Supreme Court Refuses To Hurry Steel Appeal

Means Strike Could Drag On To Next Week

Finnegan Wants Talks To Start Again Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused Wednesday to require the Steelworkers Union to hurry its appeal from an order that would end the 106-day-old steel strike.

This probably means the strike will drag on at least into next week.

In a brief order giving no reasons, the high court rejected a Government request that the back-to-work injunction become effective promptly if the union did not file its appeal by noon Thursday.

By so doing, the Supreme Court let stand a six-day delay granted the union by an appeals court in Philadelphia Tuesday when it upheld the back-to-work order issued earlier by a U.S. district judge in Pittsburgh. That delay — intended to give the union time to carry its case to the Supreme Court — is due to expire Monday.

There was nothing to indicate the high court's action was other than unaimed.

The ruling came a little more than seven hours after the Justice Department formally had requested the court to lose no time and uphold the back-to-work order "so that the emergency created by the steel strike may not continue longer than absolutely necessary."

The order in dispute would require the Steelworkers to return to their jobs for 80 days while settlement efforts were renewed.

The Steelworkers Union's lawyers opposed the speed-up procedure sought by the Government, contending there are serious statutory and constitutional issues involved and that these require unhurried consideration.

Arthur J. Goldberg, the union's counsel, filed a document questioning the high court's right to take the case at this stage. The union said a delay of a few more days, even a few more weeks, "would not irreparably harm the national interest."

Although the union now has until Monday to file its formal appeal papers, Goldberg indicated he intends to do so Friday and to follow with a detailed legal brief on Monday.

The Government is opposed to a Supreme Court review of the appeals court decision, and will file papers in opposition as soon as the union brings in its petition asking for review.

After all the pleadings are in, the court could dispose of the case simply by denying a review. Or it could order oral argument on the merits of the case before making a decision.

The papers in Wednesday's maneuvering were filed with Justice William J. Brennan Jr., who supervises the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia. He referred the matter to his colleagues, and all nine justices participated in the denial of the speed-up procedure urged by the Government.

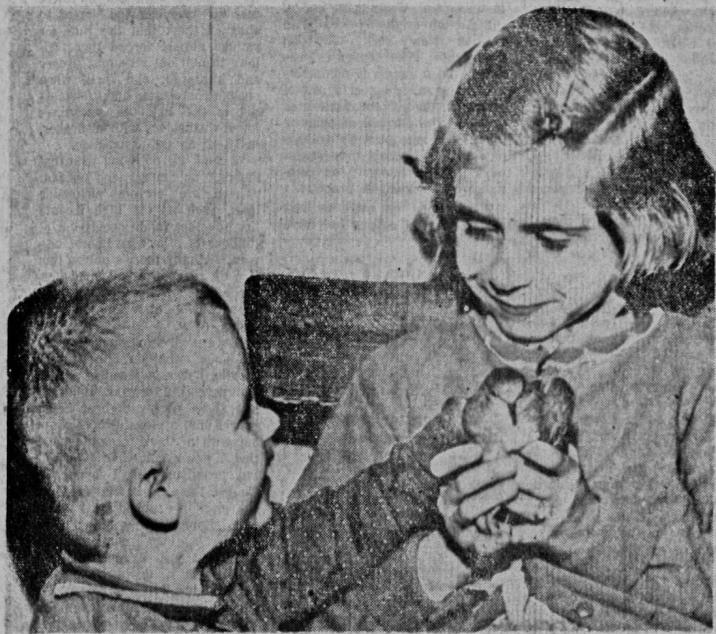

As the Justice Department sought hurry-up action by the Supreme Court, President Eisenhower told his news conference the separate agreement reached earlier this week by the Kaiser Steel Corp. and the union "should be a signal for both labor and management to find a basis in which we can get back into full production."

A few hours later, the union — representing 500,000 striking workers — and representatives of 11 big steel producers announced that negotiations will resume in Pittsburgh Thursday afternoon. The talks will be conducted by four-man teams speaking for each side. These teams met last on Sunday. Since then, Kaiser has made a separate peace.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation Service, wired the top men on both sides that if their efforts "are not productive of an agreement by Sunday midnight," he expects them to come here for joint bargaining conferences Monday at the Labor Department.

Finnegan told the union and management negotiators both parties

Bomber From Sphere Launched, Inflated Little Rock Gets 3 Years

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A circuit court jury Wednesday convicted Jesse Raymond Perry, 24, of bombing the Little Rock School Board offices and fixed his punishment at three years in the penitentiary.

Perry appeared stunned at the verdict.

The prosecution had asked a sentence of five years and a $500 fine, the maximum under an old Arkansas law covering bombings.

The state made no attempt to show that Perry actually was present when school board offices were bombed the night of Sept. 7. It sought to show instead that he knew the building was to be bombed and aided and abetted the bomber.

J. D. Sims, 35, testified Wednesday that he actually set the bomb but that Perry knew what he was going to do and handled the dynamite while Sims went on another bombing job.

Judge William J. Kirby gave the defense 30 days to file a motion for a new trial. He said he would defer formal sentencing until such a motion is acted upon.

The state's key witness was Sims, who pleaded guilty to bombing the school board offices and now is serving a five-year prison sentence.

But the most damaging evidence against Perry was his own statement, given to police the second day after he was arrested.

In the statement, Perry said he had agreed to dynamite a station wagon belonging to Fire Chief Gann Nalley but that he backed out at the last minute. Perry said the bombings were to be part of a plan to harass Little Rock for accepting public school integration.

Both Perry and Sims said Sims bombed Nalley's car for Perry and then carried out his own assignment — the school board blast. They agreed that Perry held the dynamite to be used at the school while Sims went to Nalley's house.

It Ain't No Bull, Bulls Got This Man

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Thomas V. McHugh, 37, hit and killed a cow while driving home Tuesday night. Then the real action started.

Two bulls charged the car and demolished it. Highway Patrolman Tom Meehan said one of the angry bulls suffered fatal injuries.

McHugh was treated for a scalp cut.

Hurricane Lashes Port In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Eighty persons are known dead and 100 missing in the hurricane-hit Pacific port of Manzanillo, reports from the area said Wednesday night. Estimates put the number of injured at 500.

It was feared many of those listed as missing would be found buried in the wreckage of houses and other buildings.

The hurricane raked the port Tuesday. Rivers fed by torrential two-day rains flooded large areas of the states of Colima and Jalisco.

Mexico's President Adolfo Lopez Mateos took personal charge of relief activities.

Rescue workers in planes and helicopters dropped food, blankets and medicines to persons in the stricken area. Many hurricane victims had fled to high ground or were on rooftops or in trees.

The full extent of the casualties and damage still was unknown. Much of the stricken area was without telephone or telegraph communications. Nearly all roads were blocked by earth slides or floods.

Sketchy details on the mounting casualties were received Wednesday night by telegraph, the first since the storm knocked out communications with Manzanillo.

Severed, Crushed Leg Sewn On Man In Medical First

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) — A team of surgeons successfully sewed a severed and crushed leg back on an injured man in an unprecedented operation, the Hayward Daily Review reported Wednesday.

The operation was performed three months ago in Mt. Eden Hospital on Billy Smith, 25, whose right leg was virtually severed in an industrial accident.

Smith is still in the hospital. The right leg is two inches shorter than the left and still without sensation. It will never be entirely normal, one of the surgeons said, but "it will be better than anything he can buy in a store."

The doctors, who insisted on anonymity said they could find no parallel in medical annals.

They said it bore little resemblance to the highly publicized plan of a Russian surgeon to graft a leg from a dead person onto a 20-year-old girl amputee.

The operation was an unplanned, spur of the moment thing inspired by experiences of an orthopedic surgeon in the Korean War.

INDO-CHINA RELATIONS

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Dr. A. V. Baliga, president of the India-Soviet Cultural Society, a leader in the India-China Friendship Association, and a close friend of Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, has gone to Red China for what he called a private visit.

Anti-American Cuban Action Will Intensify

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba's rejection of U.S. Government complaints over Fidel Castro's behavior suggested Wednesday that the anti-American campaign here probably will be intensified.

Thus far, no cool heads have popped up within the revolutionary Cabinet to urge moderation. Instead, the men who have been most bitter in the attacks on the United States appear to have Prime Minister Castro's ear.

