Katanga Planes Sent Aloft, Defy U.N. Airport Control

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo — Katanga Province defied the United Nations Friday and sent planes aloft to help combat the Congolese Army spearhead Premier Patrice Lumumba has sent into the rebel province from the north.

Gunpoint persuasion of U.N. Swedish guards to permit the takeoff of two military aircraft from Elisabethville, Katanga's capital, knocked a hole in the U.N. Command order closing all Congolese airports to non-U.N. traffic. Two more Katanga Army light planes defied the ban later in the day.

Lumumba, who doesn't like the order either, has demanded that the U.N. yield control over the airports and Radio Leopoldville or leave the country.

He drew Guinean support in his fight against the U.N. Guinea's Congo mission, headed by Tibou Toukara, announced it has proposed to President Sekou Toure the withdrawal of the Guinean battalion from Maj. Gen. Carl von Horn's 16,000-man U.N. command. The battalion, totaling 750, is based north of Leopoldville in Equator Province.

Toukara said the withdrawal was proposed because of what he called U.N. support of President Joseph Kasavubu in the governmental feud that flared Monday. Kasavubu declared Lumumba a traitor, and Lumumba declared Kasavubu fired. Parliament voided both decrees and said they should keep their jobs. In the interval the U.N. took over Radio Leopoldville and closed the airports.

The Belgian radio said Lumumba has fired his foreign minister, Justin Bomboko, and the minister-resident in Belgium, Albert Kelux. They countersigned the decree by which Kasavubu sought to oust the premier.

Militarily, the Congo crisis centered, in this 71st day of the territory's life as a free nation, at the frontier of Katanga and Kivu Province.

Both are eastern neighbors of battle-torn Kasai, where secessionists are fighting Congolese Army units.

U.N. Mali troops based at Kongolo, 30 miles south of the border, said 300 or more of Lumumba's infantrymen crossed the frontier river of Luika from Kivu Thursday.

Katanga Government sources said the invaders evidently intended to move on Kongo, but failed to get any vehicles across the river and that their advance was stalled. No fighting was reported.

The regime of Premier Moise Tshombe, who declared mineral-rich Katanga independent of the central Government in July, said it had to get planes in the air to meet the invasion threat, centered about 450 miles north of Elisabethville.

Katanga army men — Negro soldiers and white officers — forced the U.N. Swedish guards at gunpoint to permit the takeoff of the first two small planes, each carrying two men and some supplies. The Swedes were reported to have helped in removing obstacles on the runway.

U.S. Calls New Berlin Block Illegal

WASHINGTON — The United States Friday called "completely illegal" the Communist closing of East Berlin to West Germans. It consulted Western Allies on what steps to take.

The Western strategy huddle of the U.S., British and French ambassadors with West German representatives at Bonn may result in a Western protest to Moscow.

It was understood that Western authorities have not yet decided whether to go further and take such countermeasures as clamping down on trade with East Germany, if the East Berlin action is not rescinded.

U.S. officials seemed to be not quite as alarmed as the West Germans over the latest Communist action. American informants felt it might be mainly another instance of Red muscle-flexing designed to show power over Communist — encircled Berlin.

West German Ambassador Wilhelm G. Grewe called on Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. Grewe said later he sees the Berlin move as part of a pattern of "slow strangulation" by the Reds.

Starting Friday citizens of West Germany who wish to visit relatives, do business or just go sightseeing in Berlin's Soviet sector must apply for permission before hand. The Communists opened five control points, at which police permits valid for 12 hours may be obtained. Normally about 2,000 West Germans a day visit the Eastern sector of the city.

The order does not apply to foreigners or permanent German residents of the city. The Allies insist that only they and the Russians have the final say on what goes on in Berlin. But the question is what can the West do to force the Communists to call off their restrictions?

What bothered some Berliners was what might happen in the future. If the Communists could get away with barring West Germans from the East part of the city, they could bar West Berliners tomorrow — and Allied troops the day after.

Road Machines Block House In I.C. Street

Controversy over movement of a house in the path of an Iowa City street construction project flared again Friday.

The controversy apparently centers around house mover Max Yocum, the Iowa Highway Commission and the J. D. Armstrong Co., contractors of a street widening project.

Yocum tried to move the house in question, a duplex, Friday morning but was stopped when two earth moving machines owned by the Armstrong company blocked its path.

District Court Judge James P. Gaffney previously had ordered Yocum to move the house.

To complicate matters, the Iowa Highway Commission has obtained a temporary injunction against Yocum and Armstrong, restraining them from moving the house.

The Commission contends it owns the house and that it merely directed Armstrong to demolish it, since it lies in the path of a street being constructed in connection with a widening project.

The commission further contends that any sale or transfer of the house by either Armstrong or the Irving F. Jensen Co., another contractor on the widening project, was unauthorized and that Yocum was not authorized by the commission to move the house.

Yocum maintains, however, that he acquired title to the duplex from the Armstrong firm. The Armstrong Company declines comment.

Regents Name 2 Attorneys in SUI Union Annex Suit

CEDAR FALLS — Two attorneys were named by the State Board of Regents Friday to represent it in a suit which would prohibit the board's financing of additions to the Memorial Union at SUI.

Herschel Langdon of Des Moines and Arthur Lef, SUI law lecturer and Practice Court assistant, will serve as counsel for the board in a petition pending in Polk County District Court.

The petition was filed by the Iowa Restaurant Association, the Iowa Hotel Association and several individuals who are protesting the board's proposal to add dining activities unit to Memorial Union.

Echo Signals 'Black Out'

WASHINGTON — Echo, the 100-foot-diameter sphere satellite, has quit sending radio beacon signals when it is in darkness.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), announcing this Friday, said the satellite's storage batteries apparently have failed.

For that reason, the two 107.94-megacycle, radio-tracking beacons operate only in sunlight, when they are receiving energy directly from the 70 solar cells carried on each transmitter assembly.

