Idea in Housing Petition Called Improbable

SUI Law Prof Presents His Opinion

Says Very Difficult For State To Give Control to Students

A petition now circulating the SUI campus which has as one of its alternatives the turning over of married student housing to the married students was termed Friday night by an SUI law professor as "Not totally impossible, but enormously improbable."

Jerry Barrett, G. Medical Lake, Wash., introduced the petition Wednesday night at the Socialist Discussion Club. It demands that the University meet its "obligations as a landlord" in providing protective devices for children and fire and police protection or turn married student housing over to married students.

All SUI property, Charles Davidson, professor of law, went on, belongs to the State to be used by the University. He explained that action to sell such property would be complicated.

In order for married students to take legal control of the housing, this housing would have to be sold. The Code of Iowa states that no sale is possible except on the order of the State Board of Regents.

According to Davidson, following passage of a proposal by the Board of Regents, it would have to be passed through channels to the Attorney General and various others before it reached the executive council of the State, which would make the final approval.

In a telephone conversation with The Daily Iowan Friday night, Art A. Drebenstedt, Burlington, a member of the board, said, "I think we would consider the petition as long as there are two sides — each side has an opinion."

Drebenstedt said that he could not say whether the whole board would agree with him.

Harry H. Hagemann, Waverly, president of the Board, could not be reached.

The Code of Iowa states in chapter 262, "State Board of Regents," under purchases — prohibitions: "No sale or purchase of real estate shall be made save upon the order of the board, made at a regular meeting, or one called for that purpose, and then in such manner and under such terms as the board may prescribe, and only with the approval of the executive council. No member of the board or finance committee nor any officer of any institution, shall be directly or indirectly interested in such purchase or sale."

As for dormitories, which includes married student housing, the Code says (262.35-39):

"The State Board of Regents is authorized to:

"1. Erect from time to time at any of the institutions under its control such dormitories as may be required for the good of the institutions.

"2. Rent the rooms in such

Established in 1868

dormitories to the students, officers, guests, and employees of said institutions at such rates as will insure a reasonable return upon the investment.

"3. Exercise full control and complete management over such dormitories.

"Title to property: The title to all real estate so acquired and the improvements erected thereon shall be taken and held in the name of the state.

"Borrowing money and mortgaging property: In carrying out the above powers, said board may:

"1. Borrow money.

"2. Mortgage any real estate so acquired and the improvements erected thereon in order to secure necessary loans . . ."

4 SUI Coeds Isolate Selves For Weekend Experiment

Four SUI coeds are spending this weekend isolated in a Burge Hall room as an experiment in living together apart from the rest of the world.

Mary Jane Coffman, A4, Barrington, Ill., explained to The Daily Iowan Friday night that the project grew out of conversations earlier this week in which the four wondered how they would get along if they had to live in isolation as had Anne Frank and others.

The other three women are Lynn Briskin, N2, Chicago, Judy Ashline, N2, Keokuk, and Diane Peterson, A4, Park Ridge, Ill.

"We wondered how we'd get along — whether we'd argue," explained Miss Coffman. She reported late Friday night that already it appeared that the conversation among the four was becoming more serious than the constant interruptions provided by other dorm residents coming in and out usually permitted. The women have locked their door.

The experiment began at 3:40 Friday afternoon when the women simulated a surprise atomic attack by quickly gathering necessary supplies, including previously-purchased food, into the center of the room shared by Miss Peterson and Miss Coffman. Miss Briskin and Miss Ashline, who share a room across the hall in Burge, moved into their room, and at 4 p.m. the period of isolation began. The coeds plan to stay inside the room until 8 p.m. Sunday.

The women have declared everything not in the pile in the center of the room as "off-limits" in order to assure their getting along with a minimum of necessities.

City Council To Buy Lots for New Parking

Iowa City councilmen last night voted unanimously to pay $44,000 for two additional properties to be used for a double-level parking facility on East Burlington and Clinton Streets.

William Ruppert asked $22,500 for 17 East Burlington St., and Edward F. and Maude Rate $21,500 for 19 East Burlington St. Both properties have buildings on them.

Area in the half-block the city now holds totals 40,900 square feet and will provide parking for 145 cars. The Ruppert and Rate tracts gives the city 80 feet of frontage on Burlington Street adjoining 230 feet of frontage on Clinton.

at 17 and 19 East Burlington St. They are in the same half-block — bounded by Burlington, Clinton and Court Streets — as four Clinton Street properties bought in August.

