Justice Douglas Views Future Of Asia—

India: Real Test Of Democracy

U.S. Too Concerned With Guns, Dollars

By CORKEY STERLING
Staff Writer

A contest between Red China and India will determine the alliance of the rest of Asia, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court William O. Douglas said Wednesday night.

In a lecture presented by the University Lecture Series Douglas said the real test of survival of democracy rests with India.

Although India is sometimes referred to as a neutral country, Douglas pointed out that the correct term was isolationist. "They are committed on the democratic side; not the military," he said. "Their constitution is much like ours and grants the same rights to the individual."

Douglas said Red China and India are now about even in the race to control Asia. He said India has an edge on the consumer side and Red China's edge was the industrial plant. The control he referred to was not in the form of colonization, but a control effected through ideals that lead to alliances.

The United States attitude toward Asia has been wrong, Douglas said. Instead of promoting the cause of independence, the Americans were too concerned with "guns and dollars," he said.

"The greatest desire of the Asians is to learn how to conduct a revolution," Douglas said, "and someone is going to show them how." He pointed out that Communist groups had flooded the Asian markets with literature, but the United States had failed to provide any mass distribution of literature other than comic books. Douglas said colonization of Asia had left a number of problems that must still be faced. The greatest of

Not Presidential Hopeful

Justice William O. Douglas told a press conference Wednesday that he would not accept the Democratic nomination for president. "I have decided to make my career in the judiciary, not politics," he said in response to a reporter's question.

He added that President Truman had asked Douglas to run for vice-president in the 1948 campaign. "I thought it over for a weekend, and decided against it," he said. "The judiciary can't interfere with politics, Douglas said, and refused to comment on the 1960 presidential race.

These is an educational problem. The people of Asia desire independence, he said, but must also learn how to use it, he said.

Another problem for the United States to face in the freedom of Asian countries is the communist impact. Douglas said the communist theories had a geographical advantage.

This geographical advantage allows Communist Russia to show the Asians what has been done in U.S.S.R. in the 40 years following their revolution. Douglas said the best Communist propaganda program was directed to teenagers and took the form of a tour to Russian border towns.

Douglas said the Asian countries regarded Russia as a nation that awards talent and the United States as a nation that put a premium on inquisitiveness.

To avoid Asian alliances with Communist Russia through Red China Douglas said "The common cause of democracy must find some way to stay together."

Although he said there was no easy solution to problems that confront the divided world, Douglas also said the great war ahead was not military, but a political war. "We must make sure that we don't brainwash ourselves so that we can be ready for this war," he said.

Douglas said the West had more to contribute to Asia than the Soviets. "They (meaning the Asians) want freedom as well as bread," he said.

"The only way to beat communism is to emphasize the idea of freedom. We must work at improving our communication by sending American literature to flood the Asian markets. We must publicize America through our ideas, not our goods," he said.

There are two major steps the United States should consider if we are to help India win the contest in Asia, Douglas said. First, we must be willing to sponsor and finance an educational program for India, he said.

Some financial commitment that would last long enough to establish a paid program with continuity was the second proposal Douglas made.

Council Objects To Auto Ban Study

An objection to the Board of Regents for its planned study that would correlate student car ownership and scholastic achievement was passed by the Student Council by a 12 to 9 vote Wednesday night. The proposal objects to the use of such a study to reach a decision on car ownership at SUI.

The Council also approved a statement that student opinion here backs continued SUI participation in the Rose Bowl. If the Big Ten elects to discontinue the annual football game, the statement said, post-season games for members of the Big Ten should be scheduled as the schools see fit. Copies of the Council statement will be sent to other Big Ten schools. The Daily Iowan and the Des Moines Register.

The motion was tabled by the council at its last meeting.

In other action, the Council referred to a study committee a proposal by the Young Democrats urging the Council to recommend to the Iowa Board of Regents that compulsory ROTC at SUI be abolished. The proposal would put ROTC on a voluntary basis here. A report from the study committee is expected to be made at the Council's next meeting May 20.

Kenneth Krueger, C3, Kirkman, was named treasurer by the Council. Three new appointees to the Student Traffic Court are: Dave Coppin, C3, Elmhurst, Ill., dormitory representative; Robert Bateson, L2, Coralville, married students; and Don Lindholm, A3, Burlington, town. Lindholm served as justice of the court last term.

4 Law Seniors Ready Cases For Court Day

The SUI College of Law will play host to the full bench of the Supreme Court of Iowa during Supreme Court Day activities Friday.

Organized in 1927, Supreme Court Day is associated with a program of arguments and competition among law students throughout the three years of study. To four SUI law seniors each year, Supreme Court Day represents the culmination of a series of competitive arguments through which they have successfully passed.

The series begins in the freshman year of law school during which all students argue before judges consisting of a practicing attorney and senior law students.

Winners of freshman arguments are then eligible to participate in the second year arguments. Both procedures are similar except that a District Court judge presides over the second year arguments.

During the senior year, on Supreme Court Day, a hearing is held before the full bench of the Iowa Supreme Court. The four students are selected by a process of elimination and by scholastic record. High tributes are frequently paid to participating students.

Other traditions of Supreme Court Day are the Order of the Coif initiation and presentation of awards to students who have participated in second year and Supreme Court Day arguments. Seniors in the highest 10 per cent of their classes scholastically become members of the Law College honorary, and traditionally an honorary member is elected to the Order of the Coif. John Randall, Cedar Rapids, American Bar Association president-elect, has been elected to the Order this year.

The four seniors arguing before the Supreme Court this year are John H. Allen, Indianola; Richard W. Baskerville, Monona; Philip A. Leff, Iowa City; and John W. Rathert, Cresco.

Arguments will concern the right of a fictitious city to install parking meters in a residential area, and whether property owners would be able to protest the building of a two-story parking lot.

ODK To Tap 19 Men At Banquet

Seventeen students and two faculty members will be surprised but honored tonight with a slap on the back.

It is part of the tapping ceremonies for Omicron Delta Kappa, upperclassmen's leadership honor society, which will be conducted at the Leadership Banquet to be held in the Iowa Memorial Union at 6:30 p.m.

Dave Fitzsimmons, A4, Boone, ODK banquet committee chairman, said that present ODK members will circulate among the tables, approach the persons nominated to membership, and give each a brisk, sharp tap on the back.

It is the first knowledge each person will have of his nomination, Fitzsimmons said. Following the tap, a spotlight will be focused on the person as he is introduced and escorted to a raised platform, he said.

