Cut National Debt Before Tax Reduction, Urges Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said Wednesday, with great earnestness, that before talking about tax cuts "we should start paying off something on this big debt of ours."

He also said he hopes this session of Congress will buckle down and pass a labor regulation bill, a new farm program and a bill to finance the big federal highway program. Once again, he held out no hope for a tax cut in the next 18 months.

Eisenhower laid down his stand on these and many other issues at a news conference attended by 224 reporters. He was subjected to a little needling for having discussed world and domestic affairs privately with a much smaller group at the White House Monday night.

Eisenhower confirmed readily that he was the source of stories which came out of that dinner with White House press regulars.

"I'll probably try it again," he added cheerfully.

Those at the dinner wrote detailed stories describing Eisenhower as feeling that chances of a summit meeting of the great world powers have dimmed, and that a tax cut now seems impossible in the year and a half he has left in office. The stories were not attributed directly to Eisenhower.

On taxes, the President added "It would look to be the part of wisdom to start getting the debt down a little bit, thereby creating the kind of confidence that will make a tax cut more justifiable."

Despite intense heat in the airless, tightly packed room, he wore a vest and never unbuckled the coat to his gray summer suit.

For the most part the President was in good humor, and looked in good health.

Eisenhower did have an air, a couple of times, of bearing patiently with what he regarded as silly questions, and he showed a flash of real anger once.

That once was when a reporter asked him about allegations she ascribed to a book by Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson saying that when Eisenhower was Army chief of staff he turned down the intercontinental ballistic missile, and that this set America's defenses back 10 years.

Eisenhower almost glared as he snapped back:

"Do you know anything truthful in any such allegations? I don't."

Here is the way Eisenhower replied when asked whether he had a list of bills he thought Congress ought to pass:

"This time I haven't gone to the trouble of making my list . . . One of the very first things, and one I made one of the first orders of business was to try to get a bill with the necessary machinery set up by us that would curb all of the McClellan committee. That's one that I'm quite sure of."

The reference was to the committee under Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), which has been exploring irregularities in the labor-management field.

"And there are others, of 'along the line of getting the course,'" Eisenhower went on, necessary revenue for . . . road construction . . . and a decent farm bill, which I think is terribly important to the United States, even at this late date."

Khrushchev And Pravda Rip Nixon

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda recalled Wednesday last year's mob attacks on U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Latin America and published a stinging critique of American foreign policy. The article raised doubts about the welcome Nixon will get when he arrives here Thursday.

The vice president plans to talk with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who said Tuesday he is puzzled why Nixon is coming here but "I suppose he has good intentions."

The main announced object of the Nixon trip is to open the U.S. exhibition in Moscow. Pravda warned the Soviet public to be alert against U.S. propaganda there.

What aroused Pravda most, however, was President Eisenhower's designation of this week as Captive Nations Week in the United States. Eisenhower, proclaiming the week in line with a congressional resolution, said, "Many nations throughout the world have been made captive by the imperialistic and aggressive policies of Soviet communism."

Signed by "Observer," a title often used for important Soviet policy pronouncements, the Pravda piece denied that the Soviet Union is enslaving anyone.

Then, without naming Nixon, it recalled the attacks on him in Peru and Venezuela in May, 1958.

"Nobody has forgotten," Pravda said, "how not so long ago Latin Americans, who have their own experience with the blessings of American 'liberation,' greeted some official guests from Washington with clubs."

liner for the 11-hour flight to Moscow.

Nixon good-humoredly spouted some newly learned Russian phrases as he said his goodbyes to Acting Secretary of State Douglas Dillon, Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov and other dignitaries.

He waved to a police-estimated throng of 5,000 who gathered at Friendship Airport, midway between Washington and Baltimore, for the historic occasion.

Earlier in the day, Nixon received President Eisenhower's final instructions to lay it on the line in telling Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev of U.S. views on issues between the United States and the U.S.S.R.

Nixon huddled with Eisenhower and Dillon for a 45-minute briefing.

The vice president will meet Khrushchev and other top Kremlin officials after he gets to Moscow Thursday. From there he will visit Leningrad and four Siberian cities.

Nixon's official purpose is to open the U.S. national exhibit in Moscow. But he will also stop off at Leningrad and more Siberian cities in a trip that seemed likely to have its niche in the cold war annals.

Eisenhower noted at his news conference the possibility that, unofficially, the traveling vice president may be able to put in some spacework toward easing the cold war.

"Mr. Nixon will be able to, I hope, show the temper and feelings of the American people more accurately probably than a casual visitor here could do it," Eisenhower said. "He knows all about government, he knows about the attitudes, he can impart information but he is not negotiating anything."

As Nixon related it to newsmen following the White House talk, he thinks "it is very important that any miscalculation that he — Khrushchev — may have with respect to American strength and American unity should be dispelled."

The vice president expressed hope that through frank talk with Khrushchev he can "clear the air on some basic differences we have had with the Soviet Union."

But he made plain he does not expect to break the deadlock which has jammed the East-West foreign ministers meeting on the German crisis at Geneva.