"Negotiations for the re-opening of Renaissance II have been underway for the past week," the statement read, "and it appears certain that this weekend will prove decisive. If the committee's proposals are accepted, we can anticipate the coffee house's re-opening within days. If not, it may be substantially longer."

On Sept. 27 The Daily Iowan reported that David Vetter, a 1958 SUI graduate, had confirmed his intention to move to Iowa City from his home in Cedar Rapids and take over management and main ownership of the coffee house from Beardsley.

At that time, Vetter told The Daily Iowan that the Renaissance II would "almost assuredly" re-open before Oct. 15.

Vetter was not mentioned by Beardsley Friday, and he declined to identify the members of the committee which issued the statement or the type of negotiations being carried on.

The Sept. 27 report said financing of the re-opening would be augmented by sales of "sponsorships" at a minimum of $10 each. It was also indicated then that whether the enterprise would be incorporated might be decided at a meeting between Beardsley and Vetter which had been scheduled for last weekend.

Beardsley said Friday that the location for the Renaissance is now undetermined, but that if negotiations prove advantageous, it will be re-opened at its former address, 130 1/2 S. Clinton.

"I promise the coming year is going to be fantastic for the demonstration of people's creative ability," Beardsley declared. "The whole thing is designed for this purpose."

Presidential Candidates Appear in Lively Debate

Both Appear Relaxed, More Eager To Argue

By HAROLD HATFIELD
Editorial Assistant

More than 250 SUIowans gathered in the TV Room and Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union Friday night to watch a lively debate between Presidential candidates Richard Nixon and John Kennedy.

The debate, second in a series of four, was considerably livelier than the first, which was presented in September. Both participants seemed less restrained and more eager to throw political punches.

Nixon in particular appeared to this reporter to have made a great change in his TV appearance. He answered questions more readily and thus may have seemed more convincing to many.

The debate was characterized by the candidates' opposite opinions on one basic theme: the condition of the United States in regard to economics and international prestige.

As he has done throughout his campaign, Kennedy repeatedly commented on the "decline in American prestige abroad" and the economic recession being experienced by the United States.

"The '60's will bring hard times," he said. "They will be difficult." "The next four years will be critical." "We face a very hazardous time." And so on.

And as in past speeches, Nixon sought to assure the people that times are good. He reprimanded Kennedy, saying that such recurrent doom-saying is harmful, especially at the present time with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in New York.

He repeated again that the United States is the best-fed and clothed nation in the world. "You should emphasize the United States' strength," Nixon told Kennedy.

Kennedy answered that there are millions of people in the United States who are not well fed. He said that 25 million people eat "beans instead of beef." He added that there are many more who are inadequately sheltered.

Another major disagreement concerned U.S. policy toward the islands of Quemoy and Matsu. Kennedy maintained that defense lines in the Western Pacific should be drawn around Formosa, because a number of statesmen and military persons have stated that the Quemoy and Matsu are indefensible. He added that it would be unwise to go to war over them.

Nixon disagreed completely with Kennedy. He said that South Korea had also been said to be indefensible, but we went to war to stop the Communists' aggression.

There are principles involved in the issue, Nixon said. "The two pieces of real estate are not important, and the few people on them are not important. But we should not force an ally to give up part of its territory, an area of freedom, and hand them over to the Communists."

Both candidates agreed that they would never agree to another Summit conference without extensive previous preparation to insure its success.

Nixon said he would have to have assurance that Khrushchev was sincerely interested in accomplishing something at a Summit meeting.

Nixon was more specific than Kennedy in his civil rights views. He said he favored federal assistance to those school districts which want to integrate. The government should be active in relieving the unemployment problem, he added.

Kennedy said only that the people need to know what the President will do in civil rights.

The third debate between the Presidential candidates will be held Thursday, Oct. 13.

Council Sets Leadership Meet Today

Officers of all campus housing units, honorary, professional, and church groups have been invited to attend a Student Council-Sponsored Leadership Training Program today. The program is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Bob Downer, A4, Newton, Student Council president, said the program is designed to stimulate and develop a sense of leadership among SUI students. "It promises to be a fine meeting," Downer said.

