Dodgers Win Braves Lose

The many questions that have lingered in the minds of Iowa football fans the past several months may be answered today as the Hawkeyes open their 1959 season meeting California at Berkeley in a contest scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Iowa time.

The Hawkeyes have been made a one-touchdown favorite in this their second consecutive game with the Bears. The Hawkeyes romped past Pete Elliot's crew 38-12 in the Rose Bowl contest that capped Iowa's 8-1-1 record last year.

Iowa's path appears to be much more rugged against the Bears today. With 23 letterman returning — seven of them Rose Bowl starters — California is considered stronger than last season.

Coach Forest Evashevski's crew seemingly cannot reach the peak of the 1958 squad. Gone are all-American quarterback Randy Duncan, four starting interior linemen and Willie (two-touchdown) Fleming, perhaps the most exciting halfback in Iowa football history.

Probable Starting Lineups

Game Time 2:30 — Radio Broadcasts by WSUI, KXIC, WMT, WHO, KRNT.

Injuries to Bob Jeter and Wilburn Hollis and the lack of contact work seen by the Hawkeyes this fall throw still more clouds of doubt on the Hawkeye outlook.

The Bears scarcely laid a hand on Jeter in the Rose Bowl game as he raced to 194 yards in 9 carries and had a 81-yard touchdown run, but the speedy halfback has been hampered by injuries this fall.

He missed several days with a dislocated finger, then was sidelined for a longer period with a sprained ankle. He is back with the first string now but whether or not he can match last season's effectiveness is yet to be seen.

Hollis, who along with Olen Treadway will mold the success of the Hawkeyes at quarterback this season, is listed as a doubtful

France Walks Out Of U.N. Assembly

Objects To Charges Of Saudi Arabia

Delegation Returns When Speech Concludes

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — France walked out of the U.N. General Assembly Friday in protest against charges by Saudi Arabia's chief delegate that the French army in Algeria were torturers thirsting for blood.

But members of the French delegation returned at the conclusion of a vitriolic speech by Ahmad Shukairy, 51, a Palestinian Arab who at one time represented Syria at the United Nations.

A spokesman for the delegation said its members did not want to listen to insulting language.

Shukairy referred to the statement by French President Charles de Gaulle offering self-determination to the Algerian people provided Algeria is restored. De Gaulle said peace would be considered at peace if no more than 200 violent deaths occurred in a year.

"What sort of mathematics brought about this figure of the dead?" Shukairy demanded.

"We know there are some blood-thirsty colons (French colonists) who are ready to step up the maxi-

De Gaulle Tests Reaction To Plan

DUNKERQUE, France (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle talked with miners and shipyard workers of northern France Friday to test reaction to his peace plan for Algeria. He got a strong pledge of support.

Even in largely Communist areas of the northern French coal fields, De Gaulle won cheers when he said again the Algerians must decide their future by their own free choice and the French at home must endorse Algeria's decision.

mum figure of President de Gaulle. We know such thirst for blood is to be found in the French army itself — as evidenced by the most brutal acts of torture committed against the people of Algeria."

Victor A. Belandea of Peru, 75-year-old Assembly president, interrupted Shukairy and asked him not to use language "that might disturb the atmosphere of the Assembly."

Shukairy replied that he believed freedom of speech was guaranteed at the United Nations, then went on with his prepared text.

Later he remarked to a reporter on the French action: "I hope they walk out of Algeria."

Actually members of the French delegation, headed by tall white-haired Ambassador Armand Berard, walked out of the blue and gold Assembly hall before Shukairy made his reference to the French army.

But they had read that portion of the speech in advance of its delivery. A French press officer had hurried a copy into the Assembly with the reference underlined.

France's position on Algeria will be outlined to the present Assembly next week in the policy speech of Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville. But as in the past two years the French will not take part in any subsequent discussions either in committee or in the Assembly, although their representatives will be present to listen.

France has always argued that Algeria is an internal matter of no concern to the U.N.

History Prof Attends Meet In Europe

Robert M. Kingdon, associate professor of history at SU, represented the University at a Colloquy on Theodore Beza — his correspondence and his publications, during the summer in Geneva, Switzerland. The colloquy was held under the auspices of the Association Humanisme et Renaissance.

Theodore Beza was the successor to John Calvin as leader of the Reformed churches of the 16th Century. A number of scholarly studies of his career and writings have been launched this year, in conjunction with the celebrations of the 400th anniversary of the founding of the University of Geneva and the calling of the first French Reformed Synod, events in which Beza was deeply involved.

The Association Humanisme et Renaissance is one of the leading international organizations of scholars interested in Renaissance studies.

Kingdon read a report at the colloquy on some of his own research on Theodore Beza's political ideas. He also spent six weeks, before and after the colloquy, doing research in Geneva manuscripts collections on this and related historic topics.

16 Die In Plane Crash In Aleutians

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Sixteen persons died Friday night when a commercial airliner flying over the wild, rugged Aleutian Islands smashed into a mountain-side and burst into flames.

A search party worked its way up to the 2,000-foot level on the side of an unnamed 5,000-foot peak of Great Sitkin Island and reported there were no survivors in the wreckage of the Reeve Aleutian Airways DC4.

A Navy pilot who first spotted the wreckage said only the tail section of the four-engine airliner was intact. The remainder of the plane was still burning when first sighted.

The airliner, piloted by Eugene Strouse, widely known Alaska airman, carried a crew of five, two civilians and nine military men — seven from the Air Force, one Army, one Navy.

Strouse, as a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force, once commanded an air rescue squadron in Alaska.

Tweet To Head Iowa Engineers

DES MOINES (AP) — Noel T. Tweet of Kansas City, has been named executive director of the Iowa Engineering Society, headquarters of the group announced here Friday.

Tweet, graduate of the University of Wisconsin, at one time was a director of the Mo-Ark Basins Flood Control Assn. He also had been executive director of the South Dakota Industrial Development Expansion Agency. The Iowa society is an affiliate of the National Society of Professional Engineers.

Experts Seek Cause Of Air Disaster

BORDEAUX, France (AP) — Government experts combed a splintered woodland Friday for the cause of France's worst civil air disaster. It killed 53 people.

Twelve survivors were treated for burns, fractures and shock. All nine crew members perished, one on re-entering the burning wreck. The official passenger roll listed three Britons as the only non-French passengers.

Bound for Africa Thursday night, the four-engine DC7 strained into the air after a faltering takeoff, floundered, then plunged into a pine forest. Its gas tanks spewed flames high into the night sky.

In the shattered fuselage, passengers screamed as flames engulfed them. Two families, five persons in each, were wiped out. A steady rain had little effect on the flames.

The worst previous French civil crash was in Cairo in 1956 when 52 persons died.

No details of the investigation were revealed by the government or the privately owned airline, TAI (Transports Aeriens intercontinentaux). The last reported radio contact with the plane was when it was cleared to take off.

Crowds watched the crash from the airport where many had just wished relatives and friends bon voyage.

Hueser Resigns As Secretary Of Young GOP

DUBUQUE (AP) — Resignation of James A. Hueser as executive secretary of the Young Republicans of Iowa was announced Friday by State Chairman Edward D. Failor, of Dubuque.

The resignation will be effective Sept. 20 and the state central committee of the organization will meet Sunday to discuss a successor, Failor said.

"During the time Hueser has been our executive secretary, the Young Republicans of Iowa have attained national prominence," the state chairman said. "Today, we lead the nation with the number of colleges with Young Republican clubs on campus."

Daily Iowan Staff Named

An 8-member staff was appointed this week by the Board of Student Publications, Inc. to edit The Daily Iowan until May 15, 1960.

Named editor was Stephen Tudor, G. Tacoma, Wash. Tudor worked on The Daily Iowan staff during the summer session, writing a regular editorial page column. While serving in the United States Army, Tudor edited his battalion's newspaper.

As editor of The Daily Iowan, Tudor will carry out the policies determined by the Board of Student Publications, Inc. A graduate student in American Civilization, Tudor expects to receive a Master's Degree in June.

Ben Blackstock, A4, Kankakee, Ill., was appointed managing editor. A student in editorial journalism, Blackstock has served as a photographer and as picture editor on The Daily Iowan staff in previous years.

Marlene Jorgensen, A4, Audubon, will continue to hold the position of city editor, which she assumed during the summer session. A senior in magazine journalism, she has also been a reporter for The Daily Iowan.

Medical Feud Flares—

Professed Monk Shoots Minister

BULLETIN COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike died Saturday from bullet wounds inflicted Friday by an assassin clad in the robes of a Buddhist monk.

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — A professed Buddhist medical monk whipped a pistol from his saffron robes Friday and critically wounded Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike, who led this island nation into the Asian neutral bloc.

