singles and scored its only run on two walks and a single by catcher Dick Weatherly.

Iowa meets Purdue here Friday in a single game and Illinois Saturday in a doubleheader. Purdue is in an eighth place tie with Northwestern at 1-4, a half game ahead of the cellar-dwelling Hawkeyes (1-5).

The Illini are locked in a first place tie with defending champion Minnesota at 5-1. Before a loss to Purdue Saturday Illinois had a season mark of 15-0.

SUI Gets News Picture Awards

Two SUI students won top awards at the Iowa Press Photographers Association (IAPPA) short course held at Iowa State College this weekend.

Larry Day, A3, Grimes, chief photographer of the Hawkeye and 1958-60 Hawkeye editor won first place in the sports picture category with his action of two SUI trampolinists.

Jerry Mosey, A3, Lake Forest, Ill., took first and third places for his spot news pictures of the Setterberg accident. Mosey was chief photographer of the Daily Iowan in 1957.

About 500 pictures were entered in the contest held with the short course. The awards were presented following the IAPPA banquet at the ISC memorial union.

Mary Ann Sheahan, A1, Highland Park, Ill., was named Miss Iowa Press Photographer. She was sponsored by L. W. Ward of WMT-TV in Cedar Rapids.

George Bush, professor and head of the University of Minnesota pictorial journalism sequence, spoke at the banquet on "What Press Photographers Should Be Doing."

The national press photographer of the year, Earl Seubert of the Milwaukee Star-Tribune gave an illustrated talk on 35 mm. photography.

Other speeches were given on free lance and sports photography, composition in pictures, color reproduction, and how to plan a picture story. Manufacturers of photographic supplies spoke and passed out samples of their products.

Robert Kerns, Cedar Rapids Gazette photographer and former Daily Iowan chief photographer, took the sweepstakes award in the photographers contest. The prize-winning picture was a scenic, entitled "Winter Artistry."

Other winners in the contest were:

Portfolio — Three Cedar Rapids Gazette Photographers.

Pictorial — Tom Meryman, Cedar Rapids Gazette, first; James Shaffer, Dubuque Telegraph-Herald, second; Vernon Brown, Muscatine Journal, third.

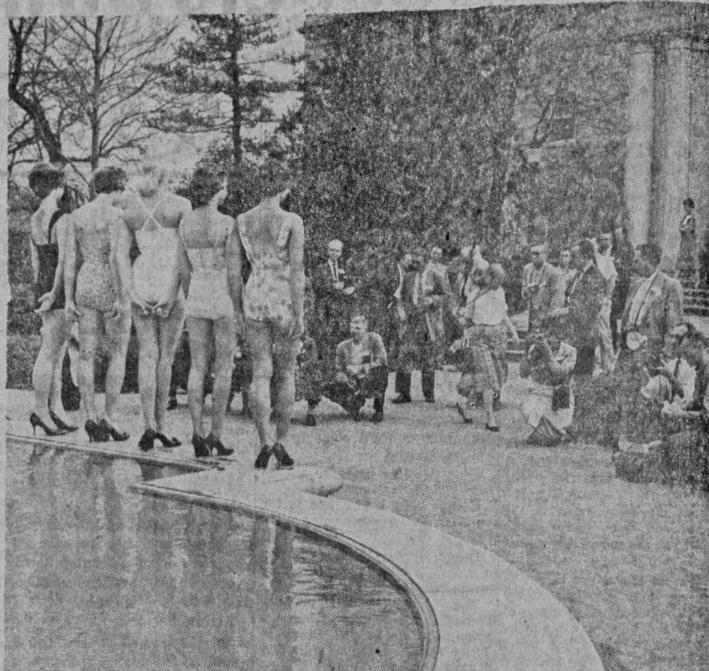

Feature Picture — Kerns, first and second places, E. L. Musser, Mason City Globe Gazette, third.

Sport picture — Larry Day, SUI Hawkeye, first; Meryman, second; Kerns, third.

