ig 'O', West lead List of All-Americans

NEW YORK (AP) — A new college basketball star will emerge this season, in the wake of the graduation of Oscar Robertson.

Jerry West. And the selection of the 1960 collegiate basketball All-America by The Associated Press Friday indicates the successor to the "Big O" and the "Cincinnati Comet" will be Jerry Lucas of Ohio State.

Robertson, 6-5 of Cincinnati, and West, 6-3 of West Virginia, were far ahead in the voting by 329 sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation.

Robertson's skill and size is well known and it was no surprise that he repeated in 1959. In fact, this is the straight year Robertson made All-America.

ROBERTSON

Lucas, 6-foot-9 sophomore who led Ohio State to its first Big Ten title in more than a decade, led 253 first place votes to 311 Robertson and 304 for West.

Showing points to him as year's individual standout.

Marshall Imhoff, the 6-foot-10 forward who led California to its NCAA title in 1959 and who helped defend the crown in this year's tourney, also was named the first team along with Tomson, junior star of the defending National Invitation champs, John's of New York.

Imhoff polled 234 first place votes but the 6-foot-4 Jackson, who gained the first team nod 61 to 58 for Tom Stith, 6-5 junior from St. Bonaven-

Cubans Release Nebraskan After Two-Day Detainment

GOP Fails in Attempt to Limit Senate's Civil Rights Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Republicans tried but failed Monday night to rally enough strength to cut off the Senate's civil rights filibuster.

What Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois called an inconclusive poll of GOP members sustained the contention of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas that there is no possibility of limiting debate now.

Dirksen said there was some Republican support for the Ervin proposal. It would bring this provision of the Administration's package more nearly in line with what the House may approve when it takes up the civil rights matter later in the week.

With the cots set up for fitful sleep by civil rights advocates in the round-the-clock sessions, Nixon moved in to try to jog his GOP colleagues into action.

The partially filled galleries buzzed with curiosity as he turned over his presiding officer's chair to a substitute and signaled influential Republicans to gather around him at the rear of the otherwise almost deserted chamber.

Ringed about Nixon, Dirksen and Sens. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.), and John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.), talked over strategy. The upshot was Dirksen's attempt to poll the Republicans.

Since two-thirds of those present and voting must approve a debate limitation, Dirksen could offer only a share of the needed total in any event. Of the Senate's 100 members, 35 are Republicans, 65 Democrats.

Dirksen made it clear he does not want to file a cloture petition unless it has bipartisan backing. Of the 16 signatures needed on such a petition, he would want eight Democrats.

Johnson, who has called for passage of a "reasonable" bill, said that the time had not yet come when enough members were willing to shut off debate.

Ike Back Home, To Report To Nation Tonight on Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower flew back to Washington Monday, ready to give the nation a report on his 15,500-mile tour of South America.

Eisenhower will speak over the radio and TV networks tonight for 15 minutes, beginning at 6 p.m. Iowa time.

The President, who had been tired and hoarse during part of the tour, looked and sounded fit on his arrival by jet airliner.

He was beaming as he pulled off his hat and shook hands with Vice President Richard M. Nixon and others in the official welcoming party at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland.

Mrs. Eisenhower was not on hand, having gone to Arizona for two weeks in the sun.

In Washington the weather was cold, the temperature 27 degrees at the time Eisenhower's plane landed at 3:02 p.m. He had left Puerto Rico and warm weather a little more than three hours earlier.

The Eisenhower grandchildren were with the President, having come to Puerto Rico for a brief vacation visit.

At one point the President clamped a hand on grandson David's shoulder, and the boy hollered "Ouch!" Because David's face was ruddy, the supposition was his shoulder was sunburned.

As Eisenhower spoke to the greeters, he asked Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.), the minority leader in the House: "You got that filibuster broken yet?"

This set off a laugh, since the filibuster is in the Senate.

Halleck's response was: "No but we're going to start on it Thursday."

The House is to begin consideration of a civil rights bill Thursday.

A number of Latin-American ambassadors spoke to the President.

They told reporters they had told Eisenhower that he had done a wonderful job on his trip, bringing about a mutual understanding that should have long-lasting benefits.

Eisenhower passed up an opportunity to say a few words over microphones at the air base.

A White House limousine carried the President, with Nixon beside him, back to the White House.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty reported later that Eisenhower and Nixon were together an hour and a quarter in all. He said the President wanted to take this first opportunity to give Nixon a first-hand account of what he saw and heard in South America.

The Eisenhower chat with Nixon covered particularly the conversations Eisenhower had with presidents of the South American nations, Hagerty said.

It was two weeks ago that Eisenhower took off for state visits to Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay. He topped off the tour with a three-day stay in Puerto Rico, where taking it easy was in order most of the time.

His rest in Puerto Rico seemed to have refreshed him and officials said his voice should be up to the task of speaking for 15 minutes Tuesday night.

From a goodwill standpoint,

American officials termed Eisenhower's trip an unqualified success. They said it improved U.S. relations with Latin America at a time the Communists are working hard to win acceptance there for their system.

U.S. Rejects Castro Hint At Sabotage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States late Monday denounced as "baseless, erroneous and misleading" Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's implication that the American government was responsible for the explosion of a French munitions ship in Havana Harbor.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter in unusually blunt language summoned Cuba's top diplomat to the State Department and told him:

"This government vigorously rejects and protests this unfounded and irresponsible attitude on the part of Prime Minister Castro."

Herter said that in view of the grave accusations the United States "finds itself increasingly obliged to question the good faith of your excellency's government with respect to a desire for improved relations between our governments."

The Cuban, Charge d'Affaires Enrique Patterson, clearly upset at the session, left hurriedly afterward. He told newsmen only that he would report Herter's comments to Castro without comment.

SUI Scholarship Winners For Second Semester Told

Several scholarships for the second semester at SUI have been announced by Helen Reich, chairman of the University Scholarship Committee.

Patricia R. Caldwell, A3, Mount Vernon, and Patricia J. Stallard, A3, Freeport, Ill., have been awarded $110 scholarships out of funds provided by the National Merit Corporation.

Three SUI students have been awarded Drew Memorial Scholarships of $110. They are: Richard J. Briar, A2, Monona; David P. McCauley, A1, Sac City; and Joan B. Baldwin, A2, Homewood, Ill.

Three activity scholarships have been awarded to Shirley Ann Beards, A1, Bettendorf; John D. Smith, A2, Burlington; and Donald L. Venable, A1, Richmond Heights, Mo.

These scholarships, which vary in amount, are granted to a limited number of undergraduate students with above-average academic records who have been outstanding participants in an area of extracurricular activity which requires special aptitude — such as forensics, music, journalism or athletics.

Five SUI students have been awarded Old Gold Development Fund Scholarships of $110. They are Alan Phil Pistorius, A2, Coralville; Jill C. Shaeffer, A2, Des Moines; David Elliott Selk, A4, Oskaloosa; Allen James Kuehe, A2, Sumner and Max E. Brewer, A1, Mount Pleasant.

The scholarships were made possible by a grant from the Old Gold Development Fund, which was organized in 1955 to provide a channel through which SUI graduates and friends could help the University financially. The fund supports various projects of such a nature that they would not ordinarily be accomplished through state-appropriated funds.

U.S. Refuse To Give Up Photographer

'Very Happy To Be Out of Cuba,' Says Donald Chapman

HAVANA (AP) — Donald Chapman of North Bend, Neb., flew to Miami Monday night after being detained by Cuban military authorities investigating a munitions ship explosion in Havana Harbor. On arrival in Miami he said he was very happy to be out of Cuba.

The 26-year-old free-lance photographer, who was held for two days of questioning about Friday's dockside disaster and freed, was taken off a Miami-bound plane minutes before it departed.

He was held briefly at the airport, missing his plane, but was released in time to catch the next plane to Florida.

Just before his departure he telephoned newsmen to say he had been released after being questioned about his whereabouts Jan. 1, 1959. He said Cuban officials accused him of being in Havana at that time but he had insisted he was not.

American Embassy officials who accompanied the Nebraskan to the airport refused to give up custody of him to the Cuban officials and the matter was referred to the Cuban Foreign Ministry.

The charges were then dropped, Chapman said, and he was permitted to leave.

Chapman was a passenger aboard the French munitions ship La Coubre that blew up in Havana Harbor while unloading a shipment of arms.

He was on the ship at the time of the blast and later was picked up and held for questioning. He was released Sunday, cleared of any implication in what Prime Minister Fidel Castro has called the sabotage of the shipment.

The United States denounced Castro's charge that U.S. officials were responsible for the disaster. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter in Washington denounced the charge as "baseless, erroneous and misleading."

U.S. business men predicted one result of the uproar over the matter will be a quick Cuban takeover of all American property here.

The slender, 26-year-old free-lance photographer said many Cuban officials, including Prime Minister Fidel Castro himself, quizzed him for hours after arresting him Friday. Chapman was a passenger of a munitions ship that blew up in Havana Harbor.

"Castro didn't accuse me of anything. He just asked if I thought it was sabotage," Chapman told newsmen. "Then he asked me a lot more questions about most everything, including why I was wearing a beard."

Chapman shaved his beard off Sunday night. He said he told Castro he grew the whiskers while spending the last five months free-lancing in Europe.

"I booked passage on the Le Coubre at Le Harve, France, because they told me it was the cheapest means of getting to the Gulf," Chapman said. "If I'd known what a tough time newsmen have in Cuba, I'd never have come this way."

The North Bend, Neb., man showed a cut on his neck and said he got it from a piece of flying shrapnel as he stood on the Le Coubre's bridge at the time of the explosion which killed more than 70 persons, most of them dock workers.

Chapman said the Cubans kept his cameras, films and baggage, telling him they'd return the property after they finished investigating the ship explosion.

"There was no physical cruelty," Chapman said. "You might call it mental anguish. That police state operation has you on edge."

Butler -- Ike Has Explaining To Do About Navy Band

By EARL MAZO
Herald Tribune News Service

WASHINGTON — Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler publicly apologized Monday for implying that President Eisenhower should be held accountable for the death of 19 Navy Band musicians in the recent air crash at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

At the same time, the peppery Democratic party leader declared the President "has some explaining to do" about the presence of the Navy Band in South America during his good will tour of that continent.

