

$20 Yearly Dorm Rate Increase Okayed

To Make Up Board Job Wage Raise

2nd Late Increase Ups Next Year's Dorm Bills $40

A $20 yearly increase in SUI dormitory rates was approved Thursday by the State Board of Regents.

Beginning next September, students will pay $820 yearly for two rooms and 20 weekly meals in Quadrangle, Hillcrest, Currier and Burge Halls, and $300 yearly for rooms in South Quadrangle, the only non-boarding dormitory.

The increase is the second $20 raise in rates for SUI boarding dormitories in recent months, making 1960-61 rates $40 higher than those of 1959-60.

The first increase was based on the need to provide for recent and future construction in SUI's self-liquidating dormitory system; the second is to cover the cost of raising the pay of student board members in the dormitories.

Students working for board had threatened to strike unless they were granted a pay increase. The going rate has been one meal for each hour worked.

Under the new plan, the University will pay workers $1 an hour and the students will pay for their meals.

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher said the students had agreed, in consultation with University officials, to abandon any plans for a strike if the school would agree to put the new rates into effect next fall.

The full cost of the pay raise is $79,000. However, the Regents were asked to approve a raise of $68,000 since it is hoped increased efficiencies will take care of the difference.

Student reaction to the rate increase varied. Frazier Coffie, A3, Altoona, spokesman for the committee of board members who negotiated for the raise, said, "I am glad they passed it, but I would have been happier about the pay raise if the rate had not been hiked."

Beverly Coty, A3, Mason City, substitute board member said, "A group figured out that the gain to the 'board jobbers' would only be four cents an hour because of tax and other deductions. Since that is the case, I don't see why this raise is necessary."

"The raise may be a necessity, but I don't feel that the dorm residents should stand all the raise," Richard Moreland, B3, Alden, substitute board member, said.

Slate New Coed Dorm

The State Board of Regents Thursday authorized SUI to negotiate for a site and architect for a new dormitory to house 350-400 women students.

As proposed to the Regents by SUI officials, the new women's dormitory would be built immediately south of Burge Hall, extending west along Bloomington Street from Clinton Street to a street about mid-way in the block, and south to the International Center.

The new unit would contain rooms, lounges and other necessary facilities but no dining room or kitchen. Food service would be provided in Burge Hall, to which the building would connect by a 100-foot tunnel under Bloomington Street.

University officials explained that to keep pace with future enrollment gains at SUI, the new women's dormitory would be ready for occupancy in 1962. By the fall of that year it is anticipated that 11,400 students will be enrolled at SUI (compared to 10,789 enrolled last fall), including some 500 more single women students than are currently enrolled.

Currier and Burge Halls are already operating on an expanded capacity basis, the Regents were told, and could house no more than an absolute maximum of 450 additional residents.

No tax funds are used in construction or operation of SUI dormitories, the buildings being financed by borrowing from private lenders. These loans are repaid — along with operating expenses — from room-and-board payments made by student residents of the dormitories.

IKE'S VETO HOLDS UP
WASHINGTON — The House fell 22 votes short Thursday of overriding President Eisenhower's veto of a bill to increase federal spending on water-pollution control.

The roll-call vote was 249-157 in favor of enacting the measure over the President's veto. This was 22 short of the two-thirds needed to override.

Erbe--Legislature Can Reapportion

By JOHN HANRAHAN Staff Writer

Speaking before the SUI Young Republicans Thursday evening, Attorney General Norman Erbe said reapportionment of the Iowa State Legislature must be accomplished but that a Constitutional Convention is not the only way of doing it.

Erbe, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, said that it is the duty of the State Legislature to enact Iowa's laws, including those for reapportionment.

"Granted this is a longer process," he said, referring to the method of reapportionment through the State Legislature, "but I believe the Legislature can pass a reapportionment bill that will be accepted by the people."

In his talk to an audience of well over 100 in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol, Erbe stressed that there is a great need for consolidation or centralization of operations within the various state offices and agencies.

"Every state agency in Des Moines has its own office with an IBM machine," Erbe said. "It's getting so the machines are pushing the office personnel out into the hallways." Erbe suggested a single computing center to take care of the records of the many state agencies.

"Such a computing center could be in operation 18 or 20 hours a day and thus save the state a lot of money," he said. "As things stand now, the IBM machines in the various offices are only used six or seven hours a day. This certainly seems like a waste to me."

In an interview following his speech, Erbe said he doesn't believe his August "ban" on 42 alleged indecent and obscene magazines will become a campaign issue. He added further that he doesn't feel his chances in the governor's race were hurt any by his action to remove these publications from the newsstands.

Following the speech by Erbe, the Young Republicans held their club elections and picked Bruce Oakley, L2, Iowa City, as chairman to head the club for the coming year. Named vice chairman was Luanne Harif, A3, Sheboygan, Wis. Barbara Humphrey, A2, Washington, Ill., was elected secretary, and Ike Ackerman, A3, Iowa City, is the new treasurer of the club.

Regents Boost SUI Budget By $210,760

Preliminary Figure Set To Cover Deficit, Salaries, Enrollment

DES MOINES — A preliminary budget estimate of $14,541,755 for general operation of SUI in the 1960-61 school year was approved by the State Board of Regents Thursday.

Business Manager Elwin Jolliffe told the board this is $210,760 more than the budget for the current school year.

He estimated the operating budget for University Hospitals at $8,575,717, up $200,000 from the current year; for the Psychopathic Hospital, $982,723, down $12,022; State Bacteriological Laboratory $366,831, up $4,416; and for the SUI Hospital School $536,802, up $3,000.

Much of the increase in each case, Jolliffe explained, is accounted for by an increase in federal Social Security taxes that went into effect Jan. 1. Salary boosts also account for part of it, he said.

The University's budget estimate includes $232,780 for enrollment increase expenses, including $28,641 for the current school year that wasn't budgeted and will be carried forward into 1960-61.

Adjustments in reserves and credits are planned to absorb a part of the increase, Jolliffe said. The small budget decrease for the Psychopathic Hospital results from the fact that because of a shortage of qualified professional personnel, it has been impossible to fill several positions for which salary funds were budgeted.

SUI Greeks To Crown Queen Tonight

Climaxing Greek Week will be the Interfraternity-Panhellenic dance to be held this evening from 9 until 11 in the Main Lounge of Iowa Memorial Union.

