Ike Asks Nikita For Positive Ideas

Ike's Veto String Snapped; Public Works Bill Passes

House OKs President's Housing Bill

Bond Ceiling Raised By Representatives

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress unbroken President Eisenhower's veto string Thursday to give Democrats a resounding late-victory.

With heavy Democratic majorities in control, the House and Senate overrode Eisenhower's veto of a second pork barrel public works money bill — the first time they've been able to enact legislation over a veto in the more than 6½ years of his presidency.

At the same time, the House completed congressional passage of a third-round housing bill shaped to meet most of the objections that caused Eisenhower to reject two earlier bills in this field. Both those vetoes stood up. The President is virtually certain to sign this third-round bill.

Even with Thursday's setback, Eisenhower had an impressive, 14-1 veto score over Congress, which has been dominated by the opposition Democratic party for all but two of his years in the White House.

The House acted first on the public works bill by a 280-121 roll-call vote — 12 votes more than the two-thirds majority required to override.

The result was greeted in the House by an exuberant burst of cheering from the Democrats and silence from the Republican side.

Less than two hours later, the Senate completed the overriding action by a 73-23 vote, or eight more than two-thirds.

Unlike the House, there was no applause or other demonstration in the Senate.

Only last week, the House — by a single vote — upheld Eisenhower's veto of an earlier public works bill carrying funds for hundreds of navigation, flood control, reclamation and other projects all over the nation.

The bill passed over Eisenhower's veto totals almost $1.2 billion — about 30 million dollars less than the earlier version. But it retains 67 new projects Eisenhower opposed — the same 67 projects which moved him to reject the previous bill on grounds it would open the way to massive spending in future years.

The compromise, less expensive than two earlier measures Eisenhower rejected, furnishes authority for a variety of government housing programs. A key section gives the Federal Housing Administration another $8 billion in authority to insure home mortgage loans.

One important piece of business yet to be disposed of by Congress is a bill to allow a higher interest rate on series E and H savings bonds.

The House passed a bill which would allow the Treasury to lift the current 3½ per cent ceiling on these bonds to whatever rate it wishes.

The Senate version of the bill would fix a ceiling of 4½ per cent, but would allow the Treasury to use a lower rate. The Eisenhower Administration opposes the Senate proposal.

Perhaps the biggest job ahead of Congress is the foreign aid money bill, due to come up in the Senate on Saturday.

This likely will carry Congress over at least through Monday, and possibly longer.

A big question is whether Southerners will stage an extended fight over a rider to that bill. That rider would extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission for two years beyond Nov. 9.

Wants Peaceful Settlement With China, But—

Can't Be Bullied, Says Nehru

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru said Thursday Red China can't push India around in their frontier dispute, but "I will always try to find a way to a peaceful settlement."

Against the backdrop of a bristling exchange of charges of aggression which the Soviet Union has urged the two to settle peacefully, the Indian leader offered one concession to the Peiping government of Premier Chou En-lai.

Nehru said he is prepared to agree to make Longju a no man's land — cleared of the forces of both sides — until its position is clarified by negotiation.

"It sometimes seems as if China is acting like some 19th century nation in their pride and arrogance, ignoring the rest of the world," Nehru said. "They value India's friendship only at a very low estate in the final analysis. We value theirs and will continue to value it."

Parliament members cheered when Nehru declared India will maintain a "nonaligned foreign policy" in East-West affairs, regardless of the Chinese attitude.

White Only Private Schools Open In A Virginia County

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Private schools for white students were opened Thursday in a Virginia county with no provision made for educating 1,700 Negroes.

The answer in Prince Edward County to the U.S. Supreme Court ban on school segregation was termed the most serious development so far in the integration controversy by Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of welfare.

In Tennessee, the first Negro students in the history of Memphis State University were registered in a surprise action five days ahead of registration of 4,000 white students. Dean R. M. Robinson advised the three boys and five girls to stay off the campus until classes open Sept. 18.

Efforts to enter a Negro girl in the fourth grade of the Oliver J. Semmes School in Pensacola, Fla., were rejected by the county school board. The board declined to reassign the child from a Negro school, saying the reason for the request was insufficient.