Butler also charged at a press conference Monday — as he did in a heated debate with a Republican Senator — that "an amazing amount of money is being spent for the travel and comfort of President Eisenhower" as compared with similar expenditures for former Democratic Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

The fuss started during the Democratic Chairman's verbal clash Sunday night in Worcester, Mass., with Sen. Hugh Scott, (R. Pa.).

"The President has something to answer for to the wives and children of the Navy men" who died in the air tragedy, Butler declared, at one point. "What right has he to take the Navy Band on a trip around the world? Was this trip a political show or something?"

Sen. Scott reportedly sizzled in anger.

"This attempt of yours to bloody the hands of the President is not very credible," he snapped at Chairman Butler. The Massachusetts audience of 500 reportedly listened in shock and silence.

Butler offered his apology — and a further explanation — at a press conference Monday which he called for a different purpose.

"I certainly had no intention of insinuating or inferring . . . that (the President) was responsible for the tragic deaths," he said. "For any such inference . . . I want to apologize to the President and to the American people . . ."

The Democratic leader insisted that while criticizing the Republican President for alleged shortcomings as a leader, he "never questioned (Eisenhower's) motives or his conduct . . . and never questioned his patriotism and loyalty to this country . . . as the patriotism and loyalty of President Truman and Roosevelt were questioned (by Republicans)."

Butler insisted his comments in Worcester Sunday night were misconstrued because of Sen. Scott's "skilful debating techniques."

"I want to make it perfectly clear I was not blaming Eisenhower for the tragic accident or the decision that brought the Navy Band to Brazil," Butler declared.

"I did say if the Navy Band had accompanied Presidents Roosevelt and Truman there would have been many demands for their impeachment for the expenditure of public funds for such spectaculars."

When a reporter pointed out that Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, had stated earlier Monday that he assumed full responsibility for sending the Navy Band to South America Butler said he had heard about the Admiral's statement. When he has an opportunity to read the full text, Butler added, "I will accept Adm. Burke's statement."

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's New Hampshire campaign chief Monday accused Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), of being soft on Communism, but Nixon swiftly disowned the charges.

Gov. Wesley Powell made the statement in a news conference on the eve of New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation presidential primary, in which both Kennedy and Nixon are entered.

Kennedy called on Nixon to repudiate Powell's accusation that the senator had shown "softness toward Communism," shortly after it was levelled.

In reply, Herbert Klein, Nixon's press representative, issued a statement in Washington saying "The vice president has been known and worked with Sen. Kennedy since they served together on the House Labor Committee in 1947.

"While they have differences on some issues," the statement added, "they have always been in complete agreement in their unalterable opposition to Communism at home and abroad."

Kennedy is regarded as a leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. Nixon is unopposed in New Hampshire's GOP preference poll.

Powell's news conference was held at Concord where he distributed a prepared statement in which he said Kennedy's Senate record "has demonstrated softness toward Communism which the people of our state would not want to see exhibited in the White House."

'What! Add A $10 Gadget Like That?'

Congressional Concern Lacking—

Americans Have Discovered Africa, But No New Policy

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN
NEWS — LONDON Observer service (Mr. O'Donovan, Washington correspondent for the London Observer, comments on the American scene.)
WASHINGTON — The Americans have discovered Africa. It is hard now to open a serious newspaper without finding serious news of Africa.
Almost every American Protestant Church has an African study program for 1969. An hour-long special TV program called "The Freedom Explosion" put Nigeria before a vast audience, brilliantly, at a peak listening time.
This is how real change is effected in America. There are other signs. For the first time the American Negro is starting to interest himself in Africa. Previously there was a denial of association on both sides. Now they have seen Dr. Nkrumah received at the White House, Tom Mboya brilliantly answering the press on TV, Sekou Toure speaking his mind in French; and the change which began when Ghana became sovereign has been consolidated.

Indeed, there is a widespread feeling that Americans more readily understand the situation in Africa than do the former colonial rulers. Politics in Nigeria seem marvelously familiar here; they have the rough-and-tumble air of American politics in the Jackson era. It is noted that almost all the English-speaking leaders have tasted American education and politics. The ideal of self-government at almost any price for all peoples is still latent in America, though Americans find it hard to distinguish between the excesses of nationalism and Communism, and any colonial rule will tend to seem better than Communism.

There are now 3,410 students from sub-Saharan Africa in America. Two hundred and nine came from Nigeria, 205 from Liberia and 150 from Ghana. Six years ago only Northwestern University in Illinois had any serious program of African studies. Now at least 14 other universities are studying and teaching African sociology and anthropology, languages and contemporary politics.

In fact the surge of public interest almost of emotion, is solidly based in years of private and unrewarded work. The massive and very American research programs in the universities — to a British mind perhaps a little too occupied with fringe subjects — have been helped and in some cases made possible by the money that comes from the Foundations, who have always tended to be far ahead of public and public opinion. The Carnegie Corporation, the Ford Foundation, the Phelps-Stokes Fund, the Rockefeller Fund have opened their check books to Africa.

Then there have been the pressure groups. There is the Afro-American Institute which grew out of Harvard University, a Negro school in Washington. It operates an exchange program for teachers and provides financial help to students already in America. There is the American Committee on Africa, a more radical organization, still touched with the passions of 1976 and all that, which does not hesitate to stimulate change. It was this organization that brought Tom Mboya into America. He was also cared for by the AFL-CIO, which, to the fury of many whites, gave $35,000 to the Kenya Foundation of Labor. Their "interference" in Africa springs basically from a desire to keep the Africa unions in the ICFTU and out of the Communist-tainted WFTU, but together the organizations gave Mr. Mboya the sort of sober triumph in America that can make statesmen out of angry party men.

Trade, investment and aid is lagging behind the wave of the discovery. Out of some $38 billion of direct American private investment overseas, about $800,000,000 are in Africa (in 1943 it was $104,000,000). About half of this is invested in South Africa and another $150,000,000 in the Central African Federation.

America has never had a dynamic policy for Africa. Since the war she has been inhibited by her elaborate concern for the interests and susceptibilities of her NATO allies. It was said that the truth in war was made in the capitals of Europe. Such official statements as have been made have all been guarded blessings for "orderly evolution."
There is no brilliant new policy in sight. America is still hobbled by France's difficulties in Algeria and cannot stand as a free friend to Africa until that problem is solved. In business many other representatives who may stand for the American way are in fact South Africans.

But the effort is being made. Julius Nyerere, of Tanganyika, has been brought here by the State Department, and his general criticisms have been listened to with respect. There is no desire to start supplying Africans with arms, and there is a dread of being asked. Recognizing the risk of Balkanization, the Americans would like to provide aid on a regional rather than a national basis. They would dearly like to find some political way of expressing, even in aid, their dislike of white supremacy. There are today 24 U.S. Information Agency posts in black Africa.

In theory, Africa is now a major policy area for America, and public opinion seems enthusiastically to recognize this. But the appropriate money and the hard Congressional concern is still lacking. The Administration believes it can depend on a great deal of good will towards Africa, particularly in West Africa. For the time being this can be met only with a mixture of diplomatic encouragement, and private and academic generosity. Time, the growth of investment and sheer political necessity will, in the end, effect their changes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR—

Council Being Realistic

To the Editor:
More directly to Samuel McSeveney, Joel Silbey and their associates:

Your actions concerning the issue of discrimination are disgraceful, overly emotional, and most important of all "uncalled for."

You constantly overlook the fact that the Student Council is trying to rid the campus of discrimination. The only difference between them and you is that they are being objective and realistic. They have emotion too, but they are channeling it into constructing a program which will help rid the "feeling" of discrimination, and not just into "speeches."

It is a shame that the fraternity clause problem has been so exaggerated for it is only a small part of the entire issue. The members of the fraternities with these restrictive clauses are no more or less discriminatory than anyone else. Granted, other organizations do not have written discrimination clauses, but sit down and talk with them. You will find bias present there, too.

Furthermore, the individuals of the Student Council and the members of these fraternities agree that the discriminatory clauses should be removed from the fraternity constitution. Since such is the case and since the Student Council and you feel "fairness should be shown all people," then the decision to pass the resolution which helped these people who want to accomplish the desired end is fairer than the one which would have hindered them.

Finally, I feel that it would be more beneficial for you to direct your efforts toward helping the committee chosen by the Student Council whose purpose is to try to eliminate discrimination, rather than to continue spending your time slamming the Council.

I hope that you do, for although I feel that you are honestly fighting discrimination, I also feel that you desire entertainment as much.

Reader Wants Hancher To Clarify Discrimination Issue

To the Editor:
AN OPEN LETTER TO PRESIDENT HANCHER

Since I am a member of this academic community which you so ably head I would appreciate it if you would clarify my confusion on a problem that currently concerns the University. Someone once told me that if you wanted to get satisfactory answers, you had to go straight to the top. Well that's what I'm doing now. I was pleased to learn that you, as president of SUU, had been selected to act as a United Nations alternate delegate. Consequently I followed your activities in New York with great interest. When you returned, I was fortunate enough to hear you speak of the wondrous things you witnessed there. You spoke of the cooperation of peoples from Africa and Asia and other areas of this small planet acting as equals in planning a better world. I was much impressed. But here, sir, is where I become confused and puzzled.

Now a very real issue has arisen on the Iowa campus. The matter of fraternity discrimination, which was conveniently shelved recently, is a concern of deep significance. It is an issue that requires each student (possibly for the first time) to evaluate his personal convictions. With such a great moral question involved, the student naturally looks for guidance to the University, and most especially to its President. It is certain that you, an outspoken defender of the U.N.'s high ideals, would make known your feelings.

I cannot believe that you doubt that this campus segregation problem is anything less than a local manifestation of the universal struggle for man's equality and dignity that is the transcendent purpose of the United Nations. After all, the U.N.'s Declaration of Human Rights affirms the conviction that no instance of discrimination is so insignificant as to be condoned. In short, don't you feel compelled to record your feelings on this vital issue? I fail to understand how one, so eloquent in explicating the value of the United Nations, could remain so silent about a problem which has such a decisive effect on the values of this University.