Cuban-American relations have deteriorated since May, when Castro's sweeping agrarian program became law. This limits the size of plantations and ranches and provides for distribution of seized acreage to landless farmers.

Critics say the Castro regime is in economic trouble and must create a crisis to hide its difficulties.

Castro's supporters deny such statements as of counterrevolutionary inspiration. They offer statistics to show that Cuba, in this 10th month under Castro, is much better off than it was under Fulgencio Batista, ousted president.

Students of Castro's regime say its trend is unmistakably toward "socializing and Cubanizing" every phase of activity.

Americans here are concerned over American investments estimated at more than $650 million.

A growing complaint that the agrarian reform program appears to be giving control of Cuban farmlands to the state through the increasingly powerful Institute of Agrarian Reform.

The institute is dotting Cuba with cooperatives. Critics of the program, using a term popular in the Communist sphere, call them "collective farms."

Politically, Castro has lost substantial support at home, but the great Cuban masses — workers and farmers — likely are backing him as staunchly as they did when he came to power Jan. 1.

Cuban Plane Buzzes Ship

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy said Wednesday an American destroyer escort was given a low, circling look by a Cuban air force plane in Caribbean waters late Monday afternoon.

The report received in Washington said a B26-type craft bearing Cuban air force markings had circled the D. E. John Willis at an altitude of a few hundred feet but took off without any hostile gesture.

Negotiators Can Not Agree On Steel Wage Pack Values

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Negotiators in the steel strike can't even agree on the value of a wage package proposal, let alone get together on the amount of new money a contract should provide for the workers.

On Oct. 15 the United Steelworkers Union made a strike settlement proposal — the last so far. The union said its proposed package would cost industry 20.4 cents an hour over two years.

The industry studied the package proposal for one day, then rejected it. Executives of the steel firms said the proposal would cost the companies 23.8 cents an hour for two years. Right there they are 8.4 cents apart.

On Oct. 17 the industry submitted a counter three-year proposal which the union quickly rejected. The industry said its package would cost 29.4. The union said its total value was 23.8 cents. This time a difference of 5.6 cents.

When the union and industry refer to a package they are talking about a combination of increased wages and fringe benefits such as insurance, pensions, differentials between jobs and a number of other items.

The companies always figure how much a wage or package increase will boost the cost of vacation pay, holiday pay, overtime, Sunday premiums and the like and add these figures to the total cost.

The union does not deal in such figures. When it computes the cost of a package it figures only the basic costs. To the union a seven-cent hourly increase costs seven cents — no more, no less.

In its last proposal the industry offered to make provisions for a three-cent-an-hour cost of living increase if Government figures indicated the cost of living rose that much or more above what workers got in the contractual agreement.

But when the industry figured the three cents into the cost of the package it was listed at 3.6 cents. The six-tenths was the company estimate of what overtime, holiday and similar costs would be increased by such a pay boost.

The union didn't include this figure in the package estimate because it was something that may or may not be given to the workers.

Ex-Ambassador In Critical Condition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, former ambassador to Russia, is in critical condition at Walter Reed Hospital, the Army medical center reported Wednesday night.

A hospital spokesman said the 64-year-old retired soldier is suffering from pneumonia and a lung abscess. He entered the hospital Oct. 13.

Tudor Resigns Editorship Of Daily Iowan

Editor of The Daily Iowan, Stephen Tudor, G. Tacoma, Wash., resigned his position late Wednesday afternoon in a letter to Leslie Moeller, professor of SU's School of Journalism and chairman of the Board of Student Publications.

Reportedly, the resignation came after a series of disputes with DI publisher John M. Harrison. When asked if the reports were true, Tudor said "no comment."

The Board of Student Publications will meet today to consider his resignation.

Tudor began his duties as DI editor on Sept. 15 of this year. Later in the same month the Board of Student Publications approved his appointment.

Tudor is an M.A. candidate in American Civilization. He expects to get his degree in June. While serving in the United States Army, Tudor edited his battalion's newspaper.

Ike Says De Gaulle Ready For Summit Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower disclosed Wednesday that all major Western leaders, French President Charles de Gaulle included, have agreed to hold a Western summit conference within the next few months.

De Gaulle evidently is calling the turn on timing. He also apparently is going to get his way about putting off until sometime next spring a subsequent East-West summit conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Western session may take place before the end of the year, perhaps in Paris. Eisenhower said the time and place remain to be worked out.

There have been plenty of indications that a Western conference was a certainty. But Eisenhower's statement to a news conference that de Gaulle will be ready for one around mid-December was the first definite word the French leader has agreed to attend.

The news conference got around to other topics. Eisenhower applied a bit more pressure — for ending the steel strike, said it is puzzling why Cuba's Fidel Castro is so unhappy with the United States, and envisioned no significant reductions in U. S. defense spending in the budget he will send to Congress in January.

It also was announced that the President plans to undergo his annual thorough check-up at Walter Reed Army Medical Center soon, possibly later this week.

Press Secretary James G. Hagerly said the head-to-toe examination has nothing to do with the cold Eisenhower has been trying to shake since early last month.

The President has been getting annual checkups for several years. Eisenhower told newsmen that a contract between Kaiser Steel Corp. and the United Steelworkers Union, ending a small segment of the steel strike, "should be a signal for labor and management to find a basis in which we can get back into full production."

"To my mind," the President said, "the country not only needs it, but I think the country is more and more demanding it, and I believe these two sides should be ready to make the conciliatory moves that will make it possible."

With reference to Cuban Prime Minister Castro's tirades against the United States, Eisenhower was asked: "What do you suppose, sir, is eating him?"

The chief executive laughed along with everybody else, then turned serious. He declined to go into Castro's motives. He gave his backing to a State Department statement Tuesday contending that relations between the two countries are being hurt by Castro's charges that the United States opposes him and supports his enemies.

Eisenhower was asked about the possibility of cutting defense spending in the light of the Soviet announcement Tuesday that the new Soviet budget will hit a record high for peacetime but that defense spending will be held at the present level.

The President replied that he foresees no significant reductions,

Van Doren: Knowledge, Quiz Show Skill Not Same

By CHARLES VAN DOREN. To me knowledge also implies civilization. I can't imagine a wise man being a bore. Yet a contestant could answer every question ever asked on all quiz programs and still be a nincompoop.

He could "know everything" and still know nothing, because he knew none of the connections between the things that he "knew." Knowledge consists largely of making analogies, of seeing similarities, of deducing principles and laws. Knowledge is general statements. Quiz shows are concerned with the particular. They have to be. There isn't time to argue on the air, and general statements are always disputable. Everything worthwhile is. Any subject about which there is no longer any difference of opinion, is, you may be sure, a dull subject.

This knowledge is in a way more concerned with the unknown than with the known. It might even be said that as soon as you know something it isn't worth knowing any more. Only those things are worth knowing which you don't know yet. You never know where your mind is going to lead you, but there is only one place you don't want to go, and that's where you've been.

This is one of the main differences between quiz shows and teaching. On the air you answer questions, in the classroom you ask them.

The good teacher tells his students very few facts but he asks them a lot of questions. Many of the questions have no answers at all. The students are puzzled at this. They don't like to believe that anything is not known. Only old and wise men know how little is known.

The average college freshman is an extraordinary being, not because of the things he doesn't know, but because of the vast number of things he "knows"

What aren't so. Teachers are much more ignorant than their students — or they should be. And they try to drive a little of this ignorance into the students' heads. Some of it gets there, I guess.

An educated man, then, and a quiz show contestant are moving rather rapidly in opposite directions. The world of the educated man is full of mysteries. It is foggy and dark, with lots of unlighted passages leading off to no one knows where. The more educated he is the more such passages he discovers.

Sir Isaac Newton, after he had finished his great work, the "Principia Mathematica," said that he felt like a little boy who had picked up a few shining pebbles in the sea, while the great ocean of truth lay undiscovered before him. Sir Isaac had one of the four or five greatest minds of all time, and it would be presumptuous of me to say I understand fully what he meant. Yet every educated man has felt what Newton felt, I think, and has felt it more and more as his life went on.

