Firm Council Stand

The Student Council has moved to clarify the meaning of the phrase "remedial action" in the new University provision in the Code of Student Life concerning restrictive clauses.

By a 13 1/2 to 7 1/2 vote at its Wednesday night meeting, the Council adopted a resolution calling for any University-recognized organization having a discrimination clause in its constitution on Sept. 1, 1963; to be placed on social probation. Any organization still having such a clause by Sept. 1, 1965, would cease to be recognized by the University.

This is the strongest stand yet taken by the Council on the restrictive clause problem at SUU. It's a stand that recognizes, as we have suggested in a previous editorial, the weakness in the new University position toward the problem.

The Code provision calls for remedial

An Independent Policy

We received in the mail the other day a prospectus for a new independent newspaper to be started at Purdue. The newspaper, a weekly to be known as Spectrum, apparently will be somewhat similar to our Iowa Defender, except that its emphasis will be on news rather than ideas and opinions.

What particularly caught our attention in the prospectus were various "policy points" set forth for Spectrum. We pass them along as admirable for a totally independent—that is, independently owned and managed—campus newspaper:

1. Dedicated to accurate news, features, advertisements.
2. Limited only by the possibility of being sued for libel and the canons of professional journalism.
3. Editorially free from University administration, faculty, students, advertisers, townspeople, vested interest groups, including—but not limited to—any of the above.
4. Open opinion columns — unsuppressed

LETTERS—

Man Has Natural Right To Learn as Well as Live

To the Editor:

I read, with lethic interest, the DI's front page account of the current student demonstrations. Toward the end of an otherwise forthright commentary, I encountered a cryptic comment attributed to Dean Huit to the effect that education is a privilege rather than a right.

This quote caught my attention to such an extent that I roused myself and dusted off my dictionary to look up Webster's version of the meanings of the terms "privilege" and "right". My findings were of some interest to me. For the enlightenment of those who might wish to know them, here are a few dictionary definitions.

Privilege: 1. a right, immunity, benefit, or advantage granted to some person, group of persons, or class, not enjoyed by others and sometimes detrimental to them. 2. a basic civil right guaranteed by a government; as, the privilege of equality for all.

Right: 1. what is right, or just, lawful, morally good, proper, correct, etc. 2. a just and fair claim to anything whatever; power, privilege etc. that belongs to a person by law, nature or tradition.

Without doubt it would be a shallow interpretation indeed to point out simply that education, in the Dean's eyes, is apparently wrong, unjust, unlawful, morally bad, improper, incorrect, etc. Such an observation would be, among other things, an error in logic. Doubtless it would be equally erroneous to suggest that the Dean is of the opinion that the process of training and developing knowledge, skill, mind, character etc. of men in general does not belong to them by law, nature or tradition.

But even without going to such extremes as these, I find myself

Junior High?

To the Editor:

In case you haven't already guessed it, I'm airing a complaint against the ROTC department. After all, what other flaw in the curriculum at SUU deserves more publicity? I can think of only one thing that could possibly be worse than taking ROTC — teaching it!

Now let's take last Wednesday for example. Being one of many students denied the dinner because of the not too efficient scheduling of sections by the ROTC department, I left Literature discussion to tramp across the river and soak up two hours of nausea. And as I walked past the Daily Iowan letters displayed on the bulletin board in the Field House describing ROTC and all its maladjusted essence, I reviewed the letters — R-O-T-C — in my mind. After pronouncing the name several times, I began to realize that the resulting word couldn't be a more accurate adjective for the course.

The following two-hour ordeal was just that. Following a vain effort by the instructor to attain at least a partial class interest in what he was talking about by intermixing corny jokes with "Damn" and "Hell", the class reverted to the customary slides or movies during which class members get a little rest for classes of a little more value than ROTC. And of course the class was typically of a ROTC quality — some enlightening discussion was brought forth concerning the adventures of John Paul Jones (I assume that he must have made some valuable contribution to the development of the Air Force); conscious students learned that Lybians are the worst bicycle riders in the world; and of course pertinent references were made to the patty raid the night before.

As my older brother, a Captain in the Strategic Air Command has often said, "It took me two years of junior high school to learn all the things that are taught in ROTC."

Stock Market Drops Again

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market Thursday backed away from its recovery gains on the lightest dealings in three weeks.

The two-day rebound from 1960 lows petered out as Wall Street treaded cautiously. The market largely ignored two pieces of news. One was the bristling speech by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in which he said the Russians had shot down a U.S. plane. Another was the sharp gains in retail auto sales.

The aircraft-missile stocks were mixed, showing no apparent response to the Khrushchev statement. The auto stocks decline.

The Dow Jones industrial average dropped 2.67 to 608.32.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell .40 to 211.20 with the industrials down 1.00, the rails down .20 and the utilities up .10.

Hotsam and Jetsam

By JOHN K. HUTCHENS
 Herald Tribune News Service
COPEY OF HARVARD: A biography of Charles Townsend Copeland. By J. Donald Adams. With illustrations.
 Houghton Mifflin.
 304 pages $5.

"I expect to live to be 100, and then, like Manuel Garcia, turn into a cigar," Charles Townsend Copeland said at intervals throughout his long tenancy in Harvard's Yard and heart. In a way, he was not so far off the mark. He lived to be 92, and what he turned into was a legend.

How and why the legend came to be is the story J. Donald Adams, Harvard '13, A.B., cum laude, tells in "Copey of Harvard," the first biography of the American teacher whose writing course produced more good writers than any other's. In the college year 1911-12 Mr. Adams took that famous English 12, made those fearsome journeys to the little man's quarters three flights up in Hollis Hall, sweated through the reading of a theme, heard the verdict — and came away a Copeland devotee.

But this is a biography, not an accolade. While Mr. Adams leaves no doubt of his own opinion of Copeland, and convincingly demonstrates that it has held by a majority of those with a right to cast a vote in the matter, he grants a hearing to still others who were well on this side of idolatry.