The theme of the dance, as has been the theme of Greek Week, will be "Toast to the Greeks." The Main Lounge will take on a night club appearance. Small red checked tables will surround the bandstand. Frankie Masters and his band will provide music for dancing, and Miss Anita O'Day will present several half hour vocal concerts.

At approximately 10:30 p.m., David Abbott, A3, Warwick, Va., IFC social chairman, will introduce the five IFC queen finalists. Miss IFC will then be crowned by Jack Williams, A4, Waterloo, president of IFC.

Italian Airliner Crashes, 32 Killed

SHANNON, Ireland — An Italian airliner with 52 persons aboard crashed into a cemetery and exploded here early today just after taking off for New York. Eyewitnesses said not more than 20 persons — and probably fewer — survived.

A Shannon priest said the Alitalia DCT hit the wall of the cemetery near the airport, shearing the wheels off the craft.

The plane was on a flight from Naples and Rome to New York and was said to be carrying mostly Italians and Americans.

Aboard were 40 passengers and a crew of 12. It crashed in clear weather about 2 a.m. (9 p.m. EST Thursday).

The crash was the eighth major plane disaster since Jan. 1 and the second within 24 hours. The crash of planes in Rio de Janeiro and Shannon, Ireland, brought to more than 325 the number of persons killed in eight major plane disasters since Jan. 1.

Hancher: SUI Is 'Selective' In Admissions

The idea that state-supported institutions of higher learning are havens of refuge for inferior students is rejected by President Virgil M. Hancher in his annual report on SUI.

Hancher points out that for years SUI has been "selective" in nine of its ten colleges. "Anyone who stops for a moment will realize that Medicine, Dentistry, Law, the other professional colleges and the Graduate College have been selective for many years," he says.

"Indeed, the only complaints we receive about those programs," Hancher says, "is the occasional complaint that they are too selective and that 'my son' or 'my nephew' can't get in!"

His report, published in the February issue of the Iowa Alumni Review for members of the SUI Alumni Association, continues that the "criticism, if not wholly 'egregious or malevolent', must have been directed at the College of Liberal Arts, the only SUI college to which any Iowa high school graduate could demand entrance.

Talk on this point seems to assume that the state institutions have been flooded with application demands from students in the bottom ten per cent of their high school graduating classes, he says.

"This assumes that poor high school students are more stupid and more ambitious than they really are," Hancher answers. "On the contrary, a very high percentage of high school students who graduate with poor grades are smart enough to know whether or not they can do satisfactory college work."

January Living Costs Down .01

WASHINGTON — Living costs dipped again in January for the second straight month. But they remained at a near-record level.

The Labor Department said Thursday lower prices for clothing, new autos, eggs and most meats brought its monthly index down one-tenth of one per cent from December.

This put the consumer price index at 125.4 per cent of the 1947-49 average. That means it takes $12.54 to buy what a $10 bill would purchase a decade ago.

Sao Paulo Crowd Grets Ike Enthusiastically Despite Rain

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — President Eisenhower bared his head to the rain in Sao Paulo Thursday and beamed at the most enthusiastic acclaim he has gotten so far on his South American tour. A half million or more cheered him along drenched, confetti-strewn streets.

A few hours later a pall was cast over his personal triumphs by an aerial tragedy at Rio de Janeiro, the collision of a plane carrying U. S. Navy bandmen and a Brazilian commercial craft. The musicians were flying in to Rio to appear Thursday night at Eisenhower's U. S. Embassy dinner for President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil.

Eisenhower made a flying trip from Rio, Brazil's political capital, to Sao Paulo, the industrial capital, for an activity — packed, six-hour visit that, despite the rain, caused a stir exceeding even that of his official welcome here Wednesday.

Paper and ticker tape fluttered down from windows of that booming city of three million, 220 miles southwest of Rio, in salute to his motorcade. Thousands of students turned out. In the wake of the procession, Eisenhower's admirers surged into Sao Paulo's streets this gray, wet, 70-degree day and blocked traffic — dancing, jumping and shouting in their enthusiasm.

The President stood in his bubble-top limousine, flown from Sao Paulo, one of the fastest growing cities in the world.

Eisenhower flies Friday to Argentina, the second country on his four-nation, 10-day goodwill tour. Then he goes on to Chile and Uruguay.

Beatnik's Place In Society Discussed At Symposium

By PAT AUGUSTINE Staff Writer

People involved in the Beat generation have protested against the institutionalized forms that religion takes in this country, said Dr. James C. Spalding, associate professor of religion, at the "Religion and the Beatniks" symposium which was held in Shambaugh Auditorium Thursday evening in connection with Religion in Life Week.

Spalding said, "As a result these people are seeking a way to understand themselves. Some have found an answer in the ancient religion — Zennobuddism. This seems right for it emphasizes the continuity of all life, yet doesn't believe one can get the universe in the continuity of his thinking."

Following a recording of Kenneth Rexroth's poem, "Thou Shall Not Kill," the Rev. William B. Van Valkenburgh, director of the Wesley Foundation, Iowa City, pointed out that this writer was speaking for a group who protest against stifling creativity.

The Rev. Mr. Van Valkenburgh said, in understanding that the Christian faith is a way of looking at life and what God has done, the artists and writers of the Beat generation have religious significance. They ask themselves, 'Who are we? Why are we here?'

James McClelland, A3, Des Moines, employe of Renaissance II, said a person is apt to become a beatnik if he is different from others in society. The outcast can find a new world in living together with others of his kind.

Rabbi Gerald Engel, director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation at Purdue University, said that the Beat generation was a question of looking at reality. Rabbi Engel asked, "How do they look at the world? The real issue is how to adjust to the world."

Rabbi Engel said, "It is a necessity to rejoin society. It is the only way man can develop himself."

When Rabbi Engel brought up the point of whether the beatniks have any values in life, Spalding pointed out that because these people are living without unnecessary things and because these people will accept the outcast as a person that these are values.

Spalding said the beatnik is trying to get some roots of vitality. The Beat generation has made one step, perhaps they will evolve further.

Navy, Brazil Planes Collide In Mid-Air

35 Americans, 25 Brazilians Killed; 3 Known Survivors

A former Iowa Citian, Chief Musician Walter M. Penland, 30, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Penland, 27 Olive Court, was one of the three Iowans listed as missing in the crash of a Navy transport plane after it collided with a Brazilian commercial airliner Thursday.

Penland was not among the three known survivors. A late report said 35 Americans and 25 Brazilians were killed.

