

Eisenhower To Visit 9 Countries Next Month

19-Day Trip To Be Mission Of Goodwill

Pre-Christmas Tour To Cover 20,000 Miles

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower announced Wednesday he is undertaking an unprecedented 20,000-mile goodwill mission next month to nine nations on three continents.

The pre-Christmas tour will take Eisenhower to Europe, Asia and a corner of Africa.

No president ever has attempted anything like this 19-day expedition to the capitals of Italy, Turkey, Pakistan, Afghanistan, India, Iran, Greece, France and Morocco.

Eisenhower told a news conference he will be off Dec. 4. He expects to fly back to Washington Dec. 22.

He also did a bit of traveling around at the news conference, touching on developments both at home and abroad.

The President said everyone was astonished and almost dismayed by the TV quiz show scandals and "nobody will be satisfied until this whole mess is cleaned up."

The Federal Trade Commission, he said, is looking into the possibility there was deceitful advertising and the Justice Department will report before the end of the year on whether laws were violated and new laws are needed.

The Communist menace, Eisenhower said, was an obvious topic to raise in protesting anti-U.S. demonstrations in Cuba because:

"We know that the Communists like to fish in troubled waters and there are certainly troubled waters there."

Then there was the matter of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and the way he is eyeing the Republican presidential nomination. Rockefeller spent 70 minutes with Eisenhower last week.

For a good portion of the time, Eisenhower said, they talked about civil defense, a common interest. But also on that visit "we talked politics all across the board," Eisenhower said. He added, though, that "I could not possibly remember now any kind of conclusion we reached."

Something like a third of the news conference was given over to the travel plans.

Eisenhower said he plans brief, informal visits to the various capitals in response to friendly visits from heads of other governments.

Most of the details will come later. But the President said he hopes to call on Pope John XXIII while he is in Rome. Eisenhower also said he wants to be in New Delhi Dec. 11 for the opening of the U.S. exhibit at a World Agricultural Fair.

Anti-U.S. Riots Flare In Panama

PANAMA (AP) — Demonstrators stoned the offices of the American-owned Light and Power Company in Panama's capital city Wednesday in the second day of anti-U.S. violence.

They also set fire to an automobile parked in front of the offices on the city's Central Avenue.

Panama army troops broke up the demonstration.

Panama's government said meanwhile the United States was at least partly to blame for the current trouble.

A counter-protest over Tuesday's rioting was delivered by Foreign Minister Miguel Moreno Jr. to U.S. Ambassador Julian Harrington.

Moreno said the tearing down of an American flag at the U.S. Embassy Tuesday came after similar acts against a Panamanian flag in the Canal Zone. He gave no details in his reference to the Panamanian flag.

More than 80 persons were injured in Tuesday's incidents during celebrations of the 56th anniversary of Panama's independence.

Moreno's note said Panama "laments yesterday's occurrences and in no way can accept or approve the acts of the type that motivated your protest."

"Nevertheless," the note added, "I must say that in relations to the occurrences at the Canal Zone boundary, my government has information about certain unjustifiable acts, such as firing on groups of unarmed Panamanians and throwing tear gas bombs on various sectors of the city. These have left more than 40 Panamanian citizens wounded by actions of the armed forces of the United States."

They Sure 'Saw The Whole Zoo'

Witchcraft causes these visitors to get lost in a zoo in the play "They Saw The Whole Zoo" opening tonight in the Experimental Theatre. Plans are formed to get out by, from left, Marcia Thayer, G. Coraville; Ken Brown, G. Phoenix, Ariz.; David Thompson, A4, Bedford; Judy Puttcamp, A1, Princeton, Ill.; Caroline Leinhauser, G. Othumwa; and George Tibbets, G. Des Moines. Robert Bonnard, G. New York, is author and director of the play. —Daily Iowan photo by Jerry Smith.

Bonnard Describes Play As 'Sex, Religion And Loneliness'

Robert Bonnard, G. New York, playwright and director of "They Saw The Whole Zoo" describes the theme of his play as "sex, religion and loneliness." It is a story, he says, of the conflict between the people we are and the people we believe we are.

The play will open tonight at 8 p.m. in the Studio Theatre housed in the Old Armory building. Tickets can be obtained by presenting student identification cards at the ticket desk in the Iowa Memorial Union. Tickets for those other than students are 75 cents.

Bonnard's play takes place in a park. In the tradition of Studio Theatre there will be no complete sets or curtain used. Suggested sets with the emphasis on lighting and costumes will be used instead.

"They Saw The Whole Zoo" has a cast of nine characters, most of whom are on stage all the time. Bonnard describes his characters as people who are "not afraid to live." Hector inhabits a tree in the park. Laura is his accomplice. The other members of the cast are individuals who visit the park during the two acts of the play.

Bonnard describes the play as being "in a comic manner, although not really a comedy — certainly not a comedy in the sense of a farce." The value of theatre, he explained, is first to entertain, second to enlighten and third to bring about a spirit of exultation or an uplifting quality.

The play, Bonnard said, is not designed to promote "belly laughs" but rather to charm the audience. Bonnard feels that the "charm" of the play has been considerably enhanced by the costuming of Lynn Hauber and Margaret Hall. The lighting by Kenneth Harris and the sets by Barry Bradley.

The tree, he said, at one point

Snow Hits Sioux City; Cold Weather Moves In

Iowa's first big snow storm of the fall moved into the state late Wednesday. By 7 p.m. Sioux City had received four inches and the snow was still falling.

The Weather Bureau in Des Moines said that up to five inches were expected in parts of northern Iowa during the night with lesser amounts further south. Hazardous driving conditions were predicted.

In South Dakota blizzard conditions prevailed, accompanied by a sharp drop in temperatures. Winds up to 35 miles an hour developed in Iowa's snow area and considerable drifting was expected.

Meanwhile the state was in for its coldest weather of the season with readings in the teens.

