Sudsy Study

NOW HERE'S a good way to study for finals, according to Jean Riddleberger, A2, Downers Grove, Ill. She says it's so relaxing; that is, unless one drops the book. —Daily Iowan Photo by Katie Harris.

Final Week Cramming Means More Cigarettes, Less Sleep

Cram . . . Cram . . . Cram . . . This seems to be the theme for SUI students right now, at least those who have started to study for finals.

Of course, there are those who aren't too concerned. When asked whether he was studying for finals, one senior commented, "Good heavens no! Preliminary grades went in a couple of days ago!"

Most students interviewed were using about the same study methods. Most said they were reading material which they hadn't read all semester, reviewing notes and outlining courses.

After describing in detail his elaborate study methods, one student confidently admitted, "If you want to know the truth, I don't really study except the night before."

Places to study vary from taverns to the library. Students will be pouring over books in the Gold Feather Room or will be seen in a local tavern with a book in one hand and a beer in the other.

One of the most unusual places to study is a bath tub. One girl said she studies there because the water is so relaxing. Of course, one has to take precautions. It could be tragic if the semester's notes were dunked in a tub full of bubble bath. Another course down the drain!

One graduate student said he studied little all semester and now will stay up 55 to 65 hours straight just to study for finals. Another student has a different slant. He said, "I don't really sweat it too much, because if I don't know it now, I ain't going to."

There is some indication that cigarette and candy sales may increase during final week. Waste-baskets and trash cans will probably be full of litter from "nervous" students' cram sessions.

Many students said they study for finals simply because they don't want to flunk them. However, one aptly remarked, "Sometimes it doesn't make any difference because the tests are so ambiguous anyway."

Union Calls Talks Futile

WASHINGTON (AP) — President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers Union said Thursday steel wage talks have gotten nowhere and the union is considering filing refusal-to-bargain charges against the industry.

Industry sources said later if there had been refusal to bargain it was because McDonald never has formally specified union demands in negotiations.

McDonald spoke at a National Press Club luncheon, the same forum used last week by Chairman Roger Blough of U.S. Steel Corp.

McDonald's position was that the industry has been overcharging for its products and is denying workers a fair share of boom profits. Blough's was that steel workers already are well paid and the union is seeking another round of inflationary pay boosts.

The union chief said steel profits are running so high the industry could afford to cut prices $18 a ton and still realize 6.8 per cent net after taxes. He said companies could afford a handsome wage boost and still enjoy record net profits with no price hikes.

McDonald declined to predict the outcome of current negotiations, to say what the union really wants, or how a strike might turn out.

Present steel labor agreements expire June 30. McDonald said the union still hopes peace pacts can be worked out in time.

Twisters Damage Northwest Iowa

SPENCER (AP) — Tornadoes and strong winds hit this northwest Iowa area Thursday, causing extensive damage to farm buildings and trees.

The storm activity was centered around Dickens and Ruthven east of here. No injuries were reported.

Farmers in the area reported sighting four twisters and some estimated winds hit 100 miles an hour.

This was the second severe storm in a week for the area. A dozen farms were damaged last week in the Elk Lake area on the Clay-Palo Alto county line.

The storm hit Thursday morning about six miles north of that area.

The barn "virtually exploded" on the Enoch Johnson farm two miles north of Ruthven. Johnson said he saw the twister hit just as his wife was heading into the storm cellar.

Modest Car Found 'Dressed' After Looting

A University policeman found a car "all dressed up" in the Quadrangle dormitory parking lot here.

The policeman found three dresses lying on top of student's car when he checked the lot Thursday afternoon.

Iowa City police said Donald Johnson, Clarinda, reported three dresses belonging to his sister had been stolen from his car as it sat in the Quadrangle driveway Wednesday night. They said they were trying to notify Johnson that some clothes had been found.

Johnson's car was only one of eight lootings reported Wednesday night. According to police, six cars in the Mayflower Inn parking lot, 1110 N. Dubuque St., were rifled, but nothing of value was taken.

Richard H. Mendinger, A1, Britt, said his car was looted. His car keys and several screwdrivers were taken, and the upholstery was ripped.

UNUSUAL HOBBY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joseph W. Humphreys, 43, former police court clerk at Mamaronek, N.Y., was arrested by FBI agents Thursday on charges of issuing bank checks to cover thefts from court funds.

The FBI said Humphreys obtained blank checks from former Army buddies throughout the country, explaining to them that he collected the checks as a hobby.

He was accused of obtaining a total of $4,145 from different banks by cashing the checks under assumed names. Humphreys recently resigned his job.

GENEVA (UPI) — The Western Big Three Foreign Ministers will go into their secret sessions with the Soviets at Geneva determined to reject all cold war deals unless the Russians withdraw their Berlin threat, authoritative conference sources reported Thursday.

The sources said the Western Foreign Ministers, returning Wednesday night from John Foster Dulles' funeral in Washington, would go into the secret bargaining sessions this afternoon with no "fallback" position — no secondary plan that would give Russia one-sided concessions.

"They are determined to sit in Geneva indefinitely, if necessary, rather than weaken on the Berlin issue," the sources said.

Another wrangle was shaping up over German rearmament. East German Deputy Defense Minister Lt. Gen. Karl Heinz Hoffmann arrived in Geneva to reply to charges by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter that East Germany had rearmament four times as much as West Germany. Hoffmann was expected to make a statement today.

The Big Four Foreign Ministers had an opportunity to begin their secret talks in the privacy of Herter's private plane, after two and a half weeks of semi-public deadlock.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who had attended the funeral of his old adversary, Dulles, with the same poker face he displays in diplomatic wrangling, accepted an invitation to ride back with Herter. British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville also were going back on the same plane.

The Western Ministers were preparing for what was described as a "probing operation" to test Russia's true intentions on Berlin. The operation was expected to take 10 days.

Diplomats hoped it would determine whether a summit meeting can be arranged for this autumn.

The United States was adamant in its stand that there can be no summit parley — which Russia badly wants — unless the foreign ministers make substantial progress.

The Western powers already have given Gromyko a blunt warning that they will not be squeezed, browbeaten or frightened out of Berlin.

It was disclosed that when Lloyd met Gromyko on Tuesday to suggest secret talks, he made it absolutely plain, "that the West would not abandon West Berlin."

The sources said Lloyd warned that if Russia continues its plan to force the West from Berlin, there could be a "head-on collision."

The West was seeking a firm, written guarantee from the Soviets confirming Western rights in West Berlin and full freedom of access to the isolated city by road, rail, air and canal.

BALLET DANCER DIES LONDON (AP) — Deirdre Somes, 25, wife of leading Royal Ballet dancer Michael Somes, died Thursday after a short illness, apparently stemming from the effects of an automobile accident two years ago. She was a ballet soloist, using the name Deirdre Dixon. Her husband of three years is the partner of ballerina Margot Fonteyn.

The workshop will be divided into four groups: Crown and Bridge, under the direction of Dr. Ray V. Smith, professor and head of the crown and bridge department in the college; Dentistry for Children, directed by Dr. Kenneth E. Wessels, professor and head of pedodontics; Oral Surgery, directed by Dr. Daniel E. Waite, associate professor and head of oral surgery; and Prosthetic Dentistry, to be directed by Dr. Ralph C. Aploby, associate professor and head of prosthetics.

Featured at the workshop will be lectures of general interest. The Monday speaker will be Robert F. Ray, director of the SUI Institute of Public Affairs, who will discuss "Community Development." Tuesday Clark Bloom, professor of economics and assistant director of the Bureau of Business and Economic Research, will speak on "The General Economic Picture in the United States."

Genevieve Stearns, research professor emerita in orthopedics, will discuss "Diet" Wednesday, and W. W. Morris, assistant dean of the SUI College of Medicine and director of the Institute of Gerontology, will speak Thursday. Samuel Fahr, professor of law,

On July 26, 1949 Governor William Beardsley turned over several shovelfuls of dirt a few miles north of Iowa City. He and other dignitaries were present at the dedication of the Coralville Flood Control Project. Two weeks earlier, clearing of brush from the dam site had begun, and completion of the entire project was set for early 1954.

But for several years, even the optimists among local citizens doubted that the dam project would ever be completed. Because of various delays, it may take several more months before the Army Corps of Engineers announce the project officially completed.

For 10 years prior to 1949, the Army Engineers made technical studies of the entire length of the Iowa River to determine the best location for a dam to lessen flood damage south of the confluence of the Mississippi and Iowa Rivers. In 1949 the present site was chosen, and the first indications of future delays could also be seen.

Instead of appropriating the entire $16 million needed for the project, Congress decided to hand out money for the first phase of work only and to finance each successive phase as it came along. Approximately $2.5 million was allowed for the first phase, building of the dam base and preliminary fill work.

In 1950, another $2.5 million was appropriated for phase two, construction of a 350-foot concrete conduit through which all water would flow, inlet and outlet gates, and the control tower for the conduit.

Work was halted for several weeks in the spring of 1951 until 15 feet of mud could be removed from the stilling basin area. The mud was deposited when heavy rains caved in an embankment.

In December, 1951, Col. G. A. Finley, former district engineer of the Army Engineers, announced that construction would stop if more funds were not provided. The Korean War was raging, and Congress was spending little money for non-defense purposes. Thus, for a few years spiders welcomed the chance to build webs in the deserted control tower.

In 1953 President Eisenhower requested $2.3 million for the Coralville project, but Congress still clutched the purse strings tightly and denied any funds for continuing the project.

Finally, in the summer of 1954, Congress set aside $1.7 million for resumption of the project construction. That was only a portion of the funds needed to complete the dam, the spillway, and operations such as relocating roads and power lines. In 1955 $4.5 million was allocated for relocation of U.S. 218 and the Crandick railroad tracks near Cou Falls. Each of the relocations required a new bridge over the Iowa River.

All major work was completed in 1957. Trees were removed from the reservoir basin up to a level of 670 feet above sea level, and the dam was scheduled to go into operation in January, 1958. But another cause arose to delay the project further.