Penland, who lived in Temple Hills, Md., with his wife, Phyllis, and three children, Deborah Susan, 6, Pam, who will be four next month, and Michele Marie, 2, was a member of the Navy band on the plane. The band was on its way to Rio de Janeiro to play for the touring President Eisenhower.

Penland's parents received a telegram from Vice Admiral A. R. Smedberg, Chief of Naval Personnel, about 10 p.m. Thursday, informing them of the crash. The telegram said their son was on the Navy aircraft that crashed over Rio de Janeiro, and expressed deep sympathy, but "no further information was available."

The Penlands first heard of the tragedy on a Thursday afternoon radio newscast, however. By telephone they learned their son's wife had been informed by the Navy earlier in the day.

One of the members of the band that did not make the ill-fated trip had been in contact with Penland's wife, the parents said. They said the band member expressed hope for the missing Penland. They could not say what the hope was based on, though.

Mrs. Penland is expecting her fourth child next month. The Penlands said that Walter had planned on returning to his home for the birth of the baby.

Penland's grandmother, Mrs. Sophia Fisher, lives at 1102 N. Dodge in Iowa City.

Penland joined the Navy 12 years ago in 1948, the same year he graduated from City High School here. While in high school, Penland played the clarinet, the French horn, and the oboe, which was his specialty. He had played in the University orchestra for several years, from age 15. Penland married Phyllis on June 3, 1953.

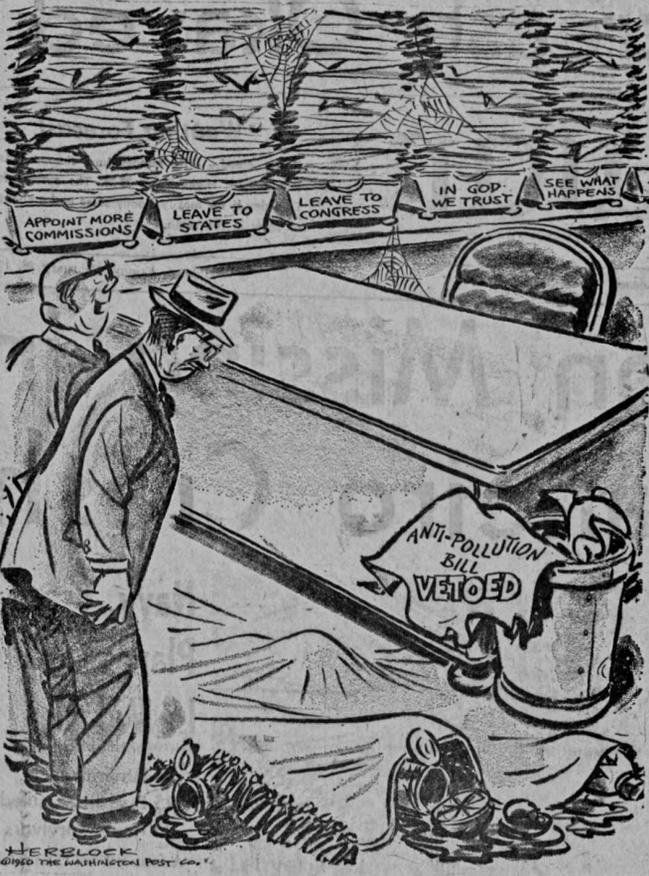

They said he took music lessons from Hirmie Voxman, professor of music at SUI, and William Gower, associate professor of music here. Walter enlisted in the Navy when a Navy band group came to Iowa City, the parents said. Penland married Phyllis on June 3, 1953.

Two other Iowans were on the Navy transport.

Listed by the Navy as missing after the crash were Lt. (jg) Burdett Van Otterloo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Van Otterloo of route 2, Hull, and a member of the crew, Lt. (jg) Owen Proctor Hartshorn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Hartshorn of Essex.

The Navy plane collided with the airliner over Sugar Loaf Mountain at 1:10 p.m. Presidents Eisenhower and Kubitschek, learning of the crash, went together to the hospital to visit the three survivors as soon as they arrived in Rio from Sao Paulo.

It was announced that the disaster will not affect the President's South American tour schedule.

Wisconsin Puts ROTC on A Trial Voluntary Basis

The drive toward voluntary ROTC continues to gain momentum around the country, (though, as we noted before, not here). The latest development took place last week at the University of Wisconsin, a perennial leader in this sort of thing, where the board of regents voted to give voluntary ROTC a two-year trial.

The action by the Wisconsin officials illustrates, for the unfrilled (on this topic, at any rate) SUI scene, at least three things: that the main argument for compulsory ROTC has little basis in fact; that some official bodies are taking action where action is warranted, and, finally, that students can, if they will spark constructive reforms.

The Wisconsin plan is a compromise with previous action in which the regents defeated a faculty-approved program for voluntary ROTC. It provides that "compulsory ROTC will be re-installed if the third-year Army ROTC enrollment on the Madison and Milwaukee campuses together in the fall of 1961 or the fall of 1962 is less than 75 per cent of this enrollment in the fall of 1959."

This strikes us as a rather sorry compromise, amounting to something far short of victory for the anti-compulsory forces. Nevertheless, the new plan drew some praise. The commander of the Wisconsin Army ROTC unit called it an enlightened attempt by the regents to meet the Army's requirements and, at the same time, satisfying the desires of the faculty.

The university newspaper, The Daily Cardinal, applauded the plan as an initial step toward a voluntary ROTC program. The newspaper noted, however, that the "satisfaction of seeing voluntary ROTC passed is tempered by the realization that the success of the program hinges upon the percentage of men entering advanced corps in the fall of 1961 or 1962 compared to last fall."

The Cardinal suggests two reasons for the switch in policy by the regents. One obvious force was a campaign promoted by the Wisconsin Student Association to have students and other citizens write to the regents stating their views on the matter. Another was a letter written by an official of the Defense Department to the University president.

Among other things, the letter noted that "In order for the Department of Defense to support a policy of favoring compulsory basic ROTC, a military requirement should exist for such a policy. Such a military requirement does not exist."

The letter went on to say that "Compulsory basic ROTC is not needed to meet quality standards nor is it needed to produce the number of officers required."

These statements, as the Cardinal pointed out, strike a heavy blow at the one great argument for a continued compulsory program: that it's needed for national defense.

