'60 Homecoming Activity Begins

Police Close City Streets For Parade

Parade fans, park your cars away from the business district, and walk in to see the Homecoming parade.

This request was made by Iowa City police Thursday as they prepared for the closing off of many downtown streets this afternoon.

Tonight's parade route will be similar to that of past years. It will begin at the intersection of Gilbert and Iowa Streets, go west to Dubuque Street, then north to Market Street, a block west to Clinton Street, then south to College Street where it ends.

All shifts of Iowa City police plus University police, ROTC cadets, and others will be on duty in the downtown area.

Signs notifying motorists of evening parking restrictions will be placed on parking meters and light posts about 1 p.m. today.

A barricade was to be erected at Iowa Avenue and Dubuque Street. This is to permit the construction of the reviewing stand on Iowa Avenue at Clinton Street.

Parking will be permitted in the east end of this block until 3 p.m., police said.

Heavy pedestrian traffic and few available parking spaces are expected in the downtown district.

Officers will begin checking the assembly area east of the business district at 5:15 p.m. to see that no cars are left parked there. Cars remaining at that time will be towed away at the owner's expense.

The parade route will be cleared of all vehicles at 6 p.m. except for two blocks on Dubuque Street. These two blocks will be held open for highway traffic until the actual start of the parade.

While the parade is in progress, police will detour traffic from Highways 1 and 261 (and truck traffic from Highway 218) across Church Street to Dodge Street to Burlington Street and back to Dubuque Street.

Assembly area includes these streets:

Iowa Avenue — south side from Gilbert to Dodge Streets.

Jefferson Street — south side from Linn to Dodge Streets and north side from Gilbert to Johnson Streets.

Gilbert Street — Both sides from Washington to Jefferson Streets, and east side from Jefferson to Market Streets.

Van Buren Street — Both sides from Jefferson to Market Streets and east side from Jefferson to Washington Streets.

Barricades to prevent traffic through this area will be erected at mid-afternoon.

A special area will again be reserved by parade officials for the use of crippled children and disabled veterans. This will be somewhere along Iowa Avenue near Dubuque Street.

Each group is responsible for its float after the parade, police said.

Mile-Long Parade Kicks Off 1960 Homecoming Activities

The "sound of music" and the beauty of multi-colored floats will mark the opening of Homecoming at SUI tonight as the annual Homecoming parade winds its way through the streets of Iowa City, beginning at 7 p.m.

The mile-long parade will "kick-off" Homecoming activities with a 63-unit procession of bands, floats, antique cars, Shrine units and other entries.

Leading the parade will be the color guard and the Pershing Rifle ROTC drill team. Next will be official cars carrying the two honorary parade marshals — Bob Downer, A4, Newton, SUI Student Council president, and James Stewart, president of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce — and President Virgil M. Hancher, Provost H. H. Davis and Iowa City Mayor Ray Thornberry.

Also near the head of the parade will be the SUI cheerleaders and the five semi-finalists in the "Miss SUI" contest.

Alpha Chi Omega Leads Badge Sale

Alpha Chi Omega social sorority, captained by Barbara Blank, A2, Gary, Ind., took the lead in YWCA badge sales Thursday with total sales of 1,144 Homecoming badges.

In second place is Pi Beta Phi, captained by Nikki Patton, A2, Glencoe, Ill., with 972 badges sold.

Delta Zeta ranks third with 868 badges sold. Its captain is Penny Atkinson, A2, Wilmette, Ill.

Strike Settlement

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Negotiations for the Westinghouse Electric Corp. and the International Union of Electrical Workers reached agreement on a new three-year contract Thursday.

'K' Boasts of Subs

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Thursday the Soviet Union, like the United States, has rocket-carrying nuclear submarines. He warned against any American undersea patrol near Soviet shores, calling this a brink-of-war policy.

will be provided by the Hawkeye Marching Band, the Scottish Highlanders and high school bands from Birmingham, Blairtown, Brooklyn, Calamus, Clarence and Lowden, Deep River and Millersburg, Dysart, Iowa City, Keosauqua, Lisbon, Lost Nation, Maquoketa, Moose Lake, Sigourney, Solon, Washington, West Branch and Wheatland.

Other units include three antique cars, the Iowa City Saddle Club and Shrine units from Iowa City, Louisa County, Le Clair and Dubuque.

Provost marshal for the parade is Capt. Clarke Scott, AFROTC director of leadership. Capt. Scott will be assisted by nearly 60 advanced cadets in starting the parade and keeping it running smoothly along the route, as they have done in the past.

SPI OK's 2 DI Staffers

The Board of Student Publications, Inc. (SPI) approved the appointment of two new Daily Iowan staffers at its meeting Thursday. Gary Gerlach, A2, St. Ansgar, was named assistant managing news editor, and Phil Currie, A3, Iowa City, was appointed assistant student body.

Gerlach will be working under Darold Powers, G, Washington, Ia., managing editor, and Jim Seda, A4, Traer, news editor. Currie will be working under Mike Pauly, A4, Dubuque, sports editor.

The SPI Board, composed of five elected student members and four faculty members appointed by SUI President Virgil Hancher, supervises The Daily Iowan, Hawkeye (the SUI yearbook), and shares the financing and promotion of football game programs with the Athletic Department.

Can Watch Debate

SUIowans can take in both the Homecoming parade and the debate between John Kennedy and Richard Nixon tonight.

The debate will be seen at the Union at 8 p.m. on channels 4 and 6; and at 9 p.m. on channels 2, 7, and 9.

Student Court on Cheating Wins Favorable Comment

By BARBARA HAARDT Staff Writer

SUIowans asked to comment Thursday on a proposed student court to try cases of cheating on University examinations were generally enthusiastic.

Most students interviewed saw a stricter dealing with cheaters as the primary advantage of a student court. Several suggested that tougher punishment would, in turn, decrease the incidence of cheating at SUI.

Dennis Boatman, A3, Bloomfield, who proposed the student court last week, said he considered it "one way to start to tackle the problem of cheating." He pointed out that under present conditions, "A student really doesn't know what would happen to him if he were caught cheating, so he might take the chance."

"Present handling of cheating is nil," said Robert Downer, L1, Newton, Student Council President. "The problem is largely ignored. A student court could be much more effective."

"I've heard of cases where cheating was reported to an instructor and he simply moved the student whose test was being copied or ignored the whole incident," said Jim Rogers, A2, Urbana, Ill.

"Students judging cheaters would be tougher. It would be in their own interest since most classes are graded on the curve." Rogers also said he thought the faculty tended to be optimistic about student cheating. "I doubt that they know how much cheating goes on here," he concluded.