Approximately 350 student, faculty and community leaders will attend the second annual Leadership Banquet sponsored by the Retail Merchants division of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce.

An award will be presented for the first time this year to the most outstanding community leader. Robert Ray, director of the SUI Institute of Public Affairs, will speak on "The Climate for Leadership," and new members of Mortar Board, national society for senior women, will be introduced.

House Passes New Remap

May Not Reach Senate This Season

DES MOINES (AP)—Rural legislators pushed a last, end-of-the-road try for legislative reapportionment through the Iowa House Wednesday, despite strong indications the measure never will reach the Senate floor.

The plan they offered, written by Sen. Jack Miller (R-Sioux City), was attacked by representatives from more populous counties as "no reapportionment at all."

But the well-organized rural legislators voted down attempts to substitute two other plans, then passed the measure 68-35.

The debate was characterized by these developments:

1. A statement by Rep. Ivan Wells (D-Bedford) that in his opinion farm people have more "backbone" than city people and are entitled to more representation.

2. A declaration by Rep. Riley Dietz (R-Walcott) that the Senate had decided it wouldn't consider the plan even if the House passed it.

3. An observation by Rep. Lawrence Carstensen (R-Clinton) that in view of the Senate's action, "we are wasting time, money and effort, and making fools of ourselves" in arguing over the plan.

The Miller plan would leave the House exactly as it is now—one representative from each of the 99 counties, plus an additional one from each of the nine most populous counties. The only difference would be that the counties electing more than one representative would be divided into districts as nearly equal in area as practicable.

The Senate would have 56 members apportioned among the congressional districts of each state on a population basis. Each congressional district would be divided into senatorial districts of roughly equal population.

Each district would have 7 representatives, except that it would lose one for each 50,000 if its population fell below the average of all the districts, and gain one for each 50,000 population above the average.

According to figures supplied by Miller that would mean the 1st, 3rd and 5th districts would have 8 senators each, the 2nd 9, the 4th and 7th each, and 6th and 8th, 6 each.

It was during debate on a proposed substitute offered by Rep. Don Kimball (R-Fayette) that Rep. Wells made his statement. He said he opposed Kimball's plan because it would deprive some small counties of some of their present representation in the population house.

"The theory that you've got to have one representative for so many people, I don't think applies," Wells said.

Last Play Of Season Starts May 14

Tickets go on sale today for the modern French drama, "The World is Round" by Armand Salacrou. The play will be performed May 14 to 16 and 20 to 23 in the University Theatre.

The ticket reservation office at the Memorial Union is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon. SUI students will receive reserved seat tickets upon presentation of I.D. cards.

"The World is Round," which has been translated from the French text by the play's director James Clancy, has been described as a play that touches upon the past to illuminate the present.

It is primarily a love story which centers around the two daughters of a widower in Florence, during the reign of the Monk-dictator Savonaroli. The story is concerned with the effects of existing social conditions in the last half of the 15th century upon this family.

"The World is Round" has a history intimately connected with European political development. In 1938 when it was first produced in Italy, followers of Mussolini constantly interrupted the drama during the second act. Eventually it was withdrawn from the Italian stage, and after the second world war the play was revived in France.

Members of the cast are: David Thompson, A4, Bedford; Ken Brown, A3, Council Bluffs; Jane Gilchrist, A2, Denison; Richard Marriot, A3, Davenport; Virginia Grell, A1, Garner; Roger Collisson, A2, Keokuk; Dennis Jones, A3, Marion; Arlene Snyder, G, Mt. To Begin Building DM Freeway

AMES (AP)—The Iowa Highway Commission Wednesday approved low bids on two phases of Des Moines Freeway construction but rejected the only bid on a segment of paving.

The Commission tossed out as unsatisfactory the bid by John P. Abramson Construction Co. of Des Moines for the Portland cement concrete work on the freeway near Harding Road to 19th Street.

However, the commission did approve the apparent low bids of Cramer & Bayse Construction Co. of Newell for two concrete box girder bridges on the same section of freeway. The company's total bid was $320,756.

Surety Lumber and Salvage Co. of Detroit was approved as low bidder on removal of 125 dwelling houses and commercial buildings on the freeway between 9th Street and 25th Street. Its bid was $39,680.

Commission Chairman Russell Lundy said the commission cannot award any contract or proceed with any work until Des Moines approves the bids.

The commission also approved low bids, subject to concurrence of the Bureau of Public Roads, on grading and bridges and culverts on Interstate 80 in Cedar and Pottawattamie counties.

Contracts were awarded: Schmidt Construction Co., Winfield, $16,273, for concrete slab bridge on access road north of Interstate 80 in Cedar County.

Carpenter and Kraft Construction Co., West Union, $98,130; Jensen Construction Co., Des Moines, $195,933; Yegge & Blosser Construction Co., Boone, $85,711; and Christensen Bros., Cherokee, $114,865, for culverts and bridges on Interstate 80N in Pottawattamie County.

Pasco Construction Co., Sioux Falls, S. D., $411,074, for 2.6 miles of grading on Interstate 80N in Pottawattamie. There were 14 bidders on this project.

MATURE LOVE BOURNEMOUTH, England, (UPI)—Jim Sutcliffe, 81, said he was concerned about his future marriage in supporting demands for an increase in pensions.

"If we don't get any more money I don't know how I'm going to get on at the end of this month when I get married," he told the conference of the National Federation of Old Age Pensioners' Association. Sutcliffe's bride-to-be is 74.

Sutcliffe spoke in support of a resolution calling for an increase in retirement pension from $7 a week to $11.20 for single persons and from $11.20 to $22.40 for married couples.

However, the 19-year-old Tallahassee girl walked unaided through the courtroom to the grand jury room.

She left the courthouse immediately after her brief appearance before the jury of 18 white men. Six other witnesses were heard.

The witnesses included two Negro youths who were on a double date with the victim and a friend just before the multiple attacks occurred.

