Boy Saved In Grand Canyon After 6 Days In Searing Sun

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (AP) — An Army helicopter plucked John Manson Owens III out of mile deep Grand Canyon alive Friday after sunburned searchers abandoned hope for his life.

Owens, missing for six days, clambered up a rope ladder to a helicopter after being spotted on a sandbar in the Colorado River. "Well, I sure thank you for picking me up," the 16-year-old Savannah, Ga., youngster told the copter crew as he stepped out at this south rim resort community. Owens had lost weight and had heavy callouses on both feet but was otherwise in good condition after his battle with nature in the depths of the gorge. He was hospitalized for observation. His ordeal began as a hike to visit an abandoned silver mine in the eastern end of the canyon a week ago. Two companions from Savannah died on the trek. The Rev. Eugene A. Gavigan, 30, was killed in a fall over a cliff. Walter J. Mahany Jr., 16, died of exposure and dehydration. Owens was found about eight miles down the Colorado River from Tanner Wash, where the bodies of his friends were found. "For a 16-year-old boy he showed tremendous assurances," said Dr. Daniel B. Bessen. "His parents can take great pride in him. He is a man now." A search for the trio began Saturday when tourists heard cries for help from deep within the canyon.

Manson Owens III

Owens went ahead. Searchers found Mahany's body on apparently the same rock Sunday. He had died of exposure and dehydration in temperatures ranging up to 125 degrees.

Owens said he reached the river and, deciding Mahany wasn't coming, used his belt and supple roots to lash logs together to form a crude raft. Then he started down the river on the raft.

The boy said the raft broke up in rough rapids and "I almost drowned." He said he swam to the north bank of the river but realized he was on the opposite side of the canyon from where the hike had started, so swam back across the turbulent water.

He reached the sandbar, where he said he lay for three days until he was found.

Owens told of drinking river water and eating cactus pulp and beans from a mesquite bush which he soaked in water.

"The cactus tasted horrible," he said. Upon reaching the hospital at the canyon rim, Owens telephoned M. Owens Jr., in Savannah.

Hatless, in a dark print cotton dress and high-heeled patent leather shoes, the wife of the U.S. vice-president danced with her small partner in sneakers. An accordionist played music in quicktime.

A bit breathless, Mrs. Nixon finally had to quit.

"I can't keep up with her," she laughingly told Mrs. Llewellyn Thompson, wife of the American ambassador.

The children had come up with outstretched hands to draw the two women into the circle of dancers in an open square between buildings hung with huge pictures of Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders.

Mrs. Nixon took an hour's drive through beautiful farm countryside to see the lakeside camp where factory workers' children from 7 to 15 come for a 26-day stay. At 16 many of them will be eligible for the Komosomol, the Young Communist League.

The Pioneers are on the first step up the Communist ladder.

She looked at their bunks, listened to them sing, and watched groups of boys and girls swimming. The youngsters went in for only a dip. The camp director explained the Siberian lake water is so cold they are not allowed in longer than three minutes.

Before she left to accompany her husband back to Moscow, Mrs. Nixon wrote in the camp guest book:

"I bring you greetings from the children of the United States who would like to visit your country and I hope that you will visit them too. Best wishes to all for happiness in world of peace."

'Estateniks' Dig 'Beatniks' The Least

VENICE, Calif. (AP) — Beatniks and property owners clashed head-on Friday and neither side gave quarter.

The beatniks, of course, don't have any quarters. They're broke. Property owners object to the horde of bearded beatniks and their sandal-wearing girl friends who have made this lower middle class Los Angeles suburb the capital of the beat generation.

"We got to get on our feet and scream and get these people out of here," said A. S. Roberts, president of the Venice Civic Union.

"Oh, those real estatniks," said Lawrence Lipton, author and Boswell of the beat generation. "They're trying to kill the arts in America."

At a hastily called meeting of the property owners, Roberts said that since the publication of Lipton's best-seller, "The Holy Barbarians," "beatniks have been pouring in here from everywhere."

"The landlord group would prefer a saloon to a workshop for artists," moaned Lipton. "They'd like to see Venice West a big tenement for the rich."

Lipton said the beatniks will answer the property owners "in the only way we know — as writers, poets, artists, musicians and dancers."

They plan to whoop it up at a meeting tonight at the Gas House. Lipton will top off the evening by reading, to jazz accompaniment, a poem, "Funky Blues for Squares, Creeps and Cornballs."

Nixon To Reply To Russians In TV Speech

Mrs. Nixon, Russian Girl Dance Polka Then Tours Youth Camp Of Young Pioneers

SVERDLOVSK, Soviet Union (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon did a polka Friday with a little Russian girl amid a circle of dancers at a Young Pioneer summer camp in the pine woods.

A bit breathless, Mrs. Nixon finally had to quit.

"I can't keep up with her," she laughingly told Mrs. Llewellyn Thompson, wife of the American ambassador.

The children had come up with outstretched hands to draw the two women into the circle of dancers in an open square between buildings hung with huge pictures of Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders.

Little Issues Now Deadlocking Berlin Agreement

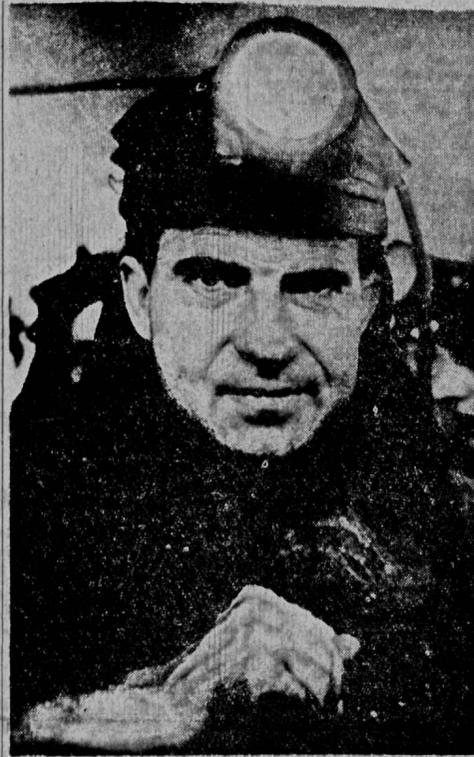

GENEVA (AP) — The little issues joined the big ones in deadlock Friday at the Big Four foreign ministers conference.

