

Ike, Elizabeth II Officially Open St. Lawrence Seaway

President And Queen Cruise On Britannia

International Work Is Praised

MONTREAL (AP) — President Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth II sailed up the St. Lawrence Seaway Friday on the royal yacht Britannia, symbolically opening the deepened channel that links the Atlantic Ocean with the heart of North America.

Silvery trumpets, 21-gun salutes, flags, fireworks and music saluted the joint work of the United States and Canada to complete the project.

"A magnificent symbol" showing the potentialities of peaceful cooperation among nations, Eisenhower called the Seaway.

"A magnificent monument to the enduring friendship of our two nations," the Queen said. Then the Britannia passed beneath a symbolic gate close by the St. Lambert Lock at the eastern end of the Seaway. When the yacht entered the lock, water flowed in and lifted the blue hull 15 feet—the first step of a water ladder to the Great Lakes.

Eisenhower and the Queen, with Mrs. Eisenhower and Prince Philip, stood on the flying bridge, an upper deck, as the Britannia began the cruise. On the banks of the St. Lawrence, thousands of spectators cheered and applauded. The chiefs of state waved back, smiling and exchanging remarks among themselves.

From the entrance, the Britannia's course covered 31 miles — a five-hour trip — to the lower Beauharnois Lock, before Eisenhower's flight home.

The Presidential party flew from Washington in two planes Friday morning. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Secretary of War Wilber M. Burckner, leaders of the Senate and House committees on foreign affairs, and members of the diplomatic corps accompanied the President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

Lewis L. Strauss, finishing his interim appointment as secretary of commerce after the Senate rejected his nomination, also was in the party. He was among U.S. and Canadian leaders on a 35-foot high platform where Eisenhower and the Queen addressed some 20,000 persons.

"The Seaway is far more than a technical and commercial triumph," Eisenhower said.

"It is, above all, a magnificent symbol to the entire world of the achievements possible to democratic nations peacefully working together for the common good."

Pointing to the global potentialities of international cooperation, the President said: "In the reasonable resolution of the acute international problems of our time rests the single hope for world prosperity and happiness in peace, with justice for all."

The Queen traced two centuries of planning and the dreams of many men for a channel to bypass the rapids of the St. Lawrence so ocean-going ships could come into the Great Lakes.

She set forth the value to Canada and the United States now that, through common effort, the half-billion-dollar Seaway is carrying iron ore, grain and manufactured goods. Like Eisenhower, she closed with the theme of cooperation.

Elizabeth and Philip are in the second week of a 45-day tour of Canada. The Canadian government invited the Queen to appear at the dedicatory ceremonies.

Actually, the Seaway was opened to ship traffic April 25. The Britannia was about the 2,000th ship through St. Lambert Lock.

Saturday the yacht takes Elizabeth and Philip to the vicinity of Cornwall, Ont., and Massena, N.Y. There they will meet Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson in ceremonies devoted to the Seaway's hydroelectric project.

Diplomacy With Trujillo Ends

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro's revolutionary government broke diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic Friday. It accused strongman Rafael Trujillo's regime of mass extermination of war prisoners and cruel bombing of defenseless citizens.

Castro and the Dominican generalissimo have long been bitter enemies. The Cuban leader once took part in an abortive expedition to the Dominican Republic to overthrow Trujillo's government.

Relations between the two countries worsened when Cuban ex-President Fulgencio Batista fled to Trujillo's country after the triumph of Castro's revolution last Jan. 1. The impending break was hastened by Dominican claims that Cubans promoted an invasion of the Dominican Republic.

U. S. Plane Crash In Italy Kills 68

Falls To Earth, Burns During Thunderstorm

Witnesses Say Lightning Hit The TWA Plane

MILAN, Italy (AP) — A Trans World Airlines plane carrying mostly Americans and Italians bound for Chicago plunged to earth out of a lightning-and-thunder storm in flames near here Friday. All 68 persons aboard were killed.

The crash raised immediate speculation as to whether lightning or some other violence of an Alpine thunderhead sent the plane to destruction.

The idea that lightning itself could knock out an airliner in flight has never been confirmed, American officials said.

Investigations begin today. Some eyewitnesses to the flaming plunge under the high Italian shoulder of the Alps said lightning was responsible. Most were peasants, none expert in aviation.

It was Italy's worst air disaster. A revised list from TWA identified 28 passengers and six crew members as American citizens.

The exact count of Americans still was in doubt, however, since other names on the passenger list carried U.S. addresses but identified the persons as nationals of other countries.

Most of the bodies were mangled. Police and disaster teams worked to collect remains, taking them to a hastily built shelter in a woods near the crash scene.

Shortly before midnight authorities decided the work of recovering bodies could be handled better by daylight.

Dozens of people on the ground saw the fiery plunge and said the plane was struck by lightning as it climbed into the raging thunderstorm.

One said the lightning seemed to hit a wing, and it crumbled away. The plane broke into two more parts and pieces of the four-engine airliner were found later scattered over a three-mile area.

The U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board has said that it has no record of any airliner ever having been exploded by lightning.

Officials at first announced there were 71 persons on the big Constellation, but they later revised the total.

In the last count they said there were 56 paying passengers, 9 crew members and 3 TWA employees aboard as nonpaying passengers.

The wreckage burned so furiously after striking the ground 15 miles north of Milan that a heavy rain and fireman could not put out the flames for two hours.