Improvement of students' attitude toward cheating was cited by Joan Anderson, A2, Hiawatha, as one benefit of a student court. "If we have a court," she said, "students are likely to feel more responsibility toward the problem, and they'll be less likely to participate in cheating."

Barbara Bjornstad, A4, Spencer, felt that a student court is "worth a try." She said, "I would point to the student traffic court as an example of what students can do if given the opportunity."

Linda Riecke, A3, Cedar Rapids, suggested that the court could be run along the lines of the judiciary programs in the housing units. "A student court's effectiveness would depend upon what methods it set up," said Mary Apple, G, Oilton, Okla. "If it decided to publicize names of convicted cheaters, I think that it would definitely cut down cheating."

Bernice Beale, G, Puerto Rico, commented, "A student who is aware that he may be tried by his fellow students will think again before attempting to cheat."

A dissenting note came from Don Scholokamp, P1, Sioux Center, who stressed that cheating is a problem to be faced by each individual. "The person who cheats knows that he's taking a risk, no matter what the punishment will be."

Boatman told The Daily Iowan his proposal — made last week in a student-faculty meeting — was actually for a half-student, half-faculty court. In elaborating on it, he cited a poll taken last year at SUI to determine where and why cheating took place.

He said, "If exams are given under conditions which aren't conducive to cheating, most students won't attempt it. But there are always a few professionals."

He mentioned several suggestions to improve the conditions under which exams are given. The number of proctors might be increased. Proximity among exam-takers could be reduced, and no exams given in such areas as the chemistry auditorium where raised seats "make it easy to look over someone's shoulder."

Finally, said Boatman, when A and B forms of a test are given to every other student in a row of seats, the forms could be of different colors so that proctors might easily spot any student who had exchanged his test.

49th Annual Weekend Romp Promises Gay Time for All

By HAROLD HATFIELD Editorial Assistant

At exactly 12:20 p.m. today SUI goes into orbit. The pealing of the Old Capitol bell will announce the official beginning of the wackiest, busiest, and most looked-forward-to weekend of the year — SUI Homecoming.

Studies will be ignored, sleeping hours will be cut short, and most conventional activities will be thrown out the window as students, parents, alumni, faculty, friends and just plain people try to crowd the most of the best into two short days.

The News In Brief Gold Rush

Feverish speculation gripped the world's bullion markets Thursday as the price of gold soared as investors rushed to unload their stocks of American dollars.

On the London market — pacesetter for world exchanges — a top price of 290 shillings — $40.60-per ounce was reported in the last minutes of trading. This was a gain of $5.18 an ounce for the day.

The official U.S. Treasury price is $35 per fine troy ounce.

Speculation that the United States might devalue the dollar by raising the gold price appeared to be one of the chief reasons for the sharp rise in the price of gold. These reports brought a formal and flat denial from the U.S. Treasury.

Bonsal Recalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Thursday recalled Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal from Havana "for an extended period of consultation." It said, "No date has been fixed for his return to Cuba."

The State Department announcement, a day after the United States slapped an embargo on most U.S. exports to Cuba, underlined that U.S.-Cuban relations are at a new low.

Charges Renewed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Communist nations kept up their fire in the United Nations Thursday on Western disarmament proposals, echoing Soviet Premier Khrushchev's renewed charges that the United States and its allies are trying to stall progress toward East-West agreement.

Foreign Ministers Adam Rapacki of Poland and Vaclav Dav of Czechoslovakia, the two main speakers of the day in the 99-nation U.N. Political Committee, both accused the West of stepping up the arms race.

The Choice of Male SUIowans

The five finalists in the Miss SUI contest are, left to right, Sharon Lutjen, A2, Des Moines; Linda Farrah, N2, Elgin, Ill.; Diane Mitchell, A2, Des Moines; Barbara Born, A2, Freeport, Ill.; and Jo Whitford, A4, West Union. announced in Saturday morning's Daily Iowan. Judges are four SUI College of Dentistry alumni — Dr. Floyd Bridge, Storm Lake; Dr. Richard Emmons, Clinton; Dr. Thomas, Denver, Colo.; and Dr. A. M. Raeker, Waterloo.

The Homecoming Pep Rally will be held on the East Approach to Old Capitol immediately after the parade. President Virgil Hancher, Coach Forest Evashovski, football captain Jerry Mauren, and Gordon Locke, Washington, D.C. lawyer and an SUI grad, will be speakers.

For the first time, Miss SUI will be crowned following the Pep Rally. Last year she was crowned at the homecoming dance. Bob Hawk, B4, Cedar Rapids, will crown the Queen.

Festivities will continue after the Pep Rally as the Dolphins present their annual watershow extravaganza in the Fieldhouse pool. This year's production is entitled "Soggy Sawdust."

In addition, the Iowa Memorial Union will hold Open House from 8:30 p.m. till midnight, featuring alumni registration, free refreshments, exhibits, dancing, and Hawkeye football films.

The big day begins early Saturday morning. Alumni of Omicron Delta Kappa, the men's honorary fraternity, will meet at the Jefferson Hotel at 8:30 for the annual alumni breakfast.

Feminine athletes will have the spotlight at 9 a.m. when they square off on the Women's Athletic Field for their Homecoming hockey game.

Many Homecomers look forward to the coffee hours in the individual departments almost as much as they do the game. Beginning at 9 a.m. grads will gather to reminisce and meet all the people they haven't seen since "way back when." A public Chamber Music Program will be presented in the North Music Hall at 10 a.m.

Shortly after noon the migration to the stadium will begin, with 59,000 fans expected to see the game. Big yellow mums bearing the black "I" will be seen everywhere.

Undoubtedly, a prominent group, the "scalpers," will be on hand to take advantage of the unlucky person who was unable to get tickets. A rumor two days ago said the going price was three tickets for $40.

At 1:30, it's FOOTBALL — Iowa vs. Purdue. The Hawks are going after their fifth straight and the Boilermakers are out to down the number one team in the nation and the Big 70 leader. The Hawks are picked to win by most of the experts, but never by a very large margin.

The Scottish Highlanders will perform their "drum dance" and "sword dance" in pre-game activities.

Half-time entertainment will feature more queens and bands. The Purdue band will appear first to present their "Wheels A' Rollin'" show.

Then the Hawkeye Marching Band will take the crowd on a "Holiday in Paris," and provide the musical background for the presentation of the Dolphin Queen and Miss SUI.

More than 150 state and national officials are scheduled to attend the Homecoming game. Among them are senators Bourke Hickenlooper, Cedar Rapids, and Thomas Martin Iowa City, and Representatives Fred Schwengel, Davenport; Leonard Wolf, Elkader, and Merwin Coad, Boone.

Both candidates for governor — Lieut. Gov. Edward McManus, Democrat, and Norman Erbe, Republican — will be on hand.