To some of Copeland's students — among them such notable-to-be as T.S. Eliot, Van Wyck Brooks, Conrad Aiken, John Dos Passos — he seemed ineffective for various reasons. His "insistence on adulation" was too much for Mr. Aiken; his penchant for journalistic effects in writing found no response in Mr. Brooks, and so on.

But to Bernard DeVoto, Walter Lippmann, Heywood Brown, Ben Lucien Burman, Brooks Atkinson, John Reed, Walter D. Edmonds and a host of others who felt his lash and knew his kindness at one point or another between 1893 and his retirement in 1928 — to these he was a superlative teacher. It is the considerable achievement of Mr. Adams' book that it makes entirely clear why Copeland failed with some, succeeded with others, and why it could not have been otherwise.

For as Mr. Adams proves by way of his own recollections and findings and revealing anecdotes by the score, and the compared impressions of many others, there were as many Copelands as there were

Little or No Summit Hope

By J. M. ROBERTS
 AP News Analyst

Nikita Khrushchev's pessimism and the glacial reception by the Soviet Parliament of news that an American plane has been shot down leaves the British as the only ones who are even whistling as the Big Four approach the summit graveyard.

The spectacle offered by the Supreme Soviet, bursting into applause when the Premier announced the plane shooting, is a truer indication of the state of world affairs than all of the words which have been passed back and forth about peace.

It is quite possible that Khrushchev and his rubber-stamp Parliament did not know at the time that the plane was a scientific research plane flown by a civilian.

But unless they are incredibly ignorant they did know one very important thing — that nobody need fear surprise attack by the United States. And they should have known that an attempt to stir up more bad blood than already aroused by the incident itself is bound to be taken by the world as a political effort to frighten the West before the summit conference.

Aside from the plane affair, the Khrushchev speech indicates his acceptance of the estimate already applied by most of the world to the chances of progress toward peace at the summit.

He should know better than anyone, since it is Soviet aggressiveness which has created the threatening issues to be discussed. There's little or no hope.

There will be many who will now believe that Khrushchev actually intends to run the risk of war over the issue of Berlin which he himself fabricated out of whole cloth a year and a half ago.

But deeper than any of these things runs the unchanging fact that the Soviet Union considers herself the implacable enemy of the Western world, and the heir to hegemony over all the world. All of her off-again on-again talk of peace cannot obscure that the peace she wants is the same kind Adolf Hitler wanted — an imposed peace of enslavement and her own aggrandizement.

But how can you make peace of any kind with people who applaud the deaths of innocent men and who actually welcome a serious international incident?

Ceremony at Noon in Abbey— Margaret To Wed Today

LONDON (AP)—At noon today Princess Margaret ends her years as a bachelor girl and becomes Mrs. Anthony Armstrong-Jones. A warm and sunny day was forecast.

Under British law, the Government is raising her allowance from $25,000 to $42,000 per year. She is 29 and he is 30. Thursday the princess and her wayward fiancé, a former photographer to the Royal Court, went through a solemn rehearsal at Westminster Abbey, where the Archbishop of Canterbury will pronounce them man and wife. Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip looked on.

The couple drove together to the ancient Abbey. The princess was seen twisting her diamond engagement ring while Armstrong-Jones twiddled his thumbs.

Later they were together for two hours during lunch at Clarence House, where Margaret shut herself away from the crowds.

At the dinner hour Armstrong-Jones left the princess and Queen Mother Elizabeth and headed out for a traditional wedding eve stag party. No one would say where it was being held or who was attending.

The party was arranged as a somewhat sedate affair for a few close friends.

Margaret, reported calm and relaxed, dined quietly with her mother.

Police estimated that a crowd of 80,000 filled the area around Buckingham Palace and Clarence House.

"It's like the coronation," said a harassed policeman. He referred to the gigantic outpouring of sentiment when Elizabeth was crowned in the Abbey in 1953.

Knocks of determined septuagenarians—some with food, drink and the family dog—bedded down along the route. A few took position more than 24 hours before the start of the ceremony.

Ships sailed up the Thames bringing more thousands. The band on one played an American musical comedy song, "Get Me to the Church on Time."

PRINCESS MARGARET WEDDING DAY

In the Abbey, workmen rushed last-minute preparations.

They tested the receiving sets in a closed-circuit television hookup inside the Abbey. Since the building is shaped like a crucifix, hundreds of people seated in the transepts will catch only a glimpse of Margaret and her groom and will watch the rites on TV screens—like millions more in Britain and throughout Europe.

Microphones were installed, hanging from the high-vaulted roof and concealed behind tall tapers on the high altar. They will pick up the "I will" of the ceremony and the words of the archbishop when he says: "Forasmuch as Anthony Charles Robert and Margaret Rose have consented together in holy wedlock . . . I pronounce that they be man and wife together."

Explosions of cheers and applause rose when the bridal pair arrived for the last rehearsal and again when the Queen and her husband and Princess Anne, their daughter, passed. Inside, the couple passed beneath the great medieval choir screen, newly gilded for the wedding. Walking on a thick, royal blue carpet, they approached five steps at the point where the nave and transept intersect. Two kneeling desks, covered with rose-colored damask, stood at the top of the steps.

The ceremony calls for Armstrong-Jones and his best man, Dr. Roger Gilliat, to be seated to the right of the kneeling desks before Margaret arrives.

Princess Anne, her nine-year-old niece, waits to the left. Her task is to hold Margaret's bouquet. The bride's hands must be free during the rites.

The Queen and Prince Philip take seats in huge, gilded oaken chairs on the right, between the kneeling desks and the high altar.

Margaret's wedding ring has been made from a nugget of Welsh gold—the same nugget used for the wedding ring of her mother and sister. Descriptions of her wedding dress have been published far and wide, but are still secret officially.