Why the Wisconsin regents failed to take the statements at face value we, of course, cannot guess. They did take some action, however, and the Cardinal noted that at last long had made a small advance against the "old, stale, false arguments that have echoed through these halls for years."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR—

Value Judgments Detrimental

To the Editor:
I am one of the "chickens" that roost on Student Council, to use Bob Berner's delightfully picturesque and dreadfully subtle terminology. Allow me to "peck away" at what I feel is paralyzing the responsible consideration of the discriminatory clause issue by our student community.

Too many of us preen our feathers, rant, write, and criticize from our armchairs without seeking to understand the reasons behind the action we so brashly criticize.

I don't dislike criticism. The Council, as does every policy-making or resolution-making body, cannot exist without it. But let us validate our remarks by first surveying the situation at hand.

The communication channels through which student opinion flows in an attempt to irrigate the somewhat dusty minds of many apathetic campuses are in the process of rapid decay. Several of my friends have approached me the last few days with comments such as, "The campus hates you for supporting discrimination" as well as with witticisms directed at my being responsible for the raising of the dormitory bills — a completely separate issue from the minimum wage resolution. It is my contention that these and other issues are increasingly being confused because of (1) the shadow reading of the individuals on the issue and (2) the ineffectiveness of communication as a basis for intelligent discussion.

Eleven persons in my hall have signed a petition as not favoring the 1964 time limit for the removal of discriminatory clauses from organizational charters. Eight of these eleven are pledges. Many of them feel that this whole issue is an attempt to destroy our Greek system. I believe that I can say rightfully for the majority of the Council that it is not. It is an appeal that goes beneath a pin or the absence of one — into the heart of man. Is discrimination "right" or isn't it — and if not how can we together better the situation?

In the February 22nd issue of the "Iowa Defender" I was tabbed as voting "yes" on Quad's resolution No. 15 and "no" on Myrna Balk's resolution No. 16 which action, as representative of the majority of the council, has been defined as failing to take "any meaningful action" by Tim Ross in his February 23rd letter to the editor.

And why did this "chicken"

No Concern on Chessman Case

To the Editor:

About a week ago I was talking to a fellow student who said, "They are going to kill Caryl Chessman for a crime he may not have committed." After this statement had hung in the back of my mind for a couple of days, I began to get somewhat concerned. My concern, of course, came too late for any action. In self-defense, however, I began noticing what seemed to me to be a singularly strange silence around campus with regard to the case. Perhaps I looked and listened in the wrong places for expressions of opinion or concern. If so, I would be glad to know it. If not, then I wonder — for myself and others — if the question of a man's life can't have meaning for us, what can?

Petition Note to Married Students

To the Editor:

We wish to call attention, again, to the married students' attempts to convince their "representatives" on Student Council, that most of us are in favor of meaningful legislation to end discriminatory clauses in fraternity constitutions. The response to the circulated petitions has been gratifying. However, we realize that we cannot get to all married students either personally or by phone. Therefore, we hope that those interested in this issue will read and sign the ad to married students in the Iowa.

Must Expose Candidacy

To the Editor:

In view of the mounting inertia attendant at the candidacy of James E. COLBY (so adequately reported by the DISCURSIVE John Gilgum) it is time that the FOUL and DASTARDLY intent underlying that candidacy is exposed. The TREACHEROUS Col. Colby is knowingly SELLING OUT THE TRUE INTERESTS OF THE VOCAL CLASS which he purports to represent.

It is at once obvious from the platform upon which his candidacy is based (ABOLISH WINTER) that this CHARLATAN Colby is cynically using the idealism of the IN(OUT) PEOPLE to defeat their own legitimate aspirations.

It should be clearly evident to the THINKING MAN that the abolition of winter would have the direct effect of SHORTENING NIGHTS. This could serve only the interests of the Iowa City Parking Meter Dept., bookstore bandits, university administrators, and other EXPLOITATIVE BOURGEOIS, natural enemies of the VOCAL CLASS.

For the VOCAL CLASS, observed in their native habitats—KENNEDY'S, RENAISSANCE 2, the SMOKEY GRILL — are identical with the NIGHT PEOPLE.

Colby SLURS the intelligence of the VOCAL CLASS by insidiously peddling a false panacea like the abolition of winter. Colby is advised that we are not taken IN(OUT).

If Colby desires to regain the allegiance of his ERSTWHILE following only one course of action is possible. Colby must reappear at the Renaissance 2 this Saturday and RECENT his heresy. We may then consider a PENITENT and CONTRITE Colby as our standard bearer on the only platform exalting the TRUE interests of the VOCAL CLASS — ABOLISH DAYTIME!

Flotsam and Jetsam

By JUDY KLEMESRUD

Some of Iowa City's fire and police officers are enrolled in SUI political science and sociology courses this semester. With Fire Chief Vernal Shimon in the room, the "No Smoking" signs seem to have added authority lately. And Dick Lee, police captain, can always solve any cheating problems with his revolver.

CAMPUS LANDMARK No. 15: Studio Theatre. This cross between a classroom and a theatre is set within the dismal confines of Old Armory. And with the instructors giving soliloquies at stage left, carpenters banging away in an attempt to hold the barn together, and the swallows that didn't go back to Capistrano roosting in the rafters, it's hard to say what the Studio Theatre serves worse as — a classroom or theatre.

It's been a year now since the Student Council removed the soft drink machines from the Library. A year is a typical probation period, so why not give us another chance? An evening of study is much more enjoyable with a "pause that refreshes."

Congratulations to Iowa State's student government for rejecting the plan for the establishment of a student drinking spot. Now we can rest assured that Iowa's cows of the future will be upstanding bovines.

BACKSLAPS AND HAND-CLAPS: To Bill Buck, captain of the cheerleaders, for his apropos remark at last Saturday's game: "This crowd sounds sick." And may we suggest to the "stationary" cheerleader whose pep is marred by a hairdo that won't stay up: PRUNE IT!

Heard While Crossing Campus: "I won't drop that course. I'll flunk it like a man!" Well, sir, you have until March 22 to change your mind.

On ROTC
Two years of compulsory ROTC is like two years of compulsory home economics for confirmed spinsters — and congratulations to Michigan State's faculty for voting to abolish it.

Perhaps a solution would be to add the Navy branch at SUI. This would make for a greater "selection" — and Udder University has it.

Almost every coed on campus receives monthly recruiting notices from the women's service branches, with attractive offers for summer officer's training programs. Therefore I suggest the abolishment of compulsory ROTC for males, and the addition of voluntary ROTC for women — then those pesky notices might stop! (And so would post-graduation worries.)