The ministers put a group of Western and Soviet diplomats to work on some of the details related to the major questions of a Berlin agreement — questions such as curtailing propaganda in Berlin. Later, U.S. spokesman Andrew H. Berding gave this report of what the diplomatic working group did.

The working group meeting reached complete agreement that each separate subject should be dealt with on a separate piece of paper. They did not agree on anything else.

Ike And Nikita Meeting Urged By 9 Governors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine U.S. state governors just back from the Soviet Union warmly pressed on President Eisenhower Friday the idea that he and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev should visit each other.

They urged it in the name of peace, Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida told reporters after the governors' White House call.

Eisenhower didn't say yes and he didn't say no, Collins said, but he did indicate that the idea interested him.

Collins said the governors were convinced that a Khrushchev visit to the United States, at the earliest possible time, would be very beneficial.

And as for an Eisenhower visit to Russia, Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina told a reporter: "The Russians are just crazy."

5 Workmen Hurt When Explosion Rips Tank Apart

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — Five workmen were injured Friday afternoon when a large steel tank exploded at the service building of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co. here.

Authorities said the tank was one in which gas is treated before distribution to customers and was being tested for pressure.

Calvin Blagg, 36, of Marion, was believed the most seriously hurt. He suffered fractures of both legs and internal injuries. The others were:

Waldon Teeter, 30, of Marion; possible head injuries.

Paul Brfner, 62, Cedar Rapids, lacerations and possible head injuries.

John Berge, 30, and Harold Sheetz, 57, both of Cedar Rapids. They had leg injuries.

Officers investigating the explosion said the blast occurred while the tank was being tested with a soap solution and compressed air for possible leaks and that pressure inside the tank became too great.

Reds Blame Tension And Fear On U.S.

Speech To Be Carried To 8 Soviet Cities

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon Friday night drafted a speech to the Soviet people to reply to Soviet charges that the United States is to blame for world tension and fear of war.

When Nixon steps before the television cameras Saturday his words will be carried into homes in Moscow and seven other cities around the capital. And on his return Friday from a 5,000-mile tour of the Soviet Union, Nixon emphasized he intends to make the most of his opportunity.

"When I speak tomorrow night at 8 I will discuss and answer some of the questions I got during the trip," he said at the airport. "I will also give my impressions of the Soviet economy, the managers, workers and people."

The question most frequently thrown at Nixon by hecklers on States encircle the Soviet Union with military bases? A favorite of the tour was: Why does the United States intend to make the most of his opportunity?

But the speech will be televised only in a narrow western belt of the Soviet Union, which sprawls for nearly 5,000 miles from the European frontier to a point only a few miles from Alaska.

The one hour speech will be beamed from Moscow to Kalinin, Vladimirov, Ryazan, Tula, Kostroma, Yaroslavl and Smolensk.

Arrangements are expected to be the same as for British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan when he spoke over Moscow TV last March. A Soviet interpreter gave a running translation of the prime minister's remarks.

Nixon's aides say they understand that afterward a film of the speech will be televised in such western cities as Leningrad, Kiev, Tiflis and Riga.

The vice president said in his brief airport remarks that the five-day trip to Leningrad, the Urals and Siberia was interesting and the Soviet people were friendly.

Nixon Speech Rebroadcasts Are Planned

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's speech to the Russian people Saturday will be rebroadcast later in the day on radio networks in this country.

The address in Moscow will be about noon, CST, and will be tape-recorded and transmitted here for rebroadcast.

The Columbia Broadcasting System said its radio network will carry the speech at 5:30 p.m. CST.

The National Broadcasting Network said it has formally requested Radio Moscow's permission to transmit the speech live at 1 p.m., CST, and also has scheduled a rebroadcast at 9:30 p.m. CST.

The American Broadcasting Company (ABC), said it is encountering difficulties in obtaining permission for either live transmission or recording of the speech, but will broadcast it if either becomes available.

The Russians earlier this week protested ABC's handling of the earlier television debate between Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Nixon.

$38 Billion Defense Bill Agreed Upon

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees agreed Friday on a compromise $39 billion defense money bill which informed sources said contains funds for 170 to 200 ocean-spanning Atlas ballistic missiles.

Details on costs and numbers of the big missile, now under test at Cape Canaveral, Fla., are tightly guarded secrets. Information on the number planned came from congressional sources familiar with terms of the big appropriations bill.

The committee which worked out a compromise of Senate and House versions also agreed on a direct mandate for more National Guard manpower but stopped short of that in dealing with the Marines and the Army reserve.

The conferees accepted a Senate provision for nearly $100 million more than President Eisenhower asked to raise Marine Corps and Army reserve strength above levels proposed by the Administration.

But the conferees scrapped an accompanying Senate directive and provided merely that the extra cash cannot be spent for any other purpose. Thus the Administration would be free to impound the money, as it has sometimes done in the past with extra funds voted for military manpower.

A mandate on manpower strength was retained in accepting the Senate allotment of an extra $73 million to raise the National Guard by 40,000 men to a total of 400,000.

The Marines drew an extra $73 million to raise strength from the proposed 175,000 to 200,000. The additional allotment to the Army reserve was $54 million to provide a strength of 300,000, up by 30,000.

Industry negotiators have proposed a one-year freeze on wage increases on the grounds it would help hold the line against inflation.

They have offered, however, to raise pension and welfare benefits pay increase next year if the union would agree to compensating economies in operations through changes in plant work rules.

The union has held that this proposal would make it a company-dominated union. Union officials have asked a 15-cent hourly boost in wages and fringe benefits, contending the companies could pay it out of profits and productivity without the necessity of an inflation-spurring rise in steel prices.

Air-Conditioner, Soft Drink Sellers Having Hay Day

Probably the people who are complaining the least loudly about the heat wave which has left Iowa Citizens sweltering the past week are the air-conditioner salesmen and soft drink sellers.

Both have reported a decided increase in sales this week, as residents attempt to escape the heat.

All local soft-drink bottling companies have reported increased demands for their products, with one company manager noting that sales of his product had risen 25 per cent in the past week alone. He said this is not unusual, since the weather is always a deciding factor for sales in his business.