New Girdle Has More S-t-r-e-t-c-h

Here's good news for women pinched by bulky girdles: The DuPont Co. will put into production a new textile fiber which stretches and snaps back into place like rubber. This means, DuPont says, that girdles made of the fiber will be easier to get in and out of, will be lighter, softer and sheerer, and will give as much figure control as heavier models.

of the world of the educated man is the bright little circle of light in which the quiz show contestant basks in his isolation booth. All is certainty there. One need not worry or be distressed. Only those questions are asked which have answers, and then only if the answers are available, on a card held in the M.C.'s hand. Probably fireflies, flitting about in the spring twilight, are as sure of their little circles of luminescence as the contestant is of his.

Rep. Stanley Talks Tonight To Group Steel Holders To Take Loss

Muscatine County Rep. David M. Stanley will address the SU1 Young Republicans tonight at 7:30 in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol.

Stanley will speak on the subject "How to Run for Political Office." Co-author of a reapportionment plan for Iowa, he may also answer questions directed to him on that topic.

Stanley is a Muscatine attorney who graduated from SU1 with a degree of Juris Doctor in 1953, ranking first in his class in the College of Law. In 1958 he was the winner of the Toastmasters Club public speaking contest for Iowa.

Also on the program will be Ivan J. Ackerman, A3, Iowa City, who will give a short educational talk on the Constitutional requirements for calling a state Constitutional Convention.

Coffee and doughnuts will be served in a social hour following the meeting.

Kabalevsky signed madly without looking up. A program was thrust into his hand and he signed it. The polite snickers finally made him raise his eyes — to discover that he had signed an autograph for Shostakovich. The latter bore off his trophy, grinning like a mischievous imp. The music-lovers loved it.

The six Russians even infiltrated the affections of our armed forces. At a coffee and cake blowout given by the President's music committee they made much over a young pianist in the Oklahoma city of the same name on Nov. 22. The name of the young pianist is Nathan Twining.

NEW YORK (AP) — A leading economist said Wednesday that in his opinion it'll be the stockholder not the public who absorbs the higher labor cost in any steel settlement.

Eliot Janeway, president of Janeway Research Corp. and a director of Birdsboro Steel Foundry & Machine Co., made the statement in a news announcement.

"The industry made a profit on the higher labor costs it absorbed in 1956 because it was able to raise its prices enough to do so," Janeway said.

"But it can't repeat this chapter of history this year, thanks to imports, let alone politics. And it isn't even going to try." "Regardless of the outcome of the steel strike, steel stocks have had their move. The mere existence of the steel agreement is bound to disturb the investment community which traditionally draws its money back from management whose operating problems are allowed to become political footballs and daily newspaper headlines.

"Even an immediate contract can only mean defeat for the industry as the Kaiser settlement suggests. The union need not — and will not — give the productivity issue, but the industry already has agreed to give up on the labor cost issue."

Christmas clubs with 13 million members will pour $1.4 billion in savings into business channels in the next two weeks, President Edward F. Dorset of the Christmas Club Corp. says members plan to use 31 per cent for Christmas buying, 51 per cent for savings and investment and the balance for taxes, bills and miscellaneous expenses.

He has a father of the same name serving as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Mrs. Jouett Shouse, chairman of the President's committee, delivered a warm speech of welcome, but conductor-composer Kabalevsky outwamed her in his reply. Kab also made more extravagant gestures and he prophesied more harmony. He exuded so much bonhomie that Mrs. Garfield Kass, who outfitted the President's music committee headquarters around the corner from Blair House with old furniture she begged and borrowed — because there didn't seem to be any appropriations forthcoming — had to restrain herself from hitting Kabalevsky for a contribution.

Shostakovich must be the kinder of kidders. When Kabalevsky's panegyric was translated into English, Shostakovich offered — in his native tongue — to translate it back into Russian.

To establish a further bond with the six Soviet composers ate typical American breakfasts. They had the whole staff of the Sheraton Park Hotel coffee shop staring at them in peaceful co-existence as they worked their way through country ham and eggs, sweet rolls, toast, yogurt, buttermilk, cottage cheese and coffee.

Stock Market Trade Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Hectic trading in Studebaker-Packard and American Motors highlighted a mixed and top-sided stock market Wednesday. Dealings were heavy.

Turnover was 3,920,000 shares compared with 4,160,000 Tuesday. Studebaker issues contributed nearly 660,000 shares of the total volume.

More stocks declined than advanced but the industrial average was up.

The two independent automakers sped quickly to new highs in early trading then gyrated erratically. American Motors, ahead more than 3 at the start, took a net loss of 1/8. Studebaker common, also up around 3 at best, settled for a net rise of 1/4.

Steels backed away cautiously. Big Three motors were mixed. Space age stocks rallied from early losses and were up on balance. Oils continued Tuesday's rally modestly.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 1.42 to 643.60.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 50 cents to $24.10 with the industrials up $1.60, the rails down 60 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Of 1,212 issues traded, 521 declined and 464 advanced. There were 27 new highs for the year and 30 new lows.

After the close, the New York Stock Exchange banned until further notice all "stop orders" in any of the Studebaker issues. These are orders placed in advance by shareholders to buy or sell a stock at a given price. This practice leads to a bunching of orders and sometimes to chaotic trading conditions in heavily traded issues.

American Stock Exchange prices were mostly higher on volume of 1,320,000 shares compared with 1,330,000 Tuesday.

Government bonds shaded lower. Trading amounted to $6,270,000 par value on the Big Board compared with $6,860,000 Tuesday.

MEETINGS

YOUNG REPUBLICANS will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol. State Representative David Stanley of Muscatine will be the speaker.

Jazz Review

By GLEN BITTER Daily Iowan Columnist

Everyone strives for something new, something fresh in jazz. In 1949, Miles Davis, then a leading exponent of the bop era, fronted a group which included the new sound of the tuba as a jazz instrument. And then Julius Watkins came on the scene and leaders began to voice the French horn into their arrangements. Only a few years later, Gerry Mulligan found success with a piano-less group, and his drummer, Chico Hamilton, went on to form a group including cello, guitar, flute, bass and drums. Oscar Peterson has worked without drums. Bob Cooper introduced the oboe to the jazz society. In short, someone has used almost every conceivable arrangement of instruments in search of a new sound.

And then there's a fellow who's been around for a long time, but only recently has received well-deserved respect as an innovator, Jean "Toots" Thielemans, (pronounced Teelman), while playing guitar in many groups (among them, George Shearing's) always carried in his pocket a little instrument which brought only laughs when thought of as a jazz maker: the harmonica. Several years ago, Charlie "Yardbird" Parker, visiting a French night club, listened in amazement to the young man, Thielemans, as he played some of "Bird's" solos, exactly as "Parker" had played them himself. Charlie returned night after night to applaud the harmonicaist for his fantastic technique and soul-searching ideas.

Ever since then, only a minority of critics have given Thielemans any playing room on harmonica. Recently, however, he has recorded with his own group and is proving that the harmonica has a place in jazz.

On the new "Shearing on Stage" album, Thielemans switches from guitar to harmonica to lead an Afro-Cuban group through the jazz standard, "Caravan." The sound of the harmonica is haunting and almost hollow. Sticking close to the melody, "Toots" enhances the intriguing tune with penetrating, blue tones which seem to fit right in with the driving rhythm section. It's a different and refreshing sound, and Thielemans likes to dig in and play with little restraint.

To be sure, jazz lovers will hear a lot more from Jean Thielemans. You can't help but enjoy the big swinging sounds that come from his little harmonica.

Dispute Over Marriage Stirs Vatican

By BARRETT MCGURN Herald Tribune News Service

ROME (HTNS) — A controversy is going on among Roman Catholic Churchmen about whether to permit the Clergy to marry, but official opposition is so strong that no change is expected.

This is disclosed in an article in the current issue of Civiltà Cattolica, the Jesuit magazine of Rome and traditional channel of the Popes for making known many views not otherwise published. The magazine is dedicated in a special way to helping the reigning Pontiff.