Speakers for the conference are M. L. Huit, dean of students; Leslie G. Moeller, director of the School of Journalism; Phil Connel, assistant to President Hatcher; George Stevens, assistant director of the Union; Waldo Geiger, auditor for student organizations; Gordon Strayer and James Jordan, heads of the University public relations; and Orville Hitchcock, professor of speech.

Re-Opening Date Uncertain

How soon the Renaissance II coffee house will re-open appeared up in the air Friday.

John Beardsley, A4, Coralville, gave The Daily Iowan a statement prepared by a committee which is negotiating the re-opening of the Renaissance II.

"Negotiations for the re-opening of Renaissance II have been underway for the past week," the statement read, "and it appears certain that this weekend will prove decisive. ## Starting To Build Fence

Safety for the Park

A Templin Park resident, Bill Walther, G, Chico, Calif., digs a post hole as residents of the park start Friday to build a safety fence around the area. The fence shown in the picture encloses only one yard.

Templin Park residents began building their controversial fence Friday afternoon and were still at it as darkness fell.

Using materials paid for on a 50-50 basis by the residents and the University, the married students put their own elbow-grease to work with tools provided by the University.

The fence is four-foot high wire with wood posts. The total cost of the fence has been estimated at $420.

Agitation for the erection of the fence began when the 2-year-old son of a resident drowned in the Iowa River two weeks ago.

While the residents were busy building, a representative of the Iowa Restaurant Association arrived with $25 to help the students pay for their share of the cost.

The Restaurant Association at present is taking legal action to try to prevent construction of the hotel portion of the new Union addition.

Ermal Loghrey, a member of the association, said the group voted at a meeting Thursday night to contribute $25 toward building the fence.

"Some ladies felt strongly about the death of the child and they put a motion on the floor which was voted through," he said.

But How?

She Made It Out — You Figure It Out

A 12-year-old female monkey escaped from her cage in City Park Friday night and completely disappeared.

Her whereabouts wasn't the only mystery.

How she got out in the first place posed a puzzler.

The monkey's cage was in one of the closed-in houses and the gates to it were latched when police arrived.

In fact, police had to find the zoo-keeper to get the keys to get into the cage.

There was no evidence of how the monkey could have gotten out, police said.

The ape's escape was reported by an unidentified man who also had disappeared by the time officials got to the scene.

TOKYO GROWS

TOKYO (AP) — Tokyo had 277,263 more mouths to feed on Sept. 1, 1960, than it had the year before, the city's Statistics Bureau reported Friday. The capital's 1960 population was 9,380,192, with 4,857,092 males and 4,523,100 females.

Fashion Experts To Select SUI's Miss Perfect Profile

Four fashion judges have been selected to pick 1960's Miss Perfect Profile in the Profile Previews fashion show Thursday.

Mrs. Ray Crouse, Des Moines, from Younker's Department Store will serve as coordinator for the panel of judges. Mrs. Crouse, who was also coordinator for the 1959 show, will be joined on the panel by Miss Maxine Maticce, Cedar Rapids, from Armstrong's Department Store; Mrs. Edward Sheehy, Cedar Rapids, from Killian's Store; and Mrs. Elizabeth Bane, Dubuque.

The annual fashion show, which will feature about 90 SUI freshmen and transfer students modeling their own clothes, will be presented in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Profile Previews committee members are now screening more than 400 applications received from girls interested in modeling in the show.

Those chosen to model will be notified by the committee after all tryouts have been completed.

Ann Strief, A3, Des Moines, is general chairman of this year's Profile Previews show.

Profile Previews will be presented free of charge to all SUI students. Beth Kesterson, A2, Des-Moines, was last year's winner.

Contact chairman for the event is Lynette Murdy, A2, Newton. Her committee members are: Gail Graf, A1, Park Ridge, Ill.; Connie Husting, A3, Moline; Susan Webb, A2, Hinsdale, Ill.; Sue Minear, A2, Clive; Susan Oehler, A3, Centerville; Kay Fenton, A2, Des Moines; Barb Wilson, A2, Sioux City; Vicki Larson, A3, Mason City; Jan Deckard, A2, Des Moines; Pat Olson, A1, Onawa; Barb Patter-

Hawks Face Spartans in Crucial Showdown

Seek 3rd Straight Triumph, Sole Possession of Lead

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Iowa's happy Hawks seek their third win in a row and their second in succession over a Big Ten opponent here today when they tangle with the Wolverines from Michigan State.