In the fall of 1957, the Iowa Conservation Commission requested that the summer recreation pool level be raised to 680 feet in order to increase the amount of water attractive to large flocks of migrating ducks during fall months.

The Army Engineers approved the request, and clearing of trees up to the 680 foot level began in early 1958. The clearing was to be completed by June, 1958, but heavy spring rains caused high water levels in the reservoir and another delay. Finally, in September, 1958, there was no cause for further delay, and the dam went into normal operation.

Important to Iowa Citizens, though, is the fact that the reservoir is still without any recreational facilities. High water this spring delayed construction of picnic and boat-launching facilities.

However, the Red Ball Engineering and Development, Inc., Iowa City, on April 30 entered the low bid of $57,778 for construction of recreation areas. The firm is now working on the project, and completion is scheduled before Oct. 31.

It would appear that, barring unforeseen delays, Iowa Citizens can look forward to 1960 and a complete summer of recreation on the Coralville Reservoir, 11 years after construction of the project began.

GIVE AVIATION AWARD LONDON (AP) — The International Aviation Federation conferred its gold medal on Andrei Tupolev, creator of the TU104 and TU114 Soviet jet airliners. Moscow radio said the federation president, Jacqueline Cochrane of the United States, presented the medal to Tupolev Thursday at the organization's general conference in Moscow. The medal is awarded annually for an outstanding contribution to the progress of aviation.

The President opened his talk with the foreign ministers by thanking them for breaking off their Conference to come here for Dulles' funeral. After the meeting the President was host at a lunch for all the 13 foreign ministers who attended the funeral.

Among those attending the White House lunch was Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who also had a "social get-together" at breakfast with Lloyd and a 90-minute talk with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. Adenauer, who had requested the meeting, said he and Nixon were in "complete agreement" on subjects discussed, presumably the German problem.

The flight of Able and Baker lasted only 15 minutes, at a velocity of 10,000-miles per hour. For about eight minutes they were practically weightless.

The Federal Space Agency disclosed last month that all seven of the test pilots selected as the first American astronauts will take "training rides" in the nose cones of ballistic missiles fired over the same range the monkeys traveled. The seven pilots came to Cape Canaveral last week, and the training flights may take place next year.

Under the man-in-space timetable, monkeys, dogs and pigs will first take rides in missile-propelled capsules. Then animals will be put into orbit prior to the launching of the first U.S. manned satellite scheduled sometime in 1961.

The astronauts already have been subjected to simulated conditions such as those encountered in the flight of the two monkeys — weightlessness, reaction to stress, temperature, vibration and rotation.

In this respect, the breathing, pulse rate and response ability of the two monkeys was significant.

A response test by one of the monkeys failed in Thursday's flight, but this may have been due to failure of telemetry equipment which the monkey was trained to use.

Able, a seven pound Rhesus monkey was specially trained to press a signal key when she saw a flashing light blinking in her 250-pound cylindrical capsule. No signal was received, however.

Able wore a space suit and helmet, prototype of protective clothing to be worn by man-in-space pioneers. The suit was rigged with the signal device and instruments to measure physiological reactions and changes. The monkey's cylinder was air-conditioned, with two complete changes of air per minute.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Thursday made a personal appeal to Russia's Andrei Gromyko and other Big Four Foreign Ministers for enough progress at the snail-pace Geneva Conference to justify a summit meeting.

The President conferred at the White House for about 30 minutes with Foreign Ministers. A smiling Gromyko, appointed spokesman for the diplomats, said afterward that "we had a pleasant and useful conversation with the President."

The Russian, who appeared unusually affable, was about ready to say something more when French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville cut him off with a curt: "And that is all." All the ministers seemed in a jovial mood.

The White House said in a special statement that Eisenhower voiced hope the ministers, who resume their Geneva talks tomorrow, "would be able to achieve that measure of progress which would make a subsequent meeting of the heads of government desirable and useful."

The President met with the ministers, who came here Wednesday for the funeral of John Foster Dulles, just about four hours before the envoys left (at 1 p.m., CST) for the 17-hour return flight to Geneva. The journey, which included a refueling stop in Newfoundland, gave the ministers a further chance for talks.

At the White House, the President told the ministers jokingly he hoped they would remain airborne until they reach a decision.

Just before the plane left, Herter said he hoped the ministers would find "hopeful avenues" on the long overnight flight that would lead to a break in the Geneva negotiations and pave the way to the summit.

Herter said he had never been overly optimistic about the chances of success at the Conference, adding that until now the four had "merely exchanged views on our particular programs" and had found no specific areas of agreement.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said the ministers would discuss developments to date thoroughly and privately on the trip.

The four returned on Herter's plane, along with Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy and Gromyko's aide, Aleksander Soldatov. Gromyko, who came here by commercial airliner, accepted a seat on the plane when room was made for his aide.

To date the ministers have held 13 meetings at Geneva with little or no progress toward settling the Berlin, German unification or European security problems. Today they start private talks with no news of developments being relayed to the public.

Shortly before the White House meeting, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter told Congressional leaders that future negotiations would be a long, drawn-out process "requiring a great deal of patience" on the part of the West.

Herter was quoted as saying that the Russians usually talk a long time in negotiating but that he felt the private talks would provide "more fruitful."

The President opened his talk with the foreign ministers by thanking them for breaking off their Conference to come here for Dulles' funeral. After the meeting the President was host at a lunch for all the 13 foreign ministers who attended the funeral.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Two little space monkeys, Able and Baker, rode 300 miles above the earth in a Jupiter missiles nose cone Thursday and survived the history-making, 1,500-mile flight unharmed.

Able and Baker thus became the first primates to survive a space flight — a forerunner of similar tests scheduled for the nation's man-in-space candidates.

A Navy tug recovered the nose cone and its sealed capsules containing the monkeys and a miniature biological laboratory from the sea off Antigua Island. The two female monkeys were in "perfect condition," escaping the fate of the first space monkey, "Reliable," who perished last Dec. 13 when his cone capsule could not be recovered.

The flight of Able and Baker lasted only 15 minutes, at a velocity of 10,000-miles per hour. For about eight minutes they were practically weightless.

EXPECT PROTESTS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Space officials said Thursday they are braced for a new flood of protests against putting monkeys in the nose cones of missiles.

The complaints, which come in after each experiment involving animals, will be answered with a form letter, an Air Force spokesman at Patrick AFB said.

The volume of protests against cruelty to dumb animals may not be as great following Thursday's successful recovery of monkeys Able and Baker as in the past. In past experiments here, at least three mice and another tiny monkey, Reliable, perished in the interest of science.

The Federal Space Agency disclosed last month that all seven of the test pilots selected as the first American astronauts will take "training rides" in the nose cones of ballistic missiles fired over the same range the monkeys traveled. The seven pilots came to Cape Canaveral last week, and the training flights may take place next year.

People Decided They'd Had Enough

A majority of the people of Little Rock finally got fed up. This is the clearest way to describe the results of the School Board special recall election in which three adamant segregationists were thrown out of office.

Board President Ed I. McKinley was among them. He had the blessings of Gov. Faubus, and with his two white supremacy colleagues had led in the move to fire 44 Little Rock teachers as the three moderate members of the divided board walked out of the session.

This arbitrary action by the Faubusites set the tinder on fire. There was no excuse, no reason, no real justification for the teacher firings. The segregationist board members simply set themselves up as judges of professional competency—and the people of Little Rock would have none of it. Having seen their children shut out of closed public high schools by extremism, they rallied to the children and the teachers and initiated the recall movement.

Election results show that McKinley was ousted by some 13,000 votes to 11,800, and up and down the line the margin was similarly close but decisive. Aside from recalling the three segregationists, Little Rock voted to keep the moderates on the School Board.

The Faubus crowd is interpreting all this as a vote for racial integration. More simply, Little Rock's election was a vote for schools—for open schools, for their pupils and for their teachers. Secondly, it was the first popular rebuke for Gov. Faubus and the extreme segregationists. The people were fed up.

'Blue Angels' Beg The Pardon If Duped Coeds

To the Editor and (Amy, Lynn, Carmen, Karen, and Ellen):

We rest upon our knees in humble apology. We admit that we were pretentious and assuming, and now, after hearing your undesired intimidation and brutal persecution, we aren't the proud, arrogant, individuals that we pretended to be when we assumed the role of the "Blue Angels."

Since we don't want to intimidate you any more, we won't mention the way you talked to each of us over the phone—we are sure that the fog around your head wouldn't do you justice. Nor will we mention the conversations that we overheard while we were talking at the information desk—"Gosh, Janie, how could you go wrong... four of the best pilots in the nation?" And there were more. But let's disregard aspects so mundane; if we mentioned these things, you would probably find it hard to convince others that you really aren't gullible.

But enough for your problems at present; chances are that they will have subsided by the time this letter is published. Let's take a look at the humor in the episode. Oh, there is humor, honestly. Your method of retaliation was a clever one, and it couldn't have been better suited to our original plan.

An accomplished art major built four most unique airplanes for us. These planes resemble those flown by the Blue Angels, except they are three feet long and made of cardboard. You climb into them through a hole in the middle and pull them up to your waist. We had planned to "fly" (it would have been more of a dance) into Currier in formation, of course, and greet our dates. But homework had interfered and we were forced to remain at home. However, we are sorry that we didn't go. Wouldn't the eight of us have had a wonderful time, dining and dancing at one of those nightclubs you told us about? You replied, in answer to our question of what to do, "Well, there are a lot of real nice nightclubs around here." Are there really? Where? You weren't going to take us to a tavern were you? Shame on you.

All kidding aside, we are really sorry for the trouble we caused. We probably deserve punishment... even though we won't accept it. Please forgive us. Don't be mad. Don't call. We're scared.

Student Opinion—

SUI Seniors Comment On Grad Students As Instructors

Two SUI seniors focused their attention on University academic problems in response to Daily Iowan questions this week and concluded that the common practice of using graduate students as classroom instructors is necessary but not ideal.

"Some graduate students are very good instructors," said Corley Hamill, A4, Des Moines. "Many graduates enjoy teaching and do it well. But some are teaching only to get the paycheck," she said.