For those who can still function after the game, there will be an open house in the fieldhouse. The band and Old Gold Singers will entertain.

The gala weekend goes into its final round Saturday evening. The Dolphins will present "Soggy Sawdust" at 7:00 and 9:00.

Ralph Marterier and His Orchestra will play at the Homecoming Dance in the Main Lounge at the Union from 8 p.m. till midnight.

All SUI coeds receive automatic late leaves Saturday night until 1:30 a.m.

And Sunday it will all be over — except for those poor souls who have to travel home, and those who will have to clean up the festa debris, and those who just plain need to rest.

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the University.

Cuba Caught in Middle Of American Politics

By HOWARD KAPLAN (Editor's note: Mr. Kaplan, a graduate student in political science at SUU, spent some time in Cuba this summer. During that time he was impressed with what he saw as the success of the Castro Revolution, a different view from the one usually presented in the U.S. press. Here he discusses what he believes are the implications of recent U.S. policy towards that country.)

Fidel Castro is no better than Batista, that corruption and murder are still rampant. The fact of the matter is, as R. Hart Phillips of the New York Times notes, that Castro enjoys the support of the Cuban masses. Nevertheless Americans have been stirred to a frenzy over Cuba.

As our two political hipsters, Nixon and Kennedy, continue to "deluge" the country with their "great debate," the topic of Cuba is frequently mentioned. Their dialogue, while neither profound or enlightening, is highly inflammatory. Kennedy, in blaming the Eisenhower Administration for the Cuban debacle, has evoked

Visited Cuba from "tricky Dick" the plea for a "quarantine" of Cuba.

The loser in this farce is Cuba. The tiny republic, experiencing its first real independence since it was discovered by Columbus, is caught in the middle of American politics. America, quite openly, is doing its best to arrive at some sort of Castro reversal. Something similar occurred during the Cuban war for independence. America found it advisable to come to the aid of the Cubans in their fight against Spain.

The American public has the opinion that grave injustices are being perpetrated upon the Cuban people. We are told that

K's Peace Talk Invalid

By J. M. ROBERTS Associated Press News Analyst Soviet Premier Khrushchev seems to feel under some compulsion to reassure the Soviet people, and others he wishes to impress, about eventual friendly relations with the United States. But maybe reassurance is the wrong word.

He kept banging away at the point while attending the United Nations — when he wasn't banging the table — and now he's at it again as he reports at home on his travels.

At the same time he continues to emphasize that whatever is done as to disarmament and easement of tensions must be done at Soviet dictation, thereby making relations worse.

In the back of Khrushchev's mind there always seems to lie a connection between peace and power. That's why he so often rattles his rockets or, as Thursday, some other symbol of power such as rocket-launching nuclear submarines as background music for his peace talk.

Adolf Hitler also went on record, at one time, as conceiving his plans for European conquest to be the forerunner of an integrated and therefore peaceful Europe under German control. If you tie his various statements together, Khrushchev was saying, in effect, that the Soviet Union, being the military equal of the West, should have equal authority in the United Nations, through creation of a three-man secretariat, to hamstring any U.N. effort of which the U.S.S.R. does not approve.

Khrushchev says the refusal of the West to accept his disarmament proposals without considering any others is an ill omen for the future.

He says the United Nations should approve his proposal for general disarmament with terms and controls to be worked out later by a 15-nation committee including five neutrals.

Last year he wanted a 10-nation committee to "get even." Now he expresses the thought that eventually the neutrals will side with the Soviet Union, even though he couldn't get them to do so while in New York. That's why he wants them included.

The announcement will be forthcoming soon. They have discussed at length the role which Eisenhower would play. All that remains to be decided is the time and circumstance under which it will be announced — whether from the White House or by the Vice President.

An all-day search brought no results, as did efforts to borrow a pair similar to her own. Pat's fears of myopically tumbling off the ramp at the Pageant were in vain; she didn't fall, and she was named one of the 10 semi-finalists.

"She's A Real Campaigner"

Roscoe Drummond Reports—

Ike as Roving Ambassador

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13 — President Eisenhower has agreed to serve in the Nixon administration if the Vice President is elected, it was authoritatively learned tonight.

The announcement will be forthcoming soon. They have discussed at length the role which Eisenhower would play. All that remains to be decided is the time and circumstance under which it will be announced — whether from the White House or by the Vice President.

His duties would begin shortly after the Nixon administration, if elected, takes office on Jan. 20. Eisenhower's first assignment would be a world-wide tour of capitals of some of America's principal allies and of the newly independent nations.

While the itinerary has thus far been mentioned in the broadest terms, it would undoubtedly include Japan, from which Eisenhower has recently received a new invitation from the new Japanese Premier, Southeast Asia, and Africa.

There are two principal purposes foremost in Nixon's plan to utilize the prestige and experience of the man under whom he has served.

One would be to enable him to consult at first-hand with the world leaders whom he knows so well to enable the United States to work more closely and more effectively with both allied and neutral nations.

The other would be to make it possible for Eisenhower by speeches and public appearances to carry the message of American purposes and ideals to the uncommitted peoples — a kind of person-to-person communication at which the President is so impressive.

These are the two objectives in behalf of which Eisenhower has often said privately he would most like to serve after the end of his term.

What Nixon proposes to do is to get the retiring President official status in the government to enable Eisenhower to put his services at the disposal of the nation in the most effective manner.

One other function which has been mentioned is for Eisenhower to undertake consultation among all the NATO countries to explore ways the North Atlantic alliance can be strengthened militarily, economically, and politically at a time when Premier Khrushchev is trying to disunite and weaken NATO.

The present plan is that Eisenhower would not take a post in a Nixon cabinet but would travel as the personal representative of the President.

There are historical precedents for his plan. Both President Hoover and President Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed distinguished citizens as roving ambassadors as extensions of the arm of the President. President Truman called upon former President Hoover on several occasions to perform special missions.

There are, of course, evident political implications in this development.

Undoubtedly — at least so most Republicans would figure — it would be an asset to the Nixon cause to have it established in advance that Dwight D. Eisenhower would continue to serve the nation at a high level and that his special talents, his standing, and his experience would be put to work.

Most Democratic political leaders have conceded that if Eisenhower could be a candidate for re-election, he would be easily elected.

What the Republicans see in the Nixon plan to utilize the retiring President in the way here described is a special kind of political appeal; that is, as they put it, "the way to keep Eisenhower is to elect Nixon."

It can now be reliably reported that President Eisenhower is agreeable, would, indeed, welcome the kind of future public service which he and the Vice President have discussed, and that the official announcement will be shortly forthcoming. (c) New York Herald Tribune Inc.

Gold Price Soars

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street's rush into gold shares heightened Thursday in a wild session compounded of speculative daring and blank discouragement. Trading was moderate.