The attacker was captured. He was shot in one knee by a sentry as he sought to flee the Prime Minister's private bungalow at Rosmead Place, Colombo's most luxurious residential area.

Three of his burst of six bullets hit Bandaranaike, damaging the liver, spleen and one arm of the frail British-educated aristocrat who was a champion of Ceylonese independence from Britain.

On a hospital stretcher, the 60-year-old Prime Minister forgave him and appealed for compassion for "his foolish man."

The bullets were removed and Bandaranaike was given four pints of blood during five hours of corrective surgery. Doctors said he stood the operation well and that, although he was still in danger, his condition was satisfactory.

"He is still gravely ill," a medical bulletin said.

Gov. Gen. Sir Oliver Goonetilleke, the representative of Queen Elizabeth II, proclaimed a state of emergency, virtus: martial law. He called for "absolute peace and calm" throughout his richly endowed British Commonwealth land of 10 million often-bickering people. Army, navy and air force reserves were mobilized. Meetings and processions were banned.

The shooting came just three days before Bandaranaike was to leave for New York to address the U.N. General Assembly. After a speech there Tuesday, he was to have gone to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower and on to London, Bonn and Cairo.

Speculation on the motive for the assassination attempt centered around an old conflict between practitioners of Western-style medicine and Eastern healing methods known as Ayurveda, which employ massage, hot compresses and secret herb compounds.

This started when police announced the gunman, also hospitalized, identified himself as Taldue Somarama Thero, 43, a specialist at the government hospital in Colombo for Eastern-style medicine.

2 Teenagers Invade School, Rob Teacher

NEW YORK (AP) — Two teenaged boys boldly invaded a fifth grade classroom Friday and at knifepoint robbed a teacher while her small pupils screamed in terror.

The teacher, Mrs. Betty Koffer, lost $39 in a pocketbook the two Negro youths took from her. They both were said to be about 16 years old.

Mrs. Koffer was holding class for about 25 pupils, ranging in age from 9 to 11, in her fourth floor classroom at P.S. 109, a grammar school on East 99th St.

When she saw the youths approach, she told police; she assumed they wanted to ask about one of her pupils. As she sought to aid them, one youth pulled out a knife and told her: "I don't dig you lady."

Mrs. Koffer and several of her pupils screamed.

The second youth grabbed the teacher's pocketbook from a desk and the pair walked out of the classroom and disappeared.

Mrs. Koffer told police she was sure the young thugs were not students at the school, which has classes through the sixth grade for children from 5 to about 12 years old.

Police Lt. Louis Cottell assigned seven detectives to seek the intruders and added: "I'll stick around until we get those bums."

Take Narcotics, $651 In Breakin At Mason City

MASON CITY (AP) — Thieves stole a large amount of narcotics and $651 in cash in a breakin at the Medical Arts Pharmacy here, police reported Friday.

Missing from a cabinet at the drugstore, located in a new doctors' center on the outskirts of Mason City, were 500 tablets of morphine. The money was taken from a safe which was rolled into the back of the store and pried open.

About $600 in checks and small change was untouched.

The breakin was discovered Friday morning. The intruders gained entrance through a back door.

Union Quits; Deadlock In Steel Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Fruitless negotiations in the nation's 73-day steel strike collapsed completely Friday. The breakdown heightened the possibility of Taft-Hartley law intervention by the government to open the struck mills.

The striking United Steelworkers Union said it saw no point in continuing the talks as long as industry insists on work regulating concessions. The union says these are aimed at "union busting."

"We are going home" announced the union president, David J. McDonald. "This farcical filibuster has ended."

He added that the union stands ready to resume talks if it receives from industry "an honest offer worthy of consideration by self-respecting steel workers."

McDonald was asked if the union would resume talks if the government requests it.

"We have never resisted a call of our government. But we see no sense in coming back to New York City. The seat of the government is in Washington. The seat of the steel industry is in Pittsburgh," he replied.

Chief industry negotiator R. Conrad Cooper said the industry still is prepared to resume negotiations Monday.

"We hope that the union will reconsider its position and join with us then in a renewed effort to break the deadlock. This has been our agreed seat of negotiations. We plan to be here. We want to bargain and we want to reach an agreement," he added in a statement.

McDonald pulled out of negotiations once before, for a three-week period in August. But second-string union negotiators then continued talks with the industry. This time the union said it's completely closing up shop here.

However, the chief federal mediator, Joseph F. Finnegan said: "We don't intend to let this thing drift, in view of its impact on 600,000 souls and its impact on the national economy. The right to set the time and place of meetings is a function of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service."

Finnegan indicated there might be a change of locale when talks resume — presumably in Washington.

To Discuss Major Cold War Issues

Meeting At Ike's Mountain Retreat

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev flew to the tightly guarded crest of a Maryland mountain Friday night for a fast start on their crucial cold war talks.

The President and the Kremlin leader, both in a jovial mood, arrived at Camp David by helicopter after a 35-minute flight from the White House grounds in Washington.

They went immediately to Eisenhower's rustic lodge, named Aspen, and it was announced they would get down to brass tacks talks around the dinner table within the hour.

Both Eisenhower and his guest chatted and joked through an interpreter as photographers snapped pictures in front of the lodge.

The bemuddled Khrushchev, wearing a light gray suit, was first out of the black limousine which brought them to the lodge from a nearby heliport.

The Kremlin chief spotted James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, and they shook hands heartily.

Votes For Nikita As Board Member

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The world's No. 1 Communist received 1,500 votes Friday in an election to a purely capitalistic post — director of a large corporation.

Morton Adler of New York cast the votes for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to be a member of the board of directors of Virginia-Carolina Chemical Corp. The Soviet leader didn't get the job.

A frequent critic of the corporation, Adler termed Khrushchev "a master export salesman."

Then Eisenhower and Khrushchev moved to the front door while a battery of photographers and reporters crowded around.

"I am glad they don't shoot," Eisenhower said with a nod toward the cameramen.

The President's chuckling remark was translated for Khrushchev, and the Premier, eyes twinkling, shot back: "It's lucky Mr. Garst is not here."

That was an allusion to Roswell Garst, the Iowa farmer who was Khrushchev's host in Coon Rapids two days ago. At one time the crush of newsmen was so great that Garst threw corn husks and silage at some of them.

Khrushchev added with a grin: "If he (Garst) were here he would try to organize this his own way."

Sulowan From Malta Covers Khrushchev's Visit

Editor's Note: Adrian Mercieca is a graduate student in the SUJ Journalism Department. A native of Malta, he has had several years experience working for commercial newspapers. During his stay in this country he holds the position of correspondent for the Times of Malta. A story concerning his background appeared in the Daily Iowan issue of Wednesday, Sept. 23.

By ADRIAN MERCECA

Friendship and good fortune are credited for bringing me to such close quarters with Premier Khrushchev during his memorable visit to the State of Iowa recently.

In a matter of hours I abandoned my desk at the State University of Iowa's School of Journalism where I was studying and joined a very large and representative body of journalists in Des Moines where they were reporting on the Premier's visit.

My active but extremely short-lived participation in the press coverage has been an unforgettable and inspiring experience. More so, as it came at this early point of my journalistic career when I am endeavoring to widen my outlook, coming as it does from a small island. Such an opportunity will pay great dividends and come in useful to me in the future.

I arrived at Des Moines with pencil and notebook and was given a badge denoting my clearance from the State Department in Washington. This gave me the coverage facilities similarly enjoyed by another 500 journalists. The difference lay in the amount of experience but the scope was one.

The occasion was no mean one and I shared the pride of the Iowans in having a world-wide known personality coming as close as an arm's length.

However, my primary attitude towards the visit was mainly centered on the reflection of such a novelty on the Iowans more than the actual cause itself. Like a psychologist who observes the reaction of others in the presence of an overwhelming source of inspiration, I kept an alert eye for the slight movement, the slight sound and the slight expression which would instantly reveal untold facts about the Iowans and their ways.

Of this there was ample. Also in the negative sense. Undoubtedly, Iowa was honored with such a visit but it did not stray from its sober friendliness and politeness and certainly did not go out of its way to show itself to be other than what it really is.

Cordiality was not lacking, nor curiosity, both being accorded in proportionate measures by young and old alike.

From where I stood outside the main entrance to the Fort Des Moines Hotel I could not miss the spectacle.

The ovation which was given him was most subdued and spontaneous emanating as it did from a people who are known for their hospitality far and wide. It readily welcomed its guest without fuss and sincerity.