Prince Edward County is the first in the nation to abolish public education. Eight schools set up by the Prince Edward County School Foundation will provide for about 1,100 white students.

Convocation ceremonies for 400-500 high school students were held Thursday in a theatre in Farmville. The current school term began with half-day sessions in churches, lodge halls and other private buildings.

The foundation was reported by E. Louis Dahl, treasurer to have $100,000 on hand with pledges of over $200,000 more received from Virginia, Massachusetts, California, Texas and New York.

As Prince Edward County opened its white-only school system, a federal judge in Roanoke ordered 15 Negroes admitted to white schools in Floyd County and the city of Galax beginning in February. This will mark the first integration of schools in southwest Virginia.

Only a Labor government, he claimed, could guarantee that newly developed opportunities to end East-West tension would be fully exploited.

Delaware's gradual integration program — mixing the races a grade each year for 12 years — proceeded smoothly Thursday.

The action came after a threatened small-nation attack on the proposal was averted by intense diplomatic efforts behind the scenes. The vote brought to an unexpected close a meeting of the 82-nation disarmament commission. It had been expected to last two or perhaps three days.

The resolution which won the solid support of the commission was sponsored by seven nations.

It welcomed the decision of the United States, the Soviet Union,

Britain and France to set up a new committee for the next round of arms talks, but declared the primary responsibility for disarmament rested with the U.N.

Original reports of the Big Four last month touched off widespread criticism. Many countries felt that the new committee lacked proper links with the U.N. and failed to provide adequate geographic representation.

Ike Discusses Khrushchev Visit

Contract Talks Break Down Between Meat Packers, Swift

CHICAGO (AP) — Contract negotiations between Swift & Co. and two Packinghouse unions broke down Thursday night when the company rejected the unions' counter-proposal for an agreement to end a week-old strike.

The unions said they would try to determine immediately whether the company's reply provided grounds for a charge of refusal to bargain.

Meanwhile, the union meat cutter and butcher workers announced they have directed 1,000 workers in 25 Swift branch houses to join the 17,000 packing plant workers who have been on strike across the nation since Sept. 4.

Commissioner William G. Murray of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service started to

Bond Pledged In Little Rock Bomb Arrest

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Three Little Rock residents pledged $200,000 in property Thursday as bond for a segregationist leader charged in connection with Labor Day bombings here.

E. A. Lauderdale, 48-year-old lumber dealer and director of the segregationist Capital Citizens Council, had been held under $50,000 bond since his arrest Wednesday night.

J. D. Sims, 35-year-old truck driver also charged in the bombings, remained in jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Both men were scheduled for arraignment in Municipal Court Thursday but the cases were passed until Monday at the request of Prosecutor J. Frank Holt. Judge Quinn Glover refused to reduce the bonds which originally were set by Holt.

Property pledges for Lauderdale's bond were made by Franklin P. Sipes $100,000; R. A. Cox $50,000, and G. C. Evans Sr. $50,000. Pledges totaling $100,000 would have been ample under a requirement that property bonds be double the amount of cash bond.

Lauderdale and Sims are charged with destroying property by explosives.

Three bombs exploded Monday night, damaging the Little Rock School Board building, the business office of Mayor Werner C. Knoop and a station wagon of Fire Chief Gann Nalley. No one was hurt.

The branch houses are located in 21 cities throughout the nation.

A union spokesman said the additional workers were called out on strike because Swift "has rejected" the union's proposal to bring the branch houses under the Swift master agreement.

Officers declined to comment on Pascoe's report. They also refused to say specifically whether the explosion was intentional, but repeated earlier statements that the shot was completely successful.

The unions asserted in a joint statement that Russia's Premier Nikita Khrushchev may have to cross a picket line if he visits the Swift plant at Des Moines, where 100 UPWA employees are on strike.

The statement said the strike was a result of "Swift's dictatorial anti-labor policies."

After House Veto Vote

Democratic leaders in the House got together outside the chamber Thursday after spearheading a successful drive to override President Eisenhower's veto of the second try Public Works Appropriations Bill. Left to right: Rep. John McCormack (D-Mass.), House floor leader; House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.); and Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.), Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. Similar Senate action followed the House vote as Congress overrode a White House veto for the first time in six years and eight months.