Disaster crews brought up searchlights as they worked in the steady rain. Cutting through the gloom, the lights showed a doll and other toys scattered among the twisted bits of metal.

Most of those aboard the plane were Americans and Italians. Others were French, British, Egyptian and Chilean.

The sleek airliner had just taken off from Malpensa Airport in Milan for Paris — the last stop before heading out over the Atlantic nonstop for O'Hare Airport in Chicago.

TWA said the plane had reported to Malpensa tower that it had reached an altitude of 10,000 feet. Then there was silence.

Soviet Diplomat Gets U.S. Refuge

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — A young Soviet diplomat who said "I desire a life of freedom" has been granted refuge in the U.S. Embassy here, American officials announced Friday.

In a written statement, the Russian made a scathing attack on the Communist system.

He was identified as Alexander Urevitch Kaznacheev, 27-year-old information officer in the Soviet Embassy in Rangoon.

The case is the second of sensational type involving Soviet Embassy personnel here in less than two months. Early in May a Soviet military attaché was taken back to Moscow after he tried to jump from a hospital window. Informants said he apparently had wanted to seek asylum.

After Release, Fires State Police Chief—

Long Gets Revenge

COVINGTON, La. (AP) — Violently angry, Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana was released from a state mental hospital Friday and charged along a vengeance trail against politicians he figures have done him wrong.

The 63-year-old governor — 27 days in two mental hospitals behind him — savored his freedom less than an hour, then picked his first victim. He was Louisiana's state police chief, John (Nick) Brown.

In the same breath, Gov. Long fired Brown and named E. P. Roy, a former state police head, as his successor. Brown's police helped guard the governor at Southeast Louisiana Mental Hospital in Mandeville, La.

In Baton Rouge, where political hurricane signals are flying, an informed source said of Long: "He's damn sore about people turning their backs on him."

After disappearing for a couple of hours, Long and his political advisers and allies turned up at a motel south of Covington.

He held a press conference and told newsmen he would continue the campaign for governor he announced before his confinement in a Texas psychiatric clinic.

"I know I am," he answered when asked if he would run this fall.

Before his hospitalization and the following uproar, Long said he thought he would have to make 300 speeches during the campaign.

"Now I think I can get by with 100," he snapped.

Another source indicated Gov. Long would call a special session of the Louisiana Legislature, which just completed an uproarious fiscal session at mid-June. Some of the governor's pet bills went down the drain at that session.

The actual sequence that provided freedom for Gov. Long came rapidly and as a surprise.

It started with an emergency meeting of the Louisiana Hospital Board in the schoolhouse where hundreds of Louisianans had gathered to watch the governor fight his legal battle for freedom by habeas corpus.

Seven members of the 14-member board of the hospital, plus two proxies, gathered with the governor. Rapidly, with board recommendation, Long fired Jesse Bankston, state hospitals director, and Dr. Charles Belcher, acting superintendent of Southeast Hospital.

In their places, Gov. Long appointed Charles Rosenblum, a board member, and Dr. L. H. McClendo, 72-year-old friend of the governor.

In the aftermath, Bankston released a statement in Baton Rouge citing four doctors' contentions that Long needed further hospitalization. Among them were Dr. Robert Heath, chairman of the psychiatry and neurology department of Tulane University in New Orleans, and Dr. Charles Watkins, chairman of Louisiana State University's Department of psychiatry.

In the courtroom, Joe Arthur Sims, the governor's chief counsel, read to Judge Robert Jones of the 22nd Judicial District a letter disclosing the firings of Bankston and Belcher. Then he read letters showing appointment of Rosenblum and Dr. McClendo.

Finally, he read a letter from Dr. McClendo to Rosenblum which said: "I have been a lifetime acquaintance of Earl Long and have observed him in recent weeks. In my opinion, there is nothing wrong with him. He should be released and I intend to do so."

After a couple of hours of prime confusion, word from the little statehouse said Gov. Long would remain in Covington for a week, then go to his farm Winnfield, La., his favorite resting spot.

SUI Symphony To Present Concert During Festival

A highlight of SUI's 21st Fine Arts Festival will be a summer concert by the SUI Symphony Orchestra, July 3 at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of Iowa Memorial Union.

This concert also will mark the last SUI podium appearance of James Dixon, who in mid-September will become conductor of Boston's New England Conservatory Orchestra, the oldest conservatory in America. Dixon, a native of Estherville, has been conductor of the SUI Symphony Orchestra since 1954.

Works on the July 8 program will consist of "Harold in Italy," by Hector Berlioz, featuring viola soloist William Precuil, instructor of music; "Theme and Variations from a Suite in G," by Tchaikovsky; and "Symphony No. 8," by the late Philip G. Clapp, longtime head of the SUI Music Department.

