Nikita's Speech Triggers U.S. Anger

Calls for Universal Disarmament

But Asks Removal Of U.N. Headquarters From United States

See page 3 for news analyst J. M. Roberts' comment on Khrushchev's speech, also photo of Cuban reaction.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev staggered the United Nations Friday with a thundering speech proposing to rip apart the world organization's machinery and move it out of the United States. His blasts brought an atmosphere of crisis to the historic 15th General Assembly session.

The United States responded quickly. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter retorted that Khrushchev had made "an all-out attack — a real declaration of war — against the structure, personnel and location of the United Nations."

In Washington, President Eisenhower made known he shared Herter's views.

Khrushchev, in an obviously well-planned, calculated attack, assailed President Eisenhower as a man who risked World War III by his stated policies. He then handed the Assembly a fistful of shock proposals.

The most startling was his suggestion that the secretary-general's office be eliminated and a board of three members — one West, one Communist and one neutral — be set up instead. This proposal came in the wake of a Soviet diplomatic defeat in the Congo and a Soviet assault on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

The proposals caused dismay in many U.N. circles.

U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth demanded the Assembly stage to make a formal reply to Khrushchev. He told a hushed Assembly the United Nations must "face this crisis head on."

"If it cannot, it will fail," Wadsworth said, to resounding applause.

Herter called on Hammarskjold personally in his office to discuss possibilities of an Assembly resolution expressing renewed and full confidence in the secretary-general.

Khrushchev's surprise packages included a proposal for immediate and complete independence for all colonial areas of the world. He proposed a three-stage disarmament program, most of it the old one in new wrappings purporting to aim at universal disarmament. He also renewed his bid for another summit conference — making it fairly clear he wanted it after President Eisenhower retires.

Eisenhower spoke Thursday, urging all nations to clear their most dangerous issues with the United Nations.

Khrushchev's flurry of proposals appeared to bewilder many of the delegates bewildered, and some were concerned that he had set back rather than advanced the cause of easing tensions.

Among West European delegations there were expressions of dismay. British summed it up by assessing the Khrushchev speech as having wrecked much of the chances for a start toward real progress on easing tensions at this assembly session.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, under severe Soviet attack during the Congo crisis in which Moscow suffered a severe diplomatic reverse, listened impassively as Khrushchev demanded that the secretary-generalship be eliminated.

Khrushchev proposed instead a three-man board, made up of one each of representatives of Communist, neutralist and Western blocs. Then, he said, the U.N. executive "will really be a democratic body; it will really safeguard the interests of all united nations member states."

Khrushchev's 2 hour and 20 minute speech of 15,000 words came one day after President Eisenhower had urged all nations to use U.N. machinery to the utmost to settle dangerous disputes.

As Khrushchev left the stage, happily waving to the audience, he met Hammarskjold's icy stare. Khrushchev bowed with mock formality. The secretary-general gave no indication he noticed it.

Preceding Khrushchev on the stage had been President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, a leading African figure, who called for the expulsion of all foreigners from African bases and demanded strictly African settlement for problems like that of the Congo. His speech left many European delegates unhappy.

Renaissance II Re-opening 'Sure'

The re-opening of the Renaissance II appeared probable after a meeting Friday afternoon attended by eight persons who want Iowa City's first and only coffee house re-opened.

Rumors circulating on campus Wednesday said a corporation might be formed to sell stock to students in order to finance a rent settlement and operation of the coffee shop. However, the speed with which the project appeared to be moving Friday seemed to make it improbable that this was the approach being taken.

"If the whole thing progresses as it looks tonight like it's going to progress," Beardsley told the Daily Iowan Friday night, "then the Renaissance is going to offer some very interesting things." He indicated that the eight who were meeting included very talented persons.

The Renaissance II opened here a little over a year ago. Beardsley sponsored a number of readings, art shows, and other activities featuring students.

"I had no idea just how many persons were vitally interested in the continuation of the Renaissance," Beardsley declared. He said there had been a "very good reaction" to Thursday's Daily Iowan story which reported the scheduling of Friday's meeting.

Open House

By JUDY HOLSCHLAG Staff Writer

Tours and dancing introduced SU's new students to their Union Friday night at the Iowa Memorial Union Open House.

The Open House, the final event of the SU Orientation program, featured dancing to the music of Leo Cortimiglia band in the Main Lounge from 7:45 to 11:45 p.m. Union Board members led tours through the rest of the building at intervals throughout the evening.

Tours began at the Union's East Lobby Desk, where guides explained its services of distributing tickets for University events. Groups proceeded to the Television Theater, where they learned of the theater's coverage of all major events. The theater is equipped with a color TV set for programs televised in color.

The Music Room, where SU's own enjoy classical or semi-classical music while they study, was a feature of the tours, as was the Browning Library, equipped with the latest in reading material. The Union Sun Porch, also a popular study area, and the River Room, scene of informal dancing to juke box music, were covered on the tours.

During the evening, all Union facilities were made available to the students. Movies of the Highlanders and the Rose Bowl games attracted audiences in the Pentacrest Room, and the Information Desk in the new part of the building did a brisk trade in candy, cigarettes, and, of course, information.

The Recreation Area's 16-lane bowling alley, 14 billiard tables, and four table tennis tables accommodated a large portion of the Open House crowd, while other students took advantage of the Union's card supply for a game of bridge in the Gold Feather Room.

A special feature of the evening was the exhibit of the "Iowa City of the Future," a model downtown Iowa City designed by SUI engineering professor Robert Wheeler. The model, which would house Iowa City businesses in a new shopping center covering three existing city blocks, was sponsored in its appearance at the Open House by the Union Board Fine Arts Committee.