Joseph P. Alaimo, G

(Editor's Note: Contacted by The Daily Iowan, President Hancher declined to comment on the current discrimination controversy. He said that the Trustees of the University on this matter already were set forth in the Code of Student Life.)

Letter to Draft Board

To the Editor:
In support of the fact that Robert E. McGrath did not attempt to evade compulsory conscription into the armed forces of the United States, I would like to submit the letter which he wrote to his draft board. This was not an act of evasion on the part of Bob McGrath but rather an eloquent statement of his principles — personal principles by which he lives and for which he chooses prison rather than compromise.

Whereas I believe that the selective service and the armed services and even the alternative service are degrading and devastating to the human personality;
Whereas I believe that the billions of dollars now spent on "defense" could be beneficially used to help the abundant hungry, naked, and distressed peoples of the world;
Whereas the selective service system is based upon force, coercion, and pressure;
Whereas the huge war machine, with its false promises, may well already be out of control;
Whereas it is foreseeable that the "free" peoples of the world will give up their freedom in their effort to retain that freedom;

Whereas I believe that war is the bastard child of greed and avarice;
Whereas I believe that war does not help to solve man's problems, but in fact intensifies them;
Whereas hypocritical America preaches peace, understanding, brotherhood, honesty, and cooperation, and practices the opposite; war;

Whereas I believe that altogether too many of man's activities and actions are carried out because of social, political, and mercenary pressures;
Whereas the selective service system practices discrimination inasmuch as those conscientious objectors professing no religious foundation for their conviction must either lie or go to prison or war;

Whereas there are many who claim the foregoing as their own, there must be made manifest a witness to the truth in me, who must not wait, lest it not be done;

Therefore, I do hereby sever connections with my draft board and with the selective service and do declare that I shall disregard any official communications and shall not acknowledge or comply with any induction notices and symbolically do herewith enclose those draft cards which have been assigned to me. I do this fully acknowledging my guilt in many things and that whatever my sins, I am not under the judgment of men for them.

Iowa City: Known for Tunnels; Low Slobbovia with Football

(Editor's Note: Staff writer Darold Powers remains unmoved by what many see as a cultural renaissance purports to be an interview between Powers and a young, itinerant Iowa man who recently hitch-hiked into town.)

By DAROLD POWERS
Staff Writer

Q—What brings you to Iowa City?

A—The cold weather.

Q—You expected it to be warmer after Iowa City?

A—Cold by? Sounds like a cheese. No, it's just that Iowa City is well known for its underground steam tunnels. Cheapest flop going.

Q—What were you doing in New York?

A—Trying to save the world.

Q—How?

A—By telling people there's nothing to be saved from.

Q—So there can be no savior?

A—Yes, that's my existential paradox. But you must agree that without the ubiquitous threat of Salvation there would be few problems left in the world.

Q—And no need for saviors if — Say, isn't that my sandwich you're eating?

Q—How can it be yours if you're not using it?

Q—You sound like a Marxist.

A—No, just hungry.

Q—Ahem... Let's get to some issues of real importance here on campus: What do you think of Zen?

A—Zen, schmen.

Q—How about payola?

A—People are jealous.

Q—How about national defense?

A—Do away with nations and salvation and nobody would care about defense anymore.

Q—What do you think of Iowa City's intellectual and cultural life?

A—Basically, it's just like any place else — People get their kicks any way they can.

Q—But hadn't you heard about our State University of Iowa while in New York?

A—Sure... People there think of Iowa as a Lower Slobbovia with football team.

Q—But we think we're making a lasting contribution to culture.

A—Don't be silly. People will still be eating Iowa's hogs long after they've decided poetry is superfluous.

Q—But don't you write poetry yourself?

A—I never claimed to be perfect.

Q—Give me an example.

A—My best one I already told you: "Zen, schmen." Another one is: "When my cup runneth over, I drink from the saucer."

Q—Sorry I asked. Tell me, what do you like best about Iowa City?

A—It's close to Highway 30.

Q—And least?

A—Not enough laundromats.

Q—I don't understand.

A—See, I make my living by collecting the lost items from laundromats and selling them to the rag man. Not to mention pop bottles.

Q—Oh.

A—Yeah, no ragman in Iowa City.

Q—What other improvement would you suggest for Iowa City?

A—There's nothing like a good slum to perk up a town... and maybe a public crematorium... all-night penny arcades... Your football team should get a franchise in the new pro league...

The university ought to offer a degree in rabble-rousing... Oh yes, more mascara, more leotards — but absolutely no tennis shoes allowed... And of course we have to turn the churches — which all week are so empty it's obscene — into flophouses to take the overflow from Chicago.

Give me time, and I could do things for this town.

Q—But would Iowa City survive you?

A—None of the rest of today's saviors worry about such a trivial thing, so why should I?

An exhibition of paintings by Ramzi Mostafa, SUU graduate student and Fulbright scholar from the United Arab Republic, will be shown in New York City Apr. 1 to 17.

The exhibition, which includes 25 abstract oil paintings, will be shown at the Angeloski Galleries on Madison Avenue. Although Mostafa is not studying in the SUU Art Department, he has completed 15 of the paintings since he came to SUU last September from Cairo, Egypt, where he was an instructor at the Faculty of Fine Arts.

Mostafa is currently doing graduate work in the SUU Dramatic Arts Department, where he is working toward a Ph.D. degree in designing. He received his bachelor's degree from the Faculty of Fine Arts in Cairo in 1947 and later received a master's degree in ceramics from Bologna University, Faenza, Italy. After completing his studies at SUU, Mostafa plans to return to Cairo, where he will be responsible for the dramatic arts and designing department at the Faculty of Fine Arts.

The exhibition will be Mostafa's first in the United States although he has shown exhibitions in Rome, Paris, London and other European art centers. He is an elected member of the British Ceramics Society and the International Academy of Ceramics and Art.

Pioneer TV at SUU Described In Prof's Book

The history and activities of television station W9XK at SUU have been published in a book titled "Pioneering in Educational Television," by Prof. E.B. Kurtz, head of the Electrical Engineering Department at SUU.

During the 1930's W9XK was the only TV station in the world to transmit a sustained schedule of "sight and sound" educational programs. SUU was also one of only three educational institutions to hold a full-time experimental television license during the decade.

The book, financed through grants from the National Educational Television and Radio Center and the Old Gold Development Fund, presents a documentary account of W9XK. Included are newspaper articles, program scripts, letters from viewers, and comments on its future.

The station operated before the days of the electronic picture tube. The 4-inch-square image was reproduced by a whirling scanning disc consisting of 45 holes arranged in spirals.

Good Listening— Today On WSUI

JOHN SCOTT, the assistant to the publisher of Time Magazine, will be heard tonight delivering a talk recorded on February 25 on the SUU campus. Considered an expert in the field of Russian-American relations and a frequent visitor to the Soviet Union, Scott has devoted his recent life to "area studies" of various crucial parts of the world. He has traveled with comparative freedom behind the Iron Curtain; he brings, therefore, a fresh and heartening view of the possibility of eventual accord. Broadcast time is 8 p.m.

TONIGHT'S CONCERT by the SUU Symphony Orchestra is being recorded for presentation tomorrow evening on WSUI and KSUI-FM. Intermission guest at that time will be Professor Himie Voxman, head of the Department of Music and innovator of the progressive music program which has pleased so many auditors and scholars. Tonight's concert will be simulcast at 8 p.m.

SPEAKING OF MUSIC, there will be another program from Salzburg this evening at 6 p.m. Recorded on Aug. 26, 1959, in the Austrian festival city, it features the Vienna Philharmonic with instruments playing Haydn, Hindemith and Serenade in D Minor, Opus 44, by Dvorak.

THE LAST OF TWAIN (selections from his short stories) will be read today at 9:30 a.m. on The Bookshelf. Beginning tomorrow at 9:25 a.m., Bookshelf listeners will hear a biographical treatment of A. Conan Doyle and five episodes from The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes. Recorded by the British Broadcasting Corporation, these matters will be reported by Dr. Watson (thus affording relief to and from the usual reader).

MARQUIS CHILDS, the newspaper columnist and a distinguished alumnus of SUU, will be recorded Wednesday evening when he speaks before an audience in the Memorial Union. A broadcast of his remarks is scheduled for Tuesday, March 15, at 8 p.m. (Plans are afoot to arrange a press conference, too, with the results to be broadcast at a time to be announced.)

Thirty-seven years of sports information service at SUI was recognized during the half-time of the Iowa-Michigan basketball game Saturday when Eric Wilson, editor of the SUI Sports News Service, received a sterling silver cigarette box from the College Sports Information Directors of America. Rollie Williams, assistant athletic director, made the presentation on behalf of COSIDA.

2 Arrested for Obtaining Money by False Pretenses

An Oklahoma man and his brother-in-law from Wisconsin were arrested by Iowa City police Saturday and charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, officers said Monday.

However, the charge against Francis E. Hansen, 21, of Berlin, Wis., was dismissed in police court because of lack of evidence. Donald G. Scott, 29, of Marlow, Okla., is being held in Johnson County Jail in lieu of $1,500 bond on the charge.

Police said the two were thought not to be connected with a three-man check scheme gang that had been operating in the Iowa City area.

Detective Harland F. Sprinkle said Scott and Hansen were arrested after Johnson County Deputy Sheriff Donald Wilson saw the two men carrying a rifle and a sewing machine to their car. Wilson said the men were coatless in the cold weather.

The two were apprehended as they left their parking spot. Later Scott admitted theft of an Iowa license plate to aid their plan which was described to police by Scott this way:

Friday afternoon Scott went to Cedar Rapids and obtained an Iowa driver's license under a fictitious name and a Coralville address. They then opened an account at an Iowa City bank Saturday with $20 and wrote checks for the sewing machine, rifle and some groceries they purchased Saturday.

Officers said the checks involved in the case totaled about $450.

Scott was sentenced to 15 days in jail when he appeared in police court on the charges of theft of the license plate and obtaining a false driver's license.

