Government Steps Into Steel Strike

Mitchell Acts As Fact Finder For President

Will Allow No Let-Up In Bargaining

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell stepped into the week-old steel strike Tuesday as a one-man fact finder for President Eisenhower.

Mitchell told a news conference in Washington that the government will insist the United Steelworkers Union and the strike-bound companies continue to bargain.

"This action does not in any way relieve management or the union in the present steel dispute of their obligation to continue to negotiate in good faith until an agreement is reached," he added.

Mitchell outlined plans to act under laws empowering the labor secretary to investigate causes of and facts relating to labor disputes which might interfere with public welfare.

He will advise the White House of his findings, presumably enabling President Eisenhower to decide if and when to invoke emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law.

In New York, the union pledged its cooperation with Mitchell in his exploration of circumstances surrounding the strike. An industry spokesman said the industry will supply the secretary with "such information as may be relevant."

Eisenhower was not ruling out the possibility of invoking Taft-Hartley to halt the strike. But he was pictured Tuesday as extremely reluctant to do so.

From an excellent source in Washington came word that the chief executive feels Taft-Hartley would do little ultimate good despite its 80-day strike-halting injunction provisions.

Both sides are dug in for a struggle, and in the President's viewpoint there is no need now for the Taft-Hartley cooling-off period.

Robert F. Ray Injured In Auto Crash

Prof. Robert F. Ray

Robert F. Ray, 37, professor and director of the SUI Institute of Public Affairs, was injured Tuesday afternoon in a 2-car accident five miles east of Grinnell on Highway 6.

Ray was reported in good condition Tuesday night at University Hospitals here with a fractured kneecap and foot, lacerations and bruises.

Ray, who was returning from a speaking engagement at Grinnell College, was driving alone when an automobile driven by William Speer, 52, of Henryetta, Okla., attempted to pass another vehicle, authorities said.

Speer, his wife and two children, Robert, 11, and Mary Beth, 7, were taken to a Grinnell Hospital. Their condition is described as fair.

Patrolman Gerald Kahler said everyone involved in the accident was thrown from the cars. Ray came to SUI in 1949 when he was appointed the first director of the Institute of Public Affairs. Previously he was research assistant to New York governor Thomas E. Dewey during his 1949 presidential campaign.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell gestures with a clenched fist at a news conference Tuesday afternoon in Washington. Mitchell announced that he will become a one-man-fact-finder to investigate and report to President Eisenhower on the current steel strike. Mitchell said he was acting under the law which created the Labor Department and empowered its secretary to investigate "the causes of, and facts relating to" all labor-management disputes which might interfere with the welfare of the people.—AP Wirephoto.

Mueller Appointed Commerce Head

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 65-year-old furniture manufacturer from Grand Rapids, Mich., Frederick Henry Mueller, was picked Tuesday to succeed Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce.

Indications were that President Eisenhower's nomination of Mueller will sail through the Senate without any of the bitter controversy that Strauss' nomination created. Months of wrangling resulted in a 49-46 vote on June 19 against confirmation; the first Cabinet nomination rejected by the Senate in 34 years.

Mueller had been generally expected to be nominated since Strauss quit on June 30 after seven and one-half months in office under an appointment made while Congress was in adjournment. Strauss could have stayed on until Congress quit this year but he decided to get out so "the functioning of the Department of Commerce may continue unimpeded."

Since then, Mueller has been acting secretary. He had been undersecretary since last Nov. 3. Before that he served for two years as assistant secretary for domestic affairs, most notably as the department's key official on oil import problems.

That Mueller would have no trouble winning confirmation was indicated by the comments from the Senate.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, (D-Wash.), chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee that will handle Mueller's nomination, said "I don't see any reason why he shouldn't be confirmed."

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois predicted speedy Senate confirmation.

Professor Emeritus At SUI—

Dr. Arthur Steindler Dies

Dr. Arthur Steindler, 81, internationally known orthopedic surgeon, died at his home here Tuesday following a lingering illness with cancer.

Dr. Steindler, a native of Vienna, Austria, came to this country in 1907 and was made professor and head of the department of orthopedic surgery at SUI in 1920.

He retired from SUI in 1949 with the rank of distinguished service professor-emeritus. Since then he had been in private practice at Mercy Hospital here until last May when he became ill.

He is survived by his wife, Louise, a brother, Julius, of Chicago, two nieces and two nephews, one of whom, Dr. J. L. Ehrenhaft, is professor of surgery at SUI.

Funeral services will be held at the First Methodist Church here at 2 p.m. Saturday. Dr. M. Wil-

Russians Fear Strong Germany, Says Ike

West Threatens To Walk Out Again Tuesday

Asks Terms Reduction For Berlin Truce

GENEVA (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and his allies threatened Tuesday for the second successive day to walk out of the Big Four talks unless the Soviet Union quickly reduces its terms for a Berlin truce. But Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko refused to budge.

Gromyko's exchanges with the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, and France at a two and one-half-hour secret session were sometimes bitter and angry.

It emerged some hours later, however, that the Western warnings may have jolted the Soviets. Communist sources spread word that Gromyko may come up today with modified demands in a bid to unsnarl the negotiations.

The head-on clash between Herter and Gromyko left the Big Four conference in a state of almost unrelieved gloom and crisis.

U.S., British, French, and Soviet delegation spokesmen all agreed that no progress had been made and that a breaking point could come next week.

But some gleams of hope remained. Ever cautious U.S. and British officials expressed the view that Gromyko, on the orders of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, may yet cut his price for a Berlin deal. They ruled out the likelihood of a breakup before next week.

There was a chance that both East and West would, during that interval, try to modify their positions on the key points that divide them.

The issue Tuesday, for the third conference session in a row, centered on Gromyko's demand for bringing the two Germanys face-to-face to help chart a way toward reunification and a peace settlement.

The Western powers have rejected this and Monday put forward their compromise. This would make the Big Four a continuing conference to negotiate on a German settlement. East and West Germany would sit in as advisers but would enter into direct negotiations if the Big Four should decide this is necessary.