Among the Iowa City restaurants, who also have noted the increased cold drink sales, iced tea is often listed as tops in popularity among the customers.

With the weatherman predicting more hot weather with highs in the 90's. It appears these businesses are in for another busy day.

Geneva Diplomats Suggest Possible U.S. Visit By Nikita

GENEVA (AP) — Allied diplomats early today passed around word that an invitation from President Eisenhower to Premier Nikita Khrushchev to visit the United States is imminent.

The report circulated persistently among delegates to the Big Four conference but was not confirmed by the U.S. delegates.

Some informants suggested that Vice President Richard M. Nixon now winding up his Soviet tour, would formally extend the invitation on behalf of Eisenhower before leaving Moscow this weekend.

Meantime, foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union once again went through a totally barren secret session seeking ways of freezing the Berlin crisis.

With the windup of this Big Four meeting set for Wednesday, an American delegation spokesman told reporters the Allies are plodding on only in what he called a forlorn hope that the Soviets may yet cut their terms for a truce.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and his allies sat with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko for 2½ hours at Gromyko's villa.

Andrew H. Berding, assistant U.S. Secretary of State, reported that their talk on the Berlin crisis went over the same ground as before without any progress.

Soviet officials claimed some slight progress was made, and hinted to newsmen that Gromyko might come up with a new proposal before Wednesday. There was no elaboration.

Nixon Accused Of Being Super-Saleman On Tour

LONDON — The British Labor Party newspaper printed a scathing attack on U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon Friday and accused him of using "salesman's tricks" on the Russians.

"Eisenhower, with all his weakness, would have struck a note of greater sincerity," said Daily Herald columnist Alma Birk. Referring to Nixon's Communist hecklers she said:

2 Color Films To Be Shown Wednesday

Two color films made during actual performances of classical Japanese drama will be presented by Seth P. Ulman in Macbride Auditorium at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Tickets may be obtained for 75 cents at Macbride Auditorium Wednesday evening or at Whetstone's Drug Store Monday through Wednesday.

Ulman spent two years in Japan on a Fulbright grant, gathering material on the Noh theatre. The Noh play to be presented Wednesday is "Izutsu" and the second film is a classical Kyogen dance drama.

The Noh plays are the oldest living form of Japanese drama, practically unchanged since their origin in the late 14th century. Written in prose and verse of high nobility and subtlety, they employ both choral music and dancing. The form is highly stylized.

"Izutsu" concerns a boy and girl who play together as children and who refuse to marry the choices of their parents when they are grown.

Ulman's commentary introduces and explains the setting, costumes and forms and attempts to interpret the meaning and spirit of both Kyogen and Noh.

The program is sponsored by the Department of Speech and Dramatic Art and the Department of Oriental Studies.

"They evidently don't go for super-salesmen. Neither do millions of other Russians. Neither do I."

British leftists have never been too friendly toward Nixon. They generally accuse him of opportunism.

In West Berlin, one of the city's leading newspapers, Tagespiegel, warned that the Russians may be using Nixon for their own ends.

In a frontpage editorial, the paper said Nixon "has given thousands of Soviet citizens ideas which they haven't had for decades."

"Apparently Khrushchev is willing to pay this price in order to develop the idea for an agreement with America to a point where Washington no longer notices to what extent it is being asked to retreat."

Meanwhile, the first editorial comment on the U.S. exhibit in Moscow appeared in the Communist press under the Soviet Union.

The Soviet news agency, Tass, quoted the Moscow correspondent of Rude Pravo, the Czechoslovakian Communist organ: "The American exhibition in Moscow does not show America to be a land of wonders. It shows it to be a land of good workers and engineers, but scarcely the Promised Land."

He added that the exhibit contains nothing to amaze a citizen of a Communist country.

"There is no sense in describing the exhibits, the like of which we can see in Moscow and Prague stores," he wrote. "The only difference is in better and extremely loud packaging."

Sunday Concert Will Highlight New Selection

The concluding program in the summer "Concert in the Park" series will be presented by the Iowa City Community Band at 4 p.m. Sunday in College Hill Park.

The first performance of a new composition, "Blue Impromptu," by Coralville school band director, Joseph Glatty, will be a highlight of Sunday's concert along with the presentation of "Tubby the Tuba," featuring James Hedges as tuba soloist and Larry Barrett as narrator.

Guest conductor LaVerne Wintermyer also has included in the program a Bach chorale and fugue selections from Richard Rodgers' music for the TV series, "Victory at Sea," and several traditional marches.

Wintermyer, formerly orchestra conductor at Iowa City High School, is a student in the SUI College of Music and is director of the men's chorus for Phi Beta Pi, medical fraternity.

Library Displays Iowa History

Iowa history as told by Iowans, is displayed in the lobby of the University Library.

Of special interest in the exhibit are an engineering notebook of General Grenville M. Dodge, who helped to build Iowa's first railroad; a Civil War diary of a young Iowan from Indiana; personal accounts of pioneer life in the Hawkeye state; and a detailed map of people, places and events in Iowa history drawn by Mrs. Louis Pelzer, formerly of Iowa City. All materials are from Special Collections, the University Library.

The exhibit may be seen through September 12.

Foreign Labor Polio Decline In Europe; Leader Dies; Authorities Credit Vaccine Ask Probe

LONDON — A general decline in polio cases was reported across most of Europe Friday and most of the cases reported are mild. Health authorities in many countries credited the Salk vaccine developed in the United States.

Of nine West European countries, only two reported an increase in polio over 1958. France is one of them—with 713 cases registered up to mid-July compared with 689 in the same period a year ago.

West Germany recorded an increase of 124 cases over 1958. Up to the middle of the month 389 people were stricken with the disease compared with 265 a year ago.

French authorities said this summer's severe heat wave could be one cause of the slight increase this year. But they acknowledged it is impossible to pinpoint the reason exactly.

Antipolio inoculations using a French vaccine are available in sufficient quantities and are given free of charge in vaccination centers. But officials complain that many Frenchmen still appear reluctant to have their children inoculated.

Polio in Italy is down sharply from last year, when the rate was the highest in recent years. A new law before Parliament in Rome proposes compulsory vaccination for school children.