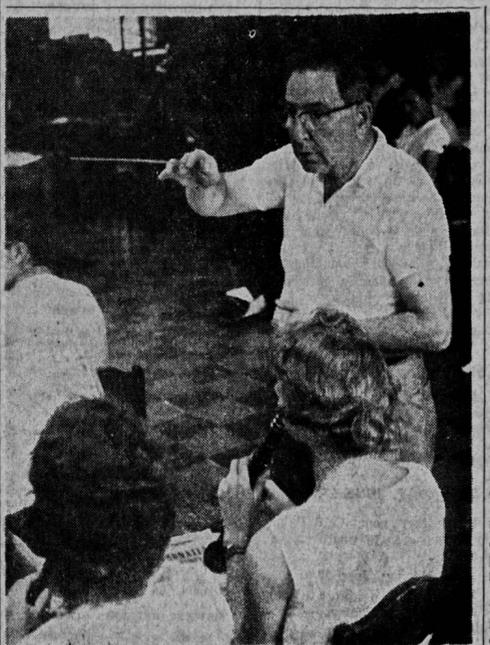

Violist with the University String Quartet, Precuil has been a member of the Rochester Philharmonic, and soloist and principal violist in the White House Orchestra, Washington, D.C. He has appeared as soloist and principal violist at the Peninsula Music Festival, Door County, Wis., (under the direction of conductor Thor Johnson), and was principal violist in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra (the youngest person to hold such a post in a major symphonic organization) for two years before coming to SUI in 1958. Precuil performed last year at the Casals Festival in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The SUI Symphony Orchestra's July 8 concert will be open to the public free of charge. Tickets will be available at the IMU Information Desk beginning Thursday.

Housing Commissioner Says Construction Up In 1960

All Together Now!

DES MOINES (AP) — Federal Housing Commissioner Julian H. Zimmerman said Friday that new housing construction in the United States this year will be one of the highest in history.

In Des Moines for the Iowa home builders and allied industries, "Salute to FHA" on its 25th anniversary, Zimmerman said present estimates place housing construction at 1.3 million new units this year.

The previous record year was 1950 when construction on 1.3 million housing units was started. Second high year was 1955 with 1.3 million units.

"Judging from all the new applications for construction the FHA has received," Zimmerman said, "the administration's tight money policy has had no adverse effect on building."

While the nation is pushing so hard to meet the demand for new housing, he said, "I hope the important job of keeping our present inventory of existing homes up to date is not overlooked."

He said there are some 13 million farm and other units that are dilapidated or lacking in essential plumbing, and many others are in need of modernization.

Zimmerman said there was not much prospect in the immediate future for any hikes in the present 5 per cent FHA loan rate and added that he foresees no serious economic condition that would put a damper on the present rate of home building.

He credited the high rate of construction to the improved condition of the economy, and increased demand for housing, "and simply new family formations."

Air Defense Plan Queried By Legislators

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — New air defense questions, raised by a Senate committee, were injected Friday into the already long list of subjects demanding the attention of 160 top military officials in annual conference here.

When the seventh Secretaries' Conference was opened by Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy Thursday night, the Pentagon directors thought their "master plan" for continental air defense solved the problems.

But the Senate Armed Services Committee accepted the plan only with some reservations — and with more questions.

Among them were: 1. What about the danger that might come from explosion of nuclear warheads on defense missiles above the populated areas to be defended?

2. The master plan may be a step in the right direction, but is too much reliance being placed on defense as compared with offensive preparations to counter enemy attack?

Virtually every top civilian and military commander in the defense establishment is at this three-day meeting. Moreover, the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission is among the conferees.

The conference provided an opportunity for McElroy to sound out all his experts for answers to the committee's questions and do it in closed-door sessions.

Tests already conducted probably will supply part of the answer to the first question, that of danger to cities from exploding nuclear air defense weapons.

The second question may not be as easy to answer. And in this case it involves a debate within the armed forces on a fundamental strategy.

The Strategic Air Command long has held that the best defense is a powerful offense, the readiness of bombers, and later long-range ballistic missiles, to strike back at an aggressor with a massive, crushing blow.

Even 10 per cent of the bombers in an attacking force could produce huge casualties.

Starkweather Buried Friday

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Killer Charles Starkweather was buried Friday clutching a cross he held when executed in the electric chair.

The prison chaplain, the Rev. Robert Klein, quoted Starkweather as saying he had died "a thousand deaths."

A large group of relatives, a few close friends, and a group of young pallbearers attended the funeral.

Steel Talks Break Down; Industry Refuses Meeting

NEW YORK (AP) — Crucial steel negotiations broke down completely Friday night. Top industry executives spurned an invitation to meet with Union President David J. McDonald.

Earlier, McDonald refused to meet further in what he termed "a farcical filibuster" with the steel industry's regular four-man bargaining team, headed by R. Conrad Cooper, U.S. Steel Corp.'s executive vice president.

McDonald, instead, called for a session Friday night with Chairman Roger M. Blough of U.S. Steel, and top executives of 11 other leading steel companies. This bid was turned down flatly by the company chiefs.

"No useful purpose can possibly be served by changing the present bargaining procedures," the top executives replied to McDonald in a telegram.

They said Cooper's group had full bargaining authority and stood ready to meet anytime with the union.

The procedural impasse heightened the threat of an industrywide strike July 1, only four days hence.

As walkout of the nation's more than 500,000 basic steelworkers could drive a bodyblow at the nation's booming economy. Efforts to postpone the strike threat have all fallen flat.

With the halt in negotiations, McDonald called a meeting of the union's 33-man International Executive officers of the 12 companies to meet with the officers of the Steelworkers Union.

The Massachusetts Senator challenged Hoffa to show any action he may have taken against a long stream of Teamsters officials whom the committee has labeled corrupt, some of whom have been in trouble with the law.

Bristling, Hoffa declared "I have the power and the authority" to suspend union officials who have pleaded the Fifth Amendment to avoid testifying before the committee. But he said he won't do it while the committee is investigating them.

Navy Men Released From Capsule After 8-Day Test

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "When we get out of this man's missile we ought to collect our hazards-of-duty pay, get drunk, then kill ourselves."