Union Board members assisting with the Open House were: John Timmermans, D3, Iowa City; Bill Hummer, M3, Des Moines; Nancy Stokes, A4, Elmhurst, Ill.; Bob Price, A3, Iowa City; Bob Hawk, B4, Cedar Rapids; Robin Porter, B4, Iowa City; Al Maly, E2, Cedar Rapids; Dick Herring, L2, Iowa City; Toby Baron, A3, San Antonio, Tex.; Pam Burke, A3, Homewood, Ill.; Randy Mather, A3, Storm Lake; Norm Nichols, A3, Osage; Jan Mertes, N3, Western Springs, Ill.; Deanna Dodds, P3, Sioux City.

Hawks Kick Off Season Against Oregon State

By MIKE PAULY Sports Editor

Thoughts turn away from books and toward the football field today as thousands of SUIowans trek to the Stadium to see Iowa's grid opener against a surprising Oregon State club which confounded the prognosticators and scored an upset win last weekend.

If Iowa Coach Forest Evashevski were as sure of the outcome of today's test as the oddsmakers are, he might smile as he takes the long walk from the dressing room to the playing field.

Then again, the odds might be reason for despair.

The Hawks are rated 10-point favorites over the foe from the great Northwest, but despite this, Evashevski is as pessimistic as he has been in many years.

Through weeks of practice, the coach kept insisting that the squad had much work to do. In recent days, the fear of injuries to a team already paper-thin in depth has haulted much-needed work.

"I don't know how strong we are. I'll have to wait and see what we do out there Saturday," said Evy. And when he says it, he does so in a way which makes you want to believe it.

The gamblers apparently forgot to check with Evy when they figured the point spread.

But then one might recall what happened to Southern Cal a week ago when it tangled with this same Oregon State crew. The Trojans were ranked 10-point favorites at that time — and lost, 14-0.

Through the week, Evy has expressed concern with the attitude of several members of the squad who do not seem to take Oregon State seriously.

"We've got to win this one," Evy said. "Some of the players are looking to the Big Ten season. I feel, but that is bad." The Trojans were ranked 10-point favorites at that time — and lost, 14-0.

In addition to other problems, the Hawks will be facing a team which already has one game — and a big victory — under its belt. The opener could be one of the toughest for the Iowans in many seasons.

For Evashevski, this game will mark the beginning of the end. It's the ninth season for the coach and his 101st test as head Hawkeye mentor.

Evy's career as coach will end this season at 109 games when he quits coaching to devote full time to his newly assumed duties as Iowa's director of athletics.

Willburs Hollis, the junior quarterback from Boys Town, Neb., who has gained much in experience and poise, will call the signals as the Hawks take the field for the opener.

Also in the backfield will be team captain Jerry Mauren at right halfback and Larry Ferguson at left half. Joe Williams, the flash from Rathway, N.J., will be at fullback.

Williams, a sophomore, and end Felton Rogers, also a soph, are the only starters from their class for the Hawks.

Playing opposite Rogers will be right end Bill Whisler. Tackle posts will be manned by Charles Lee, Jr., and Al Hinton. Lee is a senior, Hinton a junior.

Senior Mark Manders will team with junior All-America candidate Sherry Thorson at the guard slots, while Lloyd Humphreys gets the call at center.

Bill Van Buren, the No. 1 center, is expected to be ready for some action today. Van Buren suffered a partially torn ligament of the left knee in a scrimmage, but he has pronounced himself ready to go.

Another of the crippled Hawks, halfback Jim Robenson, may also be ready for limited action. Robenson, No. 2 right halfback when injured, has been slow to recover from a knee injury.

Among sophomores who may see action in a reserve role are tackle Earl McQuiston, ends Jim Winston and Bill Perkins, halfbacks Sammie Harris and Bob Kreamer, center Dayton Perry and quarterbacks Matt Szykowsky and John Calhoun.

Calhoun will get the call for punting chores, however.

Although 48 highway patrolmen and 60 university policemen will be on duty to relieve the traffic situation, much traffic congestion can be expected.

Khrushchev Defeat Seen

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev appeared headed Friday night for a stunning defeat in his proposal to abolish the post of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

This was the consensus of U.N. diplomats as they weighed the words of the Soviet premier and the indignation they aroused from the United States, Britain and many other countries.

The United States was ready to put a resolution before the 15th session of the General Assembly demanding a vote of confidence in Hammarskjold. Such a resolution was certain to win overwhelming approval.

Khrushchev evoked laughter in the Assembly from both pro-Western and anti-Western delegates when he proposed also that the U.N. headquarters be moved out of New York.

But his attack on Hammarskjold confronted the 96-nation Assembly with an immediate crisis.

U.S. Delegate James J. Wadsworth, taking the floor at the afternoon session of the Assembly, recalled that the Soviet Union had tried to crush Trygve Lie, who was Hammarskjold's predecessor because Lie "stood up against Communist aggression in Korea."

Soviet opposition to Lie was credited with his decision not to become a candidate for re-election in 1953.

Wadsworth said the Soviet Union is now attempting to crush the office of the secretary-general itself in keeping with a philosophy of what it cannot control it must destroy.

Eisenhower Meets

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Friday set up new meetings with influential Asian-African leaders and gave all-out support to U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, under attack by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Eisenhower flew back here after a rousing, cheering send-off from thousands of New Yorkers apparently demonstrating their support for his new challenge to the Soviet Union to seek peaceful unraveling of East-West and other disputes through the United Nations.

The President will return to New York Monday for another go

$5,200,000 Asked by 64 In Wilson & Co. Dispute

A $5,200,000 suit was filed in District Court here Friday against Wilson & Co. meat packing firm, on behalf of 64 persons hired during a strike but let out when the strikers returned.

It was believed to be the largest lawsuit ever filed in Johnson County.

The suit grows out of a prolonged nationwide strike of the United Packinghouse Workers Union against the company.