'Lost' Priest Found Alive, Wed, At Job

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest who disappeared March 4 from Hawaii, turned up in Phoenix Wednesday, married and working for the State of Arizona.

He is David P. Meyer, 28, an Employment Security Commission interviewer in Mesa.

After his disappearance, Meyer was believed drowned until late in March when he was reported alive but ill.

He was assistant pastor of St. Anthony's Parish at Wailuku on the Hawaiian Island of Maui with the name of Father Damien Meyer.

He and his wife, Rufina, declined comment on their recent activities.

Mrs. Meyer was the former parish secretary. A mother of four children, she was divorced from her husband, Boyce O. Lynch, five years ago. The couple was believed to have been married in Los Angeles.

Douglas Against Modernized Court Covering Methods

DES MOINES (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas closed the convention of the Iowa Bankers Assn. Wednesday with criticism of what he said were efforts of news media to modernize coverage of trials.

Douglas said there is great controversy over whether trial coverage by camera, radio or television should be permitted.

Asserting that it should not be he added:

"The camel should be kept out of the tent, lest he take it over completely. No spectacle is conducive to the quiet search for truth. Prosecutors and judges, as well as defense counsel, are human; and the temptation to play to the galleries will be stronger than many can resist."

Douglas was to have spoken before noon adjournment of the convention but his plane was grounded in Chicago, Ill., delaying his arrival.

By then, only 150 delegates remained.

Roswell Garst, Coon Rapids farmer who was host to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, stretched out his speech with details of Khrushchev's visit when it was expected Douglas might land here any time.

Appeals Judge Sworn In By Former Boss

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Harry A. Blackmun of Rochester, Minn., was sworn in Wednesday as the youngest member of the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Blackmun, 50, took the oath from the judge he succeeds, John B. Sanborn, 75, 27 years after a similar ceremony in which the federal judge took him into his office as law clerk.

'Little Joe' Provides Big U.S. Step Upward To Get Man Into Space

Impish 'Eloise' Tells Tale Of Flight To Visit Mamie

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evelyn Rudie, 9, the impish "Eloise" of television acting fame, touched off a cross-country scramble Wednesday by disappearing from her Hollywood home and flying to Washington.

She got off a four-engine jet passenger plane at Baltimore's nearby Friendship International Airport with a tale of wanting to visit the White House and ask Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower to give her career a boost.

Suspicious of a possible publicity gag, newsmen barraged her at length with questions about whether her parents or anyone else knew she had left home alone at dawn.

With the coyness of an old theater pro, the brown-eyed blonde stuck to this explanation:

"When I saw Mrs. Eisenhower in Washington last year, she told me that she and her grandchildren and the President enjoyed my acting so much. So I decided to talk with her and see if she couldn't help me get a part in a film or TV series."

She said she had broken open four piggy banks in her room, extracted $160 and bought her airline ticket last Monday when she and her mother, Mrs. Emery Bernauer, separated during a shopping trip.

Then, she went on, she telephoned for a taxicab before 6 a.m. Wednesday went to Los Angeles International Airport and boarded a plane.

Evelyn told newsmen she bought her ticket at an airline office in the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel after agreeing to meet her mother about an hour after they parted to perform separate shopping errands. They had parted in that manner before, she said, but not often.

The girl's father, police related, said he had taught the much-traveled youngster the details of making reservations, checking baggage through — the works.

Airlines officials confirmed that a girl had picked up the ticket for Evelyn's airplane seat. They said an advance call had been made by someone identifying herself as the girl's mother.

Capt. Carl Kumanec of the Baltimore airport police said he was told that Los Angeles traced her through a check of Hollywood terminals. Kumanec was asked to meet the plane when it arrived at the airport.

He did so and turned the girl over to Mrs. Jacob Mogelev, Chevy Chase, Md., a friend of the Bernauer family.

"Thank God, thank God," sobbed Mrs. Bernauer when told her daughter had safely arrived on the East Coast.

At the Baltimore airport terminal Evelyn went over and over her story:

"Yes, I told my parents I wanted to see Mrs. Eisenhower and ask her to help me. They said, 'Oh, sure. You can go any day you want.' But I didn't tell them I was leaving today because I was afraid they might change their mind at the last minute. You know how grownups are. It takes them a million years to decide."

'Challenge' Producer Says Sponsor Instructed Rigging

WASHINGTON (AP) — The associate producer of the scandal-ridden "394,000 Challenge" quiz show swore in testimony read Wednesday night that the shows frequently were rigged on instructions from the sponsor.

The testimony was given in an affidavit by Shirley Bernstein, who identified the sponsor as Revlon, Inc., a leading cosmetics firm. It was read by Richard N. Goodwin, staff investigator for the House Commerce subcommittee probing quiz shows.

Miss Bernstein is a sister of Leonard Bernstein, director of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. She has been named in previous testimony as one who had coached quiz show contestants.

Miss Bernstein's sworn statement came after sworn denials by Martin Revson, former executive vice president of Revlon, that the company was aware of the rigging. Revson's brother, Charles, president of the company, said he personally was not aware of anything amiss.

Miss Bernstein said the rigging was done at the request of Steve Carlin, head of Entertainment Productions, Inc., owner of the quiz show.

The House investigation produced these other developments:

1. Patty Duke, Broadway child star, was said to have received in advance the questions and answers that earned her $32,000 on the "Challenge" for her apparent knowledge of popular music.

2. Howard Felsher, former producer of "Tic Tac Dough," said in secret testimony also made public Wednesday that a tense duel between Martin Dowd, a salesman from New Jersey, and Army Capt. Michael O'Rourke was also rigged.

3. The "Quiz Kids" show, a low-budget radio forerunner to the TV extravaganza, also was controlled.

Edward Jurist, who produced the juvenile battle of brains, said questions fired at the youngsters were known to be in their range of knowledge. Most of the kids were so smart, he added, there were few problems.