"It is important not to anticipate that a trip like this is going to solve the world's problems," Nixon said, while adding: "There is always some potential that some yardage will be made one way or another."

Compromise $3.5 Billion Foreign Aid Bill Sent To Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate, voting in quick succession with little debate, Wednesday passed and sent to President Eisenhower a compromise $3.5 billion foreign aid authorization bill.

The total is only $353 million short — less than 10 per cent — of the $3.9 billion Eisenhower asked, despite vigorous efforts to slash it deeper. But that doesn't mean the President's troubles are over in getting most of the money he wants to help friendly nations stem the tide of Communism through economic and military buildup.

The bill merely sets spending ceilings.

A separate bill, providing the money for the overseas aid, is before the House Appropriations Committee and must be acted on by both the House and Senate. In past years, the actual money Congress provided has been cut below the authorization total.

The House passed the authorization bill first, by a 257-153 roll-call vote. In favor of it were 182 Democrats and 75 Republicans, with 86 Democrats and 67 Republicans voting against it.

The Senate, acting even more speedily, passed the bill by voice vote, sending the measure to the White House.

The final authorization measure was worked out in a Senate-House conference after the Senate and House voted different totals — the House $1 million lower than the Senate.

Vote Delayed On Senate Loyalty Bill

Kennedy Vs. Mundt In Amendment Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to repeal the loyalty oath requirement in the National Defense Education Act ran into opposition Wednesday. A Senate vote on it was put off until today.

Under the act, passed last year, students receiving college loans, fellowships or other benefits must file a non-Communist affidavit and also take an oath of allegiance.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), co-sponsor of the repeal measure along with Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.), said needy college students are subjected to a requirement that does not apply to other citizens receiving Government subsidies.

He said educators have protested that it "throws an unjustified cloud of suspicion over those boys and girls who have to borrow money for their education."

Kennedy also cited statements of administration witnesses and others that the present provision is inefficient as a security measure, saying Communists would sign the required affidavit without qualms.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), said, however, that since the provision already is in the law, he saw no substantial reason for repealing it. He said he was unable to see why it was an insult to require it.

As a substitute for the existing provision, Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.), proposed that anyone seeking or securing funds under the act while a member of any organization or the attorney general's substitute list could be punished by a $1,000 fine or a year's imprisonment, or both.

Mundt read a telegram from the American Legion supporting his amendment.

Kennedy announced he is willing to accept a compromise amendment by Russell which would abolish the non-Communist oath, yet retain the oath of allegiance. Kennedy assailed Mundt's amendment as "totally objectionable."

Could Expect Polish Action Against Berlin

Would Support East German Action

GENEVA (AP) — The Big Four conference, already near the breaking point, was jolted Wednesday night by a new Soviet-Polish threat of Communist action against West Berlin.

The threat came shortly after Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko clashed over the terms of a Berlin truce. A semipublic session of the foreign ministers meeting failed to make any progress.

Then came word from Warsaw of a joint communique by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Polish Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomułka. It said that "if liquidation of the abnormal situation in West Berlin is not effected, then Poland and the Soviet Union will support East Germany in the measures which she may recognize as appropriate" to "liquidate the abnormal situation in Berlin."

There also was word that Khrushchev is reported planning a top-level conference of the Communist-bloc nations for the first week in August. The British Foreign office said in London it had received reports that such a meeting would begin Aug. 3 in Moscow. There was no official confirmation.

The reported meeting was viewed as perhaps one of the real reasons Khrushchev called off a scheduled tour of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland in August.

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev warned Western powers Wednesday night that their stand at Geneva "may lead to aggravation of the East-West situation, pregnant with danger to the cause of peace in Europe."

The statement was made in a communique signed by Khrushchev and Polish Communist party leader Wladyslaw Gomułka at the end of Khrushchev's visit to Poland, a dispatch from Warsaw said.

Gust. He blamed "an unfavorable atmosphere" in Scandinavia.

At Wednesday's conference session, Herter accused the U.S.S.R. of trying to hold the 2 1/2 million residents of West Berlin as ransom for an ultimate Communist takeover of all Germany.

Herter told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko the West never will be tricked into becoming "an unwitting accomplice." He referred to the Soviet proposal that the German reunification problem be handed over to a committee of East and West Germans with an 18-month time limit to get results.

Gromyko himself rejected Western counterproposals for continuing four-power negotiations on Germany. These proposals, he said, sought to impose a humiliating dictate on the German people.

Western spokesmen said Wednesday's plenary session of the Big Four foreign ministers made no progress whatever. French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville said the four powers remained as far removed from agreement as they were when the conference opened more than seven weeks ago.

An American official said nothing in Gromyko's speech altered the West's determination to break off the conference soon if the Soviet Union maintains its insistence on the all-German committee. But the official added it is unlikely that the conference would end before the end of next week.

Herter first threatened an early break-off during a private meeting of the four foreign ministers Monday. He repeated that threat in a semipublic session Tuesday.