Even though the giant space ball now chatters only when in the sun, it will continue to be used for communication experiments, NASA said.

NASA said radar measurements show that the satellite has retained its spherical shape, with only a slight wrinkling of its thin, aluminum-coated plastic skin and is still an excellent reflector of radio signals.

Riverside Drive Gets First of New Concrete

Pouring of concrete on the Riverside Drive widening project was started Friday at the Iowa Avenue intersection.

Sororities Start Activities Tomorrow

Expect 300 Men, 550 Coeds at SUI For 5-Day Program

By JERRY PARKER
Staff Writer

As the formal rushing periods for social fraternities and sororities begin this weekend the second major influx of SUI students descends on Iowa City. Latest figures released by the Office of Student Affairs show some 550 coeds and 300 men are expected to participate in the two programs.

Active members of SUI's 13 sororities and 20 fraternities arrived in Iowa City early this week to prepare for the rushees they will be entertaining.

Registration for fraternity rush is being held this morning at the South Quadrangle dormitory. Rushees are to attend an orientation meeting this afternoon at 1:30 in MacBride Auditorium. Immediately following the meeting rushees will be divided into groups to begin the first session of 45 minute visits which will take them to each of the 20 chapter houses Saturday and Sunday.

Rushees may visit six fraternities daily on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. These dates are to be filled by invitation. Following each day's activities, fraternities will prepare a list of those rushees in which they are interested. These lists will be posted in the rushees' dormitories before the next day's rush dates begin.

On Wednesday between 8:30 p.m. and midnight rushees may visit whatever houses they prefer, and stay as long as they choose.

Invitations to pledge will be distributed beginning at 10 a.m. on Thursday Sept. 15, at the Quadrangle Lounge. After accepting the bid of their choice the men will be taken immediately to their respective fraternities for pledging ceremonies and congratulations from their newly acquired brothers.

Coeds interested in sorority life will begin rushing activities tomorrow. Registration is to be held at Currier and Burge Halls where women rushees will be housed. The first two days of sorority rush will also be devoted to "merry-go-round" parties wherein each girl gets to see each sorority, and vice versa.

On Tuesday through Thursday each sorority will give invitational parties. Rushees may attend seven parties on Tuesday, five parties on Wednesday, and three Thursday morning. Thursday evening two preference parties have been scheduled.

Sorority rushees will receive their bids Friday afternoon at 4:30 at their dormitories, a ceremony traditionally witnessed by a high percentage of Iowa fraternity men. Ecstatic coeds then rush to the waiting arms of their new sisters to receive pledge pins and make things official.

Friday evening, Sept. 16, a party will be held in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union beginning at 8:30 in honor of all new sorority and fraternity pledges.

Set by I.F.C., Panhellenic Groups— Rushees' Code of Rules

By JERRY PARKER
Staff Writer

Whether you are experiencing your first rush week or an old hand at the process — prepare to toe the line. The Panhellenic and Interfraternity rush committees have each issued stringent codes of procedure which are to be followed to the letter during the six day rushing periods.

To list a few prime examples, from Sunday until Friday when women's Greek housing units will be considering new members, all contact between rushees and a member of the opposite gender is strictly forbidden. Not even male board jobbers will be allowed to help out at sorority rush parties.

Other taboos characteristic of sorority rush include, no souvenirs to be taken from rush parties. So girls, don't stuff a potato chip in your purse to munch on later and be sure and leave your name tag at the door.

Sororities are forbidden to furnish transportation to rushees, and must do all entertaining in living, dining, and recreation areas of the chapter houses — don't ask to see the shower room.

Sororities may not serve refreshments until the third day of the rushing period, when a beverage and one "accompaniment" such as crackers or potato chips is allowed. On preference night, the last evening of rush, they are allowed to get really reckless and serve ice cream or cake.

Naturally, there will be absolutely no communication between sorority members and rushees except during parties.

Interfraternity regulations may seem to be equally restrictive. No persons with the exception of IFC Rush Committee members, policemen, and rushees will be allowed inside of rushees' dormitory living quarters during rush week. Rush

Water and Rooms Unheated— Coed Dorms Real Cool

When 500 new SUI coeds write home to tell their parents that they're getting off to a "real cool" start on the campus, they'll be telling the literal truth.

The girls will be checking in at Burge and Currier Halls, women's dormitories this weekend to begin sorority "Rush Week." For most of next week, if not all of it, they'll wash in cool — if not cold — water, sleep in unheated rooms, eat from paper plates and drink from paper cups.

The "extended picnic" is caused by the installation of a new and larger steam line to serve buildings at the northern edge of campus, including Burge and Currier Halls. Although scheduled for completion before any students went to occupy the dormitories, the work was delayed and no steam can be turned into the line before the latter, part of next week, SUI dormitory officials say.

The new steam line is part of a $1.5 million utilities modernization program now under way at the University, involving renovation of old distribution lines and improvement of heat and water production to meet the needs of a campus which has grown beyond the capacity of the original utility systems.

Kennedy Criticizes Racial, Religious Discrimination

LOS ANGELES — Sen. John F. Kennedy Friday night lashed out at racial and religious discrimination in this nation — and was strongly critical of those "who for religious reasons question my loyalty to the United States."

Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, brought his campaign to Los Angeles with a major speech on civil rights in the Shrine Auditorium. There he strongly criticized the Republican party which, he said, "has failed to take one constructive step toward guaranteeing equal opportunity to all Americans."

And at an airport news conference held on his arrival here he defended his right to serve as President.

The subject came up when a reporter asked him about a statement adopted in Washington two days ago by Protestant laymen and ministers.

This questioned whether "a Roman Catholic President would be able to withstand altogether the determined hierarchy of his Church . . . and whether it would breach the wall of separation of church and state."

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, New York pastor and writer, told a news conference at that time that he thinks Kennedy is a loyal son of the Catholic Church.