4. Albert Freedman, the producer who fed Van Doren the right answers on "Twenty-One" promised to return from Mexico if needed for further testimony.

Wilson Strike Officially On

CHICAGO (AP) — A strike against Wilson & Co. by the United Packinghouse Workers of America was officially on Wednesday but the company reported all of its struck plants were operating with reduced crews.

The union Tuesday night called an immediate strike against eight Wilson plants, charging the packing firm with illegal acts and attempts to provoke violence.

The union's contract with Wilson expired Sept. 3. It was extended to Sept. 19 while negotiations for a new agreement were underway. Since then workers have continued on the job while negotiators vainly tried to reach an agreement.

About 5,200 workers are involved in the walkout.

The company, in a statement Wednesday, said:

"We are requesting all employees to return to work. As we have told them before, they have nothing to gain by staying on strike, and will only suffer financial hardship and losses in wages and benefits, which can never be regained, by continuing to strike."

Plants involved in the strike are in Chicago, Albert Lea, Minn.; Omaha, South Omaha, Neb.; Kansas City, Kan.; Memphis, Tenn.; Los Angeles; and Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

The company has accused the union of attacks on non-striking workers' cars and telephoned threats of death and injury to their families.

Capsule Fired Far Into Space And Recovered

Atlas, Jupiter Rockets Also Test Fired

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Mercury space capsule was hurled 35,000 feet high Wednesday by a Little Joe rocket — moving America one step nearer getting a man into space.

Within 45 minutes of the firing, the one-ton capsule was scooped from the Atlantic by the Navy salvage vessel Preserver about five miles from the takeoff point on Wallops Island, Va.

It was the second such test in perfecting the escape mechanism designed to save the astronauts' lives if they run into trouble during launchings. An escape rocket was fired 35 seconds after the take-off.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said the launching was designed particularly to test the performance of the escape system under maximum load conditions.

The test used a capsule similar to one that will be placed into orbit carrying a man.

Atlas missiles will be used for the actual man-in-space shots, probably in 1961. The Little Joe is an instrument for which six launchings have been scheduled in unmanned tests.

The later firings will carry aloft monkeys and finally a chimpanzee to test the effects on them of acceleration, weightlessness and deceleration. NASA said no living thing was aboard in Wednesday's test.

The Little Joe is a 30-foot cluster of Sergeant rockets and smaller booster rockets. The 10-foot, one-ton capsule it carries is surmounted by a 14-foot escape rocket.

The escape rocket — a tower arrangement on top of the capsule — is designed to shoot the capsule several thousand feet above the main rocket if anything goes wrong during a launching. It then is supposed to open parachutes and safely lower the capsule to earth.

In the latest escape test, the capsule landed at a velocity of 30 feet a second, a speed equivalent to that of a man jumping from a 14-foot wall.

At Cape Canaveral Wednesday, two big American military rockets were test-fired over long ranges and complete success was claimed for one that traveled a 4,800-mile course.

The Atlas — an 85-foot rocket slated for a moon satellite shoot later this month — roared aloft at 4:37 p.m. About four hours later the Air Force in Washington announced satisfactory performance at inter-continental range.

The Intermediate range Jupiter blasted off Wednesday night on a test flight of about 1,500 miles. There was no immediate report on its performance.

The Air Force said the Atlas re-entry vehicle landed in the target area near Ascension Island in the South Atlantic and preliminary reports indicated all the missile systems functioned satisfactorily. It was the 10th consecutive flight for the Atlas since July 21.

Wednesday's shots followed the launching Tuesday night of a Thor intermediate range weapon.

Iowan Missing In Training Crash Of Jet Bomber

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A $2.5 million jet bomber with four men aboard plunged into the Gulf of Mexico during a training exercise early Wednesday. A helicopter pilot rescued the navigator but three others were missing.

One of the missing is T/Sgt. Norman William Ruwe, 38, son of Mrs. Ethel Ruwe, Lake Park. The others and their home towns are Maj. Morris O. Beck, 38, Amarillo, Tex. and Lt. George W. Eggleston, 24, Charleston, W. Va.

All three are married, live in Tampa and each has two children.

An Air Force-Coast Guard search started before dawn over an area about 100 miles southwest of Tampa and about 70 miles out to sea.

The crash was the fourth in 11 months for the six-jet B47s from MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa. The Air Force said a board had started an investigation to determine the cause.

First Lt. Franklin Delano Harrod of Hattiesburg, Miss., told newsmen he bailed out on instructions from Maj. Beck, the aircraft commander.

"I didn't see any other parachutes," Harrod said, "because in our method of bailing out we would be spaced a mile or two apart and it was pitch dark."

Reports False That Cienfuegos Found Alive

HAVANA (AP) — Reports swept Havana Wednesday that Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, Cuba's missing army commander, had been found alive but President Osvaldo Dorticos said Wednesday night the reports were false.

Wild celebrations started in the streets of the city after radio stations said Cienfuegos had been discovered on an island 120 miles southeast of Havana.

Dorticos, in a statement to reporters, said he had talked with Prime Minister Fidel Castro and learned the report of Cienfuegos' rescue was without foundation.

Cienfuegos disappeared a week ago on a flight from Camaguey to Havana.

Books: Mystery Writer Analyzes Feminine Readers

By MARILYN MERCER

Herald Tribune News Service

NEW YORK — Women, as anyone who has ever set foot in a lending library knows, are great readers of mysteries.

"Women," she said, "find in what I call 'the mystery of manners' what they once found in romantic novels—the kind of world that hardly exists any more."

"Someone once said to Ruth Fenison, 'I like to read your stories because they have servants in them.' That about sums it up."

Mrs. Davis pointed out that mystery readers divide pretty evenly by sex. Women almost universally prefer the polite society murders they find in hard covers in lending libraries; men favor the hard-boiled paperbacks that they find on newsstands.