Mediators Meet Monday For Joint Steel Wage Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal mediators have set up joint peace talks in the steel strike for next Monday — the first since the walk-out began eight days ago.

"No special significance should be attached," said Joseph F. Finnegan, head of the Federal Mediation Service, in announcing the development Wednesday. He repeated his statement of a week ago that he foresaw no early or easy solution to the deadlock that has idled more than half a million workmen.

Finnegan and his aides stepped up their mediation efforts during the day. After his usual meetings of two hours with each side, the nation's mediation chief held a second conference with industry spokesmen — the first time he has met twice with them in a single day.

Finnegan said later "we feel we now have a better orientation on the difference" between the two sides.

He said he would meet with Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell in Washington Thursday.

The union struck July 14 in a demand for a 15-cent-an-hour wage and benefit package. Pre-strike wages averaged $3.10 an hour. The company balked at any wage increase, contending any further addition to production costs would prove inflationary to the nation's economy.

Besides half a million members of the United Steelworkers of America who are idle, the strike forced the layoff of about 45,000 employees in related fields — coal, railroads, trucking, shipping and construction.

Refueling Tanker Crashes; 7 Men Die In Explosion

ANDOVER, N.H. (AP) — An Air Force refueling tanker caught fire on a pre-dawn training mission Wednesday and crashed in a hayfield. Its seven-man crew perished in a thunderous explosion of 8,000 gallons of gasoline.

The huge KC97, out of Peace Air Force Base, Portsmouth, N.H., virtually disintegrated as its tanks blew up. It was enroute to refuel a bomber over central New Hampshire.

The pilot was Capt. James H. White, who lived with his wife and three children at Portsmouth. She is expecting a fourth child. White was a native of Somerville, Mass.

Other victims were: Lt. Harold G. High, Duluth, Minn.; Lt. Dean H. Holzworth, Worland, Wyo.; Sgt. Marion C. Akerman, Vevay, Ind.; Sgt. Owen Q. Combs, Bloomfield, Ind.; Sgt. Jake Schmidt, Riverton, Wyo.; and Airman 3/c Phillips K. Darst, Norman, Okla.

Funeral Services To Be Held Saturday—

SUI Mourns Dr. Steindler's Death

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at the First Methodist Church for Dr. Arthur Steindler, 81, internationally known orthopedic surgeon and SUI professor, who died at his home Tuesday after a two-month siege with cancer.

Dr. M. Willard Lampe, director emeritus of the SUI School of Religion, will officiate at the services. Dr. Steindler was a charter trustee of the School of Religion.

Born and educated in Vienna, Austria, Dr. Steindler specialized in studies on the use of listening instruments to diagnose ailments of the joints. His work with children crippled by polio and other diseases restored many of them to normal life.

The University community was saddened at the doctor's death. President Virgil M. Hancher said: The University community will mourn Dr. Steindler's death while remembering with pride his

His service to children requiring orthopedic care set the pattern for the unique development of our College of Medicine and University Hospitals. Dr. Steindler's work led into creation of the professional staff and hospital resources from which more than one million persons, including 800,000 indigent patients, have benefited. His loss will be acutely felt by his students and disciples in all parts of the world.

Dr. Norman B. Nelson, Dean of the College of Medicine said:

Dr. Steindler was truly a distinguished physician. He was known throughout the world for his research and writings in the field of orthopedics. His death is not only a loss to Iowa but to the world.

Dr. Dean M. Lierle, professor and head of otolaryngology said: Dr. Steindler's death is a great loss to the University, the community and the nation. He was one of the outstanding teachers and clinicians of our time. As a colleague he was always cooperative, helpful and kindly. We shall miss him a great deal.

Dr. I. V. Ponseti, professor of orthopedic surgery said:

Dr. Arthur Steindler came from Austria to the United States at the beginning of this century to become one of the great pioneers in American orthopedic surgery. His contributions to medical literature are staggering — he wrote more than 240 scientific papers published in American and European journals, and eleven books on orthopedic surgery.

He was honored by all American and European surgical societies. With Dr. Steindler as head of the Department of Orthopedic Surgery at SUI, Iowa City became the Mecca of orthopedic surgeons throughout the world. He developed an outstanding teaching center at this University, and under his direction 250 doctors were trained in orthopedic surgery.

His loss will be deeply felt in orthopedic and medical circles throughout the world. In his honor the Arthur Steindler Orthopedic Research Fund has been established at SUI to support research in orthopedic surgery.

The fund has been established by his colleagues and former students. It had been in process before his death to support promising resident physicians in orthopedics.

Records showed Dr. Steindler had seen more than 70,000 patients. He conducted clinics at other colleges, including the University of Virginia and Duke University.

The doctor was an accomplished musician and linguist. He played piano, and read and spoke Latin, Spanish, French, German, Italian and Bohemian.

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the University.

Dr. Arthur Steindler

Dr. Arthur Steindler, who for 35 years headed the SUI department of orthopedic surgery, died Tuesday at his home in Iowa City after a long battle with cancer.