"We're just raising the question," Dr. Peale said, "as to how free he could be."

Kennedy showed obvious irritation when he was asked if he would respond to Dr. Peale's comment.

"No," the Democratic presidential nominee said, "I wouldn't respond to Dr. Peale."

Nixon Out Of Hospital

Doctors earlier had pronounced him in good shape to kick off his fall campaign, a Nixon aide said.

The vice president had been due to leave the hospital today but the doctors agreed to let him go home Friday night, Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press secretary said.

Klein said the vice president's recuperation was just as doctors had forecast and they believe "he will be in good shape to go through this campaign as scheduled."

The Republican presidential nominee will start out Monday from Baltimore's Friendship Airport, where Klein said one of the biggest GOP rallies of the year will be held.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold Friday night asked the U.N. Security Council to decide whether U.N. forces should surrender their control of Congo airports and radio stations.

Hammarskjold's action came shortly after the council rejected a Soviet proposal that it fly immediately to the Congo for on-the-scene efforts to restore order.

WASHINGTON — The Treasury Friday offered higher interest rates to owners of certain World War II bonds if they will exchange them now for new issues which won't come due until 1980 or later.

The offer was made to holders of $12.4 billion of wartime bonds which normally would mature between 1967 and 1969.

These bonds carry 2 1/2 per cent interest coupons.

The old bonds may be exchanged for three new issues, paying 3 1/2 per cent interest, which will mature between 1980 and 1988.

African Nations in Best Position To Deter Lumumba from Violence

By MARGUERITE HIGGINS
Herald Tribune News Service

WASHINGTON — Dag Hammarskjöld is not the only "Bete Blanche" of Belgian Congo Republic Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Diplomatic reports from the Congo warn that the only swerving thing about the changeable Lumumba seems to be his determination to use anti-whiteism as a means of whipping up a defense of nationalism around which to rally the rival tribes. Or, as he expressed it to another African premier, "What other common denomination do I have that can be so easily understood by the masses?"

And the difficulty of swerving Lumumba from believing racism a political necessity is among the reasons why many non-Communist diplomats, including both European and African, feel that it would be the better part of wisdom to remove the white troops and technicians from the Congo as quickly and completely as possible. For this would remove some of Lumumba's political ammunition, possibly some of his wild ambition, and certainly some of the favorite targets of his rifle-wielding Congolese soldiers.

But this is an expedient, and not a solution, for Lumumba, deprived of one target, could easily contrive another by starting, for instance, a campaign against anyone wearing a United Nations emblem.

And this leads to the crucial issue being secretly debated here at top levels of the Administration and along embassy rows. This is whether the U.N. can, or even should, stay in the Congo under developing circumstances.

For despite the incredible prospect of undoing the miraculous accomplishment whereby half the world rushed in one way or another to cope with the ever-multiplying perils of Patrice and despite the setback to U.N. prestige of a retreat from the Congo, this alternative could become the lesser of the evils.

The crux of the matter is how far and how successfully Lumumba carries the dangerous game he has elected to play, the scope of which is only now becoming clear to Washington.

His present strategy grows out of the failure of his past strategy which was to use the U.N. troops as his military shock force to attack and subdue the rebellious parts of the country — such as Katanga — that desire confederation rather than direct rule over them by Lumumba. When the U.N., which is pledged "in name only" to influence the outcome of any internal conflict, refused, Lumumba demanded (so far only orally) that the exit of the Belgian occupiers be followed by that of the U.N.

But, as diplomats in the Congo have found out, this involved a very tricky proposition, indeed, which even Lumumba has not dared say out loud. This was that in some respects the U.N. departure should be "in name only" with some African U.N. troops and skilled technicians staying behind under other auspices, taking off their U.N. hats so to speak, and in the case of the African ground troops, putting on the hat of a Lumumba expeditionary force against the Congolese rebels.

Needless to say Hammarskjöld — who became Lumumba's original "Bete Blanche" by refusing to service his side in a civil war — would oppose transfer of U.N. troops with all the considerable authority at his command. Whether or not the U.N. could prevent the Congo from obtaining expeditionary force and assistance from some African neighbor (Guinea for instance?) is uncertain. What is certain is that the U.N. cannot prevent civil war if Lumumba is determined to push it to that.

Is this a civil war in which the U.N. is prepared to take sides? If it is not, how can it insist on staying on in a country against the wishes of the sovereign Government? And finally if it did insist on staying on how could it avoid getting tragically involved in a civil war situation?

These are the questions that measure the depth of the U.N. dilemma and point to the only possible solution. This is for the African states themselves to deter Lumumba from violence by making plain in advance that they will not be a party to it and to initiate immediately steps to mediate his dispute with the Congolese rebels. It may be objected that this is too much to ask of what in many cases are fledgling diplomats of new born nations. The best answer is that Africa, which depends so heavily on the U.N., has the most to lose from its setbacks.

Reds in Congo Arouse Concern Of West Africans

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, here on a fact-finding tour for Sen. John F. Kennedy, said Friday he has found West African leaders "concerned about what the Russians are doing in the Congo."

"All have the very strong feeling that Africa should be developed by the Africans and they don't want outside interference in their political and social life," Harriman said at a news conference in the U.S. Embassy.

The former New York Governor and ambassador to Moscow said he did not discuss Soviet actions in the Congo with President Sekou Toure of Guinea when they talked several days ago.

Harriman also has met leaders in Liberia, the Ivory Coast, Ghana, Nigeria and the French Congo.

He made to correct errors with the next issue.

Are Rockefeller's Eyes Still on Washington?

By CHARLES N. QUINN
Herald Tribune News Service

ALBANY — There is growing speculation that Nelson Rockefeller will accept a job with a Nixon Administration if the Vice President wins in November.

A Republican victory will confront the New York governor with the staggering, virtually unthinkable prospect of eight more years in Albany before the coveted run for the White House could be reasonably undertaken.