A few screams were heard from a nearby parkade which gave an indication of excitement. I looked for the source and noticed a group of young girls. I happened to see a similar reaction at Ames where the Soviet Premier was received by more than 10,000 students. One girl screamed and said to her friends "I SAW HIM." Such was the teenage excitement for the corded a welcome normally given visitor who, unknowingly, was acting a rock 'n' roll idol.

Nikita Khrushchev walked among Iowans, grinning broadly and gesticulating freely wherever possible. He uttered a language which was not understood by all, but the interpretation of which reached many ears and distant countries through many channels.

The Communist Leader made it quite clear that he was genuinely interested in agriculture and that Iowa was the place that he wanted to see. In fact, "Iowa is where it really began..." as one Russian Press official recently stated.

Iowa was revealed to him in every way, in its healthy people, its golden cornfields, in its well-bred cattle, in its enviable agricultural techniques and in its unsurpassed productivity.

At Coon Rapids, Mr. Khrushchev and his family enjoyed the hospitality of his old friend Roswell

(Bob) Garst, a man who lifted himself to the heights of wealth in the same way as his remarkable cornstalks, through sheer determination and endurance begetting fertile and incomparable results.

To my mind, Nikita Khrushchev showed genuine interest in the method of mechanized agricultural production and fertilization. But there were moments when he put his admiration aside and instantly turned propagandist, consciously or otherwise, and openly criticized "Too much stalk — not enough corn."

He is known to have made bold statements which left his bystanders and newsmen bewildered for their context.

Some newsmen contended that fatigue was breaking surface while others attributed this to the suppressed displeasure at the way he was "corralled" by security officials and other guards. From what? From the thronging newsmen and Press photographers. The latter were not to blame for their enthusiasm which knew no bounds.

Their anxiety for his every word and action spurred them over cinder tracks, through hedges into sileage pits and clouds of dust. They were a determined lot and gave the security personnel a trying time.

While the Soviet Premier was lunching at the remarkably unimpressive residence of the Garst family, I chatted with a farmer as we sipped cold beer in a Coon Rapids drugstore. He impressed me with his frank attitude towards the day's event which was termed historical for the town. "It is always like this on Saturday evenings," he told me.

About the Khrushchev visit he remarked that the Soviet leader should have been at his (the farmer's) farm with its fence broken down by a fallen tree and his 150 head of hogs gone which would cost about $5 per head. "Garst is no ordinary farmer," he complained to me, "the Russian should have seen an ordinary and average Iowa farm, not a super farm." He sipped more beer as if to stifle his indignation.

Out at the Garst farm, a hectic invasion of newsmen immediately surrounded the homestead with a human hedge (the existing hedge suffered considerable damage because of this) and all awaited the appearance of the visitors and their hosts. When Mr. Khrushchev moved the thick swarm moved with him in hot pursuit. It was like that all the time.

I was most favorably impressed by the cooperation and friendliness that existed among the newsmen and other members of the Press. Unlike my expectations, there was considerable "pooling" of information and there were times when persons carrying portable tape recorders allowed others to benefit by playing back the speeches and comments of the Soviet Leader and his host.

It was my pleasure and privilege to meet many renowned newsmen whose names I have read and whose names were familiar in many parts of the world for their literary achievements. I had the sterling opportunity of seeing them at work, in the compilation of the news and the remittance thereof to the various newspapers and agencies whose deadlines made the going very hard at times for the newsmen. Frantic dashes were made to the nearest telephone booths and wire services to get their materials out in time for the next issues.

Nikita Khrushchev's departure for Pittsburgh ended my coverage and I returned to Iowa City to resume my studies in Journalism having benefited from an opportunity for which I will be indebted to several persons for a long time.

'Saw Very Little Of U.S.:' Says Russian Novelist

WASHINGTON — At least one member of the Soviet party with Premier Khrushchev feels the whirlwind tour across the United States leaves a few questions about America unanswered.

Mikhail S. Sholokhov, one of the Soviet Union's leading novelists, was asked about his impressions at a meeting Friday with a group of U.S. writers and editors.

"I saw very little of America," replied Sholokhov. "What can one see in 10 days?" He declined to answer any questions about the United States on the basis of such a fleeting acquaintance, but spoke eagerly about the literary life in his homeland.

Sholokhov said Russians are great readers and are familiar with the literature of France, England, Germany, China, Japan, India and the United States as well as their own.

Asked what foreign writer was most admired by the Soviets, he pondered long, then replied: "Shakespeare."

A small but sturdy man with lines of fatigue in his face, Sholokhov championed the Socialist theories of his country and said in the field of literature it gives the Soviet Union a clear advantage over the United States.

124,000 H.S. Students Taking Educational Tests

A record 124,000 students from 563 school systems across the state are participating this month in the SUJ 18th Fall Testing Program for Low High Schools. The program, which features the Iowa Tests for Educational Development (ITED), is under the direction of E. F. Lindquist.

The tests have a two-fold purpose — providing for high school teachers and counselors dependable measures of the educational growth and development of each pupil and giving the school administrator a dependable and objective basis for evaluating the educational offering of his school.

The ITED test battery includes comprehensive examinations in these nine areas: understanding of basic social concepts, general background in the natural sciences, correctness and appropriateness of expression, quantitative thinking, interpretation of reading materials in the social studies, interpretation of reading materials in the natural sciences, general vocabulary and use of information sources.

By restricting the program to a single standard schedule of services for all participating schools, "assembly line" methods of processing make possible the low cost of only 35 cents per pupil.

Good Listening— Today On WSUI

BACK ON A-FULL SCHEDULE, WSUI has concluded the annual late summer service curtailment which has maintained only 6 hours and 15 minutes of air time daily. It had been hoped that a feature of this first day back on full schedule might be a broadcast of the Iowa-California football game. However, the costs have proved prohibitive in this instance; but the remainder of the SUJ gridiron schedule will be carried in its entirety by WSUI.

ALL INDICATIONS POINT to a continuation of fine music, both jazz and serious, as a basic element in the flow of adult audio entertainment which characterizes WSUI's programming. To sustain its good intentions, the University station has acquired hundreds of new recordings as well as the rights to tape-recorded excerpts from the 1959 Edinburgh, Vienna and Salzburg festivals of music. A casual perusal of the program offerings of other radio stations in the nation suggests that, with the exception of a handful of metropolitan FM transmissions, no other broadcasting station in the United States can match the variety and quantity of music available from WSUI. In addition, WSUI and sister-station KSUI will shortly begin regular stereophonic, or binaural, musical programs to be heard Wednesday at 7 p.m. Something in the neighborhood of 10,000 worth of stereo recordings has been assembled to facilitate an early expansion of the amount of broadcast time which may be devoted to the newest wrinkle in high fidelity radio reception.

CUE IS BUSTING OUT ALL OVER Iowa to help celebrate the return to full schedule. Interviews with exchange professors from far-away places will be interspersed with conversations with three better-known Sulowans: Professors Robert Michaelson and Wendell Johnson and football coach Evashevsky. The professors will preview for listeners the classroom courses which they will offer from WSUI this fall. Sports Roundtable will return to Cue this morning; there will be an interview with band leader Lee Castle; and all regular features will be heard.

Sec. Seaton: Act Now And End Cold War

SIoux CITY — "If there ever was a time for clear thinking and forthright action, that time is now," Secretary of the Interior Fred E. Seaton said Friday afternoon in an appraisal of the cold war.

"The thinking and action recommended by the Seaton report," he said, "is the only way to end the cold war."

"We must compete with vigor and by strong spiritual, economic, and military and seek to negotiate wisely for peace with honor and justice," Seaton said in a speech prepared for delivery at the Iowa Conservation Day and Ploving Matches.

He was asked in a news conference Friday morning about the talks between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev this weekend at Camp David, Md. He said he had no crystal ball, but he hoped progress would be made for peace for the whole world.

Seaton stoutly defended Eisenhower's budget of big military and mutual aid spending.

"Referring to agriculture he said that Democrats claim there is a way to solve the agricultural problem."

"I would like to see someone come forward with something," he said. "Farmers can't eat words."

He justified military spending by saying that only by being militarily prepared ourselves can we prevent Communist expansion.

He justified mutual aid for foreign nations by saying the United States could not be an island of abundance surrounded by a sea of poverty and enjoy security.

At a breakfast Friday morning Seaton was introduced by Republican Congressman Charles Hoeven who called him a possible Republican candidate for the vice presidency in 1960.

"I'm devoutly running for home in 1960," Seaton replied.

Eisenhower commented: "Everything seems to be quiet along this front."

"All the soldiers are peacefully inclined," Khrushchev said, grinning.

That may have been a reference to the detail of Marines, in fatigue uniform and wearing side-arms, on sentry duty throughout the mountain camp.