The Civiltà Cattolica article, written by Father Domenico Mondrone, reports that a group of "abolitionists" are at work attempting to get permission for Catholic priests to take wives. The question of permitting priests to marry is one of many long-standing issues now being debated actively by Catholic clergymen in view of the 21st Catholic Ecumenical Council which Pope John XXIII has summoned for late 1960 or for some time in 1961. Civiltà Cattolica said that advocates of an "abolition" of celibacy, that is to say the supporters of marriage for the Catholic Clergy, are making these points:

- 1.—All men need, if not a physical, at least spiritual "completion" in woman. 2.—Marriage would help eliminate the occasional offenses against chastity which even some members of the Clergy, as unmarried men, have committed. 3.—Doing away with the celibacy requirement would make it easier to attract more men to the priesthood in areas where vocations are now disturbingly scarce. 4. It could even be argued that it is impossible for a man to be wholly continent.

The Jesuit magazine challenged each of theses. It said the last was the most important and that Catholics are forbidden by the findings of the 19th Ecumenical Council, in Trent, Italy, in the 16th century, to believe in the impossibility of continence. Divine Grace makes it possible, the review said, on the subject of vocations, the paper pointed out that the scarcity in France, Italy and Latin America is not matched by conditions in the United States, Spain and Germany where there are many vocations. Other factors such as inadequate religious education and miserably poor incomes for clergy were the cause of the vocation shortage, the paper insisted.

Mind you, I'm not copping a plea for any of the wrong-doers. I think they ought to be ashamed of themselves for matching the greed of the contestants who vie for the easy money and the audiences who got a vicarious thrill watching the transactions take place. I just say there are many more important things in the world to worry about and attempt to put in order than crooked quiz shows. One last thought on the subject. If you want to reach a little. When we were born, you'd never know exactly when the stork would arrive. Today, thanks to the remarkable Caesarian method, you can predict the exact hour and date. Even the birth of some babies is rigged these days.

Good Listening— Today On WSUI

OEDIPUS AT COLONUS, a new translation of the play by Sophocles, will be WSUI's Evening at the Theatre presentation at 8 p.m. Originally scheduled for early October, Oedipus was delayed in transit from the British Broadcasting Corporation whose World Theatre produced it. It stars Sir John Gielgud, a recent visitor to the SU1 campus.

PETE SEEGER CONCERT, to be presented in MacBride Auditorium tomorrow evening, will be recorded by WSUI for broadcast at a time to be announced. Considered by aficionados to be the leading American folk singer, Seeger will be making his third appearance in Iowa City. Heretofore, however, he has not been locally recorded.

THOSE WHO PREFER OPERA, may listen Friday at 7:30 p.m. to "An Evening With Strauss the Younger." That would likely be Johann Junior, and the music will be drawn from his One Thousand and One Nights (a pretty ruin in ANY season) and Wiener Blut (apparently an early form of Bratwurst).

"And all of it isn't necessarily larcenous. Sometimes it comes under the heading of showmanship, progress, or even poetic license. I'm sure that when these shows were put on there was no premeditated intent to cheat. I think that the race for ratings almost forced these fellows to pull out all stops, proper and improper, and then, when enough contestants and assistants got in the act, the packagers found themselves without brakes, hell-bent on self-destruction.

"I think I'll go along with that theory," an actor friend nodded. "There are certain unpopular laws, such as the high income tax bite that made cheats out of millions of otherwise honest citizens. Actually there's only a thin line dividing pure and unadulterated chicanery from what we call showmanship or even merchandising today.

"Let me give you an example," the actor went on. "In recent months I was involved in a beer commercial. I always wondered how those photos of beer being poured into a glass always came out with a thick creamy head that I never got when I poured any brand of beer. I found out. To get this effect the inside of the glass is rubbed with soap. Very simple. Try it yourself. Now is this cheating? I don't think so. I think it just exaggerates and dramatizes a quality the beer actually has."

I can give you other examples of fair rigging. Did you know that the finest and juiciest Florida oranges are artificially colored to make them look as orange as the oranges you see in the color ads? The same is true with hundreds of food items. What about the importance of a woman's or a man's appearance today? Wouldn't you say the average person is rigged? Women take hours to "put on a new face," wear fashions (even the name admits the sham); if they've been issued unflattering noses a plastic surgeon shapes up new and prettier ones. And when movie and tevee fans admire a glamorous doll's teeth, don't they know the teeth are bright and white and even because they've been capped? Probably the most popular form of rigging is dyeing the hair in colors to match the season's new fashions.

Look at the men. Toupees... shoulder pads... elevator heels... some capped teeth and new noses too. What about politics? How are candidates for office chosen? By the public or by small groups of men working "round" the clock and calendar to seat engineers of their own making at the throles of the gray trains. The elections are honest but the selections of the candidates are oftentimes slick and slimy. Ask any kingmaker, off the record, and he'll agree the game of politics isn't any cleaner than the tevee quiz games were.

Even the birth of some babies is rigged these days.

ANOTHER HOME FOOTBALL GAME is always the inspiration at WSUI for an all-out CUE program, Saturday from 10 a.m. to gametime (about 1:15 p.m.). A visit from the sports publicity director of Kansas State U. is anxiously awaited so that Iowa fans may discover how our sister institution (ISU), through its football team, managed to defeat KSU so roughly. In addition, the coach of the Iowa squad, Sports Roundtable, and the usual exciting melange of tidbits and trivia will add to the trauma and titillation. Scores of all games are heard every Saturday on Tea Time Special.

Does President Have Strict Limitations On His Power?

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's often pointed out that the president of the United States has one of the most powerful jobs in the world. But the man sitting in the White House, faced with problems that seem to multiply faster than solutions can be found for them, must sometimes wonder if his powers are as great as political writers say they are.

At his news conference Wednesday President Eisenhower touched on a dozen or more subjects. And it seemed that in about half of them he was showing that in this complex world even a president has severe limitations on what he can do.

Some limitations he imposes on himself. This would be true of the steel strike. From its beginning, on July 15, Eisenhower has been unhappy about it.

Science, Math Students Rise, Survey Shows

HERALD TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE NEW YORK — College students seem to be responding to the increasing needs for scientists and mathematicians in the space age. The number of Bachelors Degrees in science and mathematics last fall to be granted in 1959-60 should total 45,000 — a 20 per cent increase over 1957-58.

This is the prediction of a new study published by the United States Office of Education in Washington. The survey of more than 1,000 colleges and universities investigated junior-year enrollments in science and mathematics last fall to forecast the future growth of the scientific manpower pool.

Driver Suffers 'Black Out,' Three Injured

CLINTON (AP) — Three persons were injured Wednesday when a driver "blacked out" on Highway 136 and his car smashed into two other cars and a truck.

Injured were Martin Krogman, 63, of near Clinton, driver of the car which went out of control, and Mr. and Mrs. Hans Jessen, in their 60s, of Clinton.

The greatest jump in majors for juniors was in the field of mathematics, a gain of 31 per cent from 1957 to 1958. Almost 12,000 were registered as math majors last fall, and the 2,828 student gain was greater than the increase in all science fields combined.

Rockefeller, Ike Discuss Politics; No Announcement

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller conferred with President Eisenhower for 70 minutes Wednesday and said afterward the discussion dealt in part with politics.

But Rockefeller, a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, declined to tell newsmen whether there was discussion of his personal political plans.

The governor said the main purpose of his meeting with Eisenhower was to report on a state governors' meeting dealing with civil defense planning.

At one point, Rockefeller indicated he will make no announcement regarding his political plans before early next year.

Rockefeller recalled he said in New Hampshire recently he would defer any announcement until after he completes work on his state budget and legislative program for next year. The New York Legislature will meet in January, and will be in session for about three months.

Photos Rigged To Blackmail Minister Says

YANCEYVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A Baptist minister and his attractive wife have been charged with blackmail by another minister who claims he was tricked into a bedroom scene and photographed.

Robert Murphy Resigns; Plans To Enter Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Wednesday night accepted the resignation of Robert D. Murphy, veteran career diplomat, as undersecretary of state for political affairs.

The Rev. G. A. Hamby, 59, also a Baptist minister of Tuxedo, alleges in his complaint that while visiting the home of the Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Swinson, Mrs. Swinson revealed herself to him in the nude and pulled him from the kitchen into a bedroom onto a bed.

Murphy, a Milwaukee-born Irishman who turned 65 Wednesday, is retiring from the Foreign Service effective Oct. 31. His resignation as undersecretary is effective Dec. 3.