Once the Archbishop pronounces them man and wife, Margaret and Anthony rise and the two kneeling benches are removed. The Archbishop then conducts them to the high altar, about 10 yards away. There they kneel again while prayers are intoned and hymns are sung. Above their heads loom five candelabra, each holding six candles. A huge gold cross gleams in the center of the altar.

The chapel of Edward the Confessor, entered through a door on the right of the altar, is the scene of the next stage in the rites. There the registers are signed.

Silver trumpets sound a fanfare. The Queen and her husband return to their places in the royal chairs. Margaret curtsies. Armstrong-Jones bows.

Then the bridal procession begins, leading to the Abbey exit. Trumpeters, 80 choir boys, and others who assist in the ceremony, went through rehearsals, as did Margaret and Anthony.

Toward sundown Friday Margaret and Armstrong-Jones are scheduled to board the yacht Britannia for a honeymoon cruise in the Caribbean. It is supposed to last five weeks, but an admiralty executive says no date has been set for the ship's return to Britain.

When the newlyweds do return, they will live at Kensington Palace.

THESE NEWS IN SHOES: THE OPENED-UP SHOE

There is exciting news in summer shoes—free-form or opened-up shoes which I find as modern as our space age.

These new shoes are boldly cut out to make a dramatic design of foot and shoe. Straps sometimes crisscross or encircle the foot, exposing toes and heels. Others have wide-open sides or cut-outs that reveal the foot. All are intricately designed to cling to the foot and expose it to its best advantage.

When summer comes I believe these new, opened-up shoes will be a welcome change from the confining, closed-up pumps. For free-form shoes are cool, comfortable, and smart—everything we could wish for, especially when you add stacked heels for comfort.

THESE NEWS IN SHOES: THONG SANDALS

Newest of the new free-form shoes for summer is the bare thong sandal. As you know, this flat, strap-between-the-toe sandal has been a family "uniform" on the beaches in recent summers. Now it has gone "high hat" in high heels and white satin, black peau de soie, yes, and in gold kids, too. I'm sure you'll find it very popular this summer.

Of course, you may want thong-toe stockings that fit well and you can easily find them. Or, if you're sporting a good tan, you may prefer to go bare, legged.

Wilbur Schramm Writes Lead TV Guide Article
The lead article of this week's issue of the TV Guide was written by a former SUIowan, Wilbur Schramm. Schramm was director of the SUI School of Journalism from 1943 to 1947.
Schramm is the present director of the Institute for Communication Research, at Stanford University. His article, "What Does Your Child Bring To TV?" is the eighth in a series of articles by outstanding Americans written for the TV Guide. The series is entitled "Television As I See It."
His article states that the primary problem of children and TV is not what television does to the child, but what the child does to television. He says that none of the studies of the effect of television on children has come up with any evidence of a simple and direct effect that was very important.

Undefeated Hawkeye Golfers Meet Missouri Here Today

By GARY HICKOK
Staff Writer

The undefeated Iowa Hawkeye golf squad will be host to 20 players from Missouri, Minnesota and Wisconsin in a busy weekend of golf competition at South Finkbine course starting today.

Hawkeyes Host Northwestern, OSU, Notre Dame in Tennis

Still looking for its first Big Ten win, the Iowa tennis team goes into action here today at 1:30 p.m. in a quadrangular meet with Ohio State, Notre Dame and Northwestern. The meet, which will be played on the courts south of the Field House, is a two-day affair. Saturday's matches will begin at 9 a.m.

Frick Says Bill Would Kill Minors

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's bigwigs denounced a bill introduced by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) Thursday as one that would kill the minor leagues, stifle all incentive and reduce the quality of play.

Led by Commissioner Ford Frick, the majors' top brass denied Kefauver's claim they were hoarding players and refuted his charge that some of the clubs were controlling as many as 450 players.

A club-by-club inventory showed that the majors actually owned or controlled 3,084 players, an average of 193 a club. The most owned by any club are 275 players by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Kefauver's bill would forbid any club to own or control more than 100 players, and would require them once a year to offer at least 60 of them for unlimited draft to other clubs.

The bill also is designed to give minor league players some choice as to which major league team to play for, and to make it easier for the new Continental League to obtain necessary playing talent for its proposed start in 1961.

Only one baseball executive, President Phil Wrigley Jr., of the Chicago Cubs, expressed himself in favor of the bill.

"I am convinced the effect of this bill would eliminate minor league baseball," said Frick. "No major league club would be justified in conducting a scouting program, setting up a player development plan or signing players to a term contract if they are to be denied the reward of that investment."

"I think it's a good idea," said Wrigley. "The senator is picking up where Judge Landis left off. It's okay with me. I believe in competition."

and Radtke will not meet Wisconsin, which is bringing only six men. Zwienier was pleased with his team's performance in downing Notre Dame and Western Illinois last Monday. Strong winds and inaccurate putting hampered the Hawkeyes somewhat but Zwienier said the team members had been working on their putting and short game and should be in good shape for the weekend festivities.

In last Monday's triangular meet, Rule, current two-time Iowa Amateur champ, led the Hawkeyes with a five-over-par 149 despite the fact that he three-putted 10 greens. He split in his two matches.

Hird and Davis won their two matches while James split two and Barnhart tied one match and lost another in his first appearance as a varsity player. Holcomb, who will miss the Missouri meet while recuperating from a cold, dropped both his matches.

Lowman, junior transfer student from Mason City Junior College which won the mythical state golf championship last year, is the current champion of the Clear Lake, Iowa, invitational meet.

Dull, varsity basketball forward for the Hawkeyes this year, played in some varsity golf meets last year and won a major letter. Radtke earned a minor letter under Zwienier last season.

In one of Missouri's first meets this spring, the Tigers edged Washington University of St. Louis 9-6. Iowa's meet with Washington University last Saturday was called off after nine holes due to poor weather conditions. At that point, the Hawkeyes led Washington 6-0.