"Sure, but I wish I had a pinup girl while I'm waiting."

"I hear they can tell by analyzing the waste matter from our bodies — sweat and all — just what we've been thinking."

"I'm dying for a smoke, but I miss my wife more than cigarettes."

If you have ever wondered what men might talk about when they are sealed in a make-believe space ship, with no timepiece to guide them and nothing to amuse them but themselves, that's a fair sampling. That it is light-hearted is to be expected.

For eight days six hand-picked Navy men were isolated in a giant capsule, each with no more space than a man gets in solitary confinement in a brig.

The six came out Friday amidst the glare of television lights, clusters of newsmen and a crowd of naval base employees that burst into applause when the men appeared, smiling and perspiring.

The six were key figures in the operation, which tested a new concept in oxygen-breathing apparatus for flights beyond the earth's atmosphere.

Navy officers said the test show that with this device astronauts will be better able to endure the rigors of space adventure. They said it is more compact and efficient and cheaper to run than oxygen systems now used. Liquid oxygen has been ruled out for this purpose owing to its high loss through evaporation.

The new method uses a solid granule which, when it comes in contact with carbon dioxide, releases oxygen and soaks up the carbon dioxide and some of the moisture in the air.

The "guinea-pigs" tumbled out of the chamber in astonishingly high spirits. They were clean-shaven, bright, talkative. They said their appetites remained hearty; they slept well; they had no gripes; and that very little irritability developed.

One of them, Robert Brihault, of Philadelphia, went into the chamber 18 years old, and emerged 19. Friday was his birthday.

His associates were Charles T. Cooper, 21, of Clayton, Ind.; Richard Fleschner, 19, of Queens, N. Y.; William F. Lamb, 22, Dorchester, Mass.; Robert F. Mullett, 22, Pittsfield, Mass., and Nicholas Noche, 29, Newark, N.J.

Cougar, Whale Bones, Birds— All Found In Macbride Hall

By KAY KRESS
News Editor

The undisputed "king" of Macbride Hall's main floor corridor is the 190-pound cougar who sits in his case and stares, glassy-eyed, at curious spectators.

The stuffed cougar is the most popular exhibit in SUI's Natural History Museum, according to Walter C. Thietje, assistant professor and curator of the museum.

The cougar, or mountain lion, was brought to SUI in July, 1953. He was captured by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at Duchesne, Utah, in 1955.

The cougar is just one of the many specimens housed in the museum, which occupies parts of four floors in Macbride Hall, Mammal Hall, Marine Invertebrates and the Ethnological Collection.

The many articles on exhibition in the museum have been obtained by SUI-sponsored collecting, exchanges, donations, and purchases, Thietje said.

Animals in Mammal Hall represent almost every species in the world, from the bobcat to the African lion, and from the duck-billed platypus to the man-like apes.

A 46-foot whale skeleton hangs from the ceiling of Mammal Hall, on the third floor. This is the largest mammal specimen to be found in the museum.

The skeleton was found on the North Carolina coast about 40 years ago. The bones were packed and shipped to SUI, and Homer Dill, who was then curator of the museum, assembled the bones and placed them in their present position.

Included in the Bird Hall exhibit is the Laysan Island Cyclocorax, which shows this Pacific island's bird life as well as its terrain.

Similar collections of bird life are also shown in their natural habitat in the Crane group — a South Dakota prairie scene which includes the now nearly extinct whooping crane; the Fall Migration Group — a scenic Iowa woodland; and the Bering Sea Group — birds of the Arctic.

The surroundings in these natural habitat settings are realistically created through artificial foliage, rocks and painted backgrounds. The Ethnological Collection on the ground floor of Macbride includes a collection of Eskimo articles gathered by an adventurous SUI student in 1892.

During his three-year trek from Lake Winnipeg in Canada to the Arctic region, Frank Russell traveled by canoe, by dog sled for more than 2,200 miles, and on snowshoes for 800 miles.

Russell's Eskimo ivory collection includes carved walrus tusks showing hunting, fishing and native ritual scenes.

Just around the corner from the ivory collection, Eskimo clothing, domestic instruments, a walrus-hide canoe and a dog harness are shown.

This room also includes a case of articles from Africa. Crude stone axes, knives, musical instruments and a "tom-tom" from African tribes have been donated to the Museum by a woman who was a

Editor Lists Major Duties Of Newspapers

Two major responsibilities of today's newspaper were pinpointed in a talk Friday night by Basil L. Walters, editor of the Chicago Daily News.

Newspapers must inform their readers of major foreign news and must serve as the eyes and ears of the public to watch public servants and public records, Walters emphasized. He spoke to teachers attending a two-week workshop on "The Newspaper in the Classroom."

It is important that Americans understand what is going on in the world so that they can vote intelligently," the Chicago editor said.

The fact that readership surveys in the past have shown low interest in foreign news does not excuse the editor from printing that news, Walters said, but should serve rather as a challenge to make this news interesting enough that it will get read.

Since all of us are actual participants in events making some of the world's history, the newspaper should "make the reader realize that each day he lives and participates in a drama more thrilling than the synthetic Western he watches hour after hour on TV," Walters said.

The newspaper's function is not to do the people's thinking for them, but to stimulate thought and debate, Walters said. "The most criticized newspaper may actually be serving its community the best through serving as a gadfly. A good and courageous paper cannot hope to be loved by everyone, the best it can hope for is to be well respected."