Rockefeller's obvious propensity for national and international matters, buttressed by his own proposal for a super-Cabinet post with extraordinary powers over defense and foreign affairs, also point toward an early change in scenery for the restless, energetic politician.

But the most striking clue to Rockefeller's designs are his own words on the subject of his political future.

In pre-convention days, when newsmen pestered the governor about his distaste for the office of vice president, he responded with the stock answer, as he did at Chicago on July 23:

"I think I can be of more service to the people of the state of New York and to the people of the country as governor of the state of New York, than I could as vice president.

He sometimes embellished this rejoinder, as he did in Albany on May 4: "I have spent my life in government, in private business, in private philanthropy, always in executive positions. . . . I am used to actively being responsible for administration and policy decisions."

Contrast these answers to his reply when asked at a Chicago press conference whether he would accept a cabinet post if Nixon were elected:

"I think that one of the important things for any presidential nominee is to keep from getting tied up with any political entanglement that he has to carry with him to the White House, and I don't want to be one of them. I would like to see him go there and, when he gets elected, he should make his selections on the basis of the best men and women prepared for the positions, and not have to find himself encumbered by previous commitments."

Pressed on the subject, he concluded, "That is not the kind of question I would like to answer unless I get a proposition — should I get one — that would make the question valid."

There was no mention here of relative importance of service to the people of the state or country, or of executive and policy-making positions, but only concern about "encumbering" the candidate. This, too, represented a substantial change from his answer.

There is little doubt that Rockefeller finds more sustaining interest in the challenges to the nation and the world than in the problems of the state. For example, the Governor unquestionably would feel more at home attacking the problems of Castro, the Congo or disarmament, by comparison, issues in the state such as park development, milk dating in New York City and even the problems of the Long Island Rail Road commuter.

The governor's background in

NELSON ROCKEFELLER

swear to a Secretary of State position at Bismarck, N. D., on June 4, well before Nixon's nomination, when he said, "I think that I would rather, and could be more effective as governor of New York in a politically effective position."

The overriding consideration in Rockefeller's decision to accept an Administration post if one were offered, will center on the politics of Nixon's election, as it affects the governor. A President Nixon most certainly would be renominated in 1964 and thus eight long years as chief steward of New York would loom before Rockefeller could make his move.

There are signs that the governor already is finding the job at Albany a bit tiresome.

That he has been in the capital only a handful of days in the last four months seems to a good many observers to indicate he is imbued with something less than the gusto and bounce with which he took office on Jan. 1, 1959, fresh from his devastating victory over former Gov. W. Averell Harriman.

Furthermore, he is on the political defensive in the state, having lost major legislative battles last winter to a sometimes hostile Republican majority in the legislature, and having to follow the lead of Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, no intimate of his, in offering a tax cut next year.

There is little doubt that Rockefeller finds more sustaining interest in the challenges to the nation and the world than in the problems of the state. For example, the Governor unquestionably would feel more at home attacking the problems of Castro, the Congo or disarmament, by comparison, issues in the state such as park development, milk dating in New York City and even the problems of the Long Island Rail Road commuter.

The governor's background in the Federal Government is evidence of his liking for international matters. He has served as Co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs and Assistant Secretary of State for the American Republics under President Roosevelt, and as Special Assistant to the President under Eisenhower.

But any prospective post for Rockefeller in the Nixon Administration would have to be a major one, commensurate with his stature as governor of New York and one that would give him an opportunity to help shape the course of history. It could not be a minor cabinet position or any trivial job below a policy-making level.

The Secretaryship of State has been suggested, but the governor himself has proposed a new post, First Secretary of the Field of Defense and Foreign Relations — a sort of Executive Vice President of the Administration. This job, it would seem, would be more Rockefeller's cup of tea and would fit the conditions outlined in his May 4 press conference at Albany.

The effectiveness of his campaigning on behalf of the national ticket and the expanded role planned for the vice president, if Nixon is elected, are factors that could influence the sort of post Rockefeller might be offered.

Gov. Rockefeller has hinted broadly he is thinking of not seeking re-election in 1962, thereby leaving himself considerable leverage in the decisions that lay ahead.

But if the Vice President is defeated in November, the Governor's course would be clearer. He probably would stick to the grindstone at Albany, run for re-election in 1964, make a no-holds-barred bid for the Republican nomination for president. And he would probably win.

Knowledge of Many Languages Necessary for Europeans

By LARRY DAY
Staff Writer

ROME — The "Ugly American" condemned the American system, pointing a finger at the ignorance of the average John Q. Public to the customs and language of his neighbor. However, this lack of knowledge is, at least partially, founded on a vacuum of need and not on malice or laziness.

The question is asked of the American: Why don't you know three or four languages? There are two answers.

The American lives in a group of 50 states which almost universally speak English. The customs are generally alike. He travels across this continent nearly unimpeded by different ethnic needs. Therefore, he sees little need to spend time and money learning languages other than English.

Also, the American who studies language in high school or college does so only to satisfy a grade-happy system. He does not understand why he must learn Greek, Italian or French. The only end in the course is a C, B, or D.

The European learns three or four languages because he MUST in order to live.

In Switzerland, for example, the people in the north and west speak a mixture of Swiss and French. They learn it from their parents. In the central and eastern sections, they speak Swiss and German. Along the southern border, they speak Italian. In addition, most persons in the larger towns know a reasonable amount of English.

Furthermore, Switzerland is a small country. To visit in the next town, the native may have to speak another language. Therefore, it is reasonable that they should have an everyday working knowledge of several languages.

If the people in Cedar Rapids spoke English; the Iowa Citian, French; the farmer near Sion, German; then the Iowan would be known as multilingual just as is the European.

The American can do anything he wants. If he needs to learn six languages, then he will grow a tongue with six points. But considering the present situation, this need does not exist.

Recommends Recreation Department for Iowa

DES MOINES (AP) — A state department of recreation to serve people in rural areas, small towns and cities was recommended for Iowa Friday.