As Eisenhower and Khrushchev posed for pictures they were flanked by two of the sentries. There also was a secret service man on hand, and a Soviet security agent rode in the limousine with the President and Khrushchev.

Camp David, named for the President's grandson, is a secluded mountain retreat 65 miles north of Washington.

A few minutes in advance of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev arrival Secretary of State Christian A. Herter; U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, and Andrei Gromyko, Soviet foreign minister, arrived in another helicopter.

They, too, halted at the door of Aspen Lodge for a few minutes while photographers took pictures.

Eisenhower, Khrushchev, Gromyko and Herter will live at the main lodge until the talks on world problems end at noon Sunday. Other top officials, both Soviet and American, will live in nearby guest cabins.

Even though the White House stressed Eisenhower would steer clear of "negotiations," there was the expressed hope on both sides that the Big Two could at least make a dent in major East-West disputes.

Soviet-American problems due to come up included the Soviet's desire for more trade with this country and a possible agreement to exchange information on peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Lower ranking U.S. and Soviet aides were understood to have outlined the main points of an atomic energy agreement in closed-door talks in Washington. Informed authorities said this would be swapped over by Eisenhower and Khrushchev for final approval.

The two-way exchange calls for swapping information on some types of nuclear reactors, informants said, as well as visits by atomic scientists of each country and cooperation in the field of high energy physics.

Hagerty told some 150 newsmen at press headquarters here that Friday night's session likely would be a short one, with Eisenhower and Khrushchev retiring early.

A movie of the atomic submarine Nautilus' historic trip under the north polar icecap was to be shown after dinner — at Khrushchev's request.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon is scheduled to arrive by helicopter today to join the discussions. So will other Soviet-U.S. officials who will shuttle in and out as their specialties are discussed.

Eisenhower and Khrushchev appeared likely to focus much of their talks on disarmament. Khrushchev has repeatedly plugged for such an agreement but has always balked at agreeing to the kind of inspection Western authorities say is necessary to make sure neither side cheats.

Khrushchev's appeal for an easing of trade restrictions appears certain to run into strong opposition. Eisenhower's top advisers are ready to favor more trade but not in strategic machinery and other complex equipment which would have war potential.

Dodgers Escape Cubs, 5-4; Braves Fall 1 Game Behind

CHICAGO (AP) — Gil Hodges' 11th inning homer for his third run-batted-in of the game swept the pennant-pursuing Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday.

Hodges doubled to drive across two runs in the sixth when Los Angeles took a 4-2 lead.

Wally Moon also homered for Los Angeles in the first. Sammy Taylor and Ernie Banks slammed Cub homers, Banks' No. 45 of the season tying the score at 4-4 in the eighth and sending the game into extra innings.

Larry Sherry, third Dodger pitcher, notched the victory. Starter Don Drysdale (17-13) was chased in the seventh. Sherry, taking over from Danny McDevitt in the 10th, got his sixth victory against two defeats.

The loser was Bill Henry, who replaced Cub starter Glen Hobbie at the start of the eighth.

Hodges' decisive blow came as dusk was settling on lightless Wrigley Field. The triumph was only the Dodgers' 10th against as many defeats facing the Cubs this season.

This turned the tables on the Cubs who Tuesday and Wednesday won come-from-behind victories over San Francisco and knocked the Giants out of pennant contention.

Home runs — Los Angeles, Moon (19), Hodges (25), Chicago, S. Taylor (13), Banks (45).

Yanks 5, Orioles 2

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees salvaged third place — their lowest American League standing since 1948 — with a four-run sixth inning Friday night for a 5-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The rally by the ex-champs, edging Detroit for third, broke up a pitching duel between winning southpaw Whitey Ford and right-hander Jerry Walker. Ford, finishing with an eight-hitter, retired the first 10 men in order and had a two-hit shutout until the sixth, when the Orioles tied it 1-1 on Jerry Mathews and Ted McGrew have been compiling on the National League pennant they can expect just as much trouble from the Chicago White Sox as they got last year from the New York Yankees.

That is a capsule summary of the scouting report that W.D.

Scouting Report On Sox: Just As Tough As Yanks

MILWAUKEE (AP) — If the Milwaukee Braves win the National League pennant they can expect just as much trouble from the Chicago White Sox as they got last year from the New York Yankees.

Report Williams Will Play In '60

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Traveler Friday said ailing, aging Red Sox slugger Ted Williams will return as a pinch hitter and spot starter in 1960.

The Traveler said the decision was made last week when Williams, 41, had a closed door meeting with Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey. The Red Sox will announce the decision on the closing day of the season, Sunday, or after the World Series, the newspaper said.

Baltimore at New York — Pappas (15-9) vs. Coates (6-1).
Washington at Boston — Ramos (13-19) vs. Monbouquette (7-7).
Kansas City at Cleveland — Garver (9-13) or Taitouris (4-3) vs. Briggs (0-0).

Adair's triple and a single by Brooks Robinson.
Bobby Richardson opened the winning sixth with a single and scored when left fielder Bob Nieman bobbled a double by Tony Kubek, who had three of the Yankees' nine hits. Two walks loaded the bases and Hector Lopez rapped a two-run double. Norm Siebern followed with a sacrifice fly.

Tigers 6, ChiSox 5

DETROIT (AP) — A ninth-inning boner by first baseman Norm Cash gave the Detroit Tigers a 6-5 verdict over the Chicago White Sox Friday.

Cash, who had replaced Earl Torgeson a moment before, held onto the ball while Al Kaline slid home with the winning run. The Tigers rallied for three runs in the bottom half of the inning after the White Sox took a 5-3 lead with two runs in their half.

Torgeson made a wide throw to second base on an attempted force play and his error loaded the bases with one out. Lou Berberet sent a bouncer to second base and Billy

Goodman forced the runner at home.
Catcher John Romano's throw to first was too late to get Berberet, but Kaline scored as Cash held the ball.

Indians 8-8, Athletics 2-7

CLEVELAND (AP) — A two-run pinch single by Elmer Valo with two out in the ninth inning beat the Kansas City Athletics 8-7 Friday night after Cleveland had won the opener of the two-night bill Friday.

The nightcap victory went to reliever Jim Grant for working the final inning. Cal McLish, who started for the Indians in quest of a 20th victory, was pounded for 6 runs on 8 hits in the first 3 innings.

Outfielder Rocky Colavito contributed his 42nd home run of the season to the second game victory, getting it in the second inning off Buddy Daley. Bob Grim, who relieved Daley in the sixth, was the loser.

BoSox 10, Senators 4

BOSTON (AP) — Boston jumped on seven Washington pitchers for 13 hits and a 10-4 victory Friday night, moving the Red Sox into sole possession of fifth place and dropping Baltimore into sixth.

The Red Sox bunched their scoring into two big innings, five in the fourth and three in the sixth. All the sixth inning runs came in when Senator center fielder Bob Allison dropped a bases-loaded fly ball.

Sick Sooners To Be Ready For Northwestern Contest

CHICAGO (AP) — The sudden illness of a dozen Oklahoma football team members two days before their season's opening game with Northwestern took on an elusive flavor Friday.

Several of the players became violently ill after they finished a fruit salad ordered with their steak dinners in a Chicago night club Thursday night. Possible contamination of the salads first was suspected because of this.

Nixon Praises Schoendienst' Comeback Effort

MILWAUKEE (AP) — When Red Schoendienst got a chance to check his mail box after returning to County Stadium from the Milwaukee Braves' last road trip, he found the following letter from the vice president of the United States:

"Dear Red,
"I was delighted to read in the papers a few days ago that you were returning to action with the Braves.
"As I told you at the All-Star game in Pittsburgh your recovery has been an inspiration to people throughout the country and particularly to those who have ever suffered from tuberculosis or ever had members of their family suffer from it.
"Kindest personal regards,
"Dick Nixon."

Ingemar Says He Knows Marciano In Training

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson injected a bit of life Friday into the dying reports of a possible match with retired king Rocky Marciano and said he knew the ex-champ was in training.

"All I can say is I know he's in training," Johansson told newsmen. "I know he's working out and back in training." He said he would like to meet Marciano in the ring.

"I'd like to meet anybody for a big gate," he said.

Phils 6, Braves 3

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The relaxed Philadelphia Phillies, with last place firmly clinched, dropped the Milwaukee Braves one full game behind the league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers Friday night with a rain-soaked 6-3 victory. Both the Braves and Dodgers have two games to play.

If this defeat buried Milwaukee, the chief pallbearers in the watery wake were Gene Freese, Jack Meyer and Eddie Bouchee. Freese drove in four of the runs, three of them with a three-run homer off loser Lew Burdette in the third inning. Meyer pitched tremendous ball for 5 2-3 innings in relief of starter Don Cardwell. Bouchee, a chief tormentor to Milwaukee all season long, drove in the other two runs.