Miss Hamill expressed a belief that in many departments more supervision by department heads is needed to improve the instruction by graduate students. She suggested that department heads visit classes occasionally to observe the graduate assistants and offer suggestions concerning their teaching. "At least they should be teaching the same thing in all sections," she said.

Mary Huey, A4, Princeton, Ill., commented that graduate student instructors are necessary because of the large enrollment and a shortage of funds available to hire full-time faculty personnel. A lack of classroom space also hinders attempts at smaller classes and more personalized instruction, she said.

"When you come to a large university you assume that you will not get the personal attention you would at a small, liberal arts college. The sheer weight of numbers and the economic situation are not conducive to that kind of education," she said.

"The fact that some graduate students take their jobs just for the money is probably something the university could expect," Miss Huey said. Graduate students are approached with the idea that "we need you and we are taking you on at a cut price, because we can't afford full-time instructors," she said.

Graduate instructors have a problem because they are also busy on their own class work, she pointed out. "It is difficult to be teaching and pursuing your own study at the same time," she said.

The problem which is most important is not lack of interest or time, but lack of experience, Miss Huey observed. "For many, it is their first experience before a class. They don't have the techniques of teaching and aren't sure of themselves," she said.

They lack confidence and don't enjoy teaching. The student is tense because he feels embarrassed for the graduate instructor and is trying to help him," Miss Huey concluded.

A revised philosophy behind the basic skills courses and an increased emphasis on the importance of a liberal arts education were recommended by the seniors interviewed.

Commenting on the basic skills courses, Miss Hamill suggested that math skills and composition skills should be given without credit to those students who fail to pass a test on the material.

This would encourage better high school preparation in these areas, Miss Hamill said.

"If these courses are to teach what should have been learned in high school, it is too bad they are given for college credit," she said. She suggested that one semester credit should be the maximum given for these courses.

"If they are given for college credit, they should not duplicate what is taught in high school," Miss Hamill concluded.

The value of a liberal arts education was emphasized by Miss Huey. "Students don't realize the value of a good liberal arts background in their education," she said.

"I have heard students say their schedules are so full they can't take any more liberal arts than the core courses," she said. "This is not true."

"It has been my impression that departments encourage students to take more liberal arts such as philosophy, history and language. Students going into specific professions have a tendency to go into programs so centered on specialized bits of knowledge in the particular field they don't have time to take other courses," she said.

"They choose more subjects along specialized lines instead of reaching out into liberal arts courses. But the general background is invaluable and they are actually limiting themselves rather than adding knowledge that will prove of a great deal of benefit to them," she continued.

"It is more a problem of students not realizing the value of liberal arts than it is a lack of encouragement from the faculty to take more of these subjects," she said. "Liberal arts gives you a good frame of reference which will relate your major field and make it meaningful," she concluded.

Miss Huey also expressed a feeling that the Honors Program is "something of which the University should be proud."

A Strange Time In U.S. Politics

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is a strange time in U.S. politics. Outwardly at least, all is calm. Harsh words are rarely spoken. Any leading politician caught throwing even a marshmallow at the opposing party is looked upon as a cad.

Especially is this true of Congress and the President. What makes it strange is this: the forecast was for stormy weather.

A heavily Democratic Congress, it was said, would make it rough on a Republican president. And Dwight D. Eisenhower would be handicapped in fighting back because he is barred by the 22nd Amendment from running for a third term.

Previously a president's secret weapon is supposed to have been this threat: "If you aren't good boys, I'll come back and lick you again."

What They Are Doing

UNITED STUDENT FELLOWSHIP. All those planning to attend the picnic Sunday meet at the First Congregational Church at 3 p.m. Transportation will be provided to Creekside Park on Muscatine Avenue.

Well, the storm hasn't come. Eisenhower continues to refuse to discuss personalities, even when it would seem personalities need a little discussing, and Congress, under Democratic Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, continues to play it cool.

Oh, occasionally there have been mild complaints. At his last news conference Eisenhower said Congress ought to get on the ball; it should pass some legislation and confirm some appointments.

Sen. Johnson seemed a little hurt at this. He said Congress is getting on with its work, and as for appointments, it has confirmed 283,511 of the President's choices since 1953, including everything from postmasters to diplomats.

What makes this calm more surprising is that traditionally Congress and the president tend to be at outs.

A couple of examples will show the customary uneasy relationship.

Here's Woodrow Wilson: "Anybody in the Senate or House can say any abusive thing he pleases about the president, but it shocks the propriety of the whole country if the president says what he thinks about them."

"But when the lid is off, I'm going to resume my study of the dictionary to find adequate terms in which to describe the faculty of these gentlemen with their poor little minds that never get anywhere but run round in a circle and think they are going somewhere."

Theodore Roosevelt put it more bluntly. He once said he wished he had 16 lions he could turn loose on Congress. It has been calm so far, but keep an alert eye. If history repeats, we may have a lion loose yet.

Good Listening— Today On WSUI

and Garson Kanin. The whole delicious product is under the musical direction of Eugene Ormandy. Since "Der Flödenmaus," or "The Bat," has been a tremendous favorite since 1874, the project was not too formidable. Typical Strauss sounds begin when Baron von Einstein, a rich banker, commits the minor indiscretion of kicking a tax collector in the stomach. You will be able to take it from there.

THE BOOKSHELF selection currently being read, "Endurance— Shackleton's Incredible Voyage," is picking up momentum. These hot, humid mornings it's helpful just to imagine yourself on an ice floe; listening to the book helps. You can do that any morning, Monday through Friday, at about 9:30 a.m.

THE UNFINISHED SYMPHONY is the only exception to the impression one has that this morning's music consists largely of less well known selections. They are, however, finished (you have got to say that for them). These include a piano concerto by those two wonderful Russian composers, Rimsky and Korsakov; Eight Songs by Li-Po set to music by the late Constant Lambert; Bartok's Contrasts for Piano, Violin and Clarinet; and an organ concerto by Handel.

THE FRONT PAGE NEWS may be heard every day at 12:30 p.m. On Fridays it is followed by Editorial Page which attempts in a great hurry to give listeners a capsule version of the editorial reactions currently arising in the nation's newspapers.

MILHAUD, RACHMANINOFF, BEETHOVEN, Schubert again, Dvorak are in the lineup this afternoon from 1 p.m. to 3:55 with time out at 2:30 for Dr. Eldon Obrecht to say a few words on behalf of Music Appreciation.

AN EVENING AT THE OPERA at 7:30 is a gay one tonight. The opera is Johann Strauss' "Fledermaus." The Metropolitan Opera singers are Lily Pons, Richard Tucker, Ljuba Velitch, and Martha Lipton. This Viennese pot-pourri has been given a fresh English libretto by Howard Dietz

Letter To The Editor—

'Round World' Fell Flat

To the Editor:

I am at present caught in a mystification and I'm wondering if any clarification is available. I read the laudatory review following the first performance of "The World is Round" and I saw the final performance of Mr. Salacrou's play. Could anyone tell me who made off with the goods? I could find no similarity between what was said in the review and what was shown on the stage and I thought someone might have pulled a switch in the intervening days. Possibly a case for the FBS (Federal Bureau of Sanity)?

But if what was shown on the first night was substantially the same as on the last night of the run, I would only suggest that a confusion of sensory fact with either benign or malignant fancy is rarely a service to anyone. To tell a man he is lying when he walks is intellectually confusing and physically dangerous.

Without the review I probably would have only been moved to mutter, "Maybe next year. Last year was good. Maybe he can do it again." But to watch a poorly written, fatiguing play while recalling the encomiums cast on it with truly Madison Avenue abandon and disregard for honesty disturbs me. I thought the magic lasted only about thirty seconds, until the little horse bounced off. From then on the only inspired thing that occurred to me was to get up and leave after the second act.

Russia Protests Interference From Iran

MOSCOW, May 28 (UPI)—Russia charged, Iranian authorities Thursday with interfering in the operations of the Soviet Embassy in Tehran.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said the charges were contained in a Russian note which protested the "provocative actions" of Iranian officials. The foreign office handed the note to A. Masudu Ansari, the Iranian Ambassador in Moscow, Tass said.

The note charged that Iranian authorities in Tehran, the Iranian capital, were "trying to create unendurable conditions for the work of the embassy." It charged the authorities with discrimination against the Soviet Embassy, Tass said.

The agency said the note accused Tehran police of arresting two embassy workers who delivered the embassy bulletin and a Russian magazine to official addresses and the editorial offices of the Tehran newspaper.

Women Voters To Plan Studies For Next Year

The Iowa City League of Women Voters will present its coming year outlook for work and study during a luncheon, Monday, 12:15 p.m., at the Mayflower Inn. This will be the last formal League meeting until October, although some study committees plan to meet during the summer.

The following chairmen will report on the work of their committees:

Mrs. Richard Lloyd-Jones on foreign policy. After making a general survey this year of U.S. policy, the committee plans to study in detail the India-Pakistan area.

Miss May Tangen on water conservation. Water development programs have been studied for three years by the League. The committee is presently studying the Iowa River Basin, and plans to study the problems and water development programs of the whole Upper Mississippi River Basin next year.

Mrs. Don Bryant on state constitutional reform in Iowa. This involves a study of the constitu-

Quad Units Try New Government

Five experimental plans for dormitory government will be in operation in the Quadrangle men's dormitory next year, according to Jim McNulty, A3, Park Forest, Ill., president of the dorm.

Two dorm units will participate in each of the plans, with three units not included in the experiment.

The five plans are as follows:

1. The section system, which has been operation for several years, is a government by five section officers: two councilmen, a social chairman, an intramurals chairman and an advisor. The councilmen serve on the dorm general council.
2. The converted section system, which has been under study for the past year, is primarily the same as the first system. Changes include the addition of a house budget and two councilmen serving as section secretary and treasurer.
3. A third plan employs a government system for each house including a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and two councilmen representing the unit on the general council. Each of these houses will also have a budget.
4. Another system will make the president and the vice-president of each house delegates to the dorm general council. Other unit officers will be the secretary and treasurer. There will be a house budget.
5. Eight house officers will be elected under the last plan. Besides the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and two council members, these houses will elect social and athletic chairmen.