It was a bull market in the golds and a bear market in practically everything else except coppers. Investors were aware that some copper producers also mine a quantity of gold.

Letters to the Editor

Sellout Stops Badger Band

To the Editor: Congratulations on your victory over us Saturday. For a team that was picked to end up last in the Big Ten this year we didn't think our Badgers did so badly. We watched the game on TV. We had planned a trip to Iowa with a pep band but Thursday we found out we couldn't come. We had 35 guys signed up and we had hoped to add a little color to the game but the State University of Iowa said, "Sorry. We've got a sell-out and you didn't let us know soon enough." With all those 35 musicians we would have undoubtedly caused no end of trouble at the stadium. Especially when we came in and moved all those people out of their seats in the end zone so we could function. Of course on TV there didn't seem to be a capacity crowd — especially in the north end of the stadium, but your athletic department probably felt they'd have to segregate us from the Iowa fans for fear of influencing school spirit adversely.

Because of some scheduling difficulties, Iowa played at Wisconsin in 1958 and 1959. I can remember the Highlanders here both years and the whole Hawkeye Marching Band here in '59. (They looked great Saturday) Strange that we couldn't bring along 35 men, isn't it? Of course we can see the athletic department's point-of-view. They were probably hesitant to let us come lest our 35 men would get a second or two "on camera." Wouldn't be good to distribute publicity between Iowa and Wisconsin beyond the football teams, would it?

We were surely angry Thursday and we still are — all 35 of us! We enjoyed meeting the Iowa bandmen last year and we looked forward to seeing them again, but that's football. At least that's football Iowa style.

See you next fall? Mike Cuthbert 248 Langdon Madison 3, Wisconsin

'The Idiot' Hollywoodian

To the Editor: I went to see "The Idiot" on the strength of a review in Tuesday's Daily Iowan, especially the sentence "The perfect physical casting and the uniformly superb performances in every role, could not be praised highly enough with even a dictionary of superlatives." Wow!

It was a blockbuster of a movie all right and the characterizations were vivid if a bit unsubtle. Despite your reviewer's comparison at the expense of Hollywood, I found the film's important features distinctly Hollywoodian, and that is not always so bad. Hollywood usually takes a beating by invidious comparison in "art" reviews of films that are only geographically and not cinematically removed from their tradition.

Here is a big period piece with glorious sets, magnificent costumes, a big screen (in color, of course) beautiful women, handsome men, all of it, even to the Tchaikovsky music rising in repeated stringency. The fact that Dostoevsky has given us a Christ and a Mary Magdalen also helps.

But the dated Soviet techniques, often embarrassingly obvious in their "contemporary" ballet and art music were here too, unable to hide completely in a 19th century setting. The use of poetic symbol might have been used without such conscious breaks in the continuity while it was telegraphed. There was a lot of business with people's eyes, presumably very artistic a la Pyriev or Eisenstein but awfully corny a la Rodolph Valentino.

The dubbing was indeed fascinating. I had to close my eyes to place the wonderful unctious laugh of the general in his first, great scene. Surely his was the voice of Thurston Hall, the "big Ed," political boss perennial and American bunke artist. Why I kept thinking of Ava Gardner during Nastasya's scenes is a puzzle because both that actress and the lady dubbed were wonderful. The acting and dubbing were both good throughout but the Zeitgeist was against a really convincing merger. I would think the English might have better success; some of the characters (Ganya, Roghine, Ferdychenko) were close to Dickensian.

For those interested, I think I noted that the actress who played Aglaia is named I. Maximeva in case fan letters are permitted to flutter through the curtain. Thomas Higgins, G West Branch

Japanese Cancer Blamed On Rays from Atomic Bombs

By EARL UBELL Herald Tribune News Service NEW YORK — Another human disease — this time cancer — has been blamed on the spray of rays from the atomic bomb that fell on Hiroshima 15 years ago.

The discovery, reported for the first time in print by the head of the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission's medical services, represents the first direct demonstration that the bomb rays could fire up human cancers other than leukemia.

In this initial report it appears that the rates of cancer of the lung, stomach, breast, ovary and womb are higher among those Japanese exposed to the rays than those who escaped them. The rate doubled among those people caught within 1600 yards of the blast center. The findings were more than expected. Previous studies of Hiroshima and Nagasaki survivors turned up increases in leukemia at relatively low doses of the rays. Patients treated for various ailments with heavy radiation, sometimes get cancer. And the cancer effect of the rays has been demonstrated many times with animals.

But never before had anybody shown that the single blast from an atomic bomb could systematically increase the risk of cancer outside that of leukemia. In this case, the rays — x-rays and neutrons — came mostly directly from the bomb rather than from atomic bomb dust, although this latter material also played a role.

Whetstone's Still a Center Of Activity

Nowadays you can walk down Washington Street any time and see a furry, formless raccoon coat wobbling down the sidewalk with a coed in it who feels she is really keeping up with the "newest fad" in collegiate dress. The trouble is the only thing different about the raccoon coat is that now students think they're hysterical, while in the "Roaring 20's" they were the accepted and natural fashion.

When a college man picked up his date during the 1920's, chances were that she would be wearing heels with the straps, a short flapper dress, a raccoon coat, and beads, beads, and more beads. The fellows usually wore a suit with a wide white collar shirt and, more than likely, a hat.

Whetstone's was the local hang-out, even thirty years ago, for students who didn't want to go to class but would rather socialize all morning. However, the students were more apt to order a double chocolate fudge pecan sundae with marshmallow topping rather than coffee.

Dates had a variety of places to "haunt" in the 20's, all similar to our familiar stand-bys just "outside the city limits." Dancing was the most preferred pastime, and the students usually went to the Varsity Ballroom, above the Englebert Theater. They paid to get in, and every night of the weekend, besides Saturday afternoon, someone you knew would undoubtedly be there.

Formals were quite the affairs in those days, and the unlucky gal who didn't get invited was really "left out." The fellows donned their tails and tall silk hats, and the girls put on their shortest flapper outfits and flashiest beads. Flowers were always given to the girls. Couples stood a good chance of walking to the dance, or, if the fellow received his monthly check from home that day, they rode in a taxi!

The formals were held at the local ballrooms, the Old Armory, the Hotel Jefferson, and later in the decade, the Iowa Memorial Union. Big name bands were always playing, but the girls still had to hurry home at 12:30 a.m.

In warm weather, formals were held at the Iowa City Country Club, which was then situated near the Iowa River. The couples would ride over to the Club on a launch starting at Fitz-Simmons Canoe Dock.

Sunday night was typically spent in the upstairs dining room of the Hotel Jefferson (no longer existent in this form), where music was played. Chicken a la king was a favorite meal.