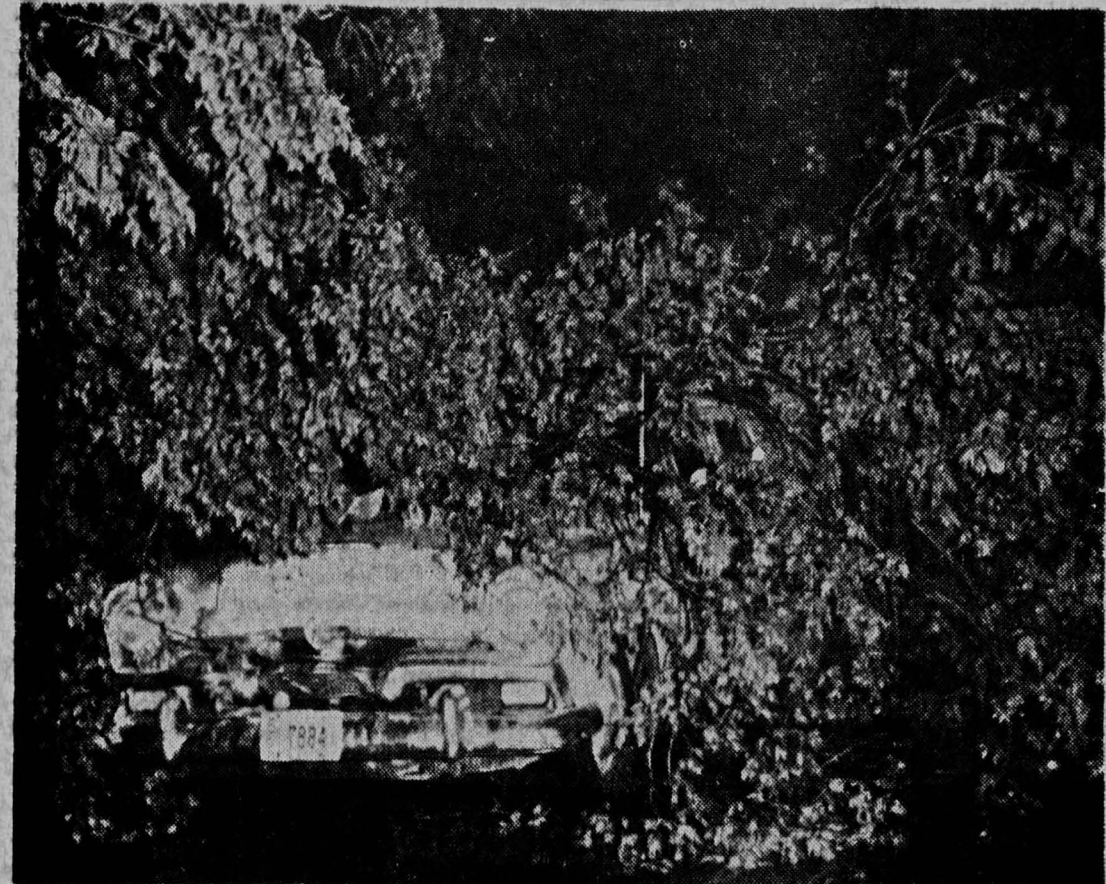

The white men have confessed snatching the coed from the spot where the young Negro couples were parked after a college dance, taking her to a lonely, wooded area and raping her repeatedly.

What, No Mermaids?

"How deep is the ocean, how high is the sky" as the popular lyric goes, describes fairly appropriately last week's annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences at Washington, D.C.

While some of the astute men of science were concerning themselves with the unsolved mysteries of the heavens, others speculated about phenomena much closer at hand—on the floor of the ocean.

Old Beowulf's tale may soon gain a degree of credence if some of the speculations brought forth at the Academy's Symposium on the Deep Sea happen to be appreciably correct.

Certain scientists are convinced, it is said, that somewhere in the deepest troughs of the ocean, creatures of gigantic size—perhaps even a bona fide sea serpent—may swim about in the icy, totally dark waters.

Dr. Roger Revelle, director of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography at La Jolla, California, told the symposium that many scientists "think there may be quite large critters" in the deepest ocean trenches, many of which are seven miles in depth.

Although man has never been privileged to see these sea-going giants, Revelle pointed out, there seems to be definite proof of birth, at least for the so-called "sea serpent."

Even small living things brought to the surface from the relatively shallow depth of 35,000 feet, Revelle continued, are giants compared to their shallow water kin.

Reason for the belief that a strange, eel-like "sea monster" does truly exist is attributed to the fact that eel larvae 50 times larger than the larvae of American or European eels has been found in the Pacific at comparatively shallow depths. While the larval form of the eels now known to man is measured in inches, these young giants are measured in feet.

Oceanographers, Revelle predicted, will reach the sea's deepest depths within the next ten years. Work is now progressing on the development of a deep-diving bathyscope.

It looks, therefore, that a very interesting race is now under way, with the two groups of contestants intent on traveling in opposite directions—up, and down. In the next ten years, it may not be too much to hope that man will be privileged to observe samples of the moon's surface, and, perhaps, a genuine sea monster that will make Moby Dick seem too small to even rate a position on a crappe fisherman's stringer.

Classical Language Study?