Vinton Farmer Finds Balloon Sent From Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — The University of Chicago Tuesday reported that an Iowa farmer recovered its lost balloon launched to study the intensity of cosmic ray bombardments as a result of recent solar flares.

Gilbert Wright, Route 3, Vinton, spotted the gondola of the huge 60-foot high balloon while running a combine in his field. He notified the university and received $25.

Professor Emeritus At SUI—

Dr. Arthur Steindler Dies

During his years at SUI, Dr. Steindler's work was a strong influence in bringing both legislative support and students to the University medical center.

Dr. Steindler was an honorary fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons and held honorary memberships in various professional societies of Europe and Latin America.

One of the many tributes to Dr. Steindler is a "Steindler Alumni Association" which has members throughout the world.

When Dr. Steindler was honored at a reception in 1955, typical of the many tributes was the following from Dr. A. M. Rechtman, of Philadelphia:

"There are truly few men who have lived in the last 100 years who have contributed as much to this branch of work as Dr. Steindler."

Germany's Konrad Adenauer—

Basic Policy Abandonment

By HERB ALTSCHULL

GENEVA (AP) — The breeze of flexibility wafting through the Western camp here has touched even Konrad Adenauer.

Almost unnoticed, West Germany's Chancellor, 63, has abandoned one of his basic policies — that his West Germans would never sit down and talk politics with the East Germans.

Adenauer isn't happy about it. But his advisers have convinced him there is no alternative if the Berlin crisis is to be solved.

This analysis of the German situation is based on information from authoritative informants. They report that ringleader in the convince-Adenauer campaign is his foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano.

For years the Soviet Union has been accusing Adenauer of being a stubborn old man who is keeping the cold war going by refusing to talk to the East German Communists.

But by agreeing to the new German plan submitted by the Western powers at the Big Four conference Monday Adenauer has knocked some of the force out of that line of attack.

It is difficult to know whether Adenauer's acceptance of the Western plan is due to persuasion by his advisers, to conviction or to belief the Russians won't accept it anyway.

This plan calls for continued negotiations on German unification under the Big Four with the East and West Germans sitting in as advisers. But the two Germanys would enter into direct negotiations if the Big Four considered this advisable.

A month ago Von Brentano told the West German Parliament's foreign affairs committee he regretted that Adenauer had said publicly the Soviets were successful in driving a wedge between Britain and West Germany at the Geneva talks.

Such a statement would have been incredible in the days before Adenauer's juggling with the German presidency.

As a matter of fact, the leaders of the West German foreign office at Geneva seem to have been feeling their oats recently.

Scorns Claim Of Chinese, Soviet Alliance

Could Result In Soviet Block Of Unification

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported Tuesday convinced that what the Russians fear most are a resurgent Germany and a strong China.

This report, in effect scorning the claim of the Soviet Union and Red China that they are loyal allies, is part of a new appraisal of the world and domestic scene as it appears to Eisenhower.

Eisenhower's views, as set forth in the appraisal, may be given on strong authority.

Soviet fear of a once-again powerful Germany could well lie behind Soviet objections to any Western step toward the reunification of East and West Germany.

Accordingly, Eisenhower may be said to feel that the Russians really do not want Germany reunited.

Other Eisenhower attitudes, with a year and a half left of his term in the White House, may be summarized:

TAXES — There is not much prospect of a material reduction, much as he would like one, during his remaining time in office. The reason is national security costs so much.

SUMMIT — The Russian attitude toward agreement on Berlin is tougher than ever and chances for a summit conference are accordingly dimmer.

WAR — Eisenhower is convinced the Russians do not want a major war, but fears there is a series of possible actions that might lead to war.

POLITICS — Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and eight other Republicans are qualified to succeed Eisenhower. He isn't listing the other eight.

STEEL — He is reluctant to use the Taft-Hartley Act's 80-day cooling off process in the steel strike, because he thinks it would do little good.

Eisenhower's stand on all these issues can be stated on excellent authority, and in considerable detail, as follows:

On taxes, for example, the President feels that as long as Russia forces this country into a defense program of about the present size, and as long as the military hardware purchased by the government continues to go up in price, there could be no realistic hope of tax reduction.

Eisenhower regards a tax reduction as one of the finest things that could happen to this country, but a most unlikely boon.

As for going in the other direction and raising taxes, he thinks this would lead to such public resentment that the country would attempt to evade the law as it did during the Prohibition days.

Eisenhower's pessimism on accomplishing anything with the Russians about the question of Berlin's future is based on reports from the foreign ministers meeting now under way at Geneva.

Just the same, he is still willing to attend a summit conference, providing there is any decent progress at Geneva, and the meeting of heads of states is not set up under circumstances which would give the American people any idea that their Government was surrendering to the Reds.

Eisenhower is determined not to speak out publicly or privately on the Republican nomination for 1960 unless there was a candidate who would not fit within the broad middle road which he regards as good for the country.

Mamie Christens 'Savannah', First Atomic Merchant Ship

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — The $41 million nuclear ship Savannah, launched Tuesday, the first atomic-powered merchant ship on the seas of the world.

The ship, conceived by President Eisenhower as a demonstration of the United States' desire for peaceful uses of the atom, was christened by his wife, Mamie Eisenhower.

When it first takes on cargo and passengers — probably early in 1961 — the Savannah will be, according to the men who built it, a prototype that will lead to greater accomplishments in this atomic era.

Mrs. Eisenhower spoke the words, "I christen thee NS Savannah. Godspeed."

Then she shattered a bottle of champagne across its sleek prow. Moments later the 21,000-ton vessel slid down the ways of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation yards to the approving roar of 15,000 spectators and the blaring of horns and whistles.

There are few visible clues that the Savannah is quite different from other modern cargo-passenger carriers. But down in the bowels of the ship is a big area where an atomic reactor will generate enough power to drive the Savan-

Ames, Moscow Will Trade Tapes

AMES (AP) — Radio Station WOI, Ames, of Iowa State University, has made an arrangement to exchange programs with Radio Moscow, production manager Michael E. Collins Jr. announced Tuesday.