Why is it that our ROTC flyboys aren't making any solo flights to Cuba for observation of the sugar cane fields?

Heavier Trading In Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced Thursday with trading heavier and a reawakening of speculative demand. Volume rose to 3,600,000 shares from 2,740,000 Wednesday. Gains of fractions to a point were scattered through the list of key stocks, outnumbering losers in the same range. The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 4.78 to 628.61.

The Romantic Mood—

Caprices of Marianne

—Beautifully Conveyed

Editor's Note: Richard Power, the Iowa's drama reviewer, was unable to attend the opening of "The Caprices of Marianne" at St. Ellis, who ordinarily reviews music, replaced him at the performance.

By JAMES ELLIS
Daily Iowa Reviewer

For the incurable romantic, for any who delight in a brilliant unity of dramatic artistic media, and for those who wish to see a polished, elegant gem of theatre, the production of "The Caprices of Marianne" which opened at the University Theatre last night is a must. Alfred de Musset's drama is like a hot-house flower, and will wilt and die in the wrong atmosphere; scarcely a single draft was stirred last night which could have harmed the bloom.

Musset writes of love with a delicacy and deftness which defies expression except in his own terms. There is always a touch of the ambiguous and enigmatic, mixed with the lyric and the melancholy in a unique blend. The playwright makes extremely great demands of his principle trio — Marianne, her lover Coelio, and her lover's friend and alter-ego, Octave. They must tread a narrow path between tragic seriousness and comic frivolity, which is the special way of Musset's romantic drama.

Lamar Parker, David Thompson, and C. Thomas Ingham, in these three roles, gave superb performances. Mrs. Parker, with a disciplined minimum of gesture and vocal quality, expressed the innocence, the selfishness, and the "indifference" (as Octave calls it) of Marianne admirably. Thompson, in a role which demanded even more restraint, occasionally expressed this too stiffly. His scene with his mother Hermia — who was exquisitely portrayed by Nancy Cole — was, however, a high point in the evening.

Ingham, in by far the best performance of his university career, created an Octave which had just enough of the suave and of the sincere to win him as much to the audience's heart as he apparently is to Marianne's. His control of stage movement is a delight to behold. Praise must also go to Richard Paulus, who was a commanding and convincing Claudio. The basically formal set designed by A. S. Gillette was used to within an inch of its surface by director Philip Benson. To Benson must go much of the credit for the brilliant picturizations. Every portion of the stage was used in a variety of ways; a step became a seat became a wall.

A host of other elements contributed to the play's beautifully-sustained mood of poetic fantasy. The music, well performed (on tape) by the faculty string quartet with the addition of flute, clarinet, and bass, was specially written for the production by Robert Kreis. The richly-romantic score suited the play ideally. Especially memorable is the melody used as Octave's theme and (in rhythmically altered and contracted form) for the dance.

As regards the dance and the dancers, colorful trio mimed the events of the play, followed its action with intense interest, and left their cloaks on Coelio's tomb, all most effectively. I would question, however, their presence during Marianne's and Octave's final dialogue, when the attention should be so entirely focused on these two as they part.

At long last lighting is beginning to appear as a significant and visually related part of a university production. With a projector designed by David Thayer, the new scrim cyclorama was lit with an impressive sequence of painted "gels," adding the dimension of color to those of music, tableau, and voice, in a subtle coalescence of elements to produce a single mood.

Musset is, in my mind, an undeniably great playwright, who plumbs the depths of the human heart and presents his soundings dramatically on the stage. Last night's production was eloquent evidence that this is certainly so when sufficient talents are assembled for the undertaking.

Arab Disunity, Israel's Memories May Stop Clash

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Troops are moving again in the Middle East, but Arab disunity and Israel's memory of the world's attitude toward its 1956 campaign are calculated to deter an outbreak.

The greatest danger for the moment seems to lie in the possibility of local border clashes leading to something bigger.

It is noticeable, however, that the Egyptian movement toward the Negeb appears to be a deterrent action in itself — a threat of invasion if Israel becomes involved with Syria farther north.

Outside the United Arab Republic — Syria and Egypt — there is no common front, politically or militarily, among the Arabs opposing Israel.

Jordan, indeed, instead of backing Arab agitation against Israel, has been showing signs of willingness for peace.

Iraq is primarily occupied with its own internal troubles, though taking time out now and again to counter Nasser's propaganda campaign against the Kassem regime with an effort to woo Syria away from Cairo.

Iraq has also stirred up a border dispute with Iran toward which it would not like to turn its back.

For a time Nasser appeared to be making some political hay in Saudi Arabia, but old rivalries and some stabilization of the government now mitigate against adventures.

North African Arabs are primarily concerned with their relations with Europe. Egypt's nearest neighbor there, Libya, is more interested in developing its own economy, with the aid of new oil discoveries, than in international politics.

TONIGHT'S OPERA, Tiefland by D'Albert, is relatively well known on the European Continent . . . virtually unknown in the United States. Tiefland is an extraordinarily poignant story with suitably melodic accompaniment. Premiered in Prague on November 15, 1903, it was D'Albert's most successful and familiar work in a prolific career. Avril O'Brien will introduce Evening-at-the-Opera at 7:30 p.m.

THE SHIVERING EXERCISE
Did you know that shivering is a form of exercise? It's the body's natural method of counteracting skin temperatures that are too low. Increased perspiration is the body's way of meeting too high skin temperatures. Nature receives another assist in maintaining a comfortable temperature balance at all times through the superior insulation qualities of woolknit clothing. The porous structure of the wool fiber entrapping pockets of air, guards against both overheating and chilling. By offering sufficient ventilation to permit the escape of perspiration that evaporates from the skin, wool regulates and insures healthful comfort of the body.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Dick Petzold discusses time charges for a customer's telephone installation with an administrative assistant.