Child Action Is Studied In Workshop

How can teachers use knowledge of child behavior to build the type of human relationships that produce a meaningful and challenging learning environment? This is the primary question being discussed during the Workshop on Education in Human Relations and Mental Health at SUI. The workshop opened June 22 and will close July 2.

The purpose of this workshop is to provide an opportunity for educators to become acquainted with the most recent advancements in education in human relations and mental health and to develop teaching materials and procedures in this area, Ralph H. Ojemann, coordinator of the workshop, explained. Ojemann is director of the Preventive Psychiatry Research Program.

By an awareness of the underlying causes of behavior, teachers can help pupils gain insight into emotional and social development, Ojemann said. Members of the workshop are studying this approach to helping children become better adjusted adults.

VA Employees To Get Awards

An Incentive Awards Presentation Program will honor 128 Veterans' Administration Hospital employees on Tuesday at the Iowa City VA Hospital.

The awards to be presented by Dr. L. E. Stilwell, manager, will vary from cash awards to service pins and training certificates.

The awards are given for suggestions submitted to aid hospital administration and staff and make the patient's stay at the hospital more pleasant, as well as for superior performance of employees.

Dr. Stilwell said, "It is satisfying to see so many of our employees recognized for their interest, initiative, and dependability."

While maximum efforts must be made to guide students into college careers, Miss Corre warned that counselors cannot afford to be concerned only with guiding the college-bound youth.

"As counselors we must be concerned with all children, since every individual has a contribution to make to our society, and we should see that every child has a

Power Commission Orders Gas Firm To Present Planned Service Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Power Commission has ordered oral argument here July 17 on seven proposals involving additional natural gas service in six midwestern states.

The commission said Thursday that it will decide the case directly without the filing of the usual intermediate decision by the examiner who heard testimony. The proceedings include three applications by Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha, for authority to build $102 million worth of facilities.

This would enable Northern to serve for the first time 326 communities in Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Wisconsin and Illinois.

Northern Natural announced Friday in Omaha it is seeking an increase of approximately $10 million in its rates to utility customers.

'Splashy,' Southern Alligator, Roves; Boone Residents Search For Pet

BOONE (AP) — A number of Boone residents were out on an alligator hunt Friday.

They were looking for a roving reptile named "Splashy", who belongs to the Paul R. Lilly family.

Splashy apparently heard the call of the open road while his pen was being cleaned Thursday.

And being an ambulatory alligator, he took himself off all 24 ugly inches of him. The Lillys, who obtained Splashy last winter in New Orleans, haven't seen him since.

The youngsters in the neighborhood forsook the baseball diamonds and started looking for him — a little cautiously, because they don't know whether he bites.

His owners, however, doubt if Splashy is dangerous. They say he's probably more scared of people than they would be of him.

Auto Insurance Rates To Be Set According To Age, Record Of Driver

DES MOINES (AP) — An experiment in setting automobile insurance rates according to a driver's record and his age will be launched July 6 in Iowa by a large insurance company.

A spokesman for Travelers Insurance Group, consisting of its insurance company, indemnity company and fire insurance company, said that they have decided to initiate their new program in Iowa.

In the experimental plan, discounts up to 30 per cent will be given motorists who have not been involved in an accident or convicted of a moving traffic violation during the previous five years, company men said.

A lesser discount will be available to those having clean records for three years.

Convicted Murderer Darrel Parker's Lawyer Given Pertinent Recording

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — An attorney for convicted murderer Darrel Parker has obtained possession of a tape recording he had been seeking.

The tape reportedly records a prison conversation between Parker and former inmate Wesley Perry of Lincoln.

Municipal Court Constable Lewis Ross said he obtained possession of the tape from former State Penitentiary Warden Joseph Bovey under a court order.

The tape then was turned over to attorney Max Towle, who had requested the court order.

Armstrong Sits Up In Bed, Hums; Has Made Strong Recovery: Doctors

SPOLETO, Italy (AP) — Louis Satchmo Armstrong sat up in bed Friday, wiggled his fingers as if he were playing his trumpet, and hummed "The Sunny Side of the Street."

"I can still play that," he told newsmen happily. "I think Pops is in the clear," Satchmo who often calls himself Pops, has been battling pneumonia from a hospital bed.

"He's well," said the fourth Mrs. Armstrong, smiling. And Satchmo's doctors who Thursday feared for his life, were inclined to agree with the two of them.

The sweet-trumpet, raspy-voiced king of jazz had made what his doctors call a remarkably strong recovery after passing through two high-fever crises Thursday.

High School Guidance Must Be Broadened, Educator Says

To utilize educational facilities to the fullest, guidance and counseling programs in American schools and colleges must be broadened and expanded, said Mary P. Corre, supervisor of the Division of Counseling Services of the Cincinnati (Ohio) Public Schools.

"The space age has created an awareness that we must do our utmost to see that all able students continue their educations through college. In addition, we must do more toward steering capable students into areas where they are most needed, such as science, mathematics and teaching," Miss Corre said.

She spoke Friday morning to some 40 college and secondary school counselors attending a five-day workshop at SUI on counseling and guidance of prospective college students. Her topic was "New Directions in Guiding College-Bound Youth."

While maximum efforts must be made to guide students into college careers, Miss Corre warned that counselors cannot afford to be concerned only with guiding the college-bound youth.

"As counselors we must be concerned with all children, since every individual has a contribution to make to our society, and we should see that every child has a

Hoegh Advises $1.5 Million Plan To Fight Delinquency Outlined Here

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fallout shelter costing $200 would be a lifesaving investment for American families.