Then, the Rev. Mr. Hamby charges, the Rev. Swinson appeared, photographed them on the bed and beat Hamby severely with a stick. Hamby said he needed 60 stitches in the head, 6 in his chin, and 4 in one hand to close the wounds.

Eisenhower accepted the resignation "with deep regret, but with complete understanding."

He claimed the incident occurred the morning of Oct. 15 after he had been invited by the Swinsons on a deer-hunting trip.

In a "Dear Bob" letter made public by the White House, the President wrote his old friend.

Hamby's church is in Caswell County, near the Virginia line. Swinson is the pastor of Faith Baptist Church near Burlington. He is about 40, his wife in her 30s. They have two young children.

Eisenhower called it a privilege to have worked with Murphy on many assignments since early 1941, when they were together in Algeria.

The Swinsons were charged in five warrants with blackmail, conspiracy and assault.

Hamby had his wounds treated and returned the next day to Tuxedo, where he stopped payment on the check.

Charges then were brought against Swinson.

Murphy said he has no desire to make a lot of money in private life but he does want to add to his financial security and spend more time with his family than he ever could as a diplomat.

Murphy said only that he is leaving government service for personal reasons.

Big 8, Big 10 Doormats Tangle Saturday

By JIM TUCKER
Staff Writer

After losing three conference games, all to teams ranked among the top eleven in the nation, Iowa's Hawkeyes will face a much weaker squad Saturday when they tangle with the Kansas State Wildcats at Iowa City. Kansas State is currently in last place in the Big Eight Conference with a record of one win and five losses.

Saturday's contest is the third meeting between the two schools. The Hawkeyes have taken the previous tilts in 1951 and 1955.

The Wildcats, coached by former Iowa halfback Bus Mertes, have dropped decisions to Wichita, Oklahoma State, Colorado, Kansas and Iowa State. Their only win came over South Dakota early in the season.

Like Iowa, Kansas State uses the winged-T offense, but the Wildcats have shown a definite lack of offensive power in games so far. They were held scoreless last week by Iowa State, and have averaged just 13 points per game.

Leading the backfield is quarterback John Solmos. Solmos currently is ranked third in the Big Eight in passing, completing 35 of 71 passes for 479 yards in six games. He also carries a 4.4 yards per carry rushing average.

At fullback, the Wildcats will probably start Gene Bassetti. Bassetti, a 216 pound junior, is among the leading rushers on the squad with a 3.7 average. J. B. Littlejohn, regular fullback, is on the injured list, but it is possible that he may see some action against Iowa.

Kansas State is weak at the half-back positions. Jack Marcoline and Max Falk provided the Wildcats with good strength early in the season at the halfback positions, but both are sidelined indefinitely with injuries. In their absence, the Wildcats will probably start Dale Evans, the leading Kansas State pass receiver, and George Whitney.

Defense has been a major problem all season for the Wildcats. Opponents have averaged 23 points per game against them. The Kansas State line and backfield have good size, but both are lacking in speed.

The line is led by 256 pound tackle John Stolte and sophomore center Al Kouneski. Due to injuries and other difficulties, the Wildcat lineup is ever changing, but other probable starters in the line are Dick Corrigan at tackle, Paul Kemp and Ray Kovar at guards, and Gary Lafferty and Vern Osborne at the end positions.

Kovar moved into a first team position this week when Neal Spence, former starter, dropped out of school for scholastic reasons.

Lane In Split Decision Over Ex-Champ Akins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bloodied Kenny Lane crashed the welterweight ranks Wednesday night with a split decision over Virgil Akins, former welter champion.

Lane, the second-ranked lightweight contender, survived a wicked cut on his right eye in the third round and fought back to pound Akins around the Capitol Arena ring.

NCAA Council Hits 2 More Schools, Offers Alien Curb

BOSTON (AP) — The NCAA Wednesday slapped Wyoming and Montana State College with probation sentences for violation of the group's rules on recruiting and financial aid to athletes.

The action brought to four the number of schools so penalized by the group during its three-day meeting.

Hamline University of St. Paul, Minn., was reprimanded by the NCAA Council, policy-directing body for the 550-member organization, for violating rules on try-outs.

Wyoming, currently leading the Skyline Conference in football, drew a one-year probation sentence, and its football team was declared ineligible for any post-season bowl games. As conference champion last season, Wyoming

The NCAA Council Wednesday elected Iowa's Robert Ray to its nominating committee for the annual convention of the 550-member group in New York Jan. 6-8.

In addition to Ray the Council elected Rixford Snyder, Stanford; J. O. Christen, Connecticut; E. D. Barnes, Colgate; Col. D. D. McAlister, The Citadel; Frank Stoval, Houston; Delbert Swartz, Arkansas; Francis Smiley, Colorado; and Willis J. Stetson, Swarthmore.

Ivan B. Williamson, Wisconsin, was named chairman of the group's committee on committees.

played in the Sun Bowl game and was considered a likely candidate for invitation this year.

In Laramie, Wyo., Wyoming's head football coach, Bob Devaney, said he will appeal the decision.

Montana State was placed on probation for two years, was made ineligible for any NCAA national championships and denied participation in any invitational events held in cooperation with the NCAA, including postseason football bowl games.

Both sentences, announced by NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers, are effective immediately.

Tuesday Arizona State University at Tempe was placed on probation for two years and the University of Mississippi for one year.

Byers said 13 other cases "are being held in abeyance." He did not identify the schools nor indicate when those cases may be decided.

Hunt: NFL Expansion Won't Stop New Pro League Plans

NEW YORK (AP) — The embryo American Football League will begin operations in 1960 even if the long-established National Football League moves into Dallas and Houston, its founder, Lamar Hunt, said Wednesday.

Hunt, the multimillionaire oil man and owner of the Dallas franchise in the newly proposed professional circuit, said he did not expect to get involved in a war with the older circuit but added:

"We won't be run over or stepped on."

Mr. Bert Bell (late NFL commissioner) told me a second professional league was good for the National league and the players.

He assured me his league was not anxious to run into another player war as it had with the All-American Conference some years ago.

"This threat to expand into Texas territory is not consistent with his thinking. However, as far as I am concerned, such a move . . . would not prevent us from going through with our plans."

Hunt's remarks came during a press conference after a meeting of the seven franchise holders in which they explored the addition of an eighth member and proposed candidates for the job of commissioner. There is a strong possibility that Edgar (Rip) Miller, former Notre Dame star and Navy line coach, will be named commissioner.

The six founding members — New York, Los Angeles, Denver, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Houston and Dallas — officially awarded a seventh franchise to Ralph C. Wilson Jr. of Detroit, who hopes to place a team in Buffalo, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Kansas City, Louisville, Jacksonville and New Orleans were named as possibilities for the eighth city.

Hawkeye quarterback Olen Treadway moved from fourth to third in the passing department and maintained his eighth place position in total offense. Treadway hit on 9 of 11 passes against Purdue for 81 yards, giving him 64 completions in 107 throws for 712 yards. The Iowa senior is a minus 24 yards in the rushing department, making his total offense mark 688 yards.

Treadway's efforts are also primarily responsible for Iowa being eighth in team passing with 71 of 120 for 793 yards. A week ago the Hawkeyes ranked sixth in team passing. Army, with a 201.8 yards per game passing mark, is the team passing leader.

Durable Dwight Nichols, Iowa State's candidate for all-American, moved from fifth to second in total offense and tenth to fourth in rushing. The Cyclone tailback has accumulated 943 yards in six games — 508 by rushing and 435 by passing. The total offense leader is Stanford's Dick Norman with 1,041 yards in six games. Norman also leads in passing with 81 of 153 for 993 yards.

Iowa is the Big Ten total offense leader again this week, which proves that statistics don't mean a lot when you balance them against the wins and losses. The Hawkeyes are in a tie for last place with Minnesota — and the Golden Gophers are tied for second place in team defense. Illinois is the league's top defensive team.

BOSTON (AP) — The NCAA Council Wednesday approved a new amendment aimed at regulating collegiate athletic participation by alien students.

The amendment will be presented to the NCAA at its annual convention in New York Jan. 6-8, NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers said. It must be approved by the convention before going into effect.

The move is "designed to regulate the older boys coming over here to compete against younger boys," Byers said. He called participation by foreign athletes a growing trend.