In the meet against Washington, Missouri started Tom Garrity, Don Dupke, Charles Van Dyne, Morris Jess and Rich Ferguson. It is not known whether they will be playing against the Hawkeyes.

Minnesota, coached by Les Bolstad, topped three St. Paul college opponents in its last outing by overwhelming scores. Carson Heron, captain of the Gophers, took individual honors in the meet with a one-under par 71. Junior Buzz Johnson carded a 74 to help the cause.

Wisconsin, in one of its first meets, beat Illinois 18-6. The Badgers copped sixth in the Big Ten meet last year behind fifth-place Iowa.

Notre Dame finished in a first place tie with Tulane in the National Intercollegiate tennis tournament last year. Despite graduation losses, the Irish remain one of the top teams in the country.

Northwestern should give them the toughest competition. The strong Wildcat squad boasts the services of transfer Denny Konicki. Konicki was the small college national champion in 1958 while playing for Eastern Illinois. Northwestern downed Iowa 6-3 at Minneapolis.

The quadrangular meet will actually consist of three separate dual meets, with each team playing all the other schools.

The Hawkeyes go into the meet with a 3-4 season record. In their last outing, they defeated Bradley 9-0.

14 Entered in Derby—'Still a 2-Horse Duel'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Fourteen names were dropped into the entry box at Churchill Downs Thursday for the 86th Kentucky Derby, but in the opinion of most observers the $125,000-added classic remains strictly a two-horse duel between Tompion and Bally Ache.

This has hardly been a deep secret for weeks, what with C. V. Whitney's Tompion having it rather easy with the California opposition and Leonard Fruchtmann's Bally Ache definitely the kingpin of Florida winter racing. On top of that, the rigors of racing had removed what might have been a lot more rivals.

Not that the 12 others in the mile and one-quarter are conceding anything as Louisville awaits the 4:30 p.m. (EST) start on Saturday.

Isaac Blumberg's Venetian Way, E. P. Taylor's Victoria Park, S. I. Crew's Cuvier Relic, and Calmet Farm's Hillsborough—if he starts—are given the best chance among the others.

However, Tompion was rated the 7-5 favorite in spite of his left field post position—No. 14 on the extreme outside. The Downs' handicapper made Bally Ache second choice at 5-2 in spite of the favorable No. 3 post for this speed demon. Tompion won the Santa Anita Derby, while Bally Ache copped the Flamingo and Florida Derby during the winter.

The post draw, weather and track conditions and the decision of Calumet trainer Jimmy Jones on Hillsborough's status must figure in who hauls down the jackpot, a $250,000 purse and a $5,000 gold cup.

One thing seems certain, Jockey Bobby Ussery will get Bally Ache out of the gate soon after the band blares "My Old Kentucky Home" and Willie Shoemaker on Tompion will have to do the catching.

Weather is a factor, for rain mud moves Bally Ache up. He won the Stepping Stone purse last Saturday, whipping Venetian Way 3/4 lengths on an off track. The forecast is for rain Friday, but clearing Saturday.

Venetian Way, with Bill Hartack up, is third choice at 6-1. Cuvier Relic, who finished second in Tuesday's Derby Trial, and the Canadian hope, Victoria Park, both were 15-1.

T. A. Grissom's Lurullah, Anthony Graffagnini's Tony Gratt, H. and S. Elmore's Henrijan, Adele L. Rand's Bourbon Prince, the Lianglong Farm's Divine Comedy, M. H. Van Berg's Spring Broker, the Valley Farm's Yomolka, and Mrs. C. S. Hodge's Fighting Hedge round out the field. The last three were placed in the parimutuel field for betting purposes since the tote board carries only 12 numbers. All will pack 126 pounds.

NEW YORK (AP)—End Kyle Rote has signed his 10th contract with the club and offensive tackle Roosevelt Brown his eighth, the New York Giants announced Thursday.

Rote, 32, former star at Southern Methodist, is the all-time Giant leader in pass reception yardage with 3,370. His 210 receptions include 32 for touchdowns.

Brown has been a unanimous all-league selection the last five years.

VENETIAN WAY, with Bill Hartack up, is third choice at 6-1. Cuvier Relic, who finished second in Tuesday's Derby Trial, and the Canadian hope, Victoria Park, both were 15-1.

Hawkeye 9 Seeking Initial Loop Win at Indiana Today

The Iowa baseball squad seeks its first Big Ten win of the season today as it takes on Indiana at Bloomington. The 3-game road trip is to be completed Saturday with a doubleheader at Ohio State.

The Hawkeyes are 0-1 in conference play and 3-10 for the season. The Hoosiers have a 1-1 Big Ten mark and a 10-5 season record.

Coach Otto Vogel is expected to go with senior righthander Roger Rudeen against the Hoosiers. Rudeen turned in a good mound performance against Michigan last week, but was the victim of lack of fielding and hitting support and dropped a 6-0 decision to the Wolverines.

Poor hitting and fielding has plagued the Hawkeyes all season. Only one Hawkeye regular, Don Peden, is hitting over the .300 mark. The veteran third baseman is stroking the ball at a good .357 mark.

Last week's Michigan game typified the Hawkeye troubles afield. Iowa committed five errors in the game and two Michigan runs came as a direct result of the miscues.

The Hawkeyes have a .239 team batting average as compared to Indiana's .259 mark. The Hoosiers have six regulars hitting .300 or better.

Indiana's pitching choice will be Paul Deem, who has a 3-0 record and a sparkling 1.50 earned run average.

In other Big Ten games today defending champion Minnesota (3-0) is at Ohio State (1-0), Illinois (3-3) is at Wisconsin (1-0), Michigan (3-3) is at Michigan State (1-3) and Purdue (1-2) is at Northwestern (0-1).

Saturday's games (all doubleheaders) find Minnesota at Indiana, Michigan at Michigan State, Purdue at Wisconsin and Illinois at Northwestern.