Dr. Steindler came to the United States from his native Vienna, Austria in 1907. During his lifetime he received world renown for medical miracles that enabled hundreds of crippled, deformed human beings to live normal, useful lives.

Dr. Steindler packed the work of generations into the eight decades of life which were allotted to him. At the time of his death, he had seen over 700,000 patients, had traveled around the world lecturing and teaching, and had authored several text books and scores of articles.

A typical day in Dr. Steindler's life began at 5 a.m. He studied until 7 and was in his office receiving patients by 7:30 a.m.

Not a man to let a rigorous schedule and devotion to his work interfere with a sincere interest in others, Dr. Steindler was known and loved for his humility, and his genial personality. He was a man who will not soon be forgotten — a man to whom we, as human beings, owe a debt of sincere thanks.

Art: Russian's Show

Coliseum Exhibit Clarifies Issues

By EMILY GENAUER

Herald Tribune News Service

The exhibition of present-day Russian art in the Coliseum answers a great many questions that have long plagued the American art world.

It establishes immediately and unequivocally, so that, presumably, the absurd charge can never be made again, the fact that abstract art is not, per se, Communist art.

The "reasoning" was that any art which does not glorify America in the most obvious, illustrative terms, is automatically anti-American.

Now all this would seem to be too ridiculous to be taken seriously, and, in any case, of such strictly professional interest as to concern only the art world.

But it hasn't worked that way. The conservatives who, either through honest conviction or Machiavellian cunning, have pronounced this position, have managed from the beginning to win the ear and voice of highly-placed political figures.

be able to take up the cudgels for Culture.

The result was that on several occasions the halls of Congress have rung with the speeches of Representatives denouncing modern art and all who support it as Communists or Communist tools.

Now, in the midst of the controversy, comes the Coliseum show straight from Russia. At last the general public may actually see the art the Communists endorse and practice.

This brings us, however, to a question the Russian show poses even as it answers some others. The pictures the Soviets have sent to the Coliseum turn out in most cases to be exactly the same works they sent to the Brussels World Fair last summer.

Are these, then, just their show pieces? They are technically expert canvases for all the sentimentality with which they depict women happily working in factories, or soldiers being ecstatically greeted by their wives, or the melodrama with which they present "Hitler and his Staff During their Last Days in the Reichschancellery Bunker", or Russian soldiers victorious in the field.

But then one remembers our own exhibitions assembled for display overseas. They are no less limited. The same artists—and often the same pictures—turn up again and again.

Is it not possible that in our own way we are as narrow as the Russians, and that, in consequence, Europeans cannot help but think that we too have an "official" art, that we are no less committed to one school?

That's why our show assembled for display in Moscow looked so impressive when it was viewed here just before shipment. It is a highly varied affair, despite Congressman Walter's charges to the contrary. It is one of the very few ever assembled for presentation abroad that includes as many representational as non-representational works.

Because of the controversy it has been decided to include a number of nineteenth-century paintings along with the jury selection. That can only enrich not hurt the show. The important thing is that the self-interested men who have stirred up the fracas should not succeed in befuddling the issue of modern art and communism once again.

Your Credit Goes Where You Go—

Pay Your Bills!

BY DONALD STONE Staff Writer

Your credit, good or bad, follows you all your life, and the record you establish while a student at SUI is part of your history.

While the merchants of Iowa City report the students an overall good risk, they have had some experiences that are not favorable.

Pay your bills, is probably the best advice that can be given. But despite careful management almost everyone, at one time or another, finds himself with more bills than money.

One of the best ways to assure ability to pay bills when due is not to over-extend oneself. There are charts which show the amount of indebtedness safe to carry for a specific income.

One Iowa City merchant said many students seem to feel they keep their credit good just by making sure the bill is paid before leaving school in June.

Poor training at home in the matter of personal finances seems to be the cause of many students' troubles. One merchant reported that often he has had to instruct students on the proper way to fill out checks.

This may explain why one merchant reported very good collections on checks that bounce. He said usually the student had merely made the mistake of picking up the wrong counter check because its color happened to match that which his bank used.

Some students seem to want to vary their method of signing checks too, not realizing that the bank accepts only one.

In order to keep an accurate record of payments and keep check charges down, some parents send the student off to school with instructions to draw on the family bank account. It doesn't take much imagination to see the problems this could create. The trouble multiplies if the family is supporting more than one.

A good way to remedy this problem is sending all bills to the parental home. This is the practice in many schools.

Another way to make Freddy completely responsible is to establish a separate bank account for him to keep balanced.

Married students seem to realize their obligations more than single students, though it can not be said that they are any better at actually paying bills, one merchant said. Married students are more inclined to talk with the credit manager when ends don't meet.

Changing address can cause disturbances in the bill-paying routine. In order to keep its information current, one store issues credit cards on which the months are printed. If the record is up to date, the persons card will be punched for that month, indicating that all the information is correct.

Helping the merchant with these problems are 3800 credit services located over the United States. They supply information concerning the person's record in court, mortgages, liens, and deeds.