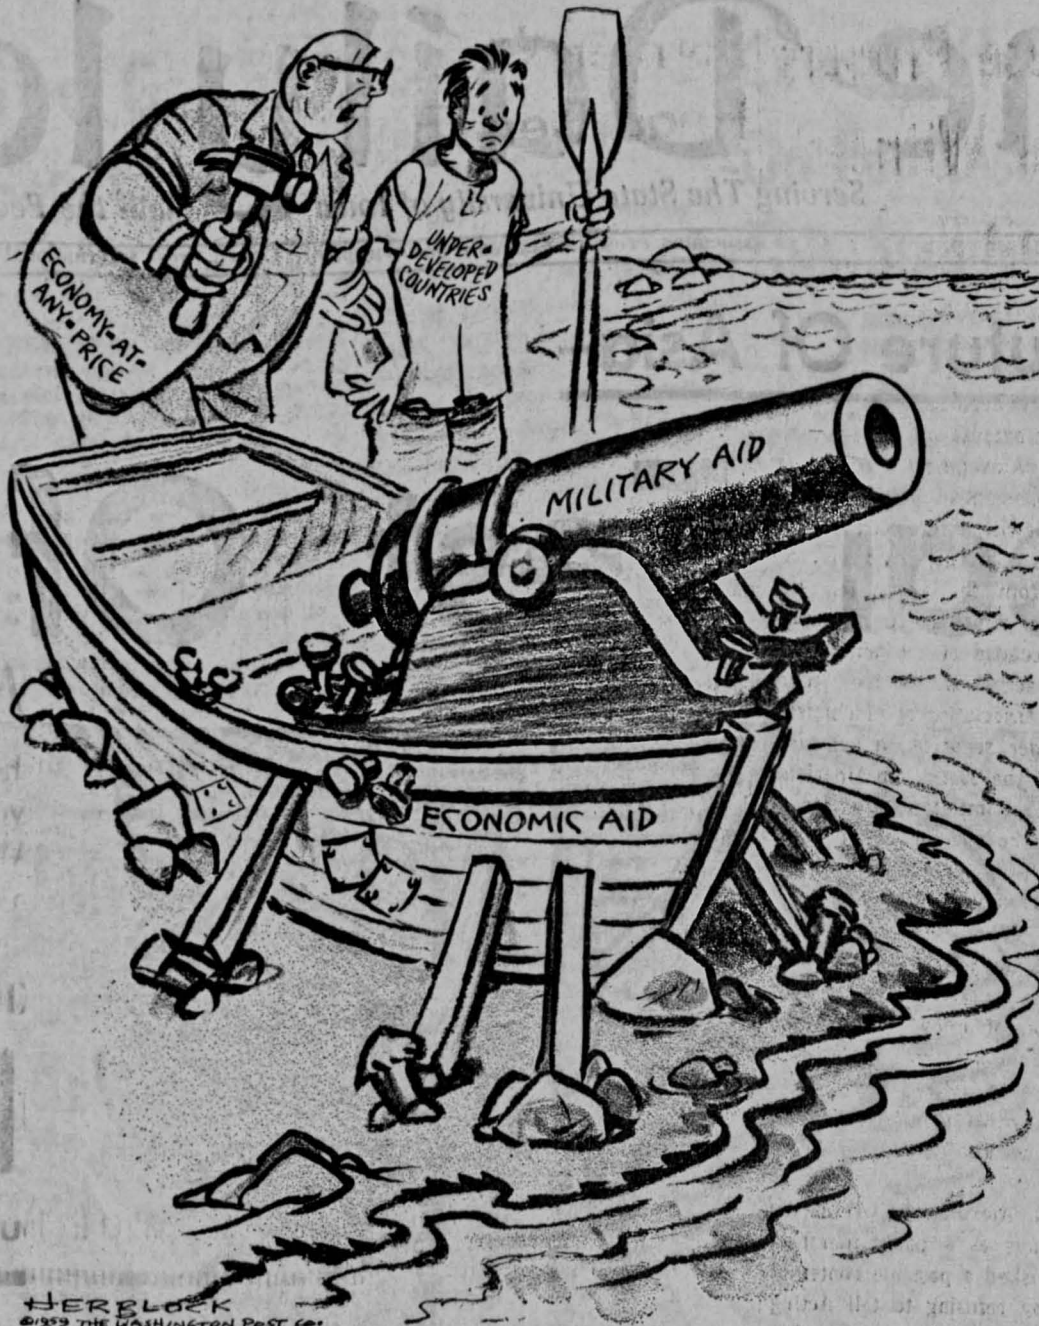

A high school girl in New Jersey has touched off an interesting discussion by writing to more than a hundred prominent persons to ask an evaluation of the study of Latin. Almost all the replies, including those of the Vice President, two Supreme Court justices and several college presidents, gave a warm endorsement to the usefulness of classical language study.

At this time the question is far from merely academic. We are in a period of vastly expanding world-wide relationships. What we do and what we spend in doing it are under constant scrutiny and frequent criticism. Obviously we wish to do a better job with the resources at our command.

The critics, both sympathetic and otherwise, are agreed that one of the drawbacks to our effectiveness in various enterprises is our lack of adequate language foundation. Our professional Foreign Service recognized this years ago and has made language training an essential part of preparation for any overseas service. Now, however, our representatives abroad have multiplied to such an extent that adequate training is often difficult, if not impossible.

It is logical, therefore, to ask our schools and colleges to put fresh emphasis on language study and to give such assistance to them as may be needed in special cases. We have not hesitated to cry for more instruction in mathematics and physics under certain pressures. We should be no less eager to provide them other equally useful tools.—The New Times.

Few Western Officials Think Berlin Situation Will Lead To All-Out Clash

Lines Drawn At 1945 Yalta Conference When Concessions Were Granted Stalin By Roosevelt And Churchill

Third in Series By HERBERT ALTSCHULL

BONN, Germany (AP) — President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev say that if war starts over the Berlin issue the other side will be the one that shoots first. In a way they're both right.

The immediate threat of war is raised over the supply routes to West Berlin, sometimes called the lines of that city isolated behind the Iron Curtain. Perhaps X-day will never come. But it could come and it could lead to World War III.

Few Western officials think the situation will end in war, since neither East nor West is anxious to be smashed in a nuclear holocaust. The lines were drawn at the 1945 Yalta conference when Roosevelt and Churchill agreed to major concessions to Stalin, as Russian troops swept forward while the Americans and British were struggling back from their setback in the Battle of the Bulge.

San Francisco Summit Conference—Bad Russian Memories

By J.M. ROBERTS Associated Press News Analyst

Every now and then someone revives the idea of holding the next summit conference in San Francisco. The thought is that a visit to the birthplace of the United Nations just might revive some atmosphere of amity among the leaders of the Soviet Union, France, Britain and the United States, and that it would be a good opportunity to show the country to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Some of the memories connected with San Francisco are not, however, entirely happy ones for the Soviets, tightly aside from their contempt for the U.N. Mention of the famous Presidio as a possible meeting place reminds that, whereas now it is a military establishment, it was once an administrative and prison center for the Spanish rulers who look a very dim view of Russian attempts to penetrate the new world.

Harry Truman Still Full Of Fun, Ready To Fight

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the tag end of his life that controversial man from Missouri, Harry Truman, has finally hit something on which we all can agree.

If we could be sure of having Truman's vitality, then reaching 75 would be worth looking forward to.

Truman has been bouncing (there's no other word for it) around town for a week, greeting old friends, whacking old enemies, getting ready for his 75th birthday party Friday.

Few Changes

Anyone trying to keep up with him will notice a few changes from the days when he was in the White House, one of the world's most important men.

He still combines humility with egotism, blurs out the appropriate with the inappropriate, leaps lightly from the trivial to the important.

True, he's paunchy now. True, when he relaxes, his jowls droop, and maybe for a moment he looks like a tired old man.

But at the drop of a toastmaster's introduction, his eyes light up, his grin flashes. He's ready — for fun or fight.

You've heard what he has had to say on formal occasions, such as when he testified before Congress. But let's drop in on a more informal occasion, sampling the opinions he tossed cheerfully about at a University of Missouri alumni dinner. Truman, who didn't get much schooling, is an honorary graduate.