The Quad general council constitutional revisional committee was responsible for the development of the plans.

"How can I be sure you've got some Camels?"

More buxom blondes with shipwrecked sailors insist on Camels than any other cigarette today. It stands to reason: the best tobacco makes the best smoke. The Camel blend of costly tobaccos has never been equalled for rich flavor and easygoing mildness. No wonder Camel is the No. 1 cigarette of all!

Both Varsity And Frosh—

Iowa Trackmen To AAU Tourney

By GEORGE KAMPLING
Staff Writer

Several members of the Iowa varsity and freshman track teams are entering the Iowa AAU track and field championships to be held Saturday at Cornell College in Mt. Vernon. The Iowa track men will be running in the meet unattached.

Among other colleges expected to send entries are Iowa State, Drake, Dubuque University, Iowa State Teachers, and host Cornell.

One of the outstanding events will be the attempt of Ralph Trimble, Jefferson High School of Cedar Rapids, to lower his mile record by competing in the senior division. Trimble set a new state high school record last weekend in the AA division of the meet with a time of 4:21.0.

Ken Fearing, Don Greenlee, and Don Tucker, members of the Iowa freshman team will enter the mile at Cornell. Greenlee and Tucker both have posted times of 4:18 this year.

John Brown, who last week won the 440 championship in the Big Ten meet at Ann Arbor, will enter the 440 Saturday. Brown's winning time of :48.1 is the same as the Iowa AAU record set in 1956 by Caesar Smith.

Other entries from Iowa include Harry Olson and Denny Rehder in the 880, Olson's best time of the year was 1:54.6 and Rehder's best was 1:55.2. In the three mile run will be Bruce Trimble, Eric Clark, and Bill Boyd. Boyd finished fourth in the two mile run last week in the Big Ten meet.

Freshman John Stephens will enter the 440 with Brown. Mike Carr, Gary Christensen, and Jerry Williams, all Freshman will enter the hurdles. Brown, Bob Dougherty, and Tom Hyde are possible entries in the 220.

Tom Herzberg and Bob Hanson will enter the pole vault, and Carl Anderson will be in the high jump and the hop, step, and jump. Bob Warren will be entered in the broad jump, the hop, step, and jump, and the javelin throw.

Williams will also be in the javelin event.

'58-'59 Iowa Sports Teams Have Outstanding Seasons

Solid all-around performances featured the University of Iowa's sports year from September, 1958 to June, 1959, with one Big Ten champion and nine teams placing among the first five in the league.

Individually, six Hawkeyes won seven conference titles and three runner-up spots, while one Iowan took a National Collegiate championship and three others won four second places.

For dual contests, the teams compiled a record of 74 wins, 58 defeats and two ties for a .560 mark. Figuring Big Ten dual contests only, Iowa teams won 51, to equal the record set in 1955-56, and lost 30 for .630.

The football team won its second conference title in three seasons with a 5-1 mark and defeated California in the Rose Bowl to give Iowa a 2-0 mark in the Pasadena classic.

The Hawkeyes ranked second in the Associated Press and United Press-International polls, the highest spot ever won by Iowa. The team led the nation in total offense, set a Big Ten record for average yards per game, 416.7 and a league mark in average number of first downs per game, 22.

Randy Duncan, quarterback, was on eight major all-American teams and won four outstanding player trophies, including the Camp award by the Washington, D.C. Touchdown Club and the Chicago Tribune's silver football symbolic of the Big Ten's most valuable player.

End Curt Merz made two all-American teams and Willie Fleming and Ray Jauch each were honored on an all-conference or all-midwest selection.

Iowa's Big Ten champions in other sports were: Charles (Deacon) Jones, cross country; Gary Morris, 50-yard freestyle; swimming; Vince Garcia, 123 pounds and Gene Luttrell, 137 pounds, wrestling; Bill Buck, side horse and parallel bars in gymnastics; and John Brown, 440-yard dash, outdoor track.

Jim Craig won the National Collegiate 177-pound wrestling title and Buck scored second in parallel bars and side horse; Larry Snyder took second in trampoline and Morris was second in the 100-yard freestyle.

The teams which finished in the first division of the Big Ten were: football, first; cross country and wrestling, second; tennis, third; outdoor track, gymnastics and fencing, fourth; and swimming and golf, fifth.

In National Collegiate meets, Iowa was fourth in wrestling, sixth in gymnastics, seventh in swimming and eighth in cross country. Yet to be decided in June are NCAA meets in tennis, golf and track.

3 Americans In Semifinals Of British Golf

SANDWICH, England (AP) — A pair of U.S. Walker Cup aces, Bill Hyndman III and Deane Beman, and a darkhorse New Englander, Lt. Bob Magee, Thursday swept into the semifinals of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

They were joined by Guy Wolstenholme, a 28-year-old English woolen mill executive who stood as the line barrier to the fifth all-American British final since World War II.

The United States was assured of at least one finalist. The first 36-hole semifinal sends Hyndman, 43, an insurance company owner from Abington, Pa., against Magee, Germany-based officer from Newton, Mass.

In the bottom half, Beman, 21-year-old University of Maryland junior from Silver Spring, Md. opposes Wolstenholme, winner of the English championship and a member of the British Walker Cup team.

Hyndman Thursday cut down two formidable American rivals, beating Sgt. Harold B. Ridgley of Roanoke, Va., 2 and 1, and 19-year-old Jackie Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, 4 and 3.

Beman eliminated Harry Bentley, a 52-year-old Britisher, 2 and 1, and David Blair of Scotland, 4 and 3.

Blair earlier in the day had upset the defending champion, Joe Carr of Ireland.

Magee, 28, a 9-year regular Army veteran, beat Norman Isow of England, 1 up, and upset Doug Sewell, member of the British Walker Cup team, by winning the first extra hole of an overtime match.

Wolstenholme defeated Bill Hill, 2 and 1, and Ian Caldwell, 3 and 2, in all-English duels.

The last all-American final in the British Amateur was in 1952 when Harvie Ward beat Frank Stranahan for the title.

Patterson Fight To Be In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Like a message from outer space came word Thursday from Cus D'Amato, Floyd Patterson's manager, that the champ's fight with Ingemar Johansson definitely will be held June 25 at Yankee Stadium.

D'Amato has been hiding out from the press and talking over the telephone mysteriously from out of town hinting to various parties that he might take the fight out of New York.

D'Amato was upset because the New York State Athletic Commission refused last Friday to approve Harry Davidow as a 10 per cent American manager of Johansson.

D'Amato issued a statement Thursday through a public relations company.

"So far as Patterson is concerned the Patterson-Johansson bout will take place June 25 at Yankee Stadium," it read in part.

Reached at his training camp in Groesinger, N.Y., Johansson said he had not been worried but had been confident the fight would be held as scheduled.

Patterson, training in Chatham, N.J., has said all along he was sure the fight would be held.

First Landing Has Kidney Infection

NEW YORK (AP) — Trainer Casey Hayes said Thursday a laboratory report showed First Landing, the 2-year-old champion of 1958, was suffering from a kidney infection.

Hayes said the colt, early favorite for the Kentucky Derby in which he finished third, would be sent to owner C. T. Chenery's farm at Doswell, Va. First Landing is expected to return for fall racing.

Goalby's 64 Sets Record At Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bob Goalby, a 28-year-old professional from Crystal Rivers, Fla., used only 24 putts Thursday firing a 7-under-par 64 for a new record in the first round of the Kentucky Derby Open golf tournament.

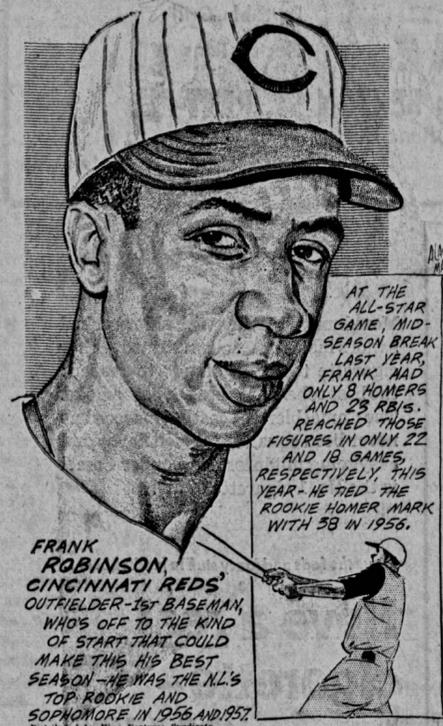

The 6-foot, 195-pound Goalby came home with a 31-33 late in the day, after Ernie Vossler of Midland, Texas, finished with 34-32-66. Vossler's score was good for second place.

Seven players tied for third with 69s and 10 had 70s over Seneca golf course. Defending champion Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa, shot a 72.

Ninety-four golfers toured the course in the first of four daily 18-hole rounds.

Tied for third were Frank Belay of Canton, Ohio; Leo Biagetti of St. Paul, Minn.; Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Texas; Bob Wolfe, Salton Sea, Calif.; Stan Hobert, Phoenix, Ariz.; Buddy Sullivan, Yuba City, Calif.; and Doug Ford, Paradise, Fla.

Friend Gets 1st Win, Beats Milwaukee 3-0

Pirates Pull 4 Double Plays Against Braves

Giants Gain Ground With 5-4 Victory

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bob Friend spun a four-hit shutout Thursday for his first victory against seven losses as Pittsburgh broke Milwaukee's hex and won the last game of a three-game set 3-0.

The loss trimmed Milwaukee's National League lead to 2 games over the San Francisco Giants.

Four double plays by his mates helped the Pittsburgh right-hander, who won 22 while losing 14 last season, to break his hard-luck string.

The loss, his third against two victories, went to Joey Jay, who held the Pirates to 2 scattered hits during his six innings except for three singles in what proved the decisive 3-run fifth. Only two Milwaukee runners were left on base until the ninth, when a budding rally ended with two more stranded.

The Pirates collected seven hits altogether, adding two harmless singles off Jay's successor, Bob Rush.