Weather has already complicated the conference schedule. Last Saturday twin bills were cancelled at Iowa, Wisconsin and Purdue. No provision is made for rescheduling.

Warriors' Gottlieb: Wilt Might Return

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—There is a 50-50 chance that Wilt Chamberlain will return to the Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association next season, Warriors' owner Eddie Gottlieb said Thursday.

Gottlieb told a luncheon group, "Wilt may or may not be back with us. But right now I would say chances are 50-50 he'll be back. In fact, the odds might be more in our favor than even."

Gottlieb leaves for Europe late this month to supervise a tour of the Harlem Globetrotters. Under terms of a contract signed with the Trotters, Chamberlain will join the troupe the first week in June.

Chamberlain announced in March after the Warriors were eliminated from the NBA playoffs by Boston in the semifinals that he would not play in the NBA next season.

Top Braves 4-3 in 10 Dodgers H

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rookie Bob Aspromonte broke up the game with a 10th-inning single and the Los Angeles Dodgers pulled out of a four-game losing streak Thursday by dropping the Milwaukee Braves 4-3.

The Dodgers loaded the bases in the 10th with none out. Reliever Bob Rush retired two men before Aspromonte bounced his single up the middle, scoring Wally Moon.

The Dodgers, trailing 3-0 after six innings, went into the game with nine losses in their last 12 times out.

Mel Roach smashed his first homer of the year for the Braves with one aboard in the second and Hank Aaron his fifth with the bases empty in the sixth. Aspromonte and Don Demeter slammed bases empty homers for the Dodgers in the seventh.

Home runs — Milwaukee, Roach (3-1), Aaron (5); Los Angeles, Demeter (4), Aspromonte (1).

Indians 11, Orioles 6

BALTIMORE (AP)—Tito Francona's first homer of the season and his two doubles led a 15-hit Cleveland offense Thursday night for an 11-6 victory over the Baltimore Orioles who scared the Indians briefly after their rookie pitcher Wynn Hawkins was hit by a line drive on his right shoulder.

The liner off the bat of Jim Gentile in the eighth inning bounded high in the air all the way out to right field after hitting Hawkins. Although the 24-year-old right-hander did not appear to have suffered a disabling injury, he was replaced by Bob Grim.

The Orioles smashed four straight hits off him for as many runs to trail by 9-6. It was an uproarious inning with Manager Paul Richards of the Orioles being banished for arguing with Umpire Al Smith.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Philadelphia right-hander Jim Owens allowed only five hits Thursday night as he defeated the Cardinals 3 to 1.

It was just the third defeat for the St. Louis club during a 12-game home stand in which the Redbirds previously had averaged better than seven runs a game.

Pancho Herrera's homer after two were out in the fourth inning, followed by Wally Post's double and Ken Walters' circuit blow gave Owens the three runs, one more than he needed for his second victory.

ChiSox 5, Senators 3

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roy Sievers returned to his old slugging ground Thursday night and immediately walloped a two-run homer that launched the Chicago White Sox to a 5-3 victory over the Washington Senators.

The victory lifted the Sox into a virtual tie with the idle New York Yankees for first place in the American League.

Siever's smash, after Minnie Mingo walked in the first inning, landed in the left field bleachers, the usual place for his homers at Griffith Stadium before Washington traded him to Chicago.

Earl Battey, one of the White Sox obtained for Sievers, made it an even exchange with a ninth-inning homer but by then Chicago had it wrapped up.

Indians 11, Orioles 6

BALTIMORE (AP) — Tito Francona's first homer of the season and his two doubles led a 15-hit Cleveland offense Thursday night for an 11-6 victory over the Baltimore Orioles who scared the Indians briefly after their rookie pitcher Wynn Hawkins was hit by a line drive on his right shoulder.

The liner off the bat of Jim Gentile in the eighth inning bounded high in the air all the way out to right field after hitting Hawkins. Although the 24-year-old right-hander did not appear to have suffered a disabling injury, he was replaced by Bob Grim.

The Orioles smashed four straight hits off him for as many runs to trail by 9-6. It was an uproarious inning with Manager Paul Richards of the Orioles being banished for arguing with Umpire Al Smith.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Philadelphia right-hander Jim Owens allowed only five hits Thursday night as he defeated the Cardinals 3 to 1.

It was just the third defeat for the St. Louis club during a 12-game home stand in which the Redbirds previously had averaged better than seven runs a game.

Pancho Herrera's homer after two were out in the fourth inning, followed by Wally Post's double and Ken Walter's circuit blow gave Owens the three runs, one more than he needed for his second victory.

ChiSox 5, Senators 3

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roy Sievers returned to his old slugging ground Thursday night and immediately walloped a two-run homer that launched the Chicago White Sox to a 5-3 victory over the Washington Senators.

The victory lifted the Sox into a virtual tie with the idle New York Yankees for first place in the American League.

Siever's smash, after Minnie Minoso walked in the first inning, landed in the left field bleachers, the usual place for his homers at Griffin Stadium before Washington traded him to Chicago.

Earl Battey, one of the White Sox obtained for Sievers, made it an even exchange with a ninth-inning homer but by then Chicago had it wrapped up.

Boudreau Takes Cub Reins; Drabowsky 'No. 1 Project'

CHICAGO (AP) — Lou Boudreau, onetime boy wonder American League manager, Thursday took over the Chicago Cubs reins with a lineup shakeup and a promise to make pitcher Moe Drabowsky his "No. 1 project."

Moryn reportedly was in the doghouse of Charley Grimm, who Wednesday stepped down as manager in favor of Boudreau. Cub "color" broadcaster who formerly managed Cleveland, Boston and Kansas City in the American League.

At least, Moryn — a .271 hitter in over four Cub seasons — was not playing for Grimm as the Cubs won 6 of their first 17 games.

Thomas, acquired last December from the Cincinnati Reds, played first base at times during his six-year career with the Pirates.