Says Talks With 'K' Could Lead To Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Thursday night called on Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to bring constructive suggestions for settling East-West problems with him on his trip to the United States next week.

The President told a nationwide television-radio audience that serious exploratory efforts in his Washington talks with Khrushchev could lead to a Big Four summit conference.

Sincere preliminary efforts, Eisenhower said, "may reveal new opportunities for practical progress toward removal of some of the causes of world tensions."

If the Soviet leader comes to the United States with constructive ideas and suggestions, that could provide the basis for later responsible negotiation on the issues, Eisenhower said.

The chief executive said his talks with Khrushchev will not include any negotiation concerning subjects that relate directly to Allied or other free world interests.

The President sounded a new appeal — against the background of criticism in some quarters of his invitation to Khrushchev — that the American public receive the Kremlin chief courteously.

The President said that if Khrushchev's visit brings him some real appreciation of the American spirit and principles, "then indeed the venture would be a thousandfold worthwhile."

From his standpoint, Eisenhower pledged that "no principle or fundamental interest will be placed upon an auction block" at the conferences.

Eisenhower spoke from his White House office. He was seated at his big desk, which was covered with maroon felt for the broadcast. Despite the heat from camera lights, the President wore a vest with his oxford gray suit.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, commended Eisenhower for "a very conservative and sensible speech."

"I don't expect great results from the President's talks with Premier Khrushchev," Fulbright told a reporter. "But I hope it is the beginning of a series of meetings that will lead to better understanding. No one should expect great solutions from these talks."

As for the possibility of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks leading to an East-West summit meeting, the President asserted that any agreement regarding such a session "must be based upon the certainty that our status and rights be respected."

Eisenhower said further: "In addition, we believe there must be some clear Soviet indication, no matter how given, that serious negotiation will bring about real promise of reducing the causes of world tensions."

As for his Washington talks with Khrushchev starting next Tuesday, the President said: "It is my profound hope that some real progress will be forthcoming, even though no one would be so bold as to predict such an outcome."

Eisenhower called on Khrushchev to come up with constructive ideas and suggestions. He said such "could provide the basis for responsible negotiation on the issues that divide us," and that the United States would "welcome the opportunity to study them with our allies."

A good part of Eisenhower's 15-minute talk was a report to the American people on the 13-day visit to Europe he completed last Monday.

He conferred abroad with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, French President Charles de Gaulle and other Western leaders.

"With them," Eisenhower said, "we reaffirmed our unity on fundamental issues and in support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

The President also voiced an appeal for courteous treatment of the Kremlin leader.

The President said he has every confidence that the American people will greet Khrushchev and his wife and family with traditional American courtesy and dignity.

Hostages Held, Plans Made, But Would-Be Robbers Goofed

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — A pair of would-be bank robbers held two families hostage all Wednesday night and failed in their ambitious plan for holding up a bank because they just couldn't seem to do anything right.

They started out by firing a shot accidentally as they took over the home of a bank official, then let three teen-age guests go home, and finally threw in the sponge when they found their getaway car, parked several blocks away, was missing.

The car had been towed in for safe keeping by police who found a bottle of gin in the seat and the key in the ignition.

The foray ended with one would-be robber driving off Thursday in his intended victim's car and the other asking his unwilling hosts to call the police.

The man who surrendered said he was Clifford William Le Gate, 41, Raytown, Mo., and that this was his first attempt at crime. He identified his fleeing companion as Al Jones, 22, alias Chuck Jones, a hitchhiker he had picked up nine days ago.

First, they entered the home of Rex Carter, vice president of the Bank of Carthage, and threatened him and his family. Three high school companions of Connie Carter, 15, were sent home with orders not to disclose what had happened. They complied.

While one of the men stood guard, the other took Carter to the home of Mills Anderson, president of the bank. Anderson and his wife were then brought at gunpoint to the Carter home.

Here all five of the hostages were herded into a bedroom.

Derailment Blocks Burlington Main Track In Colorado

BRUSH, Colo. (AP) — Workmen continued Thursday the huge task of clearing the Burlington main tracks near here after 27 freight cars were derailed Wednesday. The job may take three days.

Liquid nitrogen leaked from one of the cars. Railroad officials said the nitrogen, kept at a temperature far below zero, might freeze anything which touched it.