Pittsburgh . . . 000 030 000 — 3 7 2 Milwaukee . . . 000 000 000 — 0 4 0 Friend and Kravitz, Jay, Rush (7) and Crandall, L. — Jay (2-3).

Giants 5, Cards 4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco continued its mastery over St. Louis Thursday, whipping the Cardinals 5-4 and moving within two games of National League leading Milwaukee.

Leon Wagner's triple in the eighth off reliever Lindy McDaniel was the key blow in the Giants' seventh victory in eight games against the Cardinals. Felipe Alou, who ran for Wagner, scored the winning run on Daryl Spencer's sacrifice fly.

McDaniel gave only one other hit in the 3 2/3 innings he worked but took his sixth loss against three victories.

Larry Jackson, the Card starter, gave up the Giants' first four runs and nine hits in his 4 1/3 innings.

Stu Miller, who relieved starter Sam Jones to open the fifth inning, received credit for his third triumph without defeat. But he needed help in the ninth from lefty Mike McCormick. Mike got pinch-hitter Chuck Essegian to fly out and Ray Jablonski hit into a force play after Miller walked Ken Boyer with one out.

St. Louis . . . 010 210 000 — 4 8 1 San Francisco . . . 000 130 018 — 5 11 2 Jackson, McDaniel (5) and H. Smith; S. Jones, Miller (5), McCormick (9) and Landrith, McCordell (5), Schmidt (7), W. — Miller (3-0), L. — McDaniel (3-6).

A's 7, Indians 2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bill Tuttle smacked four hits — including a 2-run homer — to lead the Kansas City Athletics to a 7-2 victory over the league-leading Cleveland Indians Thursday night. It cut the Tribe's margin to a half-game over the runnerup Chicago White Sox, led by rain.

Southpaw Bud Daley went the route for the Athletics to even his record at 3-3. He permitted 10 hits, but scattered them well. He proved tough at the plate, too, getting two singles — including one that drove in a pair of runs in the second inning. He also got credit for another RBI when he was hit by a pitched ball with the bases loaded in the ninth inning.

Kansas City socked five Cleveland pitchers for 14 hits and chased starter Jim (Mudcat) Grant, before he could retire a batter in the second frame. Grant suffered his first loss in four decisions.

Tuttle drove in three runs. Kansas City . . . 120 100 021 — 7 14 1 Cleveland . . . 010 010 000 — 2 10 0 Daley and House; Grant, Podbielan (2), Garcia (6), Brodowski (7), Perry (9) and Fitzgerald, L. — Grant (3-1). Home runs — Cleveland, Colavito (3), Kansas City, Tuttle (3).

Orioles 5, Yanks 0

NEW YORK (AP) — Knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm Thursday night extended his string of shutout innings against the New York Yankees to 21 with a 4-hitter as the Baltimore Orioles beat the last place world champions, 5-0.

It was the seventh victory of the year for the unbeaten 35-year-old right-hander who has the best won-lost record in the majors, and his eighth in a row. That streak, longest in the American League, began when Wilhelm ended a nine-game losing string by no-hitting the Yankees last Sept. 20.

He blanked them with a one-hitter last Friday and has allowed them only one run since the seventh inning of a 3-2 victory April 26. All three of his major league shutouts are over the champs.

The third-place Orioles, who have won 7 of 11 games with the Yankees this year, put this one away with two runs in the first inning against Ralph Terry, who then faced only 15 men until he was touched for a run in the seventh. Gene Woodling closed the Birds' scoring with a 2-run homer, his third, in the eighth inning against reliever Bobby Shantz.

Phillies 4, Reds 3

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, who had men on base in all but one inning, saw a ninth-inning rally die Thursday night with the tying run on base and the Philadelphia Phils grabbed a 4-3 decision.

Jim Owens, Phil right-hander, who was in trouble all the way, finally had to have relief with one out in the ninth after the Reds had scored their third run. Ray Semproch came on to fan Frank Robinson and got Gus Bell on a fly ball.

BoSox 3, Senators 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — A home run by Vic Wertz in the eighth inning after a 2-out error by Beno Bertoia Thursday night gave the Boston Red Sox a 3-1 victory over Washington as Frank Sullivan pitched a 2-hitter.

Every run in the game was unearned as Washington's Pedro Ramos got the worst of it in a brilliant pitching duel. In his eight innings, Ramos yielded only four hits and walked two.

In the eighth, Ramos easily disposed of the first two batters. Then second baseman Bertoia let Ted Williams' soft grounder bounce away. At this point, the left-handed swinging Wertz lined his third homer of the season into the left field bleachers.

Boston . . . 000 010 020 — 3 4 2 Washington . . . 010 000 000 — 1 2 2 F. Sullivan and Daley; Ramos, Cleveland (9) and Naragon, L. — Ramos (4-5). Home run — Boston, Wertz (3).

Valdes Picked Over Johnson In T.V. Bout

First Garden Fight For Johnson

NEW YORK (AP) — Nino Valdes, an old familiar face in the heavy-weight ranks, will put young Alonzo Johnson to the test Friday night. It will be the first Square Garden main event fight for Johnson, a rangy upstart from Pittsburg.

On the strength of experience gained in 66 pro fights dating back to 1941, Valdes is favored at 2-1 or better. However, the giant Cuban suffers occasional distressing lapses that prompt screams of anguish from his manager, Bobby Gleason.

Gleason barely had finished crowning Nino "pro champion of the world" when Valdes fell flat on his face. Coming into a Miami Beach ring at a pudgy 224 pounds, Valdes was stopped by underdog Charlie Powell in eight rounds, March 4. He got back on the winning side by stopping Dan Hodge, the former Olympic wrestler, April 28.

Johnson has won 11 straight and owns a 15-1 record. He is a former AAU champ with a stinging jab, and a solid hook.

Valdes' record is 48-16-2, dating back to 1941 when Johnson was a 7-year-old kid. Valdes is 34. Johnson 24.

The 10-round match will be carried on network (NBC) radio and television, starting at 8 p.m. (CST).

Green Car Breaks '500' Superstition

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Tony Bettenhausen, one of the more superstitious American auto racers, makes wide detours around the car Jack Turner will drive in the 500-mile race Saturday.

It's green.

That is reputed to be an unlucky color in auto racing, although all is well when a race is running under the green flag.

The superstition is firmly fixed. The Traveler Special to be driven by Turner, former national midget car champion from Seattle, is the first green car in the race since 1950.

Turner's car is a sage green—so light it looks more grey than green.

The superstition seems to go back to early auto racing days when there was a series of fatal accidents involving British cars, all painted green.

Bettenhausen has commuted back and forth between the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and his Tinley Park, Ill., farm during the practice and qualification periods this month.

If Turner makes a good showing in the race, the superstition may fade. Pat Flaherty of Chicago put a dent in it three years ago by winning the race with a big green shamrock on his helmet and a green-uniformed pit crew. Pat was hurt later that year in a dirt track race and will be starting again Saturday after a two-year absence from the Memorial Day event.

Flaherty and Jimmy Bryan of Phoenix, Ariz., last year's first place finisher, are the only former winners in the field.

The track will be closed until Saturday morning.

Senate Committee Puts Price Ceiling On Farm Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Appropriations Committee voted Thursday to slap a $50,000 ceiling on price support benefits to individual farmers on 1960 crops. The action was expected to boil over in a hot Senate floor fight next week.

The committee took the action in approving a bill carrying more than $4,700,000,000 for Agriculture Department spending and loans for the new fiscal year beginning July 1. The total was nearly $106,000,000 less than President Eisenhower sought.

The bill was about $36,300,000 larger than the previously approved House version. Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said most of the increase was in funds for the Soil Bank Conservation reserve.

Russell said the $50,000 price support ceiling was approved after Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) lost out in an attempt to substitute a milder limitation. The vote was a 6-4 tie.

Russell said Stennis planned to offer his substitute again on the Senate floor. He predicted "a pretty good legislative donnybrook."

Khrushchev Warns Greece, Italy In Albanian Speech

VIENNA (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev blamed a "good will" trail across Communist Albania Thursday in which he took time out to "advise" neighboring Greece to strip itself of its military power.

The Albanian News Agency reported Khrushchev's speech at Koritsa, a major stop on his 13-day tour of the tiny Albanian satellite of the Soviets. He flew to Koritsa from Tirana.

The agency also reported that Communist Chinese Defense Minister Marshal Peng Teh-Huai arrived in the capital city of Tirana, today and was expected to confer with Khrushchev and East German Premier Otto Grotewohl.

In Koritsa, only 10 miles from the said to have told a vast audience that he wanted to see Greece become "a neutral country, if possible detached from NATO, without missile bases and nuclear weapons bases, so that Greece will not become a menace and a danger to us."

"But if the devil causes the Greek Government to lose its reason," Khrushchev said, "then so much the worse for the Greek Government."

"So we advise the Greek Government . . . to dismantle the missile nuclear weapons bases in Greece." Khrushchev also warned Italy again against making missile sites available to the United States. He

Bolivian Chief's Granddaughter Found Dead In Embassy Cistern

ASCUNCION, Paraguay (UPI) — The body of the baby granddaughter of Bolivian Ambassador Luis Arduz Daza was found Thursday in a cistern within the Embassy grounds.

The discovery of the body of two-month-old Maria Becar, who had been missing since last Sunday and was believed to have been kidnaped, ended a nationwide police search.

Ambassador Daza had expressed a strong belief that the disappearance was an act of political revenge. Police questioned many of the 300 Bolivian political exiles living in the city but found no clues.

Singer Ricky Nelson Gets Ticket For Speeding, Not Carrying License

ENCINO, Calif. (UPI) — Ricky Nelson, teen-age singer and actor, got a ticket Thursday for speeding in his foreign car.

Ricky, 19, said he was following his father's car when a patrolman stopped him for going 50 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone.

Ozzie Nelson, the rock 'n' roll singer's father, watched in silence as Officers Richard Baldwin and Danny Gardner wrote the citation.

Ricky also was cited for not having his operator's license in his possession, Baldwin and Gardner said.