Boudreau moved Ernie Banks from fourth to third in the lineup, put Moryn in the cleanup spot and Thomas, fifth. Banks and Thomas each have five home runs and are right-handed batters. Moryn, who had a Cub homer high of 26 in 1958, is a left-handed batter.

"I figure sticking Moryn between Banks and Thomas will give us better distribution of right-handed power," said Boudreau.

Drabowsky, extremely wild, has appeared in 5 games, but has pitched only 3 innings, yielding 9 runs.

"He has to turn his body more and learn to keep the ball low," said Boudreau. "Most of all, he must get some confidence. He's my No. 1 project."

Giants' Bats Boom Big On Wall Street Ticker

NEW YORK (HTNS) — The weather served up a breezy, balmy day on Wall Street — perfect for baseball — but the only place the Giants were playing was over-the-counter.

Ever since the Giants left New York in the fall of 1957 for San Francisco (and fatter gates), many a broker and banker has looked sad down in the financial district. In addition to being the home of Capitalism, Wall Street is the lair of the true baseball rooster. On World Series days, nearly everybody takes a two-hour lunch.

But 19 floors above the sunbaked pavements, broker Elbridge H. Smith smiled happily as a Giant fan. He keeps his hand in baseball while working as a partner in the securities firm of Stryker & Brown.

In a corporate sense, the Giants appear as National Exhibition Company, which trades as an unlisted stock in units consisting of one common and one preferred share. Mr. Smith makes a market in the stock.

"Just sold two units at $825," sang out Mr. Smith. In his shirt sleeves he looked just like a bleacher fan. In front of him sat seven telephones and a clacking ticker.

"Most of the buying comes from San Francisco," said Mr. Smith. "The market is thin, but we always get activity at the start of the season."

"Back in February it dropped as low as $775 per unit. The all-time high was $900 last September when the Giants looked like a shoo-in for the National League pennant." But the Giants collapsed in the LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Willie Pastrano is coming back to the heavyweight ranks Friday night hoping to even matters with Alonzo Johnson.

Pastrano, who fights out of New Orleans, dropped a close decision to Johnson when they met here last July. Afterwards, Johnson, from Braddock, Pa., dropped three bouts in a row and fell from the top 10 list of heavyweights.

Student Life Series—

What About Regulations At Foreign Universities?

By DAROLD POWERS
Staff Writer

The Daily Iowan's series on the Code of Student Life continues today with a look at student regulations in foreign countries.

What would a Code of Student Life be like in India — on in Brazil, England, Indonesia, France or the Philippines?

Several graduate students from other countries were asked by The Daily Iowan whether colleges in their home lands have regulations similar to SU's Code of Student Life.

Some do and some don't.

Christopher Ellison, Leicester, England, reported that England has such regulations but that enforcement is more lax there than in the United States. Illustrating this point, he recounted that at Cambridge, where men have to be back on the campus by midnight, a student who was climbing over the wall after the gate had been locked out his hand on jagged glass set into the top of the wall. He complained about cutting himself, and the administration removed the glass from the wall to prevent recurrence of such accidents.

Ellison said the rules at Bristol, where he attended, prohibited apartments for students under 21 but that students took apartments anyway and simply called them rooms.

He said at Bristol girls had to be in at 10 p.m. and boys at midnight but that there were more ways to get around these hours at Bristol than at SU.

Ellison said men were permitted in the girls' dormitory rooms for tea. Although they were supposed to leave by 10:30 p.m., he said all that happened to them if they didn't was that they had to leave by the fire escape.

He said that men who practiced "bed-hopping" were considered immoral but that if a boy and girl took an apartment together without marrying they were considered moral and the college would take no action against them. They would be invited to student-faculty gatherings as a married couple.

Ellison said among his acquaintances at Bristol were five such couples.

Vivienne Fraser, Sao Paulo, Brazil, reported that none of Brazil's educational colleges have their own dormitories, and that most of the students live at home in the same city. She said the college she attended made no regulations over students' housing.

Jai Goel, Calcutta, India, attended Benares Hindu University. He said the campus was enclosed and the gate was locked at midnight. If a student returned after midnight, a faculty court could fine him.

Goel reported that as of 1954, the last year he was at Benares, women had to be in the dorms at 9 p.m. Boys could call on them in the dorms twice weekly, but boys and girls could go out together in the evenings only once a week. They might be fined if this rule were violated. Goel explained that in India the dating system is not nearly so important in choosing a mate as it is in the United States.

Indonesia does not go so far in regulation of dorms as U.S. colleges do. He said the school he attended in Bandung — the Training College for Secondary School Teachers — did not regulate off-campus housing.

Jose Gallardo, Pampanga, Philippines, said that only one college in the Philippines owns its own dorms. Therefore, in Philippine colleges 95 per cent of the students live off campus. He said colleges do not regulate housing or set hours for girls.

Students can live in private or church dorms, though, and these may make their own rules. In most of these, he said, it was lights-out at 10 p.m. He also said about half the coeds' parents requested the dorms to make individual restrictions on the visits to their daughters by boys and that the dorms would comply. Some dorms, he said, allowed girls visitors only during certain hours.

Exhibits at Comm. Center

The Third Annual Exhibition of Advertising and Editorial Arts will be shown at the SUI Communications Center from May 9 to 28.

Purpose of the touring exhibit, sponsored by the Art Directors Association of Iowa (ADAI), is to "help make known the wealth of commercial art ability that exists in Iowa."

The large exhibit includes scores of examples of advertising techniques used successfully in news, papers, magazines, television, posters, direct mail, and other kinds of publications.

Officers of the sponsoring organization said that the show is considered "truly statewide in scope," with entries included from major graphic art centers in Iowa.

Last year's exhibit, some 142 entries, was shown first in Des Moines and then toured Iowa, being shown at SUI, Iowa State University of Science and Technology the Davenport Municipal Art Gallery, and the Sioux City Art Center. Results of the first two exhibits encouraged association members to undertake a bigger exhibition this year.