Each team has a 1-0 record in the Western Conference. The squad which comes out on top in this test will take over first place in the loop — at least for a short time.

Iowa practiced behind locked gates this week, and although the basic offense is unchanged, there are a few new wrinkles added by Coach Forest Evashevski and his staff to throw the Spartans off balance.

Iowa will once again turn loose its explosive and speedy backs as it did a week ago in the drubbing of Northwestern. Leading the way will be captain Jerry Mauren, team scoring leader with 18 points, and Larry Ferguson, who has ground out 9.1 yards a carry.

Directing the attack will be quarterback Wilburn Hollis, the junior quarterback from Boys Town, Neb. Hollis is a much improved player over last year, and runs as well as any recent quarterback on the difficult option play.

Leading players in the line again will probably be the five starters, tackles Al Hinton and Charlie Lee, guards, Mark Manders and Sherwyn Thorson and center Bill Van Buren.

These five linemen have gained plaudits after plaudits for their play in Iowa's first two games this season.

If there is a game on the schedule that will mean more to Iowa in the Big Ten race, it would be a hard one to find. Should the Hawks emerge victorious, they will have a 2-0 mark and will be in an excellent position to fend off the advances of the other teams with title aspirations.

Michigan State has some of the biggest linemen in the conference, and is led by several sterling backs, notably Herb Adderly and Gary Ballman.

In addition to being a close contest, the game should also have its comic moments.

Spartan coach Duffy Daugherty announced Thursday night that he would use a soccer star to kick off against Iowa.

This, the coach explained, was to prevent the possibility of a long touchdown run by the fleet Iowa backs. Daugherty figures the Iowa backs won't be able to get their hands on it.

In its game a week ago, Michigan ran back a kickoff 99 yards against the Spartans for a touchdown.

The Hawks worked out about 30 minutes in Iowa City Friday morning.

The squad then boarded buses to the Cedar Rapids airport from where they took off via DC-6 for East Lansing Michigan.

There were 38 players on the traveling squad. They are:

John Calhoun, William DiCindio, Larry Ferguson, Sammie Harris, Al Hinton, Wilburn Hollis, Keith Kinderman, Alex Korzeniewski and Robert Kreamer.

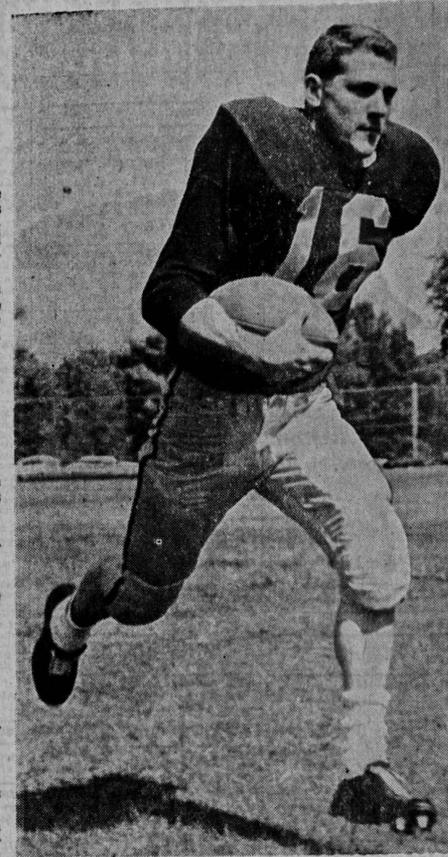

Also Charles Lee, Mark Manders, Jerry Mauren, Mike McDonald, Earl McQuiston, Tom Moore, Eugene Mosley, Kenneth Neubert, William Perkins, Dayton Perry and Emery Pudder.

Others are William Whisler, Chester Williams, Joe Williams, Jerry Williams, Jim Winston, Bernard Wyatt, Robert Yauck and Donald Zimm.

Sophomore tailback Dave Hoppmann and fullback Tom Watkins are the Iowa State aces. Hoppmann leads the nation in rushing and total offense and Watkins was the nation's No. 2 ground gainer a year ago. Both have played big roles in leading the Cyclones to three straight victories this fall.

The Jayhawks are faster and bigger, but McClinton, key man both offensively and defensively, may be slowed with a leg injury. Hoppmann also is nursing a weak leg and may not start.