The amendment would:

1. Limit to 10 semesters or 15 quarters alien students' eligibility for all competition, and limit the students to three years of competition after reaching the age of 20, two years after 21 and one year after 22.

2. Require alien students to complete two years of residence at a U.S. school before becoming eligible for any championship events, such as track or swimming meets, but not limited to those sports.

N.L. Soph Of Year Award To Cepeda

NEW YORK (AP) — Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants, the National League's rookie of the year in 1958, Wednesday was named the circuit's leading sophomore of 1959. He edged Vada Pinson of Cincinnati in the annual Associated Press poll.

Cepeda collected 86 of the 172 votes cast by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. Pinson drew 66.

Cepeda, 22, a native of Ponce, Puerto Rico, batted .317 with 27 homers and 105 runs batted in. This was a better performance than his rookie campaign, when he wound up with a .312 average, 25 homers and 96 RBI.

Pinson, 21-year-old outfielder, compiled a .316 batting mark, collecting 205 hits, 20 homers, and 84 RBI. He led the league in doubles with 47 and runs scored, 131.

Dick Stuart of Pittsburgh was third in the balloting with six votes.

One Of Best Ends In Iowa History — All-American? That's Norton

By MICK HOLMES
Staff Writer

Don Norton loafed at three-quarter speed straight down the practice field from his right end spot, the defensive man was right with him. Suddenly he cut to the right and exploded toward the sidelines, took a pass and cut back up field. An assistant coach blew the whistle and Norton trotted back to the huddle.

Over on the sidelines, Coach Forest Evashevski was standing with his hands shoved deep into his back pockets muttering a few words to those on the sidelines.

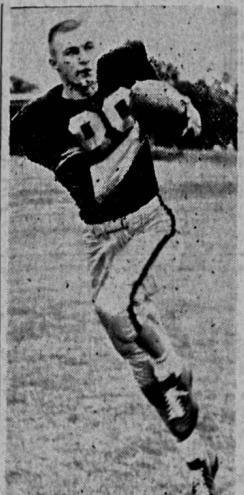

"There's an all-American if I ever saw one," Evy grinned, "he can do everything."

"I've coached some great ends in my time," Evy said, "there is Ed Barker, who I had out at Washington State — he broke Don Hutson's yards gained for a season record; Frank Gilliam, Jim Gibbons, who was an all-American here; Curt Merz, who made all-American here last year. I'd have to say Norton ranks right up at the top with them."

"He's the greatest offensive end in the nation," Evy concluded. Norton's talents don't stop with offense as he carries out the old theme of the triple-threat player. Up to Oct. 31, he ranks No. 1 in the Big Ten and No. 4 nationally as a receiver.

He's a great defensive player—so good in fact professional scouts have their eye on him as a possible defensive halfback — even though he's one of the smallest starters in the Big Ten at 174 pounds.

He excels at rushing the passer by crashing through the line with unequalled determination. His art at this part of the game paid off in two tallies last year and a touch-down for himself this season.

Don Norton

"Don's all heart," Evy laughs. "He was really getting beat around last week in the mud at Purdue. He's so little that when some big guy he normally would have ward-off hit him he just slipped back. They could hold him out and do most anything to keep him away from the play, but he keeps battling."

Evy said he was really surprised with the number of tackles he got when they reviewed the movies. "They ran around his end, but not him."

Norton's only comment after the game was: "That was not football out there."

The little co-captain just lives to play football. He says he's been playing the game "ever since I can remember."

He got started as a regular early in high school at Anamosa. When he was just a freshman, and weighed only 110 pounds, he sewed up a starting halfback spot and a defensive safety spot. He played halfback all through high school and wasn't shifted to end until he started at Iowa.

Football wasn't the only thing Don got out of high school. He and his wife, Luane, his high school sweetheart, now live in Iowa City. She is also a student at SU, but didn't transfer from Coe College, Cedar Rapids, until after last year.

Don hasn't always been sure he could play the brand of football the Big Ten demands. In fact he enrolled at Coe after finishing high school, but at the last minute decided to come to Iowa instead.

From the minute he turned out for football, the Iowa coaching staff had their eyes on that "little kid" from Anamosa. They made an end out of him and Norton responded by moving into the starting lineup as a sophomore.

Last year he nabbed 24 passes, and thus far this year has snared 22, just 14 off the record held by Jim Gibbons. If he keeps up at the pace he has set in the first five ball games, he will have no trouble catching that record.

Norton has also been the leading punter, his third threat, last year, and again this season. His kicking talent also lops over into the kick-off and place-kicking departments. He's been kicking the long one all season, and can kick extra points if needed.

Hawkeyes Drop From 2nd To 6th In Total Offense

As the result of their meager 169-yard output against Purdue last Saturday the Iowa Hawkeyes fell from second to sixth in total offense, according to the latest NCAA statistics.

North Texas State, last week's leader, dropped to second place with a 393 yards per game average.

Hawkeye quarterback Olen Treadway moved from fourth to third in the passing department and maintained his eighth place position in total offense. Treadway hit on 9 of 11 passes against Purdue for 81 yards, giving him 64 completions in 107 throws for 712 yards. The Iowa senior is a minus 24 yards in the rushing department, making his total offense mark 688 yards.

have "a continuing responsibility to the people of the United States, regardless of judicial and administrative procedures, to exert every effort to bring the steel dispute to an early termination."

There were these other developments in the steel situation:

1. Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy said in New York the long industry shutdown is causing delays in production of certain essential items, such as missiles.

2. T. Keith Glennan, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said in Miami Beach, Fla., that development of a new three-stage Vega rocket intended to send heavy loads into space "is now being set back by the shortages resulting from the steel strike."

City Planner Here To Talk Over Iowa City Zoning

City zoning in Iowa City will be discussed by Ernest W. Combs at an open meeting of the Council Managers' Association (CMA) at 8 p.m., Thursday, at the Hotel Jefferson.

Combs is an associate and city planner with Harland Bartholomew and Associates' St. Louis office and has been studying the Iowa City community for his firm.

Mrs. Fred H. Doderer, 1306 Kirkwood Ave., publicity chairman for the meeting, said Combs' speech will be based on results of his study.

She added that interested people other than CMA members are encouraged to attend this meeting as the material to be presented may be included later in plans to improve Iowa City.

Bowling School Certifies 33

Thirty-three persons completed a Certified Bowling Instructor's School held at the SUI Memorial Union last week.

The school was the first of a series planned by the Games Committee of the Association of College Unions to be held throughout the country this year.

The purpose of the program is to educate instructors to teach bowling, a game which has no standard pattern and which has lacked instructors.

The group completing the course at SUI included seven SUI faculty members, sixteen students, three out-of-state college instructors, two high school teachers, and two bowling establishment operators from the Iowa City area.

Cosmic Ray Meet To Begin Friday

Auroral zone particles and solar protons will be the subjects of a number of papers at the Midwest Cosmic Ray Conference which will open Friday at SUI. During the two days of paper presentations, all aspects of these high-energy particles and their origins will be discussed.

The conference is sponsored by the SUI Department of Physics and is Midwestern in name only, as representatives from coast to coast and from Alaska and Canada will present papers. Both charged particles under discussion were discovered by SUI scientists. James Van Allen, professor and head of the SUI Physics Department, discovered the auroral radiation, and Kinsey Anderson, assistant professor of physics at SUI, discovered the solar protons.

No Action On Burge Issue By Council

No immediate action was taken at Wednesday night's meeting of the SUI Student Council on a proposed constitutional amendment regarding representation of Burge Hall on the Council and on the constitution of a proposed new SUI organization, the Socialist Discussion Club.

The amendment, introduced in a resolution at the last council meeting, Oct. 14, had been recommended by the Inter-Dormitory Presidents' Committee. It called for recognition of the four dormitory associations within Burge Hall as independent units.

At Wednesday night's meeting, the resolution was not presented as a motion. Judy Clark, A4, Cedar Falls, student body president, said that presentation as a motion is necessary before any action can be taken on the proposal as an amendment to the Council's constitution.

Lakeside Lab Construction Bids Taken

A low base bid of $1,640 was submitted Wednesday by Consumer Lumber Co., Spirit Lake, for the construction of additions to be built at Lakeside Laboratory on West Okoboji Lake, according to George L. Horner, superintendent of planning and construction at SUI.