British health officials frankly credit the Salk antipolio vaccine with being a major factor in holding down the disease. Up to mid-July 671 cases were reported in Britain, compared to 712 in the same period a year ago. More than four million British children have been inoculated and the polio rate in Britain this year is the lowest in 10 years.

In Denmark all school children have received four shots of the Salk vaccine. A Danish health service officer reported: "There are virtually no polio cases in Denmark this year."

"IT WILL hurt me more than it will hurt you," is what Jackie Clevenger, 8, Richmond, Calif., is assuring his dog, Brownie. But Brownie no doubt had other ideas about that after getting his rabies shot Friday. His master bears the brunt of the emotional impact as he weeps silently for his pet.

Former Student's Story Published In "New Yorker"

A short story by Dean Doner, former SUI student, has been published in the July 25 issue of the New Yorker magazine.

Doner, who studied in the SUI Writer's Workshop and received his Ph.D. in English in 1953, wrote "End of the World" telling of an experience he had as a 10-year-old boy in Brookings, S.D.

In the story, set during the depression, the author recalled seeing many signs posted by religious sects to warn of the coming end of the world. He had always been only slightly interested until one hastily scrawled poster caught his imagination. It started him questioning, not the authenticity of the prediction, but why some people should be so sure of such a thing when his parents and the rest of the town were unconcerned.

The "day of judgement" dawned, passed and the boy saw followers of the sect disappointingly go back to ramshackle homes in a poor area of town.

Confused by this, the boy ends the story, saying, "I suddenly understood two things: The world made no sense at all, and all adults knew this but no one cared."

Doner did his undergraduate work at South Dakota State College in Brookings. He spent five sessions in the SUI Writer's Workshop from the fall of 1946 to the end of the 1948 spring semester.

SUI Hospitals' Lab Studies Heart Disease

By NICK PESCHANG
Staff Writer

The cardiovascular research laboratories at University Hospitals, where studies of the heart and blood vessels are conducted, is an intricately co-ordinated effort to fight one of man's greatest killers, heart disease.

The administrative head of these laboratories, Dr. W. M. Kirkendall, also heads one of the six separate laboratories that make up this section of the hospital. Each of these labs is headed by a faculty member of the Department of Internal Medicine.

Dr. Kirkendall's particular area of research centers in the renal lab where high blood pressure is studied as it relates to kidney disease.

The arteriosclerosis lab, directed by Dr. W. E. Connor, is used in the study of how fats are handled by the body and the factors which affect blood clotting.

Dr. G. N. Bedell heads the pulmonary function lab where research is done on factors which influence breathing disease states. One of many machines used in this lab, a treadmill exerciser, is used to study the distribution of air through the lungs. A gas lab in this same department analyzes the blood for concentration of various gases such as oxygen and carbon dioxide.

This same department has another room where air is filtered and temperature and humidity are controlled for experiments with allergies. Dr. P. M. Seebom, currently studying asthmatic conditions, is head of the allergy section.

One of the machines used in the study of air flow in respiratory passages was designed and built at SUI by Philip Hubbard, research engineer in the Department of Hydraulic Engineering.

The diagnostic lab, directed by Dr. E. O. Thellen, is a dual purpose lab combining both research and service. Used to study congenital heart disease in both children and adults, the lab is of service also in determining whether an individual's condition is suitable for heart surgery.

Dr. Thellen also is in charge of the myocardial metabolism lab where research is being done on the chemical factors which influence heart muscle and blood vessel contraction.

Dr. J. W. Eckstein heads the hemodynamic lab where studies are being conducted in blood flow and pressure, the output of the heart, return of blood to the heart, and the measurement of the volume of blood in the extremities and lungs.

The doctors in charge of these research laboratories not only do research but also teach internal medicine.

The group also teaches methods of research in cardiovascular physiology to post-doctoral students. This is a new program whereby a post-doctoral student can spend time in each section becoming acquainted with the various techniques. This program is not designed for recent graduates, but for those who have had some specialty training.

The labs are also available to undergraduate medical students in the summer and during their spare time during the school year. The cardiovascular section is concerned by the fact that many students enter medicine without understanding the great need for research medicine. This program is designed to stimulate an interest in research in the young medical student.

Another function of this group of doctors is participation in post-graduate conferences for doctors practicing in the state of Iowa. They bring to these doctors the latest advances in the study of heart disease.

Omaha, St. Paul Gas Firms Get 6 State Service Grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha, Neb., Friday received authority from the power commission to begin natural gas service to 342 communities in six midwestern states. The commission imposed a number of conditions.

The commission noted that the extension will cost about $114.6 million to provide natural gas service for the first time in areas in Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Nebraska and Illinois.

Iron Ranges Natural Gas Co., St. Paul, simultaneously received authority, subject to conditions, to build a $7.6 million pipeline system in Minnesota to serve 28 communities and several industrial customers. Iron ranges will be supplied gas by Northern.

The commission's order imposed rate zones — one with a demand charge of $3.81 a thousand cubic feet and a commodity charge of 23.4 cents a thousand; and another with a demand charge of $4.12 and a commodity charge of 23.9 cents.

The commission said the demand charges must be $2.91 and $3.23 and the commodity charges 25.97 and 26.47 cents for the respective zones.

The commission also put conditions into Northern's certificate designed to protect existing customers from bearing part of the costs of the branch line and metering stations necessary to provide the new service.

It said revenues in the third year should be at least sufficient to defray the cost of gas delivered at the town border station, the branch line cost of service, and the cost of service of the measuring stations.

It held that where revenues would not meet such costs, a contribution should be made by the distributors for the branch line construction.

Rockefeller's Girl Friend Seeks Advice

KRISTIANSAND, Norway (AP) — Anne Marie Rasmussen, former Rockefeller housemaid, has asked her pastor's advice about marrying Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's son Steven, the minister said Friday night.

The Rev. Olaf Gautestad added that no definite wedding plans have been made.

The minister of the Soegne Lutheran church, a friend of the Rasmussen family for years, said: "I have been a constant guest in their home for years, and have given them advice and help through the years. It was natural for Anne Marie to ask me for advice about marrying Steven, but no definite marriage plans have been made."