ON NEWSPAPERS in particular, especially those against him: "If one of these papers came out for me, I knew damn well I was wrong."

ON LECTURING COLLEGE STUDENTS: "Those youngsters have asked me questions that would make those boys at presidential press conferences look like 90 cents."

ON THE HOUSE COMMITTEE ON UN-AMERICAN ACTIVITIES: "I don't think I'm liable to tell them what they ought to hear, and I don't think they want to hear it."

ON HOW POLITICIANS can argue violently and still respect each other: "I've only got two bad men in my book" — everybody leaned forward here, to learn who these terrible were — "and I'm not going to tell you who they are."

But Truman also has a message. A Democracy can die of indifference. So Truman urged his listeners to hurry home and spread the good word to their children, to remind them that they have a wonderful heritage, but that they must be alert to preserve it.

"Don't be blasé," said Harry Truman.

And you couldn't help thinking as you watched the man who has never been blasé that, at 75, he symbolizes one aspect of democracy.

If we keep the old bounce, and remain eager to fight over and for the issues we truly believe in, we shouldn't be in too bad a way.

Hillcrest's Stiedler House

Molding Limp Hands Into Usefulness By JERRY KIRKPATRICK Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the tenth in a series of sixteen articles about famous STUI editors honored in the naming of units at Hillcrest Dormitory.

"Molding limp hands into usefulness and knitting club feet into normal ones which can run are typical of the countless medical miracles performed by Dr. Arthur Stiedler."

This is how Dr. N. G. Alcock of University Hospitals described Stiedler, a man who continues his practice to see patients from the United States and the world, after 80 years.

Dr. Stiedler, who for 35 years headed orthopedics at University Hospitals, has seen 70,000 patients in addition to state patients at STUI.

Dr. Stiedler was born in Vienna, June 22, 1878, and received a classical education of 19th century Austria.

On a typical day Dr. Stiedler rises at 5 a.m. to study, until breakfast at 7 a.m. He arrives at his office by 7:30 a.m.

He spends the afternoon at home resting and reading. One of his favorite pastimes is to challenge quiz contestants.

He reads, speaks and writes Latin, has a large Spanish vocabulary, learned English in 1907, speaks French fluently, has a good knowledge of Italian and Bohemian, and German was his first language.

Dr. Stiedler was honored by his fraternity Phi Epsilon Pi in 1955 with a reception attended by 300 former students.

Typical of the tributes to Dr. Stiedler was the following from Dr. A. M. Reichtman, of Philadelphia:

"There are truly few men who have lived in the last 100 years, and more particularly who are alive and active today in orthopedic surgery, who have contributed as much to this branch of work as my friend Arthur Stiedler. Again there are few men in this group who will be remembered in medicine 100 years from now for work that will still be recognized at that time as being axiomatic in orthopedic surgery."

"Combined with all this Dr. Stiedler has a humility which is rare in one who is so gifted, a personality which is delightful and a manner that makes him beloved by practically all who are privileged to know him."

Dr. Stiedler is the author of seven text books and some 83 articles, written since he joined the STUI staff in 1913.

SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER, the play by Oliver Goldsmith, will be heard this evening at 8 p.m. in a new performance by the BBC World Theatre. On February 22, 1773, Doctor Samuel Johnson wrote a letter to his friend Boswell. In it he remarked: "Doctor Goldsmith has a new comedy which is expected in the spring. No name is yet given to it. The chief diversion arises from a stragem by which a lover is made to mistake his future father-in-law's house for an inn. This, you see, borders on farce. The dialogue is quick and gay, and the incidents are so prepared as not to seem improbable." Tonight's production is accompanied by harpsichord music played by Winifred Davey.

BEETHOVEN'S NINTH SYMPHONY will be heard in mid-afternoon during the music segment which begins at 1 p.m. with excerpts from "The Sleeping Beauty" by Tchaikovsky and continues with Divertissement by Caplet and the Brahms Third Symphony.

Pinch Single Clinches Game In 8th Inning

Flu-Stricken Covington Drives In Mathews

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wes Covington's pinch single in the eighth drove home Eddie Mathews with the winning run Wednesday as the Milwaukee Braves beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4.

The defending National League champions, behind all the way, rallied for two runs in the eighth off Art Fowler, third Dodger pitcher.

The victory, credited to rookie relief pitcher Bob Giggie, solidified the Braves' hold on first place in the airtight National League race. It was Giggie's first major league win.

In the eighth inning rally, Felix Mantilla singled and came in with the tying run on Mathews' single. Mathews continued to second when Ron Fairly fumbled the ball. Hank Aaron was purposely passed and Billy Bruton fouled out. Then Covington, fighting the flu all week, came off the bench to bat for Stan Lopata and drive in Mathews with a single in short left center.

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Allison's grand-slam homer in the seventh gave Washington a 6-4 victory over the slipping Chicago White Sox Wednesday and clinaxed the Senators most successful western trip in a decade.

The Senators return to Washington with a 7-2 mark for their first western swing, the best since they won 9 of 10 on a similar junket in 1949.

Allison's big blow anchored the White Sox with their fourth successive loss and spoiled Eddy Wynn's bid for his 253rd major league victory. Wynn, who left after the seventh inning, suffered his second defeat against three victories this season.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dave Hillman of Chicago shutout the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0 Wednesday on a nifty 2-hitter.

The 31-year-old right-hander walked only 1 and struck out 2 in one of the finest performances this season.

Hillman allowed a harmless single to Don Hoak in the first and mowed down the next 15 batters before Hank Folles blasted a single to lead off the sixth.

If the Pirates had any visions of rocking Hillman they were quickly quelled as pinch hitter Rocky Nelson hit into a double play.

The Red Sox, breaking Detroit's 3 game winning streak under new manager Jimmie Dykes, sent 30 batters to the plate in the 6th, 7th and 8th innings.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Stan Musial's first home run of the year and Joe Cunningham's bases filled pinch-hit double Wednesday night sparked a 4-run eighth inning rally that gave the St. Louis Cardinals an 8-7 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Five home runs were hit, including two by Wally Post of the Phillies, his fifth and sixth of this year.

Ken Boyer's single, a walk and Ed Bouchee's error loaded the bases. Then Cunningham, batting for Hal Smith, doubled off the right field wall, scoring two runs. Dick Farrell replaced Meyer. Another run came across after an intentional walk and a forceout at third.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Norm Siebern drove in four runs with a homer and a double Wednesday night as the New York Yankees fashioned an early six-run lead and fought off a late Kansas City challenge to win 7-4.