That's the recommendation of Leo Hoegh, head of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, who has one in his suburban Bethesda, Md., home that cost $212.

Hoegh told a recent closed-door meeting of a House appropriations subcommittee, "I think a $200 investment for a shelter as a permanent lifesaving investment is good."

Hoegh, who used to be governor of Iowa, in testimony just made public, said these family-type shelters would contribute to the over-all deterrent to a war.

Hoegh told the subcommittee a person didn't have to be inside such a shelter at the time a bomb is dropped to have fallout protection from it.

As an example, he said that if a 20-megaton bomb were dropped on Offutt Air Force base near Omaha, headquarters of the Strategic Air Command:

"People within a certain radius are going to die. We know that. The prevailing winds are from the southwest. The fallout will be carried to the northeast, generally speaking."

But he said the fallout wouldn't reach Des Moines for about three hours.

Suit Filed By Valens Estate

MASON CITY (AP) — The estate of Richard Valens, one of three nationally-known rock 'n' rollers who were killed in a plane crash near Mason City last Feb. 3, filed a $1.5 million damage suit against the Dwyer Flying Service of Mason City.

Other singer victims were Buddy Holly and J. P. Richardson. Also killed was the pilot, Richard Peterson of Clear Lake, an employee of the flying service. Valens also was known as Richard Valenzuela.

The trio of singers was enroute from Mason City to Fargo, N.D. The plane crashed five miles north of Clear Lake in the early morning.

The petition was filed by Conception Valenzuela, administrator of the Valens' estate. It said that Valens was an able-bodied young man of 17 and "a nationally-known and accepted singer, his having published a number of records which sold more than a million copies."

"In the event he had lived his normal lifetime," the petition continued, "his earnings would have been in the millions of dollars."

The petition charges the flying service with permitting the airplane's flight in unsafe weather. The temperature at the time of the takeoff at 1 a.m. and shortly afterward was 18 degrees. The wind was from the south at 35 miles per hour. The ceiling was 3,000 feet. A light snow was falling, but visibility was about six miles.

Plan To Fight Delinquency Outlined Here

A plan to fight juvenile delinquency with a community-wide "Youth Guidance Council" which emphasizes the problems of the individual child was outlined by Lieutenant Madeline Johnson of the Rock Island, Ill., Police Department during the Peace Officers Short Course which closed Friday at SUI.

"We try to consider the individual child from the standpoint of the offense and then relate that to his personality — including the influences of his social and family background," Miss Johnson said.

The Youth Guidance Council is established by city ordinance, she said. It has a 15-member active board and 125 volunteer counselors who undergo a one-month training program with the Police Department.

She stressed that the value of such a community-wide approach is that the council can learn the delinquent's situation, instill a feeling of belonging, give counsel and improve the home atmosphere. Such a program provides funds, and a coordinator and gives the council the power to act.

Good Listening— Today On WSUI

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY, Dominion Day and other items Canadian serve as a springboard for the Saturday Supplement largely devoted to Canada. With the cooperation of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, an institution similar in character and quality of product to the BBC, WSUI will present recordings such as these: a commemoration of the opening, yesterday, officially, of the St. Lawrence Seaway; a biography in sound of Canada's own Stephen Leacock; a sampling of the major festivals and tourist attractions in that country; and some selections of music (folk, serious and jazz) native to or played by (or both) Canadians. In addition, Saturday Supplement will sport two real, live citizens of Canada in a polite conversation regarding the occasional differences and the vast areas of agreement between them and ourselves.

Saturday Supplement may be heard from 1 p.m. to 4.

DUKE ELLINGTON AT NEWPORT in 1957 will be the high spot to today's Tea Time Special from 4 p.m. to 5:30. M. C. Greg Morris avers that 1957 was that good year for Paul Gonzales of the Ellington Band; Paul will be heard prominently at the console of the Mighty Conn Tenor Saxophone.

BERNSTEIN'S "CANDIDE," distantly related to Voltaire's story of the same name, will be the musical comedy presentation at 9 a.m.

EVEN EARLIER, if anyone's interested in an early morning grouch, a repeat broadcast of Sports at Midweek occurs at 8:30.

TODAY'S CUE PROGRAM, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. will include interviews with contemporary American artist Ben-Zion, who is currently in residence and whose paintings are currently on exhibition in connection with the FINE ARTS FESTIVAL, and Mrs. Lillian Gilbreth, the mother in the novel "Cheaper By The Dozen."

In addition, a Sports Round-table will discuss last night's Heavyweight Champion fight; and there will be comic bits by Victor Borge, Danny Kaye, the Old Timer and LB for R & R. News, weather, sports and reasonably popular music complete the picture.

EVENING CONCERT FEATURE: Pieces for Orch. by Schoenberg.

Johansson TKO's Patterson In 3rd Round

Ingo's Explosive Right Flattens Floyd 7 Times

NEW YORK (AP)—Sweden's Ingemar Johansson uncovered the mystery right hand he hid in training and won the world heavyweight boxing championship Friday night by flooring Floyd Patterson seven times and stopping the defending king in 2:03 of the third round.

It was the most dramatic and shocking boxing upset since Max Schmeling flattened Joe Lewis in 1936.

Written off as a poor 5 to 1 underdog, the unbeaten modern day Viking from Goteborg became the first non-American born heavy champion since Primo Carnera in 1933-34.