Among the current ADAI members are Dale Ballantyne, designer, SUI publications, and two SUI alumni, Frank Deitch of Look Magazine and L. K. Sharp Jr., of Meredith Publishing Co.

The Iowa association has affiliated with the National Society of Art Directors, one of the largest professional art groups in North America.

Seven-Man Air Force Helicopter Treats ROTC

SUI Air Force ROTC students and officers were treated to a ride in a seven-man Air Force helicopter Wednesday afternoon.

Capt. Bernard Westfall, USAF, instructor in air science, arranged to have the helicopter flown here from its base at Triax Air Force Base at Madison, Wis.

Several 20-minute flights were made by the helicopter around Iowa City. On each trip the helicopter carried three passengers, he pilot and co-pilot.

Jaycees Set Driving Rodeo

Iowa City teenage drivers will have an opportunity to show their driving skills at the ninth annual Teenage Safe Driving Rodeo May 14.

The rodeo, sponsored by the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce, is designed to test a driver's ability to maneuver an auto around set obstacles in the street. The participants in the contest are also required to take a written test on safe driving rules.

The rodeo will be held on Clinton Street between Iowa Avenue and Jefferson Street at 1 p.m. The written part of the contest will be held at 11 a.m. in the Chamber of Commerce office.

An annual Jaycee event staged throughout the country, the rodeo is open to all unmarried boys and girls with a valid driver's license who will not have reached their 18th birthday by August 1, 1960. The local winner will compete in the state finals at Humboldt, May 22. The national finals will be held in August in Washington, D.C.

The Iowa City Champion and two runner-ups will be presented with plaques.

Psych Conference For Social Text Book Writers

A preventive psychiatric conference for authors, editors, and publishers of social studies texts will be held at SUI today. The conference will deal with a fundamental problem in human development: devising ways in which the child can acquire an appreciation of the basic forces operating in his social environment. Professor Ralph Ojemann is chairman for the conference.

Representatives of 13 publishers, including editors, field representatives and authors, are expected to attend the one-day meeting. A small group of invited observers, experimental teachers from the preventive psychiatric research program at SUI, will also attend.

The conference will consider topics which are or may be included in social studies texts and the types of research studies which may be used to show the factors underlying or causing behavior.

The conference will study methods for incorporating the findings of research in behavior dynamics relative to such topics as: conservation of natural resources, crime and delinquency, development of citizenship, communication (mass communication, propaganda, and pressure groups), safety, the family, physical environment and human development, education, consumer behavior, and the monetary system.

Hard Work on Way Up

There is a janitor in Burge Hall who does a very thorough job.

One morning recently he had to scrub the doors of one of the elevators in the dormitory. After collecting his bucket and rags, he stepped on the elevator and punched the button for the second floor. On the way up he washed the elevator door. Then he got off the elevator on the second floor, and when the door had closed he scrubbed it.

When he finished, he punched the "up" button again, got on, and while the elevator was going to the fourth floor, he scrubbed the door.

The whole pattern was repeated once more. When the janitor finished, he was on the fifth floor of Burge.

"By golly," he said, "I think I have washed the same inside elevator door four times."

Marine Exercise At Reservoir

Coralville Reservoir will be the site of a round-the-clock field exercise of the Waterloo-Cedar Rapids Marine Reservists this weekend. The purpose of the exercise is to stress the importance of small unit tactics and night combat.

The field problem will be enhanced by the use of aggressor forces from the headquarters section of the Marine Reserve unit. Captain E. A. McGuire, commanding officer, explained the aggressors' job will be to hit, run and generally harass the remaining Marines of the unit who will be classified as assault troops for the two-day maneuver.

McGuire said that the upcoming operation is another in a series of planned field exercises for local Marine Reservists.

Princeton Economist: U.S. Can Afford More for Defense

The United States can support added defense costs, even to the point of 14 per cent of the Gross National Product (total national income) and still enjoy rising consumption levels, a Princeton University economist told an SU audience Thursday.

In presenting the second Shambaugh Lecture on "The Costs of National Security," Klaus Eugen Knorr, associate director of the Princeton Center for International Studies, emphasized that the United States could increase national expenditure on defense by half — "if the United States avoided business recessions and diverted to defense a sizeable proportion of each year's growth in national product."

Knorr said that future defense spending at current or higher levels is necessary because of Sino-Soviet economic expansion and its implication for American security, the high cost of maintenance of strategic weapons, rapid obsolescence of military equipment and the significant fact that the United States is politically committed to retaliatory instead of offensive action.

Knorr emphasized that a major part of the problem is not whether the American economy can stand added and continued defense expenditures, but whether the American public is willing to spend more money for national defense.

"When a person is unprepared to pay high taxes, even if for defense, it is easier for him to maintain his self-respect, and the respect of fellow citizens, if, instead of admitting his reluctance to provide enough for national security, he can oppose high taxation for defense on the ground that it would harm the economy," he said.

The future as far as national security is concerned does not look bright, the Shambaugh lecturer concluded. "The toughest part of the burden arises from the fact that the possibility of national obliteration cannot be removed by the incantation of, 'It cannot happen.'"

Study Grant Affects SUI

A $50,000 grant to study physical facilities at the Big Ten Universities and the University of Chicago has been awarded by the Educational Facilities Laboratories, Inc., New York City, a nonprofit corporation established by the Ford Foundation in 1958. The study, which will include SUI, will be conducted by the Committee on Institutional Cooperation, which includes representatives from the eleven universities.

Provost Harvey H. Davis, SUI representative on the committee, explained, "Information gained in the study may serve as a guide at SUI for getting the most educational value for the money in constructing and equipping new buildings."

According to information received by Provost Davis, the first step in the study is the establishment of a University Facilities Research Center to be headquartered at Purdue University.

Inter-Religious Council To Have Meeting Monday

The Inter-Religious Council will hold an open meeting at Wesley Foundation, 120 North Dubuque Street, in Room 207, Monday at 9 p.m.