Another derailed car was believed to contain oxygen cylinders which might explode if they became overheated. But mild temperatures minimized this possibility.

The nitrogen-filled car was only 50 yards from the Brush Community Hospital and the Ebenezer Home for the Aged. A clump of trees kept it from crashing into the hospital.

Burlington passenger trains were rerouted.

Predict New Record Corn Crop For 1959

DES MOINES (Ia) — Iowa's ripening 1959 corn crop, reacting favorably to benevolent weather conditions, was estimated Thursday at a whopping 814,653,000 bushels — by far the biggest in history.

The Iowa Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in making the estimate observed:

"The prospective corn production is so large that it exceeds by 20 per cent, or about 138 million bushels, the previous record of 677,056,000 bushels produced in 1948."

The estimate, based on conditions as of Sept. 1, was more than 60 million bushels above the prediction made a month earlier.

If the crop fulfills expectations, it would exceed last year's harvest of 669,279,000 bushels by 145 million bushels, or about 22 per cent.

"Total supplies of forage and grain feed should exceed the excellent record established in 1958," the reporting service said. "The record volume of corn is more than enough to offset decreased production of other crops."

Indications are that the Iowa crop will be bigger in every way than in previous years — in total production, yield per acre and acreage harvested.

The reporting service placed the prospective yield per acre at 67 bushels — well above last year's record of 65.5 bushels. The estimate was 5 bushels per acre above the yield indicated by Aug. 1 conditions.

Iowa has more acres of corn for harvest — 12,159,000 — than ever before. The state's farmers had only 10,218,000 acres in corn last year.

The 814 million bushel production would be 248 million bushels, or 44 per cent, above the average for the 1948-57 ten-year period.

The reporting service said the condition of the corn crop improved during the past month in all but the west central section of the state, where dry weather delayed prospects.

Despite a late start because of wet spring weather, the crop now is ahead of both last year and the normal year in development. Crop observers estimate between 90 and 95 per cent of the crop will be safe from frost by Oct. 1.

The reporting service estimated the soybean production in Iowa at 62,884,000 bushels — third largest of record. It is 20 per cent less than the all-time high of 78,668,000 bushels harvested last year, but 42 per cent more than the ten-year average of 44,343,000 bushels.

The estimated yield of 25.5 bushels per acre equals the second largest in history of 25.5 bushels produced last year, and is well above the ten-year average of 22.8 bushels per acre.

Grain sorghum acreage in Iowa is down sharply this year, but the yield is estimated at 57 bushels to the acre, the highest of record. The reporting service said the indicated harvest is 3,648,000 bushels — about a fourth of the 13,090,000 bushels produced last year, but still more than double the 1948-57 average of 1,759,000 bushels per year.