The plaintiffs said they went to work at the meat packing firm's Cedar Rapids plant on Sept. 19, 1959, and worked until their "untimely release" on March 11, 1960, when strikers returned to their jobs following a settlement.

The petition alleges Wilson breached an oral contract and asks $20,000 in actual damages for each of the 64 plaintiffs.

Another section of the petition also alleges "conspiracy" on the part of the company and triple exemplary and punitive damages of $3,840,000.

Actual damage claims were based on moving expenses, giving up good jobs elsewhere, sale of property or giving up of leases, and other losses the workers contend they had to incur to move to Cedar Rapids to work for Wilson.

They also cited loss of future earnings from Wilson, loss of job seniority, loss of promotions, vacations, retirement benefits, sick leave, insurance benefits and the like.

Representing the plaintiffs are two Iowa City lawyers — J. Newman Toomey and William Bartley. The attorneys said the suit was filed in Johnson County on the legal theory that when an out-of-state corporation is involved, an action may be filed in any Iowa county where the company does business and where at least one of the plaintiffs resides. Wilson is a Delaware corporation.

Bartley said the case is the first he knows of in Iowa in which the question is raised whether a company has the right to promise permanent jobs to workers hired during a strike when the likelihood is that strikers will be reinstated in their jobs after settlement.

TV Algebra For Iowans On Monday

Iowans have the opportunity to enroll in "Continental Classroom," a nationwide television course which will begin Monday and will be carried by six area television stations. Modern Algebra and Teaching of Modern Algebra will be the courses offered, with four seminar review sessions scheduled at SUI, Iowa State Teachers College and Iowa State University of Science and Technology.

Classes will be televised Monday through Friday from 6:30 to 7 a.m. on NBC stations KMTV, Omaha; KTIV, Sioux City; KWWL, Waterloo; WHO, Des Moines; WOC, Davenport, and KQTV, Ft. Dodge.

Gov. Loveless Explains Ire

DES MOINES (AP) — It was the danger involved — not missing the Kennedy caravan — that made Gov. Herschel Loveless angry when his plane was delayed in landing at Fort Dodge, the governor said Friday.

Loveless said the twin-engine Piper Apache, en route from Sioux City to Fort Dodge where he was to join the motorcade of Sen. John Kennedy Thursday, was kept circling in the air for an hour and 15 minutes.

What irked him, Loveless said, was that during all the time his plane was being prevented from landing — on Federal Aviation Administration instructions from Kansas City — commercial planes landed below him.

"There are indications that the federal agency is taking care of commercial aircraft and letting private planes go to —," he said.

SUI Wages Battle Against Arthritis

A battle against arthritis, the crippling disease which affects one out of eleven Iowans, particularly farmers, is being waged at the SUI College of Medicine with the help of the Iowa Chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation (ARF).

The Iowa Chapter each year donates nearly $30,000 to the SUI College of Medicine for research and education and for helping arthritics obtain proper treatment, according to Dr. W. D. Paul, director of the state chapter and head of the Johnson County organization. Dr. Paul is professor and medical director of the Rehabilitation Unit at SUI.

Started several years ago by members of the American Rheumatism Association, a branch of

Overdosage Can Result In Trouble

"People with rheumatoid arthritis are taking cortisone-like drugs too often and in too large doses, resulting in serious side effects," according to Dr. W. D. Paul, professor of rehabilitation in the SUI College of Medicine.

Dr. Paul presented a paper Friday on "Hypercortisolemia in Rheumatoid Arthritis" at a postgraduate course on arthritis and related conditions at SUI's Medical Amphitheater.

"We have found that if patients take too large a dose over a long period of time, the cortisone-like drugs may cause these side effects: diabetes; loss of calcium in bones, resulting in fractures of the spine; and changes in blood vessels which result in a disease far worse than arthritis, the physician said. "Recently we have seen, as a result of large doses of these drugs, softening of the bones of the hip, requiring either bone grafting or making a new hip joint."

The SUI physician believes the difficulty stems from the fact that the pills on the market contain too much of the drug per tablet for one dose. "Therefore, people tend to take too much," he explained.

"At first it was thought cortisone was a miracle drug for arthritis," Dr. Paul commented, "but it is not a miracle drug because it does not change the course of arthritis. It stops pain and prevents swelling a little better than aspirin. Most people with rheumatoid arthritis don't need cortisone at all."

In a study covering many years, Dr. Paul related, the British have found cortisone-like drugs used in rheumatoid arthritis were no better than aspirin and physical therapy. "Basic treatment," Dr. Paul explained, "still remains good physical therapy, aspirin, and possibly other drugs — like gold salts."

The American Medical Association, the Foundation was organized to collect money to help combat the dreaded disease. The Foundation is the only voluntary health organization organized and controlled primarily by physicians.

Dr. Paul says there are approximately 11 million people in this country who suffer from some form of arthritis, and of these, one-half million are totally unemployed. The percentage of the population affected is much higher in Iowa (one out of eleven to one out of sixteen for the rest of the country) because people who work outdoors and with their hands are particularly susceptible. Farmers are stricken more often than any other occupation group.

The Iowa Chapter of ARF helps support a variety of projects at the SUI College of Medicine. Among them are: support of the University's Arthritis Clinic; provision of a resident physician to work in the clinic; granting of a student fellowship for work during the summer as a research assistant; the payment of tuition for six physical therapists who agree to work in Iowa after graduation; supplying of booklets on arthritis to senior medical and nursing students; the support of several research projects on arthritis by SUI scientists, and sponsorship each year of a postgraduate course on arthritis.

'K' Appeals To Neutrals, Attacks Dag

By J. M. ROBERTS
Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev showed clearly Friday that he knows how to end the cold war if he wished, and then proposed to draw a new and bitter line of demarcation which would intensify it in the United Nations.