It was the second straight victory by the world champions.

Siebern was the big man in New York's 12-hit attack on three Kansas City pitchers. He drove in one run in the first with a double, and slammed a three-run homer in the second. Tony Kubek also homered for New York and Gil McDougald had a pair of doubles.

Baltimore starter Milt Pappas, who will be 20 Monday, had a neat 6-hitter until he ran into trouble in the final frame. He gave up a walk and a single and was replaced by Billy Loes. Ray Webster greeted Loes with a 3-run homer, his first in the major leagues, that cut the Baltimore edge to a single run.

Oklahoma City Open Tourney Begins Today

No Clear Favorite Among Golf Pros

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The nation's touring golf professionals tee off today in the first round of the $25,000 Oklahoma City Open tournament.

Strong winds with gusts up to 40 m.p.h. and heavy rain played havoc with practice rounds Monday and Tuesday, but bright sunshine and brisk breeze greeted the field of 150 for Wednesday's practice session.

There was no exceptional low scores reported in practice over the Twin Hills Country Club course which plays to a par of 72 in 6,440 yards.

Trying to pick a winner would be like predicting the weather. There were a dozen or so players given a good chance to haul down the top money of $4,300 at Sunday's windup.

Six of the year's top ten money winners were on hand but missing was Art Wall Jr., the new Master's champion and the year's top money collector.

Taking up the slack were such notable competitors as Gene Littler and Arnold Palmer, who rank second and third in money winnings; National Open champion Tommy Bolt, PGA champion Dow Finsterwald, Billy Maxwell, Jay Hebert and defending champion Fred Hawkins.

Hemus Promises Card Shake-Up

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Fiery St. Louis Manager Solly Hemus promises new faces on the cellar-residing Cardinals, but General Manager Bing Devine says it's not that easy.

After the Cardinals blew one to Philadelphia Tuesday night, 8-7, Hemus moaned in the clubhouse: "We'll have some new faces on this team within the next 10 days."

Solly's sorrow was understandable since the Cards blew a 4 run lead in the ninth as 2 of his top pitchers, Jim Brosnan and Larry Jackson, sagged in relief.

But Devine wasn't so sure Wednesday.

"We're certainly not going to push the panic button," he insisted. "It's not that easy to trade unless you just put everyone on the club up for grabs."

Devine said he thought the best answer might possibly be for the ballplayers to battle out of their doldrums themselves.

Hemus indicated that the Cards were in bad shape in their bullpen. But Devine's reply was: "Everybody's pitching can be helped."

Alumni-Varsity Tilt Set For Saturday

Frank Rigney, tackles; Gary Grouwinkel, Frank Bloomquist and Bob Comings, guards; Chuck Pierce and Steve Turner, centers.

A forward look at future possibilities and a backward glance filled with nostalgia: that's a capsule on the Hawkeye Alumni vs. SUI Varsity football game in the Iowa Stadium Saturday.

Kick-off is at 1:30 p.m., the admission price is two dollars for the public and one dollar for students, there are no reserved seats and the affair will close spring work for the Iowa varsity squad.

Lineup for the "old timer" team is in doubt, since the alumni just started work Wednesday here in a light sweatshirt workout. However, the choices can be made from such personnel as Frank Gilliam, Jim Gibbons and Bob Prescott, ends; Alex Karras, Mac Lewis and

Alumni Backfield

In the alumni backfield, there will be Randy Duncan and Ken Ploen, quarterbacks; Mike Hagler, Ed Tunnel, Eddie Vincent, "Dusty" Rice, Bob Smith, Kevin Furlong and Bill Gravel, halfbacks; and Bill Reichardt, John Nocera, Fred Harris and "Binkey" Broeder, fullbacks.

Some 50 athletes are listed on the varsity depth chart and possibly others also will play. The free substitution rule will be in effect for both teams.

Offense Big Feature

It's expected that speedy runs and sharp passing will feature the offense. Both squads have the fast halfbacks and the passers, along with proven receivers.

The varsity may have trouble stopping the alumni attack because most of the concentration in spring drills has been on offense. But, of course, the younger players will have the advantage of better organization.

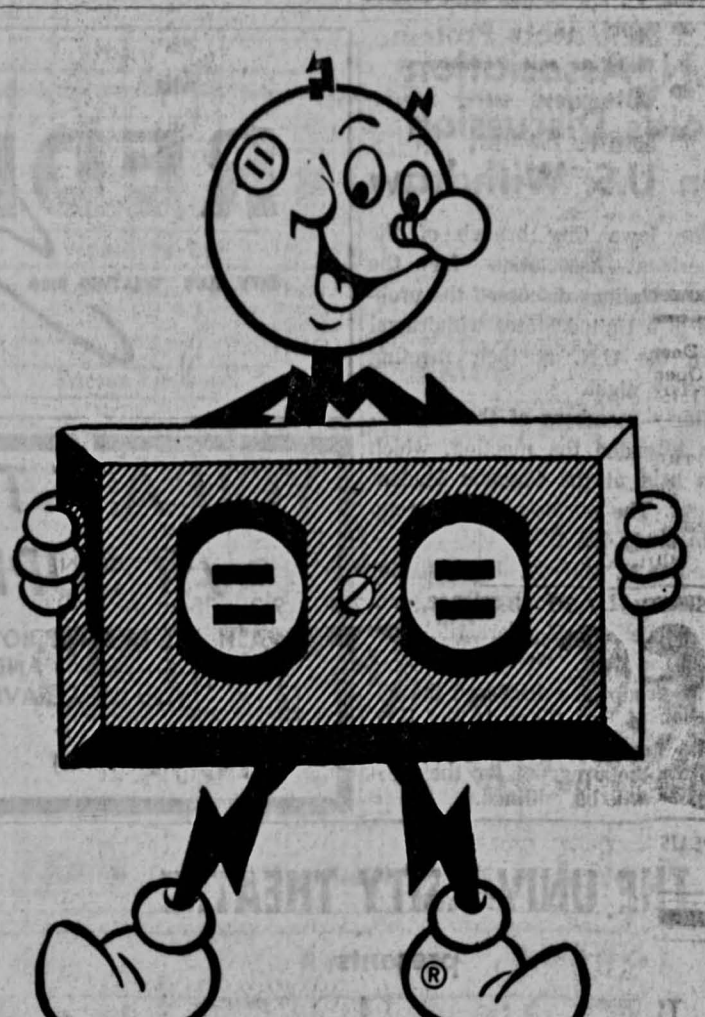

At halftime, Bob Cromie of the Chicago Tribune will present the Big Ten's most valuable trophy, a silver football, to Randy Duncan. Duncan is the sixth Hawkeye to win the Tribune's award.