The pastor gave no further details of his talks with the girl. Steven, 23, and the 21-year-old daughter of a local grocer, arrived here last Sunday night after a motorcycle trip from Oslo. Young Rockefeller had flown there to meet the girl after his release from military service.

There have been unconfirmed reports here since that they plan to wed.

Some accounts said the wedding would be in August, others said October.

Defectives Say Dr. Finch Stole Wife's Belongings

WEST COVINA, Calif. (AP) — Defectives said Friday that Dr. Bernard Finch not only took his wife's life but took items from her wardrobe prior to the killing as love offerings to another woman.

In fact, officers said, the mink-trimmed dress comedy Carole Tregoff wore the first day she was questioned about the slaying had been purchased by Mrs. Finch at an exclusive Hollywood shop last fall.

Marie Anne Lidholm, 19, Mrs. Finch's Swedish-born housemaid, identified the garment as that of her employer and added: "Just the day before she died, Mrs. Finch asked me if I had seen the dress."

Miss Lidholm said that Mrs. Finch also told her that other items, including jewelry and perfume, had been taken from the home. Police claim that everything taken subsequently was given by the doctor to Miss Tregoff, 22, also charged with murdering Mrs. Finch.

"Western Influence on Asia" will be the subject of Y. P. Mei, professor of oriental studies, for a talk to be given Aug. 11 at the 28th Couchiching Conference at Geneva Park, Lake Couchiching, Ontario, Canada.

"Changing Asia" is the theme of the conference, which is a joint Institute on Public Affairs and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Mei's talk will be aired by the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

The weeklong conference will open Aug. 8. Mei will also serve as one of two commentators to speak following an address Aug. 13 by Edwin O. Reischauer, American historian who has written a number of books on Asia. Reischauer's topic will be "Sources of Conflict Between East and West."

Philip F. Morgan, professor of sanitary engineering and mayor of Iowa City, has been named the outstanding water industry leader in the Iowa section of the American Water Works Association.

Morgan received the George Warren Fuller, "Man of the Year" award during the meeting of the association in San Francisco last week.

Robert M. Muir, associate professor of botany, has been invited to present a paper at the Fourth International Conference on Plant Growth Regulation, to be held at the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research, Yonkers, N.Y., from Aug. 10 to 14.

Muir will present a joint paper with Dr. C. Hansch of Pomona College, Claremont, Calif., on "Chemical Structure and Growth-Activity of Substituted Benzozic Acids."

Muir and Hansch have been collaborating on a long-term research project for many years.

Ralph H. Ojemann, professor of child welfare, was one of the speakers at the annual Symposium Conference on Creativity and Mental Health being held this week in Syracuse, N.Y.

Ojemann told the delegates, "If schools and universities give more credit to conformity than to originality and new ideas, creativity and mental health will not be compatible."

If being different is not approved in our society, and if new ideas, even those demonstrated as workable, get a person into trouble, such a culture will have difficulty stimulating creativity, Ojemann said.

Lenard O. Rutz, assistant professor of chemical engineering, is taking part in an eight-week Summer Institute on Nuclear Energy at North Carolina State College.

Sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission and the American Society for Engineering Education, the program provides special basic training in the field of nuclear energy and the nature of nuclear reactor programs to engineering teachers.

Educators from throughout the country and Puerto Rico attending the institute have heard lectures by the nation's nuclear experts and have observed the re-activation of a 500-watt nuclear reactor which was moved to a new location. A tour of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory will conclude the institute.

Everett D. Alton, assistant professor of electrical engineering, is attending an eight-week Advanced Specialized Nuclear Studies Institute which is being offered at Argonne National Laboratory, Lemont, Ill.

Attending the institute, which began June 22 and ends August 14, are 19 faculty members from 15 American colleges and universities. It is one of several summer training programs at universities and government laboratories to be offered this year in cooperation with the American Society for Engineering Education.

Major Harold B. Orr, former instructor in Air Force ROTC, has received the Air Force Commendation Medal for meritorious service while on assignment at SUI.

The award was presented July 22 at March Air Force Base, a Strategic Air Command base near Riverside, Calif.

Major Orr is presently assigned to the 15th Air Force directorate of comptroller at March.

Sgt. James W. Hill, U.S. Army ROTC instructor, is attending the 1939 Reserve Officers' Training Corps Summer Camp at Fort Sill, Okla., as cadre personnel for the training of 700 cadets from 20 colleges and universities throughout the nation.

Hill is supervising the artillery training being conducted at the summer camp. The six-week camp is mandatory for college students participating in the military science program, who, upon graduating, will receive commissions as second lieutenants in the U.S. Army Reserve.

The Air Force Commendation Medal has been awarded to M.Sgt. Robert L. Trussell, Albia, for his meritorious service as an education technician with the Air Force ROTC.

M.Sgt. Trussell's personal and professional activities reflect great credit upon himself, the Air University, and the United States Air Force," the citation which accompanied award of the medal stated.

Wednesday was Trussell's last day of duty at SUI. He has been reassigned as an instructor to the Amarillo Air Force Base, Amarillo, Tex.

Judge Sets Aside Race Bias Ruling

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A judge set aside Friday a state board's order requiring sale of a private home in an all-white district to a Negro couple.

Judge James W. Hodson of Superior Court held unconstitutional a 1957-Washington law which prohibited discrimination on racial grounds in sale of government-financed housing.

"A private individual acting in his private capacity is perfectly free to discriminate as he pleases," said the judge.

The State Board Against Discrimination had directed Coast Guard Cmdr. John J. O'Meara to sell his home for $18,000 to a Negro mail carrier.

Morningside Group To Lunch Here Tuesday

Morningside College Alumni will meet in the Iowa Memorial Union Cafeteria Tuesday at 6 p.m. No reservations are necessary.

A. W. Buckingham, former athletic director and present director of public relations at Morningside, will speak to the group.

About 30 SUI staff members and their wives a summer school graduate students are expected to attend the gathering, according to Lester G. Benz, 1925 alumnus of the college.

Spouses of alumni are also invited to the meeting.

A Tinkling Bell Entices Tots

They Eat 'Street Treats'

By JUDY KLEMESRUD
Staff Writer

A tinkling bell is the trademark of one of Iowa City's most recent business ventures — known to sweet-tooth owners as "Street Treats."