The arrangements will allow tapes to be exchanged between the two stations. The Russian programing will largely concern agricultural and family life on Ukrainian collective farms.

WOI will make the tapes available to commercial and educational stations anywhere, Collins said. Moscow Broadcasting Organization has agreed to answer on tape recordings in English all inquiries submitted to them by Iowans through WOI.

The nuclear-powered merchantship, the NS Savannah, built at a cost of more than $40 million is taken in hand by tugs after it was christened by Mamie Eisenhower and launched into the Delaware River at Camden, N.J. Tuesday. The ship, first of merchantships so powered, will go into service next year. Her first load of nuclear fuel is expected to take her 350,000 miles. 'Oh, Not You Again'

Art And The Cold War

The United States' exhibition which opens in Moscow Saturday has not, unfortunately, been free from the tampering of certain governmental officials determined to present the American story in the most highly favorable way — their way.

We refer, of course, to the recent controversy which surrounded the selection of certain examples of American art to represent our artistic achievement since the end of the First World War.

The original agreement between Russia and the United States was that only works of art produced after 1918 were to be included in our exchange exhibitions. This date, it seemed, was acceptable to both nations — acceptable, that is, until the selection of American works of art to be viewed by Moscow's Ivan Q Public was made known.

An uproar in Washington, led by House Un-American Activities Committee chairman Rep. Frances E. Walter (Dem. Penn.), immediately began. The central point in question seemed to be whether the selected paintings were in line with the official purpose of the United States' exhibition: "To further Soviet understanding of life in the United States."

Many of the artists represented in the American show, charged Walter, were, or had been, associated with Communist front organizations. President Eisenhower, moreover, just plain didn't like some of the paintings. According to Ike, "Welcome Home" by Jack Levine "looks like a lampoon more than art."

Washington's "official" concern with the arts manifested itself in the decision to broaden the American show in Moscow to include paintings done by 19th century artists. The show will now include George Healy's portrait of Lincoln, a Gilbert Stuart portrait of Washington, works by John Singleton Copley, Mary Cassat, George Innes, James Whistler, John Singer Sargent and others.

The addition of certain American artists of the 19th century to the show will lend depth and historical perspective to the exhibition according to the United States Information Agency.

Through lending an overly-receptive ear to the protestations of the politician-art critics we have, perhaps, improved the overall quality of the exhibition. But we have also seriously compromised ourselves for reasons dangerously similar to the Soviet motivation for the establishment of the so-called socialist-realist school in the arts.

The possibility of compromise of this sort is greatly increased when the artistic achievement of one nation is thrown into competition with that of another for political purposes. Certainly the United States can legitimately hope to display works of art demonstrating the highest quality of art produced in our contemporary culture. But artists in America are not obligated to perform within limits proscribed by the government. Our artist need not conform to the aesthetic tastes of the American Legion nor does their work necessarily have to please the eye of the President.

For the same reasons that American jazz seems to have caught the fancy of many Russians, it could be expected that our contemporary art will have similar impact. Would it not be a more favorable demonstration of "life in America" to prove, through a strict hands-off policy with regard to artistic merit, that the individual freedom which we enjoy in the United States is real and not just a cheap gimmick of the propagandist?

Corn, The Cold War And The Mendelian Ratio

By STEPHEN TUDOR

In recent years Americans and Russians have settled some differences in their theories of the evolution of the species. This was marked by the visit of Russians to Iowa to study hybrid corn, and by the National Science Foundation's announcement last week of plans to build at the University of Wisconsin the nation's first controlled-environment laboratory.

Since the turn of the century, most Americans have followed the Mendel-Morgan theory of evolution, which says that genes control organic heredity, and that environment has no effect on genes.

In the early 1920's a Russian, reasons, Lysenko had attached himself to Michurin, the Russian Luther Burbank and friend of Lenin. He was made a hero of agricultural production.

To fend off attacks by Russian scientists who held to the Mendel-Morgan theory, Lysenko got Present, the materialist philosopher, to do some smearing. Present said that the theory of unchangeable genes was just another version of belief in the unchangeable soul: pure, superstitious, Western idealism. This occurred in the early 'thirties.

Until recently, this mixture of politics, dialectic, and life science has purged Lysenko's foes in Russia. But the Russian visit to Iowa showed a softening of policy. Hybrid corn results from Mendelian genetics, and they needed hybrid corn. They were forced to come around.

Similarly, the controlled-environment laboratory at Wisconsin resulted from American recognition of the influence of environmental factors on reproduction. The truth evidently lies somewhere between the extremes. Where no one can say yet. What one can say is that politics and dogma don't mix well with science.

Soviet Workers Found 'Inefficient'

FLORAL PARK, N. Y. (AP) — Two American workers, who have just completed a three-week job in Moscow, report they found things pretty inefficient.

Russian workers "are 20 years behind the times, they don't even know what a union is," according to John Petrocchi, a 28-year-old carpenter.

He and George Hartman, 38, a painter, were among five Americans who worked on construction of a $13,000 house at the U.S. exhibition in Moscow.

Hartman and Petrocchi said the Russian workers were lost when they tried to handle such commonplace tools as a stapling gun and a ratchet brace and bit.

Hartman said two American electricians could have done the wiring job in four hours. It took the Russians five days.

Good Listening—Today On WSUI

A FINE ARTS FESTIVAL HIGHLIGHT, a chamber music concert by the SUI Faculty String Quartet, will be heard this evening at 8 p.m. from the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union. The program will be simulcast over WSUI and KSUI-FM (not quite Stereo, but that's in the works for the Fall). Four of the most distinguished string players in the United States comprise the Faculty String Quartet; they are violinists Stuart Canin and John Ferrell, violist William Preucil and cellist Hans Koebel. All are members of the SUI Music Department faculty and their combined experience in music includes appearances under the batons of Toscanini, Stokowski and Cantelli (Canin), solo performances with the Eastman-Rochester Symphony (Ferrell) and the Detroit Symphony (Preucil) and the exciting work of a radio network studio orchestra (Koebel). Tonight's program: Quartet in E Major, Op. 125 by Franz Schubert; Rosse Fuge, Op. 133 by Ludwig van Beethoven; and Quintet in G Minor, K. 516 by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

SPORTS AT MIDWEEK (sorry) will draw heavily upon a recent article in The New Yorker magazine by A. J. Liebling analyzing the Patterson-Johnson fight. ("Draw heavily," indeed; he is simply going to read the whole article.)