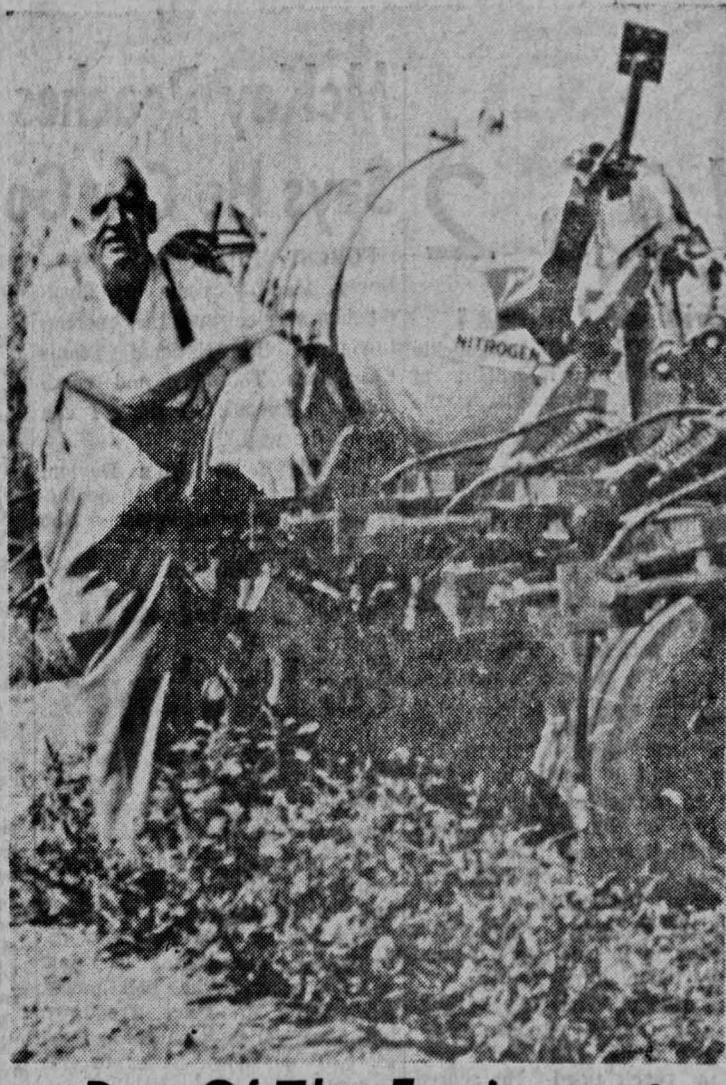

Iowa Print Group To Show Works In Latin America

An exhibition of works by the Iowa Print Group prepared for a two-year tour of Latin American countries will be displayed today through Sunday at the Albright Art Gallery in Buffalo, N.Y.

Intaglio prints chosen for the tour include 33 by Mauricio Lasansky, SUI professor of art and founder of the Iowa Print Group, and 44 by 37 artist-teachers who received their instruction under Lasansky at SUI. Two plates made by Lasansky also are included in the exhibit.

The tour is under sponsorship of the United States Information Agency (USIA), working in cooperation with the State Department's cultural program abroad. The USIA made a grant of money to the Albright Art Gallery, Buffalo, for preparation of the exhibition and asked William Friedman, visiting curator at the gallery, to organize the show.

Most of the prints for the show were taken from the collection of SUI, though some were loaned by the artists themselves. An illustrated catalogue with text in Spanish, Portuguese and English will accompany the exhibition on its tour of Latin America.

$55,000 In Scholarships, Grants At SUI Since May

Scholarships and fellowship grants for SUI students totaling more than $55,000 have been accepted by SUI since last May. This sum will provide scholarships or fellowships for some 100 students. The gifts came from a variety of organizations and individuals, and many of the scholarships have already been awarded to students for the coming academic year, reported Helen Reich, SUI scholarship chairman.

In many cases, recipients were chosen by donors. Others were selected by the University. This sum is only a part of the total for scholarships to worthy students for the coming year, as many grants for 1959-60 had been allotted earlier.

In addition to grants for scholarships and fellowships, $51,400 has been awarded for traineeships to be used by graduate students.

The Office of Vocational Rehabilitation of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare granted $39,000 for traineeships which will prepare rehabilitation counselors during the coming academic year. Traineeships in speech pathology and audiology were made available by grant of $12,400 from the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation.

The largest fellowship grant received during the period was $11,505 a total grant of $38,350 from the National Science Foundation to set up a program of cooperative graduate fellowships in scientific fields.

Among the larger scholarship grants was a $2,875 gift from the Alcos Foundation; $1,200 from the Iowa Centennial Memorial Foundation; more than $4,800 from the Old Gold Development Fund; $2,660 from the Ethyl Corporation; $5,785 from Union Carbide Corporation; $3,500 from Proctor and Gamble; $7,500 from the Smith, Kline and French Foundation; $1,200 from the Henry H. Arnold Education Fund and $1,000 from the American Legion Auxiliary.

Though the amount available at SUI for student aid is growing, there are many more worthy applicants than there are awards available, said Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and chairman of the University committee on scholarships, student aids and awards.

New Farm Hazard; 'Silo Filler's Disease,' Subject Of Talks Here

Silo-filler's disease, an ailment first recognized in man only a few years ago, was described in detail Thursday for doctors, veterinarians and public health officials attending a postgraduate course at the SUI College of Medicine.

The disease is caused by inhalation of nitrogen fumes which are produced in recently-filled silos and which attack the victim's lungs.

Dr. Richard D. Eckhardt, chief of the medical service at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Iowa City and clinical associate professor of internal medicine at SUI, said nine human cases of the disease have been reported since the ailment was first identified in man, and four of the patients have died.