The game was held up once for 14 minutes in the fourth inning and was played in a steady rain from the fifth inning on.

All night long the score of Los Angeles' 11-inning 5-4 triumph over the Chicago Cubs haunted the home club. It was posted on the gaily lighted scoreboard in right field when they came out.

The Braves now must count on winning their final two games with the Phillies today and Sunday while hoping the Cubs beat the Dodgers at least once to get a tie. San Francisco, rained out Friday night, can do no better than tie if they win all their three while the Dodgers lose two and the Braves lose one more.

BoSox 10, Senators 4

BOSTON (AP) — Boston jumped on seven Washington pitchers for 13 hits and a 10-4 victory Friday night, moving the Red Sox into sole possession of fifth place and dropping Baltimore into sixth.

The Red Sox bunched their scoring into two big innings, five in the fourth and three in the sixth. All the sixth inning runs came in when Senator center fielder Bob Allison dropped a bases-loaded fly ball.

Bundesen said an investigator from his office questioned the stricken players and found that several became ill before they had a chance to eat their salads at the night club and that at least one had not even ordered a salad.

A spokesman for the night club, The Chez Paree, said the Oklahoma team members were served from food courses given to other diners.

"We served 300 other diners, and none of them got sick," he said. "Many had exactly the same fare — fruit cocktail, soup, tossed salad with choice of dressings, and steak."

Gambling odds on Oklahoma, rated the nation's No. 2 football team, dropped from a six-point spread to two points over Northwestern in their Saturday contest which will be the televised game of the day in broadcasts starting at 1:30 p.m. CST over NBC.

Six of the players, including three first string men, and assistant coach Jimmy Harris, were kept overnight in Weiss Memorial Hospital. They were dismissed Friday and ordered to rest.

Coach Bud Wilkinson said he expects all of the team members who were ill will play.

Six players who were hospitalized, were excused from a workout Friday in Dyche Stadium. These included three of the starting lineup, quarterback Bobby Boyd, center Jim Davis and tackle Gilmer Lewis.

Medical Educator Leader, Aid To SUI Dies At 93

The death earlier this week of Abraham Flexner at his Falls Church, Va., home may have caused some Iowans to recall a long and dramatic chapter in the history of medical education in Iowa.

The famed educator, though not a medical doctor himself, played a lead role in a revolution which stirred medical education throughout the United States and Canada, and which led to the SUI College of Medicine's becoming one of the highly respected medical institutions of the nation.

Death came to the 93-year-old Flexner just prior to the 50th anniversary of a visit which he made to SUI's Medical School in November, 1909. The Iowa school was one of more than 150 in which he conducted a widely publicized study of medical education in the two countries under the auspices of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Flexner's report on the survey, published the following year, had an explosive effect. About 80 schools were closed, and great improvements were made in the survivors, including the College of Medicine at SUI.

In short, Flexner found that most of the medical schools in the U.S. and Canada were sorely lacking in facilities, that instruction often was poor, and that rebuilding was needed from the ground up, both in buildings and teaching philosophy.

Most of the schools of that period were "practitioners' schools," or institutions operated independently of universities by a doctor or group of doctors in private practice.

The SUI College of Medicine was criticized by the report. The University Hospital (in the building which is now known as East Hall, and which houses the College of Education and the Department of Psychology) was too small, he said, and the amount of experience available in certain areas of medicine for students was "very limited."

Furthermore, Flexner added, most members of the medical faculty at SUI were not full-time members—they practiced in Iowa City or, in some cases, in distant communities.

Iowa was stung by the report. At a subsequent meeting of the General Assembly, the legislative body appropriated funds to build an additional wing on the northeast corner of the old hospital building to contain rooms for patients and for additional laboratories. Steps were taken to begin building a full-time medical faculty.

Iowa had taken up the Flexner challenge.

The late W.R. Boyd, chairman of the finance committee of the State Board of Regents (now the Board of Regents), wrote in a brief history of the episode that the Board invited Flexner to come to Iowa City and advise the group on how to proceed with its plans of building and reorganizing. Flexner accepted the invitation.

In later years, Flexner again figured in Iowa's medical education plans. Legislation was passed to provide free medical care at University Hospitals for indigent patients in Iowa. Both the patients and the school benefited. The patients received the care which they needed, and the students were enabled to observe and participate, under their teachers' guidance, in more actual patient care.

But additional facilities were badly needed, and there was the usual problem of finding necessary funds.

Boyd, noting that John D. Rockefeller had given $20,000,000 to the General Education Board of the Rockefeller Foundation for the benefit of medical education in the U.S. and Canada, suggested that he and SUI President Walter Jessup contact Flexner, who was a member of the Board.

Boyd quoted Flexner as saying, when approached by the two Iowans: "You have made more progress in the last 10 years than any medical college in the Middle West. We are not interested in helping lame ducks; we want to help those who have shown a disposition to help themselves. I will come out and see you."

Later, after visits by Flexner and numerous other officials, Jessup and Boyd were invited to New York and asked how much money they wanted for expansion of the University's College of Medicine. Jessup is reported to have suggested that "it would be a wonderful help" if the Rockefeller group would build and equip an up-to-date laboratory.

In his account of the visit, Boyd said either Flexner or the president of the General Education Board said in reply:

"We are not interested in doing anything halfway. You have a good beginning of a modern plant in your Children's Hospital and your Psychopathic Hospital across the Iowa River. While your hospital on the east side (then in East Hall) has considerable room in it, it has been built piece-meal; part of it is a fire-trap. What you need is an entire new medical unit that will last you for 50 years plus. Go back and consult your faculty and your architects and see what it will cost, and then come back and see us."

When Boyd and Jessup returned with an estimate of $4,500,000, the Rockefeller group said: "Will the state give half of it over a period of five years?"

Again, Iowa took up the challenge. And in due time, the Rockefeller group offered $2,250,000 to the state for use in constructing the University's General Hospital and its Medical Laboratories Building. Announcement of the gift was made in December, 1922.

Through its research, its service, its teaching and its students, the SUI College of Medicine today is known in all areas of the world. Some of the most prominent men in the medical field have received their medical training at SUI or taught on the University's medical faculty.

Of the University Medical Center, the heart of which is the college of medicine, Boyd wrote:

"I wish it were possible for the people of Iowa to see the tide of humanity which is constantly flowing into (the Hospitals) and flowing out. The lame are actually made to walk, the blind to see, while countless numbers are, by a bit of surgery or a course of treatment, relieved of handicaps that otherwise would be lifelong, and which in a great many cases would make them public charges."

Stock Market Normal After 2 Day Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market performed according to Hoyle Friday, turning irregular on profit taking after a great two-day rally.

Volume continued heavy at 3,280,000 shares compared with 3,480,000 Thursday.

Motors continued the outstanding trading feature, especially the two established makers of compact cars, Studebaker — Packard and American Motors. Each touched new highs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks edged up 20 cents to $220.10, thanks to a 70-cent rise of utilities which attracted investment buying after sinking to 1959 lows early this week. The industrial component, however, was down 20 cents and rails fell 30 cents.

The move in the average did not adequately reflect the market of 1,201 issues traded, of which 519 declined and 454 advanced. There were 11 new highs for the year and 48 new lows.

The Dow Jones industrial average inched off .26 to 632.59.

Defense Loan Totals $89,483 This Year

A total of $89,483 in National Defense Student Loan funds has been allocated to SUI for the 1959-60 academic year. The federal loan program was established at SUI under terms of one section of the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

Under the program, students may borrow up to $1,000 a year for five years, with repayment delayed until one year after they cease full-time college work. The exact amount of each loan will depend upon the student's financial need.

To be eligible for a loan, a student must be able to show financial need, be capable of maintaining a good academic standing, and be a full-time graduate or undergraduate student.

To be considered for a loan, a student must have demonstrated above-average academic achievement and show that the loan is needed to meet such basic educational expenses as tuition, room and board, and books and supplies. Application forms for the loans are now available at the office of student affairs in University Hall.

High school seniors planning to enroll at SUI also are eligible to apply for a National Defense Student Loan if they are in financial need and academically qualified.

A high school student's rank in his graduating class and scores on the American College Testing Program Examinations will be used in determining academic qualification for loans to be used while attending SUI.

To help alleviate the critical shortage of teachers in the nation's schools the federal loan program offers an additional inducement. Ten per cent of the principal on the loan, up to five years, will be "forgiven" for every year a student teaches in an elementary or secondary school.