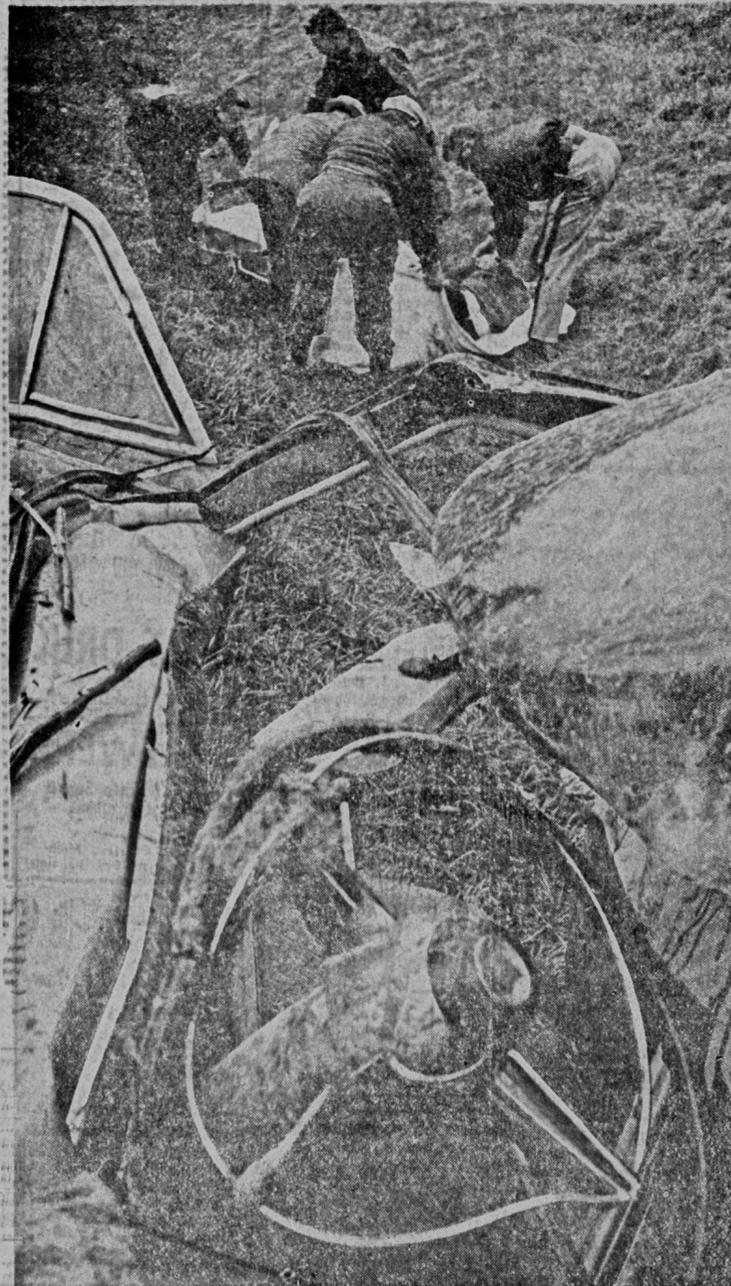

Spot News — Jerry Mosey, Daily Iowan, first; Dale Stierman, Dubuque Telegraph-Herald, second; Mosey, third.

Picture Story — Kerns, Shaffer, Meryman.

The winning pictures from the Iowa contest will be sent to the national press photographer's association meeting held this year in Miami Beach, Fla.

MISS IOWA PRESS PHOTOGRAPHER candidates line the fountain in front of the Iowa Memorial Union at Iowa State College while Iowa photographers, including those from the Daily Iowan snap photos. (The winner is on the right.)

FIRST PLACE IN SPOT NEWS in Iowa was awarded this picture by Iowan photographer Jerry Mosey. The picture was taken at the Setterberg accident south of Iowa City.

FIRST PLACE in sports pictures went to Larry Day for this trampoline duo taken in the Iowa Field House. Day has been chief photographer of the Iowan and Hawkeye and is Hawkeye editor next year.

THIRD PLACE in spot news was also won by Jerry Mosey. This picture, too, was taken at the Setterberg wreck.