Meanwhile, the three-man check gang still is sought by Iowa City authorities.

Iowa Cherry Princess Is Miss Canby

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marilyn Canby, 19-year-old American University student, Monday was recognized as Iowa's one-and-only Cherry Blossom Princess.

But the decision by Edward H. Ring, president of the Conference of State Societies, drew a quick retort from Iowa's newest of two state societies.

"I'm positive that nothing can be done this year," Ring said of the new Iowa group's selection of Sandra Loveless as princess. "It's too late to submit another princess."

The 19-year-old Miss Loveless is the daughter of Democratic Gov. and Mrs. Herschel C. Loveless, and a sophomore at SUI.

Here at SUI Miss Loveless said she had hoped to capture the honor, but was philosophical, saying there are plenty of studies to take up her time.

Her father is the only Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate. Should he win Sandra would have plenty of chance to go to Washington.

"I'm keeping my fingers crossed on that one," she laughed.

Rep. Merwin Coad (D-Iowa), who is affiliated with the new Iowa group, said after talking with Ring:

"We may have to abide by it (the decision) but we don't go along with it."

Ring said the Iowa society which named Miss Canby has been approved for membership by his group, has paid its dues and was within the March 1 deadline for naming a princess.

The other society, he said, has not met these tests.

Miss Canby, whose father is a native of Henry County, Iowa was elected by the Iowa Society headed by Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa).

The other group was formed last week after complaints over the process of this selection.

"Just because Republicans have a majority in the Iowa Congressional delegation," Coad said, "they don't have eminent domain in the state of Iowa as far as social activities are concerned."

"If the Republicans want to promote a Baltimore-born, Maryland reared girl who's never lived in Iowa, it's all right with me, but the Democrats will stick with an Iowa girl."

Coad said that the Iowa princess should have more connection with the state than a relative who once lived there.

Miss Canby, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Canby, was born in Baltimore. Her mother said Marilyn has been in Iowa visits with the family. Marilyn's older sister, Diane, former SUI student, was Iowa Cherry Blossom Princess in 1957. Her father is with the Public Health Service.

The Princesses, from all 50 states plus Guam and Puerto Rico are named to take part in the annual Cherry Blossom Festival here. It is scheduled for April 5-10 this year.

Ring said that from a legal standpoint he was aware of only one Iowa State Society — the one which named Miss Canby.

Symington Goes Traveling To Win Convention Votes

(Arthur Edson, who has kept an eye on Washington politics for 15 years, reports on a shivery weekend with Sen. Stuart Symington.)

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington huddled in his cold airplane seat. His topcoat collar was turned up. He wore his hat. One pants leg was hung up on his heavy galoshes.

The senator from Missouri, an unavowed candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, was waiting for his plane, already more than an hour late, to mush through the snow and wing away on another trip to meet more voters.

In a way Symington is lucky. Since he isn't officially a candidate, he isn't worried over New Hampshire's primary Tuesday or Wisconsin's primary next month.

So while his senatorial friends, Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, debate which primary to enter and which to sit out, and while his majority leader, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, tries to coax along a stalled Senate, Symington can ease other political fields.

Yet these trips — and Symington have been on the road almost every weekend — are no picnic.

This reporter has spent three days with Symington in southern and central Illinois, flying with him in a chartered DC-3 in zero weather, driving with him over roads that often were solid sheets of ice.

Let's look at a few typical scenes of democracy in action.

It's noon at 501 Elm St., Gillespie, Ill. Symington pauses to drop in on State Sen. William Lyons, who lives in this small, five-room, white bungalow.

Neighbors and local Democratic leaders drift in and out.

This once was a coal mining town, but high production and transportation costs have closed all but one of the mines, and it's a small one.

"All we have got here now," one man says bitterly, "are old people and commuters" — folks who stick with Gillespie but drive to work elsewhere.

Symington wonders if the town couldn't be helped by stealing an idea from the Soviet. "The Russians build power plants right by the mines," he said.

Now switch to Springfield, the state capital, where politics is the main industry. A near capacity crowd of 350 showed up in the hotel auditorium to hear Symington discuss agriculture.

It may be commentary of U.S. politics that on this same bitter cold night — the mercury went to 12 below — three thousand fans showed up for a championship basketball game. If basketball had been invented then, would we have had the Lincoln-Douglas debates?

But what about trips like these in 1960? What do the accomplish?

Well, it gives Symington a chance to meet delegates. So far only around 200 are committed to him, but his supporters think he's the second choice of many. If Kennedy doesn't win in a hurry, they argue, Symington's in.

But probably important, a trip means space in the papers, comments on the radio, appearances on television.

It's important to keep one's name before the public, and especially so for Symington. Of all the candidates, he sounds the most like a man who has set himself a mission to accomplish.

A reporter traveling with a candidate always conscientiously tries to feel the public pulse. In downstate Illinois, just across the Mississippi from his home state, the pulse beats for Symington.

Scanning The Sports Scene

By DON FORSYTHE Sports Editor

Iowa's participation in the weekend Big Ten championship meets was not entirely unsuccessful although the Hawkeyes failed to nab any team titles.

Six Hawkeye athletes did bring home individual crowns. John Brown, last year's outdoor 440-yard champ, added the indoor 440 title to his accomplishments.

John Youngerman and Ralph Sauer helped the fencers reach their highest finish in conference competition with wins in epee and sabre competition.

Gordon Trapp won the conference 177-pound wrestling title and gymnasts Larry Snyder and Bill Buck also won championships. Snyder taking the trampoline and Buck repeating on the side horse — his third straight conference crown.

The Daily Iowan sports staff salutes these athletes for winning performances in Big Ten meets.

Deep in the pile of rubble on the sports desk was this letter from an old newspaperman, Hank Wickerbill of the Happy Valley Times. Hank's letters are not much as far as literary greatness goes, but he does write interesting items about the folks back in the valley. Since horses are in the realm of the sporting world, I've taken the liberty to reprint this letter from Hank.

They buried Ernie Tenley today.

You probably don't remember much about him. He led a rather sheltered life in his later years. There was a time, however, when the name of "Big Ernie" Tenley was known across the nation.

About 20 years ago Ernie had one of the biggest horse spreads in the country. But maybe I should start at the beginning.

It seems almost as though Ernie was destined to raise horses. His father gave him the land for his operations, then loaned him money to buy enough stock to get started in the business.

He started on a small scale, raising horses for the farmers and ranchers in the valley, but soon branched out into the areas of racing horses, trotting horses and such.

After he had been in the business for a few years he discovered that some of his steeds had a special talent — pulling large weights.

Ernie saw the potential in his draft horses and started competing in the pulling contests held in the county fair.

People saw his horses and began to talk about them. "There's Big Ernie Tenley's horses." "You should see his racing horses." "I've heard that his quarter horses can't be beat."

Then Ernie began to enter his prize draft horses in the state fair. More and more people started talking about "Big Ernie's" horses and about his horse farm.

The word about Ernie's draft horses soon spread throughout the country. Other horse owners wanted to match their steeds against the Tenley horses.

Ernie started taking his horses to all parts of the country. There was an especially big contest each year in California. Ernie made California a regular stop and soon became a regular winner on the coast.

The Tenley farm gained tremendous popularity. Big Ernie was having more success than he had thought possible. He was selling more horses and making more money each year.

Then some of the employees told Ernie that he was spending too much time with his draft horses. Ernie thought about it, but decided they weren't right. After all, wasn't business better than ever? He continued to tour with his draft horses.

His employees were dissatisfied. Then Ernie decided that it would be better for him to have good relationships with his employees.

Things were never the same at the Tenley farm following that decision. Ernie's sales began to diminish — unnoticeable at first but then with alarming consequence.

I guess you know the rest of the story. His whole operation got smaller and smaller. It wasn't long before all Ernie had was memories — no racing horses, no quarter horses — just memories.

What surprised me most though was the handful of people at his funeral. It sure was a far cry from the days when Ernie was on the road.

Fencers Take 2 Titles, But Illinois Wins Team Crown

The Hawkeye fencing team achieved an all-time high for Iowa here Saturday as it notched a second place finish in the Big Ten Championships. Pre-meet favorite Illinois copped the team title with 34 points. Iowa had 25.

Another Iowa first was recorded when Ralph Sauer took the sabre title and John Youngerman won the epee.

In ten previous seasons the Hawkeyes had won only one individual title — Dave Dittmer's epee crown in 1958.

Illinois' Abbey Silverstone was the individual foil champion. Silverstone was the only fencer in the meet to go undefeated in both the preliminary and final rounds, winning all nine of his bouts.

Michigan State, Ohio State and Wisconsin had a three team race for the No. 3 spot. The Buckeyes came out on top with 16 points to 15 for the Spartans and Badgers. Sauer captured the sabre title with a perfect 5-0 record in the finals after qualifying with a 2-2 mark in the morning round. He defeated Nick Szuha of Illinois 5-3 in the crucial match of the final round.

SAUER YOUNGERMAN Win Big 10 Fencing Titles

Szuha, who finished second with a 4-1 mark, had edged Sauer 5-4 in the preliminary round. Youngerman copped the epee title with a 4-1 mark, finishing ahead of teammate Bob Peterson, Michigan State's Art Dowd and Illinois' Stuart Cohn, who all had 3-2 marks.

Dowd was the only fencer to pin a loss on Youngerman in the final round. He stopped Youngerman 5-4 in the finals and had taken a preliminary 5-2 decision from the champion.

Peterson was declared the second place finisher by virtue of his having fewer touches against him in the final round. The Hawkeye sophomore had only 17 touches against, as compared to 18 against Dowd and 22 against Cohn.

Silverstone bested Ohio State's Lawrence Loveland for the foil title. Loveland compiled a 4-1 record, his only loss being a 5-4 setback at the hands of Silverstone.

Iowa's Tom Vincent finished fifth in the foil with a 2-3 record. Bob Becker of Illinois and Larry Hershfield of Wisconsin had identical records, but placed higher than Vincent because of fewer touches against them.