The tinkling emanates from the silver bells on the front of three bicycle-powered ice-cream carts, informing refreshment — seeking Iowa Citizens and SU/Iowans that a cool treat is near. Students are especially appreciative of the refreshments between class periods.

Emory L. Kelley, owner of Kelley's Cleaners, is responsible for the venture. He started the "Street Treats" business in Iowa City last year. He now has three carts, manned by high school boys between the ages of 13 and 18.

Business begins each June when high school lets out for the summer, and ends in September when school resumes. The boys have routes, one covering eastern Iowa City, one selling north of Burlington Street, and another covering the area south of Burlington Street.

Three types of ice cream products are available: chocolate-covered ice cream bars, fudge bars and popsicles. Each costs 10 cents. Kelley said that adults favor the ice cream bars while children prefer the popsicles. Children are the most frequent customers, he said.

Selling hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays and from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Sundays. Sales average $30 a day.

One child said she thought that the tinkling sound came from Tinkerbell, the good fairy in "Peter Pan." Many parents often wish this was the case, as a typical parental reaction to the sound is "Not Again!" But their complaints are drowned out by the children's screams of delight. Parents often give in and have a treat.

Irate parents living in the SUI married students' housing areas have succeeded in having the carts banned from there. The ban falls under a law which allows no soliciting on University property. But, according to one SUI father, the bells are still heard from the nearby public streets.

The young vendors can be recognized by their white shirts and slacks. Their outfits and the neatness of their push-carts add a feeling of freshness to a humid Iowa day.

A unique sales technique is used by the boys. They go to one area, jingle the bells and wait — until the prospective customer has time to find a dime. "The boys like to keep moving on the bikes, but if they did, we wouldn't have many sales," said Kelley.

ICE CREAM may not help to rid Iowa City of humidity, but it does provide a cooling effect which is hard to beat. Jerry Maynard, who celebrated his 15th birthday Friday, decides he wants a "Street Treat" himself after he has served (from left) Judy Seavy, A1, Iowa City; Lou Frank, A3, Fort Madison; and Susan Nehring, A1, Hubbard. Four of these push-carts serve Iowa City and SUI from June to September.

One of the vendors recently had sellouts on two consecutive days. The June 22 collapse of the Rock Island railroad bridge over Ralston Creek resulted in many sightseers who were trying to view the railroad repair crane which caused the damage. The day was warm the crowd was large and the "Street Treats" vendor had a field day — twice in a row!

Kelley said that sales are surprisingly low on the warmest days. "People all seem to be in their homes with their air-conditioning and fans," he said. "The best selling days are the milder ones when the kids are out," he added.

Jerry Mellecker, driver for Kelley's Cleaners, manages the distribution of the ice cream. He keeps in touch with the main office by means of a two-way radio system, and co-ordinates vendor activities in this way.

Jerry Maynard, one of the vendors, said he enjoyed the job because he was never hungry. "I make two cents on every treat I sell, so it only costs me eight cents instead of ten, when I'm hungry," he said.

Heat is a summer problem in Iowa City, but dry ice keeps the "Street Treats" in perfect form. One supply daily is all that is needed. Plain ice keeps the boys cool — in the form of ice water.

The bicycle-powered venture has so far outgrossed the less-expensive treats sold from dairy trucks, Kelley said. "The young vendors seem to appeal to both mothers and children," said Kelley. The colorful bears painted on each cart may have something to do with it.

In comparing the ice cream peddling to dry-cleaning, Kelley said: "The Street-Treats business is a lot of fun — as a sideline — and as long as Iowa has hot summers, we will keep selling ice cream."

Nudists Meet At 'Bald Hills'

YELM, Wash. (AP) — A pretty young housewife clad only in her own skin said Friday she "never realized how much people were alike until I became a nudist."

She is one of 700 to 800 badge-wearing delegates at the 28th annual convention of the American Sunbathing Assn. They are meeting at a 104-acre wooded camp in an area aptly named "Bald Hills."

A reporter who interviewed several nudists, including the housewife — he didn't catch her name — confirmed the wearing of badges. These aren't pinned; they dangle from a chain around the neck.

Association President William J. Le Cates of Tampa, Fla., said about 40,000 persons practice social nudism in this country. His organization claims 15,000 members.

"Nudism is a philosophy, not a religion," he said. "We do not worship the sun."

Yanks Snap Kansas City's 11-Game Streak, 11-2

Berra, Lopez, Howard Have Circuit Clouts

Nats Drop 13th In Row To Chisox

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The New York Yankees chopped off Kansas City's winning streak at 11 games Friday night as they cuffed Ned Garver and three other Athletic pitchers for a 11-2 victory.

The Yankees sidetracked the A's in the third inning when Yogi Berra hit his 14th home run and sent Garver to the showers with his tenth defeat. He has won eight. Yogi's clout with Tony Kukek on base and a first inning run driven in by Don Larsen, the Yankees' starting pitcher, gave the New Yorkers a lead they never relinquished.

Elston Howard and Hec Lopez also hit home runs in the 13-hit Yankee barrage.

Manager Casey Stengel, whose charges have been booted into the second division of the American League, pulled Larsen after the fourth inning. Little Bobby Shantz came on and shut out the A's the rest of the way, taking his fifth decision against three losses this year.

BoSox 6, Tigers 5

DETROIT (AP) — Boston pitchers gave the Detroit Tigers 15 walks but the Red Sox hung on for a 6-5 triumph on the hitting of rookie Pumpsie Green and veteran Pete Runnels.

Green collected three hits and scored three of the Red Sox runs. Runnels hit safely four times and drove in one of the Boston scores. Earl Wilson, a young right-hander just called up from Minneapolis, lasted less than four innings in his debut as a major league starter. He did not yield a hit but walked nine batters.

Still the frustrated Tigers did not score a run until Al Kaline and Gail Harris smashed fifth inning home runs off Leo Kiely. They added one more in the seventh when Ted Pepecio homered off Ike Delock and got a final run in the eighth of Delock.

Bell: 3 New Football Loops In The Works

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Three new professional football leagues are in the works, Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League said Friday.