"Men," she said, "seem to find excitement in a sequence of violent action."

"Whereas women like to read about gentlemen, which they don't find in paperback fiction, and possibly not in real life either."

Mrs. Davis pointed out that in the paperback field, except for Agatha Christie, men writers have it all over women. But women hold their own in the hard cover field, in which three of the major editors are also women.

"Most literate mysteries," said Mrs. Davis, "are written by Englishmen or women."

A category of mystery that's become popular recently is the suspense story. This sort of book often has a fragile and beautiful heroine who is pursued, persecuted or otherwise put upon by unknown forces. The question isn't who killed her, but who's going to, and why. Women eat this sort of thing up.

"This is simply a revival," said Mrs. Davis, "of the old-fashioned damsel in distress, or 'had I but known' novel that Mary Roberts Rinehart, Mabel Selye and Mignon C. Eberhard did so well in the early '20s. Except now it always has some sort of psychiatric twist."

"It's been revived, I think, because women once again want to be feminine. They like to identify with these heroines. We have passed the height of aggressiveness that followed enfranchisement."

The psychological detective novel, Mrs. Davis feels, is a direct result of improved police methods. In real life the professionals have it all over the amateurs; Sherlock Holmes wouldn't stand a chance "and so we retreat into psychology and suspense." The realistic police story is mostly the province of male writers but, said Mrs. Davis, "women writers can do a great deal without ever having set foot in a police station."

The following day Johnson will hold a news conference in Des Moines and will speak at a luncheon program "somewhere in the area," Loveless said. Johnson will address a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Marshalltown Dec. 9.

Sharp Drop In Stock Of Revlon

NEW YORK (AP) — The independent automakers continued as pacemakers in an irregularly lower stock market Wednesday. Trading was heavy.

Wide moves by certain stocks featured a day which was drab and uncertain for most key issues. Revlon fell 5 1/4 to 54 1/4 as the spotlight of the television quiz investigation fell upon the company.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose narrowly by .28 to 645.74. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 80 cents to $223.00 with the industrials off 60 cents, the rails off $1.40 and the utilities off 50 cents.

Volume rose to 3,940,000 shares from 3,320,000 Monday.

Art Exhibit By Lasansky, Students Opens This Week

By ARDIS BIGSBY
Staff Writer

Mauricio Lasansky, SUI professor of art who has made considerable contribution to SUI's reputation as the "Athens of the Middle West," has organized an exhibit which is opening this week in his home city, Buenos Aires, Argentina, under the sponsorship of the United States Information Agency, (USIA).

The USIA is an agency which attempts to promote better relations with other countries by various methods, one of which is the exchange of artists and works of art. The showing of prints by Lasansky and his students is under the auspices of the Exhibits, Division of the USIA.

The exhibit consists of 33 intaglio prints and plates by Lasansky and 37 prints by students and former students who have worked with him during his 15 years at SUI.

Scheduled to tour for two years the exhibit will go to capital cities in South America and will close in Mexico City. There is a possibility that Lasansky may join the exhibit at a later date.

Accompanying the prints will be an 80-page catalog including reproductions of the works, a 4,000-word essay by William Friedman, visiting curator of design at the Albright Art Gallery in Buffalo, N.Y., which explains the importance of Lasansky's work. Biographical sketches and pictures of each of the students who contributed prints also accompany the prints. The catalog titled "Intaglio" is printed in Spanish, Portuguese and English and was designed by Friedman.

Until its rise in the 20th Century, printmaking was classed as a minor art. A number of people have contributed to the "renaissance" of this art form. William Stanley Hayter with whom Lasansky studied, Lasansky, and a number of his students are considered to be instrumental in this "renaissance."

Intaglio printing consists, briefly, of scratching, etching or cutting an image into a metal plate, usually copper, forcing heavy ink into the etched areas and running the plate and dampened paper through a hand press which forces the paper into the grooves to pick up the ink.

Lasansky and his students' methods differ from earlier forms in that they often use a wide variety of methods to produce a single plate. Besides etching and engraving these may include dry point, which is drawing directly on a metal plate with a steel needle; aquatint, which is accomplished by dusting the surface of the plate with rosin and heating the plate to fix the particles to the surface before etching; soft ground, done by pressing textures such as paper or cloth into a grease and wax ground before etching.

Many art critics say Lasansky through his teaching and work has given a new concept to printing and raised it to the level of a major art form comparable to sculpture or painting.

Students presently at SUI who have prints in the exhibit are: Frederick Keller, G. Milwaukee, Wis.; Marvin Lowe, G. Iowa City; Virginia Myers, G. Bowling Green, Ohio; Caroline Nadelhoffer Orman, G. Downers Grove, Ill.; and Lynn R. Schroeder, G. Davenport.

Twenty-one former students who have prints in this exhibit are graduates of SUI now teaching in other colleges and universities.

The prints which are mounted in aluminum frames, light weight for air travel, are from the SUI collection or loaned by the artist.

The exhibit has had one advance showing in the United States. In September it was exhibited at the Buffalo, N.Y., Albright Art Gallery for three days.

"SELF PORTRAIT" by Mauricio Lasansky, SUI professor of art, is one of the SUI prints being shown this week in Lasansky's home city, Buenos Aires, Argentina. This print is 6 ft. tall and 22 in. wide. The exhibition is being sponsored by the United States Information Agency.

Wilson Grant For Freshmen Awarded SUI

SUI has been awarded a $1,000 grant by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation to be used to help finance a student-faculty conference on the academic work of superior freshmen, according to Rhodes Dunlap, professor of English and director of the SUI Honors Program.

The Woodrow Wilson Foundation is a national organization whose purposes include encouraging promising students to enter graduate work to prepare for careers as college or university teachers. The conference is an outgrowth of the foundation's broad program of inquiry on the topic of "Education in the Nation's Service."