At one point in his speech he held up the master key to the whole world situation: "We do not wish to foist our system on other countries," he said, a contradiction of everything for which international communism stands, a contradiction of what he himself has said repeatedly. It would have been a world shattering statement — if he hadn't made it so many times before, and if anybody could believe it in the face of what he has just been up to in the Congo.

Before the cold war can end, it will have to be said by someone who means it and, moreover, someone with the power to make it stick, which Khrushchev has not, either in Moscow or Peking.

Khrushchev cited the need for independence of all nations — in a cynical effort to retrieve the Soviet prestige lost in the Congo affair — but didn't offer it to the European captive states.

There were numerous other passages which sounded high-minded and conciliatory.

Then he got around to the pique the Soviet Union has displayed so clearly over the U.N. intervention in the Congo, which undercut her plainly revealed effort to add another country to the captive list and extend the cold war to Africa.

Eliminate the secretary-general's office in the U.N., he said, and administer the work of the organization by committee — a committee with strictly drawn lines between Communists, the nations aligned with the West, and the neutrals.

Khrushchev has a right to like the committee system of administration. He used it well for his own personal aggrandizement in the U.S.S.R. after Joseph Stalin's death, and how it doesn't exist there any more than in other places where it has been tried.

Khrushchev knows that this effort to draw fighting lines in the U.N. will not be taken seriously. But he had two motives. By making it he struck at Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, who has just received overwhelming small nation support for his interpretation of Security Council instruction regarding the Congo. Then he smoothed down the small-nation feathers by proposing to give them ostensible recognition as a force equal to the two major contending forces.

Some of the small nations may fall for this pretense of adding to the importance which they expect to assume anyway through their increased numbers in the General Assembly.

But the odds are that, in the competition between President Eisenhower and Khrushchev for small nations good will at the outset of this assembly, the President's list of achievable objectives is way ahead.

Gifts, Grants to SUI Go Over $500,000

More than a half million dollars in gifts and grants was accepted for SUI at the September meeting of the State Board of Regents finance committee.

A total of $627,992 was accepted from private businesses, non-profit organizations, governmental agencies and individuals to be used at SUI for research, scholarships, and other projects. The only month this year when a larger amount has been accepted was March, with a total of $781,764.

The September total includes $317,722 to be used for projects in the SUI College of Medicine. Other colleges and departments receiving gifts include Iowa Child Welfare Research Station, $70,000; speech Pathology and Audiology, $57,886; Zoology, $53,974; Physics, $50,800; Engineering, $14,000; Chemistry, $11,769; Nursing, $7,150; Pharmacy, $4,580; Bureau of Business and Economic Research, $3,895; Business Administration, $2,400; Geology, $500; Speech and Dramatic art, $300; Romance languages, $200, and art, $50.

Of the total, $456,319 is to be used for research in the various departments; $134,803 for scholarships, fellowships and traineeships; and the remainder for various University projects.

Eliminate the secretary-general's office in the U.N., he said, and administer the work of the organization by committee — a committee with strictly drawn lines between Communists, the nations aligned with the West, and the neutrals.

Khrushchev has a right to like the committee system of administration. He used it well for his own personal aggrandizement in the U.S.S.R. after Joseph Stalin's death, and how it doesn't exist there any more than in other places where it has been tried.

Khrushchev knows that this effort to draw fighting lines in the U.N. will not be taken seriously. But he had two motives. By making it he struck at Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, who has just received overwhelming small nation support for his interpretation of Security Council instruction regarding the Congo. Then he smoothed down the small-nation feathers by proposing to give them ostensible recognition as a force equal to the two major contending forces.

Some of the small nations may fall for this pretense of adding to the importance which they expect to assume anyway through their increased numbers in the General Assembly.

But the odds are that, in the competition between President Eisenhower and Khrushchev for small nations good will at the outset of this assembly, the President's list of achievable objectives is way ahead.

Big Ten Opens Grid Season Today

The Big Ten, minus one team, launches its 1960 football season Saturday with a nine-game program.

The one "conference" game on tap, sends Indiana — under Big Ten suspension — against favored Illinois at Champaign, Ill., in a game which will not count in the league standings.

The Illinois, rated No. 4 in the AP's national poll, is regarded one of the leading conference contenders, mainly because of a rousing finish last season.

Other openers include Oregon State at Iowa, Oregon at Michigan, Michigan State at Pittsburgh, Minnesota at Nebraska, Northwestern at Oklahoma, Southern Methodist at Ohio State, UCLA at Purdue, and defending champion Wisconsin at Stanford.

Top Midwest independent Notre Dame is host to California.

Illinois is rated a two-touchdown favorite over Indiana which is ineligible for the championship because of alleged recruiting violations. Although the Hoosiers figure to be fired up because of their punishment, the Illinois are expected to start with a rush under new Coach Pete Elliott.

Michigan State, sixth-ranked in the AP poll, appears at Pittsburgh in a nationally televised contest. The game is rated a tossup with the Panthers already tested in an 8-7 upset by UCLA.

The Northwestern-Oklahoma intersection finds star quarterback Dick Thornton back as Wildcat quarterback after being shelved most of last season by a broken ankle. The Sooners, trounced 45-13 by the Thornton-led Wildcats last season, have been rated one-point favorites.

Host Michigan is a 6-point pick over Oregon. Invading Minnesota is favored by 2 points at Nebraska. Ohio State is rated 12 points better than Southern Methodist. Purdue is a one-touchdown choice over UCLA, while the Wisconsin-Stanford game is rated a tossup.

Saturday's skirmishing should provide a quick sizeup of Big Ten potential. There is not a "breather" in the entire array of nine games. All the Big Ten opponents, excepting Oklahoma, already have one game under their belts.