Ingemar, the flop of the 1952 Olympics when he was disqualified for not fighting in the final bout with America's Ed Sanders, thus completed one of the greatest Cinderella stories in the annals of the ring by beating the man who was the hero of the same Helsinki Olympics.

Seven times the gory Patterson was sent reeling to the canvas with blood streaming from his face. He never seemed to know what hit him after the first right hand dumped him on his back for nine. He barely beat the count and walked off toward Johansson's corner, starting off into space, while Johansson clobbered him with another right hand.

Down for counts of 9, 9, 6, 6, 7 and 9, the completely stunned and bewildered young New Yorker was saved from complete destruction by Referee Ruby Goldstein.

When Patterson went down for the seventh time, the count had reached only one when the referee stopped the complete slaughter.

Suddenly late in the first he flashed one right that landed on top of the champ's head. This was the type of punch that claimed highly rated Eddie Machen as a first round knockout victim last September and won Ingemar the title shot.

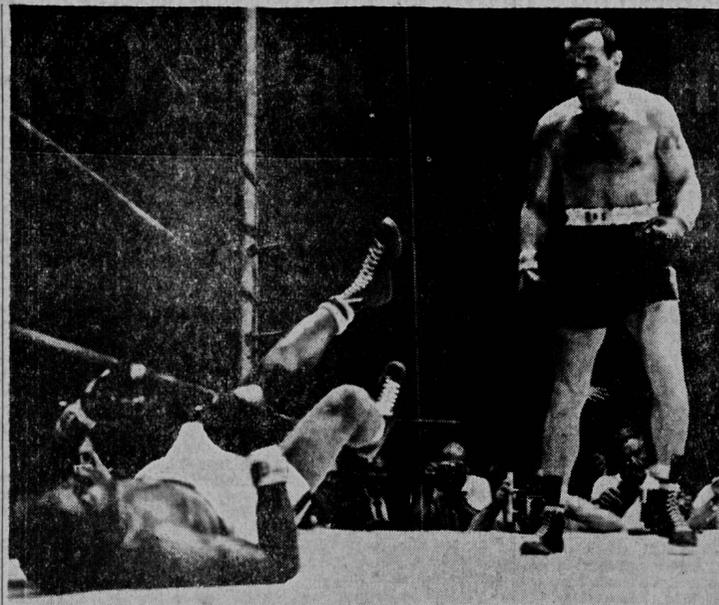

In the second round, Patterson was beginning to come on, slaming to the body but without too much effectiveness. Ingemar's stinging jab still was keeping him off but the Swede's right still was missing fire.

Patterson came out for the third, sticking with his left and looking over the top of the left as though sighting a gun. Boom came the "thunder and lightning" right that the Swedes have been talking about and down went Patterson on his back.

Then Patterson took his eerie walk into never-never land with his hands dangling at his side. Johansson, sensing the big chance his fists already had given him, came dashing to the attack with another right.

After each of the first two knockdowns it looked as though the champ was not going to get up. But he kept on coming back gamely, only to run into more of this right hand punch that no longer is a mystery.

FLOYD PATTERSON hits the canvas after taking a knockout blow from Ingemar Johansson in the third round of Friday night's bout. Johansson proved his right was no mystery as he downed Patterson seven times in the third round. champ groveling into the resin dust until Goldstein counted six. Another right sent him down on his back near the ropes. He pulled himself up to one knee, pawing weakly at the ropes to help himself get up at six.

Blood was streaming from Patterson's mouth and nose as he went sprawling from another right. This time it took seven seconds before he pulled himself together. A left-right combination made even the thickest skinned fans wonder how much longer they could let it go. Patterson took nine this time and got up once more.

The right hand did it once more. Goldstein declared the armistice. Referee Goldstein, an oldtime fighter himself, said he had stopped it after the seventh knockdown because "it was better that he should be able to walk out of the ring rather than be carried out."

"I was surprised when he got up," said Johansson. "They usually stay down when I hit them with that right."
The 26-year-old challenger got a $100,000 guarantee for his efforts plus a percentage of the gate and the theater TV, radio and movie rights. Patterson was supposed to have had a $300,000 guarantee plus a healthy percentage of the other rights.

Basilio, Fullmer Set For Title Bout In August

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Boxing Association Friday agreed to recognize as middleweight champion the winner of an August bout between leading contenders Carmen Basilio and Gene Fullmer.

Promoter Norman Rothschild of Syracuse, N.Y., who signed the two fighters, said San Francisco and Indianapolis were the leading contenders to get the fight but added that Salt Lake City, Ogden, Utah, and Denver still were strong possibilities for the 15-round.

Before approving the Basilio-Fullmer match, the NBA's executive committee reaffirmed its action of May 4 when it withdrew recognition from Sugar Ray Robinson for not defending his crown within the six-month defense period and a reasonable time afterward.

Robinson still is recognized as king of the 160-pounders by the New York State Athletic Commission, which is not a member of the NBA, and the Cuban Athletic Commission, which is a member of the NBA.

Orioles Trip Tigers Twice; Now In 2nd

DETROIT (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles cashed in on Detroit fielding blunders and stout pitching of Jerry Walker for a pair of victories Friday night in a two-night doubleheader. The scores were 12-7 and 4-1.

The Tigers committed four errors in the opener, kicking in seven unearned runs. Bob Nieman, an ex-Tiger, drove in five of the Baltimore runs with a homerun, a double and two singles.