A prospective employer is also interested in credit history. The armed forces are interested in credit history. The armed forces are interested in the record of those going into the service after leaving school. Businessmen find it hard to reveal the truth in some cases.

Most merchants say they report to the Office of Student Affairs only in extreme cases and when they feel that the student is ignorant of the consequences that would result from their turning a matter over to civil authorities.

In relation to other groups, students can be praised for their responsible behavior towards their finances, was the opinion of many merchants.

Next to a good dog, good credit is man's best friend.

600,000 Get Pay Raises As— June Price Index Rises

WASHINGTON (AP)—A jump of four-tenths of 1 per cent in June sent living costs to a record high and broke off a year-long spell of comparative price stability.

The consumer price advance announced Wednesday by the Labor Department gave pay increases to 600,000 workers under cost-of-living escalator contracts. It also caused a slight drop in the real spending power of factory workers' earnings.

At 124.5 per cent of the 1957-49 average, the consumer price index stood six-tenths of 1 per cent above a year ago.

A sharp spurt in food prices, especially fresh fruits and vegetables, did most of the damage. Food rose 1 per cent from May, while the prices of almost all other goods and services in a typical city family's budget rose less spectacularly.

The increase was the greatest in any month since March 1958, but Commissioner Ewan Clague of the Bureau of Labor Statistics told reporters:

"This is not a sign that the consumer price index is about to take off. It is a seasonal increase."

He predicted there might be some further rise in July, because of seasonal food increases, but that the harvest month of August would bring food prices down and result in a lowering of the overall index.

The prices of fresh fruits and vegetables rose 10.9 per cent in June, concentrating in that month almost all the seasonal rise which normally is spread over April, May and June.

But other items in the average city-dwelling family's budget went up, too. Housing costs rose one-tenth of 1 per cent. Transportation prices rose two-tenths of 1 per cent because of advances in gasoline and used cars.

Medical care rose three-tenths of 1 per cent, as did personal care—haircuts, beauty parlors, and similar expense items. About the only significant declines were in home repair and maintenance costs and fuel. Clothing prices held steady.

The spendable earnings of factory workers rose in June, but the price advance caused a net decline in the buying power of the worker's paycheck.

Spendable earnings—take-home pay after deduction of income taxes—reached new records of $81.21 a week for the average factory worker with three dependents, and $73.66 for a worker without dependents.

These were increases of 18 cents and 17 cents, respectively. They resulted from more overtime work at premium pay.

McKay, Original Secretary Of Interior For Ike, Dies

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—Douglas McKay, a confident little man who was one of President Eisenhower's original Cabinet members, died Wednesday of a heart ailment and kidney complications. He was 66.

He entered the cabinet as secretary of the interior in 1953 and resigned in 1956 in what was regarded as an administration-planned effort to get Wayne Morse—onetime Republican who turned Democrat—out of the U.S. Senate. However, McKay won with difficulty in his own Republican party primary and fell far short of beating Morse in the general election. It was the first political defeat ever suffered by McKay in a long series of contests climaxed by his 1948 election as Oregon governor.

McKay's appointment to the Cabinet was regarded as due primarily to his familiarity with and interest in hydroelectric power development and natural resources conservation. His support of private power and refusal to back a high federal dam in Hells Canyon of the Snake River brought bitter attacks from public power advocates in the Pacific Northwest.

His department's grant of a mining patent in a southern Oregon forest to the Al Sarena Co. of Alabama made the charge of "giveaway" a familiar—but disputed—one in the campaign with Morse.

McKay, who stood 5 feet 9, worked his way through Oregon State College as a janitor and odd-jobs man, but found time to get into politics even then, and was freshman class and later student body president.

Veteran's Hospital Exhibit Honored At Medical Meet

The scientific exhibit, "Blood Transfusions," prepared by the Iowa City Veterans Administration Hospital has received honorable mention at the American Medical Association meeting in Atlantic City.

Responsible for preparing the exhibit were Dr. Richard E. Peterson, Dr. Richard L. Lawton, Dr. Donald V. Walz, and Charles Deutsch, chief of medical illustration. The exhibit has been chosen by the Veterans Administration as one of those to be available for showing upon request from interested organizations.

Bridge Cost Is Estimated At $1 Million

Army engineers have estimated the cost of a new Mehaffey Bridge at $1 million, according to County Engineer Ray H. Justen. The proposed bridge will replace a crossing removed because of flooding in the Coralville Reservoir.

The cost estimate includes administrative, inspection, and engineering costs. Construction is expected to cost $800,000. The estimate, based on costs for other work in this area, has been submitted to Congress.

Justen and members of the County Board of Supervisors met with Col. E.M. Fry, district army engineer from Rock Island, Ill., in connection with a request for information issued by U.S. Rep. Fred Schwengel and U.S. Sen. Thomas Martin. The two congressmen are working toward obtaining Congressional authorization for the construction of the bridge.

The Iowa Highway Commission has appropriated $100,000 toward the new bridge, but according to Justen, the commission cannot provide any additional funds.

Federal aid is being sought because the Federal Government reservoir project necessitated the removal of the old crossing.