Elsewhere, defending national champion Syracuse opens a new season and such battle-tested aspirants to the throne as Mississippi and Washington play again Saturday as college football moves into its second big weekend.

None of the three figures to have serious opposition. The Syracuse Orange, winners of 11 straight after last year's 10-0 season and Cotton Bowl victory, meets undermanned Boston University. BU lost to Penn State 20-0 in its opener a week ago.

Mississippi, after demolishing Houston 42-0 with a devastating air attack that put it No. 1 in this week's Associated Press poll, plays Kentucky Saturday night at Memphis. This begins the Southeastern Conference schedule for Ole Miss, now a strong favorite after defending titlist Georgia was knocked off by Alabama last week. Kentucky fell before Georgia Tech 23-13 in its opener.

Third-ranked Washington meets Idaho and could have a repeat performance of its decisive 55-6 victory over College of the Pacific last week.

A big group of upsets from last week should be hard pressed. Alabama No. 5 goes after Tulane, which surprised California 7-3 a week ago.

Kansas, No. 7 with its best team in over a decade, plays Kansas State in a Big Eight Conference game. UCLA, No. 8, which upset Pitt, will have another battle on its hands at Purdue.

The 91st year of college football is again commemorated at Princeton when the Tigers meet Rutgers — another clash of the two schools that started the whole business back in 1869.

Other games:

EAST: Boston College at Army; Texas at Maryland; Colgate at Cornell; Villanova at Navy.

SOUTH: Tennessee vs. Auburn, at Birmingham, Ala.; Clemson at Wake Forest; North Carolina State at North Carolina; Duke at South Carolina, night; Georgia at Vanderbilt, night.

Milwaukee Slows Pittsburgh's Rush Toward National League Pennant With a 2-1 Victory

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee slowed down Pittsburgh's pennant drive Friday night, turning back the Pirates 2-1 on Del Crandall's bad hop run-scoring single.

The Braves' victory, snapping a six-game Pittsburgh winning streak, trimmed the Pirates' National League lead to six games over the second-place St. Louis Cardinals.

St. Louis, battling to stave off what appears to be the inevitable, sliced a full game and a half off Pittsburgh's lead by inflicting a pair of 5-1 defeats on the Chicago Cubs in an afternoon double-header.

Yanks 5, Red Sox 1

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Yankees, rushing toward their 10th American League pennant in 12 years under Casey Stengel, exploded for five runs in the eighth inning Friday, brushed aside Boston 5-1 and reduced their magic number to four. It was their seventh straight victory.

Any combination of four New York victories and Chicago losses will insure the Yankees the flag. New York has eight games to play, Chicago eight, and third-place Baltimore seven.

Cards 5-5, Cubs 1-1

CHICAGO (AP) — The second-place St. Louis Cardinals clung to their slender pennant chances Friday, taking a twin bill from the Chicago Cubs by identical scores of 5-1. The finale was called because of darkness after seven innings.

Although the Cardinals held a 3-1 lead after five innings, the abbreviated finale was sewed up when Ken Boyer, who hit a second-inning homer, slammed a two-run triple in the seventh.

The opener produced Ernie Broglio's 21st victory which was backed by Bill White's three-run homer in the third inning.

Sadecki, winning his ninth decision against eight defeats, scattered five hits over the seven-inning route.

White Sox 7, Indians 0

CLEVELAND (AP) — Early Wynn kept Chicago's fading pennant hopes alive Friday night with a seven-hit shutout as Ted Kluszewski drove in three runs with a homer and a single in a 7-0 victory over Cleveland.

The triumph left the White Sox 4½ games behind New York. The Yankees' magic number for the American League pennant is four.

Hawks Drill Just 20 Minutes Friday

Iowa's Hawkeyes practiced only 20 minutes Friday, and Coach Forest Evashevski declined to make a statement about Iowa prospects against Oregon State in Saturday's football opener.

The Iowa squad was in game jerseys for the practice, largely devoted to checking signals.

It rained earlier in the day but the field was covered and is expected to be in fair shape for the game.

Whitesel, associate professor of political science; "The President and Foreign Policy" by James Murray, associate professor of political science; "Voices of History" by Orville Hitchcock, professor of speech; "The President and the Newspapers" by David Gold, associate professor of sociology; "The President and Radio and Television" by Sam L. Becker, director of the TV Center; and a program on the challenges and responsibilities of the presidency by Professor Johnson.

"Background Religion," which replaces "Religious News Reporter" on Saturdays at 8 a.m., will feature informative programs about the world's religions. This program and "Morning Chapel," heard each weekday at 8 a.m., are prepared and produced in cooperation with the SUI School of Religion.

New to WSUI's news program will be a five-minute spot at 11:55 a.m. each day called "Coming Events." This program will list all important future events in the community and University, and will be followed by a two-minute news capsule, enabling listeners to find out very quickly what is going on in Iowa City and the world.

Other news programs on WSUI include two five-minute summaries, four 15-minute newscasts and two 15-minute "news-in-depth" programs. Eight news programs each week are devoted to background and perspective of different aspects of the news and include comment on foreign interpretations of the news.

Classroom broadcasts for the first semester of the 1960-61 school year will be "Modern European Novel" taught by Ralph Freedman, assistant professor of English, and "Modern Theatre" by Philip Benson, assistant professor of speech and dramatic art. Both programs are heard at 8:30 a.m., with the novel course broadcast each Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and the other class on Tuesday and Thursday.

Each Wednesday evening, WSUI and KSUI-FM combine their facilities to broadcast one hour of stereophonic music at 7. Those who listen with only AM or FM equipment will receive these programs, but the stereophonic effect will not be noticeable unless two receivers are used.

WSUI also schedules weekly theatre programs, opera, concerts, lectures and a Saturday afternoon supplement to the arts.