Members of the Committee on Student Loans are University Secretary Leonard Brecka, Dirck W. Brown, counselor to men; Howard B. Moffitt, student employment manager; Helen E. Focht, counselor to women, and Charlie Mason, coordinator of student aid.

ABSENT-MINDED PROF.
OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — "This entrance reserved for professors only," reads a sign placed by freshmen over a big hole left by an absent-minded faculty member who walked through a glass panel in Carleton University's new science building. It was the second recent accidental crash through a glass panel there. Repairs have come to $265 but there have been no casualties.

Burlington Widow Wills Fortune To Hospital

BURLINGTON (AP) — The late Mrs. E. P. Eastman left an estate valued at $3,150,000, an inventory filed in probate court here Friday showed.

Mrs. Eastman, widely known for her philanthropies, died Aug. 10. She was the widow of a Burlington furniture manufacturer and dealer.

The Burlington Protestant Hospital is the major beneficiary of Mrs. Eastman's will. She bequeathed the hospital her home for use as a convalescent home and set up a $750,000 trust fund for construction of a new wing of the hospital.

39TH SEASON
1959-1960

THE UNIVERSITY THEATRE INVITES Freshmen and New Students

To Participate In A Program of Outstanding Plays

Whatever your interest is in the theatre — playwriting, acting, scene design and construction, costuming, or lighting — you will be cordially welcomed to take an active part and will find interesting things to do in the forthcoming season.

THE COMMUNITY SERIES PRODUCTIONS FOR THIS SEASON WILL BE:

A SCRAP OF PAPER October 22, 23, 24, 28, 29, 30, 31

A comedy by Victorien Sardou
Sardou's plays were written to amuse and charm, and to make his audiences forget the troubles and worries of everyday life.

AWAKE AND SING December 3, 4, 5, 9, 10, 11, 12

A drama by Clifford Odets
This play is about "real people struggling humbly with their everyday problems; it is tragic in its problem subject and comic in its mode of presentation.

THE FROGS January 14, 15, 16, 20, 21, 22, 23

A comedy by Aristophanes
Aristophanes, the cleverest poet of his time, employed joyous farce and brilliant fantasy to treat the major moral and political issues of his day.

THE CAPRICES OF MARIANNE Feb. 25, 26, 27, Mar. 2, 3, 4, 5

A play by Alfred de Musset
Musset's plays are modern in spirit. The sentiment of this play is romantic, but Musset's subtle delineation of love, and the conclusion of the play, are not romantic.

AN ORIGINAL PLAY March 24, 25, 26, 30, 31, April 1, 2

To be announced
An original play is included in the community series program in keeping with the policy of presenting new scripts of worth and promise to the students and theatre patrons.

THE WHITE DEVIL May 19, 20, 21, 25, 26, 27, 28

A play by John Webster
THE WHITE DEVIL is an amazing study of infatuation, illicit love, Machiavellian intrigue, revenge and murder. Webster, an Elizabethan playwright, is a master poet in the realm of the horrible.

performer. He also suffered a sprained ankle and is still limping noticeably.

This leaves the offensive quarterback burden on Treadway, the veteran but game-inexperienced field general. "Okie" has shown both poise and passing skill in practice but must prove himself in competition before he is proclaimed a panacea for the Hawkeye quarterback ills.

The Bears will get their first look at Curt Merz, an all-American selection at end last year, who was held out of the Rose Bowl game with a knee injury.

Coach Forest Evashevski will field a first team comprised of 10 lettermen. Sophomore left guard Sherwyn Thorson is the only rookie who has been able to dent the first squad.

Junior, Mark Manders, who moved into a first team guard spot opposite Thorson, is the only other non-senior on the first unit. Manders and Thorson displaced seniors Don Shipanik and Gerry Novak in the starting lineup.

Rounding out the first string line will be center Bill Lapham, Tackles Charlie Lee and John Sawin and ends Merz and Don Norton.

With Treadway and Jeter in the backfield will be Ray Jauch and Don Horn. Like Treadway and Jeter both are two-time letter winners.

Jauch was Iowa's leading ball carrier last season with 524 yards in 76 attempts, a 6.8-yard average per carry.

The powerful Horn has seen considerable action the past two seasons. The stubby fullback had a 3.9-yard average last year and hauled in nine passes.

Another major concern of the coaching staff is the relative strength of the second unit. For the most part it consists of experienced performers, but has lacked consistency until late in the fall drills.

Al Miller, recently declared eligible, and Jeff Langston are able replacements for Merz and Norton. Bob Hain and sophomore Al Hinton make the second unit tackle spots. Shipanik and Novak are at guard and Lloyd Humphreys is at center.

Iowa will apparently substitute individuals rather than teams if the game is as close as the odds-makers predict. Evashevski has had little opportunity to test the second team and prefers to keep several battle-tested veterans in action at all times.

Treadway will undoubtedly see little or no action on defense as an injury to him would almost certainly ruin the Hawkeye attack. Mauren and halfback Bernie Wyatt have been groomed as defensive replacements for Okie.

Don Norton

Ray Jauch

California supposedly had a quarterback problem as Joe Kapp, runner-up to Duncan in most past season star teams last year, graduated.

The Bear attack showed little weakness at quarterback last week as they downed Washington State 20-6. Two juniors, Larry Parque and Wayne Crow, shared the duties in fine fashion last week. Par-que understudied Kapp last season and Crow was shifted from a halfback spot.

Two rugged, efficient lines are the strong point of the California team. The Bear lines are not large but depend on speed and condition to accomplish their task.

Against Washington State the Bears used two teams, apparently equal in strength. The second unit with Crow at quarterback appeared stronger than the first team on offense.

Scatbacks Grover Garvin, Steve Bates and Bob Wills may be a thorn in the Hawkeye side. Bates carried six times for 71 yards last week and scored on a 50 yard run. Garvin broke loose on a 92-yard punt return for another California center.

The Hawkeyes will be trying to stretch a 56-game scoring streak. In the past six seasons Iowa has not been shut out and in the same span the Hawkeyes have averaged 23.2 points a game.

CANNON III
BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana State all-America halfback Billy Cannon became a father for the third time Thursday. The latest addition is a seven-pound, 6½ ounce girl. Nurses in Our Lady of the Lake Hospital quickly stenciled on the shirt of the newest Cannon No. 20, the number of her father's LSU uniform.

Intersectional Clashes Feature Big 10 Schedule

By GARY HICKOK
Staff Writer

Big Ten football moves into full swing today when Indiana plays host to Illinois in the first conference battle of the season and seven other squads lock horns in intersectional competition.

Purdue, which escaped with a 0-0 decision against UCLA last weekend, is idle. In most quarters it is felt that the Big Ten teams have the "stuff" to knock off their non-conference foes.

The Illini-Hoosier contest looms as a big win for both teams. Last year, surprising Indiana finished just ahead of sixth-place Illinois.

The Illini would like to get off on the right foot and give retiring Coach Ray Elliot a good season. The Illini will field an interior line averaging 228 pounds but will be without the services of No. 1 quarterback John Easterbrook. Easterbrook injured his right foot in scrimmage last weekend and will be out indefinitely.

Indiana has a predominance of sophomores and will be after much-needed experience. Coach Phil Dickens also will have to go with a front wall which averages a meager 204 pounds.

Michigan, which finished eighth in the Big 10 last year with a 1-5-1 mark, will pit a veteran squad against Missouri in a clash at Ann Arbor. Missouri, under new tutor Dan Devine, dropped a 19-8 decision to Penn State last weekend but Devine was pleased with his team's performance.

Coach Bump Elliott's blue-shirted varsity (composed of the first three teams) annihilated the Whites 48-8 in an intra-squad scrimmage this past week but scouting reports indicated that Missouri will be a tough opponent.

Michigan State, still smarting from its last-place finish in the conference last season will be on the comeback trail when it entertains Texas A & M.

The Spartans will be featuring a new double wing offense and a bumper crop of sophomores in hopes of stopping the Southwest Conference team. Texas A & M lost its season opener against Texas Tech last weekend 20-14.

In losing, the Aggies out-downed their opponents by a considerable margin, doubled the rushing yardage tally and had more scoring opportunities. Thus, it will be no easy contest for the Spartans who will be banking on a good performance from fullback Blanche Martin.

A 59-year-old rivalry will be renewed at Minneapolis today when Minnesota and Nebraska tangle. The Gophers and Cornhuskers last met in 1954 with the "Swedes" coming out on top 19-7.

Minnesota, in hopes of improving on last year's poor 1-8 mark, will field a team including only two senior linemen. Coach Murray Warmath anticipates better passing and pass-catching and more backfield speed this year.

Nebraska Coach Bill Jennings expects this year's team to be definitely stronger than the 1958 contingent. Although the Cornhuskers lost their opener to Texas 20-0, Jennings feels his crew will erase a few mistakes and make the Gopher battle a good one.