The two-day conference, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 12-13 at SUI, will draw honors students and faculty members from universities and colleges in Iowa and surrounding states.

The conference will consider "The Freshman Year and the Superior Student," with special emphasis on determining what kind of freshman year serves the superior student best. Professor Dunlap said. The SUI professor also emphasized that the conference will stress academic matters and that students will voice their reactions to their freshman year as honors students.

In charge of setting up the conference are Professor Dunlap, Samuel Hays, assistant director of the SUI Honors Program and associate professor of history, and William Porter, professor of journalism at SUI.

New SUI Recreation Society To Discuss Job Opportunities

The newly organized SUI Recreation Society will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Women's Gym to see a film, "Leaders for Leisure", and to discuss a recreation leader's professional opportunities. The society, organized last spring and recognized by The National Association this fall, is a student professional chapter, affiliated with the Iowa Recreation Society, which is in turn a chapter of the American Recreation Society. It is sponsored by Betty VanderSmitten and E. A. Scholer, co-advisors to Recreation Leadership majors.

Participants in the society's functions are majors in recreation as active members, students who are interested in the professional movement, and affiliate members from the state and national groups. Interested students are invited to visit tonight's meeting and to talk with Miss VanderSmitten or Scholer about the recreation leadership field.

The spring of 1960 will be the first time that men can graduate with a B.A. degree in recreation leadership. This major has been limited to women since its recognition as a major at SUI.

There are 11 men and women majoring in recreation leadership areas such as dance, aquatics, arts and crafts, active sports and games, music, dramatics and recreation for schools, hospitals, and youth or social agencies. Seniors in the area are doing 3 to 6 hours of field work as part of their programs. They work at the Veterans, Psychiatric or Children's hospitals, with scouting programs or with other community agencies as preparation for the recreation leadership profession.

Miss VanderSmitten, who has been working for four years to revive this area of study at SUI, described the major as having a liberal arts base to which are added recreation courses. She emphasized that this area is separate from physical education. Recreation leadership majors do not take education courses for a teaching certificate unless they wish to combine the two areas.

The society will meet on the first Thursday of each month, and expects to have speakers from the profession. They will hear convention reports after the state association's meeting Nov. 20, in Des Moines.

Recently elected officers of the new society are David Marchi, A4, Iowa City, president; Kathie Warren, A3, Leon, vice president; Angeline Erusha, A4, Cedar Rapids, secretary; and Tom Halford, G, Iowa City, treasurer.

SUI Concerts Will Open With London

George London will open the 1959-60 Concert Series at SUI with a full-length recital Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Iowa Memorial Union.

Described by one New York critic as the "best all-around baritone in the business today," London's fame as a personality and as an artist is equally great in the United States and Europe. His performances at Bayreuth, the Vienna State Opera, Salzburg and the Metropolitan Opera of New York have made him a star of international scope.

Tickets for the recital will be available to SUI students and staff at the East Lounge of the Union beginning today. Tickets will be available to the general public on Monday. Students will receive free tickets upon presentation of their identification card. Tickets for the University staff and the public are $1.50 each.

At 38, London has been featured for the past seven years at the "Met" in New York. During the 1958-59 season he was not only featured for the opening night performance of "La Tosca" but had the leading role in eight other major productions of the Met season.

This last summer he made his first concert tour of Israel and also appeared in the new Bayreuth production of "The Flying Dutchman." In 1958 he was one of the artists chosen to represent the U.S. at the Brussels World's Fair.

London's range includes most of the creative singing roles in Italian, French, German and Russian opera.

Wesley Group To Give 'Down To Earth' Sunday

Wesley Foundation members will present the play "Down to Earth" by Betty Knapp Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the Wesley Auditorium.

Tickets for the production are 50 cents each. The play will be directed by Tom Ingham, A2, Norfolk, Neb.

Those in the cast include: Robert Forbes, A3, Iowa City; Susan Anderson, A4, Stevens Point; Danny Reams, A4, Joliet, Ill.; Jeanette Hendrickson, Iowa City; Dixie Buss, A2, Cedar Rapids; Kaye Sturdevant, A2, Webster City; Allan Anderson A1, Charles City.

D.M. Man Gets 15 Years; Awaits Another Trial

DES MOINES — Clifford C. Hobbs, one of three men indicted in connection with the $40,000 Hiland Potato Chip Co. safe burglary last month, was sentenced in District Court Wednesday to 15 years on another charge.

The sentence to the Anamosa Reformatory was based on a charge of possession of burglary tools last April. Hobbs, 28, was convicted of the charge last September.

County Attorney Ray Hanrahan said Hobbs will continue to be confined in jail until after his trial on the Hiland break-in.

Banks Becomes 1st To Repeat As National League's MVP

BOSTON (AP)—Ernie Banks, the Chicago Cubs' hard-hitting infielder who set a major league fielding record for shortstops this season, was named the National League's most valuable player of 1959 Wednesday.

The 28-year-old slugger also won the award last year. Banks, who set a major league mark by committing only 12 errors in 155 games, drew 10 of the 22 first place votes cast by the Baseball Writers' Association of America in the eight National League cities.

Banks thus became the first National League player to be named to the honor in consecutive years since the baseball writers took over selection of the most valuable player in 1931.

He was named on every ballot and drew a total of 232½ points. Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee's third baseman, drew five first place votes, was named in a tie with Banks on another and finished second in the balloting with 189½ points. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee and

Ernie Banks

Los Angeles' Wally Moon got the only other first place vote. Aaron, the National League batting champion, collected two first place selections and 174 total points, while Moon was named first on four ballots and had 161 total points.

Mays finished sixth and Burdette, Milwaukee's strong right-hander, 12th in the voting.

Banks led the majors in runs batted in with 143, finished second to Mathews in the National League home run race with 45 and hit .304.