Parties were held almost every weekend. The biggest ones of the year were the Freshman Party, Sophomore Cotillion, Junior Prom, Senior Hop, and the Senior Panhellenic dance, and the Military Ball.

Picnics had been "invented" at that time, and the other side (then undeveloped) of the river near "fraternity row" was usually the point where all the coeds and their dates had dinner, al la "outdoors." If the students were exceptionally muscular, they would put their canoes on the interurban and then have them dropped off between Cedar Rapids and Iowa City. The next day, they would take the interurban themselves early in the morning and canoe all the way down the river. If we did that now, we'd have to take hip boots and carry the canoe for half the trip!

Picnics were even faster and more furious in those days. It's hard to find a woman who was a coed during that period who won't boast of having two (at the minimum) fraternity pins at the same time. If a girl did that now, her name would be posted on Schaeffer Hall as the "hottest girl west of the Mississippi."

The Iowa Memorial Union was built in the late 1920's, but, at first the students did not patronize it as they should have. Consequently, the mail boxes were put in that building rather than at Whetstone's, and, since everyone wanted their mail, the Union fast became a "meeting place" and center of activity.

The Englert Theater was a place where dramas and well-known plays were held, and students eagerly went to see the current play or to movies at the Strand or Capitol. Imagine having a boy take you to a play, if he didn't have to for a class nowadays!

Life in the social world has become materially easier for us with all our cars, wide choice (?) of Aw, Come On Mom!

Gerry Cummins, wife of Phil Cummins, G, Cedar Rapids, was busily cleaning her home, 205 Riverside Park, when her son, Danny, 3, decided he wanted to play football. Homecoming with all its fun and gaiety does require some extra work for wives of married students, so Danny's football game will have to wait awhile. Thyra, one year old daughter of the Cummins, watches. Maybe she'll play Danny.

Married Students Ready Homes For Homecoming

Crisp fall air, many bustling people, gold mums, homecoming badges, pennants, queens, excitement, fun, and football are many terms and phrases that can be used in describing Homecoming at SUU. What does Homecoming mean to you? An exciting new date? A visit with your parents? Friday afternoon with no classes?

To the wives of married students — Homecoming, along with the above ideas, means lots of other things. These women are busily planning the sleeping arrangements for four additional persons. They are pondering over what they're going to have to eat Saturday noon for a quick lunch. They are wondering what they can serve following the game that will be nourishing, tasty, and require no preparation. (Mrs. SUU wants to go to the game, too.) They are anxiously figuring how they are going to seat ten for dinner, with no television trays. They are curiously thinking about the lack of chairs. They always borrowed from next door before, but the neighbors need extra chairs, too, this weekend.

Yes, these women certainly do

Jo Ann Noonan Elected Alpha Phi Pledge President

Monday evening the Alpha Phi social sorority pledge class elected officers for the coming year. Jo Ann Noonan, A3, Newton, was selected president. The other officers are Sue Whiteside, A1, Glen Ellyn, Ill., vice-president; Gingie Van der Roovaart, A1, Cedar Rapids, secretary; Nancy Easter, A2, Sioux City, treasurer; Sue Garner, A1, Iowa City, scholarship chairman; Sue Wallis, A1, Dubuque, social chairman; Linda Brickey, A1, Ottumwa, activities chairman; Julie Jones, A2, Avon, Ill., song leader; Mary Carr, A1, Western Springs, Ill., Judi Stevens, A1, Iowa City, publicity chairman; Peggy Crissman, A1, Cedar Rapids, historian.

The sorority also pledged three girls Monday evening. They were Judi Wissler, A1, Des Moines; Joann Weaver, A1, Wapello; and Giegan Van der Roovaart, A1, Cedar Rapids.

entertainment, and varied parties. But the students in the 20's had the same basic principles that spell a good time to us, such as dancing until you're dead on your feet, picnicking out in the wild woods, and breaking your neck to get pinned, even for a month. Years may change the surroundings, but they will never alter human nature or college students' strange but wonderful idea of fun.

have other things on their minds besides the frivolity and gaiety that Homecoming brings. However, the added duties that Homecoming requires shouldn't be misconstrued as indicating that the SUU married students don't look forward to homecoming.

They anxiously await the arrival of parents and friends for the festive activities. Many of the youngsters count the days to homecoming almost the way they do until Christmas, since the arrival of grandparents usually is closely associated with lots of fun and some extra surprises.

The motels and hotels won't be the only places in Iowa City overflowing with people this weekend. During Homecoming the population of married student housing units rises quickly.

Suggest New Pres. Abolish White Ties

NEW YORK (AP) — The men's formal clothing industry has all but split its seams over a proposal by Vice President Richard M. Nixon that the time-honored tuxedo be done away with.

Nixon stirred the sartorial tempest Wednesday night when he ran into John F. Kennedy — his Senate colleague and presidential opponent — at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel dinner. Kennedy was in a tuxedo and Nixon in the more formal tuxedo with stiff-fronted shirt and white tie.

Either was proper attire for the occasion, but as Kennedy spotted Nixon he greeted him with a "Hi, Dick," and then added: "I guess I'm not very well-dressed. I guessed wrong."

"Well, Jack," Nixon smilingly responded, "I'll make a deal with you. Whoever is elected president will abolish white ties. And these shirts ought to have zippers. It's agony."

RALPH HOUK Not So Old

manager said. "I intend to run the club on the field and make all the decisions. I will decide which men will play and which won't."

This was in obvious reference to Stengel's charge that the Yankee front office had indicated it intended to have a say in the managerial operations of the team on the field in the future.

Houk signed for a reported $35,000 a year, less than half the $85,000 paid Stengel, and the contract — at his own request — was limited to a single year.

"If I don't do the job next year, I don't want to manage the following year," the 41-year-old one-time Army ranger said.

Announcement of Houk's elevation from that of coach of the Yankees, a post he held for three years at $15,000 a year, to the most celebrated managerial spot in the majors, came as no great surprise.

He had been eyed by the Yankee brass since Stengel signed a two-year contract at the start of the 1959 season with indications it would be his last.

Dan Topping, co-owner of the Yankees, announced the new field boss in the presence of General Manager George Weiss, Assistant General Manager Roy Hamey and Houk himself.

Stengel, who by his own description was fired last Tuesday because of his age (70), was not present.

Topping made no mention of other administrative changes in the Yankee organization, which are reported imminent.

Dewitt Ousted as Tiger President After a Year

DETROIT (AP) — Bill Dewitt's turbulent reign of less than one year as Detroit president ended Thursday with his resignation under fire from the post that paid him $50,000 a year.

The latest in a series of shake-ups in the Tiger front office was expected. Dewitt, who had two years left on a three-year contract signed last Nov. 1, was criticized in recent weeks by some Tiger owners.