Three squad members will be selected by coach Chuck Simonian to compete in the NCAA Fencing Championships to be held in Champaign, Ill., April 1 and 2.

Michigan Defeats Indiana; Iowa 5th in Big 10 Swimming

As expected, Michigan and Indiana battled it out for the Big Ten Swimming Championships last weekend at Ann Arbor, Mich., with Michigan coming out on top, 155-130. The Wolverines, who have won the Big Ten title three years in a row, set a new point record with their 155 total, beating their 148 mark of a year ago.

Ohio State was third with 47½ points, followed by Michigan State with 35 points.

Bob Allen's Iowa Hawkeyes were a far-back fifth with 17 points, followed by Minnesota and Illinois with 4 and Wisconsin with 3½. Purdue and Northwestern didn't score.

Les Cutler was the highest finisher for the Hawks with his second place in the 100-yard backstroke. Frank McKinney of Indiana won the event with a :55.5 clocking, a new Big Ten, NCAA, and American record. Cutler, who also was counted on to pick up points in the 200-yard backstroke, finished out of the running in that event in seventh place.

Binky Wadington picked up a point when he finished sixth in the 1,500 meter race on the first day of the three-day meet which began Thursday. Fred Rouds of Indiana was first with a time of 18:19.1.

Charles Mitchell grabbed three points with his fourth place finish in the 200-yard individual medley, won by Michigan's Fred Wolf in 2:06.6. Previous to this race Mitchell was unbeaten in seven tries in the individual medley.

The other Iowa points came as the result of fifth place finishes in both the 400-yard freestyle relay and the 400-yard medley relay. Michigan won the freestyle relay in 3:43.4, a new Big Ten, NCAA, and American record.

All told, the meet saw six Big Ten and four NCAA and American marks fall. In addition, two other Big Ten records were tied.

Besides McKinney's record in the 100-yard backstroke and Michigan's mark in the freestyle relay, the other NCAA and American records to go were in the 100-yard butterfly and 200-yard breaststroke.

Indiana's fabulous sophomore, Mike Troy, came through with the record time of :53.1 in the 100-yard butterfly. Dave Gillanders of Michigan was second. The old record of :54 was set by Gillanders earlier in the meet. Troy also set a Big Ten mark in the 200-yard butterfly in 1:59.4.

Michigan's Ron Clark cracked the 200-yard breaststroke mark twice in the meet. In the preliminaries, he swam the course in 2:20.4 and in the finals he topped that time with a 2:17.4 clocking. Clark also set a new Big Ten record in the 100-yard breaststroke with a 1:03.6 time.

Big Ten standards tied included Frank Legaski in the 50-yard freestyle (:22.0) and Michigan in the 400-yard freestyle relay (3:20.5).

Both Michigan and Indiana won eight events during the three-day meet. Michigan picked up most of its edge in the team totals by taking first place in both the one and three-meter diving events. In the one-meter diving alone, the Wolverines racked up 16 points. Indiana qualified no divers in either event, and thus lost valuable ground to the Wolverines.

No other schools besides Michigan and Indiana took any first places in the meet. In fact, the other eight teams managed to take only four second places. These included Iowa's Cutler in the 100-yard backstroke, Ohio State's Carl Bechtel in the 100-yard freestyle, Ohio State's Tom Gompf in three-meter diving and Ohio State's Sam Hall in one-meter diving.

Gladbrook Begins Title Defense In Girls Meet

The 1960 Girls' State Basketball Tournament gets under way this afternoon with undefeated Douds-Leando (26-0) meeting one-defeated Seymour (24-1) in the curtain raiser at 2 o'clock.

Defending champion Gladbrook (27-0) begins its title defense at 3:30 when it meets Ollie (25-2).

Two Northeast district teams, Roland (25-4) and Clermont-Elgin (23-1), meet in the evening opener at 7:30.

College Springs (23-2) and Whales-Lincoln (22-3) close out the day's action in a 9 p.m. contest.

Michigan Wins Wrestling Title; Hawkeyes Take 2nd

Iowa's wrestling squad finished second behind Michigan in the Big Ten Championships held at Ann Arbor, Mich. Last weekend. The Wolverines were well out in front with 65 points. Iowa scored 50 points.

Tournament favorite Michigan State finished third with 37 points. Northwestern edged Minnesota and Indiana in the battle for fourth place by scoring 28 points. The Gophers had 27 and the Hoosiers 24. Purdue outscored Ohio State 17-14 for seventh place and Illinois had 3 points to finish ahead of last place Wisconsin, which was scoreless.

Gordon Trapp was the Hawkeyes' only individual champion. The steady senior dropped to the 177-pound class after wrestling heavyweight during most of the season and pinned Indiana's George Ilnat in 3:37 to take the title.

Joe Mullins, Hawkeye 167-pounder, was runnerup in his weight class. He dropped a 12-3 decision to Michigan's Dennis Fitzgerald in the final round. Fitzgerald is undefeated for the season.

Michigan had four titlists, Ambi Wilbanks at 130, Fritz Kellerman at 137, Jim Blaker at 147 and Fitzgerald.

Dave Camaione of Ohio State won the 123-pound class and was voted the meet's outstanding wrestler.

Rory Weber, Northwestern's sophomore heavyweight, took a title for the Wildcats by defeating Michigan State's John Baum 2-1 in the final.

Bob Marshall of Purdue was the other titlist, taking the 157 pound crown by defeating Northwestern's Art Kraft.

Brown Wins 440, Hawkeyes Finish 6th In Big 10 Track

The Iowa track team placed in nine events and recorded several outstanding individual performances Saturday at the Big Ten Indoor Track Championships, held at Columbus, Ohio, but the Hawks were unable to finish higher than sixth place in the team standings. Michigan retained its indoor title by finishing ahead of second-place Illinois 63½-45½. Iowa scored 20 points, finishing just 3½ points out of fourth place.

Michigan State was a distant third with 31 9/10 and Minnesota had 23 8/15 for fourth place. Indiana edged ahead of the Hawkeyes for the other first division spot by scoring 21 1/5 points. Northwestern, Ohio State, Purdue and Wisconsin trailed the Hawkeyes.

John Brown, Iowa captain, was the only Hawkeye individual winner as he blazed a 46.6 time in the 440-yard dash to finish ahead of Reggie Laconi of Indiana and Bryan Gibson of Michigan. Brown also anchored the mile relay to a fifth place finish. Brown's victory in the 440 makes him the Big Ten indoor and outdoor champion in the event.

Bill Orris was actually the highest scorer for Iowa as he placed third in the high hurdles and the low hurdles, thus contributing six points to the Hawkeye total.

Denny Rehder ran a 1:55.1 half-mile, but this was good only for fourth place as such stars as George Kerr of Illinois and Ergas Leps of Michigan beat Rehder to the tape.

Jack Hill, Iowa's senior miler, finished fourth in the mile with a time of 4:15.5. The mile was won in a record time of 4:09.9 by Jim Bowers of Illinois.

The two-mile run was also run in record time as Ken Brown of Illinois won in 9:04. Jim Tucker, Iowa sophomore, finished fourth, but his time of 9:14.1 was well below his previous best time.

Iowa's other points were scored by Gene Owen, who placed fifth in the 600-yard run, and Tom Hyde, who finished fifth in the 300-yard dash. The mile relay team, made up of Bob Warren, Bernie Wyatt, Tom Hyde and John Brown, also finished in fifth place, with a time of 3:19.9, its best of the season.

Iowa coach, Francis Cretzmeyer, said, "Over-all, everyone did a good job, but we could have finished higher. We were only 3½ points out of fourth place. Jerry Williams probably would have scored had he not hit a hurdle, and our travel arrangements were delayed because of the weather, causing loss of sleep the night before the meet."

Williams was just nosed out of both hurdle events by slim margins. Cretzmeyer went on to say that, "We showed a great improvement over last year, and we hope to do better in the outdoor meet this spring."

Buck, Snyder Take Titles; Gymnasts 4th in Big 10

Iowa's gymnastics team totaled 51 points to cop fourth place in the Big Ten gymnastics championships at Minnesota Saturday and brought home two first places.

Bill Buck, one of the finest side horse competitors in the nation, won the side horse title for the third straight year and Larry Snyder walked away with the trampoline title. Buck's title marked the fifth straight year that Iowa has won the championship in that event. Assistant gym coach Sam Baillie won the crown in 1956 and 1957.

Illinois took the team championship with 115 points to make it 13 in a row, a feat that has never been duplicated. The other teams scored as follows: Minnesota 105½, Michigan State 104, Iowa 51, Michigan 45, Indiana 14½, Ohio State 8, and Wisconsin 0.

Besides Buck defending his side horse crown, he captured a controversial second in the parallel bars to a Minnesota gymnast and took fifth place spots in the trampoline event and the all-around competition.

Baillie said Buck had a tremendous routine on the parallel bars and many Big Ten coaches favored the Iowa athlete.

Other Iowa place winners (there were 10 place winners in each event) included: Roger Gedney, ninth in the high bar and eighth in tumbling; Russ Porterfield, tenth in high bar; and Phil Levi, eighth in free exercise and ninth in parallel bars.

Another Iowa mainstay, Marshall Claus, was unable to compete due to his injured wrist suffered in a meet with Chicago Navy Pier Feb. 27. Claus attempted to warm up but finally dropped out of the meet. Baillie said he felt Claus might have been the difference between a fourth place and a first place.

With the final chapter written on another Big Ten season, Iowa and Coach Dick Holzappel will be looking ahead at the NCAA championships March 18-19 at Penn State University in University Park, Pa. If Claus reaches top form by then and the other Hawkeyes are in good shape, Baillie lists Iowa as one of the national contenders along with the top teams in the Big Ten.

Mantle Doesn't Expect Spring Training Trip

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Outfielder Mickey Mantle said Monday that he doesn't expect to report to the New York Yankees spring training camp in St. Petersburg this spring.

General Manager George Weiss said Friday that he was through trying to negotiate with Mantle unless the holdout came to the spring training camp. Mantle reportedly has been offered a contract calling for a $15,000 salary cut from the estimated $75,000 he received in 1959.