Sentinels Cause For Celebration—Boulders Guard Old Capitol

BY MARCIA BOLTON Staff Writer

Two granite boulders stand like silent sentinels guarding the east approach to the Old Capitol. They were probably dropped by the last prehistoric glacier to cover Iowa, but natural forces did not deposit them at their present location.

The class of 1870 hauled the earliest one to the SUI campus one morning in a wagon. Having no money but still wanting to leave a gift to the University, the graduating class organized a committee to find a boulder suitable to commemorate their group.

The committee found one about two miles from Iowa City, and one June afternoon, SUI students began lifting and prying to move the stone. By night they had not yet succeeded. It took all that night for students and Iowa City people working by torch light to load the stone on the wagon.

At 10 the next morning, the workers arrived at Old Capitol, drove their wagon up Clinton Street onto the lawn and unloaded the boulder in front of a cheering crowd. Iowa City stores closed and SUI professors dismissed classes.

The University Reporter, SUI newspaper in 1870, described the event saying that "all went to see the boulder. Bells were rung and the American flag waved over all." Students celebrated late into the night, and a professor and some students did a war dance around the boulder.

Ten years later the school paper campaigned to get another boulder. The class of 1880 obliged by rolling the second stone onto the campus one May afternoon, but with less fanfare.

The University Reporter described the boulders as "immense." That was before the construction of Schaeffer Hall in 1898 and Macbride in 1904. These large buildings seem to diminish the massiveness of the boulders which the school paper called "monuments to the size and greatness of SUI in 1880."

The stones still stand, often unnoticed amongst the large buildings. One of them is marked "Class - 1870." The other stone bears the date "1880" in crude markings.

R. J. Phillips of the maintenance department said the boulders "just lie there from year to year." There have never been any plans to remove them and his crews just work around them. Occasionally though, students notice the "1870" boulder long enough to perch atop it or to lean against it for a moment's rest. The "1880" stone is too tall to climb comfortably.

Reporting An Accident; 'How-To-Do-It' Advice

With the increase of highway accidents in the summer months it would seem a good time to pause and consider what you should do if you came upon an accident scene.

If you are the first car on the scene, stop and lend assistance to the injured. As soon as possible, send someone, or go yourself to the nearest telephone to get an official on the scene.

To report an accident in Johnson county, the first place to call is the Iowa City Police Department. The city police handle radio calls for both the sheriff's office and the Highway Patrol.

In using the telephone, speak in your natural tone of voice; shouting distorts the voice and may cause unnecessary delay. State that the call is an emergency, identify yourself, and give correct location of the accident.

The next most important information to give in your call is the number of injured and, if possible, the extent of injury. This will allow the police to determine whether to send an ambulance and how many will be needed. In case someone has already called an ambulance, you should state this.

As an eyewitness, either remain on the scene or return to give information to officials for their report.

Following these few simple procedures may help you save a life, or someone else reading this same article may save yours.

Alcatraz Inmate, Bird Authority, Is Transferred

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After 17 years, the "Birdman of Alcatraz" has left The Rock. Robert F. Stroud, 69, was transferred from the maximum security federal prison in San Francisco Bay to the federal medical center at Springfield, Mo.

Stroud has known nothing but the inside of prison walls since 1969, when he was sentenced to 12 years for killing a Juneau, Alaska, bartender. He was sent to Leavenworth Penitentiary. In 1916, at Leavenworth, he killed a guard in a dining hall. He was placed in solitary and remained in solitary after his transfer in 1942, to Alcatraz, until last October.

He had a laboratory and 22 live birds at Leavenworth and became an authority on bird diseases. Word of his transfer came from Stroud himself in a letter dated July 15 to Stanley A. Furman, a Beverly Hills attorney who has been working for the Birdman's release.

At Leavenworth, Stroud wrote "Stroud's Digest of Disease of Birds," regarded by some experts as the best work on bird pathology ever published. He was transferred to Alcatraz in 1942.

Road Study Appointees Announced

Names of persons who will be asked to attend a conference in Ames July 29 with the State Highway Commission were announced Tuesday by Philip F. Morgan, Iowa City mayor.

The conference will be held to review the state highway program as it affects Iowa City. The commission had suggested a delegation of about six people, but it is anticipated that double that number will attend the meeting, Morgan said.

Those who will be asked to attend the conference are A.H. Arneson, president of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce; Edwin B. Green, editor, Iowa City Press Citizen; Virgil M. Hancher, SUI president; J.W. Howe, chairman, Iowa City Planning and Zoning Commission; William L. Meardon, chairman, Johnson County Zoning Commission.

Leroy S. Mercer, former state senator and former Iowa City mayor; D.C. Nolan, state senator; John J. Swamer, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Good Roads committee; Scott Swisher, Johnson County representative; and Iowa City Council Members Mrs. Thelma B. Lewis, George Dvorsky, Lewis Loria and Ray Thornberry, and Mayor Morgan.

Bradley—Need To Check Retired Officers' Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Omar N. Bradley, a five-star general with a $75,000 job in private industry, told House investigators Tuesday "legislation is indicated" to guard against possible abuses in the employment of retired officers.

Bradley, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and head of the Veterans Administration, talked freely with a House Armed Services Subcommittee about his own affairs, including his present post as board chairman of the Bulova Watch Company and its research subsidiary. Bradley said he never had anything to do with buying while he was in the Army and has had nothing to do with selling to the Government since becoming inactive.