Schedule Changed For Intramurals

Frederick S. Beebe, chairman of the intramural program at SUI, said several date changes in the spring intramural program have been made. He said the changes were due to the spring football game on May 9, and the Governor's Day practice parade May 21.

He said the intramural golf meet will be held on May 16 instead of May 9. The town and married students canoe race has been rescheduled to May 19.

The intramural track meet will be held May 26-28 instead of May 19-21. He said the location of the events will not be changed.

House Probers Hear Witness Admit Red Ties

CHICAGO, (UP) — A former Communist said Wednesday that he was forced out of the Communist Party because he took part in a fight against union racketeers.

Alexander surprised a subcommittee of the House Un-American Activities Committee by freely admitting he was an active Communist Party member from 1934 until 1948 and from 1951 until 1956.

Instead, Alexander spoke freely of his days as a party member. But he risked a possible contempt charge by refusing to tell Acting Chairman Rep. Edwin Willis (D-La.) about persons he had known as Communists.

Alexander cited every possible constitutional ground except that of self-incrimination in refusing.

Former AEC Head Denies Charges

He said that when he was chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) he was "able to please" all of the congressmen who headed the Joint Atomic Committee except Anderson.

Will Launch SUI Rocket Measuring Electrical Current

Four instrumented rockets, designed to measure the flowing stream of electrical current about 60 miles above the earth, will be launched this month by Laurence Cahill, Jr., an SUI research associate in physics.

Cahill expects to send up the first of the 10-foot long Nike-Cajun rockets on May 16, and the remaining three during the following week. Loaded with 40 pounds of instruments expected to reach 100-mile altitudes, the rockets will be launched from Wallops Island, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration rocket range, located on the Virginia peninsula between the Chesapeake Bay and the Atlantic Ocean. The spent rockets will fall into the ocean after radioing the findings back to earth.

To measure the currents, Cahill has designed four rugged electrical detectors, called magnetometers, which will be placed in the rocket nose cones. Two SUI students, Dale Chinburg, G, Sheffield, and Edward Kupka, E4, Iowa City, assisted Cahill in building the instruments. They will accompany him to Wallops Island for the launchings.

Cahill was the first scientist to make extensive measurements of the electrical currents above the earth with rocket-borne instruments. He first began his atmospheric research at SUI in 1955 and received his Ph.D. last February.

His first rocket flight was in the Davis Strait near Greenland in August, 1957, and nine more were launched later that year in the Pacific Ocean and Ross Sea. His high-altitude research, a part of the U.S. International Geophysical Year program, is sponsored by the National Academy of Sciences and the National Science Foundation.

Housing Error Costly To Public

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress revealed testimony Wednesday showing how a bad guess by the Army on its housing needs cost Federal taxpayers $550,938.

The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) told of the loss in reporting on its military housing insurance program to a House Appropriations Subcommittee in secret testimony just made public.

The FHA said the Army "overestimated their housing need" in connection with the 125-unit Holland Park apartment project at a Conley, Ga. Army depot.

River Debris Dangerous For Waders

SUI students were warned Wednesday about broken glass and other dangerous debris which lies unseen on the bottom of the Iowa River.

Chester I. Miller, chief of the University's student health clinic, said a number of students report to the clinic every spring with badly cut feet as a result of walking on the river bed.

"We already have treated three students with cut feet in the sort period of warm weather we've had this spring," Miller said, "and unless extreme caution is observed, there are likely to be many more."

The river bed apparently is littered with great numbers of broken bottles and tin cans which are hidden by muddy water and silt, Miller pointed out, and some of the injuries caused by this debris have been severe enough to necessitate hospitalization.

COMMUTATION REJECTED

LONDON (UPI) — Home Secretary R. A. Butler Wednesday rejected a petition form 150 parliamentary members for commutation of the death sentence on the knife-murderer of an unarmed London policeman.

Ronald H. Marwood, 24, is scheduled to hang Friday. He was convicted of the stabbing of policeman Ray Summers, 23, last December.

Labor-Industry Group To Meet Here

Many union and industrial representatives learn proper procedures for arbitrating labor disputes the same way they learn to play poker — through losing.

Playing the wrong cards at an arbitration hearing might cause a breakdown in labor-management relations that could last for years. These points are emphasized by Jack Flagler of the Bureau of Labor and Management in describing the purpose of the seventh annual Conference on Labor-Management Relations, which will be held Saturday at SUI.

The one-day conference will show both labor and management participants how they can play their "arbitration cards" with the greatest effectiveness to provide quick and fair solutions to labor disputes.

Reds Claim German Unity 'Unrealistic'

MOSCOW, (UPI) — A leading Soviet newspaper warned the West Wednesday that it should not count on unifying East and West Germany through "so-called free elections". It said Western politicians should know that "it cannot happen."

The newspaper Sovetskaya Rossiya charged that the Western allies, in their pre-Geneva meeting in Paris last week, had failed to work out "a concrete, realistic" program responding to Soviet proposals on Berlin and a German peace treaty.

The newspaper is the official daily publication of the communist Party and the Council of Ministers of the Russian Republic, largest of the 15 republics which make up the Soviet Union.

The article by G. Dadyants declared that the Western "package plan" drawn up for presentation to the Russians at Geneva next week merely reaffirms old proposals for the unification of Germany on "Western terms."

The package plan, hammered out by the U.S., British, French and West German foreign ministers, wraps together proposals for dealing with the German problem, Berlin and general European security.

Sovetskaya Rossiya charged that the Western powers "want to submerge a concrete solution of the problems of a German peace treaty and normalization of the Berlin situation in a general discussion of European security."

Advertisers Here For Talk Tonight

Three campus representatives of the Central Region of the American Association of Advertising Agencies will visit SUI today and Friday. They will discuss the role of the advertising agency in today's marketing system, with particular attention to their specialties, tonight at 7:30 in Shambaugh Auditorium.

J. W. Rosberg, vice-president and director of research of the Buchen Company, Chicago, will talk on research; Norman Buehling, president of the Fensholt Advertising Agency, Chicago, on agency management and account handling and Richard N. Hobson, vice-president and copy chief of the Buchen Company, will discuss creative activities.