"I honestly don't believe I'll be getting to St. Petersburg this year," Mantle said in a telephone conversation with Bob Boyson, sports editor of the St. Petersburg Independent.

Hawkeye Cagers Stop Wolverines; Finish in 6th

Iowa waltzed past Michigan 68-56 here Saturday night to salvage sixth place tie with Purdue in the final Big Ten basketball standings.

The Hawkeyes got off to a slow start and led the last-place Wolverines only 35-30 at halftime. Iowa added to its lead in the second half to make its season record 10-10.

Nolden Gentry and Pete Scheller, two Hawkeyes making their final appearances, led the Iowa scoring parade. Gentry tossed 14 points, 11 in the first half as he almost personally carried the Hawkeyes to their halftime advantage.

Scheller was the leading scorer for Iowa with 17 points. Don Nelson was the only other Hawkeye to break double figures, getting 11 points on five fielders.

Terry Miller and John Tidwell sparked the Wolverine attack with 21 and 18 points respectively.

Cal Begins NCAA Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — California's defense-minded Bears open defense of their National Collegiate Basketball Championship tonight, meeting Idaho State in a regional game at San Francisco.

The game highlights regional activity which also includes three games at New York's Madison Square Garden and two at Lexington, Ky.

Here is the schedule:
At New York:
New York U. (19-3) vs. Connecticut (17-8); West Virginia (24-4) vs. Navy (16-5); Duke (15-10) vs. Princeton (15-8).

At Lexington, Ky.:
Ohio U. (16-6) vs. Notre Dame (17-8); Western Kentucky (19-6) vs. Miami, Fla. (23-3).

At San Francisco:
California (24-1) vs. Idaho State (21-4).

In another preliminary game for the Far West, New Mexico State (19-6), the Border champion, plays Oregon (17-9), an at-large representative, at Corvallis, Ore., on Wednesday.

Winners of these games move into the second round of the regional eliminations, which are scheduled Friday and Saturday at the following points: Charlotte, N.C.; Louisville, Manhattan, Kan., and Seattle.

The single survivors from each of these regional centers qualify for the semifinals and finals at San Francisco March 18-19.

California, with a defense which has limited foes to an average of 48.28 points a game, is favored to come through its Pacific Coast preliminary tests and make a strong bid for its second straight championship.

Chief obstacles are Cincinnati (24-1), the Missouri Valley champion and No. 1 in the Associated Press poll; Ohio State (21-3), the Big Ten champion, and West Virginia (24-4), Southern Conference winner and runner-up last year.

The National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden opens Thursday with Villanova (19-5) playing Detroit (20-6), and Providence (21-4) meeting Memphis State (17-4).

Other teams in the NIT are Bradley (24-2), Utah State (22-5), St. John's (17-7), St. Louis (18-7), Holy Cross (20-5), St. Bonaventure (19-3), Dayton (20-6) and Temple (17-8).

The NCAA small college division quarter-finalists move to Evansville, Ind., Wednesday to settle that championship. The pairings are: St. Michaels (Vt.) vs. Kentucky Wesleyan, American U. vs. Evansville College, Wheaton vs. Chapman and Cornell (Iowa) vs. Kirksville.

Dischinger, Lucas Unanimous Choices for All-Big 10 Team

CHICAGO (AP) — Sophomores Jerry Lucas of Ohio State and Terry Dischinger of Purdue were the only unanimous choices for the 1960 All-Big Ten basketball team named Monday by The Associated Press.

Also making the first five were Horace Walker of Michigan State, Walt Bellamy of Indiana and Ron Johnson of Minnesota. Lucas, already named to The AP's All-American team, led Ohio State to the Big Ten title and Dischinger topped all Big Ten scorers.

The Purdue flash finished with 384 points in 14 games for a 27.4 average. Lucas was second with 362 points and a 25.8 average.

Bellamy, Indiana's 6-10½ pivotman, was the only repeater from last year's team and missed being a unanimous choice by just one ballot. Walker also was named on all but one ballot of AP writers in the Big Ten area. Johnson missed by two.

Walker finished third in the scoring department this season with 349 points and Bellamy and Johnson tied for fourth with 313 points.

One oddity does arise — all five played the pivot for their respective teams.

Bellamy helped Indiana win its last 11 conference games in succession and is the only junior on the team. Walker led the league in rebounds and Johnson broke numerous scoring records at Minnesota.

Heading the second team was Michigan's John Tidwell who in scoring finished in a tie with Bellamy and Johnson with 313 points.

Others on the second team were Governor Vaughn of Illinois, Willie Jones of Northwestern, Larry Siegfried of Ohio State and Lance Olson of Michigan State.

Named to third team were Frank Radovich, Indiana; John Havlicek and Mel Nowell, Ohio State; Marnie Jackson, Illinois; and Ray Cronk, Minnesota.

Don Nelson of Iowa received honorable mention.

Holcomb Thinks Rose Bowl Agreement May Be Retained

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten's decision to end participation in the annual Rose Bowl football competition may not be final after all.

At least one athletic director — Northwestern's Stu Holcomb — feels that some sort of affiliation with the Rose Bowl will be retained.

Looking forward to the May meetings of the Big Ten Conference in East Lansing, Mich., Holcomb is optimistic that by that time calmer heads will prevail.

Right now Big Ten athletic directors and faculty representatives admittedly are divided, but Holcomb feels a solution satisfactory to both sides can be worked out.

The situation resulted when faculty representatives meeting in Columbus, Ohio, last week voted to sever all relations with the Rose Bowl game, on a contractual basis as well as individual basis.

The angry directors, in a surprise move, then proposed that the

Both Iowa Athletic Director Paul Brechler and Faculty Representative Robert Ray report that they voted against the Big Ten's proposal to curtail post-season play in all sports.

Brechler said that his reaction was that the motion should have had more thought and that it should have been tabled at this time.

Ray reported that he would like to see the matter discussed individually at each institution before taking any action.

The matter is one of basic policy and must be voted on by each school's governing athletic body. Another balloting will be made at the Big Ten's May meetings at East Lansing, Mich.

conference ban all post-season sports competition except Olympic tryouts. The facultymen accepted it.

No final action on the second proposal can be taken, however, until the May meeting of conference officials.

Holcomb denies that the athletic directors' proposal to end all post-season sports competition was made on the spur of the moment.

"We simply took the position that if post-season football, like the Rose Bowl, is bad then all post-season sports are bad."

Treadway Added To Football Staff

Olin Treadway has been added to the Iowa football staff as an assistant coach. The appointment was recommended by football coach Fred Evashevski and was approved by SUI President Virgil Hancher and the State Board of Regents at their recent meeting. The appointment will become effective March 1.

Treadway, from Muskogee, Okla., was quarterback of the Hawkeyes last season and broke several school and conference passing records. He graduated in February.

Treadway will assist the varsity in spring practice and will probably work TREADWAY in addition he is expected to be assigned some duties in the physical education department.

Hawkeye Cagers Stop Wolverines; Finish in 6th

Iowa waltzed past Michigan 68-59 here Saturday night to salvage a sixth place tie with Purdue in the final Big Ten basketball standings.

The Hawkeyes got off to a slow start and led the last-place Wolverines only 35-30 at halftime. Iowa added to its lead in the second half to make its season record 14-10.

Nelden Gentry and Pete Schebler, two Hawkeyes making their final appearances, led the Iowa scoring parade. Gentry tossed in 14 points, 11 in the first half as he almost personally carried the Hawkeyes to their halftime advantage.

Schebler was the leading scorer for Iowa with 17 points. Don Nelson was the only other Hawkeye to break double figures, getting 10 points on five fielders.

Terry Miller and John Tidwell sparked the Wolverine attack with 21 and 18 points respectively.

NFL Injured List May Be Offered To Dallas Entry

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The National Football League Commissioner Monday said all players on the injured list at the end of last season may be made available to Dallas, the new circuit member which has virtually no players now.

Under the formula generally approved, each league team will name certain players Dallas cannot draft. Then Dallas would get the pick of the remainder.

The commissioner, Pete Rozelle, suggested in an interview here that the roster offered Dallas include all players who were on the injured reserve list at the end of the season.

This would include players such as L. G. Dupre of the Baltimore Colts and Nick Pietrosante of the Detroit Lions.

This plan, he said, "would mean some clubs will have 40 players available. After they put 24, 25 or 26 on their untouchable list, there'd be plenty left for Dallas." The exact size of the untouchable list each team can name has not been decided.

Rozelle said the names on all lists will be kept secret.

Three Fires Busy Firemen

A garage at 2014 "I" St., that burned to the ground was the worst of three fires reported to Iowa City firemen during a 90-minute period Monday morning.

Firemen said the fire had too much of a head start before they arrived to save the building. Cause of the fire was not determined.

Firemen said a number of tools and toys were destroyed. He made no estimate of damage.

About an hour later — 11:45 — ether in the central sterilizing area of the Children's Hospital caught fire. The blaze, was quickly extinguished by hospital staff members before firemen arrived.

While the trucks were still at the hospital, another alarm was received. This time, from the Court and Upland Streets area. However, firemen said the "fire" was just steam rising from the snow that was melting on top of the building.

Strike Stops Film Shooting

By JOE HYAMS
Herald Tribune News Service
HONOLULU — At least for a Hollywood company on location here, the Screen Actors' Guild (SAG) strike was one of the most curiously handled in labor history.

This reporter was here in Hawaii where Columbia's "The Wackiest Ship in the Army" was before the location cameras. Since the company of 67 people — including stars Jack Lemmon and Ricky Nelson — had only been on location for two weeks, there was no possibility of completing the picture before the strike came off, so there was no overtime filming.

Producer Fred Kohlmar had tried desperately to get the SAG before the location cameras. He just the location portion of the picture, but he was unsuccessful.

Work on the film was conducted on schedule until sundown Sunday.

During the day Sunday, while scenes were being shot, carpenters and electricians were crating equipment for storage in Honolulu or return to the mainland. Until the end, the members of the crew were hopeful that a last-minute call from Hollywood would bring news that the strike had been called off. But the call never came.