Bradley steered away from specific recommendations about possible correcting legislation, but said "a time lag" after an officer leaves active duty and before he engages in selling to the Government would be a good idea. He said two or three years, allowing time for former associates to be reassigned, might be long enough.

Gasoline Overflow Brings Problems In Des Moines

DES MOINES (AP) — Hundreds of gallons of gasoline overflowed a storage tank at the Cushman-Wilson Oil Company Tuesday, creating a situation that required rerouting around the area.

Company officials said an employee over-estimated the amount of gas the tank would hold. Walter W. Wilson, president of the oil company, said that quick action by a truck driver, Claire E. Short of Des Moines, in turning off the gas saved the whole tank load from flowing out.

Des Moines firemen used water to flush the gas into a nearby ditch, then a portable pump to get it to the Raccoon River. Traffic was re-routed around the area during the operation and electricity was shut off as a precaution against sparks.

The exact amount of spilled gas was not known, but estimates ranged up to 400 gallons.

SWANS BATHED LONDON (AP) — Four inspectors of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals took on a tough job Tuesday: Giving a bath to 30 thoroughly irritated swans. The swans swam around in oil that leaked into the Thames River from a tanker. Until their feathers are laundered the birds can't fly.

Little Rock Gets Reopening Test As Five Negroes Enroll

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Five Negroes — one a girl on crutches — registered Tuesday in the first test at student level to reopen Little Rock public schools to limited integration.

Four of them were among the nine Negro pupils whose integration into Central High School in the fall of 1957 brought mob violence and finally Federal troops to restore order.

None of the four came themselves. They were represented by their parents.

The first day of registration — it runs all week — moved along slowly and quietly. Students came and went under the stern eye of police.

No Negroes showed up at Hall High School in the fashionable part of Little Rock. It only recently had been redistricted to include some 25 or 30 Negro pupils.

A 19-year-old Negro girl hobbled into Central High School in the afternoon. She was Gloria Gant. She was not one of the original nine, but a student at the all-Negro Horace Mann High School before it was closed.

The first 20 white students to register at Central High School were greeted by Principal Jess Matthews who told them: "I'm glad to see you. It's good to have some customers again."

The four public high schools were closed throughout the last school year by Gov. Orval E. Faubus in his fight against integration. The law he used to close them only recently was declared unconstitutional by a Federal court, and a new school board moved to reopen the schools this fall.

Levai: India Wants Both Interest, Aid

BY WALTER BARBEE
Staff Writer

The thing the people of India really want from the United States is a genuine interest in their country, not just dollars, said Blaise Levai in an address made to the Iowa City Kiwanis Club Tuesday noon.

Many Indians have the idea that the United States gives aid to their country only to obtain friendship, he said.

Levai, who is taking graduate work this summer at the SUI School of Journalism, lived with his wife and three daughters in India for twelve years. He taught courses in American literature at Voorhees College, some one hundred miles from Madras.

On the subject of foreign aid, Levai told of the near riots caused by the United States' decision to ship arms to Pakistan. Demonstrators painted anti-American slogans on his home at the time of the incident, but he said on the whole his reception in India was very pleasant.

Levai said Communism has a strong appeal for the hungry masses of the country, but that there is a firmly organized resistance movement against it. He indicated that Communism in India appears to be much different than the form in the Soviet Union.

Levai mentioned many of the adjustments that were necessary for outsiders living in India.

He said Indian students at his college had little respect for instructors who were not able to understand the local tongue. This made it necessary for Levai and his family to learn Tamil, the language of the area where he taught.

Tamil, one of the fourteen languages spoken in India, is a very difficult, guttural tongue, but the family was able to speak it quite fluently. Levai's three daughters, in fact, almost had to re-learn English upon returning to this country.

Levai told of one foreigner who attempted to frighten a cow away from his home by shooting a gun above the animal's head. Instead, the charge struck the cow and killed it. The Government requested that the man leave his home until the enraged population cooled off.

Levai was born in New Jersey and holds degrees from several American colleges, including a Bachelor of Divinity from Rutgers Theological College. His wife is a medical doctor and practised while the family lived in India. Besides three daughters, the couple has a son, eight months old.

At the end of the summer session, Levai will return to Northwestern College at Orange City where he heads the English Department.

GI Education Bill Passes Senate; Enactment Doubtful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Tuesday passed a bill to give educational grants and loans and home loan guarantees to four million cold war GI's — veterans who entered military service after the Korean War.

The bill was approved 57-31 and of becoming law doubtful. The Eisenhower administration has strongly opposed the measure.

In Tuesday's Senate debate, opponents denounced the bill as discriminatory and inflationary. They said it was designed to help members of Congress get re-elected rather than promote national welfare.

There was wide disagreement over what the bill would cost the Government. Best estimates placed it at $1.8 billion for veterans of the 1955-63 period, but some opponents said the long-term cost would be $3.4 billion.

Opponents contended it was unprecedented to give such aid to peacetime veterans. They contended the Government could not afford such a program with a $286 billion national debt.

But backers of the measure said young men drafted into service now face as serious an interruption in their lives as those who served in World War II and the Korean War and are entitled to comparable after-service help.

As passed by the Senate, the bill contains three classes of benefits:

1. Educational and job training allowances amounting to 1 1/2 days for each day in military service.
2. Vocational rehabilitation training grants for veterans with service-connected disabilities.
3. Guaranteed or direct loans for purchase of homes, farm-lands, livestock and farm machinery.

Randall, Bar Association, Support Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate judiciary subcommittee started hearings Tuesday on legislation aimed at halting hidden influences and pressures on federal regulatory agencies.

John D. Randall of Cedar Rapids, president-elect of the American Bar Association, testified in support of two bills it has proposed as part of a broad program to improve practices and procedures.

The Justice Department endorsed the purpose of both measures, but urged that the penalty provisions in one be tightened.

The hearing was the first by a new Subcommittee on Administrative Practice and Procedure, headed by Sen. John A. Carroll, (D-Colo.).

Carroll said the group was not attempting to turn up sensations but to strengthen administrative procedures and to establish a code of ethics for federal agencies.