Following the program, a coffee hour will be held in the Faculty Lounge of the Library. The talks will be open to anyone interested.

NAACP Officer: 'Be Willing To Kill'

MONROE, N.C. (UPI) — Negro leaders reacted almost unanimously Wednesday against meeting interracial "injustice" in the South with violence, and the NAACP cracked down on an official who advocated it.

NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins ordered Robert Williams, president of the Union County, N.C., NAACP chapter, suspended pending "consideration of your status." Williams touched off a wave of reaction with a statement that Negroes "must even be willing to kill if necessary" to protect themselves.

Wilkins said the NAACP repudiates any "pro-lynching statement by one of our officers regardless of provocation." Williams had called last night for "meeting violence with violence."

Printing Firm Pays To Labor Extortionists

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New Jersey commercial firm which prints Sunday newspaper supplements has paid a convicted labor extortionist and his relatives nearly $260,000 to shield it from labor troubles, Senate investigators were told Wednesday.

Executives of the Neo Gravure Printing Co., Weehawken, N.J., testified $131,459 went to Harold Gross over the past 14 years, since his release from prison. On top of that, they said, they have paid a total of $128,376 to certain of Gross' relatives.

The company officials said they were forced to put these relatives on the payroll along with Gross, now a Teamsters Union official in Miami but still drawing payments from Neo Gravure. Charles E. Chenicke, vice-president of the firm, said Gross does no actual work for Neo Gravure but is paid to assure labor peace.

An investigator for the Senate rackets probes said other payments to Cornelius Noonan, president of a New York longshoremen's union local, brought the total to $307,136.

Neo Gravure prints Sunday supplements for the New York Journal-American, the New York Daily Mirror, the New York Herald-Tribune, and the Boston Herald. It printed some Sunday sections for the New York Times until 1949 when the Times switched to another printing company.

Besides printing newspaper supplements, Neo Gravure prints magazines and business forms as well as doing lithography work.

The committee was told Gross got $4,000 a year between 1952 and 1958 for seeing to it that jurisdictional labor disputes didn't prevent delivery of the American Weekly supplement to the Journal-American. The cost of this was passed on to the American Weekly, Chenicke said.

William Hillbrant, Neo Gravure's treasurer, swore he paid a total of $45,750 to Gross and Noonan to arrange deliveries of supplements to the New York Times and the Mirror during a 1948 truck strike called by the Teamsters. Neo Gravure executives said the entire cost was billed to the two newspapers.

Steel Industry Plans Strategy

NEW YORK, (UPI) — The steel industry dropped a bombshell at the steel wage talks Wednesday with the announcement that it was studying a plan to share profits in the event that the United Steelworkers tried a divide-and-conquer strike strategy.

R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of the U.S. Steel Corporation and chief negotiator for the industry, said the plan under consideration was the same as that used by the airline industry during a series of strikes against major domestic carriers last winter.

An early tenseness in the negotiations erupted in a fiery exchange between bargainers for the union and Jones and Laughlin, fourth largest steel producer in the nation, and Kaiser Steel.

The union admitted the meetings had broken up on a note of "misunderstanding" but denied that the sessions had become "heated." Sources inside the meeting said sharp exchanges had taken place but that tomorrow's sessions would go on as scheduled.

During the airline strike, the companies which continued to operate put their "excess" revenues into a kitty which was used to aid the grounded lines.

David J. McDonald, president of the union, when asked whether the steel workers planned to strike only part of the industry, said:

"The United Steel Workers Union is working diligently to accomplish a contract before the July 1 strike deadline. We are not a strike-happy union, and we want an agreement."

Williams, 34, said, "I was speaking for myself and not the NAACP, and the NAACP or no organization is going to tell me what to do or say." He said he intends to remain in his NAACP post here.

"They'll have to come down here and hold an election before they can throw me out," he said after receipt of Wilkins' suspension order.

"It's none of their business anyway, since I wasn't speaking for the NAACP." He said he did not think he would be removed from his post here because "I was just expressing the sentiment of most of the colored people of the community."

Williams said he would stand "firm" on his belief that "when members of our race are attacked and we know there's no chance in the world the courts will do anything about it, we should try and convict them, inflict the punishment we think should be death."

Before Wilkins acted in New York, NAACP leaders in the South rejected Williams' statement.

Many called the statement "irresponsible" and one said Williams would be "repudiated as an NAACP leader" for making it.

Williams, active and outspoken in recent racial incidents here, said "We cannot take these people who do us injustice to the court, and it becomes necessary to punish them ourselves." He issued the statement after a jury acquitted a white man charged with attempting to rape a Negro woman here.

"In the future, we are going to have to try and convict these people on the spot. This opens the way to real violence," Williams said.

Williams recently appealed to President Eisenhower personally in a case in which two Negro youths were sent to reform school for kissing a white girl here. He asked the President to see that justice was done "in this social jungle called Dixie."

New Rocket Will Weigh 147 Tons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's Civilian Space Agency awarded a $33 million contract Wednesday for development of a new space rocket that will stand as tall as a 10-story building and weigh more than 147 tons.

The three-stage vehicle may be fired to Venus in early 1961. It also could be used to put a two-ton space laboratory carrying several men into a 300-mile high orbit around earth. The rocket is named after Vega, the brilliant star about 26 light years from earth.

T. Keith Glennan, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, described the rocket as "the first of our more advanced boosters." He said its chief job will be "lunar and planetary investigation."

Meantime, the House Space Committee approved a bill to authorize $485 million for the space agency in the fiscal year starting July 1, or just about all funds sought by the Administration. A bill actually providing the money must be considered later.

The committee authorized $33.07 million for civilian research and development; $94.43 million for salaries and expenses; $53.05 million for construction and equipment; and $5 million for future land purchases.

The Vega will consist of an Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic Missile for the first stage, a Vanguard satellite launching vehicle booster for the second stage, and a new rocket now under development by NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory for the third stage.

U.N. Okays "Peace In Space" Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A U.N. committee approved Wednesday a United States plan for getting the world started on international cooperation into peaceful use of outer space.

The Soviet Union and four other nations boycotted the opening meeting of the committee. The United States did not mention the boycott. But Britain and Sweden voiced regret and expressed hope that the absent countries would join in the committee's work later.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge proposed to the 18-nation Committee on Peaceful Uses of Outer Space that it set up two separate study groups — one on the scientific and the other on the legal aspects of the subject.