As an attempt at levity, some of the actors brought out "picket-style cards lettered with messages such as "Don't call us, we'll call you," "Have (SAG) card, can't travel," "You are now looking at shoe salesmen."

The attempt at humor fell flat, however. All of the 65 people on the Pearl Harbor location at that moment would be unemployed five hours and 50 minutes later.

Last Friday, the actors here were at sea in more ways than one, as up until then they had still to receive any official instructions from the (SAG) regarding the strike. So Jack Lemmon and other stars of the film sent a collect telegram to the (SAG) in Hollywood asking for instructions. "Do

Governor Contest Draft to Nicholas?

DES MOINES — Nomination papers for William H. Nicholas were taken out Monday by supporters who indicated a draft move was under way to capture the Republican nomination for governor for the former lieutenant governor.

Willard Archer, Nashua real estate agent and insurance man, and Donald Running, Des Moines attorney, said they were making the move because "We believe he is the only Republican who can be elected in the fall."

Nicholas, now a member of the Iowa Highway Commission, is from Clear Lake. He ran unsuccessfully in the primary election two years ago for the Republican nomination for governor.

"As a longtime Republican interested in the party's welfare and service to the state, I want to nominate a man for governor on the party's ticket who can both win and serve the people with distinction," Running said.

Archer said he felt Nicholas' government experience would enable him to win the election.

Says Iowa Can Borrow To Build More Schools

DES MOINES — The Iowa Taxpayer's Association Monday said more than 50 per cent of the total borrowing capacity of public high school districts in the state is still available.

Assn. President Walter R. Cochran of Waterloo said an association survey shows Iowa has the capability to handle school building programs without federal aid.

He said the debt status survey included all 694 school districts maintaining high schools, amounting to more than 93 per cent of the state's total public school enrollment.

we strike or not?" asked the actors Saturday night Lemmon received a collect reply saying, in effect, that he and the other actors in "The Wackiest Ship in the Army" were to go on strike at 12:01 Monday. Commenting on the exchange of telegrams, Lemmon ruefully remarked: "This will be the last 'collecting' by us for a long time."

Russian Language At SUI; Interest

By SANDRA LEHMAN Staff Writer

Four sections in Beginning Russian are offered this semester at SUI, indicating the rising interest in the language.

Last year there were two beginning sections and before that only one beginning section. "Before 1957, enrollment in Russian didn't amount to anything," said Dr. Edmund de Chasca, chairman of romance languages and Russian at SUI.

Also, a section of scientific Russian, never given before at SUI, is offered. It requires more reading than the other classes, with emphasis on scientific terms, De Chasca said.

There are 61 students presently enrolled in second-semester Russian. The beginning sections in Russian begin in the fall and run through the year. Last semester there were 69 students enrolled in Beginning Russian.

De Chasca said the department could have a large enrollment, but there is not enough personnel to accommodate all the students.

Students should have a good background in English and possibly another language before taking Russian, De Chasca said. There is also emphasis on genuine interests in learning the language and on a good grade.

Russian Language Is 'Booming' Warns West At SUI; Interest Grows Yearly

By SANDRA LEHMAN Staff Writer

Four sections in Beginning Russian are offered this semester at SUI, indicating the rising interest in the language.

Last year there were two beginning sections and before that only one beginning section. "Before 1957, enrollment in Russian didn't amount to anything," said Dr. Edmund de Chasca, chairman of romance languages and Russian at SUI.

Students should have a good background in English and possibly another language before taking Russian, De Chasca said. There is also emphasis on genuine interests in learning the language and on a good grade point, he said.

A regular staff member began teaching Russian at SUI for the first time last semester. Wasyl Jaszczuk, from Ukraine, came from the University of Pennsylvania where he had taught Russian and Polish.

Russian was previously taught by two French professors who also knew Russian: Janis B. Ratermanis, associate professor of romance languages and Alexandre Aspel, professor of romance languages.

Three graduate assistants are also teaching Russian this semester: Miss Tamara Osikowska, from Russia; Mrs. Leonilla Strelkoff, Yugoslavia; and Mrs. Zulejha Ridjanovic, Yugoslavia.

"It is very difficult to get graduate assistants in Russians, said De Chasca and we are very lucky to have these people."

In 1957, there were only 11 students in Beginning Russian the first semester. The number dropped to seven the second semester. In 1957-58, there were 19 students in the first semester and 12 in the second semester. The number rose to 46 in the first semester of 1958-59 and then dropped to 32 the second semester.

Also this semester, there are 29 students enrolled in special work courses in Russian or advanced

Warns West Of Russians

BONN (HTNS) — The West German Minister of Defense said Monday that Russia is increasing the nuclear and rocket power of its Army in East Germany at "an extraordinary tempo."

The Minister, Franz Josef Strauss, declared that this would permit the Soviet Union to decrease the numerical strength of its forces in East Germany without sacrificing superiority in firepower over the opposing American and Allied divisions.

He told the Foreign Press Association in Bonn that the current fire-power ratio along the central European front was "two-to-one to three-to-one" in the Russians' favor. He predicted that it would remain about the same "even if the Russians substantially reduce the size of their forces."

Soviet Premier Khrushchev repeatedly has announced plans for demobilizing large numbers of Russian soldiers. However, Strauss said, the Soviet leader has not yet diminished the size of the 20-division Soviet force stationed on East German territory.

Dr. Adenauer, who is scheduled to meet President Eisenhower in Washington early next week, remains convinced that Khrushchev is out to smash Western unity rather than to seek a genuine East-West settlement. As a result, the 84-year-old German leader is clinging to his demand for a tough stand by the Western Three at the coming summit conference with Khrushchev at Paris.

Strike Quiets Movie Guns

This deserted Western street on the Paramount lot today reflects the situation all over Hollywood. Paramount is one of seven major studios which shut down most operations because of the first actors' strike in movie history.

Predict Hollywood Strike To Be 'Long and Ruinous'

(For more on filmland strike see a story by Joe Hyams on Page 6.)

HOLLYWOOD — Movie actors began a strike Monday against major studios that many observers think will be long and ruinous. The big issue: whether actors should get extra pay for television showings of post-1948 theatrical films.

The 14,000-member Screen Actors Guild began the walkout at 12:01 a.m.

Marilyn Monroe, Debbie Reynolds, Binu Crosby, Gina Lollobrigida, Elizabeth Taylor, Fred Astaire and Alan Ladd were among those idled by the production stoppage. Studios said they are laying off 5,000 workers now, and more later.

It was a strange strike. There were no picket lines, no demonstrators. Some production continued.

Columbia had to shut down its Hawaii location of "The Wackiest Ship in the Army," with Jack Lemmon and Ricky Nelson. But the company was able to continue shooting "Pepe," starring Dan Dailey because its independent producers had signed a deal with the Screen Actors Guild.

Twentieth Century-Fox had to close down four feature pictures, but continues shooting the "Adventures in Paradise" and "Dobie Gillis" TV series. Television films are not affected by the strike.

Last minute conciliation efforts failed. The producers asked permission to finish the films in progress. The actors refused with the answer: "A strike is a strike."

The SAG voted to ask the Federal Mediation Service to help. Producers' aide Charles Boren said all issues but one could be settled by negotiation.

"The issue in question is the demand that actors be paid twice for doing one job — the demand for additional payment if theatrical pictures are sold for exhibition on television," Boren added.

The actors argue that they want to be paid twice for appearing in two separate mediums — movie theaters and TV. That is the issue that brought on the impasse. The two sides appear irreconcilable any many predict the strike will go on and on.

With feature picture eliminated as a source of income, film stars were seeking other means of employment. Debbie Reynolds, Shirley MacLaine, Rhonda Fleming, and others were planning to hit the road with night club acts.

Ships anchored in Agadir Harbor after the quakes reported important changes in the depth of the ocean around the coast. One ship took soundings and reported that the sea floor 20 miles west of Agadir had risen after the quake.

These reports led scientists at the Moroccan Institute here to suggest an underwater crack in the earth's crust might be forming off Agadir.

Aid continues to pour into Morocco for the thousands of refugees left homeless by the earthquakes. About 250 orphans were airlifted to Rabat and are to be accommodated in a special children's refugee camp in the Memora Forest outside the city.

A U.S. Army engineer company under the command of Capt. Emory Kline of Martinsburg, W.Va., has finished leveling the Kasbah Hill quarter. Working with 10-ton bulldozers, Kline and his 186 officers and men now are leveling the area near the waterfront, one of the worst-hit sections of Agadir.

Thirty-four experts representing seven areas of study will participate in the American Psychiatric Association's regional research conference on child development and child psychiatry Mar. 18 to 19 at SUI.

Speakers at the meeting will include specialists in child development, child welfare, psychiatry, psychology, education, pediatrics and ophthalmology. One of the principal aims of the meeting will be to stimulate research interest in child development and child psychiatry and to report on research already under way in the two fields.

For Research, Student Aid Regents Accept $331,000

Gifts and grants totalling $330,646.78 for research, scholarships and students training programs at SUI were accepted during February by the State Board of Regents finance committee.

The total includes $76,849 for training programs in the SUI College of Medicine, U.S. Public Health Service grants of $75,249 will be used by the Departments of Microbiology and Otolaryngology. A $1,200 American Cancer Society grant will be used for summer research fellowships.

Other large grants received for scholarships and fellowships at SUI include National Defense Education Act, $21,395.12; National Science Foundation, $37,665; Woodrow Wilson Foundation, $22,600; Dupont, $5,000; SUI Foundation, $2,535.50.

Gifts of $863.50 were accepted for scholarship funds honoring the late W. J. Teeters, former dean of the College of Pharmacy; F. M. Dawson, dean emeritus of the College of Engineering; James Van Allen, head of the Physics Department; the late Frank S. (Bucky) O'Connor, former basketball coach; and Chester A. Phillips, former dean of the College of Commerce.

The scholarship fund gifts were made by Lubin's Drug Store, Iowa City; the SUI Foundation; Harlan Miller, Des Moines Register columnist; Floyd C. Duncan, Iowa City; Herbert L. Wagner, Rock Island, Ill.