Capture Soldiers After Holdup; One Still At Large With Money

JACKSON, Mo. (UPI) — Three soldiers on leave were charged Thursday with the $17,481 holdup of the bank of Advance, Mo., but police still were after a fourth man and most of the money.

All three of the captured men were on leave from Ft. Campbell, Ky. They were identified as Sgt. James A. Foy, 25, Trenton, N.J., Pvt. Walter S. Nicholson, 23, Livermore, Calif.; and Pvt. Robert Lee Hager, 26, Fornell, Mo.

Police said Hager had $4,700 in his possession when arrested and Nicholson another $100.

MONTREAL (UPI) — The four remaining Dionne quintuplets met briefly Thursday to celebrate their 25th birthday.

Cards and telegrams from all over the world have been pouring into Montreal to the quint, now separated by marriage.

Cecile and Marie are neighbors in a suburb here. Both are married. Cecile was the first to have a child, a son, Calude, born last September. Annette, now Mrs. Germain Allard, wife of a loan company executive, also has a son, Jean-Francois, born two months later. Yvonne, still single, is a nurse.

The fifth quint, Emilie, died at the age of 20.

Shah Says 'No Fear Of Russia,' But Also No U.S. Missile Sites

PARIS (UPI) — The Shah of Iran said Thursday his country has no fear of Russia or its anti-Iranian propaganda campaign, and would rather "die in honor" than accept Communist slavery.

Answering questions at a news conference, the touring Shah said his country has no intention of establishing U.S. missile bases on its soil. But he charged that Russia treated Iran "worse" than it did some other countries which have accepted such bases.

The anti-Iranian Russian campaign rose to a peak early this spring when Iran signed a mutual defense pact with the United States. At that time, the Soviet Ambassador to Tehran accused Iran of treating Russia "as if we were Luxembourg."

Britain To Decide On Asylum For Wife Of Russian Attache

LONDON (UPI) — Home Secretary R.A. Butler returned from Scotland Thursday to consider the case of a Russian diplomat's wife who asked for political asylum in Britain for herself and her 5-year-old daughter.

Scotland Yard kept a constant guard on Mrs. Nina Dmitriev, 35, who disappeared Saturday with her daughter, Lena, after her husband, Navy Capt. Aleksander Dmitriev, 38, was taken to the Russian Embassy by security men. Dmitriev, who served as Naval Attache to the Soviet Embassy, boarded a TU-104 airliner yesterday and returned to Moscow.

The Embassy had asked Scotland Yard to look for the missing mother and child but withdrew the request after the Foreign Office indicated Mrs. Dmitriev had defected to the West.

Eventually it will be up to Butler, as Home Secretary, to decide on whether Britain should grant Mrs. Dmitriev asylum. A decision was not expected before next week.

A Soviet Embassy spokesman laughed off questions about the Dmitriev case today.

"Why should this cause us interest?" he asked. Many wives decide to leave their husbands, and many husbands would love to leave their wives."

But, he was asked, wasn't it strange to leave one's husband by asking political asylum?

"To want to leave him so badly as to seek refuge in a strange island is rare, I agree," the Soviet spokesman said. Then he chuckled: "But it is not impossible."

He would not comment on whether the Embassy would object to Britain granting Mrs. Dmitriev and her daughter asylum.

When asked what would happen to Capt. Dmitriev, the spokesman excused himself.

Cuban Farmers Attack Castro's Reform Program

HAVANA (UPI) — Grass roots resistance to Premier Fidel Castro's agrarian reform program was attacked as "reactionary" Thursday by Revolution, the newspaper of Castro's July 26 revolutionary movement.

Tobacco farmers of Pinar Del Rio who have vowed to oppose the program even at the cost of their lives were described by Revolution as "instruments of reaction."

In a page-one editorial, the paper said small landowner resistance to the new law was "frankly provocative." It concluded that any "offensive against the agrarian reform is an offensive against the revolution . . . an offensive against Cuba."

Maj. Dermio Escalona and Capt. Jose A. Arteaga, senior army officers in Pinar Del Rio province, assailed opposition to the reforms as "counter-revolutionary."

The officers replied in a radio broadcast to about 200 small tobacco farmers who vowed earlier this week that they would refuse to obey the law authorizing expropriation of all land owned by an individual or company in excess of 1,000 acres.

Former Pinar Del Rio Provincial Governor Jose A. Navarro, a spokesman for the farmers, told a meeting at Pinar Del Rio Wednesday: "We are ready to be led before firing squads to defend the inalienable right of private property."

Prof Recognized For Book Design

Two books designed and printed by Carroll Coleman, director of publications at SUI, won him new recognition.

A book, titled "For a Hudson Biographer" and written by Herbert Faulkner West, has been selected as one of 38 top honor books for the current Chicago and Midwestern Bookmaking Show, now at the Chicago Public Library.

Three exhibits of the books will be on tour throughout the Midwest during the next year.

West is head of the department of comparative literature at Dartmouth College.

"Psyche," which Professor Coleman designed, printed and published in 1953, has been selected by the American Institute of Graphic Arts, New York City, as one of the 50 best designed books produced in the U.S. in the last ten years. The 50 books were selected to be shown in Russia, beginning in July.

The author of "Psyche," a book of poems, is August Derleth, Wisconsin poet and novelist.

Professor Coleman is a former resident of Muscatine, having operated his Prairie Press there from 1935-45. He has been a professor at SUI since 1945 and became director of publications in 1957.

Charge Man With Indecent Exposure

A former SUI student has been arrested on charges of indecent exposure in connection with an incident at University Hospitals here.

Police said Donald E. Eskew, 25, Cedar Rapids, was taken into custody after an orderly found him nude in the fifth floor hall of the hospital about 1:10 a.m. Thursday.

Police said they had been looking for the man for several months because of one other incident at the University Hospitals and occurrences at Mercy Hospital and Westlawn dormitory here.

Eskew is being held in Johnson County Jail in lieu of a $1,000 bond.

3 Senators Aim Attack At Strauss

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lewis L. Strauss came under sharp new fire Thursday as Senate leaders scheduled the start of debate next week on his controversial nomination to Secretary of Commerce.

Three Democratic Senators warmed up for the showdown with new attacks on Strauss, the former Atomic Energy Commission chairman chosen by President Eisenhower to succeed Sinclair Weeks in the Cabinet.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, (Tex.), announced a Senate schedule that probably will bring the nomination before the Senate Thursday. Johnson did not forecast when the talking would end and the voting begin.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, (D-Minn.), warned Senators who consider themselves presidential or vice-presidential timber to think twice before voting to confirm Strauss. He said a vote for Strauss might be taken as approval of "unwarranted presidential authority."

Sen. Gale McGee, (D-Wyo.), a member of the Senate Commerce Committee that approved the nomination by a scant 9-8 vote, accused Strauss for the second time this week of trying to "deceive" the committee.

McGee charged Strauss lied when he denied seeking background information from the AEC on a scientist who testified against the nomination.

Sen. Wayne Morse, (D-Ore.), attacked Strauss on a new front, complaining that the secretary had made a "shocking" appointment of a railroad financier to head a committee studying transportation policies.

Morse said he would oppose Strauss' confirmation "because I don't think he has the sensitivity" to recognize a possible conflict of interest. He cited the appointment of Armand G. Erp of New York to head the study group as a case in point.

Sen. Richard L. Neuberger, (D-Ore.), told the Senate he had not made up his mind on the Strauss nomination.

"But I must confess that I am disappointed (because) Admiral Strauss has evidently not attempted to select impartial and independent people to survey the field of transportation for our Government," Neuberger said.

Johnson announced to the Senate that the Strauss nomination would be taken up following consideration Wednesday of Eisenhower's appointments of Ogden R. Reid to be ambassador to Israel and C. Douglas Dillon to be Undersecretary of State.

There is some opposition to both nominations, but Johnson said he expected action on them the same day. If no priority matters, such as money bills, come up for immediate consideration, the Strauss nomination would be next in line for debate Thursday.

McGee based his new charge on Strauss' statement that he had never sought information on the background of Dr. David Inglis.

"This was a falsehood," McGee said.

Highway Patrol Takes Steps To Clip Rising Accident Rate

A state-wide crackdown on traffic violators in an effort to curb the mounting accident rate is now in full swing, according to Captain Leonard Simms of the State Highway Patrol.

Fifty-six local highway patrol officers met Thursday at the Amana Colonies to discuss a new five-point change in patrol procedure.

Under the new procedure, Simms said, "All patrol manpower in each district will be on duty at the same time in a given area on three days of the week."

Simms said that all districts would receive their instructions from the State Highway Patrol headquarters in Des Moines.

Simms said that the instructions would indicate concentration by all patrolmen in each district on specific violations in designated areas at designated times.

For example, Simms explained, "Instructions might call for officers in the Cedar Rapids, Fairfield, and West Liberty district (which includes the Iowa City area) to patrol Highway 218 between Cedar Rapids and Iowa City checking for improper passing and drunken driving violations between 6 p.m. and midnight on a certain day."

Simms said the instructions would be based on records of highway accidents and traffic violations throughout the state.

The new highway patrol five-point program will include these steps:

1. The entire highway patrol of approximately 200 men will go on duty in a single shift.
2. District patrolmen will be assigned to cover specific areas and to watch for specific violations. (Simms emphasized, however, that all violations would be watched for in the normal manner.)

3. The four highway patrol spotter aircraft will be assigned to operate only over certain designated highways during the hours of single duty shift.
4. A system will be inaugurated immediately whereby the entire patrol force on duty can be directed in a statewide maneuver in a matter of minutes.
5. The highway patrol no longer will issue warning tickets for speeding offenses. All violations will be issued summonses to appear in court.

Bud Abbott Sells House To Settle Government Claim

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comic Bud Abbott said Thursday a government audit disallowing a half million dollars in deductions left him broke and he was selling his home to help pay back taxes.

"The Government took it all but peanuts," said Abbott, surviving member of the Abbott and Costello comedy team.

"The thing that did it was when they disallowed a half million dollars of deductions," said Bud, whose comedy partner, Lou Costello, died in March of this year. "They put a lien on practically everything."