He said the leagues are the proposed American League, backed by Texas oilman Lamar Hunt; the Trans-America League, for which Travis Tidwell, former New York Giants quarterback, is spokesman, and the International League.

Bell said he knew little about any league except the one backed by Hunt to which he referred Tuesday in Washington before a Senate committee.

The International League, Bell said is being proposed by "someone named Corbett from Texas. I think he has something to do with baseball. I've also heard the name Harvey Hester of Miami mentioned."

Bell said he did not know what group Tidwell represented or where or when it planned to locate teams.

The Lamar Hunt group, he said, seems to have the best chance of success. The American League would start with teams in Houston, Denver, Dallas, Minneapolis, Los Angeles and New York. If it was successful franchises might be added in Boston, Buffalo, Louisville, Miami, Seattle and San Francisco.

Aussies Lead Cuba 2-0 In Davis Cup Action

MONTREAL (AP) — Roy Emerson and Neale Fraser crushed Cuba's tennis-playing Garrido brothers in opening singles Friday to send Australia into a 2-0 lead in the American zone Davis Cup finals.

First Emerson toppled Reynaldo Garrido, the younger of the brothers, 6-0, 6-4, 6-4. Then the left-handed Fraser cut down Orlando Garrido 6-1, 7-5, 6-3.

The Australians can clinch the series by winning Saturday's doubles.

Indians 5, Orioles 4

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland came from behind with two runs in the eighth inning, on a bases-loaded walk and Billy Martin's sacrifice fly, for a 5-4 victory Friday night over the Baltimore Orioles.

The second-place Indians, blowing a 3-0 lead, put it away with three consecutive walks by losing reliever Billy Loes after a single by George Strickland, who was forced home with the tying run. Martin's fly ball then gave the Indians their 20th one-run decision over the season. They've lost 14 of the close ones.

The Orioles took a 4-3 lead on an unearned run in the sixth inning. Pitcher Arnold Portocarrero got on base on third baseman Baxes' wild throw. Chico Carrasquel sacrificed him to second, and he scored on Bob Boyd's third single of the game.

Winning pitcher Jim Perry fanned six in blanking the Orioles through the first four innings and he got another strikeout in the fifth after Carrasquel and Boyd singled. Then Gene Woodling singled Carrasquel home, Gus Triandinos' single scored Boyd, and Willie Tasby brought Woodling around with a sacrifice fly, knotting the score at 3-3.

ChiSox 7, Senators 1

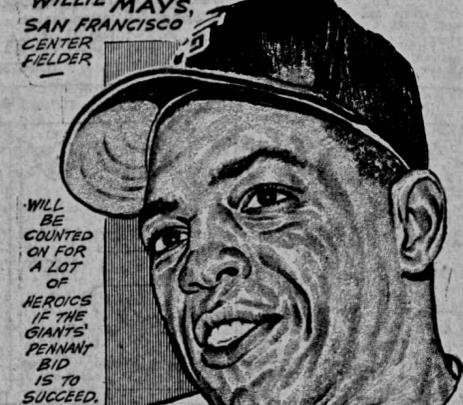

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox parlayed nine hits and four Washington errors into a 7-1 victory Sunday night behind the four-hit pitching of young Barry Latman.

The triumph enabled the Sox to maintain their one-game American League lead over the Cleveland Indians who edged Baltimore 5-4. Latman, a 23-year-old right-hander who was pressed in service because of Dick Donovan's ailing shoulder, held the Senators hitless through the first three innings while the Sox amassed a 6-0 lead on three-run clusters in the second and third innings.

In dealing the Senators their 13th successive loss, Latman struck out 11 and walked three to even his record at 4-4. Pedro Ramos, the victim of some shoddy Washington fielding, suffered his 13th defeat against 10 victories. Three of Chicago's first six runs were unearned.

Barber Fires 65 For 2-Stroke Lead Over Souchak In PGA

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jerry Barber, one of the smallest players in pro golf, put together an amazing birdie string at the Sun-drenched Minneapolis Country Club Friday and snatched the halfway lead in the PGA championship from Mike Souchak, one of golf's giants.

The 43-year-old Los Angeles veteran shot a second round of 65, five under par for the 6,850-yard Minneapolis course and two under Souchak's 67. They each shot 69s on the first round to share in a nine-way tie for the lead.

Thus after 36 holes it was Barber 69-65-134 and Souchak 69-67-136.

When Souchak finished his round Barber had just passed the 9-hole turn in 30, five under par. A large part of the crowd of more than 10,000 took off when Mike's final putt dropped to see if Jerry could overhaul him. And Barber gave the fans a show.

He bogied the 10th and 12th holes to slip back even with Souchak, then got those two strokes back with birdies at the 14th and 15th. From there on Barber had it made. He parred the rest of the way in and added a final flourish when he barely missed an eight foot putt for a birdie on the 18th.

Nearest to the two leaders as the clustered PGA field began to spread out were Doug Sanders, a broad shouldered young golfer from Miami Beach, whose 66 was almost obscured by Barber's feats; the defending champion, Dow Finsterwald, and former amateur champion Gene Littler.

Sanders' round second best of the tournament, moved him into third place at 138, a stroke below Finsterwald, who posted a 68 for 139 early in the day but couldn't hold the lead. Littler came in shortly after with 69-70-139.

At 140 were Bill Casper Jr., the 1959 National Open champion; Gary Middlecoff, twice winner of the Open, and the 1957 PGA champion, Lionel Herbert. Barber's bid for the lead provided an exciting climax for a long day of good golf on the Minneapolis course, seared by a bright sun and 91-degree heat.

Mathews Gets Easy Decision In TV Match

NEW YORK (AP) — Len Mathews chased a retreating Candy McFarland and finally dropped him in the last round Friday night for a unanimous decision in 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden.

Mathews weighed 135, McFarland 135½. Mathews got on target in the seventh round and bombed Candy around the ring, knocking out his mouthpiece in the final seconds. Candy was backed against the ropes when the bell rang.

A solid left hook touched off a stream of 12 punches in the eighth, it was more of the same with Mathews shaking off a pair of rights by Candy to land a solid right hand. Once again at the bell it was Mathews slamming away with both hands while McFarland sagged against the ropes.