John E. Fetzer, Kalamazoo, Mich., radio-television executive, replaced Dewitt and became the fourth Tiger president since 1936. Fetzer, who had headed a group owning one-third of the club's stock, purchased control of the Tigers just last week.

Dewitt, in resigning with an "amicable settlement," turned down Fetzer's offer to become assistant to the president.

Harry Sisson, executive vice president, was given general charge of the club's affairs. Sisson has been associated with the Tigers since 1935 when the late Walter O. Briggs, then a club owner, brought him in to handle negotiations with co-owner Frank Navin.

Sisson said he would do the work done normally by a general manager, a post also held by Dewitt. Dewitt received a free hand in running the club's affairs when the Tigers' 11 owners hired him. A veteran baseball man, in contrast with the businessmen owners, Dewitt made wholesale changes on the field as well as in the front office.

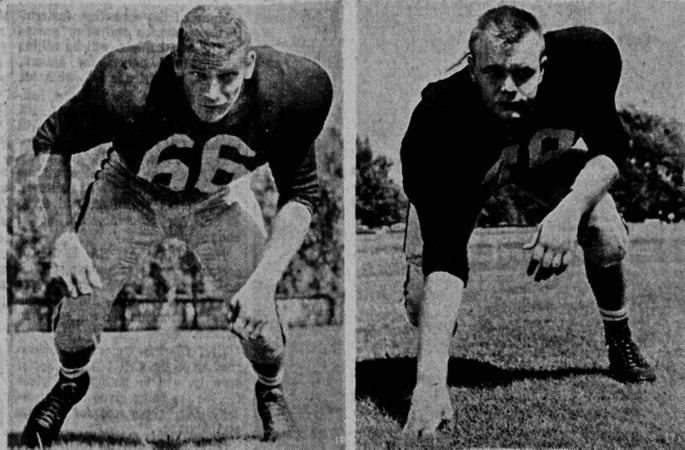

Foiles Becomes 'King of Travel'

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Catcher Hank Foiles said Thursday the Detroit Tigers have shipped him to the Tigers' farm club in Denver.

The deal immediately called for examination of baseball files. Foiles may have set an all-time record as the fastest moving player.

Since last December he has been assigned to six different teams: Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Pittsburgh's farm club at Columbus, Ohio, Cleveland, Detroit and Denver.

1 Plus 10 Equals 0 At Game Saturday

The numbers — Iowa, No. 1 and Purdue No. 10 nationally — add up to zero when the unbeaten Hawkeyes and the once-defeated Riveters play football here Saturday before a sellout Homecoming crowd of more than 59,000.

Winner of its first four games, Iowa is No. 1 in the AP and UPI weekly polls — a first for the Hawkeyes — and with a 3-0 mark is leading the Big Ten standings. Purdue is 1-1 in the conference, but whipped previously unbeaten Ohio State Saturday with a display of power, speed and cleverness.

The Hawkeyes won their last two games, from Michigan State and Wisconsin, by sensational heroics after defeat and a tie seemed inevitable. The maneuvers produced two touchdowns within 53 seconds in the final three minutes vs. Michigan and the winning TD in the last 52 seconds vs. Wisconsin.

In each game, the team "blew" a 14-point lead and it is these miscues which worry Coach Forest Evashevski.

"If we are to continue in the win column, the mistakes must end. However, the errors are due to the anxiety of the men to carry out their assignments. They are over-eager and burning to get at their

Purdue Not 'Shook Up'

DES MOINES (AP) — Purdue is "not frightened about the prospects of playing Iowa, the nation's top-ranked football team," Purdue sports publicity director Bob Woodworth said.

"Our boys aren't running scared," he told the Des Moines Football Writers' Association. "This is the fifth straight week we've met an undefeated team and we've won twice."

The Boiler-makers upset Ohio State, 24-21, last week. They previously had beaten Notre Dame, tied UCLA and lost to Wisconsin. "We were behind, 21-17, against Ohio State and went on to win," Woodworth said. "Our kids are so young they just didn't realize how good Ohio State was, I guess."

"They tell me Iowa has a real tough pair of guards in Mark Manders and Sherwyn Thorson," Woodworth said. "We think we've got two of the best, too, in Ron Maltony and Stan Szurek."

opponents," he said. What effect the No. 1 rating might have on the Hawkeyes is a matter of conjecture, he declared. He feels that if the rating is a false one, it could have an adverse effect and that perhaps it is unfair to set too high a standard.

Not only a bruising and eager Purdue team, but injuries from the Badger game will make the assignment doubly hard Saturday. Steady left tackle Charlie Lee is nursing an ankle sprain and guard Sherwyn Thorson may play little, if at all.

Iowa now ranks second in the league on defense and fourth on offense, while Purdue is seventh and fifth, respectively.

The Hawkeye attack will be led by versatile Wilburn Hollis, whose 227 yards by rushing leads the conference, and Larry Ferguson, who is tied for second. Hollis is second on total offense and fourth as a passer. Iowa has averaged 288 per conference game; opponents 245.

A powerhouse line helps Purdue to gain with such backs as Willie Jones, 5.7 average; Bernie Allen, sharp passer and runner; and 155-pound Jim Tiller, a little breakaway specialist. The Riveters, lost to Wisconsin, 24-13, showed a great reversal when they beat Ohio State, 24-21, Saturday.

As the Hawkeyes appear before Homecomers, they will attempt to continue the record of Evashevski-coached teams at the fall festivity. Iowa has won six of eight and tied another. The only loss was in 1956 to Michigan.

Opening lead: Four of ♠ A very resourceful defense by East in today's hand enabled him to defeat a contract which appeared to have been underbid.

The North-South pair arrived at a game contract in hearts, though it seems that somewhat more aggressive treatment might have been accorded the holding.

West opened the four of spades, covered by the dummy's nine. Accordingly, he led over to the ace of diamonds and East, who had been doing some thinking during declarer's opening meditation and had reached the conclusion that there was no legitimate way to beat the hand placidly dropped the king.

This "stroke of fortune" induced declarer to alter his plan of campaign. He saw now that 12 tricks were apparently available to him: five hearts in his own hand, five diamonds, the ace of clubs and a club ruff in dummy.

He therefore led over to his ace of clubs and ruffed a low club with the ten of trumps. He then drew the remaining trumps, discarding two low spades from dummy, and confidently finessed the nine of diamonds.

When East took in the trick with his ten, declarer was well out of trumps, and darkness descended.

City High at Cedar Rapids—

All Local Preps on Road

All three local prep teams are on the road this week, with City High, top ranked team in the AP poll and second in UPI, traveling to Cedar Rapids to face Washington. Regina goes east to Durant and University High tackles New London on the Tigers' field.