He said he was putting his house up for sale. "I'm trying to get $75,000 for my home — and if I sell it, they tax that too. It's the same as if I try to work — there's no use to it."

He added: "And all my so-called pals suddenly don't know my name now that the booze has stopped flowing."

Abbott, 63, now white-haired and heavier than when he starred as one of the best straight men in comedy, said he wouldn't have believed "people are like that."

"Sometimes I laugh at myself when I think of the $100 bills I handed out to guys who needed a touch."

Costello also lost heavily in the audit that covered a seven-year period, said Abbott. "But at least Lou owned 52 TV shorts outright. I merely got a salary from him."

The Government forced both members of the team to sell the residual rights to their movies to a studio for $100,000 apiece, and he then turned over the money for taxes.

He said he also had to sell property at Ojai, Calif., as well as some of his land here.

Abbott said he and his family — his wife Betty and adopted children Bud Jr., 20, and Vickie, 18 — are looking for a "small apartment or home somewhere, after we see what we get out of this."

Bud has definite ideas about the future, including a try at producing. He also will attempt to sell 17 or 18 segments that he and Costello made for a TV comedy hour, possibly in Europe.

But he doesn't expect to try again in show business with another partner.

He reasoned: "It would be like building another empire, and how many empires can you build in a lifetime?"

Fred Waring May Appear Here Nov. 7

Central Party Committee is completing transactions to hire Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians next fall for the Dad's Day Concert, co-sponsored with Omicron Delta Kappa, men's honor society.

Tentative plans for the concert Nov. 7 include a full stage show, complete with Waring's own stereophonic sound equipment, lighting and technicians.

George F. Stevens, CPC advisor, said the concert has been changed from Friday night to Saturday night so more parents will be able to attend.

CPC also plans to create a night club atmosphere at the Club Cabaret dance Feb. 12, John Schneider, A1, Chicago, CPC treasurer, said the committee hopes to offer a more progressive type of entertainment for the dance.

The Homecoming dance, co-sponsored with Union Board, will be held Oct. 10. The Winter Party will be Dec. 11, and Spinsters' Spree, co-sponsored with AWS, has been set for March 25.

Central Party Committee members for next year are: Bob Downer, A2, Newton, president; Bill VanZandt, A2, Blawenburgh, N.J., vice president; Emilie Kolker, N2, Waterloo, secretary; Nancy Rhodes, A3, Sioux City, and John Voigt, Freeport, Ill., entertainment; Bryan Clemons, A1, Chariton, and Jack Williams, A3, Waterloo, publicity; Rachel Crawford, A3, Iowa City, and Beverly Wendhausen, A3, Davenport, decorations; Margie Mee, A2, Sterling, Ill., and Sue Shriver, A1, Glidden, tea and bids; and John Schneider, CPC representative to Old Gold Days Board.

U. High Senior To Lead Concert

Twenty-two elementary and high school students will give an orchestra concert Saturday at 8 p.m. in North Music Hall. The concert is open to the public free of charge.

Directed by Peter Perret, 18, a senior at University High School, the orchestra will play Bach's Brandenburg Concertos No. 3 and 5 and "Trio Sonata" by Quantz.

This will be the orchestra's third concert of the year.

Organized by Perret three years ago, the orchestra is composed of grade and high school students from Iowa City High, Regina High, Horace Mann and University Elementary Schools.

The ages of the students range from 10 to 18. They rehearse each Sunday afternoon for two hours.

Soloists for Saturday's performance include Alice Turner and Perret, oboes; Karen Radcliffe, cello; Philip Hedges, violin; Judy Harris, flute, and Kristi Hervig, cembalo.

Dulles Estate To Widow, 2 Of 3 Children

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Foster Dulles left the bulk of his considerable estate to his widow in his will filed Thursday in Surrogates Court. Eventually, it goes to two of his three children.

Dulles, former secretary of state, who died of cancer May 24, made specific bequests of more than a quarter of a million dollars. But associates said it is too early to attempt an estimate of his total wealth.

Before he entered government service, Dulles was a high-salaried associate in Sullivan and Cromwell here, one of the nation's biggest law firms.

Dulles cut off his Jesuit son, the Rev. Avery Dulles, with a $5,000 bequest. But the will emphasized this was "not because of lack of affection for him but because special circumstances in his case made further provision seem inappropriate and unnecessary."

The will directs the executors to select from his private papers and records any contributions they think might be welcomed by his alma mater, Princeton University, where he was graduated in 1908. He also bequeathed the university $10,000.

The will was dated July 25, 1958. Personal property, household effects and the bulk of his assets were willed to Janet Avery Dulles, the widow, in trust.

Upon her death, income from half the trust goes to a daughter, Mrs. Lillias Dulles Hinshaw of New York, who also received $10,000 outright.

The other half goes to Dulles' other son, John Watson Foster Dulles, who also receives $10,000 under the will.

Budget Committee Cuts $399 Million On Defense Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee Thursday blasted at Pentagon bickering, cut $399 million from new defense funds, and sided with the Army in the latest Army-Air Force missile dispute.

The threat of Soviet aggression is expected to worsen, the committee said as it recommended $33 billion in new funds for the Army, Navy and Air Force for the fiscal year starting July 1. The cut thus amounted to just over one per cent.

In a bill sent to the House floor for wide open debate next week, the committee put dollar emphasis on missile development, anti-submarine warfare and strategic bombers. It called the latter a potent deterrent to aggression because of its ability to strike back destructively.

The committee told President Eisenhower it would not quibble over the added cost if he decided to keep some of the big bombers in the air around the clock to prevent them from being destroyed on the ground by a sneak attack.

The committee turned down Eisenhower's request for $260 million for a new aircraft carrier for the Navy, saying the money could be better used for the anti-submarine warfare program.

It also rejected the President's proposal to reduce National Guard strength below 400,000 and that of the reserve below 300,000, but it went along with his plan to cut the Army by one division and to lower Marine Corps personnel to 175,000. Floor fights are in prospect over amendments to raise Army strength from $70,000 to 900,000 and to freeze Marine Corps strength at 200,000.

In a move frankly designed to force the Pentagon to settle its rivalries over which service has the best missiles, the committee lopped $162 million from the Air Force Bomarc missile program and increased funds for the Army Nike-Zeus missile. Both are designed as defensive weapons against other missiles.

For the Army, the committee recommended $9 billion, an increase of $221 million over the amount requested. This would finance an Army of 870,000 men plus 400,000 National Guardsmen and 300,000 reservists and an Army air strength of 5,363 active planes.

For the Navy it recommended $11 billion in new money, a reduction of $82 million. This would give the Navy 605,000 active duty personnel, including 175,000 Marines, and 177,811 reservists including 42,811 Marines.

Johnson Replies To Attacks; Denies '1-Man Rule' Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson fired back Thursday for the first time at attacks on him by freshman Sen. William Proxmire, (D-Wis.). The Texan denounced as a myth charges that he holds "one-man rule" over Senate Democrats.

Speaking out after months of silence, Johnson told the Senate "It doesn't take much courage to make the leadership a punching bag." He denied he could tell any Democratic Senator how to vote, declaring he was neither a fairy godmother nor a wet nurse.

"To tell a man to go to Hell and to make him go are two different propositions," Johnson said.

Proxmire retorted that Johnson had "set up a straw man." He took the position that Johnson had failed to reply to his chief complaint — that the Texan failed to provide guidance and leadership for the Senate's 64 Democrats.

Johnson has been criticized repeatedly by Proxmire, and occasionally by a couple other Democrats, since the first of the year. Proxmire contended Johnson did not consult Democratic Senators on policy matters at formal party conferences.

Last month Sen. Pat McNamara, (D-Mich.), took issue with Johnson for failing to take a stand on a jobless benefit bill.

The next day Sen. Wayne Morse, (D-Ore.), charged that Senate Democratic leaders had been serving as a ventriloquist's dummy for the Administration.

Johnson's remarks were broad enough to apply to all these criticisms. But at one point he said: "The best illustration we have of the ineffectiveness of the majority leader to tell Senators how to conduct themselves just sat down."

Proxmire had just taken his seat after renewing his charge that Senate Democrats don't know their party's policy on legislative issues because "we don't have any policy."

In reply to charges that he fails to hold enough party meetings, Johnson said he had "no illusions that any super-policy committee or super-caucus could have the slightest influence on any senator to make him vote against his convictions."

The set-to broke out while Johnson was trying to coax Sen. Albert Gore, (D-Tenn.), to defer a speech so the Senate could pass a pending District of Columbia appropriations bill. Gore was protesting federal monetary policy when the Senate technically was limited to consideration of the money bill.

When Gore said he wanted Democratic Senators to join in a policy of opposing interest rate increases, Johnson said there were "wide divergences of opinion in the Senate."

"The majority leader does not have the power to wave a wand and say, 'This is what the policy will be,'" he continued. "The Senator from Wisconsin thinks I might be able to do that."

Proxmire joined the discussion to praise Gore for pointing up what he called a lack of Democratic leadership.

Johnson shot back that Proxmire "with all his power, wisdom and leadership" couldn't get the 17-member Senate Banking Committee to agree with him on the interest issue when it came up in the housing bill.

"It's mighty easy to pass the

John Cabot Confirmed As Brazil Envoy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Career diplomat John M. Cabot today won unanimous Senate confirmation as ambassador to Brazil, the post Clare Boothe Luce resigned after a row with Sen. Wayne Morse, (D-Ore.).

Cabot's nomination was approved by voice vote. He now is ambassador to Columbia.

The Senate did not act immediately on the nomination of J. Graham Parsons of New York to be assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

Action on the nomination of Ogden Reid to be ambassador to Israel also was deferred.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower nominated John Howard Morrow, North Carolina Negro educator, to be the first U.S. ambassador to the new African republic of Guinea.

Morrow, 49, has been chairman of the Department of Modern Foreign Languages at North Carolina College at Durham, N.C., since 1954.