"This doesn't mean that if we find something highly improper or undue influence that we won't move into it," he added.

Carroll emphasized that federal regulatory agencies, subject of a House subcommittee's investigation last year, handle "public and private rights worth billions of dollars."

One of the bar association bills is directed at outlawing back door pressures and making sure that an agency's decision in cases it hears is based exclusively on the evidence, pleadings, and papers of public record.

Robert A. Bicks, acting assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's anti-trust division, urged that, in addition to criminal penalties, this bill require the disqualification of any applicant who engaged in improper activities.

A second bill urged by the bar association would create the office of a director of administrative practice to report on shortcomings in administrative procedures and to provide guideposts for conduct of personnel.

SUI String Quartet Performs In Memorial Union Tonight

The University String Quartet will perform the works of Mozart, Schubert and Beethoven in a chamber music concert to be presented tonight at 8 in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Members of the quartet are: Stuart Canin and John Ferrell, violin; William Preucil, viola, and Hans Koebel, violoncello. They are all members of the SUI music faculty and of the SUI Symphony Orchestra.

The concert will include Schubert's "Quartet in E Major, Op. 125, No. 2," Beethoven's "Grosse Fuge, Op. 133," and the Mozart "Quintet in C Minor, K. 516."

Canin, head of violin instruction at SUI, has appeared as soloist with many major European orchestras and has performed under conductors such as Toscanini, Stokowski and Guido Cantelli. He has toured the United States with the New Friends of Music String Quartet and has appeared as soloist with the Tri City Orchestra. He has been at SUI since 1953.

Ferrell, a graduate of the Eastman School of Music, was a former soloist with the Eastman-Rochester Symphony. He came to SUI in 1954.

Preucil was a member of the Rochester Philharmonic and Detroit Symphony orchestras before coming to SUI last fall. He has appeared several times with the Tri-City Orchestra in Davenport.

Koebel, a graduate of Leipzig Royal Conservatory of Music, has performed with major American and European orchestras and for the Columbia Broadcasting System. He has been a member of the SUI faculty since 1938.

Doris Preucil, wife of violinist William Preucil, will assist in the Mozart number. She is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music and has played in the first violin sections of several major orchestras, including the Rochester Philharmonic, the Eastman-Rochester Orchestra and the National Symphony of Washington, D.C.

The Mozart G Minor to be performed is described as "somber in nature with tragic overtones." Around 1787, Mozart had planned to complete six string quintets, probably intending to present them to the King, but in 1788, poverty forced him to offer his three completed quintets on a subscription basis: the G minor, the C minor and the C major.

Tonight's concert is a summer feature in the SUI Fine Arts Festival. It is free to the public, and no tickets are required for admission.

Khrushchev—'Why Go For Spit In Face?'

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Tuesday that he is not going to Scandinavia at the moment because: "When they spit in my face, a guest, why should I go?"

Western reporters asked Khrushchev about his sudden change in plans at a reception in the Soviet Embassy given to celebrate his "friendship tour" of Poland.

"There would be too much changing from one country to another," he said. "Our country and our people cannot accept a trip that only gives me a chance to change clothes. There were no talks on the program."

Khrushchev added: "Here we have had talks, Gomulka Wladyslaw Gomulka, first secretary of the Polish Communist party and I. There was too formal a program in Scandinavia. My visit to Scandinavia would not have been a step to peace but would have led to sharpened tensions.

"I only want to go to places where my message can be helpful. Maybe I will go later."

The Soviet Government blamed an unfavorable atmosphere, in notes delivered Sunday night to Sweden, Norway and Denmark calling off his projected three-week visit. It lashed out at a host of Scandinavian politicians and editors for leading what was called a hostile anti-Soviet campaign.

Khrushchev looked very tired at the embassy reception.

"I think well of the Swedes," he said. "They beat us, and then Peter the Great beat them at Poltava. I consider we are quits. I have nothing against Erlander, (Swedish Premier Tag Erlander), nor against Premier H. C. Hansen of Denmark."

"But when a Government newspaper comes out against my visit, that is another pair of shoes. When they spit in my face, a guest, why should I go?"

Local Bond Sales $148,378 In June

United States savings bonds sales in Johnson County during June were $148,378, giving the county a first-half total of $1,435,562 for 55 per cent of the annual quota.

Six-month attainment for Iowa was 53 per cent of their 1959 quota, while the national average was 40 per cent.

Throughout Iowa, June sales were $9,050,868, making a first-half total for the state of $81,772,444.

Johnson County volunteer chairman for savings bonds are Norman B. Shaffer Sr. and Ben S. Summer-will.

WOMEN OFFICIALS

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — The Government proposes to create 10 special seats just for women in the National Assembly of this Negro nation. Aaron Ofori Atta, minister of local affairs, said the move is aimed to stimulate women's interest in the conduct of national affairs.

9th-Inning Run Lets Dodgers Edge Giants 1-0

Craig Winner On Hodges, Neal Safeties

Jones Loses 3-Hit Effort
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Charley Neal, whose ninth inning home run beat the San Francisco Giants Monday, singled in the ninth Tuesday and scored on Gil Hodges' double for a 1-0 Los Angeles victory.

The victory, giving the Dodgers a sweep of the crucial two-game series, put them within half a game of first-place San Francisco in the tight National League race. Shortstop Eddie Bressoud gloved Neal's hit off balance, but was unable to throw to first in time. It was only the second hit off Sam Jones. Hodges, who got the first one in the seventh, then unloaded on a 2-2 pitch. The ball landed fair by only a couple of feet inside the left field line.

Roger Craig, in winning his second start against the Giants this season, also pitched three-hit ball and was only once in trouble.

Craig's victory was his fifth against one loss. Jones took his 10th loss against 13 victories. Los Angeles . . . 000 000 001—1 2 0 San Francisco . . . 000 000 000—0 3 2 Craig and Roseboro; S. Jones and Landrith, Hegan (8). W — Craig (5-1). L — S. Jones (12-10).