Two More Cities Accepted by NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago and Pittsburgh Friday were granted franchises in the National Basketball Association beginning with the 1961-62 season. The addition of the two cities, franchise holders in the old Basketball Association of America, boosted the NBA's membership to 10 teams.

After awarding the new franchises, the NBA's board of governors also voted to boost each team's player squad.

Instead of being limited to 10 players, each team will be permitted to carry 12 until Dec. 15. After then the clubs will be able to carry 11 players but will be able to dress only 10 for competition.

A league spokesman indicated the two new teams will be stocked by players from other clubs plus college grades picked in next April's draft.

ISU, Kansas In Battle Of Backfields

AMES (AP) — Two of the Big Eight's best backfields collide here Saturday when Kansas plays Iowa State in a Big Eight football game.

Cyclone Coach Clay Stapleton calls the Kansas runners "the best backfield in Big Eight history" but he has a pair of dandies himself.

The Kansas backs who almost upset Syracuse, the nation's top-ranked team, are John Hadl, Curtis McClinton, Doyle Schick and Bert Coan. Schick does the blocking for his teammates who are all averaging more than five yards a carry.

Sophomore tailback Dave Hoppmann and fullback Tom Watkins are the Iowa State aces. Hoppmann leads the nation in rushing and total offense and Watkins was the nation's No. 2 ground gainer a year ago. Both have played big roles in leading the Cyclones to three straight victories this fall.

The Jayhawks are faster and bigger, but McClinton, key man both offensively and defensively, may be slowed with a leg injury. Hoppmann also is nursing a weak leg and may not start.

Underdog Bucs Invade NYC For 3rd World Series Game

NEW YORK (AP) — The favored New York Yankees, boasting a fantastic .390 team batting average, will send Whitey Ford against Pittsburgh's Vinegar Bend Mizell in a duel of left-handed pitchers in Saturday's third World Series game at Yankee Stadium.

Riding high after Thursday's 16-3 rout that squared the Series at one game each, the Yanks returned to their home park with high hopes of closing out the Series in the Bronx.

Manager Casey Stengel said he was undecided on his left fielder, naming Yogi Berra, Hector Lopez and Bob Cerv as possibilities. He appeared to lean toward Berra, who caught the first game and moved to the outfield in the second.

"Berra is a very good player and I would hate to take him out of a Series," said Stengel. "It wouldn't surprise me if I played him. If I don't he'll be my No. 1 pinch hitter. Then if I play him they'd say 'What's the matter with the old man, playing Berra with those two right-handed hitters Lopez and Cerv sitting on the bench.' Stengel said he would go with his "experienced" infielders and move in his "defensive men" later.

Ford, 31, will be starting his 13th Series game, a record. He has a 5-4 won-lost record in Series play. In 1960 he won 12 and lost nine.

Mizell, a 6-foot-3, 205-pound lefty, presents a sharp contrast in style. The colorful pitcher from Vinegar Bend, Okla., sticks his right foot in the batter's face when he hears back to throw. His acquisition from St. Louis in a May 28 deal was a key move in the Pirates' pennant drive. He had a 1-3 record with the Cards but finished up with a 14-8 season.

Danny Murtaugh said the 16-3 beating in Pittsburgh would not bother his Pirates.

"What we did the day before never has affected us the next day," said the Pirate manager.

Murtaugh said he would not make a definite announcement on his pitcher for Sunday's fourth game. It likely will be Harvey Haddix, 11-10, a lefty, but it also could be Vern Law 20-9, who won the opener.

Stengel said Ralph Terry 10-8 should be his Sunday pitcher but hinted he might change after Saturday's game. A rookie right-hander was a possibility. Stafford was in the bullpen most of the time Thursday afternoon.

The best-of-seven series will continue at the stadium for the next three games, through Monday. If a sixth and seventh are necessary they will be played in Pittsburgh after an open date Tuesday.

The Yanks pulled a switch from the usual routing of having a politician toss out the first ball. When it is game time Saturday at 1 p.m., EDT Ted Williams, recently retired Boston Red Sox great, will do the honors from a box seat.

Top Teams To Clash On Gridiron

The Big Ten holds the nation's college football spotlight Saturday when six of its seven unbeaten teams are paired against each other.