Other bids included Skow Construction Co., Emmetsburg, $1,650; Herbert W. Langer Co., Des Moines, $1,850, and George E. Rich Co., Okoboji, $2,437.

The construction project will include a summer cottage, a bathhouse addition and an assembly hall. Designed for students and teachers in biology, zoology and botany, the Lakeside Laboratory was established in 1909 under the leadership of SUI Professor Thomas H. Machride. Now a responsibility of the State Board of Regents, the Laboratory's educational and scientific policies are determined by an advisory board composed of members from SUI, Iowa State University of Science and Technology, and Iowa State Teachers College.

Awarding of contracts will await approval of the State Board of Regents and the state budget and financial control committee.

Soprano, Tenor To Give Recital Wednesday

Patricia Barendsen and David Lloyd, voice instructors in the SUI Music Department, will present a concert Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the main lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Patricia Barendsen, a mezzo soprano, will present solos during the first half of the program and David Lloyd during the second.

Lloyd will be accompanied by Stuart Canin on the violin and John Simms on the piano. Canin is a recent winner of the Paganini International Violin Contest. Simms appeared as soloist last week with the SUI Symphony Orchestra.

Others accompanying him will be John Ferrell, violin; William Preucil, viola; and Hans Koelbel, violoncello.

Patricia Barendsen's accompanists will be Betty Bang, flute; William Preucil, viola; Eugene Rousseau, clarinet and Margaret Pendleton, piano and harpsicord.

Lloyd's program will include selections by Ludwig van Beethoven and Ralph Vaughan Williams.

Patricia Barendsen will sing songs from William Shakespeare by Thomas Arne; Solo Cantata by George Philipp Telemann and selections by Igor Stravinsky and Hugo Wolf.

The recital will be sponsored by the Student Union Board.

Lloyd has presented several programs here under the sponsorship of the City Civic Music Association.

ITALIAN BAKERS STRIKE

ROME (AP)—Italian bread bakery workers struck Wednesday for a new work contract covering wages, hours and other matters. Bakery owners called in their wives, daughters and sons to keep ovens hot and most Italian cities had bread as usual.

Ingenuity, Extra Jobs, Keep Steelworkers Above Water

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A puzzle to many a wage earner who barely keeps ahead of his bills is how a half-million striking Steelworkers have weathered 15 weeks without their regular pay.

Their living standard has been sharply reduced but there is little evidence of downright hardship.

How do they do it—particularly when unemployment compensation is banned to strikers in every major steel-making state except New York?

Ingenuity and help from various sources appear to be the answers.

An Associated Press survey of steel centers shows only a minority of the strikers have gone on relief — though the bill for those who have runs into millions of dollars.

An unknown number of thousands of strikers have taken temporary jobs — ranging from longshoring to driving taxicabs.

Working wives have helped out. A number of families had more than one income, with the wife or son or daughter holding a job.

A number of workers, expecting a strike, saved against the "rainy days" that now number 107.

Food comes from such varied sources as Government surpluses and the friendly neighbor next door. Some workers live on farms and provide their own food.

The Steelworkers Union provides help for food and emergencies.

Retail merchants in steel centers have been generous with credit, trusting customers to pay up when they return to their jobs. Utility bills often go unpaid.

Family budgets have been trimmed, of course, along with the family diets. Purchases of such items as automobiles and large appliances are put off. Grocery shopping is limited to cheaper cuts and lower grades of meat.

Pennsylvania, center of the steel industry, has felt the brunt of the strike. The state estimates that the shutdown has added $6 million a month to its relief load.

Pennsylvania non-strikers laid off in other trades because of the walkout have drawn $7 million in unemployment compensation.

In Indiana, where U.S. Steel's big Gary works is located, a $2.7 million bond issue has been introduced in Lake County to cover food voucher deficits.

Unemployment compensation is paid out of an employer payroll tax, rather than from state tax funds.

Enterprising Kids Set Up Insurance Against Thrashings

LOWESTOFT, England (AP) — The thriving Middle School Insurance Society went out of business Wednesday.

Lowestoft Grammar School's headmaster didn't like the idea of schoolboys insuring themselves against thrashings and staying in after school.

Headmaster William Brooks squashed the enterprise as soon as the project got into all the British newspapers.

Its mastermind, David Wilkin, 13, who helped to run the 3-cent-a-week insurance society, said: "We have now been told that the society was not good for the school. So it is dropped."

David and Geoffrey Small, also 13, charged their schoolmates an initial premium of 6-pence — about 6 cents — and 3-pence — 3 cents — for every subsequent week. They paid out 4 shillings — 56 cents — to boys who got caned and 3 shillings — 42 cents — to those kept in after school.

Young Wilkin learned the fine points of insurance from his father, a teacher at the school and part-time insurance agent.

"I wouldn't have the very bad boys, who frequently get punished as members of the society," David said. "They were blacklisted because obviously they would have wrecked it."

"On the other hand, good boys who never got into trouble clearly would not want to join because they would always be paying in and never get anything out."

"Oh well, it was a smashing idea while it lasted."

Clubs Offer Treat For No 'Tricks'

Iowa City youngsters will be given a special "treat" in return for no "tricks" involving vandalism on Friday night, at the annual community Halloween Parade Friday evening.

The Associated Fraternal Clubs and the Playground and Recreation Commissions, sponsors of the event, have circulated pledge cards in the schools this week whereby students promise "to respect the rights of others and help protect property against vandalism." By showing these pledge cards the pupils will be admitted to a free movie after the parade.

All children from the Iowa City area are invited to dress in costume and participate in the Halloween parade which will begin at 6 p.m. in the downtown area. Those who wish to take part in the parade or have their costumes judged must be registered. This may be done in advance by phoning the Recreation office, 8-5493, before 5 p.m. Friday. Last minute registration will be handled at tables on Washington Street between DuBouque and Linn streets, where the parade will start.

Winners in the costume category will receive prizes from Iowa City merchants. Free candy donated by local grocers will be given at the theater.

Co-sponsors of the parade are also the American Legion, Eagles, Elks, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Moose, Odd Fellows, VFW Post 2581, and the theater management.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Labor party decided Wednesday to hold a conference next month to study why it has lost three national elections in a row. The party must attempt to decide whether to give up its Socialist doctrines altogether or to go in for more socialism.

At last! A breakfast drink you can keep in your room

More vitamin C than orange juice. New instant TANG is the breakfast drink you can keep right on your bookshelf—because TANG keeps anywhere without refrigeration.

Make as much as you want, whenever you want. Just mix with plain cold water—nothing to squeeze, nothing to unfreeze.

Drink TANG every morning and get more vitamin C than orange or grapefruit juice gives you. Plus vitamin A. Tastes real good, too.

Today's assignment: get TANG!

WANTED: Situations and gag lines for our two campus characters (above). Must relate to TANG. Will pay $25 for every entry used. Address: TANG College Contest, Dept. GRM, Post Division, Battle Creek, Michigan. (Entries must be postmarked before Dec. 15, 1959).

Never too strong. Never too weak.

Always just right!

You can light either end!

Get satisfying flavor...so friendly to your taste!

See how Pall Mall's famous length of fine, rich-tasting tobacco travels and gentles the smoke—makes it mild—but does not filter out that satisfying flavor!

NO FLAT "FILTERED-OUT" FLAVOR!

NO DRY "SMOKED-OUT" TASTE!

HERE'S WHY SMOKE "TRAVELED" THROUGH FINE TOBACCO TASTES BEST

- 1 You get Pall Mall's famous length of the finest tobacco money can buy.
- 2 Pall Mall's famous length travels and gentles the smoke naturally...
- 3 Travels it over, under, around and through Pall Mall's fine tobacco... and makes it mild!

Outstanding... and they are Mild!

Want Less Cars, More Passengers

DETROIT — Next time you're in rush hour traffic in even a modest sized city, look around and take a head count.

How many cars do you suppose you'll see with anybody in them other than the driver?

This has become a major headache — both for the car drivers and the city, county and state officials who spend millions of dollars building streets and highways that can carry the tremendous load into and out of the heart of cities twice each day.

A brief, informal, random count at an intersection in Detroit one morning recently covered 30 cars. Of these 20 carried only the driver. Only one of the other 10 carried as many as three people.