In addition, he wiped out a 17-year-old fielding mark for shortstops. He handled 802 chances with only 12 errors for a .985 fielding percentage, bettering the old mark of .983 set by Eddie Miller of the old Boston Braves in 1942.

Gophers Hope For Snow When They Meet Hawks

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota's football forces worked out in a sprinkle of snow Wednesday and seemed disposed to welcome more of the same when they battle Iowa at Iowa City Saturday.

"Snow is the best thing that could happen for us against Iowa," said one Gopher assistant. "You give that Iowa team a dry field and they're terrors."

The Gophers are gearing their drills on the assumption that Iowa's Olen Treadway will try to exploit Minnesota's loose pass defense.

Offensively, Minnesota is almost certain to try ball control tactics in the hope its big line can grind down the light Iowa line.

Coach Murray Warmath made no important lineup changes, leaving quarterback Larry Johnson in charge of the first team backfield.

Minnesota's Rugged Defense Threatens Hawkeye Attack

By JIM TUCKER
Staff Writer

The Minnesota football team will depend on a good defense to stop the Iowa Hawkeyes Saturday. The Gophers have been strong defensively all year, but they have not been able to stir up much of a storm on offense.

Minnesota's defense has been remarkable in its first six games. Powerful Northwestern, currently undefeated and on top of the Big Ten, was held scoreless for three quarters by the Gophers but managed to push over a touchdown in the closing minutes of that game to win 6-0. The Gophers have allowed an average of just 14 points per game, but even more remarkable is that no Minnesota opponent has compiled more than 238 yards in total offense against them.

The Gophers have good depth

BROWN

at ends with Bob Deegan and Tom Moe on the first unit. Right behind them are reserves Tom Hall and Dick Johnson. All have good size (over 200 pounds) and speed. Hall is the leading pass receiver for the Gophers with six catches good for 98 yards.

The Gophers lost their season opener to Nebraska, 32-12, then defeated Indiana 24-14. Before defeating Vanderbilt last week, 20-6, Minnesota had lost three consecutive conference games, all by just one touchdown, to Northwestern (6-0), Illinois (14-6), and Michigan (14-6).

The Gophers use a multiple-T offense, manipulating different formations with every game. Their offensive strength is centered at fullback where they have three front line competitors in Tom Robbins, Jim Rogers and Roger Hagberg. Robbins is the leading contender for the position and probably will start against Iowa. He has averaged just under four yards per carry in rushing and is an excellent punter. Rogers and Hagberg are right behind Robbins however, and both will probably see action Saturday. As a sophomore last season, Hagberg ranked second on the Gopher squad in rushing, picking up 261 yards in 73 carries.

Judge Dickson, a 210-pound sophomore, poses the top Minnesota threat at halfback. He is the leading rusher on the squad. Bill Kauth is the other starting halfback, but he alternates with Arlie Bomstad. Both are hard driving runners, and Kauth often figures in the Gopher passing attack.

The Gophers appear to be weak at quarterback. Sophomore Sandy Stephens, a good breakaway runner with a 3.7 rushing average, has filled the role most of the season, but Larry Johnson, Minnesota's leading passer, may get the starting nod Saturday. Joe Salem, who directed the Gophers to their 20-6 win over Vanderbilt last week, also shares quarterback duties.

Both teams have one victory and three defeats in conference play. Minnesota has not defeated the Hawkeyes since 1954. Iowa will be going for its fifth consecutive series victory Saturday. In the over-all series, which began in 1891, Minnesota is well in front with a total of 34 wins against 17 for Iowa. One game, in 1951, ended in a 20-20 tie.

Hawks Boast Big 10 Leaders In 4 Offensive Departments

Olen Treadway still leads the Big Ten in passing and total offense and Bob Jeter leads in rushing despite the fact that the Hawkeyes played a non-conference game against Kansas State last Saturday.

Treadway has an impressive lead over the conference's second best passer, Dean Look of Michigan

State. Treadway has hit on 56 of 95 passes for 535 yards and three touchdowns. Look has completed 23 of 54 for 373 yards and four TD's.

In total offense, John Henry Jackson of Indiana is Treadway's nearest challenger. Jackson has 410 yards — 87 rushing and 323 passing, while the Hawkeyes' quarterback has a total of 561 yards — 585 passing and a minus 24 rushing.

Northwestern fullback Mike Stock, as a result of his big day against Indiana last Saturday, has closed the gap between Bob Jeter and himself in the rushing department.

Jeter has carried 45 times for 304 yards and a 6.8 average while Stock is averaging 4.5 with 261 yards in 58 carries.

Norton, meanwhile, continues far out in front in pass receiving. The Anamosa scrapper has picked off 20 passes for 244 yards and three touchdowns. Teammate Jeff Langston is second with 11 catches for 138 yards, and Jerry Mauren, reserve Iowa halfback, holds down the No. 5 position with eight receptions for 73 yards.

NCAA statistics show that Norton dropped from fourth to fifth in the national pass catching rankings with 25 receptions for 368 yards and four touchdowns. The Hawkeye co-captain snagged "only" three passes for 67 yards against Kansas State last Saturday. Stanford's Chris Burford leads with 36 catches for 446 yards.

Treadway moved from eighth to seventh in total offense nationally, but fell from third to fifth in passing. The Muskogee, Okla., senior has accumulated 851 yards over-all — 875 passing and a minus 24 rushing. Stanford's Dick Norman is far out in front in total offense with 1,309 yards — 1,253 of those as the result of passes.

Cal Chancellor Says USC Not To Be Dropped

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chancellor of the University of California, said Wednesday Cal is "not contemplating a break in athletic relations with the University of Southern California" over the McKeever incident.

California's student governing body urged the university not to play football against USC again if McKeever is a member of the team.

California officials have charged, and USC Coach Don Clark and McKeever have denied, that the 218-pound guard deliberately hit halfback Bates with an elbow in falling on him along the sidelines after the whistle had blown last Saturday. The Trojans won 14-7.