Wisconsin, listed as a strong contender for the Big Ten title will play host to Stanford. The Badgers finished second in the Big 10 last season with a fine 5-1-1 record and 10 of the probable starters for today's game had a part in compiling that record.

Coach Milt Bruhn has changed his attack to reflect the influence of the "pro" type offense. Stanford, which lost its initial game of the season to Oregon 25-27, features fine passing attack. This will be the first meeting of the two teams.

Ohio State will field one of the greenest teams in Coach Woody Hayes' nine-year stint at the school when they meet Duke today at Columbus. The Blue Devils lost their opener to South Carolina last weekend 12-7 but the "southerners" have long been a football powerhouse.

The Buckeyes, who have ranked highly in the nation in the last few years, compiled a 4-1-2 mark in the Big Ten last season, good enough for third place. However, this year only four regulars returned and only nine players have seen as much as 100 minutes of action.

The Northwestern-Oklahoma clash today can be regarded as one of the best games in the nation this weekend. It will be televised nationally on NBC. The two teams will bang heads in their first game since 1939 when Oklahoma won 23-0.

The game possibly could be rated as a toss-up due to Northwestern's fine performances last year. Of course, the Sooners can always be rated highly. The contest will be particularly interesting to gridiron fans who have long waited to see Oklahoma clash with a Big 10 crew.

Northwestern's probable starting lineup will have all lettermen. This includes nine starters from last year's team which finished seventh in the conference. Coach Ara Parseghian has said he must rely on speed and finesse to overcome a deficiency in size.

One determining factor as to the outcome of the game may rest on the health of the Sooner squad. Some 20 players contracted food poisoning Thursday but coaches feel that they should be ready for the game.

Set Mark In Sale Of '60 Hawkeye

"We've passed last year's sales mark," Jim Clayton, business manager for the 1960 Hawkeye yearbook, reported Friday. The sales staff is now working toward an all-time sales record.

Hawkeyes may be reserved until Thanksgiving, Clayton said, but students are urged to make reservations as soon as possible at the Hawkeye Office or The Daily Iowan Office in the Communications Center. No Hawkeyes can be reserved after this date.

Seniors wishing free copies of the yearbook should sign cards at the Registrar's Office if they did not reserve copies at registration, Clayton added.

Bureau Sets Deadline For U.S. Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Budget Bureau Friday gave Government agencies until Dec. 31 to complete a survey aimed at getting them out of commercial and industrial activities.

The order was in line with an administration policy that the Government "will not start, or carry on, any commercial-industrial activity if the product or service can be procured from private enterprise through ordinary business channels."

Budget Director Maurice Stans said in a statement that this policy has "the two-fold benefit of furthering the free enterprise system and permitting Governmental agencies to concentrate their efforts on primary objectives."

Areas covered by the new review include construction, transportation, communications, utilities, warehousing and Government-owned facilities operated by contractors. Manufacturing and service activities were reviewed earlier.

Under the Budget Bureau's directive, business-type activities can be started or continued only for reasons of national security or where private industry can't do the job or would charge much more for doing it.

Fine Two Youths After Auto Chase Through Iowa City

An 18-year-old Ely youth was assessed fines and costs of $155 in Police Court Friday in connection with an auto chase early Friday morning.

Douglas Brokel was fined $100 and costs on a speeding charge, $5 and costs on each of two red light charges, $10 and costs on a charge of possessing an altered license, and $15 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge.

Gary W. Carsten, 21, Lisbon, a companion of Brokel, was fined $15 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge. Costs were set at $4 in each action.

The youths were arrested about 3:30 a.m. after police chased them from South Riverside Drive to the downtown business district. Officers had been called when the two were seen trying doors of the Big Ten Inn.

Brokel's car was clocked at almost 70 miles an hour during the chase. He was charged with driving 60 miles per hour from Dubuque to Van Buren Streets, and with passing red lights at Clinton and Dubuque Streets.

Disorderly conduct charges were filed when a "private parking" sign taken from near the Hydraulics Laboratory, was found in the car.

Judge J. Newman Toomey presided over the court.

Faculty Members Set To Attend Dental Meetings

Two faculty members from the SUI College of Dentistry will attend dental meetings next week.

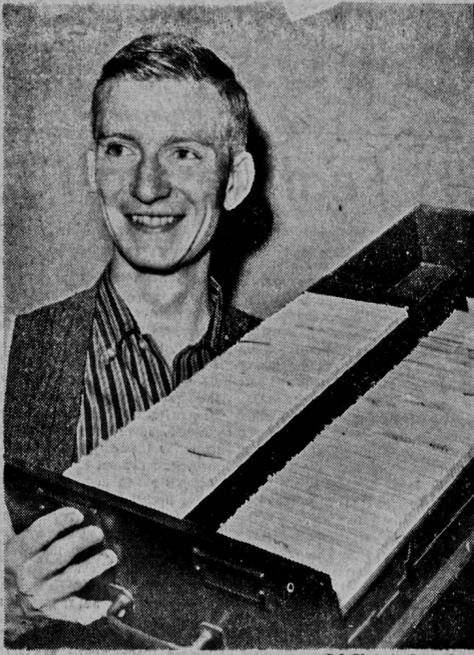

Dr. James E. McIver will participate in the annual meeting of the Central Section of the American Association of Orthodontists to be held in Chicago Monday and Tuesday.

Dr. Daniel E. Waite will speak before the South West District (Dental) Society of Nebraska to be held at Holdrege, Neb. Oct. 2-4. Dr. Wallace W. Johnson returned recently to SUI after attending the Conference on Oral Biology at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York City.

STEEL HEAD RECOVERS

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—Walter F. Munford, president of the strike idled U.S. Steep Corp., who suffered a knife wound and a brain stroke on successive days, was reported making good recovery progress Friday.

Munford, 59, had been under treatment four weeks for nervous exhaustion and fatigue when, on Wednesday, he suffered a three-inch abdominal wound while in the kitchen of his 12-room summer home in Chatham.

Social Notes

The Women's Recreational Association Tuesday will hold an open house in the women's gym at 4:30 p.m.

Freshmen and other new students will have the opportunity to register for various committees and programs at this time. Tours of the gym are also to be conducted.

Refreshments will be served.

SUI Dames will hold a business meeting Monday at 7:45 p.m. on the Sunporch of the Iowa Memorial Union. Bridge will follow the meeting.

Cosmetologists Hear Talk By Professor Blaug

Some seven million American women are allergic to some form of cosmetic, Seymour Blaug, SUI associate professor of pharmacy, stated in a talk before an advanced cosmetology conference which closed Friday at the SUI Center for Continuation Study.

Blaug's talk on cosmetic allergies and hypo-allergenic preparations was one of the final discussions for 24 cosmetologists present to study new beauty treatments and to learn how to protect themselves and their customers from possible reactions to beauty preparations.

Indelible lipsticks, nail polishes, cold creams, hair dyes, anti-perspirants and soaps are some of the preparations which have been found to contain ingredients causing allergic reactions in women. Men are also subject to irritation from hair creams, after-shaving lotions, and hair tonics, Blaug noted.

Blaug emphasized, however, that the ingredients which cause reactions in some persons, are not considered or classified as harmful for the majority of the population. Mild baby oil, which is non-allergenic for millions, does cause reactions in extra-sensitive persons, for example.

Some of these allergic reactions may take the form of nail discoloration, peeling of the skin, eye irritation, dryness and cracking of the lips, irritation around the hair line and ears, cracking of nails, "running" of the nose, and sneezing.

These same reactions are also found, of course, in persons suffering from hay fever and other illnesses. This too often keeps people from suspecting that their trouble is due to an allergy to some cosmetic they are using, Blaug explained.

The problem of detection is further complicated by the fact that many reactions do not occur at the place where the preparation is applied, the SUI professor noted. L inflammation and itching eyes treated as an eye infection might actually be caused by the difficult-to-detect ingredients found in the person's nail polish. Rubbing the eyes from force of habit, for example, might permit the harmful ingredients to penetrate sensitive eye tissue.

Ironically, husbands have been known to be allergic to their spouse's lipstick, face powder and perfumes, the SUI professor continued.

Iowa Pilot Dies In Training Crash

BABSON PARK, Fla. (AP)—An Air Force student pilot from Iowa fell to his death Friday in the crash of his twin-jet training plane into Crooked Lake here.

The pilot of the T-37 trainer, 2nd Lt. Lee R. Beatty, of Des Moines, apparently developed engine trouble and crashed a half mile from shore, officials of Bartow Air Force Base, said. The plane sank in about 30 feet of water.