How to avoid a "dead end" career:
read Dick Petzold's story
While a senior at the University of Maryland, accounting major Richard G. Petzold made some definite decisions about his future. "I wanted to work for an established company," he says, "but I didn't want to get lost in a 'dead end' job."
Dick joined the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company in Washington, D. C., right after graduating in June, 1956. Following three months of orientation, he became a supervisor in Revenue Accounting, where he continued training in a productive capacity, with 15 people reporting to him. Here, he suggested a number of methods improvements which were adopted.
Far from a "dead end" career, Dick's took him into many operating areas:
• to General Accounting, where he handled market research projects, including a Customer Opinion Survey for four Bell System companies...
• to Disbursements Accounting, for IBM-equipment training and, later on, the supervision of Payroll Deduction procedures...
• to Personnel Relations, where he coordinated a special, four-company "absence" study and presented findings to an important, top-level conference...
• to Disbursements Accounting again, where he is now Supervisor, Labor and Material, with an administrative assistant and 10 clerks under his guidance.
"The telephone company brings out the best in you," says Dick. "I've developed new skills, acquired self-reliance, and learned how to supervise and work with people. What's the opposite of a 'dead end' career? Well, I've got it!"
Dick Petzold earned a B.S. degree in Accounting while in college. He's one of many young men with varied college backgrounds who are finding rewarding careers with the Bell Telephone Companies. Learn about opportunities for you. See the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus—and read the Bell Telephone booklet in your Placement Office.

Plans for New Director's Selection Being Developed

Plans for the selection of a successor to Paul Brechler as director of athletics are now being developed and an active search for a replacement is expected to begin shortly.

Dr. George Easton, chairman of the Board in Control of Athletics, said that the board's staff committee has already begun to develop a procedural plan for the selection of Brechler's successor.

Four persons have already been mentioned as possibilities to succeed Brechler. They are Forest Evashevski, head football coach at SUI, Rollie Williams, present assistant director, Wally Sch-wank, athletic director at Coe College, and Dave Nelson, head football coach at Delaware.

Evashevski said Thursday that he was primarily concerned with developing the Iowa football team and hadn't considered himself a candidate for the position.

Regarding the speculation as to the new director Easton said Thursday that "no names have been filed and we have given no consideration to any person. We have received no applications and we have contacted no one about the vacancy."

Easton said that there would be difficulty in finding anyone as well qualified for the SUI athletic directorship as Brechler.

In Des Moines Thursday SUI President Virgil Hancher said that he regarded a doctor's degree as one of the requirements for the position of director of athletics and head of the physical education program.

Brechler is the only SUI director to have held a doctor's degree.

Under Brechler's guidance both the athletic physical plant and the teams fielded by Iowa have improved greatly. Much of the improvement can be attributed to the rise of Iowa football, which provided the money for the improvements in the physical plant.

Brechler's resignation becomes effective Aug. 15.

Hawkeye Fencers at OSU For Final Dual Competition

The Iowa fencing squad will be in Columbus, Ohio, Saturday for dual meets with Fenn, Chicago and Ohio State. The Hawkeyes' dual meet record now stands at 3-5 and Coach Chuck Simonian is hopeful that his squad can bring back three wins for a 6-5 season record.

The meets are the last dual competition of the season for the Hawkeyes, who host the Big Ten fencing championships a week from Saturday.

Both Fenn and Ohio State boast fine dual meet records, but Simonian indicates that they may not have met as tough competition as the Hawkeyes.

Simonian graduated from Fenn and coached fencing at the school before coming to Iowa. The Fenn squad had a 10-1 record two weeks ago, the only loss coming at the hands of Notre Dame.

Ohio State boasted an eight-meet winning streak before meeting Illinois. The Illini sidetracked the Buckeyes 20-7. Last week Illinois stopped Iowa 16-11.

Simonian reports that the Hawkeyes should be able to get past Chicago, a team which has had trouble winning this season.

Machen, Hunter To Trade Blows On TV Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Machen, No. 1 contender for the world heavyweight championship less than a year and a half ago, is squarely on the spot Friday night when he battles Billy Hunter in a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden.

It was on Sept. 14, 1958, that Machen, riding a streak of 25 victories, journeyed to Sweden to fight Ingemar Johansson. It was supposed to be a breeze for the former Redding, Calif., football player.

But he ran smack into Johansson's right hand and plummeted back down the ladder. He tried to get into to give him a return bout, but instead the Swede fought Floyd Patterson and won the title.

So Machen had to start all over again. Last year, he sailed through seven fights and figured he was getting back near the top. Then he fought Zora Foley five weeks ago and lost a 12-round decision.

Those are the only two defeats on Machen's record.

Machen, now ranked No. 5 by the National Boxing Association, never has fought a main event in the Garden.

The bout will be broadcast and telecast.

U.S. Downs Canada 2-1 In Hockey

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — The U. S. ice hockey team stunned world champion Canada 2-1 Thursday on the great defensive work of goalie Jack McCartan and took the undisputed lead of the Olympic round robin tournament.

With three straight victories, the surprising Yanks had a one-point edge over the defending champion Russians, whom they play Saturday. The Soviets were tied Wednesday night by Sweden 2-2 but beat Germany 7-1 Thursday.

McCartan, from St. Paul, Minn., made 39 saves in the fiercely fought battle before a crowd of 8,500 at Blyth Arena.

In gold medal skating and skiing finals earlier, Russia and Finland divided honors, and Dave Jenkins of Colorado Springs, Colo., skated into position to take the figure skating crown Friday.

Jenkins goes into the free skating finals needing to overcome the advantage that Karel Divin of Czechoslovakia built up in compulsory figures.

Russia, with the team title already won, piled up 17 points in the day's two finals while the United States drew a blank.

Russia now leads in the unofficial team standings with a total of 137 points based on 10 for first and 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, for the other places. The Russians have six gold medals — twice as many as Germany, which is second in points with 52½.

The United States held third place with 44 points, followed by Sweden 42, Norway 32½, Austria 30, Finland 30, Switzerland 25, France 20, Italy 15½, Canada 13, Poland 13, The Netherlands 11, Japan 6½, and Czechoslovakia 3.

Chicago Won't Operate In NBA Next Season

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The new Chicago franchise in the National Basketball Association will not operate next season, League President Maurice Podoloff said Thursday.

The NBA granted Chicago a franchise last spring and it was expected to begin league play in the 1960-61 season.

Podoloff said he had talked with Max Winter, owner of the Chicago team, who is vacationing in Hawaii. He said Winter informed him Chicago would not be able to field a team this year.

ANN LOSES ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, was eliminated from the South Atlantic Women's Golf tournament Thursday when she lost in the second round to Barbara Williams of Richmond, Calif., 3 and 2.

Wrestlers Meet OSU, Purdue, Minnesota in Quadrangular

The Hawkeye wrestling team leaves today for Lafayette, where it will meet Purdue, Ohio State, and Minnesota in a quadrangular meet Saturday. This is the last meet for coach Dave McCuskey's grapplers before next week's Big Ten championships at Ann Arbor.