The proposal was made by Dr. Harold D. Meyer of Chapel Hill, N.C., before the 12th Governor's Conference on Recreation.

Among other things he recommended for the state were: Development of a training and educational program leading to "professional recreators" within its colleges and universities.

An immediate program of land acquisition for outdoor recreational areas before these are consumed in metropolitan life, highway and industrial expansion.

Dr. Meyer, director of recreation education curriculum at the University of North Carolina and a consultant in the recreation field, said recreation is "a powerful economic force in this nation, estimated as a $41 billion business, constantly growing."

He said North Carolina, California and Vermont already have state departments of recreation and 20 other states are planning such agencies.

HUKS ON THE MOVE

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine constabulary said Friday terrorist activity by remnants of the Communist Huk rebels has increased in recent months. But they pose no threat to the security of the Philippines. An official estimated the number of active Huks at 200.

Revenue Service Convicts 1,079 Of Tax Fraud

U.S. Internal Revenue Service reported Friday that the tax fraud suppression activities resulted in the indictment of 1,194 individuals and in the conviction of 1,079 persons in cases going to trial during the last fiscal year.

As a result of the convictions, Federal courts imposed fines of $2,470,000 and prison sentences totalling 2,538 years, including suspended and probationary sentences.

H. Alan Long, director of the IRS Intelligence Division responsible for the investigations, in a fiscal year summation to Commissioner Dana Latham, said prosecution recommendations, indictments, convictions, and total fines imposed represented increases over the previous year.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN will be the star of WSUI's kaleidoscopic radio program on Monday. His life and films will be reviewed.

Khrushchev Begins Trip To New York

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev sailed Friday night for New York and the United Nations to lead the communist bloc in pressing a five-point program before the forth-coming General Assembly.

Accompanying Khrushchev on the 10-day voyage to New York are Janos Kadar of Hungary, Todor Zhivkov of Bulgaria and Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej of Romania. They are the communist leaders in their countries. Tass made no mention of the Communist leaders of Czechoslovakia, Albania and Poland, also heading for New York to back up Khrushchev.

The group is due in New York Sept. 19, the day before the General Assembly opens.

Khrushchev is planning to renew his campaign for "general and complete" disarmament on Soviet terms that he outlined in a speech to the assembly just a year ago.

But the Communist bloc also is working for five specific objectives. They are:

Winning U.N. condemnation of American aggression as charged by the Soviet Union, setting up a program of aid to the newly independent African nations, establishing zones throughout the world where nuclear weapons will be banned, obtaining a U.N. guarantee for the Oder-Neisse boundary that pushed Poland's frontier westward into a large part of pre-war Germany, and rallying U.N. backing for a vague item called "the education of youth for peace."

Rev. Graham New Baptist Minister

The Rev. George A. Graham has accepted a call to become Minister of the First Baptist Church and University Pastor to Baptist students at SU and will officially begin his ministry this Sunday. He will preach at both the 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. services, and his sermon topic will be "The Work of the Church."

THE REV. GRAHAM
New Iowa City Minister

The Rev. Graham is a native of Bakersfield, California. He received his A.B. degree from the University of Redland, his A.M. in Clinical Psychology from Boston University, his D.B. from Andover Newton Theological School in Massachusetts, and his S.T.M. from Union Theological Seminary in New York City. For the last three years he has been a doctoral student in the Biblical field at the University of Chicago Divinity School, and has fulfilled all requirements except his dissertation which he plans to complete next year.

The Rev. Graham has had considerable experience in work with high school youth, students, and young adults as a counselor and psychologist. From 1952 to 1955 he served as assistant for young adult work at Old South Church in Boston, and from 1955 to 1957 he was assistant minister in charge of Christian education at First Baptist Church in Mt. Vernon, New York.

Driver in Crash Injuring 8 Gets Change of Venue

Byron C. Sweeting, 30, of Route 1, Riverside, has been granted a change of venue in Iowa City police court on a charge growing out of an accident Sept. 1 in which his car and a police patrol car were involved.

The change to the court of Justice of the Peace J. Newman Toomey was granted by Judge Ansel Chapman. Justice Toomey, in turn, granted a continuance in the case because three defense witnesses remain hospitalized.

Eight persons were hurt in the crash of the Sweeting car and a patrol car, driven by Patrolman Ronald Dreyer, at Prentiss and Capitol Streets.

Winners of Scholarships to SU

Enrolling at SU this month will be these winners of Maytag Company Foundation, Inc. scholarships. Foundation president Robert E. Vance (left) is pictured with Kenneth Johnson, pre-medical; Jacqueline Wert, journalism; Margaret Larsen, liberal arts; Edward Bennett, pre-law; and Ray Miller, pre-medical. All were graduated from Newton High School this past spring.

'Donna' Threatens Keys; Warnings Fly in Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Donna headed straight for the Florida Keys Friday night, aiming the full force of its 135 mile-an-hour winds at the little islands curving southwest from the mainland.

The killer storm declined slightly in intensity, dropping from an earlier velocity of 150 m.p.h. but also slowed its forward movement from 12 to 9 m.p.h.

This means the exposed and low-lying keys will be subjected to Donna's fearful battering for a longer period than had been expected. Hurricane warnings were flying from Key West northward to Fort Lauderdale on Florida's east coast and to Punta Gorda on the Gulf of Mexico side.

Along one edge of its path were the Miami-Fort Lauderdale area with well over one million residents, thousands of vacationists, and many thousands of homes which have been built since this resort center was last combed by a hurricane 10 years ago.

Many of the dwellings are on comparatively low land. If Donna, which has flooded every land area in its path so far, pours onto south Florida the heavy rains expected water damage might be extremely high.

At least 116 persons have been killed by the tropical storm as it wended its way with maddening slowness through the islands of the Caribbean.

At latest report the Weather Bureau said the center of the storm was approximately 128 miles south southeast of Miami and 106 miles east-southeast of Key West.