In the 10th round Mathews dropped McFarland with a left hook to the head. He was up at two but had to take an automatic eight-count from referee Al Berl.

During the early stages McFarland showed some dazzling footwork but his motor seemed to have stuck in reverse. He would back off, feint Mathews into openings and then fail to throw the punch.

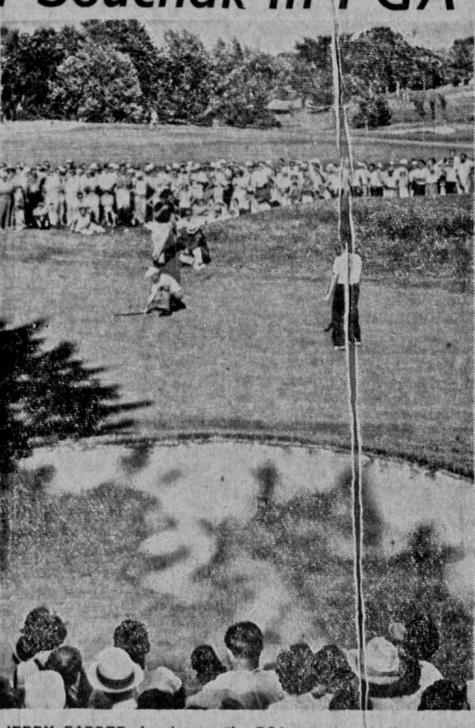

Judge Artie Aidala scored 9-1, judge Joe Eppy 8-2 and referee Berl 6-3-1, all for Mathews. The AP card was 9-1.

Kefauver Warns Against Hindering 3rd Loop Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) cautioned baseball moguls Friday their efforts to help or hinder the proposed third major league will be watched closely by Congress.

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate Monopoly subcommittee, aimed his remarks squarely at Warren Giles and Joe Cronin, presidents respectively of the National and American Leagues, and George Weiss, the New York Yankees general manager.

The Senator said he had read news accounts of what he called some "rather discouraging statements" attributed to all three. "I hope these gentlemen will have a change of heart," Kefauver said.

Rule Paces Spenser Golf Qualifiers, With 137 Total

SPENCER (AP) — Iowa Amateur champion Jack Rule of Waterloo, made a strong bid for medal honors in the Northwest Iowa golf tournament Friday when he finished his 36-hole qualifying test with a seven-under-par 137.

The State University of Iowa sharpshooter added a four-under 68 to his 69 on the opening day Thursday and at this stage of the four-day scramble for places in the championship field he led the pack.

However, he still had to hear from defending champ Bob Leahy of Denison, who was scheduled to shoot his 36 holes during the two remaining days, today and Sunday. The low 32 men will compete for the Northwest Amateur title Monday.

Rule moved two strokes ahead of Ted Trammel of Des Moines, who had tied him on opening day with a 69 at the Spencer Golf and Country Club. Trammel shot a 70 Friday.

But young Ralph Compiano of Des Moines closed in with a 68 and tied with Trammel for second place at their halfway mark with 139 totals.

Other golfers in contention after 36 holes are Todd Tischer, Fort Dodge-141; Dr. James Van Antwert, Atlantic, 142; Jack Norman, Spirit Lake-145 and Mike Dull of LeMars and SUI 145.

Upwards of 250 golfers had been expected for the tournament and only about half had completed their 36 holes Friday, so the nine-hole course will be crowded during the remaining qualifying days.

Jack Morrow of Emmetsburg was the only one of the new starters to break par Friday. He shot a one-under 71.

More Problems For Rosensohn As Kahn Moves In As Partner

NEW YORK (AP) — In an atmosphere steeped in bitterness and plainly showing the dissension between the two stockholders, Irving Kahn was announced as the third member of the Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc.

Bill Rosensohn, president, holds one-third of the stock in the organization which promoted the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson world champion heavyweight fight, and ostensibly will promote the return match.

Vincent J. Vellela, secretary and treasurer, owns two-thirds of the stock, and thus has a controlling voting interest. It was his vote that elected Kahn, president of TelePromTee, which had the ancillary rights to the first fight, and now has them for the second, tentatively scheduled for Sept. 22 at Yankee Stadium.

Rosensohn was asked if he had not said he would control the ancillary rights for the second fight himself.

"As recently as last week I said that," he said.

"Does that mean you have changed your mind, or someone changed it for you?"

"I will not comment on that," the so-called boy promoter said tersely.

Vellela was seated in Rosensohn's chair behind the big desk in the Rosensohn Enterprises offices when Rosensohn entered the press conference.

"Vince, would you mind getting out of my chair," Rosensohn said coldly. Vellela moved.

Further friction was noted when someone asked Vellela if his recent trip to Sweden concerned TelePromTee arrangements for the return fight. Vellela said he made the trip only on business of the Rosensohn Enterprises.

"Did the other stockholders know you were making the trip?" he was asked.

"I don't know whether he did or not?"

"The other stockholder did not know," Rosensohn interjected.

Vellela, in New York attorney, said he had been the majority stockholder in the enterprises since January of this year.

Veck Helps ChiSox Pass '58 Gate Mark

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, who have held or shared first place seven times since the American League race started, have topped their entire 1958 home attendance by more than 12,000 admissions.

The box office prosperity proves, as it always does that nothing succeeds like success, but there also is the business magic of Bill Veck to consider.

When the White Sox Thursday polished off the New York Yankees for the 10th time in 17 tries, an amazing weekday matinee crowd of 30,858 was on hand to boost Chicago's home attendance to 809,848 for 45 Comiskey Park dates. This latest Yankee series, including Tuesday and Wednesday night games, attracted 118,286.

Last season, the second-finishing White Sox drew only 797,451 for the 69 dates. That is exactly 12,397 behind this year to date.

New Sox President Veck, whose 1948 Cleveland club still holds the league's all-time attendance high of 2,620,627, has pulled all of his usual circus stunts and spruced up the Comiskey Park plant.

However, Veck is the first to admit that all his efforts are "merely window dressing" to the main show put on by the pace-setting White Sox.

"There is no substitute for Mr. Aparicio and Mr. Fox, which is to say there is no substitute for winning," said Veck, who, among other things has had "spacemen" midgets descend on the pitching mound and generally dolled up the ball park.