Red Lunik Probe Said To Be Hoax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Space Committee decided Monday to investigate claims that Russia's man-made planet Lunik was a hoax.

Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La.) said the committee would spend two days next week delving into this and other matters.

Brooks said he would invite magazine correspondent Lloyd Mallan to appear along with officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Mallan claimed in a recent article based on a series of talks with Russian scientists that Russia's claim of having sent Lunik soaring past the moon and into orbit around the Sun last January was nothing but a "big Red lie."

He said Lunik "does not exist and never did."

Rep. Victor L. Anfuso (D-N.Y.) demanded that the committee look into the claim to "set the American people straight on the issue."

A number of space scientists have said they did not doubt Russia's claim. Among them are Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy director of NASA, Dr. Homer E. Newell Jr. of NASA, Dr. G. P. Clemence of the Naval Observatory and Dr. S. Fred Singer of the University of Maryland.

Some scientists have reported picking up very high frequency radio signals from Lunik.

The committee Monday heard NASA Chief T. Keith Glennan predict that in a few years Congress may be asked to appropriate a billion dollars annually for space projects.

The space budget for the next fiscal year is more than 400 million. However, if space work is "vigorously pushed," Glennan said, the sum may climb to a billion in the not too distant future.

Glennan appeared before the House unit to argue for an authorization to spend $4.75 million on a new research center for the testing of high energy and liquid rocket propellants.

during May on their latest findings from upper atmosphere research. Each of the meetings, open to the public, will be held in 301, Physics Building.

Tuesday afternoon at 4 p.m., Frank B. McDonald will speak on "Primary Cosmic Ray Intensities during a Solar Cycle." Dr. McDonald, assistant professor of physics, has flown over 50 atmospheric probes with bundles of cosmic ray apparatus attached to rockets and Skyhook balloons since coming SUI in 1953. He will leave SUI in August to organize a group of cosmic ray scientists with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington, D.C.

On May 12, Miss Pamela Rothwell will speak on "Charged Particles in the Earth's Magnetic Field." Miss Rothwell, a native of England, came to SUI in November and is serving as a research associate on the SUI physics staff for one year. She is a graduate of Oxford University and was on the faculty of Imperial College, University of London, previous to her coming to SUI.

"Solar Flares, Radio Noise and Cosmic Rays" will be the subject of the May 19 colloquium. Kinsey Anderson, assistant professor of physics, will speak on his work, including preliminary results of his latest research expedition to Fairbanks, Alaska, where he successfully launched five Skyhook balloons. Dr. Anderson was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship late last month and plans to study for one year at the Royal Institute of Technology at Stockholm, Sweden.

Laurence Cahill, SUI research associate who received his doctorate last February, will speak on "Electrical Currents in the Ionosphere" on May 26. Dr. Cahill was the first person to make extensive measurements of electrical currents at 60 and 73 miles above the earth with rocket-borne instruments. He began his research at SUI in 1953 by designing a small rugged instrument which fit into a rocket nose cone, and obtained the first high-altitude magnetic measurements ever made in or near the auroral zone. All of the talks are scheduled for 4 p.m.

Lucy Wants Big Audience To Give Her Performance

HOLLYWOOD, (UPI) — Comedienne Lucille Ball said Monday she refused to appear at a youth rally in Oklahoma City because the crowd was too small due to a "goof" in the publicity.

"We had the house counted very carefully by the police, the Lieutenant Governor and people who were on the show committee," she said. "There were only some 320 people in the stands, plus the band."

"I could have performed," she added, "perhaps I should have. I have for less people. But I felt that if they continually ask Hollywood people to do benefits then they should care enough to publicize the event."

Dist. Judge Fred Daugherty told disappointed teenagers at the rally:

"We made arrangements for Miss Ball to come to Oklahoma City and she did come here. She was disappointed at the size of the crowd. We who attempted to present this show are also disappointed. Miss Ball did not feel compelled to present herself to an audience so small... the way you react is going to determine just exactly the kind of citizens you are."