Growing slightly in intensity as it edged away from the north Cuba coast towards the United States, Donna forced hurricane warnings Friday as far north as Fort Lauderdale on the east coast and Punta Gorda, 24 miles north of Fort Myers on Florida's Gulf coast. Winds of 75 m.p.h. or more fan out 125 miles to the northeast and 80 miles to the southwest of the heart of the storm.

The storm veered slightly northward Friday morning, cocking its knockout punch at the heart of the keys — the string of tiny islands which stretch southwest from the tip of the mainland down to historic Key West.

Residents of the keys were urged to advise to seek safety at once. Some 30 blocks of the lowest sections of Key West were evacuated before noon.

Advance squalls of driving rain cut visibility to almost zero in Miami during the early afternoon.

SUI Plans To Offer TV Algebra Courses

"Continental Classroom," nationwide television course which can be taken for college credit, will offer viewers throughout Iowa an opportunity to take classes in Modern Algebra or Teaching of Modern Algebra during 1960-61 at SU, ISTC or ISU.

Classes are scheduled to begin Sept. 26, and will be televised Monday through Friday from 6:30 a.m. to 7 a.m. NBC stations telecasting the programs will include KMTV, Omaha; KTVI, Sioux City; KWWL, Waterloo; WHO, Des Moines; WOC, Davenport; and KQTV, Ft. Dodge.

The first-semester course in Modern Algebra will be offered for three semester-hours of college credit to students on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. High school mathematics is a prerequisite.

Teachers may enroll for three semester-hours of graduate credit in the course Teaching Modern Algebra. It will be a five-day-per-week course, including the three algebra lessons plus Tuesday and Thursday morning sessions in the teaching of algebra. Instructor for the course will be John L. Kelley, University of California.

Tuition fees are $14 per semester-hour, or $42 for the semester.

course. The text and workbook for the algebra course can be ordered at the time of enrollment. Enrollees will follow lesson outlines and send in problem solutions once a week during the semester. Four seminar review sessions, which students may attend at the school nearest them, will be held during the semester on selected Saturdays. Examinations will follow the review sessions.

"Continental Classroom," inaugurated in 1958, is offered by more than 200 institutions of higher learning throughout the nation. During the first two years of telecasting, chemistry and physics courses will follow the review sessions.

Second-semester courses planned for the current year include Probability and Statistics, and the Teaching of Probability and Statistics. The instructor will be Frederick Mosteller, Harvard University.

A lesson synopsis may be obtained for fifty cents by writing the Extension Class Service, State University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa, or by writing to the registrars at either of the other Iowa participating institutions.

Deadline for enrollment is Oct. 1.

I.C. Schools Have 4,827 Attendance

Iowa City public school "population" stood at 4,827 Friday, the end of the first week of classes or 60 more than at the start of the week.

The total is more than 400 greater than the figure a year ago. Enrollments in some classes were larger than had been anticipated with the result that 1 1/2 teachers have been added to the faculty since Tuesday, said Supt. of Schools Buford W. Garner.

A new teacher was hired for Henry Sabin second grade, where a class of 38 youngsters was divided. And a half-time kindergarten teacher at Longfellow school was placed on full time duty.

Garner said it may be necessary to add a kindergarten teacher at Lincoln or Roosevelt schools, but this will not be determined until near the start of SU classes Sept. 22.

Elementary schools alone now have 3,114 students including some 580 kindergartners. There were 445 students at Central junior high Friday and 538 at South East. The high school had 730 pupils.

Victor Borge Suffering From Pneumonia

TORONTO (AP) — Pianist-comedian Victor Borge, star of the current Canadian National Exhibition grandstand show, disclosed Friday that he has been suffering for a week with pneumonia of the lower left lung. He is better now.

He has been sleeping up to 20 hours a day, taking pills and antibiotics, his wife, Sanna, said. The illness, which doctors discovered Monday, kept him from many social engagements, but he continued playing to capacity crowds.

All Nat'l Defense Loans Committed to Applicants

More than a quarter of a million dollars — all the money available for the 1960-61 academic year in funds received by SU under the National Defense Education Act — has been committed to applicants for loans, according to Charles M. Mason Jr., coordinator of student aid at SU.

Students who have applied for loans are now being notified of action taken on their applications, Mason said. Funds will not be available to grant requests of new applicants who applied late in the summer.

SUI received $250,000, the legal limit set by Congress for colleges, regardless of size, from the U.S. Office of Education for the period from this September until the opening of school a year from now. Of this amount, $50,000 has been allocated for freshmen and other new students who will come to SU in the fall of 1961.

The federal loan program was established at SU in the spring of 1959 under terms of one section of the National Defense Education Act.

The program seemed to take a year to "catch on," Mason said. Guidance counselors in high schools have been telling students about the loans, and the word has passed among college students, he continued. "Now we have received so many requests that all the money is committed and we are 'out of business' for the rest of the year unless Congress appropriates more money for the defense loan fund."

Under the program, students may borrow up to $1,000 a year for five years, with repayment delayed until one year after they cease full-time college work. The exact amount of each loan depends upon the student's financial need.

To be eligible for a loan, a student must be able to show financial need, be capable of maintaining a good academic standing, and be a full-time graduate or undergraduate student.

Pediatric Meet Here Sept. 14-15

Some 75 Iowa physicians are expected to attend the 1960 Pediatric Postgraduate Course in the SU College of Medicine Sept. 14-15.

The course is the first this year in a series of nine such conferences held annually to acquaint Iowa physicians with new medical knowledge and techniques. Entitled "Recent Advances in Pediatrics," the purpose of this year's pediatrics conference is to provide pediatricians and general practitioners with the latest information on childhood diseases.