McKeever contends he could not stop nor change direction.

Bates is hospitalized with a shattered cheek bone and broken nose. He is out for the season. An operation is scheduled Friday.

USC President Norman Topping, who viewed movies of the play in Berkeley Monday, said in a statement Tuesday night the incident as well as others in the game could have been avoided.

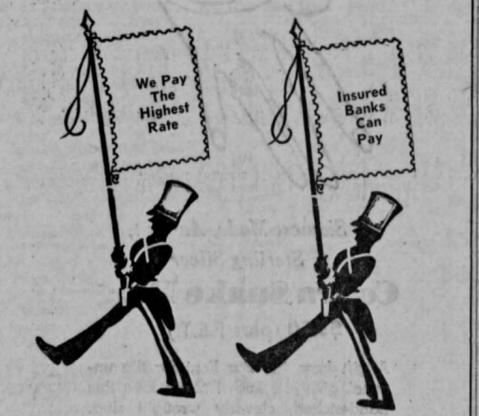

"To the extent that we are responsible, we apologize," Topping said.

California President Clark Kerr asked that the Athletic Assn. of Western Universities study the charges of deliberate roughness. He said he accepted Dr. Topping's statement but declined further comment "until I have seen what corrective measures will be taken."

Foreign Language Inventory Of Capabilities To Be Taken

Herald Tribune News Service
NEW YORK — For the first time in its history, the United States is preparing to take a detailed inventory of its foreign language capabilities.

This is to be a painstaking evaluation of a national resource, not idle research prompted by scholarly curiosity. Educators and Government officials alike are convinced that the effort is essential to national security.

They know that the United States is suffering a deficit in trained linguists, a chronic shortcoming made acute by the pressure of world politics.

They know that the deficit is a luxury the Nation no longer can afford and they are trying to do something about it through the Foreign Language provisions of the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

But, until now, they have had only a rough idea of the extent of the deficit. This much they obtained through a hasty, three-month survey conducted last spring by the American Council of Learned Societies and financed through a $25,000 appropriation from the United States Office of Education. These were among the key facts uncovered by the survey:

At least 50 languages that are spoken by as many as 2 million people each are not now taught in any American college or university.

Fourteen of these languages are spoken by as many as 10 million to 42 million persons.

For many of the important languages of the world, American educators now have no adequate instructional materials.

These include a number of the "official" languages of the sovereign nations with which the United States has business or diplomatic relations.

Adequate instruction facilities are available for only four of the needed languages — French, German, Italian and Spanish.

On the basis of this limited knowledge, the Office of Education established a priority list to determine what languages should have first crack at Federal Aid funds.

Top priority went to Arabic, Chinese, Hindustani, Japanese, Portuguese and Russian, and second priority to a group of "official" languages including Japanese, the African languages of Hausa and Swahili, Afrikaans, Cambodian, Laotian and other Asian tongues.

But the fact remains that neither the educators nor the Government have anything like an exact know-edge of the number of schools or colleges offering the various languages or the size of their enrollments.

They know that there has been a dramatic upsurge of interest in foreign languages, but the evidence is confined to bits and pieces of information concerning one language, one school or one college or university.

It has been established, for example, that at least 400 high schools are now offering Russian language courses, in contrast to the 36 on record in 1957; that 27 junior high schools are offering the language, and that a smattering of elementary schools have got into the act.

And there was the report last week from Syracuse University that all language enrollments had jumped 22 per cent over last year to 2,139, the largest total in university history.

This trend was echoed in Ohio, where Kent State University authorities reported a 36 per cent increase in language enrollments over the same semester in 1956. The largest increase — 76 per cent — was in Russian language enrollments.

At the same time, there has been a noticeable tendency among the colleges to restore foreign language as a requirement for admission.

VA Hospital To Conduct Workshop

A demonstration-participation workshop in "Group Leadership and Socialization Techniques" will be one of the features of the Second Annual Recreation Institute for hospital staff members, volunteers, recreation personnel and students scheduled for Friday at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Iowa City.

The one-day program will also include discussions on music as a therapy for hospital patients, group leadership and socialization techniques, the power of leadership, building a recreation program through a progression of activities and group leadership through formation sequence and interrelationships of the individual.

Principal speakers at the Recreation Institute will be Florence Chambers, director of music therapy at the Independence Mental Health Institute; Betty van der Smissen, SUI assistant professor of physical education for women; Lila Chevillie, instructor in physical education for women at SUI, and E. A. Scholer, instructor in physical education for men at SUI.

Hays To Address History Teachers In Des Moines

A shift in attention from top-level governmental decisions to the grass-roots in teaching history will be suggested to Iowa teachers Friday by Sam Hays, associate professor of history at SUI.

Hays will address teachers at a special afternoon session at the Iowa State Education Association convention at the Veteran's Memorial Auditorium, Des Moines. The session is sponsored by the Iowa Council for the Social Studies. Entitled "New Viewpoints in Recent American History" the session will present results of new research, especially as Iowa is involved, according to Barbara Avery, Spencer, president of the Iowa Council for the Social Studies.

"It is my feeling that the reason history is dull and dry to both high school and college students is that it is remote from human experience and therefore remote from reality," Hays explained. "The task of history teachers is to bring history closer to human reality."

Hays said he believes history involves the basic and vital processes of people understanding their world and holding attitudes which arise from that particular understanding. This approach differs from the traditional "presidential history" approach.

Loveless, Schwengel To Go Back To School In January

GRINNELL — It will be back to school days in January for two of the state's top politicians.

Democratic Gov. Herschel Loveless and Republican Congressman Fred Schwengel of Davenport will spend two days on the Grinnell College campus as part of a "politician-in-residence" program inaugurated at the school.

State Sen. C. Edwin Gilmour, (D-Grinnell), of the school's political science department said Wednesday that Loveless will be on the campus Jan. 12-13 and Schwengel Jan. 18-19.