"This is a real good warmup for next week's tournament, McCuskey said. 'Saturday's meet, on paper, looks like it should be between Minnesota and Iowa, with both having good team strength,'" said Dave. "Purdue has a good 167-pounder in Bob Marshall, and they still have Dominic Fatta at 147. Ohio State has Dave Camaione at 130," he added, "and Minnesota is strong all the way up."

Fatta, undefeated in eight matches this year, was defeated in dual meets last year as a sophomore, and finished fourth in the Big Ten meet. He was beaten in the consolation final by Minnesota's Charles Coffey. Camaione finished second in last year's conference meet, and reached the quarter-final round of the National Collegiate tourney, before being beaten by Oklahoma's Stan Abel, who went on to gain the title.

The Hawkeyes, entering the meet with a 4-4-1 mark for the season, hold a 15-9 dual win over Minnesota earlier in the season. They have also beaten Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin. Iowa has lost to Michigan and Michigan State in the conference, and to powerful Oklahoma and Oklahoma State. The tie came in a match with Northwestern.

The Iowa team will be at a disadvantage, with wrestlers in only seven of the eight weight classes. The Hawks have no heavyweight entry with Sherwyn Thorson out of action because of an infection. Gordon Trapp will return to action this week in the 177-pound division.

The Hawkeye lineup: 125—Morris Barnhill; 130—John Kelley; 137—Dennis Lucy or Syd Walston; 147—Dell Rosenberg; 157—Joe Mullins; 167—Cal Roulson; 177—Gordon Trapp; HWT—No Entry.

Colorado Wins, Loses In Protest Decisions

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Colorado's basketball victory over Iowa State Feb. 1 was wiped out Thursday by the Big Eight Conference faculty committee which ruled Colorado must forfeit the game because of an ineligible player.

The committee denied Nebraska's protest over its defeat by Colorado at Boulder Jan. 16, and the 62-57 overtime score stands. Nebraska claimed a two-second error by the official timer caused its defeat.

Regents Approve Athletic Board Revisions

DES MOINES (AP) — The State Board of Regents Wednesday approved a proposed reorganization of the Board in Control of Athletics at SU, giving faculty members more authority in athletic matters.

The proposal was made last month by university President Virgil M. Hancher.

The head of the men's physical education department — at present Paul Brechler who Wednesday announced his resignation — will serve on the board in an ex-officio capacity without a vote. Previously the ex-officio officer held voting power.

Brechler's resignation as athletic director and head of the physical education department was accepted by the regents without discussion.

As approved, the new athletic board set up provides for not more than 15 and not less than 9 members. A majority of members, to be appointed for six-year terms, will be holders of the tenured rank of professor or associated professor.

Two members of the board will be alumni, as at present, and not on the university staff as all other members will be.

The vice president for business and finance will be an ex-officio member with full power to vote. Present members will be retired two at a time each year after July 1, 1961, which was set as the first expiration date.

New appointees will be eligible after their first six-year terms for another six-year term. After 12 years members must sit out at least six months before being reappointed.

Members presently serve at the pleasure of the president.

Two members will leave the board June 30. They are Walter L. Stewart, Des Moines attorney and one of two alumni members, and Dean Bruce Mahan of the extension division.

Members who reach the university's retirement age of 68 will be retired from the board and a successor for the unexpired term will be appointed.

On request of one fifth of the members, under thenew proposal, the president may remove any members, under the new proposal, adequate to him.

The board itself, by a vote of three fourths of the members, may remove a member.

The faculty representative to the Western Conference will have to be a professor or associate professor. He would not have to be a member of the board on appointment, but would immediately become a member, even though this might increase the board to 16. In that case, the next vacancy would not be filled.

Alumni will continue to be appointed by the president, but the regents said another way can be chosen if it is the desire of the Alumni Association.

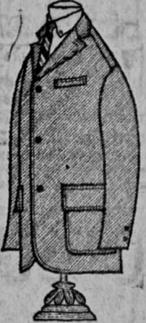

In presenting the proposal reorganization to the regents last month, Dr. Hancher said the change did not reflect on the actions of the present board.

He said then the reorganization would eliminate the board from making itself "a self-perpetuating institution" as was this situation in the late 1930s.

is a preliminary step toward even-Dr. Hancher said the new action tually having the SU faculty name the board.

The Gabardine Mystery

A search has not solved the mystery of the origin of the word "gabardine" though in medieval days it did refer to a smock. Our rich gabardine suits are a far cry from medieval and there is no mystery about their smartness and sturty appearance.

Lack of Quorum Delays Northwestern Bowl Vote

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Lack of a quorum Thursday prevented Northwestern University's faculty athletic committee from formal consideration of the university's Rose Bowl stand.

Northwestern previously has voted against further participation by the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl and now holds the decisive vote on the post-season football matter.

No definite date was set for a future meeting of the athletic committee, but presumably it will be before the Big Ten business meeting in Columbus, Ohio, starting next Thursday.

Senate Warned on Drug Promotion
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Haskel J. Weinstein, a former research director for Chas. Pfizer & Co., told Senate investigators Thursday that patients sometimes are exposed to dangerous drugs as a result of promotional activities in the drug-manufacturing industry.

Weinstein told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee: "He — the physician — has been exposed to remarkably little information concerning the efficiency of the drugs he is asked to prescribe. Instead, he is seduced with gimmicks of all sorts in an effort to make him loyal to a particular product or a particular drug, with relatively little attention being paid to the specific merits of the drugs."

8 Held in Ottumwa After 'Shotgun' Arrest
 OTTUMWA (AP) — Investigation of a stolen shotgun in the possession of a person arrested on another charge led Thursday to the arrest of six men in the theft of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise over an eight-year period.

The thefts occurred at the Harper and McIntire Co. warehouse here where the six men were employed, two of them as supervisors, police said.

Pass Laws To Curb Negro Action
 RICHMOND, Va. — Tougher antitrespass laws aimed at curbing the recent outbreak of Negro sit-downs in white restaurants and other places of business, went into effect in Virginia Thursday.

Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. signed three bills rushed through the Legislature as Negroes continued picketing a large downtown department store, scene of a recent sit-down. Negro leaders said they intend to expand their picketing activities.

The new laws were passed in an atmosphere of extra security at the Capitol, where uniformed state police argued the normal Capitol police force in a watch for any Negro demonstration.

Dutch Sailor Testifies on Affair
 BOSTON (AP) — Dutch mariner Willem van Rie admitted Thursday he feared his shipboard affair with Lynn Kauffman had left her pregnant. But he said his concern arose only after her death, when he thought her a suicide.