Schools Get Scholarship Recognition

Four Iowa high schools have been awarded the gold walnut shield of Phi Beta Kappa this fall in recognition of the superior composite scholastic averages achieved by their graduates during their freshman year at SUI.

Dubuque High School led the AAA group, which consists of schools enrolling more than 700. Runners-up were Bettendorf, Newton and Ames High Schools. Newton was a winner in 1950-51.

The AA schools, which enroll 200-699 students were led by Anamosa, with Denison, Spencer and Fairfield High Schools as runners-up.

Anita High School was the winner with Carroll, New London and Grundy Center High Schools runners-up in the A class, a group having enrollments of 100 to 299.

In the class B group, Grand Community High School, Boxholm, was the leader. The runners-up in these schools, with an enrollment of less than 100 students, were Ainsworth, Quasqueton and Amana Township High Schools.

The announcement of winners was made by William L. M. Burke, associate professor of art, of the SUI faculty. Burke is president of the SUI chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honor society.

Formal ceremonies will be held in each high school later this fall for presentation of the distinctive Phi Beta Kappa wall plaques. These travelling plaques will be kept by the schools until next year. At that time they will be replaced with smaller permanent certificates. The awards were instituted in 1950 by the SUI Phi Beta Kappa Chapter to recognize superior academic achievement by Iowa high school graduates.

Winners announced a year ago were high schools in Marshalltown, Charles City, Grand Junction and Olds.

Michaelsen Comments On Religion in Election

All issues have religious implications, but a candidate's religion should not be an issue in a political campaign unless there would be a direct involvement between his religion and his job, says Prof. Robert Michaelsen, director of the SUI School of Religion, writing in an inter-religious symposium in the current issue of America, national Catholic weekly review.

Michaelsen, also a Methodist minister, first agrees with another writer's assertion that "the genuinely religious person holds that all fundamental questions are ultimately theological." He then advocates all possible public discussion of these issues.

"We do far too little of this," writes the SUI professor. "Mostly, we, or the ecclesiastical organizations with which we are affiliated, make pronouncements. We need more dialogue, more symposiums, more exchange, more talking with and less talking at or against each other."

Earlier in the article, Michaelsen states that it is a good thing that we apply no tests of orthodoxy to our political candidates. "A candidate's religious affiliation or point of view may be debated on a rational basis only when it is directly and obviously relevant to his record or to the duties of the office he seeks (a Quaker for an office with military responsibilities or a Christian Scientist for public health officer, for example)," he says.

Michaelsen and five other protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen and laymen commented in the symposium on an essay in the issue by Robert G. Hoyt, a Catholic journalist.

Roads, Taxes Feature State Campaign

Talks on roads and taxes filled the bill Friday as Iowa's two candidates for governor continued their campaign stump across the state.

At a breakfast meeting in Creston, Atty. Gen. Norman Erbe, the Republican nominee, said that future highway development must be administered on the basis of need in all parts of Iowa.

"Our future highway development must be a testimonial to well planned progress, not to special privilege or political pressure," he said.

In a speech at Eldora, Lt. Gov. Edward J. McManus, the Democratic candidate, called for "some obvious common sense economies in our schools on the local level before we cry for more state aid and higher taxes."

McManus told the Iowa farmer is in economic distress and that higher taxes "will hasten his ruin. They will help drive him off his farm."

Crosby on TV—'National Velvet'

I watched the opening stanza of "National Velvet" with my eleven-year-old daughter which is the only way to watch it since it is she that it's aimed at. She thought it was absolutely wonderful so naturally I did, too. I also thought it rather wonderful that NBC is putting something on the air aimed at eleven-year-old girls.

It's the aim of all eleven-year-old girls — and twelve and thirteen and fourteen-year-old girls — to own a horse. That is the plot of the first episode. The girl dreams of getting a horse, and by George, she gets her horse and then rides him to victory (without a bridle which is a bit thick) in the junior jump race.

It was all very throat-tightening and sentimental. But it was also extremely well written and well acted. "National Velvet" came out of MGM, which is having trouble peddling its TV series although the ones I've seen have been very good. (Much better than the junk coming out of Revue, and Four Star, and Warner Brothers.)

"National Velvet" is Lori Martin, a thirteen-year-old girl, who is following in the substantial footsteps of Elizabeth Taylor, who played that part in the Twelfth Century. She's a cool one, all right, a fine little actress and a great little lady.

She's surrounded by a very real family — a gruff, kindly laconic father, a very real and thoroughly sticky teenage sister, a little brat baby brother, and a very nice mother. Then there's Mi Taylor, the unfrocked jockey who adds warmth and charm. But what I like about a show like this that it propagates decency and decorum. The aspirations of "Velvet" are decent, understandable, and well-nigh universal among small girls. I think after your child has seen it she (or he) will go to bed a little better rather than a little worse. Is this too much to ask of a series aimed at children?

Earlier that same evening Shirley Temple opened her new series with "The Land of Oz," laying herself out some invidious comparison to "The Wizard of Oz." Well, shucks, fellows, it wasn't a $4,000,000 movie she came up with, but it was an hour of very pleasant nonsense. If your child did not enjoy it, then he's been ruined by neurotic Westerns and my only advice is: get rid of him and try again.

Temple's through the generations, I think I may speak plainly. Don't be so bloody cute with those introductions, girl. The children today are tough little customers. The fluttering little, winsome smile, it just upsets and confuses a generation accustomed to pistol-whipping in the first five minutes. The moment Miss Temple got out of her hostess dress, and into costume as the boy Tip, she was just fine. It was just the introductions I found wearisome and I may now be indicted for heresy.

The rest of the cast was marvelous — Jonathan Winters as the evilest man in Oz (You're a man after my own black heart!), Agnes Moorehead as a monstrously highly styled witch, Ben Blue as the scarecrow, Sterling Holloway as Jack Pumpkinhead, and Frances Bergen as a lovely good witch. It was directed by William Corrigan with the lightest of touches.