All but one of the 30 happened to be American-made cars. The one import model carried two men.

The American cars would average about 3,800 to 4,000 pounds each and when new they probably cost $2,200 and up — mostly up because there was a good sprinkling of 1959 models.

This group of cars passed the corner in a few minutes. Thousands more were ahead and behind them.

The salesmen who offer small cars like to believe the drivers of these full-sized cars are their prime prospects.

The average American car of recent vintage stretches some 17½ feet bumper to bumper. A Volkswagen is less than 13½ feet. The new compact cars from Ford,

Schwengel Calls For Curb On Inflation

MONTROSE — Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa) Wednesday night called for a curb on inflation and more midwest representation on government agricultural committees.

"It is stupid — if not criminal — to spend more than one earns," Schwengel said in remarks prepared for the annual meeting of the Lee County Farm Bureau.

"The best protection the government can extend to its people, employers and laborers alike, is a sound, stable currency."

The Long, Long Trailers

Described as the longest and heaviest vehicle ever assembled to transport freight on a highway in the midwest, this 107-foot truck and trailers undergo a measurement at the eastern terminus of the Kansas Turnpike as it starts its initial journey. The three-unit vehicle headed for Wichita with more than 43 tons of freight. Such length and weight for truck shipments are unlawful on state highways but are being permitted on the turnpike. — AP Wirephoto.

When Does Printing Personal Letter Violate Privacy Right?

When does publishing a personal letter violate the writer's right of privacy? This is one of the questions discussed in a recent issue of the Iowa Law Review, put out by students in SUI's College of Law.

An article in the Review points out that the problem comes up when newspapers print letters submitted by readers or when an historian publishes a letter to support data in a history or biography.

The person who receives a letter owns the material on which the letter is written, the Review article says — that is, the paper, ink, envelope and postage stamp. He is under no duty to save the letter and cannot be compelled to return the letter to the writer.

Courts have also held the receiver can show the letter to a more or less limited group of relatives and friends, the article says.

Since most cases regarding publication of personal letters arose before any sort of legal interest in the right to privacy was recognized, personal letters were treated as literary creations. That is, they were treated under the same body of law as literary creations.

This presents the paradoxical problem of excessive, but at the same time insufficient protection of privacy under present law, the article points out.

Since the law tends to treat personal letters as literary creations, an author can prevent publication simply by arguing that he would be denied his rightful share of the profits of his literary creation. And he can do this without proving his right to privacy will be invaded.

On the other hand, literary property rights can be insufficient protection for the author's right to privacy, since such rights protect only literary style. The same facts or ideas could be published in someone else's words.

The Law Review article says there are times when a writer implies consent for publication. For example, when a person writes a letter to the editor of a newspaper, publication will probably be allowed unless a contrary intent is made known.

When a writer publishes his letter, his rights end, the article goes on. He can copyright the material if he wishes additional protection.

The principal exception to the sender's right to prevent a publication arises in legal proceedings, the article says. The letter may be introduced as evidence over the objection of the writer.

In many cases, the issue boils down to the question of just where individual rights should give way to public interest. The confusion over this and other related questions points up the need for a more adequate law regarding personal letters, the SUI article indicates.

Hartman To Preside At Chicago Meeting

Dr. Gerhard Hartman, Supt. of the University Hospitals, will preside over the second annual meeting of the medical school-teaching hospital section of the Association of American Medical Colleges to be held Friday and Saturday at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago.

More than 100 executive hospital administrators and a similar number of medical school deans are expected for the conference, which will deal with the relationship of the teaching hospital to total university teaching and research programs.

1 Dies, 2 Safe After Crash Of B58 Bomber

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — A B58 jet, the nation's costliest and fastest manned bomber, developed trouble on a test flight and crashed near here Tuesday night after the three-man crew bailed out.

One man died. He was Harry Blosser, 35, an engineer for the Convair Aircraft Corp. which was getting the craft ready for delivery to the Air Force.

Everett Wheeler, 37, the pilot, and Michael Keller, 42, the flight engineer, parachuted safely although Wheeler suffered a broken arm.

All three lived in the Fort Worth, Tex., area and worked out of the Convair office there.

Blosser's body was found strapped in his ejection seat in an open field. His orange parachute billowed over him. One Air Force officer said it "looks like he might have waited too long before ejecting."

Wheeler said the plane left Carswell Air Force Base in Fort Worth en route to Eglin AFB in Florida when the trouble developed at 25,000 feet.

The pilot wouldn't specify the nature of the trouble.

At 7:25 p.m. about one hour after he took off, the B58 crashed into a field. The explosion tore a hole about 30 feet deep and 75 feet wide.

Training Directors To Meet Friday

The fall conference of the Iowa chapter of the American Society of Training Directors will open Friday at SUI.

Some 40 members are expected to attend the two-day meeting, to be held in Iowa Memorial Union. The chapter is made up of training directors in Iowa industry and government agencies.

Speakers at the conference will include Rex A. Smith, Cedar Rapids, director of sales training at the Link-Belt Speeder Corporation; John J. Flagler, program director for the SUI Bureau of Labor and Management; Don Lippold, Waterloo, director of adult education for the Waterloo public schools; Joe Flynn, Des Moines, director of public relations for Look Magazine in Des Moines, and Emmet C. Butler, Newton, public relations director of the Maytag Company.

'Drainage Pipe On Wheels' To Be Here Today, Friday

The Steelmobile, a stainless steel drainage pipe on wheels containing full-scale exhibits of flexible metal highway and municipal products, will visit SUI today and Friday.

George E. Shafer, formerly vice president of engineering for Armo Drainage & Metal Products, Inc. said all engineering students, graduate students, and faculty members are invited to see it. Shafer will deliver illustrated lectures on selected subjects to engineering classes.

Tours through the Steelmobile, which is sponsored jointly by the National Corrugated Metal Pipe Association and the Armo Company, will be conducted by George D. Link, a recent engineering graduate from Cornell University and driver of the vehicle.

Visitors will see design structures of corrugated metal pipe, pipe, tunnel liner plates, water control gates, highway guardrails, foundation piling, retaining walls and steel buildings.

The exhibit cost more than $50,000 and took nine months to build. The

Fellowships Aid SUI Profs In Their World Wide Quests

The academic world map is dotted this year with professor abroad while on leave from SUI for research, study and teaching. Some are continuing research which was begun here and must be completed elsewhere, and all are enhancing their teaching background and productivity as scholars by study and travel abroad.

Two SUI faculty members are on leave in Germany. W. R. Irwin, associate professor of English, is a Fulbright professor at Tubingen, Germany. William A. Whalen, associate professor of physiology, is studying under a Fulbright fellowship at the University of Heidelberg.

Australia is the temporary home for three other SUI faculty members. Robert F. Thorne, associate professor of botany, is teaching and doing research in botany at the University of Queensland in Brisbane, Australia. His work is sponsored in part by a Fulbright grant.

LeRoy Eyring, associate professor of chemistry, is conducting research in physical chemistry at the University of Melbourne, Australia, under a Fulbright grant and a Guggenheim Fellowship. During the 1958-59 academic year he studied in Europe supported by a National Science Foundation Post-Doctoral Fellowship.

Hugh M. Johnson, assistant professor of mathematics, has been doing research in astronomy the past year on a Fulbright grant at the Mount Stromlo Observatory of the Australian National University in Canberra, Australia. He will remain in Australia until February.

Alexander Kern, professor of English at SUI, is teaching for the second year in Ankara, Turkey. Professor Kern is employed by the University of Ankara but is also doing research under a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation.

Two members of the SUI physics department are on leave in England. Josef M. Jauch, professor of physics, is working with the Office of Naval Research in London. During the last school year Professor Jauch was on leave for work in Geneva, Switzerland.

Richard R. Carlson, associate professor of physics, is studying under a Guggenheim Fellowship at Oxford, England. Last year at SUI Carlson studied the characteristics of excited states of light-weight nuclei, especially oxygen-16, with SUI's Van de Graaf atom smasher.

James H. Clancy, professor of dramatic arts and speech at SUI, is on a leave to travel and study in Europe on a Ford Foundation grant. Professor Clancy is one of 10 American theatre directors awarded the $10,000 grants for individual study.