"When did you first suspect Lynn Kauffman was pregnant?" the handsome, 31-year-old radio operator of The Netherlands freighter Utrecht was asked on cross-examination at his first degree murder trial.

"After we were missing her," he replied. "I was thinking of a reason why she might commit suicide."

Van Rie also admitted one of the first places he searched after the 23-year-old Chicago divorcee had disappeared from the ship was his own cabin, where their final tryst, he said, had occurred in the early morning hours of the same day. But he denied he was seeking to find and eliminate evidence that might have incriminated him in her death.

The state claims Van Rie beat the pretty passenger senseless and threw her into Boston Harbor to drown.

SUI Chemists Given $7,025 For Polymer, Tumor Studies

Two grants totalling $7,025 for research in the SUI Chemistry Department have been accepted by the Finance Committee of the State Board of Regents.

John K. Stille, assistant professor of chemistry, will direct research under a $3,000 grant from the Soco Mobil Oil Company on polymerization reactions and the structure of new polymers.

"Polymerization" is the combining of similar molecules to form a new compound having the same elements but different physical properties. The now-familiar polyethylene is a product in this category.

Explaining the background and possible application of such research at SUI, Stille noted that plastics and synthetic rubber have been a familiar sight to the American public during the past decade.

While the natural supply was cut off during the war, synthetic rubber and plastics were developed by polymer chemists in the U. S. to meet the shortage.

New plastics and synthetic rubber must be found which can meet the demands required by modern defense devices, Stille continued. For example, the present-day aircraft and missiles require rubber and plastic for tires, insulators, etc., which must withstand extreme heat and cold.

The Soco Mobil company has granted SUI $9,000 during the past three years for this research. It has been directed towards the development of new polymers which may meet such requirements, Stille explained.

Assisting the SUI chemist with the research project will be Eugene D. Vessel, G. Alton, III. The U. S. Public Health Service renewed a $4,025 grant under the direction of Prof. Ralph L. Shriner, head of the SUI Chemistry Department. The grant will be used to continue research on potential anti-tumor substances.

The research is particularly concerned with three possible anti-tumor substances: barbamates, a salt of carbamic acid; flavonones, a colorless crystalline compound; and amindines, the soluble principle of starch.

Assisting Shriner in the research will be Gerald Burt, G. Dorray, Minn.

Speech Path. Prof Asked To Washington Meeting

Wendell Johnson, professor of speech pathology and psychology at SUI, has been invited to participate in the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth in Washington, D.C., March 27 to April 2.

Organized at the request of President Eisenhower, the conference will be "a representative meeting of citizens who share a deep concern for the children and youth of the nation."

Professor Johnson will participate in a panel discussion on "Blueprint for the Future," and will head a workgroup on "The Role of Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment."

Student Hurt In Collision

An SUI student was in good condition at University Hospitals Thursday night after a two-car accident involving two other students.

Al Leroy Lothrop, B4, Cherokee, suffered facial injuries and was admitted to the hospital after the collision on Highway 6 one mile west of Coralville about 1 a.m. Thursday. The second car was driven by Mary E. Randall, A4, Marengo. Neither she nor her passenger, Larry Berg, A4, Rockwell City were injured.

Investigating officers said the Lothrop car rammed the Randall car from the rear and knocked it nearly 200 feet down the highway and into a ditch. Lothrop's car came to rest more than 150 feet from the point of impact. Both cars were extensively damaged.

Lothrop was charged with failing to stop in the assured clear distance ahead. His police court trial date has not been set.

Hospital Men: Funke To Lead Talk Define 'Boss'

By SANDRA LEHMAN Staff Writer

Prof. Erich Funke, head of the SUI German department, is scheduled to lead a discussion of the language laboratory and the spoken approach to languages at a meeting of the heads of German departments of the Big Ten universities in Chicago Friday and Saturday.

In an interview with Funke on what he plans to discuss, he said the main problems concerned with establishing a laboratory are threefold: (1) to build the right kind of laboratory, (2) to find the proper method of teaching through the use of this laboratory, and (3) to apply the method effectively.

Unsatisfactory laboratory systems are installed in numerous schools over the nation, Funke said.

Teachers are often disappointed with the laboratory system because the laboratory equipment is either too complicated or too costly to operate, he said.

To avoid this danger, Funke said, it is advisable to experiment with single machines and to buy in larger quantities after they have proven their value and teachers have learned to operate them satisfactorily.

SUI's present laboratory, which was established in the fall of 1952, he said, consists of five rooms, a lobby, a recording and equipment room, an instruction room for spoken languages and phonetics, an office, and a listening room with 32 stalls, each equipped with six outlets so the student can tune in on six different language programs.

Connected with this room is also a special insulated work booth where students can make their own recordings.

Two or three booths will be equipped with experimental sets of microphones and activated headphones (so the student can hear his own voice objectively), Funke said. Different firms will supply the equipment, he said, and that best suited for the language departments' purpose will be used later in a modernized laboratory.

Use of the laboratory will be made a necessary component of the regular work, Funke said. If a student doesn't use the laboratory, he will not learn the material, he said.

So far, reading has been in the foreground of teaching languages, he said, but the present work situation makes it imperative for Americans to communicate with other nations and for this reason, the method of teaching must be adapted to the present needs.

Livingston Back at SUI After Semester at UCLA

Professor W. Ross Livingston of the History Department is back at SUI this semester after spending last semester as a visiting professor at the University of California in Los Angeles (UCLA).

Livingston taught classes in the British Empire, Canadian History, and a seminar on the British Empire.

This was his second trip to UCLA as a visiting professor. Since his first trip seven years ago, Livingston said that there has been an enormous building program going on at UCLA, and that the campus is a fantastic picture of growth and development.

Funke To Lead Talk At Big Ten Language Meet

SUI is in the process of modernizing and enlarging its language laboratory now, Funke said, anticipating the needs of an increased enrollment and of teacher institutes for language centers at SUI.

The Y representatives in each housing unit have made posters explaining the organization, and they also have tried to contact every new girl who has entered the University this semester.

Mary Long, A.S. Cedar Rapids, Y membership chairman, said the membership dues for this semester are $1 rather than the previous $2.

On March 1, the first meeting for all freshman members will be held at the Y. At this meeting a freshman program will be set up. The freshman Y sponsors are Sarah Beatty, A.S. Sigourney, and Jan Urquhart, A.S. Minneapolis.