For the SUI Mountaineers— Up Canada's Bugaboo Peak

The ascent of Bugaboo and Snowpatch Spires, two difficult and spectacular peaks in Western Canada, will be among the main objectives of the SUI Mountaineers during their 1959 summer outing August 11-30.

The Bugaboo Mountain area is in the Northern Prucell Range of British Columbia about 100 miles west of Banff, Alberta. The 48 outing members will hike and climb in the adjacent mountain groups lying on three sides of the Bugaboo area. This includes the Quintet and Ethelbert Mountains to the south and the Bobbie Burns group to the north. The outing will have an opportunity to do pioneer exploring in all of these regions.

Basecamp will be located 25 miles west of Spillimacheen at the forks of the Bugaboo River, a spot surrounded on all sides by primitive forest and mountains. Hiking and climbing highcamps located about six miles beyond the basecamp will permit the members to explore valleys and canyons and ascend peaks seldom visited.

The Iowa Mountaineers are the first American club to sponsor a summer camp in this area, according to John Ebert, leader of the group. The camp staff will include ten mountain guides.

In case of prolonged bad weather, trips will be sponsored to Yoho and Banff National Parks nearby. The region will provide hiking, photographic subjects and wilderness camping for the Mountaineers, as well as mountain climbing.

Change Of Venue For Truck Driver

The driver of a semi-trailer truck involved in a fatal crash east of Iowa City July 8 has been granted a change of venue for hearing on a charge placed against him at the time of the mishap.

Basecamp will be located 25 miles west of Spillimacheen at the forks of the Bugaboo River, a spot surrounded on all sides by primitive forest and mountains. Hiking and climbing highcamps located about six miles beyond the basecamp will permit the members to explore valleys and canyons and ascend peaks seldom visited.

Gordon L. Haworth, 20, Montezuma, will appear before Justice of the Peace J. Newman Toomey on the charge of failure to stop in a clear and sure distance ahead. Haworth was driving one of three trucks involved in the accident that took the life of a 14-year-old Ladara boy.

Johnson County authorities began investigation of two break-ins at Scott Township schools No. 1 and No. 4, Wednesday.

The break-ins were discovered Tuesday night by a highway patrolman, and Deputy Sheriff David Cook began his investigation Wednesday morning.

Cook said entrance to each building was gained by breaking a window. Nothing was reported missing, Cook said, but considerable damage was done to the furniture and the interior of each school. He said books, book cases, drawers, and desks were strewn about the rooms.

White Sox Nip BoSox In 9th, 5-4, Move Into League Lead

CHICAGO (AP) — Sperm Lollar's ninth inning single gave the Chicago White Sox a 5-4 triumph over the Boston Red Sox Wednesday in a game marked by quaint White Sox base running.

Lollar's single sent Nellie Fox scampering across from second with the winning run, hanging the defeat to Leo Kieley, third of four Boston pitchers.

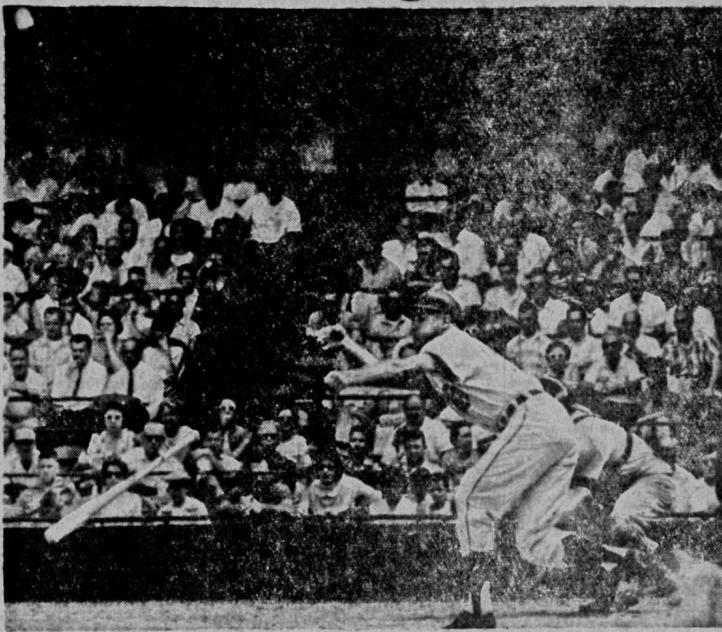

Boston starter Jerry Casale and Ted Williams each hit solo homers.

Wynn failed in his bid to become the American League's winningest pitcher with 13 triumphs, but averted his possible seventh defeat.

Five times, the White Sox made base-running miscues, rookie Jim McAnany twice getting pegged out at the plate. Jim Landis was nailed trying for third after a third-inning double.

Norm Cash was picked off second in the scoreless Sox eighth in which McAnany later was speared at the plate for the second time. And in the seventh, Lollar was held up at third with a possible chance to score on Bill Goodman's double.