Group Lists 7 Steps For Child Welfare

DES MOINES (AP)—The Governor's Conference on Children and Youth Friday recommended seven steps Iowa could take to improve seven phases of child development.

About 800 adults and teenagers attended a meeting of the conference and offered these suggestions:

Determine whether our system of school report cards and evaluation of pupils "is getting in the way" of real education.

Establish an Iowa psychiatric and psychological diagnostic center for disturbed children, and juvenile institutions where first offenders can be sent for rehabilitation.

Find means of helping parents of juvenile delinquents, instead of focusing all attention on the children, as a rehabilitation measure. Step up family and marriage education in the school, community and home.

Enlarge opportunities for apprentice vocational education in and out of school to keep more young people in Iowa.

Make available additional tax funds to train teachers and provide facilities for exceptional children.

Recognize that no agency can replace parents in a child's life. Leonard Cole, Marshalltown Junior College instructor, recommended a law under which teenagers seeking a marriage license would have to show evidence that they had taken marriage courses or counseling.

2nd Journalism Orientation To Be At 9 a.m. Today

The second of a series of orientation sessions of new undergraduate SUI students in journalism is set for 9 a.m. today.

This session, in room 305, Communications Center, will deal with questions confronting the new student in his first days at SUI and also with problems of long-range adjustment on the campus.

A first orientation session, Monday, stressed registration procedures and planning course schedules.

Champion Retains Title In Iowa Plowing Match

HORNICK (AP)—Arthur Raisch of Sheffield, won the contour plowing contest at the 1959 Iowa Plowing Matches in southern Woodbury County Saturday for the second straight year.

Richard Davitt of Prole, won the level land matches. Lawrence Huber, of Ripley, defending champion in this division, finished fifth.

The contests are judged on straightness, conformation, tillage quality, coverage, land ends, clods, and time.

In contour plowing John Hartwick, McGregor, was second; Elmer Hibma, Harris, third; Jerry Jensen, Meriden, fourth; and Clemet Birney, Dow City, fifth.

In the level land division, George Megen, Clarksville, was second; H. M. Boersma, Sheldon, third; and Fritz Dettmer, Waverly, fourth.

Police estimated about 10,000 attended the contests.

SUI Offers Credit For TV Atom Physics Class

Physics for the Atomic Age is being offered again via NBC television's Continental Classroom this fall. A course in Modern Chemistry will be televised also by NBC. Both courses, which will start Monday, may be taken for college credit by registering with SUI, Iowa State Teachers College, or Iowa State University, Ames.

During its first season on the air in 1958-59, the course in Physics for the Atomic Age had 33 registrants at SUI and more than 30 at each of the other state schools. NBC's Continental Classroom was carried by more than 150 TV stations across the country and received the Sylvania and Peabody awards for the production of the physics course. On the basis of wide acceptance of the work in physics, NBC officials decided to inaugurate a course in college chemistry this season.

The national teacher of the chemistry course will be John F. Baxter, on leave of absence from his post as head of the Division of General Chemistry at the University of Florida. Baxter received his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins University.

Harvey E. White, vice-chairman of the Physics Department at the University of California, will again be the teacher of Atomic Age Physics.

Both courses will carry three semester-hours of upper level and graduate credit. The courses offer opportunities for increasing professional knowledge and are designed for teachers, engineers and others who want to improve their background in chemistry or physics. Tuition fees at SUI will be $14 per semester-hour.

"Atomic Age Physics" will be televised by NBC from 6 a.m. to 6:30 a.m. and "Modern Chemistry" will be telecast from 6:30 a.m. to 7 a.m. Both classes will start Monday, with programs to be presented five days a week.

NBC stations in this area telecasting the programs will be KWWL, Waterloo; WHO, Des Moines, and WOC, Davenport.

For both courses, enrollees will follow lesson outlines and send in problem solutions once a week. Four seminar review sessions, followed by an examination, will be held each semester on selected Saturdays. Students may enroll at the institution of their choice but may attend seminars at the nearest school.

Physics professors working with the program in Iowa will be Edward R. Nelson, SUI; Harold Nigh, ISU; and R. A. Rogers, ISTC. Chemistry professors are Ronald T. Pflaum, SUI; W. B. King, ISU; and J. W. Kercheval, ISTC.

A lesson synopsis is available to anyone who wishes to view the series and may be obtained by writing the Extension Class Service at SUI, or by writing to the registrars at either of the other Iowa participating institutions.

75 Highlanders Will Appear In Carroll Festival

Seventy-five members of the SUI Scottish Highlanders will participate in Carroll's third high school band festival today. They will be under the direction of William Adamson.

Under sponsorship of the Carroll Chamber of Commerce, SUI's unusual all-girl bagpipe band will make two appearances during the festival, one at a downtown area parade starting at 4 p.m. and the other at 7:30 p.m. at Merchants Park.

The SUI coeds will appear on the program with the Strategic Air Command Band and more than 50 high school bands.

At both performances, they will do a number of Scottish dances and marching demonstrations, along with bagpipe and drum music.

Prof. To Attend National Meeting Of UN Group

John R. Winnie, associate professor in the SUI Television Center, will take part next week in a national conference of the U.S. National Commission for the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

Winnie will represent the National Audience Board of America at the meeting, which will be held in Denver, Colo., Tuesday through Friday. General purpose of the conference is to increase interest in and understanding of Latin American people and cultures.

At the UNESCO meeting Winnie, who has played a major part in the development of educational television in Venezuela during the past several years as a representative of the Broadcasting Foundation of America, will take part in a panel discussion on the developments in educational television and theater in South America.

Would Like Visit To United States, Tito Tells Benson

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito told U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson Friday he'd like to visit the United States.

Benson and the independent Communist leader exchanged greetings over glasses of tomato juice at Tito's villa.

"You should come to visit our country sometime," said Benson, who is trying out what he calls "family-to-family" diplomacy to build good will for the United States and Eastern Europe.

"I should like to," Tito replied. That's evidently as far as it went.

Benson said later he had not formally renewed an invitation that President Eisenhower extended to Tito in 1957 to make such a trip.

Swift Raises Wages, Adds New Benefits

CHICAGO (AP)—Swift & Co. told 17,000 striking workers Friday it is putting into effect immediately an 8 1/2 cents an hour wage increase plus benefits and that work is available.

News of the increase, retroactive to Sept. 1, was contained in a letter to employees. Negotiators for two striking unions last week rejected an identical offer to serve as an interim agreement during bargaining talks.

The Swift announcement came shortly after a federal mediator called a Monday session between Swift and the two unions in a new attempt to resolve the 23-day strike.

A Swift spokesman said the company offer includes a cost of living escalator clause with immediate incorporation into the basic rates of a 14-cent an hour cost of living adjustment plus increased meal allowances and Saturday and Sunday premiums.

Average pay under the old contract, which expired Aug. 31, was $2.56 an hour.

In a joint statement, the United Packinghouse Workers of America and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen labeled the Swift offer as "unrestricted industrial warfare" and predicted it will fail.

"There is nothing basically new in Swift's announcement that its plants will be open Monday," the statement said. "Swift has kept its plants open since the strike began, but no strikers have returned."

"What is new," it continued, "is the announcement of a policy of unrestricted industrial warfare in place of sensible collective bargaining. It is trying to force down the throats of the workers a contract far inferior to that of the rest of the industry."

FORECAST NEW SPUTNIK

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Social Welfare news agency, which is run by Roman Catholic interests, said Friday Red China will launch a Sputnik Oct. 1, the 10th anniversary of the founding of the Chinese Communist government at Peiping.

Snark Missile Crashes In Cape Canaveral Launching

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Snark guided missile crashed and exploded on launching Friday night, ending another bad day for rocketry at the Cape.

The 69-foot intercontinental range Snark streaked from its pad and within seconds nose-dived into the ground. Burning fuel immediately consumed the missile in a brief but spectacular fire. No one was hurt.

Earlier, the Air Force called off an attempt to send a missile across the path of the Explorer VI Paddle Wheel satellite and the Navy abandoned to the sea a camera-carrying nose cone that may hold the first pictures of a complete hurricane.

The Nike-Cajun rocket that boosted the camera nose cone went slightly off course, making recovery of the cone more difficult.

Thursday, an Atlas-Able rocket being groomed to hurl a satellite about the moon blew up during a static test.

The Snark has been fired more than sixty times and is considered one of the most reliable U.S. rockets. It recently was declared operational and several of the missiles are stationed with the 702nd Strategic Missile Wing at Presque Isle, Maine.

Friday's Snark was scheduled to carry a simulated warhead to a watery target off Ascension Island 5,000 miles away.

The cause of the failure was not immediately known.