Both Loveless and Schwengel will spend time with the students, attend classes, participate in extracurricular activities, eat in the student dining halls and spend the night on the campus.

The politician-in-residence project at Grinnell is a new feature of a political education program which started this fall under a $42,750 grant from the Falk Foundation of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Gilmour is director of the program.

Lamont Prize Major Poetry Gain—

Justice Wins Award

Donald Justice, assistant professor of English at SUI, has won the Lamont Poetry Selection, a major poetry award made by the Academy of American Poets. The announcement was made Wednesday evening at a dinner meeting of the Academy at the Hotel Waldorf Astoria in New York City.

Justice, a graduate of the SUI Writers' Workshop, attended the dinner as did Paul Engle, director of the SUI workshop. Engle served as one of the judges for the contest.

The Lamont selection is made on the basis of a manuscript of a book of poetry, submitted by a publisher. In this case, the Wesleyan University Press. The author of the book must not have had any poetry published in book form before. The award includes a cash guarantee of 10 per cent profit to the author on 1,000 copies of his book, which are purchased by the Academy for its members.

Both of the country's most distinguished annual prizes for first books of poetry have been won, for 1959, by former members of the SUI Writers' Workshop. William Dicky, Cornell University staff member now a Fulbright scholar at Oxford University, won the Yale Series of Younger Poets prize for his volume, "Before the Festivities," since published by the Yale Press. Many of the poems in Dicky's book were written in the SUI workshop.

This is the first time both prizes have been won in the same year by poets from the same University, although neither contest is limited to college writers. Four of the top six finalists in the Lamont competition were recent members of the SUI Poetry Workshop; all will have volumes published within a year.

Justice was born in 1925 at Miami, Fla., grew up in the same town, and was graduated from the University of Miami in 1945 with a B.A. degree. In 1947 he received his M.A. degree from the University of North Carolina.

While at the University of North Carolina, Justice met his wife Jean, who is also a writer. Recently she has had two stories accepted by Esquire magazine, the latest of which, called "The Maid of Scarborough," appears in the November issue.

Steel Strike Deadlock Continues

WASHINGTON — Steel industry and union negotiators met face-to-face Wednesday but parted as deadlocked as ever in the 113-day-old strike.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, who called the negotiators together, told newsmen the eyes of both sides are focused on the Supreme Court. He recessed the talks indefinitely.

The court has under study an appeal by the United Steelworkers Union from a District Court judge's order that 500,000 strikers return to the long-idle steel mills at least for 80 days. There was no word on when the high court may announce its decision.

The nine justices began their deliberations after a hearing Tuesday, and continued them Wednesday without any announced result. Presumably they will dig into the complex legal problem again today.

At issue is the order itself and the emergency machinery of the 12-year-old Taft-Hartley law under which the injunction was issued two weeks ago. The union has challenged the constitutionality of that section of the law. While the Supreme Court considers the case, the back-to-work order remains suspended.

President Eisenhower, who ordered his lawyers to seek the injunction on grounds the strike was threatening the nation's health and safety, avoided comment at his news conference.

The joint negotiating session lasted only half an hour. On leaving the conference, the union president, David J. McDonald, replied "absolutely none" when reporters asked him whether there was any progress toward a settlement.

Finnegan said the contesting groups were instructed to be ready to return at any time, but he said it is unlikely there would be any new meeting before Friday.

He said both sides told him they saw no point in further sessions until some agreement could be worked out on cost figures for the various proposals made so far. "Some of their figures didn't seem to make any sense," he said.

Queen Elizabeth To Record Annual Christmas Speech

LONDON — Recordings of Queen Elizabeth's traditional Christmas message will be sent early to Commonwealth countries so her subjects around the world can hear her speech Christmas Day.

In past years, when the Queen made her broadcast live from London, recordings of the speech were not heard in such countries as New Zealand and Australia until the following day, because of the time difference.

The Queen, who is expecting a baby early in 1960, will not be making her usual television appearance on Christmas Day.

Britain To Cut Import Quotas On U.S. Goods

LONDON — Britain is opening the door to a glittering array of American goods. Almost all remaining quotas on imports from the dollar area and from Western Europe will be removed Nov. 9.

This means 300 to 500 million dollars extra in American goods will be sold in Britain yearly, trade experts estimated.

Reginald Maudling, president of Britain's Board of Trade, announced Wednesday the abolition of quota controls as one of a series of actions dismantling Britain's wartime financial and commercial controls.

He said Britain is able to take the step because of its present favorable balance of trade and the strength of the pound sterling.

Although quota restrictions are coming off most imports, tariffs will stay on. So the new American goods will sell more than most British-made articles.

Even so, many British women are expected to make sacrifices to get New York-styled cocktail dresses and casual wear, always popular here. Housewives will want to try widely heralded U.S. refrigerators, cosmetics, imitation jewelry, and certain foods.

There may even be an occasional buyer for a costly automobile, although it will sell for considerably more than Britain's luxurious Rolls-Royce and Bentley limousines, which go for $15,000.

Other principal items freed from quota controls: Machinery, electrical equipment, scientific, industrial and optical instruments, cameras, textiles, gold and silver coins, cutlery, clocks and cigarette lighters.

Rep. Carter Dies Of Cancer

WASHINGTON — Rep. Steven V. Carter, (D-Iowa), died Wednesday after a stubborn 10-month long fight against cancer. He was 44.

The first-term Democrat drew nationwide attention shortly after taking office in January by hiring his young son to work on his staff at an annual salary of $11,873. He later cut this to $6,402.

A special election will be held to fill the seat.

During the controversy over nepotism, Carter said his 19-year-old son, Steven Anthony, carried the brunt of his work load while he was hospitalized. Young Carter also attended George Washington University as a prelaw student while working in his dad's office.

There is nothing illegal about the employment of relatives by persons on Government payrolls.