I must apologize for my enthusiasm for fairy tales and all but it's been so long since television provided a touch of enchantment. Television is devoted so tirelessly toward giving our children nightmares that a little wholesomeness seems doubly so. I think it was a year ago that Commissioner Ford, the new chairman of the F.C.C., uttered a warning — or what I took to be a warning — that the broadcasters owed something constructive to our children. That was the last I heard on this subject I've heard.

The Tab Hunter show is the Bob Cummings show without Bob Cummings. Cummings is a photographer who gets chased by dames. I think — speaking ex officio, non tres parte, and what's more, rex obiter dictum (or is it dicta?) — that the girls in the Hunter show are more stunning than those in the Cummings show. But then Cummings is funny and Hunter isn't. Does this matter any more?

Of course, I've only seen one show so perhaps it'll get funnier, more strikingly original, more devastatingly dramatic. Perhaps the San Francisco Bay is composed of prune juice.

Dope Situation 'Alarming'

DES MOINES (AP)—The Federal Narcotics Bureau said Friday the narcotics situation in some Iowa cities has become "alarming." It said it would assign an agent to the state to help curb illegal dope traffic.

But this assessment of the situation was promptly discounted by J. F. Rabe, chief of the narcotics division of the State Pharmacy Board.

He said he had recently completed a survey of 22 chiefs of police in Iowa on dope traffic in their communities. The survey, he said, revealed no problem in Iowa and "those local law enforcement officers should know what they're talking about."

Federal assessment of the narcotics problem was contained in a letter to Gov. Herschel Loveless from U.S. Narcotics Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger.

The letter's contents were released by Loveless and State Safety Commissioner Donald Statton at a joint news conference Friday.

Statton said he would "prefer to take the word of Anslinger" to that of Rabe about illegal drug traffic in Iowa.

Statton, who has been conducting his own crackdown on narcotics peddlers in Iowa since last March, said he is "convinced and fully persuaded" the Mafia is behind the narcotics traffic in this state.

In his letter, Anslinger told the governor that heroin is readily available in Des Moines and other cities in Iowa. He did not name the other cities.

Anslinger wrote that the burglary of the Morphy Drug Co. in Council Bluffs in 1959 supplied $100,000 worth of narcotics to the illicit market in the Midwest.

Also in 1959, Anslinger said, a narcotic peddler was convicted at Davenport of supplying wholesale quantities of as much as two ounces of heroine to dealers in that area.

"There is no reason why the traffic in heroin and other narcotic drugs cannot be eliminated with proper cooperation among law enforcement agencies . . . and the courts in imposing severe sentences on convicted narcotic violators," Anslinger added.

At Friday's news conference, Loveless and Statton set out a 3-point narcotic enforcement program for the 1961 Iowa Legislature. The program calls for:

1. Establishment of a narcotics squad within the State Safety Department.
2. Funds to carry out the operation — possibly up to $250,000 to launch the program, said Statton.

LOVELESS

3. Stiffer penalties for narcotics law violators.

Statton proposes to raise the minimum sentence for the first narcotics offense from two to five years; for the second offense from five to 20 years; and the third offense from 10 to 40 years. Parole would not be permitted in any case.

Statton recently asked the Iowa Legislative Interim Committee for $13,000 to continue his crackdown. The committee turned down the request.

Rabe maintained Friday that narcotics enforcement in Iowa is still under his jurisdiction and that he knew of no one in the State Safety Department "with enough knowledge concerning drugs to enforce the laws."

He said the legislature has repeatedly turned down his request for more funds to expand the state narcotics division and that in the last quarter, he had to cut down on travel for his narcotics agents so that the division could stay within its budget.

Rabe cited a recent survey by the Federal Narcotics Bureau that showed Iowa "near the bottom of the list" concerning narcotic problems.

Statton said he has had federal assistance from two U.S. agents covering a five-state Midwest area, but that aid has been only occasional.

Anslinger said the special narcotics agent he is assigning exclusively to Iowa will operate out of Des Moines headquarters. He did not indicate when the agent would report for duty.

Russ Use Letter—

Powers Says U-2 Downed by Rocket

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union claimed supporting evidence from Francis Gary Powers for the story that a Soviet rocket felled his U-2 jet as it sped over the Urals at 68,000 feet on May 1.

The imprisoned pilot was quoted in a letter published Friday by Pravda, the Communist party paper, as saying he didn't feel any blow of a direct hit, but believes the plane was wrecked by the shock wave of an explosion that glowed as an orange burst in the rear "or maybe on the right."

Powers is serving a 10-year sentence on conviction of espionage.

Powers denied that he had ever told his father, Oliver W. Powers of Pound, Va., that his plane was not downed by a rocket, Pravda said.

The letter, addressed to the editor of the New York Times, concerned a news conference of the elder Powers in New York Aug. 25 after his return from the pilot's Moscow trial. Pravda printed a Russian translation of the text.

Oliver Powers told the news conference he believes his son's jet was not shot down, adding he did not say how it was downed in court or out of court. The Times quoted him as saying his son "didn't believe he was shot down."

The Soviet Union has insisted since Powers parachuted into captivity May Day that a single rocket blasted the U-2 from its 13-mile altitude.

Many Western air authorities, challenging the Soviet claim that the Russians are able to rocket down any intruder planes at any altitude, have expressed belief an engine failure forced the U-2 to glide within the range of regular anti-aircraft guns. Powers rejected this idea, saying all his instruments were "in good order until the very moment of the explosion," the letter said.

Bomb Threat

CEAR RAPIDS (AP)—About 1,000 students and teachers were sent home from McKinley Junior High School Friday after an anonymous caller said a bomb had been planted in the school.