Liquor By Drink Issue Bows Again

DES MOINES (UPI) — An attempt to bring liquor by the drink to the Senate calendar to finance an increase in agricultural land tax credits and an Okoboji sewer improvement failed by a vote of 25-21 Monday.

Senate rules require 30 votes to take a bill out of the hands of a committee and put it on the calendar.

The unexpected move occurred when Sen. LeRoy Getting (R-Sanborn) was trying to bring to the calendar a House passed bill to appropriate $500,000 to help develop the Iowa Great Lakes Sanitary District in the Okoboji area.

The Senate Appropriations Committee has not approved the bill. Sen. Gene Hoffman (D-West Grove) and others who argued that the Senate should reconsider its attitude against legalizing liquor by the drink said that the lake project and other needed projects could be financed by liquor taxes.

Strike Follows Rape Incident

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Hundreds of Negro college students began a "passive resistance" classroom strike Monday to dramatize the case of a Negro coed who police say was raped by four white youths.

As the students prayed, sang hymns and spirituals and listened to speeches on the Quadrangle at Florida A&M University, a Negro school, Sheriff W. P. Joyce planned to move the four accused youths from jail to the county courthouse for a preliminary hearing.

Joyce refused to say what time the four were to be brought before County Judge James Gwynn for the hearing.

The Florida Legislature, now in session, took no official stand on the case. But House Speaker Tom Beasley, who already has introduced a bill this session to repeal capital punishment in Florida, said he felt they should get "the same punishment as anybody else for doing that kind of thing."

The four white youths were identified as Ollie Stoutamire, 18; David L. Beagles, 18; Pat Scarborough, 20; and William Ted Collingsworth, 24, a telephone company lineman and the only one of the four who is married. The sheriff and a special investigator said they all admitted abducting the 19-year-old Florida A&M coed early Saturday, forcing her into their car and raping her.

Long-Range Foreign Aid Talks Begin In Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon Monday opened the Administration's uphill fight for approval of President Eisenhower's $3.9 billion foreign aid program, calling it "truly vital" to peace and the nation's survival.

Testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Dillon declared that "a stronger case can be made for increasing than for decreasing" the aid program.

He said that without the aid program, "worldwide despair and defeat are inevitable — with it, the hope for the future can be bright."

It was Dillon's first appearance before a Congressional group since the President nominated him to be second-in-command of the State Department under Christian A. Herter.

A foretaste of the bumpy road ahead was given when Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) urged Dillon to make sure that any instances of mismanagement in the aid program are dealt with firmly and quickly.

"It's going to be tough to get anywhere like the funds you want authorized by Congress," Humphrey told Dillon. "I want to be able to answer the arguments of some of my colleagues."

Dillon also was questioned critically by Committee Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) as

Truman Calls For Repeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman Monday described the ban on Presidential third terms as a "bill of goods" sold to the country by Roosevelt haters.

He called for its repeal on grounds that the man in the White House "needs all the prestige and all the position of leadership that is possible."

A ban against a third term, he said, means "you've sent him out to fight with one hand tied behind him because everyone knows he can't run for reelection."

Truman made the comments in a half-hour appearance before the Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional amendments.

After Truman finished his 3 1/2 page statement, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) predicted early committee action on the repeal proposal, advanced by Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo.).

Dirksen said he would bring the matter up at the weekly GOP leaders meeting at the White House and at the Senate GOP policy meeting this week.

President Eisenhower has taken no stand on the bill, although he has said generally that he opposes the two-term limit. It was enacted in 1947 after being initiated by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress and ratified by the states.

U.S. Challenges Soviet Union To Honest Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States said Monday it will "negotiate in good faith" in the forthcoming Geneva Foreign Ministers Conference and again challenged Russia to do likewise.

The State Department spelled out the U.S. position in a special statement issued following an hour-long meeting between President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Herter leaves Friday for Geneva where the Allied Foreign Ministers will present Russia with a package plan covering Berlin, the overall German problem and European security.

Diplomatic officials said they expected Russia to take a tough stand at least at the start of the Geneva talks.