City High, which moved out of conference action last week to take a 53-0 Homecoming win from Grinnell, resumes play in the Mississippi Valley league against the Warriors. Game time is 7:45 tonight at Kingston stadium.

The Hawklets have a top ranking in both offense and defense in league action, and have the league's top scorer in left half-back Tony Welt.

The Regents of Regina will be after their sixth win of the year when they meet Durant tonight at 7:30. Last week the Regents won their Homecoming test topping

St. Edmond's of Fort Dodge, 27-12. Though playing with a hairline fracture of a footbone, Jim McGuire, quarterback, led the Regents' passing attack with 10 of 18 tosses, good for 205 yards.

Senior end Tom Jensen and junior center Steve Franklin will be Regina's captains for tonight's game.

U-High, which lost last week, 39-6, to league-leading Columbus Community, again is the underdog at New London. The Blues are tied for fifth in the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye Conference. They dropped three straight after two opening wins.

Two changes have been made in the Blues' lineup, with Mike Martin taking over the center position, and Art Alt at right tackle. Captains for tonight's game, to start at 7:30, will be Wayne Siders, left tackle, on offense, and Roy Anderson, defensive captain.

4 Braves, 2 Yanks On All-Star Squad

NEW YORK (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves landed four players on the 1960 Associated Press major league all-star team.

Third baseman Eddie Mathews, outfielder Hank Aaron, catcher Del Crandall and left-handed pitcher Warren Spahn were the Braves selected in the annual poll of baseball writers.

The American League champion New York Yankees were the only other club with more than one representative on the first team. They placed first baseman Bill Skowron and outfielder Roger Maris. The lone member of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates to be chosen was right-handed pitcher Vernon Law.

The remainder of the team included second baseman Pete Runnels of the Boston Red Sox, shortstop Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs and outfielder Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants.

Spahn, who won 20 or more games for the 11th season, was a near-unanimous choice. Of the 192 writers participating in the balloting, 188 cast their vote for Spahn as the top left-handed pitcher. Whitey Ford of the Yanks polled two votes.

The closest race was for second baseman with American League batting champion Runnels edging Nellie Fox of the White Sox and Bill Mazaroski of the Pirates. Runnels had 68 votes; Fox, named to the team last year, polled 60, and Mazaroski, Pittsburgh's Series hero, accumulated 56.

Mathews, Banks, Mays and Aaron were the only repeaters from last year's squad. Mathews won out at third base over Baltimore's Brooks Robinson, 83 to 90. Banks, the major league home run leader, defeated Pittsburgh's Dick Groat, the National League batting champion, for shortstop honors, 111 to 68.

Mays, Maris and Aaron ran 1-2-3 in the outfield balloting. Mays amassed 182 votes followed by Maris' with 132 and Aaron with 55.

Future Firefighters Get Engine

By ROBERT G. PRENTISS
Staff Writer

Iowa City firemen have finally found a way to cope with the junior fire brigade.

For years and years youngsters have been sneaking into the firehouses to climb on the trucks — for years and years they've been getting caught, told to get down — and for years and years hardly any of them have paid any attention. You just don't tell little boys who want to be firemen that they have to wait till they grow up. Firefighters might have waged the losing battle forever except one day recently, Fire Chief Vernal Shimon came to the rescue. Now the trucks are going to the children — or at least one of them, anyway.

A 1922 fire engine is being given to the Park Department as a plaything for the children at City Park. The triple combination pumper is the oldest truck in the fire department and the second piece of mechanized apparatus Iowa City has ever had.

All week Station 2 firemen have been busy shining the truck up, removing the hose, manual ladders, all useable parts — especially anything with glass on.

"We don't want to see anybody getting cut," Chief Shimon explained. The battery has also been removed and the gas tank emptied to prevent ignition fires. According to the chief, that was the big problem bothering the City Council when it was asked to authorize the gift — whether the children might get hurt climbing around.

Chief Shimon said he reassured the council that the truck would be made safe for the children, that the Cedar Rapids Fire Department had given away two of its trucks to playgrounds and that the fire chief there, Jesse Hunter, had reported no casualties so far.

"You can get hurt just as easy on merry-go-rounds, swings or any other recreational devices," the chief added, "besides, parents are usually at the park to supervise."

After meeting the council's approval, Chief Shimon said he got the Park Board to agree to pay for spotwelding the hood to the truck — "so that way the older children wouldn't take off with it."

Meanwhile the Park Board is constructing a one-story building at City Park to store the truck during the winter. Work is expected to be completed next month.

In the past few years the pumper hasn't seen much action and has been mostly on reserve. The last time it saw real front-line duty was at the University in 1953 when the Chemistry Building burnt down.

"But now in its new role, it'll see plenty of action," the chief said. "We've tried to make it as real as can be for the kids — they've got a steering wheel to play with — they can crawl up in the hose beds, the seats, all over."

Only one trouble, however, there's no siren. The junior fire brigade will also have to provide their own caps and boots. But at least now, there'll be a little more peace in the firehouses.

Library Show Depicts Work of UNESCO

In observance of "United Nations Week," which will begin Monday, the University Library has devoted its exhibit lobby to the activities of UNESCO.

Located inside the Library's main entrance, three glass display cases exemplify functions of the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization. Curtis Stucki, head of the Special Collections Department, said that emphasis is placed on UNESCO because of the vast United Nations field. "Rather than take the entire field," he said, "We decided to take one of the lesser-known organizations, successful in its own right."

A collection of pamphlets, books, magazine articles and illustrations reflect the current major projects of UNESCO. For example, a pamphlet entitled "Towards Mutual Understanding" concerns mutual appreciation of cultural values of East and West.

In an effort to encourage the preservation of traditional art throughout the world, UNESCO publishes a series of reproductions by special arrangement. UNESCO has done color reproductions of early Russian icons, in connection with the New York Graphic Society. Along this line, a series of essays and statements are collected under "The Artist in Modern Society."

Since 1958, the organization has conducted its affairs from a new headquarters in Paris. Unfavorable comments about the predominant abstract style of works art decorating the building, along with pictures of the building, may be viewed in the SUI exhibit.

Wisconsin Band Denial Is Explained

By GARY HICKOK
Staff Writer

(Editor's note: The letter to which the story refers appears on page two of today's Daily Iowan.)

On Monday, The Daily Iowan received a letter from a Wisconsin student protesting that he and 34 other members of a Badger pep band had not been allowed to attend the Wisconsin-Iowa game last Saturday.

The letter stated that the SUI Athletic Department had said, "Sorry, we've got a sell-out and you didn't let us know soon enough." When the students viewed the game on TV they noticed several vacant seats in the north bleachers of Iowa Stadium.