A $2,600 grant from the Woodrow Wilson Foundation was accepted for tuition of ten graduate students attending SUI during the 1959-60 academic year. Wilson Fellows at SUI are Dorothea Binhammer, Watertown, Wis.; Ronald K. Calgaard, Joice; Larry Calhoun, Ft.

Madison; James T. Crenner, Pittsburgh, Penn.; George H. Daniels, Jr., Memphis, Tenn.; Clayton E. Hudnall, Newport News, Va.; Mary J. O'Callaghan, Cincinnati, Ohio; Jerome Redus, Birmingham, Ala.; Clifford H. Scott, Independence; and David C. Young, Lincoln, Neb.

SUI also received a $20,000 grant from the Wilson Foundation for the graduate program. A $2,000 grant is made to universities for each Wilson Fellow attending for support of the universities' graduate programs.

A National Defense Education Act grant of $21,395.12 provides fellowships for nine SUI graduate students during the 1959-60 academic year. Students receiving the grant are Edward M. Bruce, New Hartford, Conn.; James Bruning, Bruning, Neb.; Stephen R. Cole, Chicago; Arthur T. Kachel, Nevada, Mo.; John W. Prehn, Manchester; Robert F. Stanners, Milwaukee, Wis.; Kent P. Schwirian, Madison, Wis.; David L. Thomas, Portland, Ore.; and Irving F. Tucker, Amherst, Mass.

Sixty high school juniors and seniors will attend an eight week science institute at SUI beginning June 14 as the result of a $23,920 grant from the National Science Foundation. The students will take special field trips and a special seminar of scientific research. They will live in SUI dormitories during the summer session.

The SUI Chemistry Department received a $13,745 grant from the National Science Foundation for research as part of a teacher-training program. The grant, which has not yet been awarded to trainees, will cover the period from June 12 to Sept. 31.

A Dupont grant of $5,000 will be used for the aid of fundamental research at SUI during the 1960-61 fiscal year. Under the direction of Ralph L. Shriner, head of the Chemistry Department, the grant will be used for fellowships, faculty and departmental expenses.

The current recipient of the Dupont grant is John C. Marshall, of Whitewater, Wis. Marshall received his B.A. in 1956 at Luther College, Decorah.

A $250 grant from the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union of America has been accepted for Warren Maher, A4, Sioux City, for the 1959-60 academic year.

Stanley L. Capper, G. Elgin, received a $300 scholarship for the second semester from the National Association of American Business Clubs.

Helen Hisslop, G, Iowa City, has received a $495 scholarship from the National Foundation, which is supported by the March of Dimes drive. The grant will be used by Miss Hisslop for physiological research expenses.

Tuition and fees for George L. Horton, E1, Sudbury, Mass., will be paid by a $500 grant from the Massachusetts Department of Education.

The Jaycee War Memorial Fund Scholarship of $500 was accepted for Jack Rule, B2, Waterloo. The scholarship is for the 1959-60 academic year.

Intellectual life on campus. That would come from other sources. As far as the athletic part of it goes, there is some value to be derived from the bowl games and other post-season competition. There is value in the pageantry and school spirit centered on those things. It is a hard question. I'm glad I don't have to make the decision."

Dody Collin's — SUI Sounds Off

The following interviews were obtained around campus. This week's question is:

"Do you feel that the recent Big Ten vote against post-season athletic competition will result in a de-emphasis on athletics at SUI and other Big Ten schools with an increased emphasis on academics?"

Jack Hanlon, A3, Des Moines: "No, I don't think it will. As long as there is football or any other sport, cutting out the bowls and other post-season athletics won't make much difference. There will still be emphasis on athletics. If they want to de-emphasize sports, they will have to cut out everything. There will still be competition for the conference titles."

Carolyn Jensen, A2, Charles City: "No, I don't think it will result in any more emphasis on academics. I think the sense of competition will be just as strong in the Big Ten. Even if they do away with post-season competition, there are still the polls — AP, UPI, Look, etc. The teams and players will just work to be number one on those."

Gail Steaks, A2, Lenox: "I don't think it will make that much difference. Students need things like the Rose Bowl. They and the teams look forward to the games. It gives the teams something to aim for and puts more student support behind them. When students go to a game or some event, they let off steam and feel more like studying afterwards."

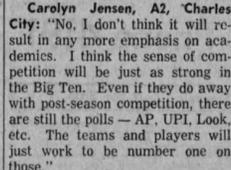

Bob Kaiser, A1, Des Moines: "No, I don't think so. Football games are enjoyable; they act as an outlet for students and provide entertainment. Because of this athletics will have a continued importance. Post-season competition is good because it matches the Midwest against the rest of the country and gives the athletes a chance to see how they rate nationally."

Dick Sernett, B4, Mason City: "Yes, I feel the definite purpose of the directors' vote was to de-emphasize athletics. With the elimination of the post-season competition, more emphasis will result on the academic side of University life. With the possibility of the Rose Bowl gone then activities will be centered on something with a scholastic basis."

Monte Colman, G, Ono, Calif.: "I can't see where it will result in any increased emphasis on in-

State Raises Pay For Roads Chiefs

DES MOINES — The State Executive Council Monday approved pay boosts for the top level of State Highway Commission employees, but the raises granted are far below those requested by the commission.

The council approved a bracket of $16,500 to $19,200 a year for the chief engineer and suggested that Chief Engineer L.M. Clauson's salary be set at $18,300 annually. The commission had asked the council to approve a salary of $23,400 a year for Clauson in a bracket running all the way to $25,800 a year.

Gov. Herschel Loveless said the $18,300 which John Butter was drawing when he retired as chief engineer Feb. 1 it "pretty well average for chief engineers of surrounding states."

Think Birth of Undersea Volcano Destroyed Agadir

RABAT, Morocco — Scientists suggested Monday the earthquake that destroyed Agadir may have stemmed from the birth of a boiling underwater volcano off the coast. Mariners in the area report the floor of the Atlantic heaved up almost 800 feet.

Since the first two giant shocks wrecked the sparkling resort city a week ago and killed an estimated 12,000 people, six more after-shocks around Agadir have been recorded by the seismological observatory at Berrichid, near Casablanca. The last two, both slight, were felt Monday morning.

There were also reports of a boiling sea Sunday. Moroccan military guards of Kasbah Hill

5 Students Rate High on Speeches

Five SUI students received superior or excellent rating in events at the Intercollegiate Forensics Conference Friday and Saturday at SUI. They are:

Ronald Anderson, A1, Dike; John Niemeeyer, A2, Elkader; Kathleen Kelly, A4, Newton; Norman Oberstein, A2, Oskaloosa; and Douglas Stone, A2, Sioux City.

More than 100 speech students from some two dozen Midwest colleges and universities participated in the conference. The tournament included four rounds of debate, three rounds of discussion and contests in original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, expository speaking and dramatic interpretation.

To Show Film Classics At Macbride Tonight

Two classic motion pictures, "Variety" (1925) and "Ghosts Before Breakfast" (1927), will be shown in Macbride Auditorium, tonight at 8 o'clock. The screening, sponsored by the Department of Speech and Dramatic Arts, is free for students of motion pictures, television, and theater, but guests are welcome.

"Variety," is by far the most famous of German films of the middle 20's. It attained its fame through its use of the camera, unfamiliar devices like the off-screen murder, and its atmosphere of sordidness and tension. "Ghosts Before Breakfast," directed by Hans Richter, was made after his first experiments in the film medium.

Heavy Voting As

Nixon In New

MANCHESTER, N. H. — Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.) swept to overwhelming victories Tuesday in New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation presidential primary.

They did it on a rising tide of votes which observers predicted on the basis of early returns would exceed those cast in the 1956 presidential primary in the state.

Nixon, unopposed on the Republican preference poll ballot, outdistanced New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who received some write-in votes.

Kennedy trounced his only ballot rival, Chicago manufacturer

McManus Cites Reap

Lieutenant Governor Edward (Nick) McManus told the State Young Democrats Tuesday evening that his principle goal, if were elected governor, would be to accomplish reappointment of the Iowa State Legislature.

Speaking before an audience of about 50 people in Schaeffer Hall, McManus said: "I personally have no fear of a constitutional convention, if that's what the voters want. The problem is one of getting good people in the next General Assembly — people who will honor the will of the people concerning a constitutional convention."

McManus said the only time the people voted in favor of a constitutional convention — in 1921 — the legislature failed to act on the will of the people and did not set up the necessary machinery for a constitutional convention.

"It is vital that we as Democrats strive to control at least one of the two houses in the next General Assembly," McManus continued, "because we know from experience that the Democratic Party in Iowa cannot put its policies into action with a Democratic governor, but Republican control of the Legislature. Only with Democratic-controlled Legislature can reappointment be assured in Iowa."

On another matter, McManus would not say specifically how he stood on liquor-by-the-drink Iowa. "I will say," he said, "that our present liquor laws are need of re-examination. However any liquor laws we have must be strong enough to prevent abuses." He did not comment further on the issue.

McManus, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor this year, was elected lieutenant governor in November, 1958. Previous to this, he had served two

Newest Fashions Will Be Featured In Spring Edition

News and pictures of the latest men's and women's fashion for spring will be featured in The Daily Iowan's Spring Fashion Edition which will be published March 17.

The special issue, edited by Anne Warner, A4, Iowa City, D society editor, will have the newest in fashions, accessories, and furnishings from Iowa City stores modeled by SUI students.

Feature stories on how Miss Perfect Profile selects her clothes, the problems of sales ladies, whether we lag behind in fashion trends at SUI, men's and women's pet peeves about the opposite sex's clothing, and tennis shoes are being written for the special edition.

Cuba Rejects Herter's Protests

HAVANA — The Cuban Government Tuesday night rejected "insulting" U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's protest against Prime Minister Fidel Castro's accusations of sabotage.

Foreign Minister Raul R. handled a note to U.S. Chargé d'Affaires Daniel M. Braddock rejecting the U.S. protest and demanding that representatives of the Cuban government be dressed with "absolute respect . . . without descending to offensive utterances of a personal character."

"We protest against the aggressive tone derogatory to our national dignity of the statements mentioned above," Roa said.