This attitude also was reflected in the State Department statement which was issued by Press Officer Joseph Reap when he was asked for comment on an attack on the Allied package by the Soviet newspaper, Izvestia.

Reap refused direct comment on the Izvestia criticism, but read the following brief statement:

"The U.S. Government is going to the Geneva Foreign Ministers Conference, ready to negotiate in good faith in an effort to make a beginning for a solution of the grave problems that continue to endanger the peace of the world and security of the peoples of Europe."

Mortar Board 'Taps' 13 Juniors

Thirteen junior women were "tapped" Sunday afternoon as new members of Mortar Board, national honorary society for senior women.

The initiates were selected by the active Mortar Board chapter with recommendations of the SUI administration and advisors to campus groups.

Junior girls had previously voted for the scholastically eligible junior women whom they felt had been outstanding in campus activities. The final selection considered girls in the upper one third of the junior class.

The Mortar Board initiates and their majors are: Cheryl Brown, general science, Waterloo; Diane Cherry, history, Cincinnati, Ohio;

Iraq Asks Britain For Military Aid

LONDON (UPI) — The Communist-supported Iraqi Government of Premier Gen. Abdel Karim Kassem has asked Britain to supply it with arms and military aircraft, including late-model jets, diplomatic sources reported Monday.

The sources said the Baghdad request was made secretly through diplomatic channels last month. It was reported to be under careful consideration by the British, who were the chief arms suppliers to Iraq before the July, 1958, revolution that overthrew the Monarchy.

The reported request, coinciding with Soviet offers of aid to the Kassem Regime, prompted speculation that the Baghdad Government was not thus far irrevocably committed to a Communist course.

There was no official comment on the Baghdad move and details of the reported arms request remained a secret.

Diplomatic sources, however, said it included a request for spare parts for arms delivered by Britain to Iraq before last year's revolution.

The Iraqis also were reported to have asked for "replacement" of arms, the supply of fresh weapons and, above all for military planes, including modern-type jet aircraft.

Such an Iraqi-arms request was understood to have been one of the prime topics of discussion here recently between Government officials and Sir Humphrey Trevelyan, British ambassador to Baghdad.

Brain Surgeon Dies In Montreal

Dr. William V. Cone, 62, one of the world's leading brain surgeons, died Monday in his office at the Montreal, Quebec, Neurological Institute.

Club Banquet To Be Held Here Friday

The annual International Club Banquet will be held on Friday at 7 p.m. in the River Room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Three awards will be given to persons or organizations which have done most to further international understanding and goodwill at SUI during the past year.

The Bose Award, named in honor of Sudhindra Bose of India and professor of physical science at SUI, is given to a foreign student. The Carl E. Seashore Award is given to an American student. The Hancher Award is given to an organization which has done most to promote good international relations.

Marion L. Huit, dean of students at SUI, will present the awards, and Kirk H. Porter, head of the Political Science Department, will speak on "The Regime of Law on the International Scene."

The evening's program will begin with a welcome by Betty Ann Junk, A4, Maquoketa, president of the International Club.

An open house at the International Center will be held after the banquet for those who wish to attend.

Diptish Chakravarty, G. India, is chairman of the publicity and invitations committee, Chuck Plummer A3, LeMars, is in charge of decorations, and Jeva Lemans, A3, Independence, is entertainment committee chairman.

Tickets for the banquet are available at the Office of Student Affairs at $1.25 for club members and $2.25 for non-members. The deadline for buying tickets is Thursday noon. The public is invited.

Diplomat Confers With Russians On Lost Airmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — On order from President Eisenhower, the U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union Monday conferred with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev regarding the fate of American airmen shot down by Soviet aircraft last September.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced the topic. Ambassador Lewellyn Thompson had taken up with Khrushchev in Moscow.

The conference dealt with the fate of 11 American airmen still missing and unaccounted for. They were aboard a U.S. transport plane which was shot down over Soviet Armenia last Sept. 20.

The bodies of some of the men aboard the plane were returned to American authorities some months ago. The Soviet Union has insisted it has no information regarding the fate of the others.