The President also accepted the resignation of Lampton Berry as ambassador to Ceylon where he has served since last Oct. 10. Berry gave his health as a reason for quitting.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mississippi Gov. J. P. Coleman said Sunday there was danger of a Supreme Court reversal of a conviction if he called a special grand jury to sift evidence gathered by the FBI in the Mack Charles Parker lynching case.

Coleman neither would confirm nor deny reports that the FBI gave a list of the persons who begged the 23-year-old Negro out of his Poplarville, Miss., jail cell April 25, Parker, who had been awaiting trial on a charge of raping a white woman, later was found dead in a river. He had an arrow in his back.

The governor told members of the Senate Constitutional Rights Subcommittee that the Mississippi Supreme Court had established a precedent of reversing convictions based on indictments returned by specially-convened grand juries.

For that reason, he said, the best course to follow in the Poplarville case was to wait until the regular grand jury term began in November. Coleman said he had doubt a locally-formed grand jury would see to it that justice was done.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) urged that a special grand jury be called to deal with the case.

Javits, a former New York state attorney general, told the subcommittee that "those of us acquainted with the administration of criminal law know what a six months' delay can do." He said it could "nullify" prosecution.

Discussing the FBI report, Coleman said he was on "touchy legal ground" and did not feel he should make the information public.

The governor also said he did not wish to "shadow box" with the named government sources who

For that reason, he said, the best course to follow in the Poplarville case was to wait until the regular grand jury term began in November. Coleman said he had doubt a locally-formed grand jury would see to it that justice was done.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) urged that a special grand jury be called to deal with the case.

Javits, a former New York state attorney general, told the subcommittee that "those of us acquainted with the administration of criminal law know what a six months' delay can do." He said it could "nullify" prosecution.

Discussing the FBI report, Coleman said he was on "touchy legal ground" and did not feel he should make the information public.

The governor also said he did not wish to "shadow box" with the named government sources who

Army's New Flying Machine, 'Avrocar,' Gets High Priority

WASHINGTON (AP)—The secrecy curtain was withdrawn slightly Thursday night from a hush-hush project which the Army hopes will give the United States its version of the flying saucer.

Heavily censored testimony made public by the House Space Committee confirmed that the revolutionary new aircraft will resemble a saucer. It is designed for low-level tactical flights, not for space travel.

The Army, enthusiastic over its potential, has spent more than five million dollars in the project in the last three years.

"It is one of our high priority programs," said Brig. Gen. F. H. Britton, director of developments for the Office of Army Research.

Britton said publicly when he testified April 15 that tests on the new vehicle were to begin shortly. He said initial flight tests will take place in Canada where the vehicle is being developed by Avro Aircraft, Ltd., under a joint U.S. Army-Air Force project.

He testified during space committee hearings on a family of vehicles being developed around the principle of the ground cushion phenomenon.

These vehicles, most of them still in the research stage, are designed to rise a few inches or feet off the ground by means of downward air blasts from the bottom or under edges of the machine.

However, the Army's Avrocar, as it has been dubbed, reportedly will be capable of rising to much greater altitudes.

"We consider this as a flying machine," Britton said.

Censors deleted his elaboration on how high it could fly and other details. He did say, however, that it would be capable of rising vertically and hovering stationary in the air.

"The Army intends to use this type of vehicle in tactical operation," he said. "This is a piece of equipment, the Army wants to use in roles where in the past we have in large respect used vehicles.

Formosans Voted Out Of Olympics

MUNICH, Germany, (UPI)—The International Olympic Committee, bowing to strong Communist pressure, ousted Nationalist China from membership Thursday and paved the way for the Chinese Reds to join as "representative of China," IOC Chairman Avery Brundage announced.

The decision by the IOC, top international authority in amateur sports, opened the door for eventual Chinese Communist participation in the Olympic Games for the first time. But it was unlikely that Red China would compete before the 1964 games, scheduled for Tokyo.

Brundage, United States representative on the Olympic committee, told a news conference that Nationalist China was dropped in a decision taken "almost unanimously" by IOC members holding their annual congress here. The expulsion had been formally requested by Russia.

The announcement said the action was taken in the form of a resolution in which the IOC "notified the Olympic Committee in Taiwan (Formosa) that it cannot be recognized any longer as the Chinese Olympic Committee under that name because it does not control sports in the entire country of China."

The International Committee, however, told the Nationalist Chinese Olympic Committee, that it may request admission at a later date, as representative "of Taiwan."

"If a new application for recognition as the Olympic Committee of Taiwan is sent to our chancellery, it will be considered there," the IOC resolution said.

The Chinese Communists had quit the International Olympic Committee earlier this year, after a three-year period of membership, in protest against continued recognition of Nationalist China by the IOC.

Brundage told newsmen that if Red China re-applies for membership it would be recognized as the "representative of China."

"The expulsion of the Nationalist Chinese from the IOC," Brundage said, "will probably set a precedent for all those international sports federations which have not taken the same measure yet."

Brundage was reported to have fought the Soviet proposal in the closed-door committee session.

Memorial Funds Given To Society

Friends and relatives of 14 deceased Johnson County residents have established "living" memorials in their names during the past twelve months. These memorial contributions were given to the Iowa Division of the American Cancer Society.

According to the society, these funds are being used to "carry out professional and public education programs, and to further research projects which will eventually produce cancer control."

Memorials have been established for Dr. H. B. Elkins, former associate professor of radiology at the SUI College of Medicine; C. R. Rasley, former head cashier at the SUI Business Office who died Nov. 11, 1958; and Richard Setterberg, WSUI program director who was killed recently in an automobile accident.

Others from Johnson County were: Jacob D. Miller, Helen Walker, Bernie Moore, Anna E. Paul, Evelyn Braley, Ruby Coquillette, Joseph Rouner, Emma Jane Davis, Leo Schapiro, Mrs. Milo Cecch and Clarence Allen.

Student Honors

Outstanding seniors in the College of Commerce were honored Wednesday night at the annual Awards Banquet of the SUI Collegiate Chamber of Commerce in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Receiving scholarship keys of professional fraternities in commerce were: James Gustavson, C4, Spirit Lake; Willard Galliard, C4, Dubuque; and Karen Schnede, C4, Durant. Galliard received the keys of both Beta Alpha Psi and Delta Sigma Pi. Gustavson received the key of Alpha Kappa Psi, and Miss Schnede received the key of Phi Gamma Nu.

The SUI chapter of Phi Epsilon Kappa, professional education fraternity, has elected officers for the coming academic year.

New officers are Robert Hansen, A3, De Witt, president; A. J. Wendler, SUI associate professor of physical education for men, treasurer; Donald Mages, G, Iowa City, historian; and Joe Donald, A4, Chariton, guide.

Five SUI coeds have completed their series of swimming instructions given to members of Girl Scout Troop No. 99 of Roosevelt School in the Old Armory pool.

The swimming instructors were Karen Branson, A1, Waterloo; Priscilla Bulmahn, A1, Burlington; Carol Smith, N1, Ames; Mary Stalcup, A1, Storm Lake; and Nancy Ulfrick, A1, Grinnell.

Three SUI coeds have been selected for membership in Pi Omega Pi. The coeds are Karma Rife, C4, Iowa City; Mary Ann Wallen, C3, Storm Lake; and Judelle Walke, C4, Guttenberg. Members are named on the basis of high scholarship in commerce and education courses.

One-year fellowships for study at SUI have been awarded to two graduate students by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

James Race, G, Houston, Texas, who is working toward a Ph.D. in experimental embryology, received his fellowship for the third year. Theodore Williams, San Antonio, Texas, will begin his study at SUI this fall.

The fellowship stipends are for $2,000, in addition to tuition, fees, and $300 toward research expenses.

County Medical Society To Have Picnic Sunday

The Johnson County Medical Society will have a picnic dinner at 6 p.m. Sunday at the summer home of Dr. H. R. Jenkinson, Lake MacBride. In case of rain the picnic will be held at the Mayflower Inn.

Scholarship Established In Memory Of Law Student

A scholarship to be given in memory of the late Robert W. Conrad to an SUI law student was recently announced by friends of Conrad at the Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C.

The scholarship, to be administered by Dean Mason Ladd of the College of Law, was established after friends contributed more than $1,500 to the fund. Conrad, 36, was killed Feb. 13 in an airliner crash in New York's East River while en route from Chicago to New York on an FTC investigation. He was the first FTC investigator to be killed on duty.

A native of Elkader, Conrad attended schools there and received his bachelor of arts and law degrees at SUI. While at SUI, he received a scholarship for excellence in original oratory and served as a staff announcer at Radio Station WSUI.

He was a resident of Falls Church, Va., and had served with the FTC since 1950, mainly investigating anti-monopoly cases.

Probation, Parole Meet To Be Here Next Week

The Probation and Parole Officers Institute, to be held at SUI June 24, will feature discussions

King Moves From Palace To Ostend

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Ex-King Leopold has moved out of the palace he shared with his reigning son, King Baudouin, to ease growing criticism of the monarchy, court sources said Thursday.

The sources said Leopold, who was accused of yielding too much influence over his 28-year-old bachelor son, moved to a royal estate on the coast near Ostend. Leopold had shared the 100-room Laeken Palace since his abdication eight years ago.

He made the move without waiting for Baudouin to return home from a visit to the United States. Baudouin was in New York Thursday.

In an attempt to give the royal family a "new look," a royal palace spokesman said plans were being made to have Baudouin make an unprecedented tour of Brussels in an open car on his return next week. It will be the first time Belgians have been encouraged to turn out and cheer their bespectacled young king.

Baudouin's visit to America brought out into the open an undercurrent of criticism of the royal family which began when Leopold, then the monarch, surrendered to the Germans in 1940.

Belgian newspapers said Baudouin's democratic demeanor in the United States, where he even "gate-crashed" a dance was nothing like his frosty attitude at home to his subjects.

The criticism spilled over to the marriage plans of Prince Albert, Baudouin's younger brother. A full-dress parliamentary debate was scheduled over the fact that Albert planned to have Pope John XXIII marry him to Italian Princess Paoly Ruffo in the Vatican July 1. Such a wedding would overlook the Belgian legal requirement of a civil ceremony.