Tigers 6, Senators 2

DETROIT (AP) — Frank Lary of the Detroit Tigers worked on a one-hitter for seven innings but required relief help from Ray Narleski in a 6-2 triumph over the Washington Senators Wednesday.

Lary retired the first 13 batters before giving up a walk to Jim Lemon. For seven innings, the only hit off the veteran hurler was a scratch single by Billy Consolo in the sixth inning.

Roy Sievers led off the eighth inning with his 14th home run, and Lary again walked Lemon and yielded a double to Faye Throneberry.

Tiger Manager Jimmie Dykes called in Narleski, who pitched hitless ball over the last two innings and preserved Lary's 11th victory.

Lary socked his first home run with a mate aboard in the seventh inning after Frank Bolling hit a solo home run in the fifth. Both blows came off Washington starter Pedro Ramos, who was lifted after seven innings.

Yanks 8, Indians 5

CLEVELAND (AP) — The New York Yankees rattled Municipal Stadium with 14 hits Wednesday night to overcome a 4-0 deficit, beat Cleveland 8-5, and dropped the Indians from the American League lead.

Herb Score had blanked the Yanks on three hits and fanned five for a 4-0 advantage when Mickey Mantle doubled in the sixth and was brought around by Hector Lopez' 14th home run.

A five-hit barrage that added three more runs chased the league's strikeout leader to the showers in the seventh inning with his eighth defeat against nine won.

Don Larsen pinch-hit for Fritz Brickell and singled, and Bobby Richardson doubled both runners home. Mickey Mantle walked, Elston Howard singled Richardson in, and Gary Bell replaced Score. Lopez singled off Vic Power's glove to fill the bases.

Braves 5, Reds 4

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bobby Avila, making his National League debut, cracked a two-run home run in the ninth inning Wednesday night to give Milwaukee a 5-4 victory over Cincinnati and enable the Braves to snap a seven-game losing streak.

Avila, acquired only Tuesday from the Boston Red Sox, hit the first pitch from southpaw Jim O'Toole over the left field fence just to the left of the 355-foot mark and sent the Braves back to third place.

The smash by the veteran second baseman also gave veteran southpaw Warren Spahn his 12th victory and number 258 of his career. Spahn now is only six shy of the league record for a southpaw held by Eppa Rixey.

O'Toole appeared en route to a victory on a pair of two-run homers by Willie Jones and Frank Thomas but started the ninth by walking pinch hitter Stan Lopata. Lew Burdette was sent in to run for Lopata. Spahn, who had homered and singled, scoring the first two Milwaukee runs, attempted to bunt but was a strikeout victim when he fouled off the third pitch of O'Toole. Avila then came through with his decisive blow.

Phils 11, Pirates 4

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Philadelphia batters pounded out 19 hits Wednesday night and trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates 11-4.

Philadelphia hit safely in every inning except the fifth as the Pirates used four pitchers to try to stop the scoring. Seven of the Philadelphia runs crossed the plate in the first four innings.

Ed Bouchee drove in two Philadelphia runs with a homer into the upper deck of the right field stands in the fourth inning. It was his 11th of the year.

Others who sparked the Phils' attack were Richie Ashburn, with a double and three singles; Joe Lonnett, a double and two singles; and Dave Philley, a double and two singles.

Gene Conley started on the mound for the Phils and went all the way, picking up his eighth victory of the season compared to six defeats.

The loss was charged to Pirate starter Ron Kline, who gave up six hits and four runs in the 1½ innings that he worked. His season mark is now 7-9.

A's 6, Orioles 3

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics continued to work their jinx on Baltimore's Jerry Walker Wednesday night and defeated the Orioles 6-3 behind Ray Herbert's 6-hit pitching.

It was the third time this season Walker has failed to best the A's and gave him his fifth defeat against seven victories. For Herbert it was his fifth straight success and moved his season's record to 9-7.

Dick Williams hit his seventh home run of the year for Kansas City and the Orioles' Gene Woodling hit his eleventh.

Through the fifth, Walker had faced only 16 men but in the sixth doubles by Herbert, Bill Tuttle and Roger Maris gave the A's two runs. The Athletics increased their lead to 4-2 in the seventh when Harry Chitt walked, moved to third on a single and scored on Wayne Terwilliger's squeeze bunt.

Yanks Out, ChiSox In Say Scribes

NEW YORK (AP) — The baseball writers are doing a little second-guessing themselves on the outcomes of the major league pennant races.

In a pre-season Associated Press poll members of the Baseball Writers Association picked the New York Yankees by a wide margin to win the American League championship. They liked the Milwaukee Braves to win the National League pennant, although with less enthusiasm.

At the half-way point in the races the league standings weren't quite as expected, so The AP conducted another poll of the writers to see if they had changed their minds.

They had. Now they still favor the Braves, but by a very slim margin. But the Yankees are out, as far as the writers are concerned. Of the 72 votes only 11 picked the Yankees to win.

The consensus now favors the Chicago White Sox to take the flag, with Cleveland second and New York third.