Guest speakers will include: Dr. Barbara Korsch, professor of pediatrics in Cornell University Medical School, speaking on "New Concepts in Child Health Supervision"; Dr. Maurice Raben, associate professor of medicine at Tufts University Medical School, discussing "The Action of Growth Hormone in Man," and Dr. Arthur Robinson, the University of Colorado, who, with SU's Dr. Hans Zellweger, will give "Clinical Case Presentations and Discussion of Patients with Abnormal Chromosomal Analysis."

Members of SU's medical faculty participating in the conference will include: Drs. William B. Anderson, Robert E. Carter, William E. Connor, Robert D. Gauchat, Robert B. Kugel, John MacQueen, Charles Reed and Raymond Rembolt.

Next in the nine-course series of medical postgraduate conferences will be "Recent Advances in Urology," and "Arthritis and Allied Disorders," both slated for Sept. 23-24.

Swim Season To End Sunday

Sunday will be the last day of the season for the Iowa City municipal swimming pool.

The pool ordinarily closes on Labor Day, but this year temperatures were so high that the pool stayed open.

Saturday and Sunday it will open at 1 p.m.

Catton To Be Featured In Civil War Quarterly

Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Bruce Catton will be highlighted in the September issue of Civil War History, quarterly published at SU, according to James I. Robertson, Jr., editor. Catton, of New York City, is editor of The American Heritage.

The issue of Civil War to be released later this month will feature an article by Catton, "Glory Road Was Won in the West."

Olympic Team Win Assured for Russia

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor
ROME (AP) — Russia grabbed a handful of medals in gymnastics Friday, clinching a decisive team victory over the United States in the 1960 Olympic games, but an injured Marine officer managed to salvage a firearms championship.

William McMillan beat the Soviet's Alexandr Zabelin and Finland's Pentti Linnoosvo in a shoot-off for the rapid fire pistol title.

The official team score after another midnight weightlifting session was Russia 720, United States 532 1/2. In gold medals, Russia led 38 to 33.

The Russians capped the day with a 1-2 finish in the middle-heavyweight competition when Arkady Vorobiev lifted the weights a total of 1,041 1/2 pounds for a world record. Trofim Lomakin was second, Louis Martin of Britain third and the American entry, John Polk, fourth.

About the more Russian medals in gymnastics and a chance for another in weightlifting Saturday and the basketball championship and a scattering of honors for the United States.

Today the marathon race will be starting from the Capitoline Hill along the Appian Way and ending at the triumphal Arch of Constantine. Sunday the games end with the equestrian jumping event and closing ceremonies at the Olympic Stadium.

The American team entered the games with high hopes, but Russia's overall balance and depth proved too much. The brightest performances were made by two girls — Chris von Saltz with three gold medals and one silver in swimming, and Wilma Rudolph, with three gold medals in track.

Capt. McMillan's victory in the rapid fire pistol was not unexpected but he managed to beat the world champion in Zabelin.

The regular competition ended with the American, the Russian and the Finn all tied at 587 out of a possible 600 scores. In the shoot-off Capt. McMillan scored 147 of 150.

The Daily Iowan SPORTS

"I think the pressure made me feel even sharper," he said.

In a post mortem on Thursday's disqualification of the United States' 400-meter relay team, Coach Lloyd Winter stepped forward to absolve Roy Norton of Oakland, Calif., for all the blame in the bad exchange of the baton that knocked out an American victory.

"Ray is taking a rap he doesn't deserve," said Winter. "Actually Frank Budd slowed up a bit at the end of his opening leg. Norton took off normally but Budd wasn't there to hand him the stick. It's true Norton got away too quickly but at the same time he is taking an unfair lambasting."

Norton, who disappointed with sixth places in both the 100 and 200, was quick to shoulder the blame for taking the baton outside the legal passing zone.

The relay team had only worked together for two days and this contributed to the difficulty, but despite the fumble Dave Sime, who took off behind Germany's Martin Lauer managed to catch Lauer at the tape by inches.

No American protest was planned as the fault was clear cut.

Another American disappointment occurred in weightlifting Thursday night when Alexander Kuryov of Russia beat Tommy Kono of Honolulu in the middle-weight class. Kono was seeking to add a gold medal here to the ones he won in the past two Olympics. He finished second.

U.S. hopes suffered another setback Friday when Jim George finished second to Poland's Ireneusz Palinski in the light heavy-weight weightlifting.

However, Palinski had to break the world record by lifting 397 pounds in the clean and jerk after trailing George going into the last of the three lifts. George won the bronze medal at Melbourne in 1956.

In gymnastics, considered a major sport in Russia and central European countries, the Russian women added three individual gold medals to the two they won Thursday night. They won five of the six events and 15 of a possible 16 women's medals.

Larisa Latynina, the individual combined champion, took the gold medal in the free standing exercise and silver medals in the bars and beam exercises and a bronze in the long horse.

The 34.5-kilometer (21 1/2 miles) endurance test of the three-day equestrian event brought a flock of spills on the course described by the riders as "murderous."

Three riders were hospitalized after bad spills: William Rycroft, Australia; Wilhelm Fleischer, Romania; and Mario Delgado, Portugal. Two horses were injured and had to be destroyed. Only 41 out of 73 riders finished the course, and more than half of the horses that came in had injuries.

In basketball the United States needs only to beat Brazil Saturday night to win the championship. America has never lost a basketball game in Olympic competition, and Jerry Lucas of Ohio State, Jerry West of West Virginia and Oscar (Big O) Robertson of Cincinnati look too strong for the scrappy Brazil team.

The historic marathon (26 miles, 385 yards) as usual is a wide open race. John J. Kelley, a Groton, Conn., schoolteacher, has as good a chance as any American in recent years but the Russians and British are favored.

Hawks Set Game Type Drill Today

With the season opener only two weeks away, the Hawkeyes will go through a game type scrimmage today, Coach Forest Evashevski announced Friday.

The game workout will be the first of this season for Iowa, which hosts Oregon State here Sept. 24. Friday the Hawks ran through a double two-hour practice workout. Defense was stressed in the morning, while offense was on the agenda in the afternoon.