Hose Brigade To The Rescue

A SAN FRANCISCO GIANTS ground crewman waters down the infield after the first inning of the Giants-Dodgers game at Seals Stadium in San Francisco Tuesday. Monday Daryl Spencer, Giant's second baseman, complained that the field was watered so heavily "you have to plow your way to a ground ball." Tuesday the infield wasn't watered but at the end of the first inning the dust was so thick that the umpires ordered the field watered. Giant infielders Jim Davenport and Ed Bressoud seem to be enjoying the incident. —AP Wirephoto.

Indians 5, Yanks 1

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cal McLish, Cleveland's 33-year-old ace right-hander, beat the New York Yankees for the fourth time this season Tuesday night, 5-1, allowing the champions only three hits. Tito Francona clubbed a two-run homer for the Indians, who cling to first place.

The victory was the 12th against three losses for McLish, and it was the seventh game of the campaign in which he has limited the opposition to a lone run.

Doubles by Norm Siebern and Bobby Richardson in the eighth inning spoiled McLish's chance for a shutout.

Siebern was the only Yankee to get on base in the first seven innings. He doubled with two out in the second inning. McLish didn't walk a batter, struck out four and got errorless support afield.

Francona, who now has hit safely in 15 consecutive games, smashed his 10th home run of the season over the right field fence in the sixth.

Tigers 8, Senators 1

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers backed up Paul Foytack's six-hit pitching with three home runs Tuesday night and defeated the Washington Senators 8-1.

Harvey Kuenn, Lou Berberet and Charlie Maxwell slugged round trippers as the Tigers opened a long home stand. The Tigers had lost seven of their last eight games and 14 of their last 17.

Kuenn slugged a first inning home run off ex-Tiger Bill Fischer, who gave up three runs and failed to survive the opening frame.

Berberet clouted a three-run homer to spark a four-run uprising in the second against Russ Kemmerer.

Maxwell hit his 22nd home run off Kemmerer in the fourth. ChiSox 2, BoSox 1

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox scored a couple of tainted runs Tuesday night defeating the Boston Red Sox 2-1 behind the six-hit pitching of Dick Donovan.

The victory enabled the White Sox to remain within two percentage points of the league-leading Cleveland Indians who bumped the New York Yankees 5-1.

Donovan scored his seventh victory against five defeats. It was his second triumph against no losses since the All-Star game.

The big right-hander was never in serious trouble outside of a lead-off homer by Don Buddin in the sixth inning which tied the score at 1-1.

The White Sox broke the deadlock in the seventh on a walk, a sacrifice and a fluke single by Jim Landis. With Luis Aparicio on second, Landis tried to hold up on a pitch by Tom Brewer but the ball hit Landis' bat and dropped into short right for the game-winning blow.

Reds 12, Braves 2

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds handed Milwaukee its seventh straight National League setback Tuesday night by clobbering the Braves 12-2 with a 15-hit attack and big Don Newcombe's pinpoint pitching.

The Reds battered starter Lew Burdette and three successors.

The defeat pushed Milwaukee 3½ games behind the league-leading San Francisco Giants.

Cincinnati picked up three runs in the first, added five more in the fifth, featured by Gus Bell's 14th homer with two on, and then tallied four more in the seventh. Six of the Cincinnati run were unearned. The Braves were charged with three errors.

Cubs 8, Cards 2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Home runs by Ernie Banks, Walt Moryn and Jim Marshall backed up Art Ceccarelli's steady pitching Tuesday night as the Chicago Cubs defeated St. Louis 8-2 and ended a four-game Cardinal winning streak.

Ceccarelli, brought up from Fort Worth during the All-Star game break, claimed his third straight victory without a loss. He gave up seven hits.

The 29-year-old lefty's control was perfect until the eighth inning when he walked two Cardinals but he fanned the side to neutralize his wildness.

Marshall was the kingpin RBI man for the Cubs with four.

Starting pitcher Larry Jackson, now 8-8, lasted seven innings and left after giving up a double and a single to the first two hitters in the eighth. Dean Stone relieved and prevented the Cubs from scoring. Chicago . . . 010 002 104—8 13 0 St. Louis . . . 000 020 000—2 7 1 Ceccarelli and St. Taylor; Jackson, Stone (8), Blaylock (9), Urban (9) and Smith, Katt (9). Pirates 7-2, Phils 6-4

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Robin Roberts gave up only five hits Tuesday night, one of them a two-run homer, in pitching Philadelphia to a 4-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. In the playoff of a suspended game preceding the regular contest, the Pirates edged the Phils 7-6 on the strength of a homer by Ted Kluszewski.

Roberts had given up only a double and single to Roberto Clemente and a single to Danny Kravitz until the eighth inning. Then Bill Virdon touched him for a single and pinch-hitter Rocky Nelson hit his second home run of the year for the only Pirate runs of the game.

Roberts struck out only two and walked one in picking up his ninth victory of the year compared to eight defeats.

The Pirates' starter, Bob Friend, still looking for his 100th major league victory, was charged with his 12th loss compared to four victories.

In the playoff of the suspended game, Kluszewski's homer in the bottom of the eighth gave the Pirates a 7-4 lead and proved to be the winning run.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics backed up knuckleballer Bud Daley's 5-hit pitching with an 11-hit barrage Tuesday night and defeated the Baltimore Orioles 8-1 in the opener of a 3-game series.

Roger Maris of the A's moved into second place in the American League batting competition by getting a single in two official times at bat while Baltimore's Gene Woodling who had been tied with Maris went hitless in four trips.

The victory boosted Daley's record to 10-6. The defeat was charged to young Milt Pappas, his fifth against 10 victories.

Kimball, Johnstone 75s Lead Women's Amateur

MASON CITY (AP) — Defending Champion Judy Kimball and five-time titlist Ann Casey Johnstone shared the first round lead with 75s in the Iowa Women's Amateur golf tournament Tuesday.

They were one under women's par 38-376 for the Mason City Country Club Course.