Several weeks ago the State Department made public a recording of the voices of Soviet airmen who were engaged in shooting down the U.S. plane.

Khrushchev Views US Exhibition In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nikita S. Khrushchev showed up as a sidewalk superintendent at the American Exhibition site in Moscow Monday to examine everything from construction workers' helmets to a dome-style pavilion.

The Soviet premier liked the helmets but said a Russian had designed a similar dome pavilion first, "many years ago."

The pre-fabricated model house exhibit, which the Tass News Agency derided as being too luxurious and costly for the average American, drew criticism from Khrushchev.

He said the house, wood covered with stucco, was designed to last only 20 years "so right after the owners make their last (mortgage) payment they have to buy another."

City Gets First Official Forester

Raymond R. Bruns, 32, 1034 Marcy St. became the first official City Forester Monday. He came here from Overland, Mo., where he was the owner a tree surgery and landscaping business.

Brun's duties will include conducting tree census surveys, making recommendations for disease prevention programs and serving as an advisor to Iowa City residents and various city departments.

The position of City Forester was authorized by the City Council when the current budget was adopted in July, 1958. The position will pay $5,250 annually.

Brun is married and has two children. He graduated from the University of Missouri in 1951.

Harrold Ankeney...

One of the sure ways of recognizing a quality store is by its ability to keep merchandise properly stocked and displayed for your benefit. At Iowa Book & Supply Company, Harrold Ankeney, senior in the College of Commerce and part-time student employee, checks in supplies, records inventories, and prices many of the items you see on the main floor. Majoring in General Business, Harrold plans on entering the bookstore retailing field upon graduation this June. Harrold's wife, Nancy, is also a key member of the Iowa Book & Supply staff. She also works part-time, in the main office and book department.

- Harrold is one of the main floor salesmen and can help you in purchasing any of the following supplies for your home or campus room.
- WASTE BASKETS • DESK SETS • BLOTTERS • BOOKENDS • LETTER HOLDERS • LAMPS • DIARIES • BUDGET BOOKS • TELEPHONE BOOKS • CALENDARS • BOOK COVERS • plus various games (cribbage, chess, checkers and playing cards).

Of most importance in this area is the quality thesis paper available in Eaton's Corasable Bond (25% rag content and in four weights: 20 lb., 16 lb., 13 lb., and 9 lb.). There is also a wide selection of carbon paper for regular or electric typewriters. Thesis covers in this department range in price from 15c to 45c.

Harrold says that one of the finest buys in his department is the new University of Iowa Scrapbook. These make beautiful souvenirs and can be used as a personal supplement to the University Yearbook. Your name or title will be printed in gold, FREE, on the cover.

These new attractive scrapbooks are priced at $4.95 and $6.95 with hardbound cover.

Also on the main floor are very fine buys in briefcases. These Tufide cases are unconditionally guaranteed for 5 years and come in three colors: London Tan, British Brown, and Black. Don't forget to visit the Nebbishes. These are the good-for-nothing little odds-and-ends with the forward look for backward people. Nebbishes are found on ashtrays, dolls, coasters, pennants, and motto signs.

'Design '59' Opens Here Wednesday

Everything from a redesigned toothbrush to new type of kitchen table will be on display in the main gallery of the SUI Art Building when "Design '59" opens Wednesday.

The annual exhibit, now in its eleventh year, will be open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge. The exhibit will continue through June 1.

The central design theme of the exhibition this year will be a "space frame" made of delicate pieces of white pine assembled in a pyramid form and suspended from the ceiling. Display settings for each item in the exhibition will follow the form of this triangular symbol.

John H. Schulze, professor of art and director of the exhibition, said the title "SUI Design '59" was chosen to emphasize that design training at SUI is one of the most comprehensive programs in the United States, cutting across departmental lines to give the student a broad education.

"For instance a student interested in the business side of design might take courses in the College of Commerce or Engineering or other special fields that only a large university has to offer," Schulze said.

On display at the design show will be new furniture and other household items, toys, posters and models of houses and other buildings designed by students in basic, industrial, architectural and graphic design courses at SUI.