In addition, two other pairs of unbeaten, Air Force-Missouri, and Arkansas-Baylor, lock horns in a day that is going to settle the usual topsy-turvy picture prevalent so early in the season.

The top battle is between the teams ranked 4 and 5 in the current Associated Press poll, Illinois and Ohio State, which meet in Champaign, Ill.

The Illini, rated fourth, have beaten Indiana, in a game that won't count in the Big Ten standings, and West Virginia. The fifth-ranked Bucks have not yielded a point in beating Southern Methodist and Southern California.

In another conference battle almost equally attractive, third-rated Iowa (2-0) plays Michigan State, which has tied Pitt and defeated Michigan.

Purdue, ranked seventh, plays Wisconsin. Minnesota, the other unbeaten Big Ten eleven, meets Northwestern.

Top-ranked Syracuse gets a respite against two-time loser Holy Cross.

Air Force and Missouri both have won three games while Arkansas, ranked ninth with a 3-0 mark, tries to get a bigger jump in the Southwest Conference race against Baylor 2-0.

Three more of the top ten are busy in the South. Second-ranked Mississippi has a Southeastern Conference date against Vanderbilt while sixth-ranked Navy plays Southern Methodist in the Oyster Bowl at Norfolk, Va. Clemson, ranked eighth, plays Virginia, which has the nation's longest major college losing streak, 28.

Kansas (No. 10) meets potent Iowa State in a key Big Eight battle.

Stanford's passing whiz, Dick Norman, tries to stave off Washington's Huskies in the television game of the day beginning at 3:45 p.m. EST ABC-TV. Seven hours before this, Miami, Fla. and Pitt meet in Pittsburgh 9 a.m. EST so as not to conflict with the World Series in New York.

With a slight lull in the glut of World Series copy which has flooded these pages recently, it's time to look at the grid games of the week and to take our blind weekly stabs.

It's better late than never, says the old saw, but with this column, better never than late might be the byword. Oh well, we all can't be winners. Forward, March!

Iowa 32, Michigan State 24 — Iowa's spirited Hawks, after the decisive win over Northwestern a week ago, need only remember that it's Michigan State out there today. If they do, they'll win.

Illinois 28, Ohio State 24 — Watch out on this one. Illinois was highly regarded early this year and has handled Indiana and weak West Virginia. Could be third straight.

Indiana 20, Oregon State 13 — Indiana, with no conference foes this year, will be particularly eager to beat this crew from the coast.

Michigan 26, Duke 18 — The Wolves, who dropped a close contest to Michigan State a week ago, will have little trouble with this extra-conference foe.

Minnesota 24, Northwestern 21 — This could be one of the closest games in the Big Ten. The 'Cats are still smarting from the pounding Iowa gave them. Minnesota has a lot of momentum after drubbing Indiana. It will be close.

Purdue 28, Wisconsin 24 — It's always tough to pick a winner in the Big Ten contests. The teams are too evenly matched, it seems. But after that trouncing the Boiler-makers gave Notre Dame Saturday, their desire should overcome any Badger threat.

Kansas 26, Iowa State 22 — Much as we'd like to pick our fellow Iowans to win this test, we can't. Kansas showed too much while losing to Syracuse Saturday. Iowa State will be no pushover, though.

Colorado State 28, Drake 12 — Little trouble for the Westerners

In this battle, Drake doesn't have the horses to pull this one out.

Other Picks — Air Force 28, Missouri 18; Army 26, Penn State 12; Georgia Tech 24, Louisiana State 21; Marquette 21, Boston College 13; Navy 26, Southern Methodist 21.

More Winners — Notre Dame 21, North Carolina 14; Oklahoma 26, Texas 12; Pittsburgh 21, Miami 20 and Syracuse 40, Holy Cross 12.

Periodically, groundswells of activity appear on campus concerning the living facilities SUI offers its students. Especially at this time — concerning married housing — comes the question as to whether the University is playing "dirty pool" with the income from such housing.

Because of the transient nature of students, there seems to be no good communication from one year to the next among them.

One such example is the recent rumor that the temporary barracks and quonsets were sold to the University for $1 apiece. According to a history of married housing given in a 1958 report by the Office of University Relations, this is wrong. The units themselves cost the University nothing.

What happened, the report continued, is that SUI had called on the Federal Public Housing Authority (FPHA), under this agency's emergency housing function, ask-