Miss Kimball, of Sioux City, and Mrs. Johnstone, who is playing her home course, had identical rounds of 37 and 38. They took one stroke from par on the front nine, as did Andy Cohn, the 1956 champion from Waterloo.

Miss Cohn, however, slipped to a 39 on the second nine and was in third place with 76.

Another stroke back at 77 was Iowa Junior champion Sharon Fla-doos of Dubuque. Sue Meerdink of Muscatine was in fifth place, just three strokes back of the co-leaders.

Sixteen women broke 90 in the first round of the 72-hole tournament.

Other leading scorers: Sandra Anderson, Fort Dodge, 81.

Moore Granted Another Delay In Title Rematch

MONTREAL (AP) — The lightweight title fight between Archie Moore and Canada's challenger Yvon Durelle was postponed for a second time Tuesday after the champion left here abruptly to be at the bedside of his wife in San Diego, Calif.

Originally scheduled for July 15 and then set back two weeks when Moore suffered a minor injury in training, the bout now is set for Aug. 12 at the Montreal Forum.

Mrs. Moore recently underwent surgery for the removal of a non-malignant mastoid tumor. Her condition is reported to be satisfactory. But Moore hurried home after receiving a telephone call from Dr. Kenneth Cales, who told him "Archie, you ought to be here."

The champion caught a plane, taking only his hat and coat. On his arrival at San Diego he paused only long enough to say

"all my fight plans are up in the air for the present" before hurrying to the hospital.

Heavyweights In TV Clash

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Heavyweights Eddie Machen and Reuben Vargas, fighters with sharply contrasting styles, relaxed Tuesday before their nationally televised fight here tonight.

Vargas, from the San Francisco Bay area, said it would be a knockout with him on the winning end. Machen, who makes his home here, said, "I'll still be around."

This is a rematch, scheduled for 10 rounds, at San Francisco May 20. Machen got a unanimous decision from the judges and a considerable amount of booring from the fans.

Bert Brodzo, manager for Vargas, claimed "we was robbed."

The fight will be in the Oregon Centennial Exposition Arena, where heat has been so bothersome in recent days that sprinklers were installed on the roof.

Hickok Poll June Award To Johansson

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson, Sweden's heavyweight champion, was voted the outstanding pro athlete of June, by a tribunal of sports writers and broadcasters polled by S. Rae Hickok, a tabulation showed Tuesday.

He is the first overseas athlete ever to win a monthly award.

Johansson, who stopped heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in the third round of their bout in Yankee Stadium on June 26, received 284 points. Rocky Colavito, Cleveland Indian outfielder, was second with 96.

Cup Stars Step Up Net Pace

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP) — Alex Olmedo, Wimbledon titleholder from Arequipa, Peru, was a changed man Tuesday when he set out in quest of the Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis Championship with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Mac White of Austin, Tex., in the first round at Merion Cricket Club.

It was the first competition for the top-seeded Davis Cup star since he was charged with throwing his match last week in the National Clay Court Tournament at Chicago.

He played with enthusiasm and punch Tuesday to run up 60 points while holding the University of Texas player to 31 points. Olmedo ran out each set from 1-1.

Two other Davis Cup teammates, Barry MacKay, Dayton, Ohio, and Earl Buchholz Jr., St. Louis, also advanced. MacKay, defending champion second, blasted through Don Ralph, Bethesda, Md., 6-2, 6-2. Buchholz scored by 6-0, 6-3, over Robert Potthast, Waukesha, Wis.

Potthast is a former member of the Iowa tennis team, graduating in 1958. He teamed with Art Andrews to take the Big Ten doubles title in 1958.

What's Wrong With Braves? No Base Hits Say Players

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Every baseball fan in Milwaukee is asking the same question these days — what's wrong with the Braves? And anybody who knows the answer should get in touch immediately with Fred G. Haney, a Cali-

Braves were only .002 percentage points above fourth place, 3½ games behind the front-running San Francisco Giants and two games behind Los Angeles.

They had dropped six straight games to second division clubs, compiling their longest losing streak since suffering a string of eight defeats in 1953. They had won only five of their last 17 tussles in surrendering the league lead they held most of the first half of the season.

How can this happen? The Braves themselves will tell you that your guess is as good as theirs. They insist there is nothing wrong that a few base hits, delivered at propitious moments, won't cure.

The second guessers who live and die with the fortunes of the Braves offer a variety of answers to the problem. Some blame Haney for what they consider to be managerial blunders. Others point to the failure of the Braves to come up with a capable replacement for Red Schoendienst, their ailing second baseman and erstwhile inspirational leader.

Another school contends that Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette, the Braves' bread-and-butter pitchers, haven't had enough help from other members of the mound corps. Still another theory is that all the Braves leave too many runners stranded on the bases.

And the records show that big Wes Covington has fallen far short of his 1958 performance, both at bat and in left field.

Haney himself pretends not to be worried. "What's the use of getting panicky now?" he asks. "Last year at this time we were a game behind the Giants and we won it by eight. We've played bad ball for the last six weeks, but this is too good a ball club for us to continue that way."

The Milwaukee Braves announced Tuesday they have purchased second baseman Bobby Avila, 33-year-old American League veteran, from the Boston Red Sox to bolster the National League champion's problem infield.

Avila, a right-handed batter saw previous service with Cleveland and Baltimore in the junior circuit, is batting .207 this season, but has been hitting better than .240 during the past month.

fornia bank executive who spends his summers leading the Braves to the National League championship.

At least, Haney has been successful in this endeavor for two years running. But there are those who are getting the feeling that if the Braves don't pull themselves together pretty soon, they are likely to be on the outside looking in when World Series time rolls around this year.

As they took on the Cincinnati Reds in the opener of a 15-game home stand Tuesday night, the

Red Sox Recall Pumpsie Green

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox Tuesday night announced they are recalling Elijah (Pumpsie) Green, a Negro shortstop, from their Minneapolis farm club.

Green, who was with the Red Sox in spring training and then was farmed to Minneapolis, will be the first Negro ever to play for the Red Sox. He will join the club immediately, the announcement said.