Cleveland got two more first place votes than Chicago, but on the 8-7-6 point-scoring basis the White Sox had a 526-516 edge. Milwaukee got nine more first-place votes than San Francisco, but led in points by only 514-500.

Johnstone Takes 7-Stroke Lead In Women's Amateur

MASON CITY (AP) — Ann Casey Johnstone, settling down over her home course, the Mason City Country Club, pulled into a seven-stroke lead Wednesday in the Iowa Women's Amateur golf tournament.

The five-time former champion shot a four under women's par 72 — which was equal to men's figures — for a 147 total at the half-way point in the 72-hole tournament.

Judy Kimball of Sioux City, the defending champion who shared the first round lead with Mrs. Johnstone Tuesday, took an 83 and was in fourth place with a 158. Judy, experiencing trouble with her putter, had rounds of 40 and 43 Wednesday as Mrs. Johnstone fashioned a pair of 36s.

Sharon Fladsoos, 16-year-old Iowa Junior champion from Dubuque, moved into second place with 154. She shot a one over par 77 for the second straight day.

In third place with a 156 was Andy Cohn of Waterloo, the 1956 champion, who added an 80 to her par 76 first round. She went out Wednesday in 39, the same as Miss Fladsoos, but needed a 41 on the back nine.

Johansson: 'No Chance' Of Defending In Sweden

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Ingemar Johansson said Wednesday there was no chance he would defend his heavyweight boxing title in Sweden unless a way was discovered to televise it in the United States at the same time.

"The television question decides big events of this kind," Johansson explained.

Machen TKO's Vargas In 6th

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Eddie Machen of Portland scored a sixth round technical knockout over Reuben Vargas of San Francisco in a heavyweight fight here Wednesday night.

Machen weighed 197, Vargas 195.

Referee Ralph Gruman stopped the scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight at 1:55 of the sixth round after Vargas went down once and then lay almost helpless on the ropes as Machen pressed the attack.

Vargas had been in trouble in the third round, when the clever Machen hit him with lefts and then followed with quick rights. But Vargas weathered that storm and was not in serious trouble again until the sixth.

A crowd of 2,500 in the Centennial Exposition Arena watched the nationally televised fight.

In the third round, the turning point, Machen pressed the attack with left jabs but could not connect with a finishing punch.

Again at the end of the third Machen had Vargas in trouble but Machen couldn't finish him off.

Vargas, passing the attack to Machen's body, was unable to do much damage. At one point, Machen smiled at Vargas after a series of punches landed on Machen's side.

Vargas, pressing the attack to right in the fifth round which seemed to lift Machen off his heels. But Machen was not hurt and came back with solid left jabs to put Vargas on the defensive.

Hitting Fails, Giants Lose Magic Touch

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When the Giants made their move to the top of the National League, the general verdict was that the San Franciscans didn't have the pitching for a sustained drive.

Wednesday night, as the Giants teetered at the summit, the sad truth was that the pitching has been superb but the vaunted hitters have failed to do their jobs.

In three days, the Giants slipped from their seasonal high of three games in front to a bare half-game margin over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The skid came with three straight losses. Each of them was decided by one run.

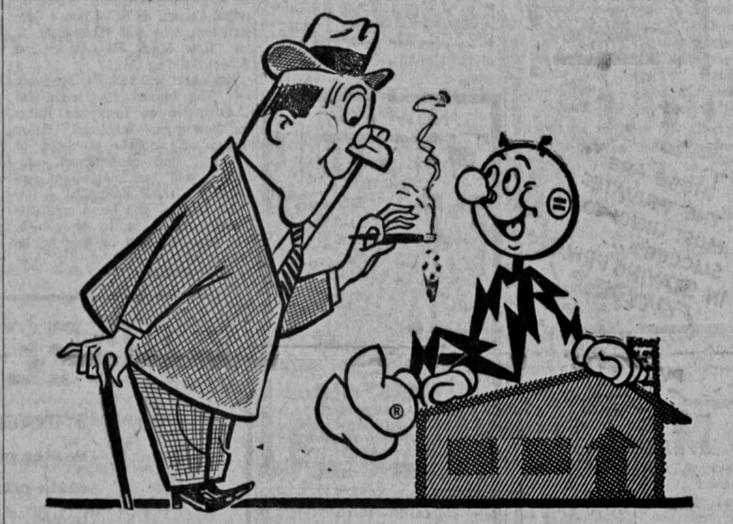

Little Stu Miller lost 3-2 to Pittsburgh Sunday. Then the Giants, after saving their best hurlers for the Dodgers, lost with Johnny Antonelli Monday 3-2, and Sam Jones Tuesday 1-0.

"You can't ask for better pitching," sighed Manager Bill Rigney after Jones' loss to the Dodgers' Roger Craig.

"We've got to start hitting. These guys are going to get extra hitting practice and I mean everybody. This kind of thing is a shame."

Willie Mays, the Giants' Mr. Big, managed only one single in 11 trips to the plate in the three defeats.

Orlando Cepeda, the erstwhile slugging first baseman, did slightly better during the same period. He went two for 11.