Dr. Eckhardt reported on the disease in 1957 before the annual meeting of the Iowa State Medical Society. In his talk at SUI, he brought the audience up to date on recent findings concerning the disease.

Dr. William S. Monlux from the Department of Pathology in the College of Veterinary Medicine at Iowa State University, Ames, said the disease is "very prevalent" in cattle. Most of the animals affected are one- or two-year-old feeder cattle, and most of the cases occur during the summer and fall months, particularly following a drought.

Dr. Monlux said the disease in animals takes a number of different forms. Some forms appear in cattle, others in horses and swine and others in sheep. The lungs of the animals are affected in all forms of the ailment, which is usually observed in animals that have been on full feed for a considerable period of time, he added.

Dr. Monlux said the exact manner by which the animals contract the disease is not known.

Dr. Eckhardt described without identification the one reported case of silo-filler's disease in man in Iowa. The patient had become acutely ill temporarily while climbing the chute of a silo recently filled with alfalfa hay. About two weeks later, the patient was critically ill for several days and then began to improve.

"Chest X-rays only slowly returned to normal appearance by three months after the onset of the illness," Dr. Eckhardt said.

The course is the first in the 1959-60 series of annual programs conducted at SUI to help Iowa physicians remain informed about the condition of the corn crop improved during the past month in all but the west central section of the state, where dry weather delayed prospects.

In many cases, recipients were chosen by donors. Others were selected by the University. This sum is only a part of the total for scholarships to worthy students for the coming year, as many grants for 1959-60 had been allotted earlier.

Recommend Indictment Of Perry Officials

new findings and new techniques in the field of medicine.

Other SUIowans on the Thursday program were Doctors I. H. Borts, W. J. Hauser, Richard Tjalmal, R. G. Carney, W. B. Bean, and Ian Smith.

Speakers for the conference banquet will be Dr. I. A. Merchant, dean of veterinary medicine at Iowa State University, and Dr. Norman B. Nelson, dean of the SUI College of Medicine.

The two are Jerome P. Hanson and Herbert Sweeney.

Erbe, who met with Perry city officials at the Statehouse Thursday, said he was recommending the action on the basis of a 1958 state auditor's report which showed the City Council at that time had overspent the budget by about $25,000.

Mayor Lucien Doran and two other city councilmen resigned several days ago under pressure from a citizens group at Perry.

The group had demanded Erbe institute ouster proceedings against the entire council and Doran, who is an uncle of Erbe's wife.

The other two councilmen who resigned with Doran are Herb O. Taylor and Dr. Charles McCauley.

Erbe said since Doran, Taylor, and McCauley have resigned, there is no reason for the Dallas County grand jury to start ouster action against them.

Hanson was the only member of the old council who was present at Thursday's meeting with Erbe. Sweeney reportedly was in Arkansas attending a Shrine convention.

Erbe said overspending a city budget, as the Perry City Council did in 1958, is a misdemeanor and under Iowa law constitutes grounds for removal from office.

"There is a right way and a wrong way to administer city funds," Erbe said. "I have no choice about submitting this to the grand jury. We must follow the law."

Aaron's 200th Hit Beats Cards 7-4

Braves Cut Frisco Lead To 2

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee's surging Braves gained ground in the National League race Thursday as they extended their winning streak to five games by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals 7-4 on a seventh-inning outburst featured by Hank Aaron's 200th hit of the season—a three-run double.

Aaron, who contributed a single in a two-run first inning, cracked his decisive blow after the Cardinals scored three times in the top of the seventh to take a 4-3 lead.

Relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel walked three straight after getting the first batter in the inning to set the stage for Hammin' Hank, the major league batting leader with a .357 mark.

Aaron ran the count to two strikes and a ball, fouled off several pitches, then rapped a sharp liner that split the St. Louis outfielders in left center.

Hank continued to third on a bad throw to the infield and scored a few moments later as Johnny Logan came through with his third single.

Pirates 5, Giants 3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pittsburgh exploded with four seventh inning runs Thursday, beat San Francisco 5-3, gave Vern Law his 16th pitching victory and cut the Giants' National League lead to two games.