In addition, punter John Calhoun and kickoff specialist Tom Moore each practiced in individual drills.

For the second straight day the temperature was in the 70s for the Hawkeyes, who sweated through the first week of practice in heat that never dropped below 90.

There were several other developments in the camp Friday.

Evashevski announced that Bob Russo would be lost at least until after the Oregon State opener. Russo hurt his knee two days ago, but it was discovered only Friday that it would not respond to treatment.

Another halfback, Mike McDonald, also injured his knee and limped from the field. The extent of the damage, however, was not immediately known.

Evashevski also confirmed a report that sophomore quarterback Brian Mays, had left the team because of sickness and is not expected to return before school starts. "We told Brian he could return (to the team) whenever he's feeling better," Evashevski said.

Four additions to the squad have also been announced.

The new members: Kenneth Filar, 5-11, 172-pound halfback from Chicago (Gage Park High); Loren Hilliard, 5-10, 176-pound halfback from Corydon, Ia.; Joe Long, a guard at 6-0, 190 pounds from Washington, D.C. and end Jerry Soulek, 6-1, 185 pounds from Yankton, S.D.

White Sox Hopes Revived, 5-2—

Baltimore Falls to Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Baumann's clutch relief pitching stopped an eighth inning Baltimore rally and helped the Chicago White Sox defeat the league-leading Orioles, 5-2, Friday night.

The victory lifted the third-place Sox within 3 1/2 games of Baltimore and rekindled the defending champions' pennant hopes.

Sox starter Bob Shaw, gaining his 13th victory against 12 losses, was sailing along with a three-hit shutout and a 4-0 lead going into the eighth. After Jim Landis made a great catch on Ron Hansen's long fly, the Orioles bombed Shaw from the box.

Gene Stephens walked and pinch batters Dave Philly and Bub Boyd both singled to load the bases. Jackie Brandt singled home two runs and Baumann came on the scene.

Luis Aparicio, Minnie Minoso and Ted Kluszewski paced Chicago's 12-hit attack against five Oriole pitchers.

Moryn's 12th homer of the season came just in time. It began to

Fastest on Wheels

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Mickey Thompson became the world's fastest man on wheels Friday, flashing across the Bonneville Salt Flats in his Challenger 1 car at 406.6 miles an hour.

But the 31-year-old hot rodder from El Monte, Calif. missed a chance to set an official auto speed record because of mechanical trouble that stopped him on the required second run.

The drive line snapped as he was about to shift into second at 210 m.p.h. He shifts into high at 315.

Thus the 13-year-old record of 394.196 m.p.h. still stands, set by the late Sir John Cobb of England in 1947 with two runs here of 403.135 and 388.019. To break this, Thompson would have had to better that 394.196 average by at least one per cent.

Thompson, deeply disappointed after having the record almost within his grasp, vowed to try again after Donald Campbell of England and his $4.5 million Bluebird II go at it next week.

Ohio State's Gridders Will Have New Look

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State could have a new look in football this fall — a comparatively light team with a penchant for wide-open tactics rather than ponderous power.

"We'll be a little more wide open with a two-platoon system," concedes Woody Hayes, entering his tenth season as Buckeye football skipper — making him the dean of Big Ten coaches.

"We'll have better overall speed than at any time since 1955," he says. "But we are small, and not necessarily to my choosing. Mobility will describe us, and this comes mainly from having 19 former high school fullbacks converted to linemen in our squad of 65 players."

"Sophomores will be more of a prominent factor in the Big Ten race this season since at least 1951, when I came to Ohio State. We will have seven or nine of them in our first two teams."

Hayes, picked by many of his colleagues among the top four Big Ten championship contenders, modestly insists his team will be better than last year. Then it shared eighth place with a 2-4-1 record, Hayes' poorest season.

Four of 23 returning lettermen are labeled outstanding by Hayes. They include linebacker Mike Ingram, 220 pounds, on the defensive unit; and the offensive team's Jim Tyrer, 6-6, 250-pound tackle; quarterback Tom Matte, a good runner, fair passer; and fullback Bob Ferguson, 220-pounder.

But there may be others, including defensive end Tom Perdue, 184-pound junior.

"Actually, we didn't lose many boys last year who really hurt us," says Hayes. "We will have a better team, but, of course, the conference is stronger all around. I would figure Illinois, Michigan State and Iowa rank as the main contenders. Purdue is a dark-horse."

Hayes' plan to shift to a two-platoon system is a departure from the traditional one-platoon system. Hayes' plan is to have a two-platoon system. Hayes' plan is to have a two-platoon system.

The bidding: West North

Pass 2♠ Pass 3♥
Pass 5♦ Pass 5♠
Pass 6♥ Pass Pass

A bid in the opponent's suit (a cue bid) normally denotes that you can win the first trick in their suit and, what is more important, that you are interested in a slam.

Where, however, by your previous bidding you have denied holding a powerful hand, your cue bid instead of suggesting a slam, should be taken with a grain of salt, since it might be an effort to induce partner to contract for a no trump game.

In today's hand, South doubled the opening bid of one heart and North elected to respond with two diamonds. This is not technically correct.

A bid of three diamonds would have been proper, but North chose not to crowd the bidding and elected to take the chance that partner would act again on his own steam.

South, rather than raise the diamonds, decided to show his spade suit, and North's hand now assumed even greater proportions. His bid of three hearts is very fine.

If South wishes to bid no trump, this enables him to do so. If he chooses to move toward slam, North would surely welcome such action. Furthermore, the cue bid at this point is not very drastic, inasmuch as North has previously bid only two diamonds in response to the double and has therefore limited his hand.

South's jump in diamonds requires no comment and, when North showed the delayed spade support, South contracted for slam in diamonds.

It will be noted that six spades could have been made almost as easily, but South felt that it would be safer in diamonds and chose to give up a few additional points that the major suit would yield.