The 20-year-old Walker spread five hits over seven innings in the nightcap before he tired in the muggy heat of Briggs Stadium. Billy Loes cleaned up with two innings of shutout relief.

The largest Detroit crowd of the season also was the largest ever to see the Baltimore club perform. The Orioles sent 13 men to bat in the fifth inning of the opener and scored eight times in just four hits.

The Tigers sputtered for five runs in the ninth on two singles, a pair of triples and Charlie Maxwell's 15th home run.

Indians 11, BoSox 5

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians erupted for nine runs in the first three innings and went on to defeat the Boston Red Sox 11-5 Friday night in a game spiced by a player brawl in the third inning.

The rhubarb developed after Boston pitcher Bill Monbouquette hit Vic Power with a pitch following a two-run homer by Woodie Held. Power stalked out to the mound after Monbouquette and players from both sides streamed on the field. No blows were struck, however, and Power was ejected from the game.

The Indians sent 10 men to the plate in the first inning and five of them scored. The big hits were two-run singles by Rocky Colavito and George Strickland.
Boston 004 000 010—5 11 1
Cleveland 522 020 008—11 11 1
Casale, Monbouquette (1), Fornieles (4), Baumann (9) and Daley, White (8), McLish and Brown. W—McLish (8-3). L—Casale (6-5).
Home runs—Boston, Jensen (15), Gernert (8), Cleveland, Held (13), Brown (2).

Senators 8, A's 4

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Washington Senators blasted their way out of last place with four home runs, three of them in the eighth inning Friday night as they smothered the Kansas City Athletics 8-4.

The defeat dropped the A's into the cellar, a half-game behind the Senators. Washington got strong pitching for eight innings from Camillo Pascual. Pascual had a 6-hitter until the ninth when he was removed after the A's had scored one run on three hits.

Harmon Killebrew hit his 25th home run in the eighth over the centerfield fence into the Kansas City bullpen. This duplicated a wallop by Faye Throneberry in the seventh.

Washington 100 000 151—8 11 1
Kansas City 000 000 103—4 10 0
Pascual, Cleveland (9), Stobbs (9) and Naragon; Garver, Grim (8), Meyer (8) and House. W—Pascual (6-7). L—Garver (6-6).
Home runs—Washington, Throneberry (6), Allison (20), Killebrew (25), Lemon (18).

Reds 7, Cards 6

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds scored four runs in the eighth inning and added another in the tenth to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-6 Friday night.

With two men on in the tenth Johnny Temple doubled to drive in Eddie Kasko with the deciding run.

Earlier the Reds scored four

Vet Mulloy Puts Buchholz On Sidelines

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Perpetually youthful Gardner Mulloy Friday defeated Earl (Butch) Buchholz, a powerful teenager young enough to be his son, in the third round of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

The 45-year-old Mulloy took this center court struggle in straight sets 6-4, 7-5, 6-4, by working the corners and the sidelines and chopping soft shots that hardly bounced at all.

The victory sent Mulloy into the round of 16 in men's singles—a bracket attained by seeded players Alex Olmedo, Neale Fraser, Barry MacKay and Roy Emerson Thursday and by fourth-seeded Bobby Wilson and seventh-seeded Luis Avala Friday.

Buchholz, an 18-year-old high school boy from St. Louis, never found his balance.

One American besides Buchholz was eliminated from the men's singles Friday. Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., dropped a straight-set decision to 22-year-old Joergen Ulrich of Denmark 9-7, 7-5, 6-1.

In women's singles the United States has four survivors among the last 16. Two Americans won Friday, two lost and one had to default. The winners were third-seeded Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleit of Long Beach, Calif., and Janet Hopps of Seattle.

Braves 11, Cubs 1

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's veteran southpaw, whipped the Chicago Cubs 11-1 Friday night and helped his cause with his first home run of the season.

The 38-year-old pitcher got his homer with the bases empty in the seventh. It was the 22nd of his career.

The Braves got 19 hits off four Cub pitchers and knocked out starter John Buzhardt in the fourth inning. The Braves scored three runs in the first, and a like number in the fourth to give Spahn a 6-0 edge that enabled him to coast to victory.

The Cubs got 11 hits but Spahn was never in serious trouble.

Chicago 000 010 090—1 11 2
Milwaukee 300 301 133—11 19 1
Buzhardt, Morehead (4), Drabowsky (4), Singleton (6) and Neeman. Spahn and Grandall. W—Spahn (10-8). L—Buzhardt (4-3).
Home run—Milwaukee, Spahn (1).

Yanks 8, ChiSox 4

CHICAGO (AP)—The onrushing New York Yankees clobbered four Chicago pitchers for 14 hits Friday night and came up with an 8-4 victory.

The triumph, highlighted with home runs by Hector Lopez and Gil McDougald was the 21st for the world champions in their last 30 games.

The White Sox took a two-run lead in the second inning when starter Billy Pierce tripled with two on. But the Yankees scored once in the third on Bill Skowron's run-scoring double and went ahead to stay when Lopez crashed his 10th homer into the centerfield bullpen after Hank Bauer had walked.

New York 001 023 200—8 14 0
Chicago 020 002 000—4 10 2
Ditmar, Terry (6), Duren (5) and Berra; Pierce, Staley (6), Lown (7), Arias (9) and Lollar. W—Ditmar (6-5). L—Pierce (8-2).
Home runs—New York, Lopez (10), McDougald (3).