The council, which coordinates the activities of various campus religious groups, will discuss Religion-in-Life week.

An election was held at the last meeting of the council. The new officers are: chairman, Ron Resch, A2, Independence, Mo.; vice chairman, Joe Lenguardo, G, Chicago; secretary, Kelli Shor, A1, Davenport; and treasurer, Doris Waterhouse, A2, Central City.

Other members of the council are: John Niemeyer, A2, Elkader; Arthur Small Jr., G, Brunswick, Me.; Myra Cohen, N1, Council Bluffs; and Sue Christner, A1, Shenandoah.

SUI Flyers Seek Trophies

Members of the SUI Flying Club will take off for Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday to compete in the National Intercollegiate Air Meet to be held at the Ohio State University Airport Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The Flying Club will compete with teams from 30 to 40 other colleges and universities for thirty trophies and other special prizes. There will be awards for accuracy in power-on and power-off spot landings, precision navigation, and bomb dropping accuracy.

The "bombs" will be paper sacks filled with lime and will be dropped at a target from 200 feet up.

Trophies will also be awarded for outstanding male and outstanding women pilots, high scoring team, safety, and most active club. The SUI student flyers will be in the running for several of these prizes. In addition, they can sponsor a candidate for "Sky Queen" who will reign over the three-day event.

The SUI team will start home Sunday, May 15th.

'The Flies'

—But Production Interesting

By JAMES ELLIS
Daily Iowan Reviewer

In The Flies, Sartre presents the same existential dilemma as in No Exit, but whereas the hero in the latter play fails, in The Flies Orestes sloughs off his intellectual lack of involvement and revenges his father's murder. Last night's production of The Flies marked the second time in two years that the Greek myth of the Atridae has been presented at the Studio Theatre, last year having witnessed Hofmannsthal's Electra. Sartre's is a far more profound and fundamental reworking of the myth, however, with the conditions of Vichy France clearly penetrating the thought. In ways, especially in the painfully obvious irony and underscoring of the events of the myth, Sartre's play is reminiscent of Cocteau's The Infernal Machine.

The translation, by director Gerald Horn, is a free-flowing, extremely colloquial one which plays remarkably well. Compared with Stuart Gilbert's "sanctimonious ruffian" (Orestes' epithet for Aegisthus), Horn's "conniving bastard" sounds like John Osborn. Occasionally the language suffers from being too petulant or too casual, but in general it flows easily. Horn has also made some judicious cuts in the script which keep the pace up and prevent the audience from pondering too long over Sartre's often hazy application of his philosophy and the ambiguous position in which he places Zeus, his "kings ex-Olympia."

The Studio Theatre was well utilized as a three-quarter arena stage, though I suspect not all views were equally good. Handling of the chorus of People of Argos, especially in their opening groans and in their later groans before the cave from which the dead they have wronged are to emerge, was smooth and effective. Most praiseworthy was the death tableau of Clytemnestra and Aegisthus. Its effectiveness aided by excellent lighting. Unfortunately, the end of the scene was marred by the necessity on such a stage to "lug the guts" off, which forced the scene to end in a low key.

The acting was in every instance competent, though not always much beyond the level. In fact, there was a noticeable erratic quality in the performances of Mona Levin as Electra, David Thompson as Aegisthus, and Robert Meadors as Zeus. Looking more like a Greek call-girl (complete with falling shoulder strap) than a slave in the palace at Argos, Miss Levin gave a wholly convincing interpretation in her more emotional scenes, but seemed to go suddenly slack in the less intense parts. As Zeus, Mr. Meadors lacked in the first scenes the authority and power which his role demanded, but succeeded in Act III to produce the right effect. Mr. Thompson's Aegisthus was not clearly a tired king, a weak king, or a troubled king, any one of which he might well have been.

Fine performances were given by Shirley Ahern as Clytemnestra and Dennis Jones as Orestes. Miss Ahern showed a queenly bearing, delivering lines as majestically as she raised a hand or pointed a finger. Mr. Jones, as the existential hero, played over a wide range of emotions which were almost invariably correct for the scene. The one weakness in his interpretation was that his opening scene was played far too engage to enable him to show a sufficient contrast in the later scenes when he finally makes the existential decision.

In an effort to end flooding on the Iowa River below the Coralville Dam, army engineers at the reservoir Friday cut the discharge rate from 8500 to 6500 cubic feet per second.

The chief of the army corps of engineers in Washington, D.C., ordered the reduction following a request by Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa). The engineers emphasized that this is only an emergency action.

A detailed study will have to be made before any permanent change in the operation of the reservoir can be made. Lieut. Gen. E.

Paper Economy Is

Do You

By DAROLD POWERS
Staff Writer

Five, four, three, two, ONE... Click!
A 10-inch swatch of paper towel is propelled out of its case into the eagerly-twitching hands of a hapless SUJowan.
"Ahh!" he rips the towel from its moorings. He crumples it with a harsh grin of revenge and then throws it onto the floor and stamps on it.

No use wiping his hands on the paper — they were dried by evaporation long before the paper was launched. He marches disgustedly out of the First-Floor Men's Room of the Main Library, muttering to himself about the University's zeal to save paper.

SUI's paper towel supply seems to be guarded by mechanical timers in gleaming white cases. One swatch of towel is enough for only one hand, and the second hand sort of has to drip until the next click. But sometimes the machines get slightly out of whack — like, maybe every five minutes.

Or more. Like, Thursday evening the mechanism in the towel box in the Main Library First-Floor Men's Room had stopped feeding out paper, period. All night long, angry students had to dry their hands on the lapels of their monogrammed sweatshirts.

But it wasn't always that way. It used to be... 12 seconds between the little swatches of paper. Even then, someone resented this indignity and scratched "Yai!" on top of the paper mechanism in the aforementioned room.

Another student, probably late