Police, firemen and school authorities searched the building from top to bottom but found no bomb. Students and teachers were called back to school for the Friday afternoon session.

Authorities said the call was taken by the school principal's secretary shortly after school convened Friday morning.

She said a muffled voice, which sounded like that of a youngster, declared "There's a bomb in the school." The caller then broke the connection quickly.

It was the third bomb scare here in a week, the other two at St. Patrick's Parochial School last Friday and last Monday.

Authorities said information about the incidents has been forwarded to the Federal Bureau of Investigation office in Omaha.

Khan: Kashmir Issue May Re-open Disputes

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP)—President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan warned today that settlement of disputes between his country and India could be nullified unless the Kashmir issue is solved.

He sounded the warning after Prime Minister Nehru of India had left for home at the conclusion of 4½ days of talks which Nehru said would result in friendlier relations.

But on the bitter dispute over which nation shall control the state of Kashmir, Nehru told a news conference discussions had not led to any precise result.

The two leaders earlier signed a treaty settling a dispute over the distribution of waters from the Indus River basin.

A communique said that Ayub Khan would visit India, but gave no date.

United Nations teams have supervised a cease-fire line across Kashmir since 1949. Hindu India controls about two-thirds of the Himalayan state where 77 per cent of the four million people are Moslem. Moslem Pakistan holds the other third — a largely mountainous and infertile segment of Kashmir's 82,259 square miles.

Lumumba Followers Arrested

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Forces of Col. Joseph Mobutu arrested two of Patrice Lumumba's most fanatical followers Friday but still hesitated to take direct action against the deposed premier himself.

Mobutu's men picked up Antoine Gizenga, deputy premier in Lumumba's government, as he left the official residence where Lumumba is living under U.N. military protection.

Maurice Mpolo, Lumumba's minister of youth and sports, was the second man arrested.

Bassett Plans School Visits

Ed Bassett, instructor in the SUI School of Journalism, will embark Tuesday on the first of two field trips during which he will visit some 35 Iowa high schools.

Bassett, who is executive secretary of the Iowa High School Press Association, will be making the field trips as a service to the schools.

During his first trip, starting Tuesday, Bassett plans to make half-day stops at Independence, Oelwein, West Union, Decorah, Guttenberg, Dubuque, Maquoketa, and Bettendorf high schools.

'Regular Diet for Victims Of Arthritis,' Says Doctor

"Contrary to popular belief, people with rheumatoid arthritis should not be put on a special diet," an SUI physician said Friday at a postgraduate course on arthritis and related orthopedic conditions at the University's Medical Amphitheater.

Dr. Robert E. Hodges, associate professor of internal medicine at SUI's College of Medicine, said, "The best diet is a well-rounded general diet made up of foods the individual is accustomed to eating. The food should be prepared so it is appetizing and should be served in small portions so it will be easy to eat."

"The reason for this," Dr. Hodges continued, "is the fact that people with arthritis lose more calcium and protein than they take in. Some of this loss may be caused by certain medications taken for treatment of the disease. This makes it important that a general diet be served which contains all the necessary nutrients, minerals and vitamins."

"Over the years at University Hospitals we have shown that the addition of extra vitamins has no effect on arthritis," Dr. Hodges said. "Also, none of the present-day food fads has any effect."

Dr. Hodges emphasized "the necessity for physicians being familiar with food fads and other fallacious ideas about treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, so that they can better explain to patients why such measures are ineffective."

The SUI physician concluded, "In rheumatoid arthritis there is a tendency toward anemia, and when food intake is limited, the anemia gets worse. "Therefore," he explained, "the person should always eat well, not go on a diet."

'More Retired Land' — Nixon

Kennedy Says People Uneasy About U.S. Decline in Prestige

Vice President Richard M. Nixon unwrapped the second part of his farm plan package Friday, telling a plowing contest crowd in Sioux Falls, S. D., it offers a real chance for farmers to prosper.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, meanwhile, said in Denver he stakes his Democratic candidacy for the presidency on a belief that the American people are uneasy about what he said is a relative decline in U.S. vitality and prestige, and that they want something done about it.

Republican presidential candidate Nixon called his six-point plan for raising farm income a program "with a heart."

Its chief points call for considerable increase in the amount of land retired voluntarily from crop production and a long-term price support system with levels based on an average of market prices over immediately preceding crop years.

NIXON KENNEDY

In the first part of his program, outlined last week in Iowa, Nixon favored big new surplus disposal efforts, including vastly increased overseas shipments to feed the world's hungry peoples and creation of a strategic food reserve for use in event of national emergency.

Without mentioning Nixon by name, Kennedy struck back at the GOP candidate's recent charges that the Democratic candidate is a spokesman for disparagement of the United States; that Kennedy was selling America short.

"There are those who say that to call for greater effort and greater strength is to sell America short," Kennedy told a rally in Denver's Civic Center.

"But I do not equate criticism of Republican leadership with criticism of our country."

"On the contrary, it is because I have faith in this country — because I think it can do more and better — that I am calling for greater efforts and leadership."

In Kansas City, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, called for a moratorium on "the kind of campaigning that questions the motives and patriotism of a opponent."

Henry Cabot Lodge, the Republican vice-presidential candidate, flew into Ohio to seek votes in normally Democratic Youngstown and neighboring Warren.

At the White House, it was announced that Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will leave Oct. 20 on a goodwill tour of several Latin-American nations.

This means Benson — considered by some Republicans as a political liability — will be out of the country as the presidential campaign roars toward its climax.

Therefore, he said, the Rock Island "should have taken the necessary degree of care to protect its paid patrons from any and all abuses and physical harm which passengers are subject to."

He accused the railroad of disregarding the welfare and safety of its passengers in permitting such assaults.