Francis (Buzz) Graham, business manager of athletics at SUI, said Thursday that in the first place, had the Wisconsin students wanted to attend the game they could have purchased tickets at Wisconsin or from the SUI Athletic Department.

When asked whether the students had requested to be admitted to the game free, Graham said, "We (the Athletic Department) were under the assumption that the 35 students wanted to get in free."

The Wisconsin Athletic Department had called the Iowa Athletic Department for the students and nothing was ever said about the students wanting tickets, Graham added.

"Wisconsin's full band didn't choose to make the trip so why should these students be allowed to come. If we were to allow this we could then have a lot of high school bands come in and play and suddenly we would be involved in something which is not a part of the program," Graham said.

"We have trouble enough with the units we have and can't take care of them as well as we would like to. We wouldn't allow a 35-piece band of students from SUI to play at a game so why should we let Wisconsin send a group," added Graham.

Tiny Radio Is Featured

One of the smallest radio transmitters ever built — less than half the size of a small match box — will be among exhibits featured tonight from 8:30 to 12 at the Union Open House.

"The Mikado Is Coming," a new film produced at the Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children, will also highlight the Open House — one of the opening events for SUI's 49th Homecoming.

The tiny radio transmitter — a new tunnel-diode crystal oscillator — was developed by the Electrical Engineering Department. Visitors will be able to listen to the transmitter's signal through a receiver.

Eventually professors hope, the transmitter may be encased in a pill to be swallowed. It would then transmit signals from the stomach, revealing new information about the digestive process.

Scenes in "The Mikado Is Coming" depict the hospitalized children preparing their annual opera. The 25-minute film will also be shown this weekend at the National Assn. for Music Therapy conference in San Francisco.

Purpose of the film is to show the work and problems involved in producing the musical each year and the techniques used by teachers to help children reach new levels of social and physical maturity.

Richard Byrne, a graduate assistant, directed the movie and wrote the script for narration. He also arranged the background music with James Gousseff, instructor. Assistant Professor John Kuiper was technical advisor. All three are in the Department of Speech and Dramatic Arts.

Other exhibits are planned by the Departments of Physics, Geography, Chemical Engineering, Mechanics and Hydraulics, Women's Physical Education, Chemistry and Anthropology, the Television Center, the Extension Division, and the Radiation Research laboratory.

SUI To Sponsor Creative Dance Classes for Children

Three classes in creative dance for children five through ten years of age will begin Oct. 29 at SUI under sponsorship of the women's Physical Education Department.

Mrs. David Thayer, choreographer for SUI dramatic productions and participant in University Orchestras, modern dance group, will instruct the dance classes.

"Activities in class will include an exploratory approach to the development of movement patterns which contribute to body control, poise and balance," said Ann Sprague, assistant professor of women's physical education. Emphasis will be placed on rhythmic dramatizations and expression of ideas through movement, she explained. Miss Sprague said movement is a means of satisfying and encouraging children's natural imagination and curiosity.

Classes will be held each Saturday morning, exclusive of University holidays, through Jan. 28, 1961. The semester's program of ten lessons will cost $7.50. Children will be placed in classes of 25 by age groups — six- and seven-year-olds, 9 a.m.; five-year-olds, 10 a.m., and eight-, nine- and ten-year-olds, 11 a.m.

A child must have had his fifth birthday on or before Dec. 1, 1960, to be eligible to enroll. Registration will be held in the main hall, Women's gymnasium, beginning

Close Road Here Sunday

Part of the street which runs south from Newton Road past the SUI Medical Laboratories to the Field House will be closed through traffic Sunday for paving.

Relocation and paving of the street were made necessary by plans for construction of a new Pharmacy Building in the area between the Field House and the Medical Research Center.

The street will be closed from the south service and delivery entrance of the Medical Laboratories to a point just north of the Field House.

Service and delivery vehicles going to University Hospitals and staff members who have reserved parking spaces in lot 12 will have to come up Grand Avenue, turn right and then left along the roadway on the north side of the Field House.

Persons who have reserved parking privileges in lot 11 will not be affected by the paving project.

ALUMS SEE EXHIBIT
Alumni of the SUI School of Journalism returning for Homecoming today and Saturday will see an exhibit of 85 Iowa newspapers having a combined total of more than 170 alumni of the SUI school on their staffs.

The exhibit, located on the second floor of the Communications Center, is part of an observance of National Newspaper Week, Oct. 15-22, and Journalism Education Day, Oct. 17.

Goddard Film Sunday

John M. Goddard, film-lecturer, will present "New Zealand and Australia" Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium as a feature of the 1960-61 Iowa Mountaineers Film-Lecture series.

Goddard's film will include pictures of Rotorua and Geyser Valley in New Zealand, which he calls one of the world's most spectacular hot springs area with eerie thermal displays, cauldrons of boiling water, bubbling mud pools and hissing fumaroles, all framed by fantastic rock formations.

The section of the film on Australia will show Arnhem Land, where the stone-age aborigines, the world's oldest and most primitive race, live. Adult tickets for the 1960-61 series are priced at $4 for any seven programs or $7.50 for any fourteen. Children under 14 may see any seven of the programs with a $2.50 ticket. They may be purchased before the lecture Sunday or by writing Film-Lectures, P.O. Box 163, Iowa City. Single admissions to the lecture will cost 80 cents for adults.

Goddard has given many film-lectures at SUI in previous series of Iowa Mountaineers Film-Lectures. His last appearance here was in February, when he presented "Boldest Journey," which pictured a 40,000-mile trip through 24 countries.

Local CORE Wires King

The Executive Committee of the Iowa City Council on Race Relations (CORE) disclosed Thursday night that it sent a telegram to the Rev. Martin Luther King, who was jailed Wednesday in Atlanta, Ga., after being arrested in a sit-in demonstration.

Milton Powell, G. Chillicothe, Ill., chairman of the committee, said that the text of the telegram of support read: "We, and thousands of others, recognize and honor you, not only as a great church leader, but as a powerful symbol of the dramatic drive for effective equality of rights in America. We hereby indicate our wholehearted support for the action, which led to your arrest."

The telegram was addressed to The Rev. Martin Luther King, Fulton County Jail, Atlanta, Ga.

In Atlanta, according to the Associated Press, Negroes intensified their campaign to desegregate the Deep South city Thursday, and 22 more of them went to jail to back up their demands.

Police also arrested a white man who squirted deodorant spray over the heads of Negro college students conducting a sit-in lunch counter demonstration at a variety store.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference, a Negro organization, asked Mayor William B. Hartshorn to appoint a biracial committee to deal with the situation.

Hartshorn, out of the city and not available for comment, has rejected previous pleas for a committee. He said excellent lines of communication are already established between his office and the Negro community.