Until then, the Giants led 3-1 behind Johnny Antonelli on two solo homers by Willie Mays and another by Willie Kirkland.

Antonelli failed in his bid to become the first major league hurler to win 20 games this season as the Pirates collected five hits, two walks and third baseman Danny O'Connell came up with a costly error in the seventh.

Mays was playing with an injured little finger on his right hand. He jammed the knuckle in Cincinnati Aug. 7 and said it pains him but he doubts it's broken.

Although San Francisco collected 11 hits off the right-handed Law, who has lost nine times, he kept them spaced and the Pirates played errorless ball. The final threat by the Giants, when Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda led off the eighth with singles, ended with a double play.

Reds 10-3, Cubs 4-6

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs kayoed rookie southpaw Jim Bailey during a three-run eighth inning and defeated Cincinnati 6-3 after the Reds rolled up a 10-4 triumph in the opener of Thursday's doubleheader.

It was the 24-year-old Bailey's first major league start. His brother Ed did the catching.

Jim yielded 11 hits, walked five and fanned four going seven and two-thirds innings.

After Tony Taylor singled and gave Chicago a 3-2 lead in the fifth, George Altman unloaded a blowout.

In limited space, it is impossible to name all the standout SEC players. But I have received particularly impressive reports on Auburn's guard Zeke Smith and center Jackie Burkett; LSU's center Max Fugler as well as Cannon, Robinson and Rabb; Mississippi's guard Marvin Terrell and quarterback Maxie Baughan and halfback Floyd Faust; Tennessee's tackle Joe Schaffer; Kentucky's halfback Calvin Bird; Vandy's halfback Tom Moore, and Alabama's guard Don Cochran.

Among the Deep South independents, Miami hopes to build a better record around quarterback Frank Curci. But Andy Gustafson, my old friend and fellow coach at Dartmouth and Army, is over-scheduled with LSU, Navy, Auburn, Kentucky, North and South Carolina, Michigan State and Florida among others. Florida State, with its fine, pony-sized fullback, Fred Pickard, will play good football. So will undefeated 1958 power, Mississippi Southern, ambitious, colorful and hard-hitting.

There is no section of football which reminds me as sharply as the South of Shakespeare's lines from King Henry IV: "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

REGGIE HIGH School opens its second season Sunday afternoon against Columbus of Waterloo. Game time for the Regals, coached by Herman Miskowicz, is 2:00 p.m., with the game being played on the Iowa City High School field.

City High doesn't get into the act until next week, travelling to Davenport Sept. 18.

LSU and Auburn can be just as though on defense this year, and Ole Miss tougher. Basically, this is why I rate them the teams to beat. But they may find resistance tougher not only from Alabama but from Florida and Georgia. The Gators gave up just under 10 points average an SEC game last year, the Bulldogs just over 10, an they conceivably could do better than that. Vanderbilt should not be as strong defensively this year but Mississippi State could be strong.

I'm certain Tennessee and Georgia Tech, which averaged 11 and 10 points — against in '58, will be tougher to score on. From these two schools, through Gen.

Craig's shutout extended the Dodger pitching staff's string of scoreless innings to 23. The big right-hander had made 10 incomplete starts against the Phillies before Thursday night and hadn't finished a game against them since 1956.

It was Kansas City's 13th straight defeat.

Leadoff man Russ Snyder got the bad-hop single in the first inning, and then Terry retired 22 men in order until Ken Hadley reached first on a passed ball after striking out. The A's got to Terry for three straight singles with one down in the ninth, but a double play erased the threat.

Mantle started his batting rampage with his 25th home run of the season in the first inning. He then followed with a single, double and two more singles before flying out to Snyder in the eighth.

BOSTON (AP) — Boston called on the one-two punch of Pete Runnels and Gene Stephens Thursday for a 7-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Stephens' two-run double to the centerfield flag pole in the first inning and Runnels' looping single for two more in the second chased Tiger starter Frank Lary for his 10th loss instead of his 18th triumph.

Runnels, batting third in the order, collected another single and drove in another run on an infield out. Stephens doubled home a third tally in the fourth and also singled.

One of the high points of the game was Jackie Jensen's leaping catch against the right field wall that stole a home run from Gil Harris in the ninth inning.
